

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. You can search through the full text of this book on the web at <http://books.google.com/>

B 476392

THE GIFT OF Tappan Presbyterian Ass

BX
8901
.C56

THE CHURCH

AT HOME AND ABROAD

PUBLISHED MONTHLY

BY ORDER OF
THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF THE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH
IN THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA.

VOLUME XIII

PRESBYTERIAN BOARD OF PUBLICATION AND SABBATH-SCHOOL WORK,
NO. 1334 CHESTNUT STREET,
PHILADELPHIA, PA.

1893

INDEX TO VOLUME XIII.

	PAGE		PAGE
Abyssinia,	59, 396	Batanga, From, Towards Sunrise,	441
Advance! Advance! Advance!	167	Beginnings of Presbyterianism on Pacific Coast,	87
Africa, Bâle Mission,	148	Belgians and French in Wisconsin and Michigan,	452
Africa, Bible Translated by a Slave,	395	Bellevue College,	381
Africa, Bright Spot on Dark Continent,	444	Benefit of Organization,	119
Africa, Christianizing and Europeanizing,	148	Benito, Happy Workers At,	446
Africa, Coffee Culture,	149	Be of Good Cheer,	251
Africa, Communion in Batanga,	439	Between the Caribbean and the Pacific,	191
Africa, Congo Balolo Mission,	476	Biddle University,	308
Africa, Crisis for Followers of Islam,	148	Birthday Celebration at the Ministers' House, Perth Amboy,	223
Africa, Dahoman Translation of Bible,	395	Bishops,	255
Africa, Exploring the Interior of West,	13, 92	Board of Education,	383
Africa, French Protestant Mission,	395	Bohemians Becoming Americans,	43
Africa, From Batanga Towards Sunrise,	441	Bohemian Work in South Dakota,	283
Africa, Gaboon and Corisco Missions,	441	Book Notices, 68, 151, 296, 316, 402,	471
Africa, Happy Workers at Benito,	446	Brahman Breaking Caste,	278
Africa, Hausa Memorial Association in the Soudan,	172	Brazil, Letters from,	115
Africa, King Mtesa and the Bible,	313	Brick at a Time,	314
Africa, Kaffraria,	477	Bright Spot on Dark Continent,	444
Africa, Lake Tanganyika,	476	British Contributions to Foreign Missions,	226
Africa, Letters from,	113, 282, 361	Built without Debt,	467
Africa, Mackay of Uganda,	392	Business Man's Question,	299
Africa, "Men of God,"	476	California,	7
Africa, Native Customs Weakening,	225	California, Growth in,	39
Africa, Native Evangelistic Work,	395	California, Letters from,	43, 377
Africa, Native Priest,	395	California Pioneers,	255
Africa, New Station to be Opened,	266	Cassidy, Mr., of Toronto,	476
Africa, Not Peace, but a Sword,	476	Cause of Deficiency,	366
Africa, Nurseries Established,	226	Centenary of Missions,	18
Africa, Pre-historic Ruins,	396	Ceylon and India General Mission,	395
Africa, Receptive of Gospel,	395	Chautauqua and the Brotherhood of Christian Unity,	172
Africa, Second Journey in the Interior,	181	Chicago Offer,	215
Africa, Stations and Missionaries,	441	Children of Missionaries, Homes for,	437
Africa, Stealing,	66	Children's Day,	304
Africa, Temperance among Basutos,	477	Children's Mistakes,	162
Africa, Trophies from Heathenism,	146	Chili, Repressing Liquor Traffic,	134
Africa, Up the Gaboon and Ogowe,	446	China, A Christian Church,	225
Africa, West Coast,	150	China, After the Riots,	104
Afternoon at Royal Korean Hospital,	95	China, A Missionary Tour,	178
After the Riots,	104	China, A Retrospect,	106
Ainu of Northern Japan,	133	China As a Mission Field,	258
Alaska,	199	China, A Sincere Convert,	476
Alaska, First Presbyterian Church in,	205	China, Baptisms in Swatow Mission,	476
Alaska, Glaciers of,	344	China, Beggars in Pekin,	66
Alaska Indians,	207	China, Cathedral in Canton,	225
Alaska Inuits,	310	China, Duty of Foreigners,	225
Alaska, Joseph of Chilcat,	35	China, Confucianism,	396
Alaska, Letters from,	288, 293, 373	China, Courtesy to Chinese Prejudices,	352
Alaska, Natives Contributors for Home Missions,	121	China, Educational Scheme,	225
Alaska, New Church in Sitka,	38	China, Emperor Studying English,	108
Alpine Shepherd,	44	China, Favorable Impressions,	66
American Board, Annual Survey,	19	China, Flank Movement upon Thibet,	107
American Board Statistics,	225	China, Giving up Idolatrous Rites,	225
Appeal of Indian Missions to the Churches,	271	China, Heavenly Foot Society,	475
Appeal of the Bombay Conference,	272	China, Hospital Work,	147, 149
Arizona,	427	China Inland Mission,	108
Arizona, Letter from,	457	China, Manchuria,	477
Auburn Theological Seminary,	4	China, Medical Work,	395
Baptism of a Persian Mollah,	134	China, Message from W. O. Elterich,	20
Baptist Jubilee Offering,	225	China, Mr. Gilmour,	310
Batanga, Communion In,	439

	PAGE		PAGE
China, Notes from Peking,	150	Danish Bible Society,	395
China, Offerings for Evangelistic Work,	352	Dark Continent, Bright Spot on,	444
China, Opium Smokers Praying,	225	Death of Professor J. M. Tipton,	387
China, Opium Traffic,	310	Decentralization,	436
China, Our Responsibility in Hainan,	101	Delay Disastrous,	118
China, Persecution,	66	Denominational Co-operation Conference on Home Missions,	204
China, Power of Gospel In,	431	Divine Call to the Presbyterian Church,	353
China, Progress of Missions,	111	Do Not Say,	310
China, Protection of American Chapel,	396	Eastern Washington,	119
China, Publications,	225	Education,	56, 218, 302, 462
China, Religious Belief from Persia,	225	Education, Board of,	383
China, Snow in Southern,	475	Encouraging Year in Siam,	360
China, Stalwart Christians,	267	Enemy at Our Door,	9
China, Stations and Missionaries,	100	Elements of Strength for Christian Work,	232
China, Statistics of Missions,	101	Encouragements During the Past Year,	190
China, Stenograms from,	478	Ethical Basis for Japan,	432
China, Suffering for Others,	149	Evangelistic Tour in Japan,	337
China, Suffering from Christian Nations,	227	Evangelistic Work in Mission Fields,	436
China, Tsze Chien,	108	Exploring the Interior of West Africa,	13
China, Voyage in a Junk,	144	Famine and Fruit at Lakawn,	358
China, What it Needs,	476	Far Out Upon the Prairie,	222
China, Women not Counted,	146	February Small Fruits,	132
Chinese Character,	395	Feeble Churches, Work Among,	340
Chinese in America, Gleanings,	66	Feminine Element of Eloquence,	136
Chinese in America, Rescue Work,	94	Field at Jhansi,	277
Chinese in California,	255	Fiji,	395
Chinese Inns,	267	Findlay, O.,	55
Chinese in United States,	395	First Laos Tract,	30
Chinese Medical Students,	146	First Report from Lapoon,	359
Chinese Opium and American Whisky,	46	Flank Movement upon Thibet,	107
Chinese Physicians,	149	Florence Crittenton Missions,	433
Chinese Respect for Old Age,	146	Florida, Frost in,	365
Christian Education,	467	Foreign Mission Committee of English Presbyterian Church,	475
Christian Endeavor and the Magazine,	92	Foreign Mission Letters, Africa,	113, 282, 361
Christian Endeavor Missionary Money,	400	Brazil,	115
Christian Endeavor Missionary Rallies,	178	India,	33, 281, 362, 363
Christian Endeavor Society, a Missionary Force,	400	Japan,	29, 32, 116, 364, 448, 449
Christian Work in Chicago,	253	Korea,	31, 33
Church and the Fair,	88	Laos,	30, 449
Church Erection, Half-Century's Work,	465	Mexico,	117
Church Erection, How the Account Stands,	53	Persia,	112, 114, 280, 363
Church Erection in California,	467	Siam,	114, 362
Church Erection, Noteworthy Example,	306	Syria,	111, 280
Church Missionary Society, New Mission- aries,	146	Foreign Missions, Conference of Synodical and Presbyterial Committees,	94
City Evangelization, Its Pressing Needs,	286	Foreign Missions, Financial Outlook,	268
Cleanliness and Holiness,	417	Foreign Missions, Generous Offer,	93
Clean Spot Kept Clean,	390	Foreign Mission, Magic Lantern Slides,	94
Cochran, Mrs. D. P.,	430	Foreign Missions, Self-denial Week,	265, 350
College Education,	216	Foreign Missions, Statement of Receipts, 18, 93, 178, 265, 350, 435
Colleges and Academies, Appropriations,	133	Foreign Missions, Thank-offering,	93
Colleges and Academies, Good Way to Do It,	297	Forward Movements,	24
Columbia, Congress of, as a Society of Church Erection,	11	Freedmen, Christian Education,	467
Colorado, Letters from,	295, 459	Freedmen, Two Synods among,	51
Colored Education in the South,	217	Freedmen, Woman's Work for,	386
Comity,	203	Freedmen, Year 1892-3,	385
Conference Examinations in Southern Me- thodist Church,	147	Free Libraries,	303, 388
Congress of Colombia as a Society of Church Erection,	11	From Churches,	213
Continent, The,	255	Gaboon and Corisco Missions	441
Convert from Islam,	198	Gaboon and Ogowe, Up the Ganse, Poems and Hymns, by Rev. H. D. Hervey Doddridge,	446
Corning Academy,	298	General Review of Missions,	22
Crosby, Howard,	297	Geneseo Collegiate Institute,	464
Curious Bit of History,	346	German Missions-Feste,	147
Daniel Baker College,	131

	PAGE		PAGE
German Work in Iowa,	366	India, Appeals for Reinforcements,	279
Gilbert Islanders, Scriptures for,	225	India, Appeal to the Churches,	271
Giving, System in,	336	India, Baptism of Mohammedan Dervish,	266
Glaciers of Alaska,	344	India, Baptisms in Lodiana Mission,	94
Glory of Christianity,	475	India, Baptizing Herself,	227
God Beholding Our Columbian Exhibition	252	India, Books of Hindu Religion,	225
God's Work Among the Corn Planters,	145	India, Brahman Breaking Caste,	278
Grandmother Destroytown,	62	India, Burmese Superstitions,	225
Growth in California,	39	India, Call for Teachers,	148
Half Century's Work,	465	India, Caste,	146, 225
Happy North Dakota,	391	India, Character of Burmese,	226
Hausa Memorial Association in the Sudan,	172	India, Christianity among the Educated,	476
Hawaii,	396	India, Field at Jhansi,	277
Hawaii, Japanese Christians,	225	India, Gratitude Expressed,	476
Holland Presbyterian Church, Manhattan, Montana,	37	India, Hindrances to Professing Christ, 198,	268
Home Mission Appointments, 48, 130, 380,	461	India, Honesty,	226
Home Mission Debt,	452	India, Hopeful Movement in North,	274
Home Mission Letters,		India, Increase of Laborers,	396
Alaska,	288, 293, 373	India, Influence of Instruction,	396
Arizona,	457	India, Lady Dufferin's Work,	66
California,	43, 377	India, Letters from,	33, 281, 362, 363
Colorado,	295, 459	India, Magic Lantern Lecture,	267
Idaho,	295, 374, 456	India, Medical Missionaries,	395
Illinois,	210, 289	India Missions, Notes on,	67, 227
Indian Territory,	126, 211, 455	India Moving Force,	149
Iowa,	290	India, National Education,	396
Kansas,	127, 293, 378, 456	India, Native Preachers,	395
Kentucky,	290	India, Never Argue,	396
Minnesota,	128, 212	India, Notes on,	397
Missouri,	458	India, Parsees,	58
Montana,	290, 295, 374, 377, 459	India, Progress in Ten Years,	149
Nebraska,	294, 374, 460	India, Question of Hasty Baptisms,	198
New Mexico,	128, 290, 378, 457	India, Railway in,	397
North Carolina,	294, 380	India, Respect for Christ,	226
North Dakota,	129, 293	India, Return of Rev. S. H. Kellogg,	268
Ohio,	208, 293	India, Schools and Readers,	396
Oklahoma,	44, 292	India, Stations and Missionaries,	269
Oregon,	291, 460	India, Testimony of Buddhist Priest,	395
South Dakota,	43, 290, 293, 379, 456	India, Traveling Forbidden,	227
Tennessee,	210	India, Wild Tribes,	148
Utah,	127, 129, 212, 374, 376, 455	India, Wolf Boy of Secundra,	96
Washington,	377, 454, 459	India, Women the Rulers,	397
West Virginia,	209	India, Worshipping Bottles,	148
Wisconsin,	458	Indian Church at Long Hollow,	55
Home Missions,	367	Indian Missions, Transferred to Home Board,	351, 367
Home Missions and Christian Endeavor,	283	Indian Problem,	341
Home Missions, Appointment of Secretary for Young People,	199	Indian Reservations, New York State,	56
Home Mission Schools, Superintendent,	283	Indians and the Indian Problem,	124
Home Missions, Columbian Exhibit,	451	Indians, Arizona,	199
Home Mission, Delay Disastrous,	118	Indians, Cherokees,	199, 475
Home Mission, Denominational Co-operation Conference,	204	Indians, Freedom from Hostilities,	162
Home Mission, Facts,	452	Indians, God's Work Among the Corn Planters,	145
Home Missions in the Older States,	200, 207	Indians, Grandmother Destroytown,	62
Homes for Missionaries' Children,	437	Indians, Last of her Race,	123
Hopeful Movement in North India,	274	Indians, Two Heros of the Dakota Mission	122
How a Missionary Passes His Time,	436	Indian Territory, Letters from	126, 211, 455
How to Create Interest in Missions,	146	Interesting Letters,	57
How they Say it in Missionary Lands,	423	Iowa, Letter from,	290
Hungarian Church in America,	225	Iowa, Vacant Fields,	38
Idaho, Letters from,	295, 374, 456	Irregular Appeals,	246
Illinois, Letters from,	210, 289	Irvin's, Dr., Resignation,	285
India, Additions to the Church,	266	Is the Missionary Work a Rescue?	15
India, A Family Baptized,	225	Japan, Ainu of Northern,	133, 147
India, Appeal of the Bombay Conference,	272	Japan, Cautious Methods Necessary,	21
		Japan, Discussion of Christianity,	227
		Japan, Evangelistic Tour in,	337
		Japan, Ethical Basis for,	432

Index.

V

	PAGE		PAGE
Japan, First Christian Literature, . . .	29	Mexico, Transition of, . . .	195
Japan, Graduates of the Doshisha, . . .	476	Mexico, What Hath God Wrought? . . .	185
Japan, Graduates of Meiji Gakuin, . . .	266	Mexico, Wooden Savior, . . .	62, 234
Japan, Letters from, 29, 32, 116, 364, 448, 449	449	Michigan, . . .	41
Japan, Notes on, . . .	478	Ministerial Necrology, 67, 150, 234, 316, 401, 472	472
Japan, Persecution in Hiroshima, . . .	94, 116	Ministerial Relief, Annual Circular, . . .	301
Japan, Priesthood, . . .	396	Ministerial Relief, Statistics from Annual Report, . . .	469
Japan, Progress in West, . . .	32	Minnesota, A Happy Year, . . .	40
Japan, Seeds and Flowers, . . .	392	Minnesota, Growth, . . .	283
Japan, Wrong Impressions of Christianity, 95	95	Minnesota, Letters from, . . .	128, 212
Jewish Population of the Globe, . . .	475	Minnesota, Publication and Sabbath-school, Work in, . . .	471
Jews, . . .	66, 396	Mirza, Ibrahim, . . .	169
Jews Converted to Christianity, . . .	225	Missionary Calendar, . . .	20, 94, 268, 352
Jews in California, Hope for, . . .	200	Missionary Conferences in New York, . . .	179
Jews in New York, . . .	395	Missionary, Highest Type of Human Excellence, . . .	147
Johnston, John Taylor, Death of, . . .	367	Missionary Travelers, . . .	282
Joseph of Chilcat, . . .	35	Missouri, Letter from, . . .	458
Joy of Willing Offerings to God, . . .	85	Missouri, Wise Words from Synod, . . .	214
Kansas, Letters from, . . .	127, 293, 456	Mitchell, Rev. Arthur, . . .	424
Kansas, Notes on, . . .	121	Mitchell, Rev. Arthur, Action of Board, . . .	437
Karoli's Translations of Scriptures, . . .	226	Mohammedan Missionary to America, . . .	267
Kendall, Henry, . . .	90	Mohammedans not Easily Converted, . . .	147
Kentucky, Letter from, . . .	290	Montana, Letters from, 290, 295, 374, 377, 459	459
King Mtesa and the Bible, . . .	313	Moressa Khanun, . . .	393
Korea, Afternoon at Royal Hospital, . . .	95	Mormonism in New Mexico, . . .	366
Korea, Encouraging Item, . . .	19	Mormons, . . .	371
Korea, Euiju via Manchuria, . . .	31	Mountain Whites, . . .	203
Korea, Items of News from, . . .	66, 397	Native Agents and their Training, . . .	138
Korea, Letters from, . . .	31, 33	Natives of Alaska Contributors for Home Missions, . . .	121
Korean Costume, . . .	395	Nebraska, Letters from, . . .	294, 374
Korean Word for Heaven, . . .	477	Nebraska, Presbyterian Church Membership, . . .	283
Lafayette College, . . .	162	Need of Work of Board of Publication and S. S. Work, . . .	50
Laos Appeal, . . .	355	New England, Home Missions in, . . .	451
Laos, Divine Call to the Presbyterian Church, . . .	353	New England, Roman Catholic, . . .	202
Laos, Famine and Fruit at Lakawn, . . .	358	New Hebrides, . . .	146, 149, 397
Laos, First Report from Lapoon, . . .	359	New Hebrides, Converts, . . .	476
Laos, First Tract, . . .	30	New Hebrides Laborers, . . .	477
Laos, Letters from, . . .	30, 449	New Hebrides Offerings, . . .	476
Laos, Not Money Enough, . . .	95	New Hebrides, Translation of Scriptures, . . .	225
Laos, Outlook from Chiang Mai, . . .	357	New Mexico, A Missionary's Work, . . .	200
Laos, Relief for the Starving, . . .	358	New Mexico, Letters from, 128, 290, 378, 457	457
Laos, Stations and Missionaries, . . .	353	New West, . . .	41
Laos, Statistics of Missions, . . .	353	New York City, Destitute District in, . . .	451
Last of Her Race, . . .	123	Noble Example, . . .	435
Leading Enterprise of Coming Century, . . .	475	North Carolina, Letters from, . . .	294, 380
Lewiston, Idaho, . . .	367	North Dakota, . . .	38, 129, 293
Lincoln University, . . .	175	North Dakota, Church Building at Britton, . . .	38
Local Ingenuity, . . .	233	North Dakota, Happy, . . .	391
Loyal Responses, . . .	20	Norwegian Missionary Society, . . .	396
Mackay, Alexander M., . . .	61, 392, 395	Notes from Peking, . . .	150
Manchuria, . . .	477	New England,—Whither? . . .	35
Martyn, Henry, . . .	147	New Year, . . .	3
Martyrs, . . .	336	Ohio, Letters from, . . .	208, 293
Massachusetts, Scotch Church, Boston, . . .	40	Oklahoma, . . .	41
Medical Missionaries, . . .	395	Oklahoma, Letters from, . . .	44, 292
Medical Missions, . . .	66	Oldest Anti-Slavery Society in the United States, . . .	477
Melanesian Beliefs, . . .	226	Omaha, Increase of Population, . . .	283
Methodist Episcopal Church, Receipts for Foreign Missions, . . .	146	Omaha, Population, . . .	120
Mexico, Between the Caribbean and the Pacific, . . .	191	One Example, . . .	381
Mexico City and its Outstations, . . .	188	One Man's Service, . . .	309
Mexico, Encouragements during the Past Year, . . .	190	One of the Least of These, . . .	305
Mexico, Influence of Evangelical Church, . . .	265	Opportunity not Given for Contributions, . . .	40
Mexico, Letters from, . . .	117
Mexico's Greatest Need, . . .	187
Mexico, Stations and Missionaries, . . .	185

	PAGE		PAGE
Oregon, Letters from,	291, 460	Santa Cruz, California,	284
Oregon, Traveling in,	284	Savage Island,	476
Oriental Religions and Christianity,	98	Snow in Southern China,	475
Orthodoxy and Foreign Missions,	267	Save the Children,	230
Our Final Effort,	199	Scattering the Gifts,	21
Our Missionaries,	452	Scenery of Lebanon,	142
Our Pictures,	474	Second Journey in the Interior,	181
Our Responsibility in Hainan,	101	Secretary of Edinburgh University, Mis-
Outlook from Chieng Mai,	357	sionary Association,	395
Out of Debt,	435	Seed for Everlasting Garners,	50
Out of the Mouth of Babies,	305	Seeds and Flowers,	392
Pacific Coast, Beginnings of Presbyterian-		Self-denial Week,	265, 350
ism,	87	Self-support Reached,	365
Pacific Coast Pioneers,	171	Siam, Encouraging Year in,	360
Paradoxes,	330	Siam, Letters from,	114, 362
Park College and Church at Home and		Siam, Stations and Missionaries,	353
Abroad,	162	Siam, Statistics of Missions,	353
Parsees,	58	Small Colleges,	382
Peking, Notes from,	150	South America, Congress of Columbia,	11
Persia, Baptism of a Mollah,	134	South America, Gospel of John in Quichua
Persia, Cholera Work,	21	Language,	146
Persia, Death of Mrs. Cochran,	430	South Dakota, Letters from,	43, 290, 293, 379, 456
Persia, Gleanings,	66, 67	Southern Girls at School,	45
Persia, Letters from,	112, 114, 280, 363	Spain, Visit to the Reformed Church,	347
Persia, Mirza Ibrahim,	169	Special Work for Young People,	283
Persia, Moressa Khanun,	393	State Schools and Christian,	463
Persia, Mother of Nestorians,	66	State Universities and Theological Stud-
Persian Literature,	226	ents,	162
Persia, Opposition in Tabriz,	21	Student Volunteer,	400
Persia, Predominant Characteristics of Li-		"Student-Volunteer Movement" and terature,	310	"Christian Endeavor,"	399
Persia, Uprising of Moslems against Jews,		Suggestions of the Census,	120
.	21, 112	Summer in Zahleh, Syria,	198
Pleasant Letters,	135	Swedish Missionary,	284
Prayer the Great Need,	226	Synods, Notes on—Illinois,	37
President's Proclamation,	200	Synods, Notes on—Wisconsin,	36
Priests and Bibles,	246	Syria, Damascus Mission,	148
Priest's Pity for Protestant Friends,	58	Syria, Letters from,	111, 280
Progress in West Japan,	32	Syrians in United States,	419
Progress of Missions in China,	111	Syria, Priest's Pity for Protestant Friends,	58
Property of Evangelical Christians in		Syria, Scenery of Lebanon,	142
United States,	225	Syria, School Children and Scriptures,	162
Publication and Sabbath School Work in		Syria, Summer in Zahleh,	198
Minnesota,	471	Syria, Two Faithful Laborers Early Called
Publication and Sabbath School Work, Re-		Home,	343 cent Publications,	220	Syria, United Prayer,	93
Publication and Sabbath School Work,		Syria, View from Mt. Lebanon,	143
Testimony of Synod of Wisconsin,	49	Syria—Working and Praying,	178
Publications, Recent,	387	Systematic Beneficence, Prize Essay,	64
Pupils in Mission Schools, Number of,	66	System in Giving,	336, 478
Qualifications for Missionary,	66	Temperance,	65, 229
Queensland, Neglected Classes,	477	Tennessee,	284
Ragged Schools and Sabbath Schools,	221	Tennessee, Letter from,	210
Recent Publications,	387	Texas,	284
Reduction Kindly Received,	37	Thanksgiving and Home Missions,	47
Reformed Church in United States,	396	Thibetan Dictionary and Gospel,	395
Reinforcements Needed,	18	Thibetan Gospel,	198
Relief for the Starving of Siam,	358	Thoughts Worth Pondering,	54
Religion in United States,	395	Tipton, Prof. J. M., Death of,	387
Religions of the World,	226	Topics for Meetings,	311
Remedy for Inattention	310	Touching Acknowledgment,	285
Repressing the Liquor Traffic in Chili,	134	To Whom It May Concern,	389
Retrospect,	106	Transition of Mexico,	195
Revivals in Home Mission Fields,	365	True Light,	335
Sabbath-school and Mission Work,	49	Tsze Chien,	108
Sabbath-school Lessons, Thoughts on,	60, 137, 228, 315, 398, 473	Turkish Official's Offer,	162
Samoan Bible,	395	Two Faithful Laborers Early Called Home,	343
Samoan Christians,	395	Two Heroes of the Dakota Mission,	122

Index.

vii

	PAGE		PAGE
Two Pennies,	64	Wellesley College, Physical Culture,	150
Two Synods among the Freedmen,	51	Wesleyan Missionary Society,	268, 395
Unity in Christian Work,	365	West Virginia, Letter from,	209
Universities' Mission,	475	What Draws and Holds,	246
Universities or Colleges,	477	What Hath God Wrought in Mexico?	185
Unselfish Movements,	28	Where the People Live,	39
Upward Movements,	29	Whom to Send,	310
Utah,	39, 201, 255	Wisconsin, Letter from	458
Utah, Letters from, 127, 129, 212, 374, 376, 435		Wisconsin, Oversight of Weak Churches,	40
Utah Schools,	366	Wisconsin, Synod of,	120
Utah, Where the People Live,	39	Wisconsin, Work among Foreigners,	40
Value of Association with Those Whom		Wolf Boy of Secundra,	96
God Loves,	141	Woman's Work for Freedmen,	386
View from Mt. Lebanon,	143	Woonsocket, South Dakota,	451
Visit to the Reformed Spanish Church,	347	Worship and Work,	477
Voyage in a Chinese Junk,	144	Wooden Savior,	62
Wards of the Nation to Become Citizens,	422	Work among Feeble Churches,	340
Washington and Jefferson College,	162	Working and Talking,	312
Washington, Letters from,	377, 454, 459	Young People's Meeting,	311
Washington, New Churches,	40	Young, Rev. John Newton, Death of,	265

WRITERS.

	PAGE		PAGE
Adams, Rev. M. N.,	55, 379	Gibson, Rev. F. T.,	51
Adams, Rev. R. N.,	40	Gibson, Rev. J. T.,	385
Alexander, Mrs. J. M.,	363	Gilchrist, Rev. J. J.,	457
Anderson, Rev. James,	284	Glenn, Rev. T. M.,	40
Atterbury, B. C., M. D.,	150	Godduhn, Rev. G. A.,	282
Aughey, Rev. John H.,	41, 124	Goloknath, Rev. H.,	281
Austin, Rev. A. E.,	293, 373	Good, Rev. A. C.,	13, 181
Austin, Rev. B. C.,	35	Gray, Rev. Wm. C.,	88
Babb, Rev. Clement E.,	7	Gould, Rev. J. Loomis,	288
Bachman, Rev. N.,	284	Greene, Rev. J. Milton,	187
Billman, Rev. Howard,	427	G. R. P.,	478
Blackburn, Rev. W. M.,	456	Gunn, Rev. S. C.,	40
Bohback, Rev. Philip,	212	Gunn, Rev. T. M.,	119, 454
Boyd, Rev. R. P.,	456	Gwynn, Rev. F. H.,	291
Bradbury, Rev. H. C.,	127	Harris, Ira, M.D.,	290
Briggs, W. A., M. D.,	95	Haydon, W. J.,	50
Brooks, Phillips,	303	Hays, Rev. M. C.,	32
Brown, Rev. Hubert W.,	188	Hepburn, James C., M.D.,	29
Butt, Rev. D. M.,	38	Herr, Rev. Charles,	367
Campbell, Rev. W. R.,	376	Holcomb, Rev. James F.,	277
Carson, Rev. H. P.,	293	Holmes, Miss M. C.,	111
Caswell, Mrs. H. S.,	62	Horsburgh, Rev. J. Heywood,	310
Chalfant, Rev. F. H.,	106	Hoskins, Rev. F. E.,	111
Chalfant, Rev. W. P.,	478	Jacot, Rev. Herman,	113
Chatterjee, Rev. K. C.,	33, 362	Jessup, Rev. Samuel,	178
Clark, Rev. Geo.,	459	Jessup, Rev. William,	198
Clemenson, Rev. N. E.,	376	Johnston, Rev. James,	172
Cochran, Mrs. D. P.,	393	Jones, Rev. L. F.,	207
Coltman, Rev. Robert,	457	Kerr, Rev. David R.,	381
Cook, Rev. S.,	460	Kerr, J. G., M.D.,	111
Cooper, Miss Larissa J.,	114	King, Rev. W. R.,	455
Corbett, Rev. Hunter,	258, 431	Knox, Rev. G. W.,	21, 337
Cowan, Rev. E. P.,	217, 308, 467	Ellis, Rev. Charles D.,	41
Curtis, Rev. F. S.,	116	Elterich, Rev. W. O.,	20
Cuyler, Rev. Theodore, L.,	9	E. M. W.,	67, 227
Dennis, Rev. James S.,	98, 138	Esselstyn, Rev. L. F.,	134, 280
Devine, Rev. John B.,	286	Ferguson,	50
Dickson, Rev. J. S.,	47	Fleming, Rev. S. B.,	121
Dodd, Rev. W. C.,	30	Ford, Rev. Geo. A.,	143
Dudycha, Rev. James,	212	Fox, Rev. Frank M.,	380
Duncan, Rev. C. A.,	203, 210	Fulton, Rev. G. W.,	449
Edwards, Rev. Geo.,	459	Furieux, Rev. Hugh J.,	128
Edwards, Rev. John,	341	Ganac, Rev. Hervey D.,	297, 463
Ellenwood, Rev. F. F.,	15, 272, 432	Gault, Rev. W. C.,	361
Geisinger, Miss Annie S.,	278	Kolb, Rev. J. B.,	115

	PAGE		PAGE
Labaree, Rev. B.,	430	Rabbi Sarah,	394
Lane, Mrs. Mary,	144	Riding, Rev. William,	377
Lawes, Rev. W. G.,	476	Robertson, Rev. Alexander,	347
Lawrence, Rev. Thomas,	294	Satterfield, Rev. D. J.,	386
Leavens, Rev. Philo F.,	195	Sefton, Rev. J. C.,	456
Lee, Rev. Theodore,	127	Sexton, Rev. Thomas L.,	374
Linka, Rev. John,	43, 283	Shedd, Mrs. J. H.,	394
Lowes, Rev. A. B.,	209	Smallwood, Rev. David,	211
Lucas, Rev. J. J.,	274	Sterling, Rev. C. G.,	294
Lyman, Rev. Huntington,	252	Stroh, Rev. Grant,	295
Mannering, Rev. A.,	271	Stryker, Pres. M. W.,	216
Martin, Rev. George W.,	129	Taylor, Rev. J. H.,	424
Mateer, Rev. C. W.,	108	Taylor, Rev. Park W.,	208, 340
Mather, Rev. E. E.,	211	Thomas, Rev. W. D.,	120
McAfee, Rev. George F.,	40	Thompson, Rev. David,	448
McCartree, D. B., M.D.,	364	Thompson, Rev. James,	39
McCoy, Rev. John,	129	Thompson, Rev. J. R.,	459
McGilvary, Rev. D.,	449	Thomson, Rev. Henry C.,	190
McLean, Rev. Robert,	460	Thornton, Rev. N. W.,	464
Merwin, Rev. A. Moss,	43	Thwing, Rev. Clarence, M. D.,	205
Meyer, Rev. J. H.,	128	Todd, Rev. J.,	40
Miller, Mrs. Emily Huntington,	64	Touzeau, Rev. J. G.,	62
Miller, Rev. C. H.,	44, 292	Tripp, Mrs. Sarah L.,	144
Miller, Rev. W. L.,	126	Tucker, Rev. H. A.,	458
Mills, Rev. E. R.,	377	Turner, Rev. Wm. J.,	458
Mitchell, Miss Alice,	191	Valentine, Rev. C. S. M. D.,	96
Moffett, Rev. S. A.,	34	Velte, Rev. H. C.,	33
Montgomery, Miss Charlotte,	112	Vinton, C. C., M. D.,	31, 95
Montman, Rev. J. F.,	293	Wallace, Rev. C. W.,	293
Moore, Rev. S. F.,	33	Walter, Frederick Wardlaw,	392
Morris, Rev. E. D.,	90	Walton, Rev. James M.,	290
Nassau, Miss Isabella,	113	Weaver, Rev. W. K.,	294
Nelson, Rev. W. S.,	343	Webster, Rev. Frank G.,	201
Newhall, Prof. Charles S.,	131	White, Rev. W. P.,	175
Nugent, Rev. E. J.,	290	Whitlock, Rev. J. M.,	290
Oglevee, Rev. J. A.,	127	Williams, Rev. C. Scott,	117
Owen, Addis,	136	Williams, Rev. W.,	378
Park, Rev. Geo. W.,	58	Williamson, Rev. J. R.,	122
Patterson, Rev. Joseph,	293	Willson, Rev. Davis,	290
Payne, Rev. H. N.,	346	Wilson, Rev. J. C.,	134
Phillips, Rev. J. L.,	271	Wilson, Rev. S. G.,	114
Pierson, Rev. George,	95	Wishard, Rev. S. E.,	255, 295, 374, 455
Pollock, Rev. G. A.,	289	Wood, Rev. F. M.,	38
Pond, Rev. Theo. S.,	11	Wright, Prof. Frederick G.,	344
Potter, Mrs. J. L.,	363	Young, Rev. W. J.,	290
Quintana, Juan G.,	457

ILLUSTRATIONS.

	PAGE		PAGE
Auburn Theological Seminary,	4	Lincoln University—Cresson Hall—Ashmun Hall—Lincoln Hall,	175
Auburn Theological Seminary (Welch Memorial Building),	5	Lincoln University—Mary Dod Brown Memorial Chapel,	177
Batanga Church,	445	Lincoln University—University Hall,	174
Bellevue College,	382	Mackay, Alexander M.,	61
Corning Academy,	298	Mexico City, Interior of Normal School for Girls	189
Daniel Baker College,	131	Missionary Residence, Batanga,	447
Design for Church,	213	Mitchell, Rev. Arthur,	424
Dickey, Rev. John Miller, D. D.,	176	Moressa Khanun,	393
Famine Relief in Laos,	359	Mt. St. Elias,	344
Ganse, Rev. Hervey Doddridge, D. D.,	296	Muir Inlet,	345
Geneseo Collegiate Institute, Academy,	465	Mwang, King of Uganda,	314
Geneseo Collegiate Institute, Atkinson Hall,	465	Rubaga, Capital of Uganda,	313
Guatemala City,	193	Ruins, Old Mission, Tumacacori,	427
Hospital and School, Nodoo, Hainan,	102	Siam and Laos, Map of,	354
India, Map of,	270	Utah, Map of,	377
Jhansi Field, Map of,	277	Wolf-Boy of Secundra,	97

BX
8901
C56
VOL. 13.

No. 73.

THE CHURCH AT HOME AND ABROAD.

PUBLISHED MONTHLY BY ORDER OF
THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF THE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH
IN THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA.

JANUARY, 1893.

EDITOR:

HENRY A. NELSON, D.D.

EDITORIAL CORRESPONDENTS:

WILLIAM IRVIN, D.D.,
For Home Missions.

JOHN GILLESPIE, D.D.,
For Foreign Missions.

DANIEL W. POOR, D.D.,
For Education.

EMMA R. CRAVEN, D.D.,
For Publication and S. S. Work.

ERSKINE N. WHITE, D.D.,
For Church Erection.

WILLIAM C. CATHILL, D.D.,
For Ministerial Relief.

EDWARD P. COWAN, D.D.,
For Freedmen.

EDWARD C. RAY, D.D.,
For Colleges and Academies.

The Editorial Correspondents are responsible only for matter sent from the rooms of their respective Boards, as indicated in the table of Contents.

PRESBYTERIAN BOARD OF PUBLICATION
AND SABBATH-SCHOOL WORK,
No. 1334 CHESTNUT STREET,
PHILADELPHIA, PA.

When answering an advertisement, our readers will help the magazine and the advertiser by mentioning THE CHURCH AT HOME AND ABROAD. For advertising space, address RICHARD S. DEY, 150 Nassau Street, New York.

LINCOLN UNIVERSITY

Our 30th Academical year began in September with larger classes than ever.

A new Hall for Instruction was completed in the summer vacation. It has 17 ample rooms, well finished and furnished. It is built and equipped without debt. Hard by stands our new and beautiful chapel, the generous gift of a lady friend.

The College and Theological Faculties, with their Nine Professors, are provided for, insufficiently indeed, but there is no appeal for more.

The liberal bequests recently received have been spent on the foundations of this work, to enlarge and strengthen them. But now the wheels of our progress are blocked. We can build nothing on our new foundations till you give us a new dormitory for the many approved candidates waiting to enter the classes. Our most earnest appeal to you is for this ($20,000).

This burden we carry is too heavy without your help. Make provision for the support of these young men, $130 a year, or its equivalent—the interest of a permanent endowment of $2,000 or $2,500.

In making bequests, note that our corporate title is "LINCOLN UNIVERSITY," in Chester County, Pa.

Rev. A. T. Rankin, D.D., Greensburg, Ind., is our Western Agent. Rev. W. P. White, Germantown, Penn'a, is Assistant Secretary; Rev. Edward Webb, Oxford, Penn'a, is Financial Secretary, L. U.; to whom your gifts may be sent and your inquiries addressed.

W. R. BINGHAM, Pres't B'd Trustees, L. U.

SCOTIA SEMINARY.

A High School for colored girls under the care of the Board for Freedmen and the Women's Ex. Committee for Home Missions of the Presbyterian Church. Incorporated under the laws of North Carolina. Legal name "The Scotia Seminary," Concord, N. C. The final title to all property is vested by the charter in the Board for Freedmen.

Donations solicited to a permanent fund which will provide for the salaries of the teachers and supply scholarships and thus relieve the treasury of the Board.

D. J. SATTERFIELD, President.

PENNSYLVANIA, Chambersburg.

WILSON COLLEGE FOR YOUNG WOMEN.

Fifty miles southwest of Harrisburg, in famous Cumberland Valley. Border climate, avoiding bleak north. $250 per year for board, room, etc., and all College Studies. Handsome Park, Large Buildings, Steam Heat, Gymnasium, Observatory, Laboratory, etc. Endorsed by Pennsylvania Synod, Baltimore Synod and Presbytery, Presbytery of Carlisle, etc.

THE YOUNG LADIES' SEMINARY.

FREEHOLD, NEW JERSEY.

Healthful location. Good teachers. Pleasant family life. Personal care for pupils. Fall term opened Sept. 14th, 1892.

Principal, MISS EUNICE D. SEWELL.

10% Dividend Guaranteed

On the Stock of the

JASPER COUNTY TITLE AND INVESTMENT CO.

CAPITAL, $50,000.00 (Paid up).

Investors will have their Stock Guaranteed by First Mortgage Notes secured by Real Estate.

Stock offered for sale limited to $20,000.00.

For particulars, address,

HORACE B. MARTIN

Carthage, Mo.

Investment Broker

—THE—

ECONOMY

HOT WATER HEATERS
COMBINATION HEATERS
WARM AIR FURNACES

SEND FOR CATALOGUE
J. F. PEASE FURNACE CO.
SYRACUSE BOSTON NEW YORK

THE CHURCH AT HOME AND ABROAD.

JANUARY, 1893.

CONTENTS.

The New Year, Editorial ,	3
Auburn Theological Seminary, Editorial ,	4
California, Clement E. Babb, D.D. ,	7
Enemy at the Door, Theodore L. Cuyler, D.D. ,	9
Congress of Colombia as a Society for Church Erection, Rev. Theo. S. Pond ,	11
Exploring Interior of West Africa, Rev. A. C. Good, Ph.D. ,	18
Is the Missionary Work a Rescue? F. F. Ellinwood, D.D. ,	15

FOREIGN MISSIONS.

Notes. —Treasurer's Statement—Monthly Concert Pages—Reinforcements—Centenary of Modern Missions—Work of A. B. C. F. M.—Hopeful Conversions in Korea—Visit to Shantung Villages—Loyal Responses—Missionary Calendar—Scattering the Gifts—Relief Work in Teheran—Closing and Sealing Up of School Buildings in Tabriz—Outlook in Japan,	18-21
Concert of Prayer. —General Review of Missions—What the Spirit Saith to the Churches—Forward Movements—Unselfish Movements—Upward Movements,	22-29
Letters. —Japan, The First Christian Literature, Dr. D. B. McCartee ; Laos, First Laos Tract, Rev. W. C. Dodd ; Korea, Eulju via Manchuria, Dr. C. C. Vinton ; Progress in West Japan, Rev. M. C. Hays ; India, A Converted Faquir, Rev. K. C. Chatterjee ; Cholera and Fever, Rev. H. C. Velle ; Korea, Welcome to Korea, Rev. F. S. Moore ,	30-34

HOME MISSIONS.

Notes. —New England—Whither?—Joseph of Chilcat, Rev. B. E. Austin, Sitka —Synods of Wisconsin and Illinois—Novel Sensation—First Holland Presbyterian Church, Manhattan, Montana—Vacant Fields in Iowa—Sitka Training School—Pastor Butt's First Charge—North Dakota—Growth in California—Utah—Where the People Live—"Our German Work"—How New Churches Take Shape in Washington State—Synod of Wisconsin—Boston Scotch Church—Minnesota—Oklahoma—Michigan,	35-41
Concert of Prayer. —"The New West,"	41-48
Letters. —South Dakota, Bohemians Becoming Americans, Rev. John Linka ; California, Rev. A. Moss Merwin ; Oklahoma, Rev. C. H. Miller ,	48-44
Alpine Shepherd,	44
Southern Girls at School (N. Y. Tribune),	45
Chinaman's Witty Hit,	46
Thanksgiving and Home Missions, Rev. J. S. Dickson ,	47
H. M. Appointments,	48
PUBLICATION AND SABBATH-SCHOOL WORK. —Testimony of Synod of Wisconsin—S. S. and Mission Work: Its Nature, Objects, Methods, Oversight, Results—Seed for Everlasting Harvests—Need of the Work, W. J. Haydon ,	49-51
FREEDMEN. —Two Synods Among the Freedmen, Catawba and Atlantic—Scotia Seminary, Rev. J. T. Gibson ,	51-53
CHURCH ERECTION. —How the Account Stands—Thought Worth Pondering—Indian Church at Long Hollow, S. D.—From Findlay, O.—From Indian Reservations, N. Y. State,	53-56
EDUCATION. —Article in Presbyterian Quarterly—Interesting Letters,	56-57
MISCELLANY. —A Priest's Pity for Protestant Friends—The Parsees—Abyssinia,	58-59
THOUGHTS ON SABBATH-SCHOOL LESSONS,	60
CHILDREN'S CHURCH AT HOME AND ABROAD. —Mackay of Uganda—A Wooden Saviour—Grandmother Destroytown—Letters About the Korean Boys' Picture—Two Pennies,	61-64
SYSTEMATIC BENEFICENCE. —Prize Essay,	64
TEMPERANCE. —Action of Synods,	65
GLEANNINGS AND NECROLOGY,	66-67
BOOK NOTICES. —Missionary Landscapes—Divine Art of Preaching—Story of J. G. Paton for Young Folks—Ten Years' Digging in Egypt—Story of Uganda and the Nyassa Mission—The Fifth Gospel,	67-68
RECEIPTS,	69-80

THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY'S COMMITTEE.

REV. JOHN S. MACINTOSH, D.D., CHAIRMAN,
REV. CHARLES A. DICKEY, D.D., REV. STEALY B. ROSSITER, D.D.,
ANSON D. F. RANDOLPH, Esq., REV. HENRY T. McEWEN,
WARNER VAN NORDEN, Esq., REV. STEPHEN W. DANA, D.D., HON. ROBERT N. WILLSON, REV. CHAS. L. THOMPSON, D.D.,
JOHN H. DEY, Esq., REV. F. F. ELLINWOOD, D.D.,
REV. WILLIAM C. ROBERTS, D.D.

The price of the Church at Home and Abroad is One Dollar per year, payable in advance. No new subscription is received without the payment of one dollar accompanying it. But subscriptions, not accompanied with directions to discontinue at the end of the time paid for, will be continued and bills will be sent to remind the subscriber that another payment is due.

Issued November 14th.

A NEW HYMN AND TUNE BOOK

For use in Presbyterian Churches

By the REV. CHAS. S. ROBINSON, D.D., LL.D.

"The New Laudes Domini," we confidently believe to be the most comprehensive and practical book for congregational singing yet issued. It is enriched by many fresh hymns of wonderful spirituality and poetic beauty, and nearly every one of its tunes is marked by a characteristic melody, and can be sung by the average congregation. "The New Laudes Domini" is calculated to be popular in the best sense.

Mechanically it is unequalled. All the type used is new, and was chosen especially for this book. The press-work is of the best. By using thin but opaque paper we are enabled to furnish more hymns and tunes with less weight and bulk. It is a real surprise to find that such a wide range of hymns (1200) and of tunes (675) can be furnished in large clear type making a book only three-fourths of an inch in thickness.

A novel feature in this issue is the pocket edition (16mo.), which is reproduced from the large book, containing all the hymns and tunes in facsimile, the size of the printed page being $3\frac{1}{4} \times 5$ inches. Sample copies free to pastors and committees.

"Laudes Domini for the Prayer Meeting," and "Laudes Domini for the Sunday-School" complete the series. For descriptive circulars, terms, etc., address,

THE CENTURY CO., 33 E. 17th Street, New York

91
Upper Rocky Assoc.
2-18-32

THE CHURCH AT HOME AND ABROAD.

JANUARY, 1893.

THE NEW YEAR.

THE CHURCH AT HOME AND ABROAD comes to its readers at the beginning of its seventh year, with hearty and thankful New Year greeting. At no time since his work began has its editor been more encouraged by kind letters from its readers, than in the closing weeks of 1892. At no time have all who are associated in the editorial and the business management of the magazine been more in harmony or more cheerful in hope. Never before have we had more satisfactory arrangements, or more efficient helpers, for securing a continuous supply and skillful presentation of desired information and wise thought, concerning the work of the church in our own and other lands, in our own and other denominations. It is encouraging to find that these efforts for steady improvement are appreciated by intelligent and attentive readers. One such, a venerable minister in Wilmington, Delaware, lately wrote these pleasant and encouraging words to us:

"I do not see how any one who says: 'Thy kingdom come,' and contributes to the extension of that kingdom, can fail of wishing to learn whether his prayers are being answered and his money well placed; and I put it among the best means of home religious education, to induce the children to read the missionary literature, till they acquire a taste for such substantial and wholesome information.

In our monthly, we have reports from the Secretaries in every department of our church work; letters from the field giving details of the individual mission circles, with the manners and customs of native peoples among whom they live. Still, my desire to know what is going on in the whole world, leads me, first of all, to what you call

Gleanings at Home and Abroad.

Because of the numerous demands upon time for business, political and religious activities, and the vast issue of books and periodicals in this most busy age of a busy world, I am satisfied to have all articles condensed, and the Gleaning department enlarged by the collection of substantial facts and events, from the multitudinous religious publications, that the Christian mind may be filled with joy, 'thank God, and take courage,' for further labors."

From a layman in Michigan comes the following:

"Enclosed find two dollars—one to renew my subscription for 1893, and the other in response to your suggestion in December number to get one subscriber each, or make a holiday present of a year's subscription for a friend. This is the latter."

Santa Claus already takes more copies than any other fellow. But we hope that he will take many more copies this year than ever before.

AUBURN THEOLOGICAL SEMINARY.

The recent laying of the corner stone of a new building, in memory of Professor Welch and Dr. Willard, gives suitable occasion for calling our readers' attention to it.

The picture on this page represents the seminary buildings as seen from the north, that is, from the rear. The building on the left, or toward the bottom of the page, is the library erected in 1871, a gift to the seminary from Wm. E. Dodge, Sr., and Edwin B. Morgan. The one on the right is named MORGAN HALL, Hon. Edwin B. Morgan having given $75,000 of the $100,000 which it cost. It is the seminary dormitory containing ample lodgings for seventy-six students.

As we look between the two already mentioned, we see the back side of the original seminary building, erected in 1820. This has now been demolished and so much of its material as is available is to be wrought into the WELCH MEMORIAL BUILDING, which is now in process of erection according to the picture on the opposite page. The picture on this page is the same which is seen in Dr. Hay's "PRESBYTERIANS," page 205.

The western part of the new building is WILLARD CHAPEL. To the northwest a boiler house is to be erected, of sufficient capacity for supplying heat by steam to all the seminary buildings. The entire cost of the Willard chapel is met by the daughters of the late Dr. Sylvester Willard. The remaining cost of the new buildings, which will not be far from $55,000, is provided for by a bequest in the last will and testament of the late Professor Ransom B. Welch, and by a large gift from Mr. Henry A. Morgan, with a few thousand dollars in smaller subscriptions.

The new building is placed on the northern half of the campus, fronting southward. In front of it and between the Library and Morgan Hall is the central part of the campus opening beautifully to view as one passes on Seminary Street along the south side of the campus, or comes up Seminary Avenue from the south, directly in front.

These buildings would have little interest to most of our readers, and no claim to be described in this magazine apart from the sacred uses to which they are dedicated. These are impressively set forth in the following extracts from the address of Professor Beecher at the laying of the corner stone:

In Auburn, we try to keep in mind that the chief end of a theological seminary is the training of men to be pastors and missionaries. This is not so easy as one might think. Several current tendencies are against it. There is a strong tendency, for example, to regard that course as the best in which three or four men out of a hundred can make the largest acquirements in special lines of theological knowledge. There is a different tendency which exalts training in mere form and manner, at the cost of training in substance and matter. There is still a different tendency which especially aims to make men champions of one or another theological view. The temptations to go astray are difficult to resist.* We think they are less so here than in institutions differently situated. We aim at the highest standard of scholarship and intellectual would like to train men to be perfect in personal manners and in literary execution and in oratory, attainment, but we subordinate this to the aim of making good pastors and missionaries. We but always with the end in view that they may be more effective in the ministry. We want them to have a correct theology, and to be able to defend it, but only as a means to the end that they may the better lead men to Christ.

On the day when the pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Auburn held the plough that marked the first furrow for the seminary building, there were scores of newly found churches in all this region, and those churches were crying for pastors. His heart had been wrung in view of the famine of the Word that prevailed here. He had labored for a seminary, largely that these needs might be met. He had set his heart on having it built, as David set his heart on building a temple to the Lord. But when the Lord's message came to David, and he went in before the Lord to pour out the joy of his full heart, he had not one word to say of temple building. God had given him a vision of the eternal throne on which his seed should reign, and the thought of the temple was lost in this larger thought. And so when Mr. Lansing's hopes were at last approaching realization, the work on which he had set his heart having begun, he had not one word to say of these pastorless new churches in central New York. God gave him that day a larger vision, in which the local aspects of the work were lost. Let me quote you a sentence or two of what he said, in his address:

"We find that the kingdom that has been purchased by the blood of the Lamb is to be perpetuated among men, and to extend its benign and heavenly influences among the nations, until all should know the Lord through the instrumentality of the prayers and the labors and the liberal charities of its friends."

"Did we dare to indulge to the full extent our fond anticipations . . . , we should present you with another Newell, or a Parsons, or a Fisk, here devoting themselves to the service of the heathen, or consecrating their soul and body a living sacrifice to God, for the purpose of gathering the scattered offspring of the house of Israel."

Have the anticipations of the pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Auburn been realized? Answer Titus Coan and his colleagues, and the thousands of Hawaiians whom they received to the church of Christ. Answer the scores of men who, while that old building stood, went to every clime preaching the Word. Answer the men who stand in the forefront in redeemed Japan, to-day. Answer the present pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Auburn, as he goes from the laying of this corner stone to welcome within the walls of his church the representatives of forty seminaries, meeting to consider how the world is to be won for Christ. Whatever else the walls of Auburn stand for, or the walls of any other seminary, let them stand for the accomplishing of the prayer: "Thy Kingdom come, thy will be done, as in Heaven so on earth."

The Constitution of Auburn Seminary differs from that of any other such institution in connection with our Church. It is under the care and control of the Presbyteries which were in the old Synod of Geneva and as many more as have voluntarily associated themselves with them for this purpose. These are now eighteen, viz.: Albany, Binghamton, Buffalo, Cayuga, Champlain, Chemung, Columbia, Genesee, Geneva, Lyons, Niagara, Otsego, Rochester, St. Lawrence, Steuben, Syracuse, Troy, and Utica. These Presbyteries exercise their control through a Board of Commissioners, three members of which—two ministers and one elder—are elected by each of them. The Commissioners hold the office for three years and are so arranged in classes that each Presbytery elects one of its Commissioners every year.

The Board of Commissioners elects the Professors, and also the Trustees who are the responsible custodians of the property, and have, jointly with the Faculty, the immediate charge of the work and discipline of the seminary.

This control by a good number of Presbyteries seems to be a happy via media between direct subjection to General Assemblies and entire independence of ecclesiastical control. The plan has worked safely and happily for nearly three quarters of a century, and no objection to it is heard of.

In its instruction also Auburn has held fast the golden mean of Christian Theology, going most safely between the extremes of slavish subjection to human dogmas on the one hand and irreverent speculation beyond or beside the divine written word on the other.

CALIFORNIA.

CLEMENT E. BABB, D. D.

New York is known as the Empire State. But four States as large as New York could be carved out of California and leave enough over for a New Jersey of the Pacific Coast. Texas is the largest of our sovereign States. But California, with its 190,000 square miles, is a good second. It has a far greater variety of surface, scenery, climate, soil, and products than Texas or any other of its sister States. Snow-clad mountains look down upon valleys where orange trees are full of ripe fruit. The traveler seeking health can go in a few hours from resinous pine forests to sheltered ocean coves, where frost never comes. As to flowers, we need no conservatories, even for the tenderest exotics. What is mid-winter in the North Atlantic States, is our season of roses and of the gorgeous blossoming of almond orchards.

I am to write about Mission work over here; but I must say, in passing, California has the biggest trees on the continent—three forests of them. It has the most wonderful valley, as all agree who have visited the Yosemite. It has the best quicksilver mines on this side of the Atlantic. It has the largest vineyards and orange and apricot orchards in the United States. It has the largest telescope in the world, and will have, until the new one for Chicago is completed. It has the most liberally endowed University in America, though one of the youngest. Leland Stanford, Junior, is not worth less than thirty millions, and it has already nearly eight hundred students.

California was first known to the world as a discovery of the Spanish navigators, and became, in the eighteenth century a province or department of Mexico. It was occupied by a few wandering tribes of Indians. The Franciscan friars established missions along the coast from San Diego as far north as San Francisco, then called Yerba Buena. At each of these Missions there was a company of soldiers, sent by the government to help the padres christianize the Indians. They did not try to civilize them, but only to capture them, baptize them, and then set them to work under the surveillance of the soldiers. The sole result to-day, of a long century of this kind of Missionary enterprise is seen in a few ruined adobe churches. With a truer ideal of Christianity, those Franciscans might have built up here a Christian State long before our Republic was born, in 1776. They were earnest, zealous and self-denying, but they were ignorant of the first principles of the doctrine of Christ.

When our government declared war against Mexico, Commodore Sloat sailed to Monterey, then the capital, and took possession of the province in the name of the United States. Captain Fremont marched overland and co-operated with the Commodore. There was a little desultory fighting, but those two officers kept possession until the close of the war. By the treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo, Mexico ceded California to the United States. Probably neither party regarded it as of much value, but its cession just at that time is one of the wonderful providences of this nineteenth century. The treaty was signed on the 2nd of February, 1848. Of course the news of its execution did not reach the Pacific coast for many months, and news from this side went eastward very slowly over the plains or around Cape Horn. The commissions at Guadalupe Hidalgo little dreamed what a transfer they were making. But in January, 1848, about two weeks before the transfer, gold was discovered at Sutter's Mill, near where Sacramento the capitol now stands. That news did not lag; it seemed to have been caught up into the air and carried by the winds around the globe. And what crowds of argonauts started when they heard it! Who cared for distance or difficulties when he knew or thought that he could work a fortune out of those golden sands!

And what did the church do for the thousands who were crowding to the land of gold? Worldly prudence no doubt suggested that it would be well to wait until the excitement subsided; that to send out a few soul-hunters with the seething crowd of gold-hunters would cost a great deal, and the results might be sadly disappointing. But the leading spirits in both the branches into which our church was then divided were men of faith; and there are no brighter pages in the history of Home Missions than those which record their heroic efforts to plant the blue banner beside the stars and stripes on the Pacific coast.

In December, 1848, Rev. T. Dwight Hunt, a member of the Presbytery of Genesee, came to San Francisco from the Sandwich Islands. He was engaged at once by the better element in that town of tents and shanties to act as chaplain at large, with the distinct understanding that he would not organize a church of any kind for a year. Knowing of his presence on the coast the N. S. Assembly in May 1849, appointed Revs. J. W. Douglass and S. H. Willey, recent graduates of Union Theological Seminary as missionaries to California, and constituted the Presbytery of San Francisco, consisting of those two missionaries and Mr. Hunt. These three brethren met in San Francisco Oct. 17, 1849, and organized. Only one church was reported, namely, that of San Jose, then the capitol of the State. This church was organized by Mr. Douglass Oct. 7, 1849, with six members, four men and two women. During the summer Rev. J. H. Brayton and Rev. W. W. Brier commissioned by the Board of Home Missions arrived, and the nuclei of churches were gathered in various localities.

The Old School Board of Domestic Missions early in 1849 commissioned the men who are still spoken of affectionately as "The Three Ws." They were Rev. Sylvester Woodbridge, Rev. Albert Williams and Rev. James Woods. Mr. Woodbridge arrived first, in March, '49, on the first Pacific Mail Steamer via Panama. Mr. Williams came a month later by the same route, and Mr. Woods, who went around Cape Horn, did not arrive until January, 1850. Mr. Woodbridge located in Benicia, on the north side of the bay, where he and many others supposed that the great city of the future would be. Rev. Albert Williams decided to labor in San Francisco, where he organized the First Presbyterian Church on May 20, 1849. Rev. James Woods selected Stockton, a rising town on the way to the gold fields, as his parish. These three brethren met in Benicia in February, 1850, and organized the Presbytery of California. The Synod of The Pacific was constituted by the O. S. General Assembly in May, 1852, consisting of the presbyteries of California, Stockton and Oregon. That of Alta California was constituted by the N. S. Assembly in 1857, consisting of the presbyteries of San Francisco, San Jose and Sierra Nevada. These two feeble synods covered a territory of nearly 300,000 square miles and it contained a population in 1850, at the very beginning of our missionary work, of over 100,000. And this number, in 1860, before these few missionaries could even explore this field, had increased to nearly 450,000. There were less than fifty ministers, about one to each 10,000! No wonder that the brethren in both branches of the divided church, with this tremendous pressure upon them, were earnest reunionists. They worked in brotherly love side by side, but they wanted to be one in organization as well as in spirit. In due time, in God's time, as we all know, the reunion came. The presbyteries were reconstructed. The name of the O. S. Synod—Pacific—was adopted, and the united body entered upon a new career of activity and success.

In the Minutes of 1892 the synod, now called California for the first time, by order of the General Assembly, reported 233 ministers, 229 churches and 17,312 communicants. We have about 200 houses of worship, worth, with our institutions of learning, over $2,000,000. Ten synods report more communicants than that of California, but only six report larger investments in church buildings and other Presbyterian real estate. The number of additions on examinations to all the churches under care of the General Assembly last year was 57,476, an average of less than seven per cent. The like additions to the churches in the Synod of California numbered 1232, an average of over seven per cent. This comparison shows that we are not growing by immigration merely, but are cultivating our own hard field with some success.

In contributions to objects of Christian benevolence at home and abroad California is the banner synod. The average contribution in the whole church, last year, was a little less than $16.00 to a communicant. But in California it was $36.60, more than double the average contribution in the whole church.

This is not because the wealth of California is in our churches. The millionaires, with a single exception, are not Presbyterians, but Unitarians, Romanists and Materialists. The true reason is that to be a Presbyterian in California than in any other State in the Union. Real estate is high in all our prosperous towns and cities; but Presbyterians don't want their churches on an alley or a back street. They seek a location that, being choice, is costly. Then, thus far, both lumber and labor have been higher here than elsewhere. And last, and worst of all, when the little band has struggled hard to secure its lot and erect its sanctuary, the county assessor and the city assessor come and tax the property at its full market value. So, although the Presbyterians dedicate their churches to the Lord, Cæsar claims an interest in them, and the trustees have to pay into the public treasury an annual assessment that increases their current expenses from five to fifteen per cent. That is how we learn to be liberal in California. We find that we have to give or GIVE UP.

IT COSTS MORE

All honor to those brave and self-denying pioneers of Presbyterianism on the Pacific Coast. Of the early if not the earliest twelve, only two survive. Brayton, one of the saintliest of my Seminary classmates, died early. Woodbridge, Woods, Hunt, Douglass, Pierpont, Brier, Spear and others whom I cannot now recall, lived longer, but none of them to old age. The only survivors of the ministers who came in 1489-50 are Rev. S. H. Willey, D. D., who is principal of a Female Seminary in San Francisco, and Rev. Albert Williams, organizer of the First Presbyterian Church in San Francisco. Bro. Williams is resting from a long life of successful pastoral and educational work at West Orange, N. J.

The few mustard seeds that those men scattered, in what seemed a moral wilderness, have sprung up and there are now hundreds of Presbyterian churches over plain and valley, over mountain slope and summit from San Diego to Virginia City and from Arizona to Oregon. It is yet a hard field, for we have only one communicant to 200 of the population, and that population is so scattered that there are only twelve inhabitants on an average to a square mile; we may say two families! But as fully half of our gregarious Californians are crowded into cities of over 5000 inhabitants, and half of the rest are grouped in towns or in compact orchard settlements where 30 families live on a square mile, the reader can see how widely scattered several hundred thousand of our population must be. They are in the mountains and the deserts as sheep without a shepherd, and we must send missionaries to seek and to save them. An hundred men could find plenty of hard yet hopeful work here if the Board had the means to sustain them.

Think of it! California has nearly doubled its population four times in forty years. If this ratio of increase should continue we would have 20,000,000 in 1930—or if it doubled only three times we should have over 10,000,000. What a prospective empire to stimulate the faith and liberality of those who sing:

"Jesus shall reign where'er the sun Does his successive journeys run."

THE ENEMY AT OUR DOOR.

THEODORE L. OUYLER, D. D.

Most of our readers may be familiar with the story of John Randolph, who called upon a lady friend and finding her busy in making up clothing for the Greeks—pointed to her own ragged children in the yard, and said to her: "Madam the Greeks seem to be at your own door." In the pages of this magazine, appear constant appeals (none too many or too urgent) to supply the hideous destitutions of the bread of life among the heathen and in frontier settlements and city slums. There is a terrible enemy who is not only pushing his way into the Congo country, but working his deadly havoc in every community over our land. The bottle is greedier than the horse-leech; the worm of the still is, "a worm that never dies."

A vigorous political party is contending that the most effectual way to crush this enemy of homes and destroyer of souls is to suppress by law, all the saloons. A most desirable result indeed for which every Christian Patriot may well pray and labor; but a vast number of young men are made tipplers outside of the saloons, and as long as the drinking-usages go on unchecked it is morally impossible to suppress all drink-selling. We hear much also in these days of a wonderful cure for drunkenness. Even grant that there be such a medicine which cures permanently a large percentage of inebriates, it is at best only a picking up and a patching up of wrecks that have gone over the cataract. If the Church of Jesus Christ has no other mission than to fish up wrecks below the Niagaras of sin, and try to mend them, then the church is mainly a failure. The true place for that church is far above the cataract with its appliances of prevention to keep people out of the treacherous rapids. The one best time for a young man or woman to stop drinking intoxicants is before they begin. All our Sunday-schools, and a larger part of the Christian Endeavor Society's work are conducted on this principle of prevention. An ounce of it is worth, in most cases, a ton of attempted cures. Whatever may be done in any community to suppress the accursed drinking-dens, high or low, by civil law, it is manifestly the duty of Christ's Church to war against the drinking-usages. Every father and mother, every pastor, every teacher, every Christian has an interest in this; for if a generation of abstainers could be trained up, there would be but few customers to demand or to sustain the saloons. On the other hand even if prohibition of the saloons be attempted and the drinking-customs go on unchecked, the bottle would work its fatal havoc in the home, in clubs and social circles.

All these things being undeniable, it seems to me that Christ's Church is as clearly bound to fight drunkenness and the customs which lead to drunkenness as it is to fight paganism or infidelity or sabbath-breaking or any other soul-destroying evil. It is not merely a bodily disease, but a soul-damning sin that we are to contend against. And in this warfare against the bottle there is a safe ground and a broad common ground on which all ministers and churches ought to be able to stand together. It is admitted that some wild and extravagant declarations have been made by certain advocates of teetotalism, whose zeal outruns their discretion. Equally absurd things have been uttered by some well-meaning advocates of Christianity; but Christianity and teetotalism have survived the blunders of both fools and fanatics. A great deal of time and temper have been wasted in hot controversies about a few difficult texts in the Bible. Those "six water pots" of Cana have been made to hold millions of gallons of maddening alcoholic wine and Bourbon whiskey as well. It is quite enough for us to know that God's word thunders against drunkenness, but does not breathe a whisper against entire abstinence from wine or whiskey, opium or tobacco. It pronounces wine to be a mocker and declares that however attractive be the wine-glass, it conceals the "serpent and the adder." It shuts the door of heaven against the drunkard and by fair inference against the drunkard-maker. It declares that a Christian's body should be a temple of the Holy Spirit; surely never to be turned into a dram-den or a mad-house. It also most distinctly declares that "it is good" (i. e. it is commendable and right) "not to drink wine, or anything whereby our brother stumbleth." That prince of Scriptural preachers, Spurgeon, found no difficulty in either practising total abstinence or in preaching it from his pulpit; he affirmed that "grape-juice had been more deadly than grape-shot." Glorious old John G. Paton wears the blue ribbon of teetotalism in his button-hole; and so does Newman Hall, and Canon Wilberforce. Mackay of Uganda, said that the gospel could make no headway in Africa unless it was allied with total abstinence. Surely it was no crude, or fanatical, or unbiblical theory of morals which Lyman Beecher, and Albert Barnes, and Thomas Guthrie preached and which William E. Dodge, George H. Stuart, and Dwight L. Moody, have practised.

There is broad common ground on which all our ministers and Sunday-school teachers can stand in an aggressive warfare against the drink-customs. There is an imperative reason why every parent should keep the decanter out of the way of tempting his or her children. There is moreover a crying need for a revival both in pulpit and Sunday-school and home, of old-fashioned total abstinence propagandism. Our churches have looked too much to the Cæsar of civil law to perform a duty which God has laid on them with a tremendous emphasis. Just as soon relegate the questions of honesty and Sabbath-observance to the baton of the policeman. Strong drink does not merely corrupt politics, and breed crime and desolate homes; it damns precious souls for whom Jesus died!

There is a logical necessity, therefore that the Church of Christ should antagonize not only the dram-shop, but the dram; not only the saloon, but the social glass. Elementary teachings against alcohol should go into the public schools, and all our Sunday-schools ought to be supplied with such wholesome literature as our Presbyterian Board of Publication and the National Temperance Society are issuing. Nay more; why should not every church have a total-abstinence wheel as well as a Sunday-school wheel and a missionary wheel in its machinery? Several churches already have such organizations; and in some others, the Society of Christian Endeavor has a temperance department. The title to membership in such organization should be a promise—or still better a written pledge—to abstain from all intoxicating beverages. The Lafayette Avenue Church—which I was permitted so long to serve—always opened its doors freely for public temperance meetings which its Church Temperance Society arranged for. They were self-supporting by collections taken up at every meeting. Such a society only needs a simple constitution and the heart-power of pastor and session and God's people behind it.

The enemy is at our own doors, brethren and sisters. It lies in wait for your sons and daughters. It is destroying more souls than any other single evil in the land. "An old story" do you say? Yes, it is, and so is every sin and every sorrow. The remedy too is an old remedy; but no better has been discovered. The Church of God has got to take God's weapons—gospel-truth, solid argument, loving personal effort and the power of a clean example, and use them fearlessly and faithfully. In every prayer-meeting this enterprise ought to be remembered as earnestly as the sacred cause of Missions. If Christians skulk away before this gigantic sin and curse, they brand themselves as cowards.

THE CONGRESS OF COLOMBIA AS A SOCIETY FOR CHURCH ERECTION.

REV. THEO. S. POND.

In the Comercio, a newspaper published in Barranquilla, the chief port of Colombia, S. A., there was recently published the following partial report of a discussion in the Chamber of Deputies of the Colombian Congress:

*The Congress of Colombia was called to discuss a bill introduced by the clergy of Barranquilla, whose main object was to procure the appropriation of funds from the National Treasury to complete the erection of a church edifice in Barranquilla.

The Prime Minister taking advantage of a moment in which the order of the day was suspended, proposed the reconsideration of the bill referred to; and supported his proposition by urging the great advisability of counterbalancing the efforts of the pastors of certain sects, who had established themselves in Barranquilla with the object of seducing the faithful from the bosom of the Catholic church.

The Deputy, Señor Arboléaz then spoke: He had voted against the bill in the previous session, for he considered that the churches ought to be erected by

* "Mr. Pond translates from the Comercio, which gracefully credits the substance of its report to its always well informed contemporary, El Criterio, of Bogotá."

the contributions of the faithful, and not by tribute drawn by force from all the people. He believed that we had no cause to take alarm at the establishing of Protestant missions in Colombia; on the contrary, this very thing naturally ought to arouse faith and zeal for religion, since in other countries, where there is no opposition, the sentiment of religion becomes dormant. Moreover, in Barranquilla there are already other churches, and enough.

The Prime Minister proceeded in refutation of the arguments of Señor Arboláez to notice only the points which related to the employing of public revenues for the erection of churches.

Deputy Sr. Mallarino spoke as follows :

If it were a question of the erection of church edifices in any other region of the country, perhaps I would have expected to hear conclusive reasons, which in this case I have not been able to hear from the Prime Minister in favor of the projected bill, which yesterday was lost.

For my part, Mr. President, the significant thing on the coast is, not the Protestant propaganda, but the religious lukewarmness which there reigns. In passing through Barranquilla, on several occasions, I was able to see not more than eight or ten persons in attendance at the Cathedral, and this, on a feast day. Every temple is a centre of sacred instruction, of active missions ; and, therefore, I would gladly see that region bristling with Catholic churches and towers, where now, unfortunately, as I have just said, a cause of so much moment is regarded with so much indifference.

Deputy Señor Arango then took the floor and spoke substantially as follows :

In my opinion, the debate has taken a wrong direction. Here all are Catholics, and yet they are going to pass for Protestants, who vote against the appropriation of the funds for completing the new church edifice in Barranquilla. I shall be one of this class, since I propose to vote in the negative, for the reason that if (as the honorable Deputy Mallarino has said) the churches of Barranquilla were seen empty on feast days, I believe it useless to build still another with national funds in order to keep even in the race with the Protestants.

If the people of Barranquilla are lukewarm, according to the statement of the honorable representative, the best thing to do would be to send them missionaries who should make them fervent. But if the people of Barranquilla should observe that the General Government, from its centre in Bogota, and by means of benevolent gifts, for a new church edifice, sought to arrest Protestant teachings in that place, then the probable effect would be, that the lukewarmness would continue all the more, and thus nothing would be gained.

If the Catholics of that important city fear Protestant influence and desire to defend themselves, they must make an effort to rouse the spirit of religion by the assiduous practice of the Catholic doctrine.

Señor Mallarino replied as follows:—

The answer of the honorable Señor Arango is sophistical, else I have not been able to comprehend him. I maintain, as I have maintained, that the multiplying of sacred edifices attracts and instructs the faithful. In each temple there stands, at least, one apostle pointing heavenward, and, at last mere curiosity will raise the people's eyes whither the apostle wishes ; and their gaze once fixed there, every appearance aids to form the concept of God, who surrounds us with his gifts and his mysteries, and all hearts will be impressed.

After a few remarks in favor of the bill by another Deputy, Señor Martinez spoke as follows :

It is now demonstrated, that what is needed in Barranquilla, is faith and faithful men, not churches ; and consequently to produce these, and not to build churches, should be our first concern. In order to affect this, it is better not to levy a tax on the country, but to raise a levy of Missionaries and send them.

On taking the vote, the bill was approved by forty-six ballots for it, and fifteen against it.

In our opinion, (continues the Comercio) the bill will become a law, not only on account of its intrinsic merit, but because of the support of the Government, as it is the rule of our modern congresses to vote everything which enjoys such support.

Even if, in these Atlantic Coast towns, religious observances and ceremonies are not so numerous as in those of the interior, yet we are persuaded that, in effect, there is as much faith here as there. The people here are as settled in their belief in the same things, even though they do not listen to so many "masses" nor attend the forty hour vigils in one church, and then do the same thing in another, as they do in Bogata.

Accordingly the pains of sending us missionaries, as they have prescribed, may be spared, for these men would come only to "plough the sea," or "bring coals to New Castle," since these towns have firmly rooted in them the idea, that religious fervor does not manifest itself in living within churches and lying prostrate in devotion, but in practical observance of the divine laws.

Facts afford conclusive proof that these towns are not inferior to those of the interior in the matter of morals.

Thus far the Editor of the Comercio. He then proceeds to set forth the lack of crimes and vices in Barranquilla as compared with the interior, and he overdoes the matter so that he may be said to "whitewash," rather than to portray.

It still remains true, that the morals here are no worse than those of the interior towns, and that the Romanists are in favor of entrenching themselves from fear of prospective developments of Protestant strength. They may have been moved to this through their own fears rather than through any facts accomplished by the Evangelical Mission here. Still a rumor has been started from a conversation with some foreigners, to whom I appealed for contributions toward building a chapel for English and Spanish services.

Such contributions have been promised to the amount of a thousand dollars.

Such a chapel is a prime necessity, especially at this juncture, when the sale and distribution of the Bible, by the Bible Society's Agent, Rev. J. Norwood, has discovered a sound sentiment in favor of reading the Scriptures, each soul for itself, and that also discovered the fact, that many more desired to read them than was supposed.

EXPLORING THE INTERIOR OF WEST AFRICA.

REV. A. C. GOOD, PH. D.

About 4 P. M. July 20th, we left the mission house at Ikikiki, on the Batanga beach and started for a town two miles in the bush where we were to spend the night so as to make a good start the next day. Had I tried to start from the beach in the morning we would have lost half the day before getting off. Our company consisted of four boys from the Ogowe on whom I could depend implicitly, but who had no experience in bush travelling and especially in carrying; one Batanga man, whose weak point was a love for drink, and two men from the tribe living close in the rear of Batanga called Dibea and Mabea. These last were good carriers but could not be depended upon.

Now a word as to this country into which I am about to lead my readers. The Batanga people live on the sea-shore. Just back of them are the people called here Mabea, Dibea, and by some Osyeba, but who call themselves Kwasiwo. All of their towns are within ten or fifteen miles of the beach. Among the Batanga people the Gospel has taken a strong hold, but among these Mabeas scarcely anything has been done. But the devil has been busy among them and many of them are slaves to drink.

When we had passed the last Mabea town we found ourselves in a virgin forest through which we had to travel from sixty to eighty miles before we reached the inhabited interior. This meant that food must be carried for from five to eight days, according to the rate of march, and that again depends on how heavily laden the carriers are. There are, of course, no roads, only narrow winding paths; no bridges over the streams, no swamps filled up, no hotels by the way, only low rude sheds under which travellers may sleep on beds of poles with a fire on each side, but affording very little protection from rain. The natives dislike climbing hills and so these roads are fairly level, only crossing hills where it cannot be avoided, but unfortunately for the white men they do not have the same dread of mud and water. So we had hardly gotten into the forest when the path dropped down into the bed of a stream which it followed for a hundred yards or more.

We tried each day to start soon after six in the morning. By half past ten or eleven we stopped to eat, and by three or four in the afternoon everybody was tired enough to stop for the night. Beyond this there is very little to say of our long tramp through the forest. There were a few birds in the trees but usually too high to be shot. We saw a few deer, or rather antelope, but I only got one chance for a shot and that time my gun missed fire. There were many traces of elephants and occasionally of buffaloes, also of wild hogs. We saw many monkeys, some of them very large, but the trees were so enormously high that shot would not reach them and the forest was always so dark that it was impossible to shoot with a rifle with any accuracy. This fact is mentioned by many travellers and is usually attributed to the density of the forest. But even where the trees were neither very high nor very thick it still seemed unaccountably dark. Most of the time the sun was clouded, and the effect was as if the twilight had already fallen, even at noonday. And even when the sun came out it seemed to have no power. Where it could penetrate the foliage and reach the ground it looked like the last dim rays from a setting sun. In fact African sunlight is in some way of an inferior quality. As Mr. Stanley has said, it is more like moonlight than sunlight.

OUT OF THE FOREST.

Tuesday about 2 P. M. suddenly the forest grew light before us and a few moments later we came into a clearing close to a small new Bule town called Bieti. Here for the first time in seventy-five or eighty miles we were able to see out and look about us. The road during most of the last day was simply abominable. A mere trail in the first place, terribly obstructed by large rocks, vines &c. and for a change following the beds of streams for long distances, sometimes through mud a foot deep.

To add to our discomfort the woods were kept wet by frequent showers, so that my clothes were kept dripping wet brushing against the leaves. But this is the usual experience. It is impossible to travel in Africa without being more or less wet every day. Happily it does not seem to do one much harm. We were well received by the people, according to their ideas of hospitality. The old chief Mawu was very friendly and gave me a fowl and my people some plantains, although food was very scarce. After some time a house was provided and very glad was I to be under a roof, even if it was so low I could hardly stand erect under it, especially as it rained most of the afternoon and night. I had known that the Bule people were closely allied to the Fan, whose language I knew fairly well. But I soon found that, while many words were the same in the two languages, the differences were so great that very little that I said was intelligible to them. How was I to preach to them, for preach I must? Our guides had told them that we were not traders but people who went about teaching people the words of God, and the whole town was anxious to hear what was our message. They all came together in the palaver house, the public house of the town where the men spend their spare time. This was not large and was soon packed with men, women and dogs. Fires are always kept burning in these houses and the smoke was very affecting, often moving one to tears, but it had to be borne. I talked in Fan which my Mabea people understand a little better than the Bule people, so they helped me to explain what I could not express clearly. But they added a good deal to what I said, being anxious to display their knowledge of the the white man's teaching, and I was not quite sure that what they said was always orthodox. I had to accept their help, however, for the first few days.

WORSHIPPING UNDER DIFFICULTIES.

Among the Bule I was on new ground and had to begin by finding out what they called God, and I got a new name for the Creator of all things, Nzambe. This change of names is very confusing. The Mpongwe call God Anyambie, the Benga and Batanga people, Anyambe, the Mebea, Njambi, the Fan, Nzam and here the Bule call him by a name evidently related to the others and yet different enough to be confusing, Nzambe. They were attracted by our singing although we could sing nothing that was intelligible to them. And here followed a scene that was repeated daily for the next two weeks. I wished to impress upon them the truth that God is not far from any of us and can hear us when we pray. So I explained to them the meaning of prayer and requested them all to keep quiet while I rose and began. At first there was only a little noise, but three or four shouted out "keep quiet," which greatly increased the confusion. To make matters worse the Mabea people of whom there were several present, shouted out "shut your eyes." They tried to, but so unusual a performance convulsed some with laughter. Some mothers thought the closing of the eyes was an important matter and so held their hands over their children's eyes. Of course, the youngsters screamed. Some of the women became frightened and bolted for the door, some laughing and some screaming, and the dozen or more dogs that had been asleep around the fires, roused up by the unusual excitement, began to bark. I need hardly add that by this time the prayer was effectually interrupted.

WELCOMED BY A CHIEF.

Next morning we went on to Akak, the village of Nduna, and there we spent a most interesting Sabbath. Of all that occurred here I cannot speak at length. The chief killed a large sheep and did his best to make us comfortable. People came in from all the surrounding country and Sabbath morning I preached, or tried to, rather, to a large audience. I kept my note book in hand constantly and noted down every deviation from the Fan which I noticed as I talked to the people. Sabbath morning I did fairly well, and Sabbath evening the people encouraged me by declaring that they understood everything I said. Some of them stood around and questioned me till late at night. The people seemed much interested and very sorry to see me leave Monday morning. One thing especially pleased me. When I said I must go on the morrow they seemed sorry, but made no effort to hinder me. On the whole I liked the Bule. They resemble the Fan, but seemed to be a more civil and humane people. I may be mistaken, but it seemed to me that they had all the good qualities of the Fan and not all of their faults. But I must add that they could lie almost as well as the Fan.

IS THE MISSIONARY WORK A RESCUE?

F. F. ELLINWOOD, D. D.

At a meeting of Plymouth Church, Brooklyn, on Friday evening, Nov. 25, it was resolved that the contributions of the church for foreign missions shall this year be given, not to the American Board, but to a fund raised for the support of a young man, who has been sent to Japan on an independent basis. The supposed reason is that the American Board had declined to commission him, on account of certain theological views.

The right of Plymouth Church to make such use of its contributions as it shall think best, no one would dispute, nor does any one question its right to hold any particular views with regard to the state of the heathen and the motives of the missionary work, but some remarks made at the above named meeting, suggest some serious questions as bearing upon the whole work of foreign missions. In strong and even violent language, one of the speakers arraigned the American Board for preaching and insisting upon the "doctrine of damnation," declaring that his (the speaker's) money should not be given to proclaim the "damnable" ideas, as he chose to call them, which it is the work of that Board to promulgate. "That God is love," he went on to say, "is good news," but as for him, his money should not be given for the purpose of teaching the heathen that their ancestors were lost.

There has been so much said within the last decade about the inspiring motive of foreign missions, that it behooves the church of whatever name, to re-examine the main spring of its action as found in the New Testament and in the history of missions during the Christian centuries. Clearly the contention referred to above is either Universalism, or it is worse. It implies either that all men are saved with or without faith in Christ, or that the heathen are made an exception, in view of the fact that they have never heard the Gospel, while those who have heard and rejected it are lost. In the latter case it is a cruelty to send any missionary to Japan, since every one who hears him and rejects the offer of salvation which he makes, will be removed from a state of salvable ignorance to one of responsibility and condemnation. Even the "good news" of which he speaks, namely, that "God is love," will be a savor of death unto death to those who do not accept Christ, and so far as their one-sided doctrine shall lead the heathen to indifference and neglect, by removing the spur of moral responsibility, it will only increase the chances of their final perdition.

Here at home the above named utterances will doubtless find an echo in every grade of unbelievers from one end of the land to the other. Worst of all, they will furnish to many doubtful and indifferent Christian professors a pretext for their apathy. In the end they will tend to cripple even the newly adopted Mission, just as Unitarian Missions have uniformly been rendered powerless by similar theories of man's innocence and salvability without faith in Christ. Those who hold these views labor under a great mistake if they suppose that either sympathy or practical self denial for the heathen is wholly or even chiefly on the side of lax doctrines. The American Board for three-quarters of a century has sent out devout men and women who were so moved to pity for the heathen that they willingly gave their lives to the great work of making known Christ and his salvation. The career of that Board has been one of the noblest chapters in human history. The amount of suffering that has been bravely and cheerfully borne, the large and generous gifts of thousands of supporters, the prayers of godly men and women by the tens of thousands, who for two generations have borne up this great cause upon their hearts; the broad-minded, intellectual strength that has been given to the cause, the grand sum total of charity that has been bestowed in famine relief, in medical missions and in transforming the habitations of cruelty—all this constitutes for the American Board a volume of historic achievement too high and sacred to be flippantly scoffed at.

The American Board has proclaimed doctrines in no wise different from those taught by all the Evangelical Churches.

Calvinists and Arminians with all intermediate types or degrees of doctrinal variation have agreed in the three great essential truths (1) that mankind are morally ruined, (2) that Christ is the only and all sufficient Savior and (3) that redemption is to be secured through faith in his atoning blood.

In these essentials the Roman Catholic Church also is in accord with Protestants.

The missionary work of the world and of the ages has been based upon these doctrines.

So far as sympathy goes there is not a missionary of any Board who would not be glad to see all the heathen somehow saved through Christ, but the Church does not feel authorized to follow human theories on this subject. It takes rather the New Testament as it stands, with Christ's own words and the writings of those Apostles, who not only penned their inspired convictions but showed by their lives of toil precisely how they understood them.

It would be well if the Church would close its ears for a time to all the speculations and contentions which have risen in reference to human creeds and doctrines of eschatology, and try to catch the very spirit and meaning of Christ's own language in commissioning Paul as a missionary to the Gentiles. Turning to Chapter xxvi of the Acts, at verse 18, we find Paul's rehearsal of his commission before Agrippa. The language used strikingly resembles that which Christ had read as his own credential in the synagogue at Nazareth. The commission (a) assigns Paul specifically to the Gentiles; (b) it clearly discloses the moral condition of those Gentiles; (c) it plainly indicates a rescue or deliverance; (d) it shows that the remission of sin and the "inheritance" of grace are secured by faith in Him. Evidently, according to the mind of Christ, the heathen were in moral darkness; they were spiritually blind; they were under the thralldom of Satan; they were aliens from God. The preaching of the Gospel was not merely to improve their ethics, or give them a higher civilization, it was indeed "good news," for it was a blessed rescue. Paul was not simply to inform the Gentiles that they were no longer enthralled as a "Christian Scientist" tells people that they are not diseased, but he was to lead them out of darkness and bondage by an appeal to their faith. As to the urgency of their case, it had been deemed sufficient to bring Christ back from his ascension glory that he might give special emphasis to this commission; it was sufficiently grave and urgent also to require in Paul a life of intense activity, self-denial, toil and suffering, to be ended with a martyr's death. If the situation and the call thus set forth do not present sufficient strength of motive for the Church to act upon in the work of missions, then what motive could be sufficient?

All theological speculations aside, it is enough to catch the spirit of Christ's commission near Damascus, and to follow Paul from that scene as he entered upon his work that we may learn, if possible, how he regarded his great errand. Opening his epistle to the Romans written subsequently, of course, to this commission at Damascus, after he had had some actual experience in reclaiming the Gentiles, we find from his pen the most terrible arraignment of the heathen that has ever been recorded by any man. And although he could discourse upon "the height and depth" of the love of God, yet in this connection, he represents Him as giving over the heathen to the fruits of their own apostasy and unutterable depravity. It is a terrible picture that he draws. It shows that man in his lost estate may descend and does descend to depths of vileness which no beast ever fathoms.

And yet, on the other hand, where in the whole history of the Church do we find a sympathy so warm and so deep as that of Paul for the heathen, a sympathy which girds him for a life which he knows must end in murder at the hands of the very Gentiles whom he seeks to win, by unremitting toil, by patience in bonds and in imprisonment, by poverty, and untold privations, and in spite of the persecution of Jews and haughty contempt of Greeks and the cruel tyranny of Roman tyrants, he still holds on his way to the end.

At the same time Paul was no misguided, unbalanced fanatic. There was always from first to last, with all his burning zeal, a judicial element. In the very next chapter following his description of the awful vices of heathenism, vices which are found in many lands to-day, he proceeds to show how the responsibility of the heathen is qualified. He concedes the existence of ethical principles among all men and of an active and self-accusing conscience. He intimates that men will be condemned according to the judgment which they pronounce upon others, being thus a law unto themselves. And he gives us reason to believe that if here and there a Gentile actually does "by patient continuance in well-doing seek for glory and honor and immortality"—and that is the question which he does not settle—God will render unto him "eternal life." The whole chapter is full of fair and just discriminations from beginning to end.

The Confession of Faith of the Presbyterian Church maintains that the Holy Spirit is entirely unlimited in His operation upon the souls of men; and an editorial article in the Independent of Dec. 1, in speaking of the action of the Plymouth Church, says in a similar spirit: "The Board does not hold that God's mercy cannot reach the heathen and that all are swept into eternal punishment. It formulates no rule on this point, refusing to go beyond the Scriptures; but it believes earnestly that God is merciful and gracious and will do what is right. It refuses to insist upon anything that the Bible does not teach."

It is not the place or function of Missionary Boards to dogmatize. As Paul recognized the fact that there were Gentiles and Gentiles, so now there are heathen and heathen, and sweeping sentences of destruction are out of place. But without theorizing it is certainly the duty of the Church to fulfill her commission to the Gentiles, To open their eyes and to turn them from darkness to light and from the power of Satan unto God, that they may receive forgiveness of sins and inheritance among them which are sanctified by faith that is in Christ. There is in this commission nothing said about eternal damnation on the one hand, nor of a second probation on the other, but it discloses an infinite pity for the heathen and it lays an awful responsibility on those who possess the Gospel and neglect to make it known.

FOREIGN MISSIONS.

STATEMENT OF RECEIPTS, MAY 1 TO NOV. 30, 1891 AND 1892.

	CHURCHES.	WOMEN'S B'DS.	SAB. SCHOOLS	Y. P. S. C. E.	LEGACIES.	MISCELLANEOUS	TOTAL.
1891	$79,645 88	$75,674 81	$8,017 30	$2,371 03	$37,320 84	$39,757 29	$342,687 24
1892	74,262 48	68,426 83	9,392 04	2,930 24	49,147 38	34,080 18	239,089 05
Gain
Loss	$5,383 40	$7,247 98	$1,274 74	$1,659 22	$11,826 49	$5,737 26	$3,598 19
Total appropriated to December 1, 1892.....							996,649 88
Deficit of May 1, 1892.....							54,521 06
Total needed for year.....							1,051,170 93
Received from all sources to December 1, 1892.....							239,089 05
Amount to be received before May 1, 1893, to meet all obligations.....							812,081 88
Received last year, December 1, 1891, to May 1, 1892.....							688,606 22
Increase needed before the end of the year.....							123,476 66

WILLIAM DULLES, JR., Treasurer.

The above financial statement is little less than alarming. It shows that the receipts from all sources to November 30th, fall $3,598.19 below those for the same period last year. The most discouraging feature of the exhibit is that the churches are still quite in arrears. EIGHT HUNDRED AND TWELVE THOUSAND DOLLARS yet required before May 1st. to meet all obligations! The amount is large, but the work is large, and the resources of the Church are large. Will not pastors and sessions, Sunday-schools, Ladies' Societies and Young Peoples' Societies see to it that the response is large? There is not a moment to lose.

Read the Monthly Concert pages of this number from the pen of Dr. Dennis. Mark the "Forward Movements" in Foreign Missions on the part of other societies and churches which seem to be outstripping us in faith and zeal. Then note the secret of this, in part at least, in the "Unselfish Movements," and "Upward Movements" indicated—movements quite within the reach of all. Why not join the grand procession and move forward with a quicker and firmer step?

Reinforcements are sorely needed in all our mission fields even to maintain the work already in hand. The estimates for the next fiscal year, beginning May 1st, 1893, have not yet reached us from the Missions, so that the number of missionaries called for can not be given. The officers of the Board, however, after careful examination, agree that at least twenty-four ordained ministers should be sent next year, as follows: China, 7; India, 6; Japan, 1; Africa, 2; Syria, 2; Siam, 1; Mexico, 2; Guatemala, 1; South America, 2. The number of candidates, even in correspondence with the Board, falls quite below this requirement. Of these, some will probably not make formal application, while of those who apply, some will be found wanting in physical or other qualifications. "Pray ye therefore the Lord of the harvest that he will send forth laborers into his harvest."

If we except the Baptists, the missionary world has scarcely made enough of the Centenary of Modern Missions in 1892. Dr. A. T. Pierson, however, with his usual enthusiasm, has taken some measurements of the great advance that has been made within a century, and within limited portions of it.

Taking only portions of it, here are some of his results: "From the beginning of mission work in Tahiti in 1797, 14 years passed without a convert. Then two natives (who had been impressed by Christian influence in a missionary's family), after all the missionaries had been banished from the island, were found praying for the evangelization of their countrymen. Since then (1811) the number of converts in Western Polynesia has risen to 850,000."

Again he takes the seventy-five years of the American Baptist Union, of which Judson was the first representative: "After ten years he had but eighteen converts. They wrote him from America, inquiring about his prospects. His reply was 'Prospects all right; bright as the promises of God.'" "Now," says Dr. Pierson, "taking into account those first ten years of comparative failure, there has been established a new church for every three weeks of the entire time, day and night, and there has been a new convert baptized every three hours of the entire time, day and night."

As to Burma in particular, the first Karen was baptized in 1828. In 1878, after fifty years, there were 60,000 Karens, either sleeping in Jesus or living to testify of Jesus. An eminent authority says, "There are to-day 200,000 Karens in the Christian community, and 500 self-supporting provinces."

Again Dr. Pierson takes fifty years in China, between 1842 when the work began, and 1892, and he sums up now nearly 50,000 converts, and adds: "The ratio of increase during the twenty-five years, beginning with 1863, was eighteen fold, or eighteen hundred per cent."

Again take Fiji up to the year 1835, when the Wesleyans began their work, all the islands were under the dark shadow of heathenism and cannibalism. In 1885, after fifty years, there were thirteen hundred churches in the Fiji group alone, and out of a population of 110,000 104,000 were habitual attendants upon worship.

Again Dr. Pierson, turning to Ongole, says: "Take from 1878 to 1892, and I reverently say there was nothing in the original Pentecostal days to exceed what fourteen years have seen among the Telugus. In one day in 1878, 2,222 were baptized. In six weeks there were 5,000 baptized, and in ten months 10,000, and in the last current year 10,000 more, and now there are between 30,000 and 40,000 church members."

Surely these facts, quoted from Dr. Pierson's centenary sermon, preached in Hardey Lane Chapel, Leicester, England, June 1st, 1892, and published in "Regions Beyond," are calculated to cheer the friends of missions, and silence the cavils of their enemies.

The Annual Survey of the work of the American Board, published in the November number of The Missionary Herald, shows that an addition of more than one thousand members was made to the churches in Japan during the year, and that twenty-one new churches were organized. Mention is made of a Summer School of Philosophy and Theology as an institution already naturalized in Japan. One of these schools, attended by two hundred young men from all parts of the country, furnished an inspiring audience to Prof. Ladd, whose lectures in Japan during the Summer months, were appreciated by Christian scholars and thinkers. If this Summer school can be kept under proper influences, it will serve a great purpose in meeting the intellectual wants of thoughtful young men in the native ministry, and in showing them that Christianity is not an effete institution which dares not confront the light, but that it lays hold on every department of real knowledge as a means of raising up mankind to a fuller and clearer conception of God, all departments of whose truth are one.

The American Board now reports 40,233 church members, with 3,516 additions during the year; 200 native pastors; 624 preachers and catechists; native contributions during the past year, $92,723.

Rev. D. L. Gifford, of Seoul, Korea, writes that during a recent visit to the country, twelve men were hopefully converted, and preliminary steps taken towards ultimate church organizations in four villages,

Rev. W. O. Elterich of the Shantung Mission, in a recent letter, reports a visit made to two villages in the region of Ichowfu, where, in one of them, he baptized two men and two women; in the other, he found four candidates for baptism, but thought it wise to defer administering the ordinance for a time. He adds: "The work is gradually growing, and we are gratified at the reports of our native helpers who speak of increasing interest in the doctrine through the entire region."

LOYAL RESPONSES.

The Board of Foreign Missions in its efforts to come a little closer to its sources of income has been addressing personal letters to pastors and sessions in reference to the gifts of the churches. The responses in the main have been cordial and encouraging, as the following extracts will show:

"Your letter of November 18th, duly received. I was a little amused at its half apologetic tone. Hereafter you need make no apology in writing me about your work and needs, and the duty or delinquencies of my church or myself. In respect of your work you are our 'Pastors and Teachers.'"

"Yours of November 22, received. That is right, drum up the churches, it will pay, and we all need it. I wish we gave more. I feel sure we could if we were more consecrated, and yet while I say that I know for myself I have given all I am and have. We are now far ahead of 40c per member. Look at the General Assembly Minutes, forty-five members, $63 to Foreign Missions, or $1 40 per member. This church gave $300 to support its pastor last year, and $155 to all the Boards, or about half the salary it paid, i. e., 50 per cent or $3 44 per member to the Boards. Of course, it ought to do better. This year it will do better."

"You are doing well to keep our churches stirred up on Foreign Mission themes. I rejoice in your activity."

"I am glad the Board desires to be in touch with the pastors, and certainly we want to be in touch with the Board. Perhaps the Board cannot understand the 'trials' we often have in raising what we do. Sometimes the day set is stormy, etc., and we are at our wits' end. Collections for this and that are urged upon us until sometimes it is hard to get in the regular Boards. Two Sabbaths ago we took up our collection, and only got $50. Last Sabbath I tried it again and told them we would keep at it if it took all Winter."

"Your favor of the 10th instant, with reference to our church's offerings to Foreign Missions is at hand. I assure you, my dear brother, that so far from in any way considering what you say as an intrusion, I heartily appreciate it as a real kindness, and we shall look after things in your direction a little more closely."

"Yours of the 25th has come duly to hand. I fully appreciate your letter. I am greatly interested in all that concerns the work of the Foreign Board, and especially the contributions of my own church to that great work. In seven years our church has greatly increased her giving to your Board, and I am hopeful that we will not do less this year."

"Your letter of the 14th instant was received this morning. I am heartily in favor of your efforts to increase our church's offerings to the Board of Foreign Missions, and shall do everything in my power to make the gift of this particular church proportionate to its ability to give."

MISSIONARY CALENDAR.

From New York, for Kolhapur mission, Nov. 2, Rev. L. B. Tedford, (returning); for West Persia mission, Nov. 9, Rev. J. N. Wright, (returning), Mrs. J. N. Wright, Rev. W. A. Shedd, Miss Mary Jewett, (returning), and Miss Jennie McLean; for Dakota mission, Rev. and Mrs. A. F. Johnson.

From San Francisco, for Shantung mission, Nov. 26, Miss M. A. Snodgrass.

ARRIVAL.

From Tokyo, East Japan, Nov. 21, Miss C. H. Rose.

From Lakawn, Laos, Nov. 13, Miss Kate Fleeson.

From Tlalpan, Mexico, Nov. 12, Rev. and Mrs. H. C. Thomson.

SCATTERING THE GIFTS.

The following action was taken by the Board of Foreign Missions at its meeting November 21st, and it is recommended to all our churches for serious consideration:—

"It having come to the knowledge of the Board that persons are collecting money from the churches upon alleged recommendations from the Secretaries of Foreign Missions, and that in one instance a Synod has endorsed the appeals of these men it was

Resolved, That the Board desires to call the attention of the churches to a wide spread and increasing evil along these lines, and to warn them against all such appeals.

The men above named have received no encouragement from the officers of the Board, and its policy is to discourage young students on the mission fields from coming to this country either for business or study. The successful example of the few creates a worldly ambition in all our best mission schools and tends to rob the cause of missions of those whom it aims to train up for preaching and teaching.

Besides, those who are educated in this country are generally denationalized and so far unfitted to live and labor among their countrymen.

The experience of all missionary Boards has led to entire unanimity of sentiment on this subject.

The great majority of those who come to this country either engage in business or secure a livelihood by lecturing among the churches, and gathering various amounts as missionary collections. To encourage this practice is an injury rather than a benefit to Foreign Missions.

Resolved, That in view of the tendency which now exist to scatter the benevolent gifts of the churches and of generous contributors within the church, and on a wide range of objects and especially those which claim some kind of relation to the work of Foreign Missions, the Board feels constrained to remind all its contributors of the great responsibility which it has assumed under the direction of the General Assembly, and to ask that its regular work shall not be allowed to suffer neglect.

A full statement of the relief work done by our Missionaries and their friends in Teheran, Persia, during the prevalence of cholera last Summer, has just been received. It includes a detailed statement from Dr. W. W. Torrence, the physician in charge, who, though no longer connected with our Mission, promptly tendered his services in the emergency. It appears that the disease ran but a short course, though the total number of deaths is variously reported at from 18,000 to 20,000. Eighty-two patients were admitted to the hospital and two thousand were cared for by the missionary corps outside.

Word has just reached the Mission Rooms that on October 28, the church and boys' school buildings in Tabriz were closed and sealed up by Government officials, no intimation of this purpose having been given to the missionaries in advance. This high-handed measure is said to be the outcome of a complaint which had been made because the height of our church steeple, because the Ten Commandments are written on the church walls inside, because Moslem women were reported to be frequenting the missionaries' houses, and because Moslem children were said to be in mission schools. The facts, as given by Dr. Vanneman, are that Moslem women were coming to the missionaries' houses only for medicine and medical treatment, and that there are no Moslem children in the schools. Unfortunately, at present, because of the absence from Teheran, of a United States Minister, or even a Chargé d'Affaires, our missionaries seem to be without official protection. The probability is, that this step, on the part of the authorities, is the outcome of intrigue by Armenians, who are bitterly opposed to our work in Tabriz.

Intelligence also reaches us from Hamadan of a threatened uprising of the Moslems against the Jews, the former affirming that the latter must become Moslems or be killed. It is probable that the same view is taken with reference to the Christians, but our recent advices do not report any outbreak against them, though some alarm was felt.

Dr. G. W. Knox of Tokyo writes: "I feel that cautious methods will be all-important for the next few years. It seems as if the early constructive period were past, and a period of uneventful growth, with times of stagnation, beginning. If the work can be carried on substantially as at present, it is all we can expect, with slow growth and an increased strength of religious life within the Church. Were I to compare great things with small, I might suggest that the Apostolic age approaches its close, and that we are entering upon the second stage—one that makes little show in history. How long it will continue here, who can say? We may believe that it will be followed by a third stage when the great Fathers of the Church will come forth from among the Japanese and make it truly Japanese."

Concert of Prayer For Church Work Abroad.

JANUARY,	General Review of Missions.
FEBRUARY,	Missions in China.
MARCH,	Mexico and Central America.
APRIL,	Missions in India.
MAY,	Siam and Laos.
JUNE,	Missions in Africa.
JULY,	Indians, Chinese and Japanese in America.
AUGUST,	Korea.
SEPTEMBER,	Japan.
OCTOBER,	Missions in Persia.
NOVEMBER,	South America.
DECEMBER,	Missions in Syria.

[Conducted by REV. JAMES S. DENNIS, D. D.]

GENERAL REVIEW OF MISSIONS.

WHAT THE SPIRIT SAITH TO THE CHURCHES.

A slight change was made during the past year in the monthly list of subjects at the head of our Concert of Prayer department: "Korea" was substituted for "Papal Europe" as the subject for August, and a "General Review of Missions" was made the subject for January. The meaning of the first change is that one of our most recent missions has stepped to the front, and claims an independent place in the list, as of sufficient importance to justify the attention of the Church as the subject of a monthly concert. The significance of the change in the January subject would perhaps hardly be noticeable in comparison with the wording previously used, which was, "General Summary—Week of Prayer," but the intention of the new title was to open the way for a broader and more catholic survey of missions in general. Sister churches are working along parallel lines; other societies are engaged in the same sacred cause; missionary brethren and sisters are toiling side by side in the same foreign countries, and it cannot but be helpful to us to know more of these fellow-workers and the record they are making. Then, there are new methods, suggestive devices, forward movements, fresh successes, stimulating examples, which such a survey may bring to our notice, and which may kindle our hearts, and deepen our consecration, and uplift our vision, and nerve our faith for the more earnest prosecution of our own service. The Presbyterian Church is in need of some kindly and powerful and immediate stimulus on this subject of her foreign mission work. God is showing marked favor to her missionaries in many fields; some of her top figures in the column of spiritual results, some of the most conspicuous tokens of her Lord's presence, and some of her most manifest spiritual triumphs are in this department of foreign missions, but her own record at home in the sphere of church enthusiasm for foreign work, and financial support of it, is disappointing and inexplicable. This record is given in a spirit at once sympathetic and candid, in a carefully prepared "Report of the Committee on Foreign Missions," presented to the Synod of New Jersey at its meeting in October, 1892, by the Chairman, Rev. Henry S. Butler, D. D., of the Presbytery of Newton. We quote from the Report the following extract:—

The distant side of the work of Foreign Missions is bright and hopeful; exhibiting a rapid growth and a wide expansion, accompanied with tokens of the protection and blessing of Jehovah which call for constant thanksgiving and rejoicing. But the home side, which involves the sustenance of the schools and presses and hospitals and of the workers abroad: this is what causes both shame and anxiety. With all the swift development of the past year upon the foreign field, the church at home has been standing almost still in the amount of her offerings.

Bear with the recital of a few figures which embody facts calling for universal attention. The year 1887-8 marked an epoch in the history of our beloved church, closing her first and beginning her second century. It was hopefully assumed that the second century of her existence was to mark a nobler development in all directions. How have we begun it in the matter of sustaining the foreign work?

Gifts of Ch's, Wom. Bds., S. S., and Y. P. Soc.		Av. per Member.	Total Av. per M.
1886-7.....	$608,881	$0.87	$1.12
1887-8.....	660,175	.91	1.24
1888-9.....	620,984	.82	1.13
1889-90.....	608,068	.77	1.02
1890-1.....	721,088	.89	1.16
1891-2.....	693,658	.83	1.12

You see that the regular gifts have fallen back from the closing year of the church's first century, four cents a member, and including miscellaneous gifts and legacies, which may be called occasional, they are just the same as they were that year. Under the pressure of the Centennial year they advanced to $1.24, and under the special pressure brought to bear year before last, they reached $1.16, but fell back to the average of 1886-7 last year. This seems a poor beginning for the new century, in the face of the remarkable progress abroad and prosperity at home.

The Report then refers to the fact that the Synod of New Jersey showed a comparatively better record than the Church at large, and urgently appeals to the churches of the synod to put forth earnest efforts to deepen the interest of their constituencies and increase their contributions for foreign missions. The situation which is brought out so clearly in this Report is all the more disappointing in view of the many reasons for renewed courage and faith and perseverance in our foreign mission work. The Church as a church seems to be growing somewhat neglectful of a cause which her Lord is adopting more and more as His own. This statement does not apply, of course, to the many devout and tender hearts in the Church who love the cause of foreign missions for Christ's sake, and whose activity and liberality in this sacred service are well known to the Master. When we consider the average interest of Presbyterian Christians, however, we wish it were deeper; and the situation becomes puzzling when we look at other churches and see the interest in foreign missions steadily rising, and note the cheering advance of contributions, and the quickening steps of forward movements which have been undertaken of late. While the aspirations of sister communions are higher, and their plans larger, and their enthusiasm deeper, our own church seems to be making little, if any progress. We are already on the second half of a fiscal year of the Foreign Board, which began with a dismal legacy of over $54,000 of debt: the receipts of the Board up to October 31, covering the first six months of the current year, were $7,391 behind the same period of last year. The amount needed between October 31 and May 1, 1893, to meet all the obligations, is $858,276, which is $115,893 more than was received in the same time last year. If the Spirit of God ever speaks to the churches in terms of dollars and cents, here it would seem is a message which should be heeded. Shall we allow, through sheer inattention and carelessness, the financial collapse of a cause which should be an inspiration to praise, and a source of cheer in the Church? Foreign missions should be the last thing on our list of church obligations to languish. The Church cannot withhold her sympathy and gifts from the foreign field, without turning fully away from the brightest and most characteristic signs of Christ's presence, and placing herself out of touch with a department of service which should draw her nearer to her Lord in a tender fellowship of joy, and in a loyal spirit of consecration.

"And the Spirit and the bride say, Come. And he that heareth, let him say, Come. He who testifyeth these things saith, Yea, I come quickly. Amen: come Lord Jesus." Rev. 22: 17, 20.

FORWARD MOVEMENTS.

"Forward! the captain's cry; "

"Into the valley of death Rode the six hundred."

Why should not the hearts of Christians kindle with the inspiration of the great commission? Why should there not be a ready and glad response to the appeal of a world for which Christ died? Drop, if you will, that uninspiring and hackneyed, and somewhat misleading term "Foreign Missions," and look at the whole matter from a new standpoint, and study its real meaning and purpose. It is God's plan not man's; it is Christ's work, not the Board's; it is directly commanded, not simply left to be voluntarily assumed; it is at this present moment the scene of the highest and most fruitful activities of the Spirit, not a forlorn hope of the kingdom; it is the most open and inviting realm of privilege in which the Church can labor, not a place of slavish toil and fruitless expenditure; it is in the line of a new and cheering advance in the larger fulfillment of prophecy, not a mere repetition, within familiar lines of church progress, of successes which only keep the ground already held, from slipping from our grasp; it is a Christ-like and Christ-inspiring mission to human hearts, capable of love to God, service to Christ, joy in the Gospel, holiness of life and eternal blessedness in heaven, not a mere fanatical raid into the realms of hopeless barbarism; it is a service which has in it a sweet and refreshing reward to the Church in the reviving of her own life, and in the quickening of the deeper spiritual springs of feeling, not a mere perfunctory response to that treadmill appeal which comes with the annual procession of the Boards. Why then, we ask, is there not generally throughout the Church more heart, more alacrity, more cheerful spontaneity, more generous support of our foreign department of church work?

Let us look at the response which some sister churches are giving to the claims of their foreign mission enterprises. There is just now among the English and Scotch Christians a marked increase of interest in this great cause. The leading societies are all planning an enlarged work, and doing so with the cordial co-operation and approval of their supporters. "The Forward Movement" is the suggestive name which has been given, as if by common consent, to this advance all along the line.

A MEMORABLE YEAR AMONG BRITISH CHRISTIANS.

The London Missionary Society, at the close of its fiscal year, March 31, 1891, found itself with an income of £15,000 less than expenses. The Directors of the Society, however, with signal faith and courage, at their meeting, held June 22, 1891, resolved to sound an advance, and planned to send out one hundred new missionaries before the Centennial Anniversary of the Society in 1895, which involved an increased expenditure of £25,000 per annum, and required an addition of £30,000 to the average annual income of the Society. This forward step, in the face of an insufficient income, seemed almost presumptuous, and yet the Directors felt compelled by conscientious convictions and the urgency of the work in hand, to assume this grave responsibility. They justified this action by a unique and impressive line of argument, which has in it a singular combination of conscience and faith. They regarded the resistless growth and the present urgency of the work which was committed to their care, as involving a direct call from the Master to the assumption of enlarged responsibilities on their part. In the needs of awakened inquirers all through their mission fields, whose adherence to former religions had been shaken, and who had lost their grasp upon their old faiths, and who were now made willing in the day of God's power, to be taught Christianity, and led into the light and hope of the Gospel, they recognized an obligation resting upon them to supply the instruction needed to guide these searchers after truth into a full and intelligent acceptance of Christianity. Could there be a nobler and higher view of missionary responsibility than this? The call of the mission field became the command of Christ; He seemed to speak to them in a thousand appealing voices to go forward with faith and prayer, in response to the full demands of a situation so interesting, so cheering, and so full of irresistible urgency. "The Forward Movement" was sounded in a resolution passed at the first regular meeting of the Board of Directors for the succeeding year, held June 22nd, 1891, as stated above. This action, instead of provoking criticism and alarming the church, at once kindled enthusiasm, and the response began to appear in a rising tide of interest, and in increased contributions, until the year closed March 31st, 1892, with an increase in the income of the Society of £85,000 over that of the previous year, and this increase was not in legacies, but in the contributions of the churches. Among the devices suggested by the Directors, and adopted by them personally, was the observance of a week of self-denial among the supporters of the Society. It is estimated that the net result of this effort was nearly £10,000 in money, and an inestimable deepening of the sense of interest and joy in the missionary work in multitudes of hearts throughout the Church. And, as regards the hundred new missionaries to be placed in commission before the Centennial Anniversary of 1895, the latest reports from the Society announce that already thirty-seven of them are enrolled, and at a magnificent Valedictory Meeting, attended by 8,500 people, held October 12th, in Bradford, twenty-six of these men and women were set apart for service, and are probably already scattered in their distant fields. In the report of the Society presented at its annual meeting in May, 1892, these inspiring facts are referred to in the following words:

Dry as these details may appear to be, they are full of spiritual significance: there is in them the poetry of promise, the evidence of the abiding faithfulness of the great Head of the Church. Every figure of increase in this enlarged balance-sheet comes freighted with sympathy, enthusiasm, and prayer; it speaks of deepened interest; it testifies of a true appreciation of responsibility; it tells of the movement of the Spirit of God among His people, and of many earnest hearts already promptly responsive to His call.

The Baptist Missionary Society of Great Britain has also organized its "Forward Movement" in connection with the Centenary Year of its establishment, and have voted to raise £100,000 as a Thanksgiving Fund, and also to make the effort to increase its annual income by another £100,000. The Centenary Meetings have been held throughout the year, and have been characterized by great enthusiasm. The Thanksgiving Fund has crept steadily upward, until at the latest report it was £98,497. The proposal is now that it should not be closed, but allowed to go on as long as it will. This financial flood-tide is the indication of a largely increased interest in the grand cause, and it has come to the treasury freighted with the enthusiasm and sympathy and devotion of multitudes who have renewed their vows of consecration to the great missionary movement of our age.

The United Presbyterian Church of Scotland is also in line with a "Forward Movement," and at the last meeting of the Synod, in May, 1892, a deputation of nineteen was appointed, whose duty it will be to visit presbyteries and churches, and stir them up to increased prayerfulness, and more systematic and self-denying effort for the extension of Christ's kingdom. The Synod is also to issue a special address to congregations upon this subject. A recent number of the "Missionary Record" of that honored Church, says with reference to this action of the Synod:

Obviously the Synod has not invited her missionary deputies to any perfunctory work; no mean task has been appointed to them; the conception of it is well-nigh overwhelming; God is challenging our Church to greater things.

The Free Church of Scotland reports at its last Assembly, an advance of £4,658 in its foreign mission income over that of the previous year, and a total income from all sources of £99,048, and if we add to this the income of the mission committees for work among the Jews, and for the Continent of Europe, and for the Colonies, the total missionary revenue of the Free Church of Scotland amounts to £116,759, as against £52,080 ten years ago. An interesting feature of the Foreign Mission Report of the Free Church for 1892, is the movement among the students of Free Church Colleges towards the foreign field. The Report announces that sixty-three students, at different stages of their studies, have expressed their desire to work for the Master abroad. The concluding words of the Report in reference to this fact are as follows:

We trust the General Assembly may have been able to assign time for a conference on this and other aspects of the great missionary enterprise, not only in our own church, but throughout Christendom, in a historic year in which the Lord our God seems to be waiting to be proved, and the Holy Spirit is evidently baptizing the nations.

The Established Church of Scotland, at the recent meeting of the General Assembly, received a welcome report from the Foreign Mission Committee. The number of converts during the year was 1,129, more than double the number reported for the previous year. The total income reported was £46,124, the largest which has ever been received.

The Presbyterian Church of England has recently, through its Synod, issued an appeal to the Church for a week of united prayer for missions, in November, with detailed suggestions as to the method of observations, and also, by authorization of the Synod, the Foreign Mission Committee have appointed a Self-denial Week, and a special foreign mission fund of £10,000 is to be raised, of which more than £8,000 are already on hand.

The Wesleyan-Methodist Missionary Society, in its last Annual Report presented at its meeting in Exeter Hall in May, 1892, strikes a thankful and cheerful note when it says that "the returns for the year show increase under almost every head." Its income was £3,057 larger than the year previous, and yet such is the pressure in its fields that a ten per cent. increase was made the financial watchword for the present year.

The Church Missionary Society, at its last Annual Meeting, found old Exeter Hall too strait for it, and made a new departure in holding two meetings at the same time, one, as usual, at Exeter Hall, and the other at St. James' Hall, and both were thronged. The President of the Society spoke of the progress made since his appointment in 1887. The income of the present year is £23,400 in excess of the year in which he first took office; in that year eighty-two candidates offered for service, against one hundred and seventy-nine now. Thirty-four were accepted then, and during the past year one hundred and eighteen. Within the past four years two hundred and sixty-seven missionaries have been sent out, which is double the number of the previous four years, and within two years one hundred and fifty new missionaries have been commissioned, and the desire on the part of the young men and women to undertake the work is such that the Society is overwhelmed with applications. The income reported for last year was £269,377 which is an advance upon the previous year, and a sum which has been exceeded only once in the history of the Society.

The China Inland Mission reports a net increase in receipts of £2,700, and a total increase in its staff during 1891 of one hundred and thirty-three missionaries, making a total, including the wives of missionaries, of five hundred and twenty-six. Rev. J. Hudson Taylor, General Director of the Mission, with his wife has just returned from a visit to China, during which they welcomed to the work of the Society there over two hundred new missionaries.

THE NOBLE TRIBUTE OF OUR AMERICAN CHURCHES.

The American Board among our own American Societies reports $104,000 increase in income, from all sources, over the previous year, and has resolved upon a new push towards the goal of one million a year for its missions.

The Baptist Missionary Union reports an addition of nearly $100,000 to its income, and the sending out during the year 1892 of eighty-one missionaries, the largest number which has ever been sent abroad by the Society in any one year. Of this number fifty-two are going out for the first time.

The Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church in its report covering the year 1891, announced an increase in receipts of $115,755 over the previous year, and a sum total in receipts very nearly double the amount received from all sources in 1880, and the report of the Society for the past eight years shows an average annual increase from collections of $87,485. The report of success for 1891 in the foreign fields shows a total gain of members and probationers amounting to 16,455, which is an increase of twenty-two percent over the previous year. At the recent meeting of the Missionary Committee of the Church, held November 9th, at Baltimore, Maryland, the report of the Treasurer for the financial year ending October 31st, 1892, reports a still further increase over that of 1891, amounting to $28,484. Our Methodist brethren believe in a "Forward Movement," and they seem to be able to accomplish it with no very special outlay of effort.

The Presbyterian Church in the United States (South) reports at the last General Assembly an increase of $17,324 over the receipts of any previous year, with fifty-seven more churches contributing than during the previous year, and eighty-one more missionary societies falling into line. This is a "Forward Movement" full of quiet earnestness, which deserves all honor.

The United Presbyterian Church of North America reports at the last meeting of its General Assembly, a larger sum received for foreign missions than in any previous year of its history, and a balance in the treasury at the close of the year of over $3,000.

The Reformed Church in America reports at the last meeting of its Synod, an income from its living contributors which is $2,700, in advance of its receipts from the same source in the previous year, although, owing to the urgent requirements of its foreign mission work, a gradually accumulated debt of $34,000, now rests upon the Board. An interesting comparison of growth during the decade from 1881 to 1891 reveals an increase of seventeen per cent in the membership of the Home Church, and one hundred and twenty-one per cent in that of its foreign mission fields.

At the recent Council of the Alliance of Reformed Churches holding the Presbyterian system, held at Toronto in September, the subject of all others which seemed to come easily to the front, was the foreign mission work of the Presbyterian Church, and in a Report presented by Dr. Ellinwood on behalf of the Western Section of the Alliance, it was stated on the basis of the United States census of 1890, that "during the preceding decade the average gain of the Presbyterian bodies in the Republic in the number of their communicants was thirty-nine per cent," while the increase in the "membership of the native churches of the Presbyterian Church (North) embracing over twenty missions, great and small, has been one hundred and one per cent in the census decade." In other churches of the Alliance it has been still higher, and in some churches as high as one hundred and twenty-one per cent.

Can these statements fail to interest and inspire the heart of every friend of missions in our Church? Can it be possible that the Spirit of God is moving in other Christian communions and inciting to higher ideals and more thorough co-operation with His own divine purpose, and we are not sharing as fully as we might in the blessed impulses of His leadership? Can it be possible that our Lord sees some sufficient reason for especially using more promptly responsive and willing instruments for the fulfillment of His high behests? Shall God speak through His Spirit, and our own beloved and historic communion be found standing so far outside the circle that she hears but faintly His sublime and precious message to the churches?

UNSELFISH MOVEMENTS.

In several of the churches a novel expedient has been adopted during the past year in the interest of foreign missions. It is the appointment of a "Week of Self-denial" for the sake of increasing the income for foreign missions. It was done by the London Missionary Society in 1892, and the week beginning Monday, February 6th, and ending Sunday, February 12th, has also been appointed for 1893. The proceeds of the "Self-denial Week" for 1892 amounted to nearly £10,000. In the Presbyterian Church of England a similar "Self-denial Week" was appointed by authorization of the Synod, to be held in the month of November. In this connection the Monthly Messenger, the foreign missionary organ of that church remarks:

To definitely give up something for missions can scarcely fail to have results even more valuable than the pecuniary gain. The mission will be dearer to those who have made for it an actual sacrifice, and there are scarcely any of us who cannot, without any injury to ourselves, lay down for a little, for Christ's sake, some luxury, or even comfort, receiving back from our Lord an hundred fold.

In another missionary magazine we find the following remarks upon this subject:

Might it (the Self-denial Week) not be adopted with advantage to our great missionary enterprises which are calling out for more liberal support? It is argued with right that the proceeds of bazaars, raffles, concerts, and fairs are not for a moment to be compared as an offering to Christ with an offering the proceeds of self-denial. Which of the two is the more agreeable to the Christians conscience, the less conformable to the ways of the world, the more healthful as an exercise of spiritual discipline, and the more likely to be followed by blessed spiritual results to the whole church? Have we not already had enough of worldly devices for raising money for church purposes? It is time we were beginning to adopt a better way, and what better way can we adopt than that prescribed by our Saviour himself? 'If any man will be my disciple, let him deny himself.'

UPWARD MOVEMENTS.

In connection with the inspiring "Forward Movements" referred to in previous articles there has been also what might be called an Upward Movement towards the Source of all true inspiration to holy living and loyal service. The London Missionary Society after its courageous resolve upon a "Forward Movement" began to call upon God in prayer for guidance and help. It is a beautiful and characteristic fact that the first to move in this upward direction were the women, under whose auspices an "All Day Prayer-meeting" was appointed to be held at the Mission House October 5, 1891. The results are stated in The Chronicle as follows:

Convinced that prayer was the only atmosphere in which the "Forward Movement" could live and come to maturity, our sisters led the way. They met to pray, nor did they meet in vain. In no previous period of the Society's history have anything like so many offers of service from women been received; never have the offers been of such promise and interest.

This "All Day Prayer-meeting" occupied even hours, and was characterized by great fervor and tenderness of feeling throughout. Another special Day of Prayer was held in March, 1892, and now a plan of establishing a Prayer Union as a permanent organization has been formulated, and still another All Day Woman's Prayer-meeting was called to meet at the Mission House on November 7, from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m.

The Presbyterian Church of England appointed a Week of United Prayer for Missions, beginning on Thursday, November 24, 1892, and a scheme of topics for prayer was prepared suggesting for each day of the week some one side of the mission work as the special matter of petition. The Monthly Messenger remarks in this connection:

Nor will it be overlooked, we are sure, that in praying for the growth of a missionary spirit among ourselves we are asking God not only to send means and workers to carry on our missions with efficiency and enthusiasm, but also to give us that which will bless ourselves. It is a law of spiritual health and happiness, as fixed as the law of gravitation, that the missionary church is the church which is alive and pure and blessed.

Letters.

JAPAN.

THE FIRST CHRISTIAN LITERATURE.

Referring to the contemplated return of Dr. James C. Hepburn to the United States because of increasing infirmities, Dr. D. B. McCartee of our Eastern Japan Mission writes:—

Dr. Hepburn will be remembered for his kind and genial Christian character, for his share in the translation of our Holy Scriptures into the Japanese written language, and for his Dictionary, which has been of incalculable benefit to the missionaries, officials, and all those whose calling or taste led them to cultivate the study of the Japanese written and spoken language. To such it will remain indispensable for a long time to come. But there are other important labors of which many of the later generation of missionaries are scarcely cognizant. More than thirty years ago, when the severe laws against Christianity rendered it impossible to preach the Gospel openly, or to print Christian tracts in Japan, Dr. Hepburn imported from China religious tracts written in the language of that country, by our missionaries there, and distributed them to the patients who came to his dispensary. But though the literary Japanese could read and understand books written in Chinese, to the common people they were only slightly intelligible. Among the tracts referred to was one written by one of our first missionaries in China and which is still printed and largely distributed in that country. It occurred to Mrs.

Hepburn, to endeavor with the aid of a Japanese teacher, to translate this tract, entitled, An Easy Introduction to Christian Doctrine, into Japanese; but Mrs. Hepburn being obliged to return temporarily to the United States, Dr. Hepburn took it up and completed the translation. It was written in the mixed Japanese and Chinese characters, but could not be printed in Japan, and was therefore sent to Shanghai, where an edition of 5,000 copies printed from wooden blocks, cut from the Japanese manuscript, was issued from our mission press. This tract is of historic interest as being the first tract printed and distributed in Japan by the missionaries, in modern times at least. I translate from "the Evangelist" (or Fuka in Shimpō) the religious weekly paper subsidized by our own and the Reformed Church Missions, some portions of an article on Christian literature in Japan. The editor describes the "Easy Introduction to Christian Doctrine" as "a small tract in the Chinese language explaining very clearly and concisely the important facts of the Christian Doctrine, the benefit of which in the work of evangelization was by no means small at that time." "The Story of the Cross" (another tract written by Dr. Hepburn) "had not yet been published. Although the literary style of the translator was not, as we think, very perfect and the printing from the wooden blocks was not very clearly or skillfully executed, yet the book was the medium (lit. middleman or mediator) by which Christianity was introduced to the Japanese. A very large number of copies of this tract were distributed by Dr. Hepburn from his hospital. Afterwards a revised and corrected edition was printed with movable type, and published by the British Tract Society. We think that no other tract has ever been so widely distributed in Japan as this one.

LAOS.

FIRST LAOS TRACT.

REV. W. C. DODD, Lampon :—We have made a decided advance in personal work this year. Last year we were glad to be able to report that all the pupils as well as the teachers were engaged in evangelical work somewhere every Sabbath. This year, nearly all the men make it a matter of conscience to do some personal work every day. We have now a Laos tract printed. Through the school more than three hundred copies of it have been distributed already; and it is going daily into new homes. It has made many intellectual converts, and we believe some heart converts. It is popular, not as the Siamese Scriptures or catechism, simply as reading books, but on account of what it tells intelligibly. Of course, I do not mean to say that there are not plenty of Laos Christians who read the Siamese books with a sincere effort to understand them; but their popularity with outsiders is largely as text books from which to learn to read. I did not know beforehand how much more useful we should find the Laos. There is scarcely a home anywhere that cannot furnish some one who can read the Laos tract to the family: while the number who can read the Siamese is very small, surely not one house in ten. And here in the Lampon province, at least, I find that the Laos printed book is more popular than I had feared it would be. Siamese dialect being the language of the capital, and of the courts, has a certain prestige which has always seemed to me to be unnaturally large.

READING AND CHURCH GROWTH.

Through the combined influence of one Laos book and the faithfulness of the students, there has been a healthy growth in the church here. In the six months and a little more of its history, there have been 39 adults and 22 children brought into covenant relation with Jehovah; or over 32 per cent. increase in adults, and more than 22 per cent. increase of infants or non-communing members.

At our last Communion there were four more candidates received on probation, one of them being a young prince. His family have recently become believers. He has been with me in the Training School for some time, and has been making splendid progress in his studies. His younger brother was with Mr. Collins a while last term. The coming of this family of noble blood, if they prove faithful, will undoubtedly have influence in the province. There are several other princes who seem to be favorably inclined; but like many others they are not fully decided. Perhaps it would only be fair to say that they are more undecided than others.

LAOS MEDICAL WORK.

The development of medical work here has been successful far beyond our expectations, and with our limited force and lack of all medical knowledge and training, it has almost gone beyond our desire. We have treated over 426 cases up to this moment. I have stopped half a dozen times since I began writing this letter to attend to patients. The whole number of patients since last November is more than 500. The number in June was 131, the highest number any one day, 15. Of course, these figures would not seem large compared with the Canton Hospital record. But medical work is not supposed to be established here yet at all. There is no physician, foreign or native, no hospital and no dispensary. Dr. McKean simply put a few medicines into our pantry with careful directions as to when and how, and for what to give them. And Mrs. Dodd and I, in addition to the other work, have done the best we could with the medicines. In most cases, God has blessed Dr. McKean's skill in their preparation to the saving of life and relief of suffering.

Dr. McKean has been very kind in every way in helping us here. He has made as frequent visits as he could. He has secured the services of a native assistant whom we expect soon to come and take charge of the medical work. We are hoping soon to obtain a grant of land from the Government for medical purposes.

KOREA.

EUIJU VIA MANCHURIA.

C. C. VINTON, M. D., Seoul.—I spent a month of the summer in making a trip to Euiju and in medical work there. Instead of following the beaten route of two weeks' arduous journeying by pack-pony over the mountains and plains of Korea, at Mr. Moffett's suggestion I proceeded by steamship to Newchwang, the busy seaport of Manchuria. Here I found many very kind people, although no missionaries, and by their aid I was soon able to engage a cart to transport me with my boxes and my Korean assistant across the province to the Yalu river. Our start was made early in the morning and during most of that day we travelled under a burning sun over the flat plain that borders the Newchwang river. It was not until the second morning that we struck fairly into the lovely hill country of which this belt at least, of Manchuria, is composed.

A CHINESE CART is a peculiar institution and has often been described. I found it most convenient to establish myself upon the shaft, swinging my feet beside the trace-rope of the near leader. In the depth of the cart were stowed a couple of boxes, together with all our loose wares, rubber boots, rain coat and bedding, upon which latter my medical assistant and Chinese boy arranged themselves cross-legged with a compactness and facility which aroused my envy, if not my emulation. Thus freighted our vehicle was ready to encounter all weather and all roads in its six days' progress across the peninsula. In truth both were exasperating enough, the former by reason of the heat, the latter because of roughness. We made certainly more than a hundred fordings of streams, often crossing the same one again and again. The land knows no bridges, and consequently when the streams are high communication along these roads is cut off for days at a time.

CURIOUS EYES.—My special grievance was the crowd of curious eyes that gathered to fasten on me at every step, and the hands far too ready to handle all my belongings. But these are to be expected everywhere throughout the East. And although this is the province said to have been in rebellion last winter, and Chinese officials are just coming to learn of the brutal law of exclusion from America, I found no reason to apprehend violence. Indeed I was told on all hands that the so-called rebellion had been only an uprising of some thousands of robbers against one or two cities which they plundered, and that they dispersed far in advance of the troops, who were reported to have slaughtered them so bravely.

Tuesday, July 26th, saw me crossing the blazing sands of the Yalu and welcomed, as I stepped from the leaky dug-out that had ferried me over its fourth and last stream, by Mr. Moffett who had seen no white face in nearly two months. I felt myself quite a rescuing party when I found how much he stood in need of other food and other companionship than that he had been having.

BEGINNINGS IN EULJU.—Our property in Euiju is well situated, just within the town and yet surrounded by native houses.

I found several Christians in the habit of resorting there each Sabbath, even from considerable distances, for worship. Still the native Christians of Euiju are as yet to be counted upon the fingers of one hand.

Mr. Moffett had spent the summer in teaching and explaining to all comers until nearly all his neighbors had ceased attendance from fear of being stigmatized as Christians. My coming gave them a new excuse for visiting the house, and for nearly two weeks its "serang" became a constantly animated scene of medical treatment and scriptural instruction.

PROGRESS IN WEST JAPAN.

REV. M. C. HAYS, KANAZAWA.

The First Church, of Kanazawa, or as it is commonly called from its location upon the street of that name, the Ishiuramachi Church, was organized in May, 1881, with thirteen members, and celebrated its tenth anniversary in September, 1891, by occupying and dedicating its fine new building. The former building upon the same site was destroyed during the previous winter by the extraordinary fall of snow. But soon an earnest spirit to rebuild was manifested and within a few weeks about $800 in United States gold, was raised, an addition to the former lot was secured and a new church far larger and more convenient than the old one was under way. The church was dedicated free from debt and that which threatened greatly to hinder the work has turned out to be a blessing. The present membership is one hundred and seventy-eight, of which number, however, but one hundred and nine live in this city. The rest being scattered along the coast in the other cities where we have work but where there are no organized churches as yet. In Kanazawa we have another church of about fifty members, while scattered through the city are several preaching places, the whole number of Sunday-schools being eight with about three hundred scholars. Besides our work, the Canadian Methodist Mission, begun two years ago, has three preaching places and about forty members. When I came to Kanazawa in 1887, there was but one foreign male missionary in this whole region and work started in only two other places besides Kanazawa. Now, however, there are five in this city and two each in Toyama and Fukui. The number of lady missionaries has increased from three in 1887 to seven at the present time. Outside of this city we have work well started in six other cities of from 8,000 to 50,000 inhabitants and the whole number of Japanese workers has increased from four men in 1887 to ten men in 1892, while the Methodists have four native helpers. When we consider how many laborers the Lord of the harvest has sent into this portion of his vineyard, our hearts are filled with gratitude, and as we see the progress which has been made in the past we are able to look forward to the future with the greatest confidence. When in 1879 Rev. T. C. Winn, came to this distant part of the empire, the Gospel had never been heard by its two million inhabitants. Now hundreds of souls have been born into the Kingdom, and a vast amount of seed has been sown which in no distant future will spring up in hundreds of hearts. Opposition and superstition are giving way before knowledge, a dozen young men are in our schools on their way to the ministry, young women also are being educated to do Bible work in still larger numbers, the Gospel is preached and the Bible read in a dozen cities and I believe that the beginning of the twentieth century will find a thousand Christians here for every hundred now. Will you not pray that it may indeed be so?

CHOLERA AND FEVER.

REV. H. C. VELTE, Lahore:—We have had a very trying year; it has been very hot and after the dry season, since the rains began, it has been very unhealthy. I have not known so bad a season for sickness in India. Cholera broke out early in the year, when the College was in full swing, and you can imagine our anxiety, with our boarding houses over-crowded with students. We had then about 125 boarders in our boarding houses. The principal of the Government College, Dr. Stupnayel, died of cholera very suddenly. One of our students was attacked and died, but he lived outside of the college compound. In the Medical College some five or six students died. When the rains began the epidemic seemed to disappear, but it was only for a short time. It soon broke out again, and became much worse than before. It was of a very malignant type, nearly all who were attacked succumbing to the disease. Thousands of people in the city and district have been carried off during the last month. The sickness was raging all around us, and I was alone in Lahore, feeling very anxious about our people. One of the deacons of our church, a Mr. Christopher, was attacked and died within less than twelve hours. I asked him whether he trusted in Christ. He replied, "Christ says, 'My peace I leave with you, my peace I give unto you', I have got that peace, but oh my wife and children!" The cholera is now abating, but it is not all over yet. Fever is very prevalent, and the number of patients at our dispensary has more than doubled during the last two weeks. Our supply of medicines is being exhausted, and our native doctor came to me a few days ago, asking me what he was to do. He did not wish to run beyond the appropriation, and yet the sick and dying could not be turned off. I told him to go on and buy such medicines as were needed, and I would see afterwards what could be done.

A CONVERTED FAQUIR.

REV. K. C. CHATTERJEE, Hoshyarpore:—Inquirers have daily come to me for instruction and advice. One of these named Ramgir, I baptized. He was a Rajput Hindu and left his home and family twelve years ago and became a Faquir in quest of peace and true happiness. For these he vainly sought in the ascetic practices of the country. He was at last persuaded to look for them in Christianity and visited me for this purpose. After reading one of the Gospels his mind was satisfied and he found that peace which Jesus alone can give and which the world can neither give nor take away. He looks happy and continues to study the word of God.

KOREA.

WELCOME TO KOREA.

Rev. S. F. Moore, Seoul: This cool morning air is bracing, and the sunshine which floods the city and streams in at the windows is a trifle better than the U. S. article. We are very comfortably housed in the guest room of Mr. and Mrs. Gifford. Our freight, the last of it, is on the way up from Chemulpo, and we hope soon to be in our own home. The heathenism of Korea is more unadulterated; the climate more invigorating, and the missionaries already here even more congenial than we had expected. Tuesday noon, with the inrolling tide, we steamed up the river Han for home. The breaking of several wooden cogs in the large wheel detained us so much that it was 10 o'clock when we landed. Dr. Vinton and Mr. Moffett were on hand with sedan chairs for the ladies. After an hour's tramp through the suburban streets (street is hardly the word, as in some of them one can stand in the center and touch the wall on either side with the elbows) we came to the gate. The gates close at eight o'clock and the penalty for opening them to a tardy stranger is decapitation. A small hole at the bottom allows the dogs (privileged characters in Korea) to come and go at all hours. Baby Brown was the only one of our party small enough and humble enough to enter through the dog hole. The rest of us, with the aid of a rope let down from above, scaled the twenty foot wall without much difficulty, as there are many crevices which answer for foot holds. Dinner was waiting at Dr. Vinton's, and as we had had only a lunch on the boat, our midnight meal was keenly relished. Mrs. Gifford, Miss Doty, and Mrs. Vinton, were there to welcome us.

FELLOWSHIP AT SEA.

We sailed from San Francisco August 16, and reached Chemulpo Sep. 19. The sea ceased from her raging during the greater part of the time. Some days there was hardly a ripple. There were fourteen missionaries on board the "Oceanic." Our daily meetings for conference, praise and prayer, were a great blessing to all who were well enough to enjoy them. The hours of Bible study were much enjoyed. The only unfavorable criticism of our meetings was as to the time, there was never enough of it.

We received most cordial greeting and entertainment in Honolulu where we stopped one day. We were driven about the lovely city, past the banana gardens; cocoanuts, dates, pineapples, etc., we saw growing for the first time. Mr. Damon and his friends know how to speak words in season, and we left them thanking God and taking courage.

FIRST ORIENTAL EXPERIENCES.

The six days of waiting in Yokohama were a sort of introduction to Orientalism. We spent one day at Kamakura where we saw the great Dai Butsu—one of the largest images of Buddha in the world, ninety-seven feet in circumference. The image, like Buddhism, is hollow, and we went inside and climbed up to the top of the great bronze casting. We saw a pilgrim worshipping there, and in the temple at Tokio we saw the people throw their money into the box, clap their hands to attract the gods' attention and then kneel muttering prayers to gods which see not, nor hear, nor know. A million heathen in that one city alone, and a handful of missionaries! Truly the harvest is great and the laborers are few! Some of us had thought the Japanese quite civilized, and were surprised to see so many wearing no raiment save a breech-cloth. We spent two days at Kobe, being detained one day by a typhoon. Our Congregational cousins made our stay very pleasant.

Two days later, at Nagasaki, we found the (Dutch) Reformed brethren at work in the school. There are upwards of fifteen in the Theological Department of the "Boys' School."

SEARCHING THE SCRIPTURES.

Rev. Samuel A. Moffett, Eui Ju: I find great encouragement in being able to report five or six men who seem to have a real hold on the truth and are rejoicing in it, and in the fact that large numbers of the people have learned what the Gospel is; many are quietly searching the Scriptures and there is an evident conviction on the part of many that this is the truth. I heard of quite a number who had given up the worship of evil spirits and I feel that a great deal has been done towards getting the people to think about and to talk over this new doctrine. Good seed was sown in the minds of a great many children and some of them will yet be preachers of the Word. I enrolled several applicants for baptism, one of whom gives me great joy because of his perfect willingness to let it be known that he is a Christian. He was a constant attendant upon the Bible class and the Sunday service, and he told me he had given up the worship of evil spirits and that every night he assembled his household to hear him read from the Gospels or other Christian books. He charged me to tell the people in Seoul that he had become a Christian.

I look upon the summer Bible class as the most profitable part of my work and the one which will have the greatest effect in preparing for a harvest. A class of twelve men from eight towns and villages were with me for fifteen days and they were taken through a course of instruction on the main doctrine of Scripture. They spent two hours each day with me and in the afternoon went over the same Bible readings with Mr. Paik, who more fully explained to them what I had taught them in the morning. One of the attendants upon the class was an old man of seventy-seven who came one hundred and fifty li in order to learn more fully of that which he had heard in the country.

HOME MISSIONS.

NEW ENGLAND—WHITHER?

The "Churchman" recently published a sermon by an Episcopal clergyman in Maine, on "Impending Paganism in New England." The subject is of itself sufficiently suggestive and startling. The suggestion that staid and sober New England is lapsing and deteriorating in the rear, while the Church of Christ is pressing westward to cope with the forces of evil in front, presents a state of things which, whether as fact or as possibility, is certainly disheartening. But some of the statistics given, on such authority in part as that of President Hyde of Bowdoin College, are more definitely significant. Waldo County, for instance, the county in which the city of Belfast is included, has 6,987 families and 4,850 of these attend no church. Cumberland County which contains Portland, has 19,792 families, of which 7,267 attend no church. Oxford, a large county adjoining New Hampshire, has 7,288 families, 4,577 not attending church. Somerset, a large northern county, has 6,974 families, of which 4,577 attend no church. Fifteen out of the sixteen in the state have 133,445 families. of which 63,665, or nearly half, attend no church.

A missionary reports to the Evangelistic Association of New England that in ninety-five towns in Maine no regular Sunday service is held, and that in that state his chief work, apart from preaching was to gather information about uncared-for towns.

Figures and facts like these seem to warrant the inference that there must be many sections of our older states which need home mission work as really as the new West, and masses of people there as neglected and destitute spiritually as the southern mountain whites.

But such facts as these also suggest some obvious reflections with reference to the home mission work of our own church in New England.

Our work there has hitherto been to provide with the means of grace after Presbyterian fashion the tens of thousands of Scotch and Scotch-Irish operatives who have been new-comers within the last few years. But, without jostling any one else, we may find in time a larger scope among these unevangelized masses. The Presbytery of Boston, which includes all our work in New England, has surpassed all but two or three presbyteries in our whole church in material and spiritual growth. Most of its 37 churches are still dependent on the Board. Only two of them so far are in Maine, one at Portland, and the other at Houlton, near the eastern boundary. But whenever the presbytery shall reach, as surely it may, the point of vigorous aggressiveness, it will find as genuine a home mission field as our whole land can offer in such sections as those whose destitution is above described.

JOSEPH OF CHILCAT.

REV. B. B. AUSTIN, SITKA.

Our friend has passed away to the better land. He came to the house several years ago; had several severe attacks of rheumatism, of which he was cured several times, but on the slightest exposure it would return. He had evidently been troubled with it for years before he came to live with us, as his knees were covered with ugly looking scars where the natives had cut him with their knives to cure him. This is a favorite mode of treatment with them to cure pains. He thought if he went to the ranch and lived on native food it might help him, and he was permitted to try the experiment. It did not prove beneficial as he had hoped, for he was soon confined to his bed a helpless cripple. The hovel where he lived was not fit for an animal to live in, much less a human being. The sides of the building were so decayed that they had to be supported by props to keep them from falling. A few boards in the soft mud answered for a floor. The rain and snow came through the roof into his bed, notwithstanding he had an old sail stretched over it. His old, infirm mother waited upon him as best she could, but he would have starved except for the food carried to him from the Mission. His pale face, so marked with pain, used to haunt me at night. In one of my letters to Mrs. Elliott F. Shepard I mentioned his case, and that noble generous Christian lady gave us the money to build our boy's hospital. As soon as it was finished, Joseph was transferred from his wretched hovel to it. I shall never forget the change in his appearance, and the deep gratitude he expressed, and looked, when I told him he could thank this generous lady for it all; that Jesus had put it into her heart to do such kind things for God's poor children. He was beyond help, and he wasted away day by day until he became a living skeleton. His feet were drawn up until they nearly touched his hips; his fingers twisted out of shape, jaws set so that he could only eat liquid food, and he could rest in one position only. So he has lived, or rather died daily, month after month. He has been a preacher to all at the Mission, both teachers and scholars. He was the personification of patience, never murmuring nor complaining. Almost always a peaceful smile rested on his face, and in answer to my question, "How do you do, to-day, Joseph?" He always replied, "Just the same." I said to him one day that God often sent afflictions upon us to save us, or to make us better, quoting the words of the psalmist, "Before I was afflicted I went astray." He answered, "That is my case. When I left the school and went to the Indian village I was so discouraged at the failure of all my hopes and plans, I fully intended to live a bad life like my people. This sickness prevented me from doing so, and I thank God for sending it." He had a longing desire to unite with the church, and on June 7, 1891, we went with our native elders from the church to the hospital, received him into the church and administered the communion to him. It seemed to give him great comfort, and we felt sure that the Master was present. It was good to be there. I saw him about an hour before he died, and he said, "I feel very different this morning," but I did not think he was so near the end of his journey. He asked Kendall (a namesake of Dr. Kendall) a little boy who watched by his side, to pray for him, and to read the fourteenth chapter of John. I had spoken to him about this chapter, perhaps a week before, as one of his friends, a Chilcat girl named Ann, died a few years since repeating with her last breath, "Let not your heart be troubled," etc. Just before he passed away he exclaimed, "The Angels! O don't you see the Angels?" What a picture, this little native boy not more than ten or twelve years of age, reading and praying with his dying companion. What a change for this poor sufferer—from a hospital to heaven—from misery to glory.

NOTES ON THE SYNODS.

The Synod of Wisconsin met at Eau Claire, Oct. 13th, and continued its sessions over the following Sabbath. It was warmly welcomed to the commodious and beautiful new church barely completed in time to receive it, the erection of which does vast credit to the congregation and their energetic pastor, Rev. Wm. N. Sloan. The synod has five presbyteries, 126 ministers, 146 churches and 11,466 communicants. Presbyterian strength in the state is relatively not what it should be. Our work lagged for several years for want of system and supervision, and other denominations left us behind. Three years ago Dr. W. D. Thomas was chosen superintendent of missions, and his energetic work has wrought great improvement. Wisconsin is in some respects a peculiarly difficult field. It is said to have a larger foreign element proportionately than any other state except Rhode Island. Its population is said to half German and two-thirds foreign. Milwaukee is two-thirds German and La Crosse three-fourths. While the field for work is inviting and urgent, there are great obstacles in the line of irreligion and infidelity. Our work has been begun and has made some progress in all the different lines open to us. The Rev. Knud Knudson has been pushing work among the Scandinavians. The Bohemian community at Melnik, in Manitowoc Co., has this last year reared a church building and a parsonage, and a church has been organized under the pastoral care of the Rev. Joseph Balcar, whose persistence under difficulties bids fair to be largely rewarded. There is also good and growing work among Germans and French. But there ought to be vastly more. Rev. James Todd was a few months ago appointed synodical evangelist, and his beginning of pioneer aggressive work promises well. The churches of synod gave the Board last year about $4000, and received from the Board more than three times that amount, though some $1400 less than the year before.

Nearly half the ministers of synod were present at the meeting, and the sessions manifested a vigorous and practical interest in missions and church extension. Eleven newly-organized churches and nineteen new fields were reported among the results of the year, during which it was said that home mission work has been pushed with more vigor and greater success than ever before. A large popular meeting on Sunday evening listened to addresses by the attending secretaries of the Home and Foreign Boards.

The Synod of Illinois had an unusually pleasant meeting at Jerseyville, beginning Oct. 18th. Few were present from Chicago and its vicinity, very naturally, and yet the attendance was large, and the sessions were marked with zeal and enthusiasm. There was a notable generality and brotherliness of feeling which was most delightful. The attending secretary of the Home Board was put twice on the program—once at the morning session, after the report on home missions, and again at the large and earnest popular meeting in the evening. The ample accommodations of the fine church, the generous entertainment of the members of synod, and the hearty hospitality of the manse and the pastor,—Rev. Dr. Tyson, a valued friend for a generation—all tended to enhance the pleasure of a most satisfactory and successful meeting.

Illinois is a powerful synod, with eleven presbyteries, 432 ministers, 492 churches, and 56,211 communicants. It gave the Board last year $40,382, a falling off of more than $2,000 from the year before; and received from the Board about $20,000, or half as much as it gave, and some $2,600 more than it received the year before. Its scheme of four synodical evangelists, inaugurated some four years ago, had been found helpful, but has not been fully and thoroughly maintained, and probably will be replaced by other arrangements. The Presbytery of Chicago is of course far the strongest of the eleven presbyteries, and with the Presbyterian League and the Social Union is gathering up its energies to set about the vast task of the great city's evangelization. It is said that 400,000 of the population, or at least, one-third, have no church affiliation whatever.

NOTES.

A novel and unusual sensation came recently to the office of the Board, in the shape of a letter from a missionary in California, acknowledging receipt of an agreement with a reduced appropriation, and adding:

"I sincerely thank you for making this reduction, for under the circumstances I think it is all we should receive. We will be by no means straitened to live in this neighborhood on $750. Yet I have no doubt the people will make up the fifty."

There is genuine and singular self-denial in such a reception of a reduced appropriation, with a salary by no means large. With a less burdened treasury, the Board would no doubt have gladly granted the full sum applied for. There are many such hard cases in this time of dearth, but such kindly and contented acquiescence is not common—and no wonder.

Rev. Andrew Wormser reports the organization of the First Holland Presbyterian church at Manhattan, Montana, with fourteen communicants and sixteen baptized members, with prospect of further additions before long. It is stated that the church has pledged to the Board of Home Missions $4 per member annually, which is much beyond the average gifts of any other church in the Presbytery of Montana. The congregation belongs to a recent colony from Holland, brought over by Mr. Wormser under Presbyterian auspices, and probably soon to be increased by similar immigration. The excellent material already secured and favoring conditions give promise of the establishment of a vigorous and prosperous Presbyterian church and community. Notices of this church and colony come to us in the Light of the Valley, a bright little Presbyterian paper issued monthly at Bozeman, with Mr. Wormser as editor.

Rev. T. S. Bailey, D. D., synodical missionary of Iowa, who manages his wide field with great wisdom and tireless vigor, gives in his report of the synodical year just ended a full and detailed descriptive list of thirty-nine fields now vacant among the 374 churches of the synod's nine presbyteries. Some of these vacancies are due to the return of students to the seminaries after a summer's effective work. As described, these vacancies, almost without exception, are attractive and promising, and afford openings for useful and hopeful work.

Rev. A. E. Austin, principal of the Sitka Training-school, thinks the new church edifice there the finest building of its kind in the Territory. It was built by our boys under the direction of our carpenter. The galleries are made of panels of yellow and red cedar alternating, varnished, so that they show the grain of the wood. The pews are treated in the same way. The wainscoting around the sides of the church, for some four feet above the floor, is also varnished. The pulpit is made of native wood, yellow cedar trimmed with red cedar. A small cross of red cedar is inlaid in the upright panel of yellow cedar; it is greatly admired by visitors. The sides of the church are painted in a French gray and the ceiling a pale blue. The galleries are a great curiosity to the natives; one of them after examining them for a long time said that "he was going to build a house with them in it." Our school room was much too small for our congregation, and our church supplies our need.

BRITTON, N. D.—Rev. D. M. Butt writes of an addition to his church building, which will cost $1200, and says that his people will be taxed heavily to pay for it, but he is sure it will all be paid for before it is finished. He adds:

The work is moving, but I would like it to move faster. And I grow discouraged and feel like giving the field into some other hands. But I have been with this people through hard times, and I know how straitened they are, and because they are my first charge I love them, and I have great reluctance to leave.

Evidently the writer of the above is not the hireling of whom our Saviour speaks, who fleeth because he is a hireling, and careth not for the sheep, but a true and faithful shepherd.

NORTH DAKOTA.

REV. F. M. WOOD, S. M.

In 1871, Home Missions began its work in North Dakota. Before this, only Chaplains in forts and Missionaries among Indians were at their work. To the white population the Missionary had not yet come.

With the crossing of the N. P. R. R. over the Red River of the North, came the first signs of a boom which lasted for years. In the vanguard of it stood Rev. O. E. Elmer, ministering to the people of Fargo. Not another joined him in the territory till 1873, when Father Sloan placed two hundred miles between him and this first station, and formed a second at Bismarck. This became the first organized church. Until 1875 no one disputed the ground. North Dakota was exclusively Presbyterian, with two ministers and one church, and a preaching station.

From that time on, several denominations have vied with each other to lift the banner of the cross and plant churches. Presbyterianism has organized over one hundred churches which now have a membership of over three thousand, and have employed during the past year about seventy ministers and students.

The work still presses, and men and means are inadequate to the demands. We need at once a dozen men.

The Board of Home Missions has contributed toward the support of missionaries about $14,000 during the year, and the field has raised double that amount, besides spending a large amount in buildings and improvements.

The Board of Church Erection comes to the aid of these struggling churches to help push the edifices and parsonages.

We are just now pressing on the attention of the churches the need of buildings, as it is said there are more unhoused churches in North Dakota than anywhere else in the nation. We have only fifty-seven church buildings in all, and twenty-two parsonages.

This makes work in many fields uninviting and difficult. Where houses of worship and houses for ministers are provided, it is easier to obtain men and keep them.

The Boards, therefore, want funds to furnish these and to support men, of which North Dakota needs a generous share,

A synodical missionary in the central west illustrates the unchangeable spirit of Rome by telling that in the neighborhood of a newly-organized Presbyterian church two girls were recently whipped by the priest because one did not attend mass regularly and the other "banged" her hair.

GROWTH IN CALIFORNIA.

Rev. Thos. Fraser, D. D., was Synodical Missionary on the Pacific coast 15 years; from '68 to '83. Visiting Stockton Presbytery in session at Fowler, Oct., 19, 1892, he spoke of a tour through this region 23 years ago, when we had one church south of Stockton; now we have 20. He also said that at that time we had no church on the coast south of Watsonville. Now San Jose Presbytery has 8, and Los Angeles Presbytery has 76; a growth from 1 to 104 in the territory south of Stockton and Watsonville.

Rev. A. C. Reed, of the Presbytery of Troy, is marked "without charge" in the "minutes" of 1892, who has been the very acceptable minister of the Coronado church more than a year, and persistently declines to receive aid from the Board. He is a home missionary of the self-supporting variety, and this not because of personal wealth, but by wise economy and great self-sacrifice. He is an exceedingly useful variety of "W. C." If Troy Presbytery has any more of this variety, California would welcome a number of them.

In Southern California, Rev. F. D. Seward, S. M., reports six churches in San Jose Presbytery, and four in Los Angeles Presbytery, that have become self-supporting during the year 1892.

In the Southern half of Stockton Presbytery, he says that two of the ten churches are self-supporting: three are in charge of three home missionaries; five are vacant.

In San Jose Presbytery, of thirty churches, nineteen are self-supporting.

In the Los Angeles Presbytery, of seventy-six churches twenty are self-supporting; forty-two are served by twenty-nine home missionaries; one is a Chinese church, dependant on the Board of Foreign Missions; four are vacant. Some of these are occasionally supplied by the Synodical Missionary.

Mr. Seward's observations in his field, move him to emphasize the value and economy of mansees, as well as the comfort and encouragement to "the mistress of the manse" and her home-needing consort.

The Portuguese work is important in the San Jose Presbytery; ten thousand Portuguese already settled between Oakland and San Jose—more coming—have bought land and are prospering, only one Protestant minister among them, Rev. J. F. Cherry at San Leandro. A good lady has furnished him a horse and cart.

UTAH.

Rev. James Thompson, of Smithfield, says: "There are many young men here not committed to the endowment oaths who would break entirely away from priestly denomination, if it were not for their environment. But it would be impossible to make an American citizen of an initiated Mormon while he remained such.

WHERE THE PEOPLE LIVE.

I was talking to a Mormon the other day about the moral state of this place in particular and Utah in general, chiefly in regard to temperance and chastity, and this is what he said in substance. "The saloon here pays more money for license than the total taxes of Smithfield and yet it is well-known that not a single Gentile patronizes that saloon." In regard to the question of chastity, he said "that the most foolish thing the Mormons could do was to deny the practice of Polygamy. The report of the Utah Commission is an awkward commentary on Wilford Woodruff's 'Manifesto.' The Polygamists are convicted in the courts by the hundreds. There is nothing that would so fully expose the system of Mormonism as an old-fashioned revival, and by God's help we will carry the battle to the enemies gates this winter with our little united band of workers."

The Christian Steward quotes from "Our German Work," a new paper in the interest of the German Presbyterian Theological Seminary at Dubuque, the statement that it pays to carry on the work among the Germans; and by way of proof gives some significant statistics. The Presbytery of Dubuque has nine German churches, eight of which are self-supporting, and twenty-eight English-speaking churches, of which only five are self-supporting. In Iowa half of the English-speaking churches receive Home Mission aid, while only one-sixth of the German churches receive it. The Ninety-nine German Presbyterian churches in the Northwest gave last year to benevolent objects an average of $1.44 per member, an average larger than that of several Synods, though falling considerable short of the average for the whole church, $5.124. Such facts certainly make the statement good—if it needs to be made good at all—that “it pays to carry on work among the Germans.”

“The Christian Steward” also tells of receiving a gift for Foreign Missions, the giver explaining that no opportunity of making the contribution was afforded them in the church they attend. Of course this may have been a church of another denomination. But it would be worth while to find out how many of the 1900 churches which give nothing to Home Missions are non-contributing for the like reason—that the cause is not put before the people at all, and they have no opportunity to give.

An extract from a recent letter from Dr. T. M. Glenn, synodical missionary in Washington, will give our readers an idea how new churches take shape and get on under difficulties in needy sections of the new West:—

At Bethany I found our faithful elder, Hugh H. McCormick, leading in the erection of a new church building. Elder Price is superintending and doing the building, while brother McCormick does the soliciting. They are erecting a $1,500 church. They have gotten just one cash subscription, of $5. But they are building the church. The Board of Church Erection has promised them $500. They have solicited and secured all the material and all the labor needed to complete the house. They need a bell. They heard of a forsaken church where the bell was not used, and have hopes to raise the means for its transportation. They will need a communion set. Who will give them one?

Rev. George F. McAfee, after three happy and prosperous years of pastoral service in St. Paul, being desired by the Board of Home Missions to take up an important work at Good Will, has consented with great pain to himself and the people whom he leaves. He says:

“I accept the new work, because I believe the Lord calls me to it, and I know He will not leave nor forsake me, nor the dear church which I leave.”

THE SYNOD OF WISCONSIN has tried, with good success, the association of evangelistic and pastoral work, with the oversight of weak mission fields and vacant churches. New fields have been thoroughly examined and tested before beginning permanent work. Weak fields have been maintained and strengthened, despondent missionaries cheered, crooked things made straight, financial difficulties overcome. So Rev. J. Todd informs us, and gives several illustrations of it.

Rev. W. D. Thomas, S. M., thinks the foreign work in Wisconsin most encouraging. Two Bohemian communities are pressing for organization of churches; three Scandinavian neighborhoods ask the same; three very important points in the southern part of the the Synod send the cry, “Come over and help us”; two or three large cities have sent strong appeals for destitute sections.

BOSTON, MASS., SCOTCH CHURCH.—Rev. S. C. Gunn writes:

“Failure in agricultural products in Eastern Nova Scotia, the region of country from which the majority of our young people come to us, render our work in securing funds more difficult, as a considerable part of their earnings are sent to relieve the necessities of the old home. Notwithstanding these hindrances we are hopeful that our church debt may be considerably reduced, and that the seventh year of our existence as a church may find the infant church of the Presbyterian family in this city self-supporting.

After speaking of their faithful contributing to the Board of the Church, Mr. Gunn adds:

“Of course these collections are not large in the eyes of those who are ignorant of our circumstances, but the Master knows our struggles to reduce our debt and become self supporting.

MINNESOTA.—Rev. R. N. Adams, testifies that this has been to him the happiest year of his service as synodical Missionary. The Board of Home Missions has helped them generously, and he finds no evidence that the help has anywhere been misapplied. “We have abandoned nothing, have been much strengthened, and have advanced all along the line.”

Fourteen churches organized, containing three hundred members; ten houses completed and five more begun; twelve church buildings completed and dedicated, all free from debt except the two largest. Six churches have become self-supporting; work of "pastors at large" more successful than was hoped. Ten graduates from Theological Seminaries received as ministers, and eleven under-graduates employed in Summer vacation—"all we could wish as to conduct and work."

"State filling up rapidly. Outlook for Scandinavian work never so hopeful."

OKLAHOMA.—Rev. John H. Aughey has organized a church at Mulhall with thirteen members; secured $1000 for church building; pushing work on building; will move up to Mulhall as soon as he can get a house; now preaches at Waterloo and Mulhall on alternate Sabbaths. Railroad fare for round trip, $5 00. Goes also from Mulhall, after preaching twice, to preach in a dug-out school-house, ten miles away.

MICHIGAN.—Rev. Chas. D. Ellis tells of good interest in church work at Saginaw; ordinary congregations never larger; prayer-meetings best ever had there; confidently looking for a work of grace. Outlook never better than to-day.

JEHOVAH's portion is his people; Jacob is the lot of his inheritance.

As an eagle that stirreth up her nest, that fluttereth over her young, He spread abroad his wings, He took them, He bore them on his pinions: JEHOVAH alone did lead him, and there was no strange god with him. He made him ride on the high places of the earth, and he did eat the increase of the field.

Beware lest thine heart be lifted up, and then forget JEHOVAH thy God. It is he that giveth the power to get wealth,

Concert of Prayer for Church Work at Home

JANUARY,	The New West.
FEBRUARY,	The Indians.
MARCH,	The Older States.
APRIL,	The Cities.
MAY,	The Mormons.
JUNE,	Our Missionaries.
JULY,	Results of the Year.
AUGUST,	Romanists and Foreigners.
SEPTEMBER,	The Outlook.
OCTOBER,	The Treasury.
NOVEMBER,	The Mexicans.
DECEMBER,	The South.

"THE NEW WEST."

Our topic has been changed in form just enough to make it explicit. Instead of "The Great West" as it formerly stood we now have it "The New West." Even this must be defined. The meridian forming the eastern boundary line of the Dakotas, Nebraska, Kansas, Indian Territory and Texas divides the United States into two unequal parts, the western part being very much the larger. But we leave Texas out, as properly belonging to the South, and add Minnesota as being a comparatively new Western state. In order to study this topic intelligently we need to have clearly in mind or before our eyes the region described. Though about half the area of the union this new West comprises but thirteen states and the five territories. This region is four times as large as the original thirteen states and has twice the population they had at the time of the adoption of the Constitution.

It has a larger population to-day than the entire nation had in 1810. Two of these "New West" states, viz:—Kansas and Minnesota, have about as many inhabitants as all the original thirteen had, and two of them, viz:—California and Montana, are nearly as large in area as all the original thirteen states.

Notwithstanding the phenomenal rapidity with which this region has been peopled, there is still but a sparse population. There is an average of but four persons to the square mile. In Idaho, Arizona, and Wyoming, the average is one person to the square mile, while in Colorado the average is four. In Kansas there are seventeen; in Minnesota, fifteen; in California, eight. Nebraska has fourteen; North Dakota, nearly three; and South Dakota, more than four. Oklahoma Territory, which has been settled less than three years, received an average of two persons to the square mile in less than an hour on its birth day.

Nearly all the states, most sparsely settled, have been most recently reached by railroads, but they have, with a single possible exception, resources surpassing those more thickly settled. If it be true, as has been repeatedly asserted, that there is not elsewhere upon the face of the earth, a region capable of sustaining a denser population than this can sustain, what must we expect and prepare for in the immediate future? China has an average of 121 to the square mile. At that rate, our "New West" would sustain a population of two hundred millions.

The region formerly known as the plains, is a regular grade, rising from Iowa and Missouri, at three hundred feet above sea level, to the foot of the Rocky Mountains, five thousand feet. This vast region is covered with an immensely fertile soil, washed down through the ages from the great Western mountains. They were considered arid by the superficial observers of the earlier days, but later research has demonstrated the fact, that underneath this vast region are flowing perpetual streams of pure water from the mountains, ready to burst forth into cool fountains or flowing wells wherever the industry of man has invited it forth. And those majestic mountains are God's provision for watering the valleys and the plains. They tread across the path of the prevailing Western winds so that their high peaks may catch the clouds from the Pacific and wring them dry and treasure their waters in the form of snow in their deep gorges, whence they are distributed perpetually and economically over the regions below.

If it be true, as every authority on the subject asserts, that about one-half of this western region is arable and the other comprises forests, grazing lands and mineral mountains, we must expect at an early day a denser population than we have in the states eastward. Now if we bear in mind two things, viz:—the vastly greater resources and the superior facilities for developing them and populating the country, we can easily account for the more rapid growth which they have had, and we will expect greater things in the immediate future.

At this point it would be interesting to introduce statistical evidence of the utterly inadequate supply of ministers and churches, but space forbids. Take two facts:—So far from being aggressive in missionary operations the Board has had to defend itself every month against the important call of the western communities for the means of grace.

But what is the character of the population that is filling up that region? Many of them are the children of the older churches in the Eastern states, who have gone out into the perils of that new country. Many are of the very best of the immigration from foreign countries, but alas! many are of the worst and most lawless classes which the great cities of our own and other countries produce. These intermingling elements are not evolving godliness or building churches nor producing the fruits of righteousness. They are not dominated by the noble and single purpose which led our forefathers to settle the early colonies. They are there for gold, for silver, for wealth and power. And if it be true that we have not adequately provided for the spiritual interests of this region as it now is, the prospects before us are certainly alarming.

Our country has no back door, as other countries have, through which to expel the lawless and pauper and criminal classes, but we stand four fronts to the world, and through all our doors are pouring into our midst the worthless classes of all the earth, and we are compelled to absorb them in some fashion into our own social and civil life. Can we do it safely without stronger and more decided gospel influences? Instead of weakening our forces do we not need to redouble them? We cannot do this work by odd jobs: we must swell the stream of gospel influences, give it greater vigor and a wider sweep; and we must see that it maintains a steadier flow.

The Church was never relatively as rich as it is to-day, and yet it never fell so far behind the growth of the country, in all its history, as it has at this time. Dr. Crosby said: "The trouble is, the Church is too rich." The opportunities and responsibility have increased with the increase of wealth; but churches have not increased their contributions in the same ratio.

Letters.

SOUTH DAKOTA.

BOHEMIANS BECOMING AMERICANS.

Rev John Linka writes of the Bohemian Church in Eagle, Brule County: The attendance at the Divine service is always large, and in the last two months several Catholic families attend sermons and Sunday-schools and even Thursday night singing exercises. Several farmers bought new buggies that their long ride to church (often 8 miles) might be more comfortable for wife and children. It is a nice sight, never to be seen anywhere in Europe, when every Sunday the church is besieged by wagons and buggies with a great flock of horses tied at the wagons, or to poles fixed round the church. Regularly all the people who are present at the Divine service remain for the Sabbath-school, which is held immediately afterwards. A strong encouragement for our Sabbath-school was the visit of Mr. Lucas, S. S. Missionary, through whom the Board of Publication and Sabbath-school Work sends us 20 or 25 copies of its Sabbath-school publications. Most of our young people and children are able to read and understand English. Another new feature in our Sabbath-school is the introduction of the smaller Westminster Catechism, which I have ordered in the Bohemian translation from Europe, and which will be for children far more suitable than that, equally good, and worthy, of Heidelberg, which is mostly used in the Bohemian Reformed Church.

We intend to found a congregational library, which would be opened not only to the members of the church, but to any other applicant, and I hope there will be many of them from the Catholic side. A small beginning is made already by voluntary gifts of Bohemian books. But there is a real necessity to have English good books in the library likewise, as some younger people read English more easily than Bohemian. Our funds, however, are too low to provide English books, and I ask most fervently the Board if it can do something for us in this respect, e. g., by finding some friends who would offer us good books.

CALIFORNIA.

REV. A. MOSS MERWIN, PASADENA.—At the Rose Ranch near San Gabriel we have a new congregation of about fifty persons, many of whom formerly spent the Sabbath in drinking and gambling. After the service, which is held in a large thatched hut, some of our faithful women from distant churches remain to converse with those to whom the gospel is passing strange. Deep interest has been aroused there. A neighboring priest has visited the people and warned them, under penalty of excommunication not to attend our services, but his threats are unheeded. Under a large tree, in a secluded spot at this Mexican settlement, ten or a dozen children gather twice a week to receive instruction in reading from our good missionary, Mr. Diaz. The nearest public school is several miles distant.

Near the old San Gabriel Mission, on the public highway, stands our modest sanctuary where there is preaching in Spanish nearly every Sabbath. A man and woman, parents of several bright children, have been led since attending the services to apply for a license for marriage. This is the third case of the kind in our congregation within the past three years. Under Romanism the consciences of these Mexicans is not much disturbed as to illegitimate domestic relations. Three orphans, children of Roman Catholic parentage and with a little property, have been legally placed, through their relatives, under the guardianship of your missionary.

These orphans, the two girls at least, will probably be sent as boarding pupils to our Spanish school at Los Angeles. The new and comfortable building for that institution is rapidly nearing completion, thanks to the earnest labors of the Home Missionary ladies of this presbytery. Our work in Los Angeles among the Mexicans has broadened out somewhat during the last quarter. There are now three Sunday-schools with a small attendance at each. Another place of worship has been opened through the generosity of a woman, a member of the church, who gives free of rent the best part of her dwelling, to be used exclusively for our services. These are often very well attended by people once strongly prejudiced against the evangelical faith. Among these new hearers is a household with whom a weekly prayer-meeting is held by Elder Morales.

Work is to be begun next week at Azuca on the church edifice wrecked by the gale in December, 1891. At the other preaching stations, regularly visited by Mr. Diaz and myself, it is evident that there is a growing disposition to hear what God says and to obey his word. Oh that we had the men and means to reach thousands more of these neglected Mexicans!

OKLAHOMA.

REV. C. H. MILLER.

I cannot refrain from speaking of that interesting event, my installation as pastor of the church at El Reno. The church was beautifully decorated and the congregation filled the house, including the lecture room, to overflowing. To me it was a most joyous occasion. When I look back to the time just two years ago when I took up the work here—when I recall the little handful, unorganized and unsheltered with nothing in their hands to support the gospel but with only a burning desire for a church and a minister,—when I think of that little cold shanty in which we met for the first year, when I think of what we have gone through, of how God has strengthened our hands and raised up friends till now we worship in a beautiful little sanctuary with a large congregation and a Sabbath-school that fills our building, I thank God and take courage. I have done some work outside of this city but this church is my joy and my pride. With my own hands I labored in its construction. I helped lay its floor and shingle its roof. In the bitter cold of the winter night I kept fires going that its plastering might not freeze. I helped scrub it out for dedication. But that time is passed, and these are only memories. To-day the church is strong and flourishing. We have good congregations, the best Sabbath-school in the county, a noble band of young people and the respect and confidence of the whole community. The audience that greeted us at the installation service was the largest that has ever been gathered for a religious service on a week night in our city. The future is full of promise. I write this that you may see the progress that has been made and rejoice with me. Outside of El Reno I have organized four churches, three of which are supplied with nice buildings. I have wed 80 members and baptized several children. My field has been thrice divided and yet there is a call for more men. Now is our time to push church extension.

But while we have much over which to rejoice, a great sorrow has come into our home. When we took up the work in El Reno, our house was gladdened by the sunshine of two dear little children. God in his providence has taken both of them to himself and our home is desolate. We can not understand it. We cannot fathom His purposes. We can only trust him and lean on that assurance: "What I do, thou knowest not now, but thou shalt know hereafter."

THE ALPINE SHEPHERD.

When on my ear your loss was knelled,
And tender sympathy upburst,
A little rill from memory swelled
Which one had soothed my bitter thirst.

And I was fain to bear to you
Some portion of its mild relief,
That it might be as healing dew
To steal some fever from your grief.

After our child's untroubled breath
Up to the Father took its way,
And on our home the shade of death,
Like a long twilight, haunting lay,

And friends came round with us to weep
Her little spirit's swift remove,
This story of the Alpine sheep
Was told to us by one we love;

"They in the valley's sheltering care
 Soon crop the meadow's tender prime ;
 And when the sod grows brown and bare,
 The shepherd strives to make them climb

"To airy shelves of pasture green
 That hang along the mountain's side,
 Where grass and flowers together lean,
 And down through mists the sunbeams slide ;

"But naught can tempt the timid things
 The steep and rugged path to try,
 Though sweet the shepherd calls and sings
 And seared below the pastures lie,

"Till in his arms the lambs he takes
 Along the dizzy verge to go ;
 Then, heedless of the rifts and breaks,
 They follow on o'er rock and snow.

"And in those pastures lifted fair,
 More dewy soft than lowland mead,
 The shepherd drops his tender care,
 And sheep and lambs together feed."

This parable, by Nature breathed,
 Blew on me as the south wind free
 O'er frozen brooks that float, unsheathed
 From icy thralldom, to the sea.

A blissful vision through the night
 Would all my happy senses away,
 Of the Good Shepherd on the height,
 Or climbing up the stony way,

Holding our little lamb asleep ;
 And like the burden of the sea,
 Sounded that voice along the deep,
 Saying, "Arise, and follow me."

MARIA LOWELL.

The following article is taken from the correspondents' columns of the New York Tribune. Besides its bright and clever sketch of our Normal and Collegiate Institute at Asheville, its testimony to our work there is valuable, as we have no reason to think the unknown writer to be other than an impartial visitor and observer.

SOUTHERN GIRLS AT SCHOOL.

A STUDY OF HUMAN NATURE AT ASHEVILLE,
 NORTH CAROLINA.

Asheville, N. C., Nov. 22.—The sturdy mountaineer, his pretty fair-haired, simple-minded daughter and the rough-diamond suitor for her hand are such familiar types to the story-reading world at the present day that there seems to be little left unsaid concerning the inhabitants of these North Carolina mountains. There is, however, a new field for study, namely, the aforesaid daughter in her first year at school, a position in which new lights and shades are thrown upon her character. It is undoubtedly known to many people at the North that this year the Presbyterian Board of Home Missions has opened in Asheville a boarding-school, which gives to those of narrow means the opportunity of a course of study equivalent to that of a college-preparatory school. It is situated just outside the limits of this queer, world-renowned place, where people come during every month of the year, seeking that priceless boon, health, and where the chance traveller meets upon the streets every kind of equipage from the humblest ox-cart covered with canvas to the most luxurious Victoria and the smartest dog-cart and mail phaeton.

The site of the building is extremely fine, commanding a view of the amphitheatre of mountains, which makes the scenery of this section so famous. About a mile to the left is the far-famed "Kenilworth Inn;" quite close at hand is "Oakland Heights Sanitarium;" and now that the leaves have gone from the trees, the mythical palace which Mr. George Vanderbilt is building is quite plainly visible on its eminence, six miles away.

The exterior of the building is not attractive. It is a huge frame structure, painted in light shades, which gives an appearance of cheapness; but once inside the large hall, one is dispossessed of this impression. Indeed, it has been called "the best built house in Asheville," as the whole building was personally supervised by Mr. Pease, who affirms that there is not a poor piece of timber throughout. The corridors are broad and well lighted, and the rooms of the girls are large and cheerful. These rooms have been furnished by different church societies at the North. The furniture is the same in each—an iron bedstead, an oak dresser and washstand and two chairs. The linen, blankets and toilet articles, of course, vary, but are all neat and tasteful. The rooms of the teachers are, for the most part, provided for by individuals—that of the music teacher being the gift of Mrs. Russell Sage in memory of her mother.

The visitor is eager, naturally, to see the girls who have changed their mountain cabins of one room for this warm, comfortable abiding place. One is invariably surprised, having noticed the stolid faces of the men as they march beside their ox-carts, which often contain less than one dollar's worth of produce ("some butter and a few eggs") with which they have often toiled twenty or thirty miles, to see that their children can look bright and intelligent. The fact is, most of them have never been properly housed or fed before, and the change of environment has a speedy effect on their appearance. In the schoolroom it is appalling to find a class of thirty members to whom "Tennyson" is an unknown name, and "Westminster Abbey"—a graveyard. An answer given by one of this same class is rather interesting, the question being: "What is the government of England?" This was the reply: "The government of England is very moist and damp."

But these are unusual, and the mass of the pupils are tolerably well informed. There is, moreover, a decided pleasure in sowing seed in such untried soil and witnessing the gratitude with which the smallest crumb of information is received. Their names are queer and fantastic, "Buena," "Lettia," "Chloris," "Arrie," "Pantha," being among them. One real mountain girl was found one day using tobacco. The case was, of course, serious, and the offender was reprimanded most severely. Indeed, she was told that upon a second offence she would be sent home. The way in which the reproof was received was astonishing. She went immediately to her room and wrote to her parents that they might be quite easy about her, as she was moving in "right good society." On receipt of this letter, her father, as she afterward confided to a teacher, "done danced in the middle of the floor, he was that glad."

On Columbus Day the school gave a very pretty entertainment, singing "The Star-Span-gled Banner" and "America" with great enthusiasm. A noticeable feature, however, was that the words of these, to us household anthems, were entirely unfamiliar to them.

The course of study is thorough and comprehensive. There are also classes in cooking, sewing, typewriting and stenography, which may be even more necessary to them than the learning acquired from books. They do the work of the home, each girl having an hour in the domestic department every day. This is necessary, as the whole price for tuition and board is but $100 for the school year. Small as this sum seems, it is a vast amount to many of the patrons; and a large number of the pupils are supported by scholarships. Their dress is, for the most part, plain, but neat. One girl, however, (a regular Craddock heroine, with red-gold hair and dreamy blue eyes), is so thinly clad these cold mornings that she must suffer. A visit to her home in the mountains reveals it to be a one-roomed cabin, used as a sitting-room, bed-room and dining-room for the family of four. They are, however, among the more intelligent of the very poor, and the one room is scrupulously neat and clean. The pleasant school-building and thorough training attract many of the children of well-to-do parents in the various small towns and cities of the State, so that one cannot classify all the pupils under the same head.

The institution is, on the whole, unique, and one which the Northern tourist should not fail to visit while sojourning, as health or fashion decrees, in the "Land of the Sky."

[We hardly know whether to put the following under the head of Home Missions, Foreign Missions, or Temperance. We risk it here. It is a good hit under either head.—ED.]

In his speech on the Chinese, in the recent Christian convention in San Francisco, the Rev. Ng Poon Chu made a decided and most favorable impression. A recent graduate of our theological seminary, and now the faithful pastor of the local Chinese church, he had some just claims to a sympathetic hearing, and these claims were greatly strengthened by his freedom and fire of utterance, several times rising to eloquence, as well as by his good sense, his good English, and his compact array of telling facts. But not all this so completely captured the large and cultivated audience—probably over a thousand, gathered from the best homes of San Francisco—as that one hit, delivered with much expressiveness of tone but with perfectly sober countenance. Comparing the opium vice to which the Chinese are addicted with the alcoholic intemperance prevalent among Americans, he confessed that there was one striking difference: "When the Chinese opium drunkard comes home he does not abuse his children and kick his wife; his wife kicks him." The swift and emphatic response of the congregation bespoke the prowess of wit. The man who has eyes to see a comical situation can always get a hearing to tell of it; and even the weightiest matter or the most eloquent address seems to lack something when the sense of humor is wholly wanting. But the lasting charm of brother Chu's speech lay in its weight, force, and timeliness, not in its effervescence. The Christianization of the Chinese was warmly and cogently urged as a duty, and the work exacted respect from the most reluctant in presence of the capital illustration of its fruits seen in the speaker himself.—The Occident.

THANKSGIVING AND HOME MISSIONS.

REV. J. S. DICKSON.

[Extracts, by permission, from his sermon on Thanksgiving Day.]

God has given us the greatest, hope-fullest mission field of all the world. This is a land set apart for saving effort—first of all, foremost of all, a land of work for Christ. . . .

This land was founded in the longing prayer of Christians; it was sealed by the blood of Christians; it is ruled now by the brains of Christians. English Christianity sought out New England, East Pennsylvania, and Virginia; Dutch Christianity made New York and the Jerseys; Huguenot Christianity settled the Carolinas, and Scotch-Irish Christianity pushed on to mountain strong-holds from Pennsylvania to Alabama, to give a Christian backing to it all. God blessed the men who came on consecrated errand, and here is their blood-bought land. He blesses us most highly in the way most suitable to our origin, by giving to us a special mission work, such as he has given to no other nation. . . . In view of the fact that we are Christians, called to evangelize a sinful world, it is God's greatest gift to us, that so much of our work is brought right to our doors and hands. . . .

I bid you rejoice that this is the land to which the tides of the World's emigration must roll. The teeming populations of Europe and Asia must come hither. I do not say that such a coming is a theme for light rejoicing. Castle Garden was not, and Bedlow's Island is not an inspiring sight. It is a lesson to a trembling responsibility to see the untaught, unwashed throngs. But their own lands cannot keep them, and this land cannot keep them out. And shall not we thank God—we who by his Spirit have been made to love and look for souls—that our land is forced to be the Canaan for the Old World's pilgrimage? . . .

We have already all manner of populations among us who can receive the Gospel only from our hands.

This land must save and educate and uplift the millions of its Negroes, lest they be a menace to our way and that they may help in all the progress of our Christian liberty.

This land must save the Indians—save their souls and bless their lives—the only possible way of paying its debt to them, and of averting Pine Ridge tragedies from itself.

This land must save its Mormons. . . . There is only one sure way to meet and master the Mormon problem. It is by saving Mormon souls.

This land must save its Mexicans—its heathen, wherever it may find them. The work is all its own. A Scandinavian church may send its one hundred and forty missionaries to Wisconsin, and support them there, but the effort is a Christian anomaly. The field of America's unevangelized inhabitants is its own—the greatest in variety and opportunity in all the world. . . .

As a church, we have a theory of saving work that is complete. We look to the West, toward which most immigration flows, and we say to one set of men, "It is too early yet for what we call Home Mission work: Go you, Sabbath-school missionaries, and clear a path for us. Go as pioneers, and leave Sabbath-schools, like blazed, path-marking trees, to show where the roads of wider church work must come."

Then the Board of Home Missions steps in with men and women who shall preach and teach the Word to those who are gathering more thickly, and sends those who shall be pastors to these flocks.

Then we help them build houses where they may worship God, and schools where their children can learn that the way of true knowledge is the way of life—that the fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom.

This is a most blessed work, but we do too dreadfully little of it. The machinery is excellent—engines, shafts, gearing, all complete, but there is far too little steam. . . .

This country—not little parts of it here and there, little white spots on the blackness—this whole country must have the Gospel of Christ, for its own salvation. . . . It has been as truly as terribly said that: "The judgment day of nations is in this world, and their hell is anarchy." . . .

I appeal to even a higher and holier motive. Save this nation which God has dealt with as with no other, for Christ's sake.

I went once to a concert of unusual interest. It was fine throughout. The men followed their conductor, and played inspiringly. But by and by a new leader came upon the platform. From the first motion of his baton there was new life in all the playing. Every man seemed to gain a new inspiration. There was new force and exactness, and an unlooked for grandeur in the work, just because the composer was the leader, leading the music that had burst from his own soul. Every man played his best because the glory was to come to the great leader. . . .

Of this grand national anthem, in which we are honored with parts, lo! Christ is the composer and leader. Look we to Him. Let the glory be His.

HOME MISSION APPOINTMENTS.

W. B. Wallace, D.D., Synodical Missionary,	N. Y.	E. A. Walker, Pastor at Large,	Iowa.
J. N. Crocker, D.D., Synodical Missionary,	"	N. McLeod, D.D., Gilmore City,	"
A. Cooper, Jefferson,	"	W. E. Caldwell, Luverne,	"
S. D. Angel, Mooers,	"	K. B. Weiland, Sioux Centre, 2d German,	"
E. E. Grosh, Brandon,	"	T. L. Sexton, D.D., Synodical Missionary,	Neb.
R. G. McCarthy, Saranac Lake,	"	L. D. Wells, Edgar and Ong,	"
J. Bain, Ashland, Big Hollow and Station,	"	L. S. Boyce, Pastor at Large,	"
S. C. Garlick, Dresden,	"	A. T. Young, Ruskin and Oak,	"
J. M. Robertson, White Lake,	"	J. Hatch, Pastor at Large,	"
H. Hausman, Jeffersonville, German,	"	G. Bailey, Broken Bow,	"
J. M. Shippen, Shinnecock,	"	B. Beall, Lincoln, 3d,	"
A. W. Sproull, Sea and Land of New York City,	"	W. R. Adams, Utica, 1st,	"
L. A. Bahler, Malden,	"	D. Brown, D.D., Macon,	Mo.
R. Abbott, Bay Road and French Mountain,	"	J. B. Wetty, Pastor at Large,	"
J. E. Franklin, East Lake Park of Wilmington,	Del.	C. Memmott, New Cambria, Salem and Lingo,	"
H. Keigwin, Presbyterian Missionary,	Fla.	W. Weaver, Graham,	"
J. F. Sundell, Upsala, Swedish,	"	S. B. Fleming, D.D., Synodical Missionary,	Kans.
J. S. Eakin, New Market,	Tenn.	H. M. Gilbert, Harmony, Perkins and Wright Mission	"
J. F. Horton, Cloverport,	Ky.	of Wichita,	"
S. L. Hamilton, 4th of Louisville,	"	E. J. Brown, Conway Springs and Peotone,	"
E. E. Flint, Independence,	Ohio.	J. J. Cooke, Sedan,	"
A. Schafer, Leipsic,	"	B. F. Smith, Millikan Memorial, Lone Elm and	"
J. Houtby, Scott and Highland,	"	Kincaid,	"
A. B. Struthers, Hanover, German,	"	J. M. Batchelder, Osborne,	"
J. N. Elliot, 60th Street of Chicago,	Ill.	D. R. Hindman, Phillipsburg,	"
H. H. Van Vranken, Central Park of Chicago,	"	N. A. Rankin, Cheever and Manchester,	"
H. W. Harbaugh, Braidwood,	"	J. Marek, Cuba and Munden, Bohemian,	"
D. Volz, Chicago, 1st German,	"	E. Paradis, Mulberry,	"
O. G. McDowell, Chicago Lawn,	"	H. C. Bradbury, Sylvan Grove and Harmony,	"
T. Stephenson, Keithsburg,	"	H. S. Childs, Oakland,	"
G. W. Blake, Earlville,	"	W. T. King, Guthrie,	O. T.
W. H. Halsey, Macon,	"	S. V. Felt, Anadarko and Stations,	"
D. Howell, Synodical Missionary,	Mich.	C. H. Miller, El Reno,	"
E. Jameson, Brighton,	"	W. S. Wright, Pearall and Cibola,	Tex.
J. V. N. Hartness, Marine City, 1st,	"	H. S. Little, D.D., Synodical Missionary,	"
A. Boyd, Fraser and North Burns,	"	F. McAfee, Lampass, 1st,	"
J. R. Bennett, Sand Beach and Port Hope	"	W. K. Marshall, Waskom, Elysian Field and Sta-	"
W. Parker, Ewart,	"	tions,	"
J. M. Davies, D. D., Immanuel of Grand Rapids,	"	L. F. Bickford, Goldthwaite, Milburn and Stations,	"
O. H. Carmichael, Tustin,	"	I. T. Whitmore, Florence,	Ariz.
H. B. Dunning, East Jordan, 1st,	"	J. A. Menaul, Synodical Missionary,	N. M.
L. R. Simpson, Gladstone,	"	Home Mission Com., Mexican Mission Work,	"
W. D. Thomas, Ph. D., Synodical Missionary,	Wis.	J. J. Gilchrist, Mora and Stations,	"
K. Knudson, Scandinavian Missionary in Synod,	"	J. M. Whitlock, Taos and vicinity,	"
R. A. Clark, Richland Centre,	"	S. W. Curtis, Las Vegas and vicinity,	"
J. M. Kelly, Big River and Stations,	"	W. Williams, Rio Arriba, Santa Fé (Mexican) and	"
J. C. Breckenridge, Somers,	"	vicinity,	"
D. F. Williams, North Bend,	"	D. L. Ladner, Salida,	Col.
L. Richter, Mauston, German, and Station,	"	A. G. Evans, Poncha Springs,	"
J. S. Wilson, Oxford and Jackson Mission,	"	C. H. Bissell, Rouse and La Veta,	"
L. F. Brickles, Sherry and Station,	"	G. W. Martin, Manti and Ephraim,	Utah.
R. N. Adams, D.D., Synodical Missionary,	Mich.	O. S. Wilson, Nephia,	"
C. D. Darling, Barnum,	"	J. P. Black, Nampa,	Idaho.
C. B. Angur, Fuida and Kinbrae,	"	T. M. Gunn, D.D., Synodical Missionary,	Wash.
W. Campbell, Long Lake and Crystal Bay,	"	E. M. Calvin, Enumclaw, Calvary,	"
L. J. Davies, Royaltown,	"	W. A. Sample, D.D., Moscow, 1st,	"
W. F. Finch, Spring Grove and Greenleaf,	"	F. A. Gwynne, D.D., Synodical Missionary,	Oreg.
W. Mackay, Harrison and Atwater,	"	C. F. Waldecker, Bethany and Stations,	"
C. C. B. Duncan, Rush City and Pine City,	"	W. Kirkhope, Knappa,	"
T. N. Weaver, Le Roy, 1st,	"	D. Dunlop, Mt. Tabor, Mission,	"
F. M. Wood, Synodical Missionary,	N. D.	J. H. Cornwall, La Fayette	"
W. J. Mitchell, Steele,	"	A. G. Royd, Newberg and Whiteson,	"
J. T. Killen, Mandan,	"	J. A. Townsend, Ph. D., Calvary of Independence,	"
H. W. Clatworthy, Sheldon, 1st,	"	A. Robinson, Sinslaw and Stations,	"
R. C. Mitchell, Sanborn,	"	M. A. Williams, Eagle Point and Stations,	"
J. Fleming, Langdon,	"	F. D. Seward, Synodical Missionary,	Cal.
H. P. Carson, D.D., Synodical Missionary,	S. D.	J. S. McDonald, Synodical Missionary,	"
B. Vis, Palmer, 1st Holland,	"	I. N. Waterman, Covelo,	"
J. Brown, Wilmot,	"	C. H. Emerson, Pope Valley and Stations,	"
T. B. Boughton, Parker and Stations,	"	R. W. Cleveland, Azusa,	"
A. C. McCauley, Bridgewater and Canistota,	"	W. E. Dodge, El Montecito,	"
T. S. Bailey, D.D., Synodical Missionary,	Iowa.	J. D. Beard, Pleasant Valley,	"
D. Street, Monticello and Anamosa,	"	A. J. Compton, Oakdale and Hickman,	"
W. J. Young, 6th of Des Moines,	"	M. D. A. Steen, Bethel, of Woodbridge,	"

PUBLICATION AND SABBATH-SCHOOL WORK.

TESTIMONY OF THE SYNOD OF WISCONSIN.

The Synod of Wisconsin, within whose bounds a large part of the work of this Board is performed, places on record the following unsought testimony as to the importance and efficiency of that work:

The report of the Committee on Sabbath School Work was read and adopted, as follows:

We cannot overestimate the importance of the interests entrusted to this Board. Through it the Church obeys the explicit command of the Saviour "Feed My Lambs." The world, the flesh and the devil are bidding high for the children. If they are to be saved to the Church, it will be through the gospel, that is the power of God. During the last ecclesiastical year, 22,052,605 publications have been sent out to bless and save the youth. Now while the Autumn leaves are falling, these leaves from the tree of life are falling into the hands and hearts of the children of the Church.

This part of the Church's machinery has been overhauled, and put in the best possible condition, and is now, if the wisdom of the whole Church is not at fault, in condition to render most efficient help to every department of Church work.

The last General Assembly received a very encouraging report from the Sabbath School Missionary department of the Board's work. This Report is worthy your careful consideration.

In Wisconsin we are face to face with facts that should not alarm or discourage us, but should arouse us to our very best united effort. The strangers within our gates constitute one third of our population. They, with their households, making perhaps one half of the inhabitants, are not in fullest sympathy with many things which we believe essential to the well-being of our Church and State. Race antagonisms are to be deprecated. Even race distinctions are to be broken down, when it can be done by the only unifying power that can break down the middle wall of partition, and bring all to the feet of Jesus Christ. This great problem is to be solved in Wisconsin. Can these diverse and even antagonistic elements be so Americanized and unified, that the interests of our country and Church may be safely committed to their hands? As a Synod we must do our part and do it well. To do this we need all the help we can secure. We, with our implements of war, are ruled out of the common schools. The Sabbath School furnishes us with a strategic point. Here we must mass our forces. We have in the State 592,755 children between the ages of four and twenty years. Of this number 350,342 are in the public schools. As yet the Presbyterian Church has gathered into the Sabbath School but 14,698. The great burden of this work rests upon 1,666 officers and teachers,

The following resolutions were adopted by the Synod:

Resolve 1: That the Board of Publication and Sabbath School Work has by its efficiency commanded our confidence and ought to receive our earnest support.

2d. That all our Sabbath Schools be advised to observe Children's Day, and with it to contribute liberally to the support of the Sabbath School Missionary Work.

THE SABBATH-SCHOOL AND MISSION WORK.

ITS NATURE.—It is the union of thought, purpose, prayer and effort of the Presbyterian Church in the work of saving the youth of our country.

OBJECTS.—1. To plant and maintain a Sabbath-school in every destitute locality in our land, and thus to win the vast multitude of youth outside of all Sabbath-schools; 2. To elevate and improve Presbyterian Sabbath-schools; 3. To provide weak and struggling Sabbath-schools with Bibles, hymn books, lesson-helps, papers, libraries, etc.; 4. To carry the gospel to scattered families in destitute communities.

METHODS.—1. Sending out living permanent Sabbath-school Missionaries; 2. Sending out theological students as summer Sabbath-school Missionaries; 3. House-to-house visitation in pioneer settlements and needy localities; 4. Donations to needy mission schools of Bibles, hymn books, lesson helps, papers, libraries, etc.; 5. Constant visitation and careful nurture of newly organized Sabbath-schools, to render them permanent and efficient.

OVERSIGHT.—1. A Board of twelve ministers and twelve Elders, appointed by the General Assembly; 2. The Secretary of the Board, Rev. E. R. Craven, D. D.; 3. A Sabbath-school and Missionary Committee of nine, selected by the Board; 4. A standing Committee of each Presbytery in which the work is carried on; 5. The Superintendent of Sabbath-school and Missionary Work, Rev. James A. Worden, D. D.

RESULTS.—1. In four years, from April 1, 1888, to April 1, 1892, this work has organized 4,614 Sabbath-schools, with 171,590 members; or, for every day in the year it has produced over three Sabbath-schools; 2. About two-thirds of these schools have become permanent—that is, 3,076 schools with 114,326 members; 3. Hundreds of churches already have grown from these mission schools; 4. A house-to-house visitation has been made of 235,024 families, mostly destitute of religion; 5. It has given away 51,419,165 pages of tracts and periodicals, and in addition, 7,667 volumes.

CAN ANY OTHER MISSIONARY WORK SHOW BETTER RESULTS?

SEED FOR EVERLASTING GARNERS.

Mr. Ferguson, Sabbath-school missionary in Minnesota, thus writes:

The unusually wet weather has seriously interfered with my work. The wagon roads in many places were impassable. In some of our towns, horses could not travel through the streets, owing to the depth of the mud. Many farmers have not more than half the amount of wheat sown that they had last year. While they have been, under such discouraging circumstances, trying to seed their farms, I have endeavored to sow some of the incorruptible seed, and have succeeded in organizing and reorganizing ten Sabbath-schools.

HUNGRY FOR THE BREAD OF LIFE.

In the little village of Norcross, where I held a service and organized a school, a lady came to me at the close of the meeting and said: "I am so glad that you have visited us; I have been here five years, and your sermon is the first I have heard." In another place where I organized a school last year, the people are anxious to secure regular preaching. One man who resides on a small farm said that he would give $50 a year for that object. I will at once call the attention of the Synodical Missionary to the needs and opportunities of that field.

NEED OF THE WORK.

W. J. HAYDON.

Kind Friends:—I have been very busy during the last three months visiting Sabbath-schools, encouraging them much as possible; also organizing where there were none. I find the interest growing, and young and old becoming more interested in the work. At one point where they had closed, I asked a man I met why they had closed the school. "Well mister, the fact is, the foreman was no 'count. He scouted around instead of coming to the Sunday-school, and when he did come, he jist sot around smoking a pipe. He ain't fitten to be boss." I went to work and found a better man, and we put him in, and now they are going right on with good prospects of doing well. One of our great troubles in this region is to find suitable men and women for teachers and superintendents. Children, are in most cases, ready to go.

In looking back over the past year's work—1891—I find that the Lord has enabled me to plant forty-eight Bible schools and gather into the same over 2,000 neglected youths that were growing up without religious instruction, and to put to work over 200 teachers and superintendents, etc., who are becoming workers for the Master. Souls have been led to Christ through these agencies. Bibles, tracts and Sabbath-school literature distributed; many homes visited, and prayers held with the families. God has wonderfully blessed my labors.

At one school I organized, a man who was elected superintendent said to me, on visiting him at his home, "Eight years ago, I was a whisky distiller, leading a wicked life, violating the Government laws and the laws of God, by making and selling whisky without a license, and drinking hard myself. The Sunday-school was the means, in the hands of God, of leading me to try to be a better man, and I am now trying to serve my Saviour. A Sunday-school was organized in our midst to which my children went. One Sunday, in coming from the school, they passed by the prison where I was confined; looked in at me; told me they had been to a Sunday-school; related some of the Sunday-school lessons to me, and told me what they did. Mr. Haydon, that was too much for me. So soon as they left, I kneeled down and prayed the Lord—promising if ever I got out, I would serve Him. He converted me. Thank God for the Sunday-school, and may He bless you in your work."

This man is now engaged in all good works, Sunday-schools, temperance and church work. This is one case out of others, similar, which I might name.

FREEDMEN.

TWO SYNODS AMONG THE FREEDMEN.

BY REV. F. T. GIBSON.

CATAWBA.

The Synod convened Wednesday evening, Nov. 2, in the pretty little village of Concord, N. C.—a town well known to all Presbyterians through the fame of Scotia Seminary. It was not my privilege to be present until Friday morning, but, from the brethren, I learned that Thursday had been a good day for Foreign Missions, for Home Missions, and for the Board of Publication, represented by Dr. Craven, Secretary. Friday morning found a very full representation, both ministers and elders, from the 180 churches comprising the Synod. With four exceptions, the ministers and elders present were all colored, and they were as fine a looking body as one could wish to see. Looking into their thoughtful, intelligent, earnest Christian faces, listening to their able discussions of the various questions that came up, I could not but be impressed by their clear discrimination of the eternal distinction between the right and the wrong—between the ought and the ought not, while I admired their clear, concise, cogent reasoning, their elegant diction and their manly eloquence. If the thought of color came into my mind, it was only by way of thinking how insignificant a thing difference of color really is, and wondering why it should ever seem to any one a barrier in the way of recognizing perfect Christian brotherhood.

I hardly ever heard better discussions of important matters than I heard in this Synod. There are good strong men in it, men who, if true to themselves, will leave names that will be cherished after they have entered into rest. These men realize that they are living at a time when there is a crisis in the history of their race, and I believe they will be true to the great interests that God in his providence has entrusted to them.

SCOTIA SEMINARY.

One of the matters that enlisted the interest and stirred up the enthusiasm of the Synod was a discussion concerning Scotia Seminary, and resolutions heartily endorsing everything pertaining to the management of this institution were unanimously adopted. This Seminary is better equipped and doing a better work than at any time in its history.

The Synod very appropriately devoted more than an hour to the discussion of resolutions in memory of Rev. R. H. Allen, D.D., the beloved Secretary, who had entered into his rest. With one accord the members testified their sincere affection for the great and good friend whose face they will see no more in this world, and, with pathetic tenderness, they recounted his many virtues and kindly acts. He has in the work here a living monument infinitely more valuable than polished marble.

On Friday evening a popular meeting of the Ladies' Societies was held in Faith Hall and was addressed by Mrs. Coulter and others. Mrs. Coulter spoke of her experience as a foreign missionary in China and was heard with much pleasure by a large audience including all the students in Scotia.

ATLANTIC.

While I wait for the train that is to carry me homeward, I would like to tell the readers of THE CHURCH AT HOME AND ABROAD something about the Synod of Atlantic, in session at Macon, Ga., and about our work in general, as I have seen it since I left the Synod of Catawba. As I sit in this elegant hotel, the Kimball, and look out on the streets of this beautiful and prosperous city, I can hardly realize that twenty-eight years ago, a few miles out from this city, amid the smoke and din of battle, I was shot, and walked off the field of battle with a shattered arm, carrying a sixty-nine calibre minie ball in my left shoulder. It seems now like a dream, but it was then a stern reality. I thank God that I am spared not only to see but to tell others of some of the blessings that have come from the mighty conflict that preserved our nation and proclaimed liberty to the slave. What I now see satisfies me that the sacrifice was not too great, and I believe that the future will multiply the evidence.

Leaving the Synod of Catawba on Saturday, the 5th, I spent the Sabbath in Charlotte and at Biddle University. The University has enrolled 215 students and will probably enroll about 260 this year. It is doing a great and good work—a greater and better work than at any time in its history. The President and Professors are all at their posts of duty, and are giving very thorough instruction, while the students seem to me to compare favorably with the same number of young men in any of our colleges. They are studious, earnest, alert, and improving their opportunities. I heard recitations in Greek, in Algebra, and in some other studies, that were of a very high order. The condition of the University, as seen from within, is very satisfactory; and I am glad to be able to say that, from the highest authority in Charlotte—from those who opposed the changes made in the Faculty—I have the assurance that the institution never did a better work than it is doing now.

Coming from Biddle to Brainerd, at Chester, S. C., I found Principal Marquis and his wife with the work fully organized and going forward prosperously, with upwards of sixty young women and young men in the boarding department. At Augusta, Ga., Miss Laney, with a competent corps of teachers and a very full school, is doing a good and great work for Christian education. The friends in Pittsburgh who have done so much for this work may rest assured that their money is accomplishing all they had hoped and more.

The Synod of Atlantic convened at Macon, Ga. I could not but feel a righteous indignation, as I journeyed from Augusta to that place, when I saw the noble men who composed this Synod and had purchased first-class tickets, compelled to ride in the "Jim Crow" car, only because they were black men, while white men—good, bad and indifferent—could choose their seats in any car on the train.

The church in which the Synod met is neat and comfortable. The Synod comprises six Presbyteries, eighty-five ministers, 145 churches and 9042 members. The expense of coming kept many members from being present, but there were about sixty in attendance, and they conducted the business and entered into the discussions with intelligent zeal, and exhibited marked ability.

The larger part of Friday was taken up to discussion of the report of the Standing Committee on Freedmen. The work was thoroughly and intelligently discussed by the members present, and I was much impressed by two things: first, the determination of this people to do all in their power to help themselves; and second, the great need of help from the Church North through the Board of Missions for Freedmen. They greatly need houses of worship, and the Board of Church Erection, with its very necessary limitations, cannot extend the help needed. Very few of these congregations can raise more than one-third of what is really necessary; the Church Erection Board can only give one-third; and the result is, they cannot meet unless the Freedmen's Board, or some other friend, comes in to bring them together. If the Board of Missions for Freedmen could have $50,000 next year for this particular work, we could secure good church buildings to at least a hundred needy congregations. If any one need seems greatest in this Synod, it is the need of neat comfortable churches. Probably the most encouraging feature of the work just at present is that which pertains to our boarding schools. They are doing a grand work and are laying a good foundation for better things in the future.

It was not my privilege to be present after Friday and hear all the discussions, but I came away deeply impressed with the great opportunity God is giving our Church and the great responsibility he lays upon us to help this people. They still have great needs. They have many things to contend against that we can hardly understand. It would not be an unaccountable thing if many of them should lose all faith and hope when they see how their sacred rights are trampled in the dust. I would not counsel them to put their trust in Northern friends. They need some better ground of confidence.

They need

"The instinct that can tell
That God is on the field
When most invisible."

They need to say with Faber:

"Right is right since God is God,
And right the day must win;
To doubt would be disloyalty,
To falter would be sin."

But while they trust in God and wait for him to help them, should we not, as God's people, lend them the helping hand and become the instruments and channels through which God may work.

CHURCH ERECTION.

HOW THE ACCOUNT STANDS.

On the first day of December, just two-thirds of the fiscal year of the Board, has elapsed. How does the account stand? The work proposed has known no decrease, but on the contrary, a constant advance. Last year, at this time, there had been received one hundred and eighteen (118) applications for grants from the General Fund, aggregating in amount, $65,207. This year the numbers are one hundred and thirty-eight (138) and $78,741: an advance of nearly seventeen per cent. in number, and of more than twenty per cent. in amount. During the same time there have been received ten applications for loans from the newly established Loan Fund, aggregating $28,700. With these demands, heavier than ever before, the contributions from the churches during the same eight months have increased barely $1,000 over those of the corresponding months last year.

What must be the necessary consequence? Already the Board has appropriated $20,000 more than it has in its treasury, and as it must not close the year in debt, it must henceforth make all its appropriations conditional upon the receipt of funds.

Brethren, beloved—Remember that it is only those whose duty it is to hear from all quarters of the church, who sit, as it were, in the central office of the telephone, listening in turn to the voices of their brethren at all points upon the vast circuit, who can fully realize how many are asking for help to save their work from disaster. The voices are modulated in many tones, often that of youthful enthusiasm and confidence—often that of quiet, persistent patience, that tells of long experience—sometimes of weariness and discouragement pathetic in its minor strain—but all are the voices of brothers—our brethren who have gone out into the fore front, trusting in the willingness of their brethren at home to supply each one his proportion of the help needed.

Shall these forces be called back? Shall these new fields be given up? No! is the unanimous reply of the pastors of our church. Yet of what avail this answer, if it is but an empty voice?

Brethren, ye who are pastors of the more than half of our congregations, who last year gave nothing to this Board: Is its work worth doing? Are our mission churches worth saving? Then send us the share of help that your churches ought to furnish. It may be in any individual case small, but the aggregate will turn defeat into victory.

A THOUGHT WORTH PONDERING.

Are churches, presbyteries and synods growing selfish in their Church Erection work?

There is some danger certainly that unconsciously they may verge towards this. It is well known that in the ordinary affairs of life there is a tendency to affirm that "business is business," and not to carry into its conduct the same generosity that is admired in other social relations. The work of Church Erection deals so largely with material things, that this Board has sometimes been called distinctively a "business Board," and it would not therefore be strange if in considering the disposition of funds to be given for church building, churches and presbyteries should allow the thought of home needs to close their eyes to a generous consideration of the appealing attitude in this regard of our great needy western mission field. In short is there not danger that churches and presbyteries may become so engaged in home work that they will forget that they are part of a large organization which has assumed responsibilities for extending the Master's work in new regions and that these responsibilities cannot possibly be met unless all of the constituent parts of the one great body do their share. The whole body must thrive or no single member of the body can long remain in health and strength. A very wise and experienced missionary once said: "And the eye cannot say unto the hand, I have no need of thee; nor again the head to the feet, I have no need of you. Nay, much more those members of the body which seem to be more feeble, are necessary."

These thoughts have been suggested by reading the excellent report upon Church Erection adopted by the Synod of Illinois at its late meeting. We give extracts from it because they set forth facts in a telling way, and because they point to the great danger indicated above, viz: that churches and presbyteries and synods will become so absorbed in the manifest needs of church extension within their own bounds, that they will forget the claims of the great mission work of the church. Is there not ground for asking the question with which this article opens, when some of the largest and wealthiest synods in the church still ask the Board to give them more than they pay into its treasury? Surely they have not realized the fact or they would refuse to have it so. This is what is so well said by the Synod of Illinois and we would that its earnest words could be heard by every other synod of this church. We quote:

"The Synod of Illinois sends to the Board only a little more than sixteen per cent. of the money which it gives to this cause. It is clearly the right of each Presbytery to do the work within its own bounds as it may think best; but the strong, wealthy synods ought to help the weak, they ought to put more money into the treasuries of the Boards than they draw out of them.

The Synod of Illinois put into the treasury of the Board last year only $750 more than it drew out of it. This is but little more than one cent per member of its whole number of communicants. Out of the 483 churches within the bounds of our synod, 283 churches gave nothing last year to this Board. Nearly one-half of our churches did not even try to assist their brethren in destitute places in their struggle to erect houses to worship God in, houses without which church services can not be maintained, and church life can not be sustained. This shows a carelessness on the part of a large number of our ministers and elders which is amazing, which is very culpable. And the ministers must take a large share of this blame. Had they desired it, collections would have been taken and something would have been given to this cause.

Or if we compare the work of our synod with that of the other great synods of the church, the Synod of Illinois is the fifth synod in our church both in membership and the amount given for home expenses. The Synod of Pennsylvania is first in membership and second in congregational receipts. It has a little more than three times the membership of the Synod of Illinois, and its congregational receipts are not quite three times as large. It put into the treasury of this Board last year, nearly $8,000 more than it drew out of it. The Synod of New York is second in the number of its members and first in its congregational receipts. Its membership is three times that of our synod, and its congregational receipts last year were a little more than three times as large as ours. It put into the treasury of the Board $16,000 more than it drew out of it. The Synod of Ohio ranks third in membership in our church and fourth in its congregational receipts. It drew more out of the treasury of this Board last year than it put into it. The Synod of New Jersey is fourth in our church in membership and third in congregational receipts. It put more than $6,500 into the treasury of this Board last year and took nothing out of it.

In view of these facts, your committee would recommend that synod adopt the following resolutions:

Resolved. That our synod is not doing its part of this great and much needed work.

Resolved. That our presbyteries be instructed to see that every church within its bounds makes some contributions yearly to this Board.

Resolved. That we ask our churches to enlarge their contributions to this Board so that the amount of money which we put into the treasury may more largely counterbalance that which we draw out of it.

To their stirring words we might add others equally stirring though addressed not to wealthy synods, but to the members of a weak presbytery in the new state of Colorado showing that the presbyteries that have been most greatly aided appreciate what the Board has done and are awakening to the conviction that weak as they are, having freely received, they should freely give. We quote from the circular letter of the committee of the presbytery of Boulder.

Receipts of the Board were one hundred and twenty-six thousand dollars. The churches in the Presbytery of Boulder contributed only sixty-nine dollars, therefore we have no reason to feel very proud of our part of the contributions to this great work. Especially is this true, since every church in the Boulder Presbytery that owns a house of worship has been liberally helped by this Board to obtain the same.

Brethren, let us be honest in this matter, plead guilty, and do better in the future. Hundreds of homeless churches are struggling for life because they are homeless. Remember that every church organization without a church building is like a family without a home, no certain abiding place.

What will you give to this Board? Do not try to put the Lord's cause aside by contributing one cent or one dime, when you can give one dollar.

INDIAN CHURCH AT LONG HOLLOW, SOUTH DAKOTA.

This little church applied to the Board for $500, but the rules of the Assembly did not permit the grant to be more than $480. This as will be seen from the following letter from the missionary in charge, the Rev. M. N. Adams, was a great disappointment. This was one of the cases where a special fund would have been of great service, but alas! the special fund is exhausted.

We are all very sorry, to find that, you did not succeed in securing the full amount of the $500 grant requested to help that poor native Dakota church in their good work of building an house for God. Already that people had done nobly, and strained every nerve and gathered up all the help among themselves that seemed possible, and so stated in their application to the Board.

Since writing the above it has occurred to me that you may have funds contributed to meet special cases such as that of the Long Hollow Church where five hundred dollars aid was contemplated and named in the application made, but the rules of your Board will not allow that amount to be granted, and, yet, in the circumstances the full amount named would be the right thing to do and grant in honor of Christ the Master.

I hope you may be able to supplement the four hundred and thirty dollars with the seventy dollars from some such available funds.

FROM FINDLAY, OHIO.

Dear Sir and Brethren: Your kind letter containing draft for One Thousand Dollars less Ten Dollar, for Insurance, was gratefully received by the Trustees and Congregation. The building (church) will be completed next week and dedicated free of debt probably latter part of August. We are holding our religious services in the new Sabbath-School rooms and already the attendance has improved. Our Sabbath-School had an attendance of seventy-five yesterday—the largest in its history. I suppose the Sabbath-School now has a membership of not less than ninety. Our church membership now numbers fifty-six. But our roll will be still further enlarged by next month, when we enter into full possession of our new church. In the name of the congregation and myself, accept our thanks for your kind help in our behalf. I have acknowledged receipt of draft to the Trustees of the Board of Education. May the Lord bless the good work of the Board.

FROM INDIAN RESERVATIONS, NEW YORK STATE.

I send you the papers in the Onoville Church matter. They have been delayed because the Indians thought that some kind of a trap was being set for them in our asking from them the mortgage, but when they understood it fully, they had the papers made out.

I see that our Tuscarora people are pushing their church work, and they will need some of the appropriation of $400 next Spring.

Have just returned, with my wife, from the Cornplanter's Reservation, where, for the week past, we have been holding meetings. We left our five children at home, one of them only two years old, and our only boy sick, and trusting in Him who is able to keep our loved ones, we went to the work, and now are rejoicing over the gracious blessing which has come to our Cornplanter Indians. We never saw a more blessed work than that of the last week. We know that our white friends are praying for us.

EDUCATION.

Our attention has been called to an article in the Presbyterian Quarterly, the organ of the Southern Presbyterian Church, entitled "Beneficiary Education—Its Present Unsatisfactory Status." The writer is one who professes "belief in the system as inaugurated and carried on by the Assembly (Southern) and considers this as one of the noblest causes to which the Church is permitted to give her money." His criticism bears upon the heedless administration of the system by the Presbyteries, in that very many are receiving aid who do not absolutely need it. This fact he considers a great cause of the disrepute into which beneficiary education is rapidly falling in the minds of many excellent people. As an indication of mismanagement he affirms that at least five-sixths of all the candidates studying for the ministry in the Southern body are receiving aid either through the Assembly's committee or from individual congregations. This proportion he considers excessive, when compared with that of those who are educating themselves for other professions through a course of study fully as expensive, at least in one instance, as the theological. The writer believes also that appropriations should not be uniform, but graded according to the needs of the students. The case thus presented is a startling one, and one remedy proposed is that every candidate applying for aid shall furnish a certificate from his session that he absolutely needs it.

Now, lest it should be inferred by readers of that article that the same criticism is applicable to the management of beneficiary education in our body, we improve the opportunity to state a few facts in regard to our method, which may be helpful to our Southern brethren and may remove all suspicion that a like state of things exists among us.

In the first place, no candidate is received by our Board unless his application is specially authorized by the session of the church to which he belongs. He must also be examined and recommended by his Presbytery as both worthy and needy. Nor does any candidate receive his quarterly appropriation except upon the approval of his Professors as to character, scholarship and economy. Any indication of defect in either of these particulars, as sometimes appears in the Professor's report, is carefully inquired into and subjects the person either to a kindly reprimand or to the loss of his money. That there may be a laxity on the part of the authorities upon whom the responsibility of determining the need is thrown, or in the conduct of candidates, is not questioned, and we take this opportunity of emphasizing the importance of care and strictness in these particulars by all the parties concerned. Let them remember that there is no surer way of stifling the liberality of the churches than that of wasting their contributions upon unworthy persons or objects. In evidence of this we could produce some instructive facts.

Nor again is the proportion of candidates aided by the Board in our institutions as great as that indicated in the above mentioned article. Taking into account our five largest Seminaries, as represented in their catalogues during the past year, we find in Princeton out of one hundred and sixty-eight students only seventy-six were under care of the Board, less than one-half of the number. In Union, out of one hundred and forty-nine only fifty were on our books, about one-third. In Auburn, out of fifty-three we cared for only fourteen, about one-fourth the number. In Western, out of eighty-three, forty-three were aided, a little over one-half. In McCormick, as might be expected, out of one hundred and eighty-four students, a larger proportion, one hundred and twenty-eight, not far from four-fifths, were helped. The average proportion, it will be seen, is far less than the five-sixths mentioned in the article above referred to, being not quite one-half. Of course, allowance must be made for the fact that some of the candidates not under care of the Board are aided by Seminary scholarships, and some few in our Seminaries belong to other denominations. Among our colored students, and among the Germans, the proportion is necessarily much larger.

There is also another difference to be marked. The amounts of scholarships granted to our candidates are not strictly uniform. The Assembly's rules require that a Presbytery in recommending a candidate shall apply for the "smallest amount required to meet his really necessary expenses." The intention of our method is to secure the strictest economy practicable in the disbursement of funds. We do not propose to develop a "mendicant ministry," nor yet to indulge the cultivation of habits of expenditure that shall unfit our candidates for service in the hardest fields. That our policy is thwarted in some instances we have no doubt, and the injury accruing is very great. We therefore put it upon the consciences of all our students to refrain from all needless self-indulgences in the interest of the general cause. All alike should feel responsible for maintaining the reputation of the Board that aids them, and for giving a good account of the sacred funds granted to them for the holiest of purposes.

INTERESTING LETTERS.

One comes from the pastor of a German church of one hundred and eight members. "Please find enclosed sixty dollars for your Board. It seems to me my people appreciate the benefit which their pastor, and so indirectly, they themselves have derived from the Board. May the Great Head of our Church bless the above sum.

With love,"

Another letter recently received has the following in reference to a student recommended to the Board: "He is a most worthy young man, is making fine progress with his studies, and is helping himself by sawing wood. I do hope that you can put him on the same footing with the other three boys and grant him eighty dollars this year. He has been counting on this aid, and will be greatly disappointed not to receive it."

"I wish the people of our churches could come more into touch with these self-denying, consecrated young men, who are blessed with everything but money. It seems to me that it would tend to open both their hearts and their purses. — College is now honored with five candidates for the ministry, and they all bid fair to make useful men in the work. Now, dear brother, having with a heartfelt sympathy written you in his behalf, I trust that your Board may see its way clear to gladden his heart and strengthen his hands with the aid that he has been hoping for."

How beautiful upon the mountains are the feet of him that bringeth good tidings, that publisheth peace, that bringeth good tidings of good, that publisheth salvation!

*Miscellany.A PRIEST'S PITY FOR HIS PROTESTANT FRIENDS.

A missionary lady, passing the summer in a mountain village was called upon by an old priest who had become very friendly to her and her husband. He seemed very sad, and when she inquired for the cause of his trouble, he replied:

"O, my daughter, my soul is sad, sad unto death, for your sakes. Can it be, Oh! can it be that our Khowadja (her husband) will be lost? He is so good and kind, and is the servant of God; but yet in all my life—and I am two and seventy years old now—I never heard of his doctrines, Woe! woe! will he perish? I love him, I love him very much."

The lady tried to comfort him. She read and quoted passages of scripture to him, ending with, "Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved," and asked him if he believed that.

"O, yes, that is the word of God," he replied, and she said, "My husband does believe on the Lord Jesus, and he tries to live as he wishes; and God's word is sure."

The tears rolled down his cheeks as he talked, and he went off saying, "I will pray to the virgin for you both every day, that she may not be angry at your neglect of her, for I believe you are good people."

"His sorrow was so genuine," says the lady, "I felt condemned, I had shed no tears over his mistaken religion. . . . He and his son both have asked me for the reason of the faith that is in me, and they hear with interest the verses and passages bearing on the worship of God only. So we feel that we have been able to present the truth. We avoid all discussions, as far as possible, and hope it will do good."

If that lady had not "shed tears" for that neighbor, she had left home and native land, and devoted her life to the self-denying work of enlightening and saving the people of whom he is one. But her self-reproachful suggestion deserves to be pondered by us all. Are we not too apt to pray against such teachers of error, rather than to pray for them? We are unjust, if we count them all conscious and willful deceivers. They are blind leaders of the blind, themselves misled by their blind leaders, from their very birth. They can only be reached and helped and won by such considerate, affectionate love as that lady missionary and her husband have felt and shown. Is there a more fit or more interesting subject of prayer than that kind priest, who has promised so tenderly, and no doubt so sincerely, to pray for our missionary brother and sister? Shall we not also pray for them, that they may have grace to persist in their faithful kindness, and be enabled to lead their friend into the true light, in which he will see that not the blessed Virgin, but her incarnate Son is the one effectual intercessor for us?

THE PARSEES.—Rev. George W. Park of Bombay writes in the Gospel in All Lands that the Parsees are as a people very far from being ready to accept Christ. They are a very bigoted race, and the few who have turned Christians have been persecuted almost past belief. It is quite true that they are advanced in civilization, education, and branches of commerce; but I have noticed that the more a heathen native of India becomes advanced in these things, the farther he as a rule gets from Christ, and the harder it is to convert him. With hardly an exception, all the grog shops in Bombay are run by Parsee landlords, and the property of the worst street in Bombay—a street that is wholly inhabited by European prostitutes—is owned and rented to these people by Parsees, and these enlightened and of good social standing. The great mass of the Parsees know very little about their religion. They have a number of Zend prayers printed in the Gujarati character, and these they mumble over as fast as they can move their lips and without understanding a word; as the Zend, their sacred language is understood by very few if any at all. At the end of these prayers is a short one in the Gujarati language, which they understand; and its purport is that they hope God will bless them with a long life, give them riches, give them rich sons-in-law, and a lot more to the same effect. Thanking God for His wonderful mercies never enters their heads. There have been a number of conversions from the Parsees, men who have stood firm and are to-day in the Christian ministry. There is a Parsee Gujarati translation of the New Testament. The Parsees have the same opportunity of hearing the gospel that any other nationality have in Bombay.

ABYSSINIA is the one and only country of Africa bearing the name of Christian. Christianity became the established religion in A. D. 315; but the Christianity of to-day is only a faint reflection of the religion of Jesus Christ. The presence of Jews in the country has had a great influence upon the professed Christianity, as seen in the practice of circumcision, fastings, ablutions, the observance of the Mosaic distinction between clean and unclean animals, and of the Jewish Sabbath as well as the Lord's Day. The Jews of Abyssinia number about 200,000. They go by the name of "Falashas," that is, "exiles," or "emigrants," which name indicates that they were not original natives of Abyssinia, but migrated from Palestine, or some other land. An authoritative account of their origin is impossible, as it is lost in obscurity.

The story of the Mission in Abyssinia of the Society of Promoting Christianity among the Jews is one of thrilling interest. In 1859 Dr. Stern became the pioneer in the work of evangelizing the Falashas. He found them ignorant of the Old Testament, but anxious to hear and possess the Word of God. In two or three years a Mission was established, Dr. Stern being aided by J. M. Flad and others. In 1863 the work was stopped, and the missionaries thrown into prison, from which they were not released until Lord Napier had fought and won the battle of Magdala in 1868. Since that time no European missionary has been permitted to work among the Falashas. But the cause has not declined. Native converts have faithfully and devotedly carried on the work under superintendence of J. M. Flad, who has cared for and planned the work from his home in Kornthal.

There are now in Abyssinia some hundreds of Falasha Jews who are believers in the Lord Jesus Christ. But during the last few years missionaries and converts have passed through troublous times in consequence of the Dervish invasion from the Soudan. These Dervishes, followers of the Mahdi, overran Western Abyssinia, became masters of the country, burned towns, villages and churches, and made captives of all who could not flee. All who refused to become Mohammedans were killed, and others sold into slavery. Some native Christians managed to run away from their owners and found their way back to Abyssinia. One of these, who had been sold to a Mohammedan at Gedaref, came back in this way and related the story of the martyrdom of a Falasha family, converts of the Society. They were overtaken by the Mahdists, and told that they might save their lives if they would become Mohammedans and say: "Allah ilahu ill Allah wa Mohammed e tasul Allah"—the Mohammedan creed. They refused. "Never will we deny Him who died for us on the cross. We are born Falashas, but have been converted to Christ. He is our Saviour, and not Mohammed." The five children were then cut in pieces before the eyes of their parents. The father encouraged and cheered them, saying: "Oh it is only a short suffering, and you will get the crown of everlasting life." After the children had thus been foully massacred, the trembling mother was told: "Now save your life by denying Christ." "Never," was her reply, from a sobbing, broken heart. "I love him: I do not fear death." Her husband had then to witness how she was most cruelly butchered before him. Then his own time was come. "Now, old dog, save your life and become a Mohammedan. We will make you a rich man, and give you all you wish." "No," said he, "You may torture me, you may cut me in pieces; I will not deny Him who has died for me." After which he, too, was killed in the same cruel way in which his poor wife and children had been done to death.—Jewish Intelligence, Sept., 1892.

I saw under the altar the souls of them that were slain for the Word of God, and for the testimony which they held.—Rev. vi: 9.

Thoughts on the Sabbath-School Lessons.

Jan. 1.—Returning from the Captivity.—Ezra, i: 1–11.

In the books of Ezra and Nehemiah, which record the most important events connected with the restoration of the Hebrew commonwealth, we have unfolded to our view a new era in the history of the Theocracy. The contrast between the relation of the Israelitish people to the heathen world in the days of Joshua, and of Ezra and Nehemiah is as great as possible. Under Joshua the people marched, sword in hand, as invincible conquerors, to the possession of the promised land, while the hearts of their enemies melted before them. After the captivity they returned in weakness and fear, by the permission of their heathen rulers and under their patronage and protection. But in the latter case, not less than in the former, the Theocracy was steadily advancing under God's guidance toward the accomplishment of its high end, which was the preparation of the Jewish people, and through them the world, for the advent of the promised Messiah. In the beginning of the Mosaic economy, and during the earlier part of its course, it was altogether appropriate that God should make stupendous supernatural manifestations of his supreme power over the nations of the world. But as the history of the covenant people went forward, there was a gradual return to the ordinary providential administration of the divine government. God's miraculous interventions were never made for mere display. They always had in view a high religious end. As that end approached its accomplishment, they were more and more withdrawn, and soon after the captivity they ceased altogether until the final and perfect manifestation of God in Christ.

E. P. BARROWS.

Jan. 8.—Rebuilding the Temple.—Ezra, iii: 1–13.

There are few human experiences in which joy and sorrow are not mingled. Our satisfaction with what is, is often shadowed by the remembrance of what was or what might have been. Well is it for us, if the shadows are not cast by our own sins or mistakes. But if they are, we cannot do better than, with loving confidence in the promises of perfect forgiveness, to follow the apostle's example and "forgetting those things that are behind and reaching forth unto those which are before, press toward the mark."

Jan. 15.—Encouraging the People.—Hag. ii: 1–9.

These old Testament promises to the Old Testament workers going forth to build the Lord's house, sound wonderfully like the New Testament message to those to whom the building of a spiritual temple was entrusted under the new covenant. Can you trace the parallel? "Work; for I am with you;" "Go ye, and teach all nations . . . and, lo, I am with you always." "My spirit remaineth among you;" "He shall give you another Comforter, that he may abide with you forever." "Fear ye not;" "Let not your heart be troubled, neither let it be afraid." "The desire of all nations shall come;" "I will come again." "The silver is mine, and the gold is mine;" "All power is given unto me." "In this place will I give peace;" "Peace I leave with you."

Jan. 22.—Joshua the High Priest.—Zech. iii: 1–10. "We have a great High Priest, that is passed into the heavens, Jesus, the Son of God."

To the devout and conscientious Jew, there can have been no more solemn time in the year than that great day when the gathered congregation stood without the Tabernacle while the High Priest entered into the Most Holy Place with the blood of atonement. Sin never seems so black as when contrasted with perfect purity and holiness; and there must have been souls in that Jewish assembly conscious of sin-stains, burdened with the weight of short-comings, who would realize, as never before, how sin must look in the sight of a Holy God. To such souls the ceremonies of the day, rightly interpreted and truthfully accepted, would bring a blessed sense of relief, sin-stains washed away in the sprinkled blood, sin-burdens borne far away into the wilderness, to be remembered no more. So, to the Christian of to-day, the remembrance of the perfect holiness of the one who has "passed into the heavens," deepens the sorrow with which he remembers his imperfect service, his frequent falls and failures, while the added thought, "he ever liveth to make intercession for us," brings relief.

Jan. 29.—The Spirit of the Lord. Zech. iv: 1–10. "Not by might, nor by power, but by my Spirit."

How many of the Lord's workers, standing in conscious weakness before mountains of difficulty, have found comfort in this message to Zerubabel. How many have found courage for undertakings that seemed well-nigh impossible in Paul's words, "I can do all things through Christ which strengtheneth me." How many have looked back upon their "abundant labors" with the thankful acknowledgement, "Not I, but the grace of God which was with me." Many, since the days of Zerubabel and of Paul, have anxiously asked the question, "Who is sufficient for these things?" and have rested in the answers that followed it so closely on the pages of their Bible: "Not that we are sufficient of ourselves to think anything as of ourselves; but our sufficiency is of God." "God is able to make all grace abound toward you; that ye always, having all sufficiency in all things, may abound to every good work." "My grace is sufficient for thee: for my strength is made perfect in weakness."

To live sweetly, patiently, gently, calmly amid all the irritating and aggravating things, is the problem of life.—J. R. Miller.

The happiest persons in the world are not those who have the most done for them, but those who do the most for others.

ALEXANDER M. MACKAY.

Children's Church At Home And Abroad.

I am sure that every one of you, when you look on this picture, will think that Alexander Mackay was a handsome man.

The picture is taken, by permission, from a book entitled The Story of Uganda, written by Sarah G. Stock and published by the Fleming H. Revell Company of New York and Chicago.

There is an old proverb, "Handsome is that handsome does;" and certainly the face of Mackay, as shown in the picture, is not more beautiful than it ought to be to represent the beauty of his character as shown by the true story of his life. That story is also told for boys by his sister, in a book of which there is a notice in our December number, page 488.

Any boy or girl who will write to me before the end of March, and tell me what you have learned of Mackay of Uganda from these books or any others, or by talking with older people, may expect to receive a copy of his picture on a sheet by itself.

H. A. N.

A WOODEN SAVIOR.

REV. J. G. TOUZEAU.

On a Missionary journey, the first afternoon out, found me traveling along the bed of a stream with a ceiling of trees overhead. Coming to an open space, we saw a house on the bank of the stream. In front of the house was a man working on a life-sized human figure. I accosted the workman and asked what figure he had there. He answered, "A Christ." I then asked what was the material, and was told it was wood, and that it was obtained in the neighborhood. Imagine that man going out to the woods, selecting a suitable tree, ordering it cut, the branches trimmed off, and then branches and trunk taken to the house together. There the trunk was carefully put in a place to season, and the branches were thrown into a heap to be used as fuel. In due time, one would be used for cooking the family meals, and the other would gradually take the human shape, to represent Jesus, Peter, or Mary. When finished, it would be taken to some church and set up above an altar. Before leaving, the workman would very likely bow down to his own workmanship; certainly, he would take his family to see the image, and they would bow and offer prayer before what, so short a time ago, was brought into their home from the woods, a trunk of a tree, scraps and shavings of which had been gathered up to light the fire. Inside the shop were various figures of saints. The man refused to enter into conversation on the subject, turning his back upon us. We went our way, but I certainly felt that what I had seen that afternoon, and on other occasions, justified my presence in Colombia as a Missionary. Surely, if those who doubt or deny the necessity of Missions in Roman Catholic countries could see the idolatry practiced daily in those countries, their doubts would vanish, and their hearty and prayerful support would be given to the work.

Mr. Touzeau mentions a chapter in the Old Testament, which came to his mind when he saw that man trying to make a "Christ" out of a log. How many of my little Presbyterians can tell where that chapter is? I advise you all to find it and read it. You may get any older person to help you. To every child, under ten years of age, who sends me a postal card with the right chapter and verse written on it, with his own hand, before the end of January, I will send a copy of the picture of the Presbyterian House in New York.

H. A. N.

GRANDMOTHER DESTROYTOWN.

[Another story from "Our Life Among the Iroquois," By Mrs. Harriet S. Caswell. See October number, page 361.]

Grandmother Destroytown lived in the woods, in an Indian cabin quite a distance from neighbors. She hated the missionaries and their religion most cordially and declared that no missionary should ever enter her house.

I was passing this little cabin one day on horseback. I saw the poor deluded woman near the house, gathering sticks. My heart went out to her with a great longing that her old age should be illuminated by the light of the gospel. The door of the cabin stood wide open. For the sake of giving her the blessed message, I resolved to disregard her wishes and enter the house.

Great was the astonishment of the old woman, who had not seen me, when she came to the door to discover a hated white woman, who was also a hated missionary, sitting in her house. I presently gave her the Indian salutation, "I hope it is well with thee, grandmother?" to which she did not reply.

With a malignant scowl, which has been pictured upon my memory ever since, she passed me, went to the corner of her shanty, took a pail and went out to the spring. Soon she returned with a pail of water and poured it into a tub. Taking no notice of me, she passed back and forth from the spring to the tub until it was filled with water. I thought, "When the tub is full she will sit down to rest and I will talk with her;" but when the tub was full she dipped the pail into it and suddenly threw a pail of water into the middle of the room, and seizing a broom began to scrub the floor. Pailful after pailful was thrown, and in every case aimed at me, until my clothing and my feet were drenched with water. Thinking I would not irritate the woman if I kept perfectly quiet, and that she would soon be reconciled to my presence, I did not speak a word. When I could not run the risk of sitting there longer, I said:—

"Well, Grandmother Destroytown, I came here with the hope of making you very happy. I have a message for you; it is a message of good news from heaven, and I greatly long to give it to you, for it would brighten all your last days. When you look back over your past life you remember some things that you wish you could forget. There are stains of sin on your soul. I came to tell you about One who could wash away all those black stains and make your soul white and clean before God. This wonderful Being that I came to tell you about, loves you more than I can possibly tell you, although you have never cared for him, and feel so bitter in your heart towards his messengers; but should the time ever come when you want to hear about this wonderful Friend of yours, you may come to me at the Mission House. I shall never come to you again."

While I stood giving this message, I was receiving, as fast as she could throw it at me, the water from her pail. Then I went out and mounted my horse, who must have been somewhat surprised at my dripping condition, and imagined that he had forgotten some recently forded stream.

Some months before this we had taken into the Mission family two deserted grandchildren of Mrs. Destroytown, who had been converted to the Christian religion and were children of great promise.

One day a messenger from Grandmother Destroytown demanded that we lend these two little girls to her for two days. The first impulse was to deny her request, for, as one of us remarked, "In two days she will undo our work of months." Another said:—

"These children are in the fold. Will not Christ guard his lambs, and perhaps through them reach the heart of the old pagan woman?"

We decided to send them with united prayer, that they might now be messengers of the gospel.

Grandmother Destroytown had prepared an Indian dinner for her guests, and welcomed them with great delight. Could these be the miserable, half starved creatures that she had cast out and left to perish in the woods nearly a year before? She looked at their bright faces, plump cheeks, shining eyes, smoothly brushed hair, clean clothes, in astonishment, and was very proud of them. As she was about helping them to the dinner, one of the little girls said:—

"Stop, grandmother! Wait!"

The child knew that a blessing should be asked, as at the Mission table, but having had no experience in this exercise, was at a loss how to begin. Suddenly she remembered her little evening prayer. She closed her eyes, and folding her little brown hands, said:—

"Now I lay me down to sleep,
I pray the Lord my soul to keep,
If I should die before I wake,
I pray the Lord my soul to take,
And this I ask for Jesus' sake."

A novel blessing for a noon-day meal, but the little one had done best she could, and who shall say that her effort was not accepted? As the old woman understood not one word of English, the only impression left upon her mind was the child talking to Ha-wen-ni-yu, the Good Ruler. During the remainder of the day the little girls played happily together, and the grandmother greatly enjoyed their childish chat. At night she was preparing to put them to bed upon a couch of skins in the corner when one of them said:—

"Stop, grandmother! Wait!"

They knelt together, and in concert repeated the Lord's Prayer, then clambered upon the couch and with wide-open eyes watched their grandmother as she moved back and forth about the little cabin, ready for any conversation that she might care to hold with them. She sat down by the open fire and said: "Why do you talk so much to Ha wen-ni-yu? What are you saying to him?"

"Why, grandmother," said the younger, "we belong to Jesus now; we have given ourselves away to Him. We are doing everything that we can to please Him, and we love Him very much and we love to talk to Him. He is our wonderful Friend, and he loves us more than any body else in the world does. We always talk to Him before we eat and before we sleep. We try to please Him when we study, when we wash the dishes, and when we sweep the floor, and we try to please Him when we play."

She listened attentively, and muttered, "I suppose that is the reason I have not seen you scratch or bite or strike each other to-day."

The children prattled on to her of their great, loving Friend, and at last said, "Grandmother, will you let us sing you a little hymn?"

She consented and they sang in her own language the little hymn which we had prepared for the pagans.

"Jesus, I come to thee, pity me! pity me!
I am a poor sinner, oh, pity me!
As thou art merciful,
Thrust not aside my soul,
Pity me, for I am a poor sinner.
Only thy precious blood
Is able to give me relief,
According to thy mercy,
According to thy loving kindness,
Wash me in thy blood.
I am a poor sinner,
But thou art able to save me.

When the children finished the song the old grandmother seemed to have forgotten them entirely as she sat with a far away look upon her face, gazing into the fire. They soon fell asleep but she sat there through the long hours of the night, reviewing all her past life in its darkness and ignorance and sin. Here she was, a lonely old woman on the verge of the grave. Had her life been all a mistake? Had she been in error? Might she claim this wonderful Friend of the white man and be cleansed from all sin? She recalled a little verse that one of the children had repeated some time during the day: "The blood of Jesus Christ cleanseth me from all sin;" and the other one had said that if one came to Him he should not be thrust aside. The Holy Spirit was doing His work of illumination in that benighted mind.

The next morning the children came triumphantly into the Mission, leading between them old Grandmother Destroytown. As I met them, she said: "I remembered your words to me that I was to come to you if I wanted to hear more of the wonderful Friend. Tell me more now."

Grandmother Destroytown became a consistent member of the Mission church and at last died in the triumph of the Christian faith.

And the servant of the Lord must not strive; but be gentle to all, apt to teach, patient, in meekness instructing them that oppose themselves.—2 Tim. ii: 25.

A number of pleasant and good letters about the picture of Korean boys were received too late to be printed in our December number. It does not seem best to take up any more room in our pages for those boys, but these letters show that the writers have studied carefully and are very intelligent. It is a great pleasure to help such boys and girls. We send the picture to them all.

TWO PENNIES.

BY EMILY HUNTINGDEN MILLER.

Two beautiful, shining pennies!
Bright, and yellow and new!
Don't tell me about the heathen—
I want them myself, I do.

I want a top and some marbles,
A sword and a gun that shoots!
A candy cane and a trumpet,
A knife and a pair of boots.

But then, what if I were a heathen,
With no precious Bible to tell
The story of Jesus our Saviour,
Who loved little children so well!

For Jesus you know may be asking
This question of you and of me:
"Did you carry my love to your brothers
And sisters 'way over the sea?"

I guess you may send them my pennies,
Perhaps in some way they will grow.
For little brooks do grow to rivers
And pennies make dollars, you know.

I'm not very wise, but there's one thing
I think must be certainly true,
If little boys ought to give pennies
Big men should give dollars, don't you?
—King's Messengers.

Systematic Beneficence.

PRIZE ESSAY.

BUTLER'S BIBLE WORK TO BE GIVEN TO THEOLOGICAL STUDENTS.

After consultation with the professors in our different seminaries, the Assembly's Special Committee on Systematic Beneficence, through the generosity of a friend, is able to make the following attractive OFFER.

1. For the best essay on "Christian Stewardship, or God's Claim on His Children's Property," a complete set (10 volumes, price $6.50 per volume) of Butler's Bible Work, bound in half morocco.

2. For the second best essay on the same subject the same Work (10 volumes, price $4.00 per volume), bound in cloth.

This "Work" (8 volumes already issued, and 2 volumes far advanced,) covers the entire Bible, and is "worth its weight in gold" to every minister.

CONDITIONS.

1. The contestants shall be students in our theological seminaries, and those preparing for the Presbyterian ministry in our colleges.

2. The Essays shall not be over 3,000 words in length, and only one side of the page must be used in writing them.

3. They shall be in the hands of the Chairman of the Assembly's Committee (Rev. Rufus S. Green, Orange, N. J.) not later than April 20, 1893.

4. They shall be signed by a fictitious name, and accompanied by a sealed envelope containing this name, and the writer's real name and address.

5. The successful Essays shall become the property of the Assembly's Committee, and will be published by it (under the author's names) in the furtherance of its work.

The unsuccessful Essays will be returned to their writers, if accompanied by sufficient postage.

THE AWARD

will be made by a committee of three persons to be chosen by the Chairman of the Assembly's Committee, and will be controlled by the following points:

1. Scripturalness of treatment.
2. Simplicity of style, with a view to wide reading by the people.
3. Literary merit, other than simplicity of style.
4. Legibility; the Committee of award ought not be asked to decipher hieroglyphics.

Temperance.

The permanent Committee of the Synod of Missouri, at its last annual meeting in October 1892, reported that during the year it had been in correspondence with 127 ministers, 687 elders, and 368 women connected with various churches in the Synod; that a very considerable activity and interest are manifested in many of the congregations; and that some temperance work is done in them all.

There are reported 58 sessions that have permanent committees on temperance; 26 that have a Presbyterian Woman's Temperance Association; and of those reporting on this subject, 36 churches use unfermented, 2 fermented, and 1 either kind of wine at communion. They have received from the Assembly Committee 91,812 pages; bought 68,620 pages; and had printed 181,500 pages—in all, 336,932 pages of temperance literature—nearly all of which has been distributed by mail or otherwise, and circulated by devout women in the various churches and Sunday-schools.

The Synod of Ohio expressed its hearty sympathy with every proper legal, moral and religious effort to arrest and finally deliver our country from the manifest evils which strong drink has brought and is bringing upon all classes of the community.

The Synod also appointed a committee of "five prudent women" to co-operate with the Woman's Temperance Association of our church, whose headquarters are in Philadelphia.

The Synod of Oregon adopted a report of its Committee, which includes the following:

If we would be true friends to the temperance cause we must be united. We may differ as to the methods or wisest measures to be devised for the accomplishment of the great and grand end. One may suggest heavy taxation, another local option, still another constitutional prohibition. But as a popular temperance worker said: "Support and vote for any measure that increases the present restrictions." Upon this ground we most highly commend the noble and persistent work performed by all wise temperance organizations, particularly of christian women. The Synod adopted the following RESOLUTIONS.

First. That as ministers and elders we do our utmost in every lawful christian way to effect the overthrow of the power of the saloon, and the destruction of the use of, and traffic in intoxicating drink.

Second. That this question be continually kept before the minds of our people, in both Sabbath school and church service.

Third. That prayer be offered to Almighty God our Heavenly Father, for guidance and protection in dealing with this one of the greatest foes of the Redeemer's cause.

The Synod of Ind. adopted the following resolutions:

1. That we, as a Synod, do again most earnestly and emphatically voice our opposition to the rum traffic in our State. It is opposed to the laws of God and also to the expressed will of the people of this State who in majority voted that intoxicating liquors should no longer be sold within its fair boundaries, as a beverage.

2. That special effort be put forth to train the children of our Sabbath Schools, and the youth of our Societies in Temperance principles, and in loyalty to our own state and national laws.

3. That we enjoin upon our members the duty of total abstinence, as the only safety for the individual.

4. That Ministers, Elders and the members of our Churches, be urged in every practical way to push with vigor the enforcement of our excellent prohibitory law; and we do this the more earnestly because we believe that its maintenance upon our statutes depends in great measure upon its State-wide enforcement.

5. That we protest against the sale of intoxicants upon the grounds of the Columbian exposition as contrary to the statutes of Illinois, and an outrage upon the recorded sentiment of our country.

6. That the appeal now made to our Churches for funds to carry on its work, by the General Assembly's Permanent Committee on Temperance, receive a ready response from all our Churches.

Other Synods have taken similar action. We have not space enough for extracts from all, but take these specimens from the minutes earliest received. There need be no doubt as to the sentiment throughout our Church being in harmony with these acts of Synods.

Gleanings At Home and Abroad.

The people in Oroomiah, it is said, love to call Dr. Cochran's mother the "Mother of the Nestorians."

Said a missionary whose life was spent in India: "The man who receives gifts from God receives an appointment from God; namely that of donor."

The Midway Mission to the Jews has, according to the Mission Field, distributed 212,000 copies of the New Testament in Hebrew among Jews in all parts of the world.

Persecution does not always follow the giving up of idols in China, but it invariably follows the abandonment of ancestral worship.—Arch-deacon Arthur E. Moule.

The Mission Field estimates that there are 12,000 mission schools sustained by the offerings of Protestant Christians, in which 600,000 children and youth receive instruction.

Mrs. Isabella Bird Bishop, after visiting forty-one medical missions, gave unqualified testimony to the value and power of each of them as an evangelizing agency.—Spirit of Missions.

Says Dr. J. L. Withrow: "The Gospel is aggressive. Christianity must have channels and currents or it cannot live. It is the water of life, and, as water in nature, it must be kept moving. Stagnation spoils it."

Every true convert in heathenism becomes at once a missionary. The changed life, shining out amid the surrounding darkness, is a Gospel in largest capitals which all can read.—Rev. John G. Paton.

Rev. J. Johnston in The Indian Female Evangelist expresses deep regret that the noble scheme set on foot by Lady Dufferin should shut the lips of the messengers of mercy sent to the dark homes of India, from ever mentioning the name of Jesus.

Mr. Johnston, having visited India in 1858 and again in 1889 and 1890, found that while the number of professing Christians had increased seven-fold, and the number of communicants thirteen-fold, the influence of Christ had increased at least a hundred-fold.

Of the Chinese converts on the Pacific coast gathered by the Methodist Mission, 90 per. cent remain faithful, notwithstanding the persecution they receive. They average five dollars per member annually for missions, besides contributing to other benevolent objects.

We are much disposed to account for the similarity between the Jewish temple and Hindu places of worship, and a certain correspondence between the code of Sinai and the ten precepts of Buddhism, on the ground of a Divine revelation made before the dispersion.—Chinese Recorder.

In former years, says Dr. Robert Cust in his "Africa Rediviva," Europeans used to steal Africans from Africa; now they are trying to steal Africa from the Africans. There is a kind of itch for taking possession of everything as if the Creator had only been thinking of Europe when he made the world.

It pays for the church to send her very best men as missionaries. The truest, purest men, the most skillful physicians, the best preachers, the most kindly and courteous Christian gentlemen, with no perceptible flaws in their character, are the men who can do effective work here.—Letter from Oroomiah in The Star in the East.

Dr. Thomas P. Hughes in his article in the Arena for October, mentions as an example of a convert from Islam, the Rev. Imad ud Deen, D. D., of Amritsar. In 1864 he was a bigoted Moslem moulavie; now he is a devout Christian priest, possessing great originality as a preacher, and is mentally a connecting link between Islam and Christianity.

The Chinese Government has been so favorably impressed with the work the Methodist Missions are doing in Peking that it has promised to give positions upon the railroads or in the telegraph offices to all graduates, at a fair salary and the privilege added of keeping the Sabbath—a great concession.—World Wide Missions.

There are 80,000 beggars in Peking. Stark naked except for a rag about their loins, in winter they succumb to the cold every night by hundreds. Gaunt and wan they wander about the city, fighting with dogs for a share in the refuse of the streets. Their physical misery is such that their moral degradation is overlooked.—Article in Harper's Weekly.

There is a smaller proportion of Protestant missionaries in Korea, according to the population, than in any other country except Africa, says Mrs. Underwood. Although the women are secluded, yet a woman who understands medicine may have free access to them anywhere. During a recent tour she was almost mobbed by the people in their eagerness to consult the doctor.

The following are necessary qualifications for missionary work, says Dr. Judson Smith. (1) A clear conviction of the fundamental doctrines of the Gospel, and of their power to bring life and salvation. (2) The missionary spirit, which makes one rise above difficulties and act against obstacles with a patience which outlasts them all. (3) Good mental power and thorough education. (4) Soundness of judgment or good sense.

Said Mrs. Bishop, after visiting the Faith Hubbard Boarding School at Hamadan: The pupils show by the purity, gentleness and self-denial of their lives, that they have learned to follow the Master—a lesson the wise teaching of which is or should be the raison d'être of every mission school. Christianity thus translated into homely lives may come to be the disinfectant which will purify in time the deep corruption of Persian life.

Hunan Province, south of the Yang-tse, contains probably 16,000,000 of people. It is the largest solid mass of heathenism in the world, without one resident Protestant missionary. The people are hardy, brave and prosperous. Although still anti-foreign, the imperial proclamations of toleration will sooner or later be obeyed there. The province will be "open" to missionary residence just as soon as missionaries go and open it — Herald of Mission News.

NOTES ON INDIA MISSIONS.

Of the publications issued by the Bombay Tract Society during the last decade, 142 were written by native Christian authors.

A portable Hindi Bible has just been published by the North India Bible Society. It will be sold at 35 cents a copy. Hindi is read by 60,000,000 of people.

The Mohammedan Mullahs of Delhi have given an order "forbidding Mohammedan boys to attend Mission schools. They have also ordered all Zenanas to be closed to mission visitors." Such "orders" have been frequently given, and occasionally they are obeyed, but a few months will prove the law to be a dead letter.

The Indian Witness tells us that in the North India Conference 43 native pastors draw their salary entirely from the people.

It is said that the sacred fire of the Parsi temple at Udwarda, in the Bombay Presidency, has not once gone out during the 1200 years of their residing in India.

Babu Prosono Kumar Vidyaratna, the distinguished translator of a number of Sanscrit books, among which is the Rig Veda, was baptized sixteen years ago. He soon after became skeptical and seemed to have lost his faith in the Gospel. But while translating the sacred Veda, his faith in Christ returned, and now he has fully identified himself with the Christian Church.

An English Missionary appeals to the graduates of English Universities to go to India as educators in Mission schools. He makes the following points:

(1) "The most influential classes in India, the men who are to mould the destinies of their country, are willing to put themselves under regular Christian instruction in our colleges and schools."

(2) "Government is willing to withdraw in favor of efficient Christian colleges where these can be provided."

(3) "The higher educational work calls for the best powers of heart and brain any Christian can offer to his Master, and is full of interest, variety, and promise."

(4) "Qualified men cannot be found, to give themselves to it."

(5) "Is not this a call to you?"

To some of the bright young men in American Colleges we would say: "Is not this a call to you?"

The Indian Standard notices the death of Prof. Umés Chaudra Chatterjee, one of Dr. Alexander Duff's converts. He was baptized in 1858, and has been connected ever since with the Free Church Institution in Calcutta. For many years he has been Professor of History and Political Economy. The testimony of such a life is of inestimable value to the cause of Christ in India.

The character of the Buddhist hierarchy is strikingly illustrated by the statement of Mr. Graham Sandberg, who, in his writing on Thibet says that "The Chinese, in order to maintain their footing in Thibet, and thus reserve for their exclusive advantage the commercial products of the country, as well as remain the sole suppliers of its natural wants, scruple not to bring about the murder of each successive sovereign of the land before he becomes of age. In this way, five at least, of the Grand Lamas of Lhasa, during the present century, have been deliberately put to death."

And yet, there are men in Christain America, who seem to think the Chinese Buddhists are about as good as American Christians!

G M W.

Ministerial Necrology.

—We earnestly request the families of deceased ministers and the stated clerks of their presbyteries to forward to us promptly the facts given in these notices, and as nearly as possible in the form exemplified below. These notices are highly valued by writers of Presbyterian history, compilers of statistics and the intelligent readers of both.

BOING, ELIAS L.—Born, New York City, Oct. 31, 1824; graduated, University of New York, 1850, Union Theological Seminary, 1853; ordained, 1853; missionary to the Choctaws, 1853-1855; preached at Almont, Mich., one year; pastor, Durham, N. Y., 1856-1864; pastor at Angelica, N. Y., missionary to freedmen, agent of the Board of Church Erection at Rochester, 1864-1872; ministered in Fredericksburg, Md. (where he organized a Presbyterian church) 1872-1879; Durham, N. Y., 1879-1885; stricken with apoplexy, removed to Green Village, N. J.; Died Oct. 27, 1892.

Married, Aug. 30, 1853, Miss Anna M. Stiles, of Newark, N. J.

Book Notices.

MISSIONARY LANDSCAPES IN THE DARK CONTINENT, is the striking and suitable title of a volume in which Rev. James Johnston, A. T. S., "has sketched in outline a few of the notably fascinating African spheres where the missionary vanguards have established their outposts."

They are such as the following: Nyasa, "The Lake of the Stars," Life Pictures from North African Lands, Uganda under Conquest, Sunrise in Kaffraria, South Africa, etc. There are thirteen of them filling 264 pages—such fair and readable pages as are sure to be found in books published, as this is, by Anson D. F. Randolph and Company, New York, 183 Fifth Avenue.

THE DIVINE ART OF PREACHING, is the title which Dr. A. T. Pierson has given to the little volume of 156 pages which contains his Lectures Delivered at the Pastor's College, connected with the Metropolitan Tabernacle, London, England, during the last year.

We shrink a little from the title, for while we accept Dr. Pierson's statement, "that a sermon is a product not of the mind of man only, but of the mind of man in contact with the Spirit of God, and the truth of God," that statement clearly leaves the product human and not "divine." The text taken from the written word of God is divine in a sense in which the best sermon educed from it by the most devout and spiritual preacher is not divine. Preaching is a human art, however needful and available is the divine power without which it cannot be worthily or effectively done. The divine in preaching is not the "art" of preaching.

But this is only an instance of Dr. Pierson's tendency to excessive intensity of expression, a fault easily forgiven in the midst of so many rare excellences, but not to be imitated as faults are so much more apt to be than excellences.

These thirteen brief lectures will be found by attentive readers—and it is not easy for Dr. Pierson's readers or hearers to be inattentive—not only abounding in pertinent and wise instruction, but pervaded by a devout and fervent spirit, sweetly and powerfully winning the reader to that experience which is expressed in the title of the concluding lecture. "The Preacher Communing with the Spirit."

STORY OF JOHN G. PATON. Told for Young Folks by the Rev. James Paton. Published by A. C. Armstrong & Son, 51 East 10th St., near Broadway, New York. Price $1.50.

Many Americans, old and young, are now having the opportunity to hear from the hero's own lips the story of Thirty Years among South Sea Cannibals. Those whose interest has thus been awakened and many more who have not shared this opportunity will welcome for their homes and Sabbath-school libraries this volume, somewhat simple in style and more profusely illustrated than the two-volume Life of John G. Paton, which first introduced him to American readers a few years ago. It can hardly be called a children's book and we feel that there is still an opportunity for a skillful writer to tell the story again or to cull many thrilling and touching incidents from it for younger boys and girls.

TEN YEARS DIGGING IN EGYPT, by W. M. Flinders Petrie; Published by Fleming H. Revell Co., Union Square, New York City. Mr. Petrie's book is an interesting description of an accurate investigator's work. Professedly the book is written for the ordinary reader; and yet the ordinary reader must now and then read with pretty careful thoughtfulness. Perhaps, however, reading as the ordinary reader generally reads, he will not be troubled with these parts, and will overlook the careless use of English here and there. The book is interesting in every way, written earnestly and frankly, and full of information regarding the ancient times and ancient customs of the most interesting country in the world save Palestine.

THE STORY OF UGANDA AND THE VICTORIA NYANZA MISSION, by Sarah Geraldina Stock. Fleming H. Revell Company, New York.

In November 1875, Henry M. Stanley's memorable challenge to the christian world to "send missionaries to Uganda" appeared in the London Daily Telegraph, and on the 11th of March 1876, the first missionaries for the Lake region sailed from England. "The Story of Uganda" covers the eventful years which lie between these dates and the close of 1891. It is a story of christian heroism unsurpassed in the history of modern missions. No less than sixteen of the noble men who responded to the call for missionaries sleep in African soil, some of them filling a martyr's grave. But neither climate, nor persecution, nor intrigue of Arab slave trader, Romish priest or royal tyrant, could stay the progress of Christ's kingdom by the Lake Uganda. Dark days may yet be in store for the Nyanza Mission, but "the word of God is not bound."

THE FIFTH GOSPEL; THE LAND WHERE JESUS LIVED, by J. M. P. Otts, L.L.D., author of Laconisms, The Wisdom of Many in the Words of One, Nicodemus with Jesus.

"This little book," says its author, "is not meant to be biographical in its order, nor exhaustive in its descriptions and discussions. Its purpose is to give a pen-picture of some of the prominent points in the life of Jesus the Christ, and of the land in which he lived."

He has made these pen-pictures so vivid as to show why he accepts M. Renan's designation of that land as "The Fifth Gospel," and they all have the tone and colors which we should expect such pictures to receive from the pen of a reverent evangelical believer. There are a score of such pictures in a volume of 387 pages.

Fleming H. Revell Company, New York, Chicago and London.

Synods in SMALL CAPITALS; Presbyteries in italics; Churches in Roman.

It is of great importance to the treasurers of all the boards that when money is sent to them, the name of the church from which it comes, and of the presbytery to which the church belongs, should be distinctly written, and that the person sending should sign his or her name distinctly, with proper title, e. g., Pastor, Treasurer, Miss or Mrs., as the case may be. Careful attention to this will save much trouble and perhaps prevent serious mistakes.

ATLANTIC.—Fairfield—Tabor, 2.	2 00
BALTIMORE.—Baltimore—Baltimore 2d, 23; Baltimore Central, 15 22. New Castle —Elkton, 49.	Washington City—Washington City, Gunton Temple, Memorial, 5 22; Washington City North, 9 68.
CALIFORNIA.—Benicia—St. Helena, 12. Los Angeles —Colton, 1st, 5 70; Fullerton, 1; Los Angeles, 3rd, 7; New hall, 12; Pasadena Calvary, 5; Westminster, 3. Oakland —Oakland Centennial, 13. Sacramento —Carson City, 7; Vacaville, 11. San Jose —Boulder Creek, 5; Hollister, 2.	80 70
COLORADO.—Boulder—Longmont, Central, 3 75; Valmont, 16 cts. Denver —Otis, 9; Valverde, 1 50; Yuma, 1 23. Pueblo —Durango, 1st, 10; Pueblo, Fountain, 3; Rocky Ford, 1st, 2.	30 66
ILLINOIS.—Bloomington—Gibson City, 17; Lexington, 10. Cairo —Dabois Columbian Offering, 3. Chicago —Chicago, 1st, 24 76;—3d, 280;—Belden Avenue, 6 50;—Fullerton Avenue, 70 37. Freeport —Middle Creek, 16 50; Ridgefield, 3 12. Mattoon —Paris, 15. Peoria —Brunswick, 2 30; Peoria, Grace, 12 05. Rock River —Geneseo, 1 60. Schuyler —Quincy, 1st, 5 53. Springfield —Springfield, 2d, 44 55.	510 06
INDIANA.—Crawfordsville—Bethany, 10; Frankfort, 1st, 15 30. Fort Wayne —Ligonier, 6. Indianapolis —Greenwood, 6 39. Logansport —Bethlehem, 3; Centre, 3. New Albany —New Albany, 2d, 19 55.	63 21
INDIAN TERRITORY.—Muscogee—Achena, 2.	2 00
IOWA.—Cedar Rapids—Cedar Rapids, 2d, 16 32; Wyoming, 1st, 4 81. Corning —Prairie Star, 2 83; Platte Centre, 2 77. Des Moines —Dallas Centre, 8; Newton, 23 09. Dubuque —Rowley, 2 56; Walker, 5 55. Iowa —Keokuk, Westminster, 10 77; Kirkville, 4. Sioux City —Le Mars, 1st, 11 02.	93 07
KANSAS.—Emporia—Belle Plaine, 4. Highland —Blue Rapids, 13; Washington, 1st, 6 38. Neosho —Carlyle, 94 cts; Columbus, 11; Paola, 7 50. Osborne —Kill Creek, 3 25. Solomon —Sylvan Grove, 1st, 15. Topeka —Kansas City, 1st, 15 20.	75 27
KENTUCKY.—Ebenezer—Paris, 1st, 7. Louisville —Hodgensville, 1 40.	8 40
MICHIGAN.—Detroit—Brighton, 2. Flint —Argentine, 7 50; Linden, 4. Lansing —Lansing, 1st, 7. Monroe —Erie, 1st, 5; La Salle, 1st; Palmyra, 5. Saginaw —Grayling, 2.	33 50
MINNESOTA.—Mankato—Lyons, 1; St. James, 3 50. Red River —Angus, 2 67. St. Paul —Bloomington, Oak Grove, 3; St. Paul, House of Hope, 53 59.	63 76
MISSOURI.—Kansas City—Clinton, 1st, 7 85; Kansas City, 3d, 2. Ozark —Eureka Springs, 10. Palmyra —Enterprise, 4 40; Grantsville, 5. Platte —Craig, 3; Trenton, Hodge, 2 56. St. Louis —St. Louis, 2d German, 3.	37 61
NEBRASKA.—Hastings—Oak Creek, 5. Kearney —Sumner, 1 50. Nebraska City —Adams, 6; Fairmont, 4; Pawnee City, 1st, 7 49; Plattsmouth, 1st, 4 17; Sterling, 6. Niobrara —Oakdale, 4 50. Omaha —Belle Centre, 1;—Craig, 15 52; Clifton Hill, 1 30.	56 46
NEW JERSEY.—Elizabeth—Lamington, 20; Perth Amboy, 10 15; Roselle, 6 40. Monmouth —Farmingdale, 4; Moorestown, 5; Riverton, Calvary, 6. Morris and Orange —Madison, 123 12; Whippany, 1. Newark —Newark, 2d, 16 78; Newark, Park, 9 59. New Brunswick —Dayton, 4 21; Flemington, 50 13; Titusville, 20.	276 38
NEW MEXICO.—Rio Grande—Las Cruces, Spanish, 1; Socorro, Spanish, 2.	3 00
NEW YORK.—Albany—Ballston Centre, 4. Binghamton —Binghamton, 1st, 91 84; Cortland, 78 42. Boston —Roxbury, 14. Brooklyn —Brooklyn, Greene Avenue, 10 64; West New Brighton, Calvary, 5. Buffalo —Buffalo, Bethany, 18; Buffalo Central, 36 14; Buffalo, Westminster, 163 38. Cayuga —Auburn, 2d, 15 40; Genoa, 2d, 1; Ithaca, 1st, sab-sch, 19 81. Geneva —Waterloo, (add'l.) 5. Hudson —Florida, 1 36. Long Island —East Hampton, 12. New York —New York, Church Street, 10; New York, Westminster, W. 23d Street, sab-sch, 15. Niagara —Albion, 13; Lewiston, 5. North River —Bethlehem, 7. Rochester —Rochester, Brick, 100. St. Lawrence —De Kalb, 1; De Kalb Junction, 2; Morristown, 6 21. Steu- ben—Arkport—1 78; Hammondsport, 5. Syracuse —Amboy, 8; Skaneateles, 6 23; Syracuse, Memorial, 5. Troy —Hoosick Falls, 28 75. Westchester —Greenburgh, 164 26; Peekskill, 2d, 10; Stamford, 75 03; Yonkers Westminster, (incl. sab-sch, 20) 35 54.	979 56
OHIO.—Athens—Beech Grove, 2 72; Warren, 6. Chilli- cothe—Bainbridge, 2. Cincinnati —Cincinnati, Poplar Street, 4; Cincinnati, Walnut Hills, 1st, 50 02; Delhi, 1st, 5 50; Hartwell, 9. Columbus —Columbus, Westminster, 7. Dayton —Clifton, 13 55. Marion —Berlin, 1 76. Maumee —Bryan, 1st, 7 89; West Unity, 11. Portsmouth —Ironton, 9; Sardinia, 9. St. Clairsville —Buffalo, 23 10; Washington, 2 80. Steubenville —Bacon Ridge, 3 43; Carrollton, 11. Wooster —Shreve, 5. Zanesville —Bladenburgh, 4; Martinsburgh, 4; Mount Pleasant, 5 03; Newark, Salem, German, 2 06.	193 94
PENNSYLVANIA.—Allegheny—Allegheny, Central, 20; New Salem, 4. Blairsville —Braddock, 1st, 17 03; Harrisburg City, 5 50; Irwin, 11 50; Jeannette, 6 11; Livermore, 6 45; McGinniss, 3; Manor, 2; Murrsville, 4. Butler —Middlesex, 18 50; Mount Nebo, 2 40; North Butler, 6; Prospect, 2 60; Summit, 6 80. Carlisle —Lebanon, 4th Street, 25; Upper Path Valley, 5; Waynesboro, 5 83. Chester —Christiana, 4; Dillworthtown, 3 70; Ridley Park, 7 65. Clarion —Edenburgh, 10; Oil City, 21 7; Wilcox, 45 cts. Erie —Pleasantville, 5; Utica, 4; Waterloo, 1. Huntingdon —Houtsdale, 8. Lackawanna —Monroeton, 4; Wilkes Barre, Grant Street, 4 90. Lakigh —Portland, 2; Pottsville, 1st, 16 54; Upper Mount Bethel, 2. Northumberland —Lewisburgh, 48 50; Mahoning, 15; Milton, 70; Mount Carmel, 1st, 13 91; Sunbury, 1st, 37. Philadelphia —Philadelphia Bethlehem, 15 30; Philadelphia, Greenhill, 32 04; Philadelphia, Mariner's, 4. Philadelphia North —Fox Chase, 13 50; Mount Airy, 26 33. Pittsburgh —Centre, 23 39; Forest Grove, Ladies' Society, 9 35; Homestead, 5; Pittsburgh, 2d, 10 80; Pittsburgh, East Liberty, 19; Pittsburgh, Homewood Avenue, 2 88; Pittsburgh, McCandless Avenue, 5 40; Pittsburgh, Park Avenue, 23 50; Pittsburgh Shady Side, sab-sch, 12. Redstone —Mount Vernon, 6; Pleasant Unity, 2. Shenango —Mount Pleasant, 10; Neshaunock, 12 30; Petersburg, 4; Rich Hill, 3. Washington —Cameron, 3; Claysville, 21 55. West- minster—Union, 20; York, Calvary, 20 62.	719 23
SOUTH DAKOTA.—Aberdeen—Britton, sab-sch, 10; Ellendale, 7. Central Dakota —Alpena, 4. Southern Dakota —Parker, 12.	33 00
TENNESSEE.—Union—Rockford, 4.	4 00
TEXAS.—Austin—Austin 1st, 21. North Texas —Seymour, 2 20.	23 20
UTAH.—Montana—Miles City, 1st, 9. Utah —Hyrum, Emanuel, 2 05.	11 05
WASHINGTON.—Puget Sound—Port Townsend, 1st, 6 05.	6 05
WISCONSIN.—La Crosse—Greenwood, 3. Milwaukee —Milwaukee, Immanuel, 35 47. Winnebago —Stevens Point, 20 61.	59 08
Total from Churches and Sabbath-schools,....	$ 3,477 46
OTHER CONTRIBUTIONS.
"A. Well Wisher,".....	$ 90 00
"C. Penna,".....	4 00
A. J. Gere, Halstead, Pa.,.....	1 00
	$ 95 00
	$ 3,572 46

LEGACIES.

Estate of Margaret J. Boudeman, Danville, Pa.,	$ 344 25
" " Joseph W. Edwards, late of Kel-	268 75
" " James Gladden, late of Kelsey, Ohio,	120 18
	$ 623 24

MISCELLANEOUS.

Interest on Investment,	2,741 35
Sale of Church property,	1,094 30
" " Book of Designs, No. 5,	75
Premiums of Insurance,	312 80
	4,149 20

SPECIAL DONATIONS.

Kansas, Emporia, Emporia 1st,	$30 00
Peabody,	42 07 62 07
New Jersey, Jersey City, Jersey City 1st,	72 07
New York, Troy, Caldwell,	5 00
" " Cohoes,	40 00 45 00
" " Westchester, White Plains, Sabbath-School,	10 00
" " "	189 14
W. S. Ladd, Portland, Oregon,	100 00
	280 14
	$8,684 04

CHURCH COLLECTIONS AND OTHER CONTRIBUTIONS.

Seven months, April to October, 1892,	$ 27,264 11
Seven months, April to October, 1891,	27,206 93

MANSE FUND.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Instalments on Loans,	$ 1,246 30
Interest,	29 95
Premiums of Insurance,	3 00
	$ 1,279 25

If acknowledgment of any remittance is not found in these reports, or if they are inaccurate in any item, prompt advice should be sent to the secretary of the Board, giving the number of the receipt held, or, in the absence of a receipt, the date, amount and form of remittance.

ADAM CAMPBELL, Treasurer,
53 Fifth Avenue, New York.

RECEIPTS FOR COLLEGES AND ACADEMIES, SEPTEMBER AND OCTOBER, 1892.

BALTIMORE—Baltimore—Baltimore 2d, 13 54; New Castle—Elkton, 34; Pencader, 4 70; Washington City—Washington City Metropolitan, 10. 63 24
 COLORADO—Boulder—Valmont, 23 cents; Pueblo—Eastonville, 2; Pueblo 1st, 1 23 3 53
 ILLINOIS—Bloomington—Clinton, 10; Chicago—Chicago, 1st, 24 76; —Jefferson Park, 36 89; Evanston 1st, 22; Peoria—Farmington, 9 90; Yates City, 3 60; Rock River—Aledo sub-sch, 1 69; Schuyler—Macomb, 11; Monmouth 1st, 18 33; Quincy 1st, 2 64; Springfield—Flagah, 2 56; Springfield 2d, 44 55. 182 31
 INDIANA—Crawfordsville—Lafayette 2d, 20 83; Fort Wayne—Fort Wayne 3d, 8 17; New Albany—New Albany 2d, 23 30. 12 30
 IOWA—Cedar Rapids—Wyoming 1st, 3 61; Des Moines—Chariton 1st, 2 35; Fort Dodge—Spirit Lake, 2 85. Iowa—Middletown, 60 cents. Waterloo—Dysart, 4. 14 51
 KANSAS—Neosho—Blue Mound, 1; Carlyle, 71 cents. 1 71
 MICHIGAN—Detroit—Brighton, 3. Lansing—Concord 1st, 207. 5 07
 MISSOURI—Platte—Lathrop, 2. St. Louis—St. Louis 2d, German, 2. 4 00
 NEW JERSEY—Elizabeth—Elizabeth 3d, 21; Roselle 1st, 4 30; Springfield, 13. Jersey City—Carladt, 2; Jersey City 1st, 10. Monmouth—Forked River, 2; Moorestown, 5; Oceanic 1st, 13; South Amboy, 1; New Gretna, 1. Morris & Orange—East Orange 1st, 13; —Brick, 65 54; Hillside, 15; Madison, 7 08; Summit Central, 62 82; Whippany, 1. Newark—Bloomfield 1st, 93 06; Newark 2d, 9 25; Calvary, 1 49; —Park, 12 13. New Brunswick—Bound Brook 1st, 20; Dayton, 3 16. Newton—Belvedere 1st, 10. 457 29
 NEW YORK—Albany—Albany—State Street, 23 64. Binghamton—Binghamton 1st, 91 84. Brooklyn, L. I.—3d Street, 43 33. Buffalo—Buffalo, Bethany, 12—North, 56 17—Westminster, 9 96. Cayuga—Auburn 2d, 8 06. Genesee—Batavia, 1st, 13 15. Hudson—Florida, 4 02; Good Will, 3 16; Nyack, 1st, 20 55; Ridgebury, 1; West Town, 8. Long Island—East Hampton, 10. Nassau—Huntington 1st, 57 55. New York—New York, Spring Street, 10—University Place, 147 77. Niagara—Albion, 20. North River—Bethlehem, 7; Cornwall, 7 24; Little Britain, 3. Otsego—Springfield, 2 80. Rochester—Rochester 3d, 21; St. Peter's, 25. Steuten—Addison, 5 05; Arkport, 1 33. Troy—Troy, Second Street, 67 66; Waterford, 1st, 7 23. Westchester—Peekskill 1st, 29 72. 780 72
 OHIO—Bellefontaine—Forest, 3. Dayton—Greenville,

1st, 18; Springfield 2d, 43 93. Huron—Monroeville, 95c. Lima—Convoy 1st, 4 06; Harrison, 3 40; Van Wert, 16 70; Wapakoneta, 10. St. Clairville—Mount Pleasant, 4 23. 105 02
 CALIFORNIA—Los Angeles—Pasadena 1st, 25. Sacramento—Roseville, 3. San Jose—Hollister, 2. 30 00
 PENNSYLVANIA—Allegheny—Allegheny, McClure Ave, 24 96. Blairsville—Fairfield, 7 44; Murrysville, 4; Butler—Concord, 10 32; North Butler, 7; North Washington, 3 30. Carlisle—Harrisburgh, Pine Street, 90 46; Petersburg, 2 37; Waynesboro, 4 37. Chester—Fagg's Manor, 21; Ridley Park, 5 74. Clarion—Edinburg, 10. Johnsbury, 35c.; Oil City, 2d, 7; Wilcox, 34c. Erie—Erie 1st, 20; Jamestown, 3 17; Kerr's Hill, 2 50; Meadville, 1st, 6 10; Huntingdon—Lower Spruce Creek, 3 77. Kittanning—Clarksburgh, 5; Ebenezar, 3. Lackawanna—Mt. Pleasant, 1. Lehigh—Hasleton, 30 49; Summit Hill, 7 21; Philadelphia—Phila., 9th, 10 23—Tabernacle, 30 22; Tabernacle sub-sch., 23 37—Bethlehem, 23 50—Olivet sub-sch., 9 58. Philadelphia—North—Abington, 30 50; Carmel, 2; Fox Chase, 10. Pittsburgh—Pittsburgh 2d, 8 10; Pittsburgh 3d, 593 35—East Liberty, 53—Park Ave. 15—Shady Side, 18 10; Shady Side Sub-sch., 9. Redstone—Little Redstone, 8 13—Pleasant Unity, 3 20. Shenango—Sharpville, 2 45. Washington—Cove, 2 25; Washington, 2d, 14 16. Wellsville—Lawrenceville, 4; Westminister—Slateville, 5; York Calvary, 6 23. 165 91
 SOUTH DAKOTA—Dakota—Good Will, 4 30.
 TENNESSEE—Kingston—North Side, 4. Union—Knoxville, 2d, 63 28. 67 28
 WISCONSIN—Milwaukee—Delafield, 1 32.
 Total from the churches and Sabbath-schools $2,561 43
 Interest on Temporary Investments..... 35 24
 Interest on Permanent Funds..... 423 43
 Paid in from Hasting's Col. Endowment Fund 123 65

PERSONAL.

Rev. W. L. Tarbert and wife, 1 60, "C. Penna" 6.
A. J. Geer, Hallstead, Pa., 1.....	8 60
Total receipts for Sept. and Oct. '92.....	$ 3,253 40
Previously reported.....	40,391 00
To date.....	$ 43,644 40

C. M. CHARNLEY, Treasurer,
P. O. Box, 294, Chicago, Ill.

RECEIPTS FOR EDUCATION, OCTOBER, 1892.

ATLANTIC—Fairfield—Tabor, 2. 2 00
 BALTIMORE.—Baltimore—Baltimore, 2d, 4 75—Baltimore, Brown Memorial, 85 39; Churchville, 7 40; Highland, 6. New Castle—Dover, 16; Green Hill, 5 50; New Castle 1st, (sub-sch, 8 96) 125 96; Pencader, 4 63; Port Penn, 3 40. Washington City—Falls Church, 19; Washington City 6th, 21—Washington City, Metropolitan, 50. 349 03

CALIFORNIA.—Benicia—Two Rocks, 12. Los Angeles—Pomona, 34. Sacramento—Carson City, 5; Elk Grove, 3 10. San Jose—Hollister, 2.
 CATAWBA.—South Virginia—Mt. Herman, 1; Albright, 1. 2 00
 COLORADO.—Boulder—Boulder 1st, 32; Valmont, 10 cts. Denver—Littleton, 4. Pueblo—Alamosa, 4 25; Colorado Springs, 7 75. 48 10

ILLINOIS.—Alton—Litchfield, 5 31. Bloomington—Lexington, 10; Minonk, 8 20; Normal, 4 85. Chicago—Chicago 1st, 16 51—Chicago 7th, 2; Chicago, Fullerton Avenue, 25 83; Hyde Park, 68 10; Wheeling, German, 9. Freeport—Scales Mound, German, 5; Winnebago, 12; Zion, German, 9. Mattoon—Arcola, 5; Pleasant Prairie, 5 75. Ottawa—Ansonia 1st, 10 57. Peoria—Knoxville, 5 83. Rock River—Morrison, 10 25; Peniel, 8 20. Schuyler—Appanose, 10; Chill, 8 84; Monmouth, 18 82; Quincy, 1st, 2 20. Springfield—Springfield 2d, 66 84. 881 59

INDIANA.—Crawfordsville—Crawfordsville Centre, 29 89; Lafayette, 2d, 23 85. Fort Wayne—Fort Wayne 8d, 8; La Grange, 5 50. Indianapolis—Hopewell, 4 94; Indianapolis 12th, 4 25; Roschdale, 2; Southport, 4 75. Logansport—Crown Point, 3; Lucerne, 6. New Albany—Hanover, 19 70; Lexington (Noble Chap. 1 50) 4; Sharon Hill, 2 60. Vincennes—Poland, 6. White Water—Greensburg, 23 17. 146 65

IOWA.—Cedar Rapids—Marion, 18 07; Wyoming 1st, 3. Council Bluffs—Anderson, 3; Conway, 3; Council Bluffs, 1st, 2 93; Hamburg, 8 50; Sidney, 6. Des Moines—Winteret, 17. Dubuque—Waukon, German, 50. Fort Dodge—Dana, 5 40; Grand Junction, 8 90. Iowa—Fairfield, 11 15; Keokuk, Westminster, 14 76; Martinsburg, 5 56. Iowa City—Marengo, 8 30. Waterloo—Clarksville, 10; Janesville, 4 60; Sioux City—Larabee, 8 65; Calliope, 4. 190 54

KANSAS.—Emporia—Burlington, 8; Council Grove, 20; Eldorado, 10. Highland—Hiawatha, 5; Holton, 1st, 12. Neosho—Carlyle, 59 cts. Solomon—Clyde, 8 83; Ellsworth 1st, 5 15. Topeka—Grand View Park, 5. 74 56

KENTUCKY.—Ebenezer—Paris, 7. 7 00
MICHIGAN.—Detroit—Brighton, 4. Lake Superior—Menominee, 36. Lansing—Jackson, 8; Lansing—Franklin Avenue, 9 10. Monroe—Monroe, 10 25. Saginaw—Grayling, 2. 68 35

MINNESOTA.—Duluth—Duluth, Westminster, 4 43; Lakeside, 16. Mankato—Balaton, 1. St. Paul—Oak Grove, 2; St. Paul, 9th, 8 07—House of Hope, 73 55. 104 06

MISSOURI.—Kansas City—Rich Hill, 9 40. Ozark—Springfield, Calvary, 19 21. Platte—Cameron, 12; Craig, 4; Fairfax, 4; Lathrop, 4. St. Louis—De Soto, 5; St. Charles 1st, 12; —2d German, 5. 74 61

NEBRASKA.—Hastings—Hastings, German, 3. Kearney—Fullerton, 4 62. Nebraska City—Hickman, German, 23 60. Omaha—Bellevue, 12; Fremont, 19 51; Omaha, Lowe Ave., 8 63. 70 36

NEW JERSEY.—Elizabeth—Cranford, 29 21; Elizabeth, 2d, 43 03; —Westminster, 128 09; Lamington, 13; Metuchen, 13; Pluckamin sab-ach, 8 43; Roselle, 1st, 4; Springfield, 14. Jersey City—Englewood, 85 89. Monmouth—Calvary, 8; Forked River, 2; Jacksonville, 2; Moorestown, 5; Mount Holly, 23; Providence, 2; South Amboy, 2. Morris and Orange—Boonton, 1st, 23 68; Hillside, add'l, 10; Madison, 5 86; New Providence, 6; Summit, Central, 108 84; Whippany, 1; Newark—Newark, 2d, 15 04; —3d, 71 41; —1st German, 22; —Park, 5 91. New Brunswick—Alexandria, 1st, 7; Dayton, 2 68; Dutchneck, 4; Holland, 6. Newton—Asbury, 50; Belvidere, 2d, 12; Blairtown (sab-ach, 12 51) 1 31; Newton, 40. West Jersey—Camden, 3d, 3 70; Haddonfield sab-ach, 37 50. 928 46

NEW YORK.—Albany—Ballston Centre, 5 12; Jefferson, 1st, 7 77. Binghamton—Binghamton, 1st, 91 34; Nichols, 2 50. Boston—Boston, St. Andrews, 5; Cambridgeport, 6 85; Windham, 6 15. Brooklyn—Edgewater, 1st, 17; West New Brighton, Calvary, 17. Buffalo—Buffalo, Central, 30 85; Franklinville, 1st, 4. Chemung—Waikins, 17 50. Geneva—Geneva, North, 110 75; Seneca, 20 18. Hudson—Chester (sab-ach, 2) 27 16; Florida, 85 cts.; Goshen, 29 43; Hamptonburgh, 17; Middletown, 2d, 33 88. Long Island—East Hampton, 20; Port Jefferson, 10 02. Lyons—Newark, Park, 2; Wolcott, 1st, 6 90. New York—New York, 4th, 49 25; —Central, 177 92; —Spring Street, 10. Niagara—Albion, 11 25. North River—Bethlehem, 7; Highland Falls, 6 51; Marlborough, 21 10; Pleasant Plains, 4. Otsego—Gilbertsville, 23; Oneonta, 40. Rochester—Rochester, 1st, 23 04; —Brick, 50. St. Lawrence—Heaverton, 2; Ox Bow, 5 60. Steuben—Addison, 10 11; Arkport, 1 11. Syracuse—Skaneateles, 5 81. Troy—Argyle, 2; Johnsonville, 1 55; Troy, Oakwood Avenue, 10 34; —Second Street, 98 12; —Woodside, 41 91. Utica—Wolcott Memorial, 13. Westchester—South East Centre, 11; South Salem, 14 50; Yonkers, Westminster, 20 45. 1170 89

OHIO.—Chillicothe—Bainbridge, 3. Cincinnati—Cincinnati 7th, 17 75; Clifton, 10 83; Delhi, 2 50; Monroe, 3; Montgomery, 8; New Richmond, 4. Columbus—Central College, 13 43; Columbus 1st, 75. Dayton—Bath 3; Dayton 1st, 87 49; New Carlisle, 8; Osborn, 3; South Charleston, 10. Lima—Blanchard, 2; Delphos, 2; McComb, 6; Van Wert, 33. Mahoning—Hanover, 5 30; Massillon, 2d, 23 22; North Jackson, 4. Marion—Delaware, 21; Liberty, 9; Piquette, 4. Maumee—Toledo, 1st, 73 36; West Bethesda,

5. Portsmouth—Red Oak, 7. St. Clairsville—Buffalo, 18 70. Steubenville—East Springfield, 4; Steubenville, 1st, 26 80. Wooster—Ashland 1st, 7 83; Creston, 8 62; Lexington, 9; Orrville, 3; Savannah, 8 20; Wooster, 1st, (sab-ach, 4 51) 48 34. 581 61

PENNSYLVANIA.—Allegheny—Allegheny Central, 20; McClure Avenue, 87 39; Avalon, 6; Bellevue, 9 45; Freedom, 6; Glenfield, 2 87; Hilland, 18 50; Leetsdale, 65 03; Pine Creek, 1st, 10; Rochester, 1 10; Van Port, 2 35. Blairsville—Murrysville, 5; Plum Creek, 5; Unity, 15 23. Butler—Concord, 8 71; Plain Grove, 9. Carlisle—Big Spring, 26 35; McConnellsburgh, 3 65; Mercersburgh, 12 62; Silver Spring, 5; Waynesboro, 3 65. Chester—Christiana, 3 52; Kennett Square, 5; Ridley Park, 4 78; Wayne, 42. Clarion—Brockwayville, 5 55; Edenburg, 25; Greenville, 8; Mount Tabor, 6 98; Oil City, 2d, 5; Wilcox, 28 cts. Erie—Bradford, 33 08, Erie, Chestnut Street, 8; Fairview, 4; Garland, 7 81; Hadley, 2; Oil City, 1st, 37 08; Pittsfield, 4 05; Springfield, 3; Warren, 10; Waterloo, 1. Huntingdon—Altoona, 1st, 26 23; Houtsdale, 5; Milesburgh, 6 23; Moshannon and Snow Shoe, 3; Orbisonia, 12 41; Penfield, 6; Petersburg, 4 20. Lackawanna—Bethany, 2 90; Carbondale, 68 13; Great Bend, 5; Hawley, 1st, 9; Herrick, 6; Kingston, 23 66; Langelyffe, 5; Monroeton, 3; Towanda, 54 44. Lehigh—Bethlehem, 1st, 20 27; Pottsville, 1st, 22 95; South Bethlehem, 8. Northumberland—Bald Eagle and Nittany, 5 08; Beech Creek, 3; Berwick, 10; Derry, 4 50; Hartleton, 4; Lewisburg, 36 50; Mahoning, 63 77; Milton, 70; Mount Carmel, 15 78; New Columbia, 2; Williamsport 3d, 38 07. Philadelphia—Philadelphia 3d, 184 35; —9th, 60; —Evangel, 22—Scuth, 15; —Walnut Street, sab-ach (Elm Ave Branch, 3 04 cts) 43 04; —Green Hill, 31 54; —North Broad Street, 40; —Tioga, 30 71. Philadelphia North—Bristol, 10; Carversville, 1 71; Doylestown, 46 47; Fox Chase, 9; Roxborough, 5. Pittsburgh—Cannonburgh Central, 7 75; —First, 11; Crafton, 13; Fairview, 3; Forest Grove Lad's Branch, 9 60; Ingram, 10; McKee's Rocks, 5 10; Mingo, 4; Montours, 7; Mount Pisgah, 10; Oakmont 9; Pittsburgh, 2d, 5 75; —4th, 40 88; —6th, 43 60; —McCandless Ave, 7 10; —East Liberty, 71; —Grace Memorial, 2; —Lawrenceville, 26 82; —Park Avenue, 23 50; —Shady Side, 7 50; —Swissvale, 26 02; West Elizabeth, 6. Redstone—Dunbar, 26; Mount Vernon, 6; Scottdale (sab-ach, 2 63) 14. Shenango—Moravia, 4; Pulaski, 3 45; Sharon 1st, 19; Wampum, 9 50; Unity 8. Washington—Hookstown, 7; Limestone, 3 50; Wheeling, 2d, 20 53. Wellboro—Allegheny, 1. Westminster—Middle Octorara, 5; Strasburgh, 5; Union, 25. 2215 20

SOUTH DAKOTA.—Central Dakota—Woonsocket, 1st, 3 50. 3 50

TENNESSEE.—Union—New Providence, 10 09; Washington, 3. 13 09

UTAH.—Utah—Ephraim, 2; Manti, 1st, 4. 6 00

WISCONSIN.—Madison—Pulaski, German, 8. Winnebago—Weyauwega, 2 34. 10 34

Receipts from churches in October, 1892,..... $ 107 57
" " Sabbath-Schools..... 6,399 76.

Total..... $ 6,507 33

LEGACY.

Estate of Hugh Mearns, $141 50. Estate of Margaret J. Boudeman, Danville, Pa., $259 26. 400 76

INCOME ACCOUNT.

105; 49; 90;..... 244 00

GRATITUDE FUND.

10; 1; 20; 25;..... 56 00

REFUNDED.

Rev. W. L. Lyle; 25;..... 26 00

MISCELLANEOUS.

A. J. Gere, 1; C. Penna., 2;..... 3 00

Total receipts in October, 1892..... $7,336 69

Total receipts from April 16, 1892..... 53,896 02

JACOB WILSON, Treasurer,
1334 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia,

RECEIPTS FOR FOREIGN MISSIONS, OCTOBER, 1892.

ATLANTIC—Fairfield.—Good Will, 2; Tabor, 2. 4 00
BALTIMORE—Baltimore—Baltimore 2d, 54 61; Highland, 8; Paradise 10. New Castle—West Nottingham, 21; Wilmington Olivet Y. P. S. C. E., 10; Washington—Washington Metropolitan, 60; —North, Youth's Miss. Soc'y, 15. 181 61
CATAWBA.—South Virginia—Albright, 1; Mt. Hermon, 1. 2 00
COLORADO.—Boulder—Longmont Y. P. S. C. E., 4 75; Valmont, 55 cts. Denver—Denver, North sab-sch., 3 86; Valverde, 35 cts.; —(sab-sch. 55 cts.) Gunnison—Gunnison sab-sch., 2. Pueblo—Monte Vista, 64. 75 67
ILLINOIS.—Alton—Carlinville, 8; Greenville, 10; Nokonia, 4 25; Plainview, 7 20; Raymond, 7 23; Salem German, 10 10; Sparta, 10; Woodburn German, 11 65; Zion, German, 4 70. Bloomington—Clinton, 89; Cooksville, 18 88; Elm Grove, 2; Hoopeston, 7 75; Minonk, 15; Pontiac Y. P. S. C. E., 15; Waynesville, 14 50. Cairo—Dubois, 3; Du Quoin, 31 75; Equality, 1; Fairfield, 2; —sab-sch., 80 cts.; Mount Carmel, 30; —(sab-sch., 9); Nashville, 6 75; Olney, 21. Chicago—Chicago, 1st, 93. 60; —3d, 180; —5th, 6 05; —6th, 485 01; —10th, 2; —Covenant, Y. P. S. C. E., 66 67; —Jefferson Park, 70; Deerfield, 13 95; Du Page, 31 73; Hyde Park, 164 88; Itasca, 2; Joliet Central, 160 10; New Hope, 38 04; sab-sch., 1 23; Riverside, 5 35; Waukegan, 10. Freeport—Galena, 1st, 21 25; Marengo, 20; Middle Creek, 18 50; Queen Anne German, 5; Woodstock, 7 23. Mattoon—Pana, 1 80; Paris, 25. Ottawa—Aurora, 30 40; —sab-sch., 9 30; Morris, 20. Peoria—Brimfield, 1; Canton, Y. P. S. C. E., 10 50; Deer Creek, 6 33; sab-sch., 59 cts; Elmwood, 9; Farmington, 12 50; Ipava, Y. P. S. C. E., 9 10; Peoria, 1st, 79 48; —Grace, Y. P. S. C. E., 9 50; Prospect, 35 51. Rock River—Albany, 3 96; Ashton, 8; Buffalo Prairie, 5; Coal Valley, 4; Franklin Grove, 9 61; Garden Plain, 22 58; Geneseo, 10 75; Milan, 10; Newton, 24 85; Norwood, 13 50; Pleasant Ridge, 1 05; sab-sch., 1 60; Sterling, Y. P. S. C. E., 15 27. Schuyler—Augusta sab-sch., 10; Brooklyn, 1; Burton Memorial, 15; Carthage, 11 13; sab-sch., 2 33; Clayton, Y. P. S. C. E. salary J. N. Hyde, 10; Ellington Memorial, 4; —(L. Aid Society, 3 45); Kirkwood, Y. P. S. C. E., 14; Monmouth, 74 06; Mount Sterling, 70 80; Y. P. S. C. E., 31 50; —* 11 09; Oquawka, 11 57; Quincy, 1st, 14 52; Maroa, 15 40; Springfield, 1st, Y. M. Soc'y, 25 50; —2d, 196 87. 2,556 58
INDIANA.—Crawfordsville—Hopewell W. M. Soc., 10; Lafayette 2d, 133. Fort Wayne—Fort Wayne, 3d, 36 27. Logansport—Lucerne, 5 25. New Albany—Charlestown, 5; Madison, 1st, sab-sch., 45 11; Monroe, 11; Mount Lebanon, 6; Smyrna, 5. Vincennes—Petersburg Y. P. S. C. E., 6. White Water—Connersville, German, 6 94; L. M. S., 3 06; Liberty sab-sch., 3 20; Y. P. S. C. E., 6 35. 281 18
INDIAN TERRITORY.—Cherokee Nation—Fort Gibson "Whatsoever" Soc., 5. Chickasaw—Guthrie, 4 25. Chock-taw—Wheelock sab-sch., colored, 8. 12 25
IOWA.—Cedar Rapids—Blairtown sab-sch., 2; Y. P. S. C. E., 3; Cedar Rapids 2d 62 77; —3d sab-sch., 17 59; Clinton, Y. P. S. C. E., 5 43. Council Bluffs—Afton, 10; sab-sch., 4 00; Corning, 15 50; Lenox sab-sch., 2 96. Des Moines—Dallas Centre sab-sch., 9; Des Moines, Westminster Y. P. S. C. E., 10; Newton sab-sch., 3 84. Dubuque—Rowley, 2; Waukon, German, 40 50. Iowa—Keokuk, Westminster, 45 82; Martinsburg sab-sch., 6 67; Mt. Olivet Y. P. S. C. E., 9 50. Iowa City—Le Claire, 1 50; Mount Union, 2; Princeton, 5. Sioux City—Cherokee, 41; Cleghorn, 7 77; Meriden, 4 23. Waterloo—Marshalltown, W. B., 10; West Friesland German, 10. 831 67
KANSAS.—Highland—Clifton, 14 75; Holton, 1st, 15 94. Larned—Hutchinson Y. P. S. C. E., 6 05; Larned, "Band of Workers", 3 75; Spearville, 13 67. Neasho—Carlyle, 8 88; Central City, 1 77; Chanute Y. P. S. C. E., 3 14; Fort Scott, 1st sab-sch., 4 85; Paola Y. P. S. C. E., Native preacher, 12 51. Solomon—Culver, 15; Glasco, 9 80. Topeka—Lawrence Y. P. S. C. E., 10; Leavenworth, 281; sab-sch., 30; —Y. P. S. C. E., 30 60; Vineland sab-sch., 23; K. C. Central Y. P. S. C. E., 3 75; —Western Highlands, 4 93; —sab-sch., 2 98; —Y. P. S. C. E., 7. 499 01
KENTUCKY.—Louisville—Hodgensville, 1 40. 1 40
MICHIGAN.—Flint—Lapeer, 13 54; Marlette, 1st, 4 05. Grand Rapids—Grand Rapids Westminster Y. P. Assoc. salary of W. J. Drummond, 18 75; Montague sab-sch., 20; —sab-sch., 6 95. Lake Superior—Iron Mountain, 3 04; Marquette, 5; Rec Jacket, 7 31; Negaunee, 11 51; Ishpenning, 14 10; Escanaba, 12; Redseer, 12; St. Ignace, 7 51; Sault Ste. Marie, 29 23. Monroe—Clayton, 4 26. Saginaw—Grayling, sab-sch., 3; Ithaca, 10; Lafayette and Emerson, 53. 373 77
MINNESOTA.—Duluth—Duluth 1st, 90; Hinckley, 9 30; Two Harbors sab-sch., 3 60. St. Paul—Red Wing Y. P. S. C. E., 17 83; St. Paul, Central, 45 02; —House of Hope, 349 14. Winona—Chester, 5 40. 530 49
MISSOURI.—Kansas City—Appleton City, 7 00 (sab-sch., 8 17). Ozark—Brest, 4. Palmyra—Brookfield, 11 50. Platte—Craig, 2; Gallatin, debt, 3; Weston, 1. St. Louis—Nazareth, German, 10; —L. M. S., 10; Salem, German, 10; St. Louis 2d German, 7; —Cote Brillante, Y. P. S. C. E., 13 90. 89 57
NEBRASKA.—Hastings—Hastings German, 3. Kearney—Oak Creek German, 5; Culbertson, 3; Shelton, 6 50. Nebraska City—Hickman German, 9 50; Plattsmouth German, 1 50; —sab-sch., 1 50; Niobrara—Wakefield 1. Omaha—Bellevue, 10 50; Omaha, 2d, 10 57; —Lowe Ave. Y. P. S. C. E., 2 55. 54 52
NEW JERSEY.—Elizabeth—Cranford, 9 67; Westminster sab-sch., 7 15; Plainfield, Crescent Ave., 253 88; Roselle, 21 40. Jersey City—Carlstadt German, 3; Englewood, 129 09; Jersey City 1st, 39 12; Passaic German, 5; West Hoboken, 30. Monmouth—Cranbury 2d, 31 43; Jamesburgh Y. P. S. C. E., 3; Mount Holly sab-sch., 15 59; Oceanic sab-sch., 11. Morris and Orange—Chatham 177 43; East Orange, Brick, 4 3 98; Madison, 58 93; Morristown South Street sab-sch., Miss. Soc'y, salary of F. G. Coan, 112 50. New Vernon, sab-sch., for J. N. Hayes, 2; Rockaway Y. P. S. C. E., 5 06; Schooley's Mountain, 45; South Orange Trinity, 88 75; Summit Central, 142 02; Whippany, 18 84. Newark—Bloomfield 1st, sab-sch., for Syria, 100; Caldwell, salary, Wm. A. Lane, 220; Montclair Trinity, salary, A. C. Good, 100; Newark 2d, 89 06; —Park, 35 44; —Woodside, 22; —5th Avenue sab-sch., "Truth Hall," 15 00. New Brunswick—Bound Brook, 40; Dayton, 18 59; New Brunswick 1st, Y. P. S. C. E., 6 76; Trenton, Prospect Street, 33. Newton—Belvidere 1st, 50; La Fayette, 3; Yellow Frame, 3. 3030 21
NEW MEXICO.—Rio Grande—Las Cruces Spanish, 1; Socorro Spanish, 3. 4 00
NEW YORK.—Albany—Albany 6th, Y. P. S. C. E., 15; Esperance sab-sch., 3; Saratoga Springs 2d, 50; Stephentown, 2 50. Binghamton—Binghamton 1st, 336 21; Whitney's Point, 10 78. Boston—South Ryegate, 20. Brooklyn—Brooklyn Central, 72; East Williamsburg, German, 5; —South 3d Street, 27 13. Buffalo—Buffalo, Bethany, 64; —North, 103 52; —sab-sch., 15 68; Westminster, 87 67; Clarence, 8 28; Glenwood sab-sch., 2; Olean, Y. P. S. C. E., 2; United Mission, 10. Champlain—Belmont, 29. Columbia—Catskill, 19 94; Windham, 55. Genesee—Leroy sab-sch., 30 51. Geneva—Ovid, 120 80; Seneca Falls, 90 75; —Boys' Band, 16 50. Hudson—Chester sab-sch., 21 53; Florida, 5 61; Middletown 2d, 59 78. Long Island—Amagansett, 4; Bridgehampton, 23 19; East Hampton, 35 72; Franklinville, 11 50; West Hampton, 64 28. Nassau—Babylon Y. P. S. C. E., 28 50; Hempstead, Christ Church Y. P. S. C. E., 8 32. New York—New York 1st Union, 46 41; —Canal Street, 20; —East Harlem Y. P. S. C. E., 8; —Phillips sab-sch., 50; —Spring Street, 75; —Zion, German, sab-sch., 10. Niagara—Albion, 55 25; Lewiston, 10; Lockport 1st, Y. P. S. C. E., support of Miss Murray, 30 45; Youngstown sab-sch., 7 71. North River—Bethlehem, 25; Newburgh Calvary, 10 45; Pleasant Plains, Y. P. S. C. E., 25; Rondout, 110 15; —sab-sch., 18 80. Otsego—Cooperstown 103 12. Rochester—Caledonia, 33 63; Ogden Y. P. S. C. E., 29; Rochester Brick, 25; —Westminster, 75. St. Lawrence—Chaumont sab-sch., 5 09; Sackett's Harbor Y. P. S. C. E., 11 66. Steuben—Arkport, 7 12; —sab-sch., 3 00. Troy—Green Island 10. Utica—Forest, 7 32. Westchester—Darien, 10 50; —* sab-sch., 10 50. 2495 22
NORTH DAKOTA.—Fargo—Durbin, 1; Fargo sab-sch., 5 63; Lisbon Y. P. S. C. E., 8 91; Mapleton, 5. 20 54
OHIO.—Bellefontaine—Belle Centre, 5. Chillicothe—Waverly, 2. Cincinnati—Glendale, 70; Lebanon, 18; Madisonville, 2 55. Cleveland—Cleveland 1st, Emma D. Freeman, 509; Cleveland 1st, Mrs. Flora S. Mather, 1000; Cleveland, Case Avenue, salary of J. H. Young, 250; Cleveland, Woodland Avenue, salary of D. L. Gifford, 250. Columbus—Central College, 30; Columbus, Broad Street, 5 51. Dayton—Dayton Memorial Y. P. S. C. E., 7 10; Dayton Park Y. P. S. C. E., 3 76; Seven Mile sab-sch., 2 88; Troy, 10. Huron—Fostoria, 22. Lima—Mount Jefferson, 12 50; St. Mary's Y. P. S. C. E., 10; Turtle Creek, 7. Mahoning—Massillon Y. P. S. C. E., 19 30; New Lisbon, 17; New Lisbon, 17 50; Warren Y. P. S. C. E., 6. Marion—Ostrander sab-sch., 9 60; Ostrander Mrs. S. J. Flanagan, 100; Providence, 1; West Berlin, 3 03. Maumee—Antwerp, 2. St. Clairsville—Bellair 1st, Y. P. S. C. E., 20. Steubenville—Corinth, 55; East Liverpool 1st Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Porter, 25 75; New Hagerstown Debt, 2 80; New Hagerstown sab-sch., 10 83; New Harrisburg, 10; Pleasant Hill, 1 25; Wells-ville Y. P. S. C. E., 25. Weseter—Apple Creek, 47; Wooster, Westminster, 106 53. Zanesville—Keene sab-sch., 10; Newark, Salem, German, 1. 3691 29

PACIFIC.—Benicia—Fulton, 8 50; Healdsburg, 5 85. Los Angeles—Fillmore, 5; Glendale, 10; Grandview Y. P. S. C. E., 4 45; Graham Mem'l, 30 85; Hueneme, 100; Monticeto, 1; Pomoza Y. P. S. C. E., 10; Westminster, 5. San Jose—Hollister, 5; Las Gatos sab-sch, 9. Stockton—Fowler Y. P. S. C. E., 7 30. 201 45

PENNSYLVANIA.—Blairsville—Irwin, *10 55; Unity, children, 9 10. Butler—Middlesex sab-sch, Infant Dep't, 30; Plain Grove, 24. Carlisle—Big Spring, 19 14; Dauphin Y. P. S. C. E., 10 40; Harrisburgh, Pine Street, 440 89; Waynesboro, 24 06; Wells Valley, 2 50. Chester—Bryn Mawr, Salary Dr. Warless and Mr. Fulton, 52 50; Fairview, 14; Media, 254 13; Middletown Y. P. S. C. E., 15; Oxford, 1st, 11 25. Clarion—Dubois, 33 54; East Brady, *9; Edenburg, 50; Emlenton sab-sch, *14 64; Oil City, 2d, 7; Wilcox, 1 84. Erie—Cool Spring, Mrs. R. Tait, 7 50; Fredonia, 2 93; Mount Pleasant, 6 16. Huntingdon—Birmingham, Warrior's Main Chpl, 12 87; Curwensville, 27 94; Newton Hamilton Y. P. S. C. E., 5. Kittanning—Rural Valley, 5. Lackawanna—Carbondale, 162 50;—Y. P. S. C. E., 26; Hawley Y. P. S. C. E., 8 37; Monroetop, 12; Nicholson Y. P. S. C. E., 5; Plains, *10 31;—sab-sch, *4 25; Towanda sab-sch, 33 50; Wilkes-Barre, 1st, 218 41; E. B. Sturges, Scranton, salary Dr. Johnson, 300. Lehigh—Allen Township sab-sch, for Ningpo, 38; Easton, 1st sab-sch, for Ningpo, 50;—2d sab-sch, for Ningpo, 7 97;—Olivet sab-sch, for Ningpo, 16 50; Hazleton sab-sch, for Ningpo, 27 58;—sab-sch, *31 74; Mauch Chunk sab-sch, for Ningpo, 40; Mountain, 18 09; Port Carbon sab-sch, for Ningpo, 2; Pottsville, 1st sab-sch, for Ningpo, 19 88;—2d sab-sch, for Ningpo, 35; South Bethlehem sab-sch, for Ningpo, 5;—sab-sch, *19 15; Stroudsburg sab-sch, for Ningpo, 26 13; Summit Hill sab-sch, 43 65; White Haven Y. P. S. C. E., salary of W. J. Drummond, 21; "Cash" for Ningpo, 5 48. Northumberland—Bald Eagle and Nittany sab-sch, 5; Mahoning, H. M. Hinchley, 25; Mount Carmel, 5 30. Philadelphia—Philadelphia, W. Spruce St., salary of J. L. Nevius, 150. Philadelphia Cohoksink sab-sch, *15 10;—Gaston sab-sch, 25 79;—West Hope, 27. Philadelphia North—Ablington, 63 75; Chestnut Hill, Trinity, 149 66; Frankford Y. P. S. C. E., 8 59; Germantown, Union Summer Eve Services, 121 93; Hermon, *15 85; Jenkintown, Grace, 6 21; Norristown, 1st, Salary J. B. Ayres and Wm. H. Lingie, 500; Wissinoming, 10. Pittsburgh—Oakdale, 235; Pittsburgh, 2d, Y. P. S. C. E., 25;—2d, 44 55;—6th Y. P. S. C. E., 15;—East Liberty, 136 (sab-sch, 100);—Park Avenue, 90;—Park Avenue, N. Millholland, 5; Racoon, 69 43 (sab-sch, 3 25); Shady Side sab-sch, 49 50. Redstone—Laurel Hill, 47 69; McKeesport, Special, 150; Round Hill, 22. Shenango—Little Beaver, 4 54; Mahoning, 14; Mount Pleasant sab-sch, 30 11. Washington—West Alexander sab-sch, *3 25. Westminster—Chestnut Level Y. P. S. C. E., 9. 5,633 98

SOUTH DAKOTA.—Aberdeen—Britton, 10; Central Dakota—White, 3 80. Southern Dakota—Scotland, 6 50. 20 80

TENNESSEE.—Union—Spring Place, Y. P. S. C. E., 2. 2 00

TEXAS.—Austin—Austin, 1st, sab-sch., * 5. 6 00

UTAH.—Montana—Boulder, 35; Bozeman, Y. P. S. C. E., 16 33; Granite, 5c. a week, 10. Utah—Evanston, * 6. 67 38

WASHINGTON.—Puget Sound—Pt. Townsend Bay, 1 00. 6 00

WISCONSIN.—La Crosse—Greenwood, 7. Madison—Baraboo, sab-sch, 3 29; Highland, German, 4; Pulaski, German, 9. Milwaukee—Delafield, 10; Delafield Girl's Band, 2, Ottawa, 3 26; Stone Bank, 6 03. Winnebago—Merrill, East Side, 3 52. 26 11

WOMAN'S BOARDS.

Woman's Board of N. W., 8,444 39; Woman's Board of New York, 4,522 47; Woman's Board of North Pacific, 548 51; Woman's Board of Philadelphia, 3,395 64; Woman's Board of Northern New York, 845 85; Occidental Board, 1,102 73. $18,859 61

LEGACIES.

Estate of Margeret Bodeman, dec'd, 634 26; Estate of James Wood, dec'd, 43 75; Estate of Elizabeth Rogers, dec'd, 100; Estate of John McLain, dec'd, 540 37; Estate of Elijah DeWitt, dec'd, 500; Estate of Hugh Mearns, dec'd, 141 50; Estate of Benjamin Darlington, dec'd, 1000; Estate of Sarah Warner, dec'd, 500. $ 3459 88

MISCELLANEOUS.

"A believer in Missions, Pitts, Pa.," Salary of G. A. Goddahn, 200; Students of Parson's College, support of W. G. McClure, 52 00; Rev. William Adams, N. Y., 60 00; Geo. S. Hayes, Chefoo, China, 40 00; Rev. E. P. Robinson, Orchard Park, N. Y., 15 00; Rachel C. Crawford, 50 00; A. J. Gere, Halsted, Pa., 2 00; A. M. T., 2 00; Mr. J. Hill, 55 00; G. W. Seiler, 3 00; "A friend," 150 00; E. Sterling Ely, 306 12; Miss. N. C. Gaston, Munnsville, N. Y., For Lomis Merrill, 4 00; Meeting of Nebraska State Synod, 13 00; Rev. W. W. A., 50 00; Miss Clarke, 5 00; Isaac Miller, Wyoming, Neb., work under Mr. Farnham, 1 9 00; Mrs. G. B. Huelbert, St. John's, Ore., 2 00; A. P. Logan, support of Ling Ki Yuen, 5 00; Mrs. M. J. Quigley and daughter, Dorchester, Ill., *1 00; Mrs. Julia H. Davis, Watkins, N. Y., 5 00; A. Porter and wife, Petoakey, Mich., 10 00; Rev. and Mrs. R. C. Townsend, Tipton, Ia., 5 00; Sam'l B. Turner, Quincy, Ill., 100 00; "O. P. N.," 60 00; Students of McCormick Theological Seminary, Support of T. A. Brashear, 123 55; Rev. G. Gillespie, Dallas, Ore., 10 00; Isaac Miller, Wyoming, Neb., 500; Rev. F. B. Perry, 10 cents; Mrs. H. N. LaRue, Marietta, O., 2 00; Jno. H. Bloom, LeRoy, Neb., 2 50; Rev. H. K. Bushnell, Hastings, Neb., native preacher, 147 00; "C. Penna.," 22 00; A. professed disciple, Perth Amboy, N. J., 70 cents; Rev. H. N. Walker, Mariettes, O., 10 00; Copalpo, Church, Chilli, 27 80; Missionary Soc'y. of Tung Chow College, 5 65; Rev. John N. Forman, India, 20 00; Mrs. DeHeer, Gaboon, in memory of Rev. C. DeHeer, 10 00; Mrs. Reutlinger, Gaboon, in memory of Rev. C. DeHeer, 5 00; From U. P. Church, New California, Ohio, for West Persia, 17 58; John Mason, Stone Bank, Wis., 10 00; A Christian Scientist, Marquette, Mich., 5 00; Sam'l Stewart, Ottawa, Wis., 1 00; Rev. E. P. Dunlap, 5 00; Mrs. Joseph McDermott, Summit Hill, Pa., 1 00; Atlanta, (Ga.), 4th Presch., 5 00.

Total Amount received during Oct., 1892. $ 43,152 33

Total Receipts from May 1, 1892, to Oct., 30, 1892. 181,518 48

Total Receipts from May 1, 1891, to Oct., 30, 1891. 188,909 68

WILLIAM DULLES, JR., Treasurer,
53 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

*Offering on Columbus Day for Foreign Missions on the Western Hemisphere.

RECEIPTS FOR FREEDMEN, OCTOBER, 1892.

ATLANTIC.—Fairfield—Ladison, 2; Tabor, 2. 4 00
BALTIMORE.—Baltimore—Baltimore 2d, 8 40. New Castle—Pencader, 4 70. Washington City—Washington Assembly 16. 29 10

CATAWBA.—South Virginia—Holbrook Street, 2. 3 00

COLORADO.—Boulder—Valmont, 10c. Denver—Littleton, 3. Pueblo—Durango 6. 9 10

ILLINOIS.—Alton—Carlinville, 8. Bloomington—Lexington, 5. Chicago—Chicago 1st, 41 26;—Covenant 5; Itaska, 2. Freeport—Ridgefield, 6 44. Peoria—Peoria 1st, 1. Rock River—Geneseo, 1 60; Sterling sab-sch., 4 21; Schuyler—Monmouth, 14 84; Quincy 1st, 3 20. Springfield—Springfield 2d, 24 60 and 19 25 (44 55). 136 10

INDIAN TERRITORY.—Choctaw—Wheelock, sab-sch, colored 7. 7 00

IOWA.—Cedar Rapids—Lyons, 3 40; Wyoming, 3. Council Bluffs—Woodbine, 8 20. Des Moines—Des Moines Westminster, 3 75. Iowa—Keokuk Westminster, 6 74. 25 09

KANSAS.—Larned—Arlington, 2. Neosho—Carlyle, 59 cts. 2 59

KENTUCKY.—Ebenezer—Lexington 2d, 217 50. 217 50

MICHIGAN.—Detroit—Brighton, 2. Lansing—Marshall, 5 64. 7 64

MINNESOTA.—Mankato—Balaton, 1; Wells, 15. St. Paul—St. Paul, House of Hope, 59 75; Stewart Memorial, 19 15; Oliver, 7 25. 112 15

MISSOURI.—Platte—Lathrop, 3. St. Louis—St. Louis 2d German, 2; Webster Grove, 3 40; West St. Louis 45; 53 40

NEBRASKA.—Nebraska City—Bennett, 7. 7 00
 NEW JERSEY.—Elizabeth—Elizabeth Marshall Street, 25 57; — Westminster, 47 59; Roselle, 4. Jersey City—Carlstadt, German, 1; Englewood, 85 90; Jersey City 1st, 10; Monmouth—Burlington, 25; Forked River, 3; Moorestown, 5; South Amboy, 1. Morris and Orange—Hillside 5; Madison, 5 15; Morristown 1st, (C. M. S.) sab-sch., 50; — South Street, 127 08. Newark—Newark 2d, 17 36; — 2d, 246 14; — Park, 7 05. New Brunswick—Dayton, 2 63; Trenton 1st, 234 08. 90 410
 NEW YORK.—Albany—Voorheesville, 3. Binghamton—Binghamton 1st, 68 19; Cortland, 183 50. Boston—Newburyport 2d, 105. Buffalo—Buffalo Central, 17 39; — Westminster, 13 95. Geneseo—Warsaw, 37 39; Wyoming sab-sch., 10 50. Geneva—Romulus, 16 51. Hudson—Florida, 85 cts. New York—New York 14th Street, 12 60; — Madison Square, 50 24; — Spring Street, 10. Niagara—Albion, 13 50. North River—Bethlehem, 7. Rochester—Geneseo 1st, 14; Sparta 2d, 18 43. Steuben—Arkport, 1 11; Campbell, 12. Syracuse—Wolcott, 8 04. Troy—Olivet, 7 01. Utica—Clinton, 22 09. 560 80
 NORTH DAKOTA.—Fargo—Mapleton, 5. 5 00
 OHIO.—Cincinnati—Hartwell, 5. Columbus—Columbus, Broad Street, 44 80. Lima—Sidney, 13 70. Marion—Ostrander, 8 40. Steubenville—Annapolis, 3; Corinth, 10; New Harrisburgh, 5. Wooster—Plymouth, 4. Zanesville—High Hill, 6 35; Mt. Zion, 7; Zanesville 2d, 9 40. 116 65
 PACIFIC.—San Jose—Hollister, 2. 2
 PENNSYLVANIA.—Blairsville—Murrysville, 5. Butler—Concord, 8 70; North Washington sab-sch., 13; Scrub Grass, 30; Sunbury sab-sch., 14. Carlisle—Big Spring, 18 50; Paxton, 14 20; Upper Path Valley, 5; Waynesboro, 3 64; Chester—Ridley Park, 4 78. Clarion—Dubois, 17 56; Edenburg, 110; Oil City 2d, 7; Wilcox, 37 cts. Eric—Cool Spring, 2 44; Erie Park, 50; Pleasantville, 15; Sandy Lake, 2. Huntington—Hollidaysburgh, 54 66; Mount Union, 19 30. Kittanning—Elder's Ridge, 12 50; Freeport, 16 58; Glade Run, 6 50. Lehigh—Slatington, 2. Philadelphia North—Fox Chase, 10; Hermon, 20. Pittsburgh—Bethany sab-sch., 5 57; Bethel, 36 50; Pittsburgh 2d, 6 75; — East Liber- ty, 48; — Park Avenue, 30; — Shady Side sab-sch., 7 50; Point Breeze sab-sch., 75; Oakmont, 8. Redstone—Connellsville sab-sch., 5 34. Washington—Cross Creek, 5. Wellsboro—Allegheny, 1; Wellsboro, 19 39. Westminster—Union, 20. 646 68

 SOUTH DAKOTA.—Aberdeen—Brantford, Sab-sch., 5. 5 00
 WISCONSIN.—Madison—Barabco, Y. P. S. C. E., 10; Christ's, 23 84. Milwaukee—Beaver Dam 1st, 11. 54 84

Total receipts from churches, $2,907 24

MISCELLANEOUS.

Woman's Executive Committee for October, 2,591 05; "A. J. Gere," Hallstead, Pa., 1 00; "E. N. D.," Fond du Lac, Wis., 2 00; "H. Lyman," Cortland, N. Y., 10 00; Presbyterian Society, Erie, Pa., 5 00; "W. M. S.," Lima, Ind., 16 00; Mrs. Mary C. Thaw, Pittsburgh, Pa., 50 00; S. P. Harbison, Pittsburgh, Pa., 119 50; E. Sterling Ely, Buffalo, N. Y., 100 00; "C. Penna.," 8 00. $3,908 55
 Directs sent to Scotia, 1st Church Sab-sch., Montclair, N. J., 100 00; Miss A. R. Hollewood, 48 00; Mrs. J. J. Lagan, 5 09; Mrs. Marriage Allen, 50 00; Walnut Street Phila., Pa., 15 00
 Total, Directs..... $218 00

Total receipts for October..... $6,037 79
 Previously reported..... 41 699 03
 Total receipts to date..... $47,696 82
 Receipts during corresponding period of last year..... 60,743 14
 Decrease of..... $13,046 32

J. T. GIBSON, Treasurer.

RECEIPTS FOR HOME MISSIONS, OCTOBER, 1899.

ATLANTIC.—East Florida—Candler, 4; Hawthorne, 6; Starke, 4 70. Fairfield—Good Will, 2. South Florida—Lakeland, 2 50; Orange Bend, 5; Winter Haven, Y. P. S. C. E., 7 40. 31 60
 BALTIMORE.—Baltimore—Baltimore 2d, 31 50; — Hampden, 23; Churchville, 14 39; Deer Creek, Harmony sab-sch., 6 23; Frostburg, 5; Highland, 8. New Castle—Head of Christians, 10; Makemie Mem'l, 26 80; Manokin, 15; Smyrna (sab-sch., 4), 11. Washington City—Washington City Metropolitan, 25. 176 42
 COLORADO.—Boulder—Berthoud 1st, 10; Rawlins (sab-sch., 14 55), 43 20; Valmont, 60 cts. Denver—Denver Hyde Park, 10; South Denver 1st, 10; Valverde (sab-sch., 1 50), 6. Pueblo—La Veta, 4 10; Pueblo 1st, 39 23; Pueblo Fountain, 5 10; Rocky Ford 1st, 6; Rouse, 6 50; Silver Cliff 1st sab-sch., 10. 151 25
 ILLINOIS.—Alton—Carlinville, 8; Chester (Miss Mamie Wheeler), 2 61; 3 61; Litchfield sab-sch., 5; Sparta 1st, 23 75. Cauro—Equality, 1; Metropolis, 7 06. Chicago—Chicago 1st, 93 60; — Jefferson Park, 83; — Lawn, 5 57; Glenwood, 6; Homewood (Rev. C. B. Gillette, 7 50), 15; Itaska, 2; Lake Forest, 150; La Grange, 31 96; Moreland, 6; Oak Park sab-sch., 22 75; Wilmington (sab-sch., 10), 35 60. Freeport—Galena German, 25; Queen Anne German, 6; Scales Mound German, 7; Schapsville Zion German, 20. Mattoon—Casey, 4 41; Pana, 1 10; Paris (sab-sch., 4 20), 29 20; Tuscola, 70 87; Walnut Prairie, 2 50; West Okaw, 6 10. Peoria—Deer Creek (sab-sch., 69 cts), 7 07; Eureka, 41 04; French Grove, 3 10; John Knox, 3 45. Rock River—Coal Valley (sab-sch., 1 39), 2 39; Milan, 6 15; Morrison sab-sch., 3 94; Pleasant Ridge (sab-sch., 1), 2. Schuyler—Burton Memorial, 15; Camp Creek, 17; Monmouth 1st, 68 85; Pontoonue, 5; Quincy 1st, 13 20; Wythe, 10. Springfield—Springfield 2d, 361 97; Williams-ville Union, 5. 1,239 25
 INDIANA.—Logansport—La Porte 1st sab-sch., 64. 64
 INDIAN TERRITORY.—Cherokee Nation—Oowala, 6; Wards Grove, 6. Oklahoma—Anadarko, 5 50; Guthrie, (sab-sch., 5), 15; Paul's Valley, 5; Wynnewood, 5. Choctaw—Lenox, 7; Philadelphia, 2. 51 50
 IOWA.—Cedar Rapids—Cedar Rapids 3d, sab-sch., 17 50; Delmar, 10; Elwood, 5 10; Mount Vernon Bethany Band, 5; Pleasant Hill, 7; Shellsburg, 3; Vinton, 60; Wyoming, 18 64. Corning—Afton, 13; Lenox sab-sch., 2 95; Malvern, 10 31; Sidney, 5. Des Moines—Derby, 5 05; Humeston, 7 05; LeRoy, 2; Newton sab-sch., 3 95; Winterset, 186 55. Dubuque—Lime Sp ring, 11 25; Rossville, 3; Rowley, 4; Volga, 6 44; Walke, 7 61. Fort Dodge—

Bancroft, 5 53; Burt 5 20; Pomeroy, 4 61; Rockwell City, 1; Rolfe, 10 60. Iowa—Keokuk Westminster, 94; Kirkville, 5; Lebanon, 6; Libertyville Sp., 3 73; Martinsburg sab-sch., 6 67. Iowa City—Blue Grass, 2; Columbus Central (sab-sch., 8) 7 54; Hermon, 2 60; Iowa City 1st, J. T. Turner, 5; Nolo, 10; Scott, 15. Sioux City—Hospers 1st, Holland, 6; Plymouth Co., 5; Sac City 1st, 3 68; Union township, 14; Woodbury Co., Westm'r, 10. Waterloo—Clarksburg, 5; Dows, 8; Dysart, 1; Grundy Centre (sab-sch., 1 15), 23; La Porte City, 40; Marshalltown "W. B." 10; Tama City, 1 16; Toledo, 8 25; Waterloo 1st, 35; West Friesland German, 9. 709 96
 KANSAS.—Emporia—Brainerd, 1 50; Cedar Point, 4 65; Cottonwood Falls, 2 78; Florence, 11 35; Potwin, 2 01; Walton, 4. Larned—Arlington, 5; Galva, 2 50; Larned (Band of Workers, 4 75, sab-sch., 3 (Y. P. S. C. E., 6 00), 26 98; Liberal, 18; McPherson, 40; Neas City, 3; Roxbury, 5. Neosho—Carlyle, 3 66; Fort Scott 1st, 37 25; Fulton, 1 81; Humboldt, 5 77; Kincaid, 1 15; Scammon, 6; Rev. V. M. King and wife, 3 85. Osborne—Bow Creek, 5; Crystal Plains, 2. Solomon—Concordia (sab-sch., 2 44), 87 99; Lincoln, 16; Makoto, 5; Mulberry French, 3 75; Rev. R. Arthur, 4 65. Topeka—Edgerton, 5; Junction City (sab-sch., 10), (Hard Scrabble, sch District, 2), 69; Manhattan, 35; Perry (sab-sch., 1 03), 2 04; Wamego, 16. 457 79

MICHIGAN.—Detroit—Brighton, 5; Pontiac 1st (sab-sch., 11 23), 104 64; Saline, 8 50; Ypsilanti 1st, 25 31. Flint—Bridgehampton, 2; Elk, 4; Huron, 1 30; Linden sab-sch., 1 38; Sanilac Centre, 2. Grand Rapids—Grand Rapids 1st, 53 24; Montague 1st, sab-sch., 6 95. Kalamazoo—Edwardsburgh, 6 15; Kendall, 10; Richland, 46 35. Lake Superior—Pickford, 10 55. Lansing—Battle Creek 1st, 46; Homer sab-sch., 8 85; Lansing Franklin Avenue, 18 01; Marshall 1st, 6 02. Monroe—Adrian 1st, 60; Blissfield, 7; Palmyra, 15. Petoskey—Conway, 3; Lake City, 5; Mackinaw City, 6 50; Petoskey, 63 62. Saginaw—Bay City 1st, 26 16; Saginaw Immanuel, 8; West Bay City Covenant, 1 50. 511 24

MINNESOTA.—Duluth—Two Harbors, 7; Tower, 10. Mankato—Balaton, 8; Island Lake, 6; Lyons, 1 50. St. Paul—Crystal Bay, 6; Dundas, 1 57; Long Lake, 3; Macalester, 4; Maple Plain, 5 50; Minneapolis Franklin Avenue and sab-sch., 18 65; St Paul Dayton Avenue, 68 33; — House of Hope, 190 75. Winona—Canton, 3; Henrytown, 8 87; Lanesboro, 2. 322 66

MISSOURI.—Kansas City—Appleton City (sab-sch., 3 65) 7 65; Clinton 1st, 13; Kansas City 3d, 5; — Hill Memorial.

6; Montrose, 6; Salt Springs, 10; Sunny Side, 2 75; Warsaw, 6 51; Westfield, 3 55. Ozark—Joplin, 14 50; Madison, 3; Shiloh, 3; Rev. J. I. Hughes, 5. Palmyra—LaGrange sab-sch, 5; Milan, 8; Sullivan 1st, 5. Platte—Albany 1st, 4; Parkville Lakeside sab-sch, 1 40; St. Joseph Hope Chapel, 3 87; Weston Mrs. Richard Mundy, 1. St. Louis—Salem German, 10; St. Louis 2d German, 6; —Cote Brillante Y. P. S. C. E., 5 85; —Covenant, 10 10; —Westminster add'l, 60 cts.; Washington, 14 70. 161 48

NEBRASKA.—Synodical Meeting 18. Hastings—Ayr, 8; Bromfield, 1 96; Culbertson, 4 60; Hastings 1st, 13; Hastings German, 3; Oak Creek German, 5; Oak, 10 01; Ruskin, 10 16. Kearney—Buffalo Grove (S. S. 4), 10; Burr Oak, 4; Cozad, 1 80; Mt. Olivet, 1; Litchfield, 7 50. Nebraska City—Hebron, 10; Hickman, German 22 50; Hopewell, 10; Lincoln 8d, 5 07; Plattsmouth German and sab-sch, 3; Salem, 11 16; Sawyer, 2; Table Rock Y. P. S. C. E., 2 83; Tecumseh, 1st, 40. Nebraska—Coleridge, 8 76; Elgin, 3 10; Emerson sab-sch, 5 50; Hartington, 16 40; Marshall, 8; Oakdale, 8; Randolph, 3 23; Saint James, 2 21; Willow Creek, 4. Omaha—Belle Centre, 1 20; Creston, 3 06; Florence, 1st, 2 22; La Platte, 5; Papillion, 6; Tracey Valley, 5 06. 212 41

NEW JERSEY.—Elizabeth—Cranford 1st, 28 66; Elizabeth 1st (Murray Miss. Assn., 18), 330; Roselle 1st, 34 80. Jersey City—Jersey City 2d, 25 90. Monmouth—Barnegat, 3; Forked River, 3; Freehold, 22 26; Moorestown, 10. Morris and Orange—Chatham, 201 25; East Orange 1st, 258 78; Madison, 36 30; Morristown South St., sab-sch miss. soc'y, 87 50; Mt. Freedom, 10; Orange German, 2; Rockaway Y. P. S. C. E. 5 09; Schooley's Mountain, 20; Summit Central, 24 41; Whippany, 18 84; Wyoming 1st, 10. Newark—Bloomfield 1st sab-sch, 25; Lyon's Farms, 63 56; Newark 2d, 107 66; Newark Park, 35 06. New Brunswick—Alexandria 1st, 7; Dayton, 20 53; Dutch Neck, 20; Princeton 1st, 364 11. Newton—Andover, 6 57; Belvidere 1st, 50; Bloomsbury 1st, 16 13; La Fayette, 3; Stewartsville, 6 86. West Jersey—Bridgeton 2d, 46 50; Fairfield, 12. 1,908 91

NEW MEXICO.—Arizona—Sacaton Pima 1st, 25; Solomonville Station, 4. —Rio Grande—Las Cruces, 3 16; Las Cruces Spanish, 13 10; Socorro Spanish, 3. 47 35

NEW YORK.—Albany—Albany West End (sab-sch 10 47) 60 40; Batchellerville, 11; Broadalbin, 2 10; Mayfield, 3 23. Binghamton—Binghamton 1st, 326 21; Binghamton Ross Memorial, 15; Cannonsville, 4; Whitney's Point "Cent a day Band," 5 65. Boston—Portland sab-sch, 20; Roxbury, 20; Windham, 26 65. Brooklyn—Brooklyn 1st, 50; —East Williamsburg German, 10; —Lafayette Avenue (M. C. 30 28), 2,130 40; —Mount Olivet, 2; —Throop Avenue, 88; West New Brighton Calvary, 30. Buffalo—Buffalo Westminster, 38 70; Conewango, 7; Ellicottville, 14. Cayuga—Auburn Central (sab-sch, 3 22), 48. Champlain—Beekmantown, 3 50; Constable, 4 10; Saranac Lake, 12 50; Westville, 3 64. Chemung—Big Flats, 7. Columbia—Ancram Lead Mines, 7 70; Catskill M. C., 16 78; Centreville, 10; Durham 2d, 5; Jewett, 47. Genesee—Leroy sab-sch, 20 33. Hudson—Cohecton (Mrs. Allie R. Apply, 5), 11 11; Florida, 5 10; Haverstraw 1st, 10; Jeffersonville German, 6; Livingston Manor, 5; Middletown 2d, 49 55; Rockland 2d, 3 20. Long Island—Bridgehampton, 12; East Hampton, 20; Franklinville, 11 50; West Hampton, 44 76. Lyons—Junius, 3 50. Nassau—Islip, 98. New York—New York Canal Street, 20; —Mount Washington sab-sch, 6 12; —Phillips, 113 06; —Riverdale, 99 10; —Tremont, 25. Niagara—Albion, 75; Lewiston, 10; Lockport, 1st, 36 25; No Tonawanda North, 28 50; Wilson, 35; Youngstown sab-sch 19. North River—Bethlehem, 26; Pleasant Plains, 11. Otsego—Stamford, 105. Rochester—Brookport, 138 26; East Kendall, 5; Fowlerville, 6 20; Genesee 1st, Mrs. D. Bosley, 5; Livonia, 10; Rochester, Brick, 244 99; —Westminster, 29. St. Lawrence—Chaumont, 17 21; Oswegatchie 2d, 11 50; Potsdam, 177; Sackett's Harbor, 12; Waddington, 10. Steuben—Addison, 15 33; Arkport, 6 66; Belmont, 8; Canaseraga, 5; Cohocton, 7; Pultney, 6. Syracuse—Cazenovia, 27 10; Chittenden, 36 21; Syracuse 1st Ward, 25 39. Troy—Bay Road, 8; Green Island, 10; Lansingburg Olivet sab-sch, sp., 8. Utica—Little Falls, 43; Sauquoit, 19 50; Utica, Bethany, 35 50. Westchester—New Rochelle 2d, 37 68. 4,999 41

NORTH DAKOTA.—Fargo, Lisbon, 15. Pembina—Cypress, 4 15; Elkwood, 2 04; Hannah, 4 06. 25 25

OHIO.—Athens—New England, 2 85; New Matamoras, 8; Pomeroy, 16; Syracuse, 2. Bellefontaine—Belle Centre, 6 50; Forest sab-sch, 3 25; Upper Sandusky sab-sch, 1 15. Chillicothe—Mount Pleasant, 11 30; New Market, 6; White Oak, 11 47. Cincinnati—Bartam, 3 10; Cincinnati 7th (sab-sch, 25), 265 34; Madisonville, 5 17. Cleveland—Cleveland Woodland Avenue, 200; New Lyme (Y. P. S. C. E., 9), 11. Columbus—Bethel, 4 42; Bremen, 5; Columbus Broad Street, 35 54; Ruah Creek, 4 58. Dayton—Clifton, 43 06; Dayton Park Y. P. S. C. E., 3 76; Greenville, 24. Heron—Clyde 1st, 14 40; Fostoria Y. P. S. C. E., 5 28; Huron sab-sch, 5. Lima—Findlay 2d, 2 23; Mount Jefferson, 10; Turtle Creek, 8 84. Mahoning—Columbiana, 6 10; Warren Y. P. S. C. E., 6. Marion—Marysville, 7 86; Milford Centre sab-sch, 1 71; Ostrander, Mrs. S. J. Flanagan, 100. Maumee—Antwerp, 2; Bowling Green 1st, 22 22; North Baltimore, 15; Rev. G. M. Miller "Tithe," 5. —Portsmouth—Decatur, 10; Eckmanville, 14; Portsmouth 2d, 28 50; West Union, 7 50. St. Clairsville—Bellaire 1st, 6 05; Crab Apple, 22 08; Morristown, 5; Short Creek, 15. Steubenville—Bacon Ridge, 16 32; Deersville, 9; East Springfield 2d, 6 29; Irondale, 9 50; Linton, 6 50; Madison, 16; Minerva (sab-sch 4), 14; Potter Chapel, 12 21. Wooster—Clear Fork, 4 70; Perryville and sab-sch, 8 35. Zanesville—Brownsville, 39; Homer, 4 57; Keene sab-sch, 5; Mt. Zion, 6; Utica sab-sch, 2; Zanesville Putnam, 50. 1,133 97

OREGON.—Portland—Bethany, 25; Portland 4th, 9 35; —St. Johns Y. P. S. C. E., 9. Willamette—Gervais, 5 72; McCoy, 6 50; Octorara, 5; Pleasant Grove, 10. 69 18

CALIFORNIA.—John D. Thompson, 1,000; Bentley—Albion Station, 19 50; Bloomfield, 1 56; Bolinas, 3 75; Fulton, 9; Little River, 3 86; Petaluma, 10; Pope Valley, 10; Tomales, 9 80; Willow Creek Station, 2 55; Los Angeles—Coronado Graham Mem 1, 17 75; Cucamonga, 5; Fillmore, 5; Los Angeles Boyle Heights, 1; —Grand View, 8 50; San Fernando, 2 50; San Geronimo sab-sch, 2 75; Westminster, 5. Oakland—Oakland 1st sab-sch, 13 25. Sacramento—Placerville, 20; Vacaville, 12. San Jose—Gilroy (sab-sch, 7) 13; Hollister 1st (sab-sch, 1) 13 60; Santa Cruz, 16 30. Stockton—Bridgeport Station, 6 90; George's Creek Station, 2 86; Independence Station, 6; Lone Pine Station, 2 60. 224 90

PENNSYLVANIA.—Allegheny—Fairmount, 5 50; Industry, 5; Tarentum, 19 50; Vanport, 6 23. Blairsville—Cone-maugh sab-sch, 1 15; Irwin, sab-sch, 8 80; Jeanette, 15. Murrysville, 25; New Salem Y. P. S. C. E., 5 75; Pine Run, 40 78; Turtle Creek, 10 18. Butler—Butler sab-sch, 30; Har-lansburgh, 10; New Hope, 9. Carlisle—Big Spring, 11 26; Carlisle 2d sab-sch, 31; Duncannon, 25; Great Conewago L. M. S., 13 10; Lower Path Valley A member, 10; Mechanicsburgh, 15 25; Waynesboro, 22 60; Wells Valley, 2 50. Chester—Media, 249 73; Ridley Park (sab-sch, 29 66), 69 67; West Grove, 7 30. Clarion—Edenburgh, 50; Wilcox, 1 72. Erie—Cool Spring Mrs. Rebecca Tait, 7 50; Franklin, 112 18; Fredonia, 1 57; Girard (Miles Grove Branch, 5 42), 25 24; Kendall, 2; Stoneboro, 5; Union City sab-sch, 13 50; Utica, 15; Waterloo, 3. Huntingdon—Lost Creek (Y. P. S. C. E., 1 84), 33 79; Osceola Mills, 20. Kittanning—Apollo 1st (sab-sch, 10), 106; Rural Valley, 3. Lackawanna—Athens, 20; Canton Y. P. S. C. E., 10; Forest City, 11; Hawley 1st Y. P. S. C. E., 3 75; Honesdale, 405 64; Mountain Top and sab-sch, 7; Newton, 6; Plains, 10 30; Rome, 2; Scranton Green Ridge Avenue, 60; Sugar Notch, 6; Towanda 1st, sab-sch, 22 50; Tunkhannock 25; Wilkes Barre Grant Street (sab-sch, 52 44), 67 98. Scranton—Welsh Westminster, 3. Lehigh—Hazleton, 25. Northumberland—Bald Eagle and Nittany sab-sch, 5; Hartleton M. C., 5; Mahoning, 35; Mt. Carmel, 8 49; New Berlin, 7. Parkersburg—Terra Alta, 30. Philadelphia—Philadelphia Bethlehem (sab-sch, 25 27), 77 27; —Cohocksiaak sab-sch, (2d St., Mission sab-sch, 9 42), 20 57; —Gaston sab-sch, 26 79; —Green Hill, 36 24. Philadelphia North—Arlington, 46 64; Diston Memorial, 35 19; Fox Chase, 13 42; Jenkintown Grace m.c., 6 23; Norristown 1st, 171 21; —2d, Bridgeport, 10; Norriton and Providence, 13; Overbrook, 72 63; Thompson Memorial (New Hope Chapel, 7 75), 81 77; Wissinoming, 5. Pittsburgh—Centre L. M. S., 91 47; Crafton sab-sch, 7; Finleyville, 5; Fairview, 6; Knoxville, 19 15; Middletown, 15; Mingo, 6; Montours, 20; Mount Pisgah, 10; Pittsburgh 2d, 41 85; —East Liberty, 64; —Park Avenue, 60; —Shady Side (sab-sch, 46 50), 671 50; West Elizabeth, 9. Redstone—Belle Vernon, 15 11; Lelansring, 26 04; McKeesport 1st Special, 100; Mount Vernon, 6. Shenango—Mount Pleasant, 11; Moravia, 10 49; Sharpsville, 3 15; Wampum, 8 40. Washington—Limestone, 7 50; Washington 2d, 150; —3d, 79 76; Waynesburgh, 11; Wellsburgh, 130 73; West Alexander (sab-sch, 5 25), 161 75; Wellsboro—Beecher Island, 6 57; Wellsboro, 20 52. Westminster—Leacock (sab-sch, 1), 23 40; Pine Grove (sab-sch, 3 14), 11 14. 4,292 70

SOUTH DAKOTA.—Aberdeen—Aberdeen, 11 25; Britton, Emmanuel, 5; Holland 1st, 8 70; Uniontown, 3. Black Hills—Whitewood, 5. Central Dakota—Artesian, 6 21; Bethel, 15; Colman, 19 60; Endeavor, 2; Forestburgh, 5 61; Madison, 10 31; Miller, 14; Wentworth, 13. Dakota—Ascension, 5. Southern Dakota—Harmony, 5; Kimball, 3 60; Olive, 3; Scotland, 8 75. 136 35

TENNESSEE.—Kingston—Bethel, 5; Rockwood, 3. Union—Caledonia, 10; Hebron, 7; Rockford, 3; Spring Place (Y. P. S. C. E., 2), 19; Unita, 2. 42

TEXAS.—Austin—Cibola, 1; Goldthwaite, 3; Milburn, 4 50; Pearland, 2; Rev. W. B. Bloys, 10; North Texas—Seymour, 2 25. 33 75

UTAH—Montana—Bozeman (Y. P. S. C. E., 16 84.) 66 29; Helena 1st, 25; Kalispell, 15. Utah—Rox Elder, 5; Hyrum Emmanuel, 2 45; Millville, 1 05; Richmond, 8; Salt Lake City 3d, 8 87; S. L. C Westminster (sab-sch, Bethany Band 5 80.) 10 80. Wood River—Caldwell "Willing Workers," 6; Franklin Centennial, 10. 153 94
WASHINGTON—Olympia—Ainslie, 1 50; Castle Rock, 5; Chehalis, 12; Claquato, 4; Kelso, 5; Napavine, 1 50; Ridgefield, 10; Stella, 5; Toledo, 2. Puget Sound—Ellensburg, 11 95; Spokane—Spokane Centenary, 5. Walla-Walla—Johnson, 3 50; Moscow, 9. 75 45
WISCONSIN—Chippewa—Ashland 1st, 40; Phillips, 10; Rice Lake, 10. La Crosse—La Crosse North, 3 50. Madison—Baraboo 1st, 21 48; Fancy Creek, 5; Highland German, 3 23; Janesville 1st, 46 31; Lodi 1st, 12; Platteville German, 8; Pulaski German, 8; Reedsburg, 15; Richmond Centre, 10; Rev. W. F. Brown, D. D., 10. Winnebago—Badger, 11 60; Fort Howard, 8 50; Shawano, (Y. P. S. C. E. 5.) 11; Wausau, 125. 358 87
Women's Executive Committee of Home Missions..... 20,384 96

Total from Churches.....$ 39,124 16

LEGACIES.

Legacy of John McLain, dec'd, late of Washington Co., Pa., 540 37; Hugh Mearns, dec'd, late of Warwick, Bucks Co., Pa., 141 50; Margaret J. Boudeman, dec'd, late of Danville, Pa., 1024 25; Benj. Darlington, dec'd, late of Pittsburgh, Pa., 1,000; Legacy in part of Mary Stuart, dec'd, late of New York, subject to a Refunding Bond, 75 000; Joseph Woods, dec'd, 48 75; Sarah H. Coon, dec'd, late of New Texas, Pa., 100..... 77,849 88

MISCELLANEOUS.

Upton Walton & Co., Cleveland, O., 100; Rent of house in Meade Centre, Kan., 3; J. Conneaut, Ohio, 2; Rev. Wm. Adams Brown, N. Y., 50; A Friend of Home Missions, in Washington Co., 25; Mrs. Mary Ann Adams, Grove Park, Fla., 51; A. J. Gere, Hallstead, Pa., 2; J. D. Langford, Atoka, Ind. Ter., 1; Miss Sarah A. Pratt, Millfield, O., 5; Mrs. Barton Slade, Kelloggsville, N. Y., 10; "A. M. T.," 2; Mrs. Mary M. Thompson, Ill., 6 80; Cash per J. H. V. D. Special, 2; Miss Mattie White, Utah, 5; From a widow, 5; Mrs. Sophia S. Hobart, Worcester, Vt., 50; Rev. F. D. Seward, 1 95; "C. Penna.," 14; A professed disciple, Perth Amboy, N. J., 70 cts.; Rev. Henry M. Walker, Marselles, O., 10; E. Sterling Ely, Buffalo, N. Y., 300; "W. M. A.," 100; Isabella A. Griffin, Cheing Mai, Laos, 12; Mrs. A. P. Thompson, Philadelphia, Pa., 10; Rev. I. N. Sprague, D. D., Pulteney, Vt., 5; Mrs. L. F. Stone, Llewellyn Park 500; John Edwardson, 10; Trustees General Assembly, Interest on Permanent Fund, 300; Interest on Permanent Fund, 10; Interest on John C. Green Fund, 40. 1,669 45

Total received for Home Missions Oct., 1892, $118,643 49
Total received for Home Missions from April 1, 1892 323,991 80
Amount received during same period last year. 301,350 87

O. D. EATON, Treasurer,
Box L, Station D. 53 Fifth Avenue, New York.

RECEIPTS FOR NEW YORK SYNODICAL AID FUND, OCTOBER, 1892.

Albany—Ballston Centre, 15; Charlton, 18 75. Voorheesville, 12; West Milton, 2; Broadalbin, 4 08; Mayfield, 9 85. Binghamton—Cortland, 73 64; Binghamton 1st, 65 21; Masonville, 8 50; Cannonsville, 6. Brooklyn—B. Throop Avenue, 100; B. First German, 25; West New Brighton Calvary, 5. Buffalo—B. Westminster, 31 96. Cayuga—Weedsport, 33 20; Auburn 2d, 18 98; A. Westminster, 4; Genoa 2d, 2; Genoa 3d, 2. Champlain—Constable, 2 83; Westville, 1 80; Saranac Lake, 12 50; Beekmantown sab-sch, 12 54. Chemung—Big Flats, Rev. H. T. Scholl, 25; Breesport, 5; Rock Stream, 7. Columbia—Cairo, 11; Hillsdale, 22; Centreville, 10. Genesee—Bethany Centre, Y. P. S. C. E., 1 38; Stone Church, Le Roy and Bergen, 5 50. Geneva—G. 1st, 27 85. Hudson—Florida, 17c. Long Island—East Hampton, 10. Lyons—Junius, 3 50. Niagara—Albion, 13 50; Wilson, 3 70. Rochester—R. Westminster, 14. St. Lawrence—Sacketts Harbor, 5. Steuben—Addison, 29 10; Andover, 4 11; Arkport, 22c; Canaseraga, 6; Hammondsport, 5. Syracuse—Amboy, 8; S. Memorial, 18. Troy—Argyle, 12; Bay Road, 4. Utica—Rome 1st, 200; North Gage, 8; South Trenton, 8. Total received for New York Synodical Aid Fund, October, 1892.....$ 822 41

Total received for New York Synodical Aid Fund, from April 1st..... 4,500 58
Amount received during same period last year.. 5,300 87
O. D. EATON, Treasurer,
Box L, Station D. 53 Fifth Avenue, New York.

RECEIPTS FOR SUSTENTATION, OCTOBER, 1892.

BALTIMORE—Baltimore—B. 3d, 2 10
COLORADO—Boulder—Valmont, 02
ILLINOIS—Chicago—Itasca, 2; Schuyler—Quincy 1st, 44 cts, 2 44
IOWA—Iowa City—Columbus Junction sab-sch, 2 78
KANSAS—Neosho—Gland, 6 00
MICHIGAN—Kalamazoo—Plainwell 1. Monroe—Ralsin 6, 7 00
MISSOURI—Platte—Cameron 1st, 1. St. Louis—St. L. 2d, Ger. 1, 2 00
NEW JERSEY—Jersey City—Englewood, 61 21

OREGON—Willamette—Pleasant Grove 1. Octorara 1, 3 00
PACIFIC—San Jose—Hollister, 1 00

Total received for Sustentation, Oct. 1892.....$ 76 50
Total received for Sustentation from April 1, 1892 3,230 58
Amount received during same period last year 1,134 29

O. D. EATON, Treasurer,
Box L, Station D. 53 Fifth Avenue, New York.

RECEIPTS FOR HOME MISSIONS, DEBT ACCOUNT, OCTOBER, 1892.

ATLANTIC—McClelland—Bowers, c., 1 36. South Florida—Kissimmee, 10; Seneca, 2; Sorrento, (L. A. Soc'y 10) 15; Tarpon Springs sab-sch, c. 2 25. BALTIMORE—Baltimore—Baltimore, Broadway, (sab-sch, miss'y soc'y 2). Pastors Bible class 2), c. 38; Brown Memorial sab-sch, (Branch sab-sch, 2 50) c. 27 25; Canton, sab-sch, c. 3; Cumberland sab-sch, c. 5 67; Sparrows Point sab-sch, c. 3. New Castle—Georgetown, c. 4 20; Wilmington, Gilbert (sab-sch 1) c. 4. 85 23
COLORADO—Boulder—Cheyenne, 1st c. 9; Fort Collins and sab-sch, c. 15; Laramie, Union, c. 30 05. Denver—Denver, Central, sab-sch, c. 18 10; Littleton, c. 7 02; Manchester (sab-sch 1), 2 50. Pueblo—La Luz, c. 2 15; Trinidad, 2 1d, 5. 88 33
ILLINOIS—Alton—Butler, c. 7 50; Hillsboro, 14 78; Plainview, c. 9; Salem, German, c. 17; Woodburn, German, c. 10 60; Zion, German, c. 4 70. Bloomington—Hoopeston, c. 8; Minonk, c. 22 15; Normal, c. 2 29. Cairo—Cobden, c. 5 45; Dubois, c. 2; Du Quoin, c. 30; Fairfield, 1st (sab-sch 50 cts) c. 2 80; Flora, c. 8 25; Mount Carmel, (sab-sch, 9.)

c. 31; Nashville, c. 6 75; Olney, c. 21; Tamaroa, 10; Chicago—Chicago, 1st sab-sch, c. 12 66; — 5th, c. 6 06; Dearfield, c. 9 05; Du Page, c. 33 75; Joliet, Central, c. 155 22; River Forest, 1st, c. 5 23; Waukegan, 1st, c. 21. Freeport, Freeport, 2d, c. 2; Galena, 1st, c. 49 10; Marengo, c. 24; Middle Creek, c. 13 50; Woodstock, c. 7 25. Mattoon, Assumption, 1st, c. 12 10; Greenup, 6 02; Morris, c. 8 20; Newton, c. 8; Pana, c. 32; Vandalia, c. 17 71. Ottawa—Aurora (sab-sch, 9 30) c. 89 70; Morris, c. 22. Peoria—Brimfield, c. 1; Brunswick, c. 4 25; Elmwood, c. 8; Farmington, c. 8 20; Peoria, 1st, c. 121 04; — 2d, 45 59; Prospect, c. 35 51; Yates City, c. 27. Rock River—Albany, c. 3 71; Ashton, 9; Buffalo Prairie, c. 5; Franklin Grove, 10 11; Garden Plain, c. 31 49; Geneseo, c. 25 10; Newton, c. 21 15; Norwood, c. 15 53. Schuyler—Carthage (sab-sch, 2 67) 13 40; Clayton, 1st, c. 6; Ellington, Memorial, c. 6; Hamilton sab-sch, c. 1 50; Mount Sterling, c. 11 09; Nauvoo, German, c. 15; Oquawka, c. 16 05; Springfield—Macon, c. 23 30; Maroa, c. 17; Pisgah, c. 17. 1197 96

- INDIANA.—Crawfordsville—Rockville, mem'l, c, 15 75; Thorntown, 6 35; Waveland, 7 45. Fort Wayne—Bluffton, c, 13; Ossian, 9 28. New Albany—Madison, 2d, 8 50. White Water, Greensburg, 37 35. 96 53
- INDIAN TERRITORY.—Cherokee Nation—Rev. and Mrs. E. E. Mathes, 10. Choctaw—Rev. S. R. Keam, 10. 20
- IOWA.—Cedar Rapids—Bethel, c, 2; Big Grove, c, 2 25; Blairtown, c, 7 50; Centre Junction, c, 5 65; Garrison, (Y. P. S. C. E. 5), c, 11 50; Mount Vernon, (Y. P. S. C. E. 19), c, 22 60; Onslow, c, 5; Scotch Grove, c, 5; Springfield, (sab-sch, 4 25), 8. Council Bluffs—Carson, (sab-sch, 3), (Mission Band 2), 14; Clarinda, Y. P. Soc'y, c, 10; Lenox, 6 85; Prairie Chapel, 94 cts; Sharon, 5. Des Moines—Allerton, c, 5 75; Indianola, c, 16; Newton (sab-sch, 5), 14. Dubuque—Hopkinton, c, 30 15; Lansing, 1st, c, 6; Lime Spring, c, 2 40. Iowa—Birmingham, c, 9; Fairfield, 1st, 40; Keokuk, Westminster sab-sch, (Banks St. Mission sab-sch, "Light Bearers," 1), c, 12 34; Kirkville, c, 6; Martinsburg, c, 10 35; Mediapolis, c, 11 75; Ottumwa, c, 21 80; West Point, c, 9 6; Winfield Y. P. S. C. E. c, 3 60. Iowa City—Iowa City, J. T. Turner, 5; Le Claire, c, 8 80; Princeton, c, 8 60. Waterloo—Ackley, 10; Cedar Valley, c, 17; Holland, German (sab-sch, 6), 25. 375 53
- KANSAS.—Emporia—Belle Plaine, c, 10. Highland—Hiawatha (7 50 c), 11 50; Washington, L. M. S., 25 30. Larned—Spearville, 2 52. Neosho—Pittsburgh, c, 8 97. Osborne—Covert, 1; Osborne sab-sch, c, 5 85. Solomon—Carlton, 4 04; Culver, 6 18. Topeka—Kansas City, 1st c, 24; Olathe, (sab-sch, 2 50), c, 9 50. 93 44
- MICHIGAN.—Detroit—Detroit, Jefferson Avenue, c, 100; Mount Clemens 1st, c, 5 55; Stony Creek, c, 8; Ypsilanti sab-sch, 10 21. Flint—Flint sab-sch, c, 9 83; Cass City, c, 11. Grand Rapids—Montague 1st (Y. P. S. C. E. 5), c, 13 07. Kalamazoo—Plainwell sab-sch, 2 35. Lake Superior—Newberry, c, 8 66. Lansing—Parma sab-sch, c, 6; Tekonah sab-sch, c, 3. Monroe—Raisin, c, 4. Petoskey—Alanson, c, 1; Conway, c, 2. 184 67
- MINNESOTA.—Duluth—McNair, Memorial sab-sch, c, 5 50. Mankato—Currie (sab-sch, 75 cts), 4 23; Delhi, (17 34, c), 24 55; Windom, 12 55. Red River—Crookston and sab-sch, c, Y. P. S. C. E., 22. Winona—Le Roy, c, 10. 78 85
- MISSOURI.—Kansas City—Kansas City 2d, c, 9; Rich Hill, 1st, c, 19 08. Ozark—Irwin, c, 3 75; Neosho, c, 15; —Westminster, 2. Palmira—Kirkville, 1st, c, 19 08; Moberly and sab-sch, c, 20. Platte—Breckenridge, c, 5 33; Cameron (sab-sch, 1 25), 9; Gallatin, 3; King City, c, 8; Mound City sab-sch, c, 5; New York Settlement, c, 2 67; St. Joseph, Westminster, c, 20 15. St. Louis—Cuba, 6; Poplar Bluff, c, 7 30; St. Louis, Clifton Heights, 3 53. White River—Harris Chapel sab-sch, 2. 159 87
- NEBRASKA.—Kearney—Fullerton sab-sch, c, 8 06; Wood River, c, 10 60. Nebraska City—Fairmont, c, 7; Lincoln 1st, c, 21; —2d, c, 19 60. Omaha—Hartington, 8 55; Millerboro, c, 4 25; Ponca, c, 13 60; Willowdale, c, 2 90. Omaha—Bellevue (sab-sch, 2 55), Y. P. S. C. E., 3 12 c, 10 50; Blair Missionary Tea, 11. Y. P. S. C. E., 7, 18; Omaha, 2d, (a member 4) (sab-sch, 11 11, Y. P. S. C. E., 3 50 c), 18 61; Wahoo and sab-sch, c, 10. 149 67
- NEW JERSEY.—Elizabeth—Elizabeth, Westminster, c, 170 73; sab-sch, 7 15; Plainfield, 1st, 14 58. Jersey City—Arlington 1st, (Jas. A. Bell, 50; Mrs. Jas. A. Bell, 50) 100; Englewood, c, 96 70; Jersey City, 1st, (sab-sch Mission Association, 12) 88; —John Knox, c, 15; Rutherford 1st sab-sch, c, 18. Monmouth—Jacksonville, c, 2 50; Jamesburg, c, 12 50; Mount Holly, c, 24 41; Oceanic, c, 35; Providence, c, 3 80. Morris and Orange—Dover sab-sch, c, 21 41; New Vernon, c, 52 42. Newark—Bloomfield, 1st sab-sch, c, 29 37; Newark, 1st sab-sch, c, 16 25; —3d sab-sch, c, 16 25; —Clinton Hall sab-sch, c, 5; —Fewsmith Memorial, c, 11 03; —South Park sab-sch, c, 16 25. New Brunswick—Armwell, 2d sab-sch, c, 4 25; Dutch Neck, 30; Lawrenceville Central sab-sch, c, 5 29. Newton—Asbury sab-sch, c, 15; Musconetcong Valley, (Charlestown sab-sch, 1 50; Chapel sab-sch, 3 63; New Hampton, sab-sch, 5 25; c, 10 58; Newton, c, 133 89. West Jersey—Brainerd (sab-sch 1) c, 5; Deerfield sab-sch, c, 3. 914 86
- NEW MEXICO.—Rio Grande—Pajarito, 5. Santa Fe—Raton, Spanish, 20 members 41; Santa Fe, 1st 12; Rev. J. J. Gilchrist, 25; J. A. Gutierrez, 10; Juan M. Martinez, 10; Lucas Martinez, 10; V. F. Romero, 10. 124
- NEW YORK.—Albany—Mariaville, c, 7; Saratoga Springs, 1st, sab-sch, c, 13 85; —2d, c, 24. Binghamton—Conklin 1st, c, 14; Union, c, 11; Whitney's Point, c, 9 20. Boston—Antrim sab-sch, c, 13; Boston 1st, sab-sch, 42 44; Fall River, Globe, c, 11 23. Brooklyn—Brooklyn 1st, (sab-sch 14 73), 178 51; —Central sab-sch, 31 46; —Friedenskirche, c, 11 04; —Greene Avenue sab-sch, c, 12 90; —Edge-water 1st, sab-sch, c, 35; West New Brighton, Calvary sab-sch, c, 11 04. Buffalo—Buffalo North (M. H. Birge, 100), c, 224 35; —Westminster, c, 125 70; Gowanda, c, 3 50; Sherman, c, 30; Cayuga—Aurora, 55 63; Meridian sab-sch, 40; Weedsport, c, 41. Chemung—Big Flats sab-sch, c, 3; Elmira, Lake Street, c, 20 80; Southport Y. P. S. C. E., c, 2 35. Columbia—Cairo, c, 6 81. Genesee—Oakfield, c, 5. Geneva—Romeus (sab-sch 1 55), 5. Hudson—Chester c, 40; Congers 1st, c, 6 12; Denton and sab-sch, c, 14; Florida, c, 13 50; Middletown 2d, 2; Montgomery sab-sch, c, 5 80; Nyack, 1st sab-sch, c, 7 58; West Town Y. P. S. C. E., c, 12 21. Long Island—Setauket, c, 10 50. Lyons—Galen c, 28 92; Huron Addl., 4 72. Nassau—Springfield sab-sch, 14; Whitestone, c, 11 50. New York—Montreal, American, 50; New York, 4th Avenue, c, 1 49; Scotch, c, 30 55; —Sea and Land, c, 12 15. Niagara—Albion, c, 26; Youngstown, c, 13. North River—Amenia, c, 25; Marlborough, c, 57 32; Wappinger's Creek, 10. Rochester—Brookport and sab-sch, and Y. P. S. C. E., c, 25. St. Lawrence—Cape Vincent, c, 10; Ox Bow Y. P. S. C. E., c, 8 80; Potsdam (sab-sch 4, Y. P. S. C. E. 3), c, 19; Rosalie Y. P. S. C. E., c, 2 66. Steuben—Arkport, c, 5 08; Hornellsville 1st (sab-sch 10), c, 41 66; Jasper, c, 7; Frattsburgh, c, 9 55; Pultney, c, 7. Syracuse—Pompey, c, 5 59. Troy—Cambridge (Y. P. S. C. E. 7 19), 46 44; Chester, c, 10; Glens Falls (Y. P. S. C. E. 15 00), 21; Green Island, c, 14; Lansingburgh, Olivet, c, 38 60; Troy 2d, sab-sch, c, 50; Woodside (sab-sch 7 50, Jr. Endeavor Soc'y, 1), c, 54 59. Utica—Sauquoit, c, 4 50; Utica, Olivet, c, 11 10; Waterville sab-sch, c, 11. Westchester—Gilead and sab-sch, c, 29; Peekskill, 1st (sab-sch 25), 160 50; Poundridge, c, 5; White Plains (sab-sch 33 88) 84 75; Yonkers, Westminster (sab-sch 50; Y. M. Bible Class 2; Thomas Bible class, 12; Kings Daughters Reading Circle, 3; Obedient Circle, 5; Believing Circle, 1 35; Right Hand, 3; Good Shepherd, 1 10; Whatsoever; Kings Sons 10; Y. P. Asso. 10; Jr. Y. P. S. C. E. 10; L. M. S., 8), c, 188. 2,582 89
- NORTH DAKOTA.—Fargo—Broadlawn, c, 4 23; Casselton 1st, c, 5. Pembina—Drayton, 6. 15 35
- OHIO.—Bellefontaine—Crestline (sab-sch 1), c, 7; Kenton, c, 21 84; Mansfield sab-sch, c, 5 55. Chillicothe—Williamington, c, 8 25. Cincinnati—Cincinnati, Walnut Hills 1st, sab-sch class, 1 80; Glendale 1st, c, 19; Lebanon 1st, c, 18; Wyoming, 48. Cleveland—New Lyme, 4; Northfield, c, 7; Parma, 4; Willoughby, c, 23 15. Columbus—Central College, 24 20; Columbus, Westminster sab-sch, 7 20; London and sab-sch, c, 14 49; Westerville, c, 18. Dayton—Dayton, Wayne Ave., c, 14; New Paris, c, 7; Seven Mile, c, 7 3; Springfield 2d, c, 30. Huron—Huron sab-sch, c, 6 55; Milan, c, 19 51. Lima—Columbus Grove and sab-sch, c, 10 55; Delphos, c, 6. Maumee—Bryan, 7 88; Defiance 10 55; Toledo 1st German W. M. S., 10. Portsmouth—Ironton, c, 14; Red Oak, 8; Sandy Springs sab-sch, 2. Steubenville—Amsterdam, c, 6 12; Linton, 4; Steubenville 1st (sab-sch 15 83), c, 50 04. Wooster—Belleville, c, 7; Loudonville (sab-sch 2 50), c, 15. Zanesville—Millwood, c, 2 40. 481 68
- OREGON.—Willamette—Spring Valley sab-sch, c, 5 30
- CALIFORNIA.—Benicia—Petaluma sab-sch, c, 10. Los Angeles—Alhambra (sab-sch, 3 80), 17 40; Glendale, c, Los Angeles, 3d, and sab-sch and Y. P. S. C. E., c, 20; Riverside, Arlington (sab-sch, 4 25), 25 25; South Pasadena, Calvary, 10. San Jose—Pleasanton, c, 6 65. Stockton—Bethel, c, 2; Clements, c, 2. 149 30
- PENNSYLVANIA.—Blairsville—Braddock, c, 17 88. Butler—Concord, c, 7 10. Carlisle—Big Spring, 19 14; Burnt Cabins sab-sch, c, 1 32; Dauphin and sab-sch, c, 10; Duncannon, c, 13; Harrisburg, Market Square sab-sch, c, 32 16; Lower Path Valley sab-sch, c, 3 68; Shippensburg, 25 30; Chester—Media, c, 26 38; Penningtonville sab-sch, c, 6. Clarion—Academia sab-sch, c, 6 25; Edenburg, c, 19. Erie—Erie, Park and sab-sch, c, 40 45; Hadley sab-sch, c, 2 33; Springfield, c, 3 34. Huntingdon—Birmingham (Y. P. S. C. E., c, 2 89), 15 83; Everett, c, 17; Mann's Choice, c, 1 55; Shellaburg, c, 5 27; Spruce Creek, c, 23. Kittanning—Apollo sab-sch, c, 11. Lackawanna—Athens Y. P. S. C. E., c, 6; Bennett, c, 3; Carbondale, c, 37 94; Langcliffe, 23; Stella, c, 6; Sylvania (sab-sch, 1), c, 4 05. Lehigh—Reading, 1st, sab-sch, c, 23. Northumberland—Beech Creek, c, 6; Mahoning, c, 50 96; Montgomery sab-sch, c, 3; Mount Carmel, c, 7 85. Parkersburg—Parkersburg sab-sch, c, 9. Philadelphia—North—Conschocken (sab-sch, 4), c, 11 50; Hermon (sab-sch, 9 80; chapel sch, 2 19), c, 35 44. Pittsburgh—Charleroi (sab-sch, 15; Y. P. S. C. E., 2), 26; Duquesne, c, 10; Monongahela City sab-sch, c, 11 59; Oakmont, c, 40; Pittsburgh, Lawrenceville sab-sch, c, 9 14. 712 19
- SOUTH DAKOTA.—Black Hills—Whitewood, c, 11; Rev. E. J. Nugent, 5. Central Dakota—Bancroft, c, 2; Manchester, c, 6 50; White, c, 4 50; Woonsocket 1st, 10 45. Dakota—Good Will, c, 11. 50 45
- TENNESSEE.—Kingsion—Hill City, North Side, 3. Union—New Prospect, 6 15; New Providence, 25; South Knoxville, 3 20. 38 35
- TEXAS.—Austin—Austin, 1st (sab-sch, 5), (Mrs. H. H. McLane, a thank off'g, 50), 105. Trinity—Baird, c, 5 50. 111 60
- UTAH.—Montana—Boulder sab-sch, c, 5 30. Utah—Salt Lake City, Westminster, c, 5; Spanish Fork sab-sch, c, 5. Wood River—Caldwell, 5. 20 80
- WASHINGTON.—Olympia—Stile Rock, 5; Kelso, 5;

Olympia 1st, c, 18 80. Puget Sound—Ballard 1st, c, 2 15; North Yakima, c, 10; Seattle, 1st, c, 38 20; Sedro, 1st, 5; Rev. C. C. McCarthy, 2 50. Spokane—Rathdrum (sabb-sch, 2), c, 10. Walla Walla—Lewiston, c, 7; Moscow, 1st, c, 12 95. 111 60
 WISCONSIN.—Chippewa—Bayfield, 5 88; Eau Claire, 1st, 39. La Crosse—Hixton, c, 9. Madison—Kilbourne City, c, 21 25; Richland Centre sabb-sch, c, 3 21. Winnebago—Florence sabb-sch, c, 7 46; Merrill, East Side, c, 10 21. 95 51

Total received from churches.....$7,998 89

MISCELLANEOUS.

Jessie C. Quigley and friends, Dorchester, Ill., 72 cts.; "A Steward" 5; "L. F. L." 50; "M. E. P." 5; Sarah L. Beveridge, Lansingburgh, N. Y., 10; C. H. Holloway, Phila., Pa., 7; Mrs. Jane Trimble, Kimbolton, Ohio, 25; R. O. Young, Geetingsville, Ind., 20; Sarah M. Moore, Columbus Grove, O., 5; "A. M. H." Oakland, Cal., 5; friend who wants debt paid, 7; Rev. Samuel Ward, Emporia, Kans., c, 8; Z. Y. Z., 5; Rev. W. W. A., 50; Rev. N. W. Skinner, E. Las Vegas, N. M., 10; J. A. M.,

Newark, N. J., 3; Rev. C. E. Babb, San Jose, Cal., 5; A friend of missions, Sherman, Wash., 5; Jas. Waters, Oswego, N. Y., 25; Rev. S. S. Meyer, Las Comas, Wash., c, 10; A home missionary and wife, 5; Friends in East Bloomfield, N. Y., 5; Rev. and Mrs. R. C. Townsend, Tipton, Iowa, c, 5; A friend, thank off'g, 5; Rev. R. C. Robe, Wheelock, Ind. Ter., 20; Rev. Henry Farwell, Lawrence, Kans., 4; A friend, 2; Mrs. H. B. Williams, Choconut, Centre, N. Y., 2; Rev. J. Pierson, D. D., Stanton, Mich., 5; Dorcas Mission of New York City, 1 14; A friend, Nineveh, N. Y., 2. 311 86

Total received for the Home Mission Debt, October, 1892..... 8,310 75

Total received for the Home Mission from July 1, 1892..... 9,605 16

O. D. Eaton, Treasurer,

Box L, Station D. 53 Fifth Avenue, New York.

NOTE.—Contributions marked c were collections on Columbian Home Mission Day, Oct. 9, 1892.

RECEIPTS FOR MINISTERIAL RELIEF, OCTOBER, 1892.

ATLANTIC.—Fairfield—Mount Tabor, 2. 2 00
 BALTIMORE.—Baltimore—Baltimore 2d, 6 30; —Broadway, 14; —Central, 37 37; Deer Creek, Harmony, 15 77. New Castle—Elkton, 65; Green Hill, 4 75; Lower Brandywine, 6; Newark, 16; Pencader, 9 63; Pitt's Creek, 15. Washington City—Clifton, 5; Darnestown, 8; Hermon, 2; Washington City 4th, 254 95; —6th, 48; —Metropolitan, 65; —Western, 35 64. 608 11
 CALIFORNIA.—Benicia—Lakeport, 5 50; San Rafael (sabb-sch, 13 60), 42 10. Los Angeles—Glendale, 4 50; Los Angeles, Grand View, 5 45; —Westminster, 2. Oakland—Oakland, 1st, 70 40. Sacramento—Elk Grove, 5 05. San Jose—Hollister, 2. 127 00
 COLORADO.—Boulder—Longmont Central, 7; Valmont, 18 cts. Pueblo—Alamosa, 5 24; Colorado Springs 1st, 19 84; Durango 1st, 6; Rocky Ford 1st, 2 58. 90 84
 ILLINOIS.—Alton—Jerseyville, add'l, 2; Litchfield, 4 51. Bloomington—Chenoa, 6 67; Clinton (50 from Mrs. Magill), 62; El Paso, 7; Gilman, 11; Rossville, 6 25. Cairo—Cairo 1st, 9 80; Tamaroa, 19 45. Chicago—Chicago 1st, 41 26; —8th, 152 77; —Covenant, 123 50; —Fullerton Avenue, 43 35; Itasca, 2; Lake Forest, 315; Wheeling Zion, German, 8; Woodlawn Park, 26 61. Freeport—Harvard, 2; Rockford, Westminster, 10 42; Woodstock 1st, 10 50. Pecoria—Brimfield, 4; Canton, 17 69; Elmwood, 7; Knoxville, 11 35. Rock River—Centre, 8 41; Dixon, 36 88; Geneseo, 10 25. Schuyler—Elvaeton, 4; Monmouth 1st, 19 99; Quincy, 1st, 3 95; Rushville, 31 70. Springfield—Spring- 3d, 35 42. 1,057 32
 INDIANA.—Crawfordsville—Bethany, 14 18; Frankfort 1st, 22; Spring Grove 18 75. Fort Wayne—Warsaw 1st, 9 00. Indianapolis—Bethany, 5 74; Greenwood, 7 47; Southport, 1; Logansport—Crown Point, 8 80; South Bend 1st, 22; New Albany—Hanover, 9 90; Sharon Hill, 1 75. White Water—Connerville 1st, 33; Richmond 1st, 20. 186 59
 INDIAN TERRITORY.—Muscogee—Achna, 2. 2 00
 IOWA.—Cedar Rapids—Clinton 88 16; Lyons, 1 15; Wyoming 1st, 5 43. Corning—Anderson, 3. Hamburg 1st, 4 25; Sidney, 8. Des Moines—Albia 1st, 9 50; Laurel 3; Marioposa 5; Ridgedale, 8. Dubuque—Dubuque, 3d, 4; —German sabb-sch, 15; Hopkinton 1st, 9 40. Fort Dodge—Bethel, 5. Iowa—Keokuk, Westminster, 12 14; Morning Sun, 21 35; Winfield 7. Iowa City—Columbus Junction (3 23 from sabb-sch.), 5 23; Davenport 2d, 14 03; Iowa City, 25; Le Claire, 3 50; Mount Union, 1 50; Princeton, 3 75. Sioux City—Paullina, 5. Waterloo—Salem, 10; Tranquillity, 12 50; West Friesland, German, 6. 295 23
 KANSAS.—Emporia—Belle Plaine, 4; Elmendaro, 4 25; Madison, 5; Marion, 24; Wichita, West Side, 4 81; Winfield, 12 05. Highland—Washington 1st, 7 85. Larned—Larned, 3 51; Spearville, 2 25. Neosho—Cartyle, 1 05; Columbus, 4 65; Parsons 1st, 18 30. Osborne—Calvert, 2 25; Hays City, 8 75; Norton, 2 75; Rose Valley, 3; Smith Centre, 4 10. Solomon—Cheever, 5; Culver, 8; Minneapolis, 26 77. Topeka—Auburn, 8 05; Kansas City Grand View Park, 2; —Western Highlands, 7 55; —1st, 40 80; Manhattan, 17; Wakarusa 4. 221 89
 KENTUCKY.—Ebenezer—Paris 1st, 7. 7 00
 MICHIGAN.—Detroit—Brighton, 2; Detroit, 1st., 104 03; Milford, 14 05; Pontiac 1st, 36 65. Lake Superior—Menominee, 35 50. Lansing—Jackson, 8. Monroe—Blissfield 1st, 58; Erie 1st, 5; La Salle, 1st., 1 00; Palmyra, 5 00. 269 23

MINNESOTA.—Duluth—Duluth 2d, 6. Mankato—St. James, 2 50; St. Peter's, 5; Winnebago City, 9 64; Worthington, Westminster, 30. Minneapolis—Minneapolis, House of Faith, 2. St. Paul—Oak Grove, 6; St. Paul, 9th, 9 59; —Central, 36 93. 107 66
 MISSOURI.—Kansas City—Holden, 1st, 12; Kansas City, 2d, 191 43; Hill Memorial, 1; Sedalia Central, 17 81. Ozark—Eureka Springs, 7. Platte—Breckenridge, 3 80; New York Settlement, 3 30; Parkville, 16 48; St. Joseph, North, 10; St. Joseph, Westminster, 18 50. St. Louis—Ferguson, 5; St. Louis 2d German, 2; St. Louis Clifton Heights, 3 70. 290 02
 NEBRASKA.—Hastings—Hastings German, 1. Nebraska City—Bennett, 7; Sterling, 6. Omaha—Craig, 18 41; Lyons, 4 25; Omaha Clifton Hill, 1. 37 66
 NEW JERSEY.—Elizabeth—Pluckamin sabb-sch, 6; Roselle, 1st, 7 20. Jersey City—Carlstadt, German, 3; Jersey City, 1st, add'l, 10; Passaic, 27 70. Monmouth—Beverly, 43 71; Moorestown, 5; South Amboy, 2. Morris and Orange—Madison, 10 54; Orange, Hillside, 117 85. Newark—Caldwell, 27 45; Newark, 1st, 28 66; Newark, 2d, 26 12; Newark, 1st German, 22; Newark Park, 12 49. New Brunswick—Alexandria, 1st, 6; Amwell, 2d, 5 50; Dayton, 4 74; Ewing, 11 63; Lambertville, 45; New Brunswick, 1st, 78 25; Stockton, 6. Newton—Branchville, 20. 546 96
 NEW YORK.—Albany—Mariaville, 8. Binghamton—Binghamton 1st, 78 29; Cortland, 105 24; Coventry 2d, 5; Waverly 1st, 24. Boston—Boston, St. Andrews, 6. Brooklyn—Brooklyn 1st, 240 50; —Throop Avenue, 107; —Trinity sabb-sch, 2 50. Buffalo—Buffalo, Westminster, 23 90; Franklinville 1st, 3 20. Cayuga—Auburn 2d, 14 63; Genoa 2d, 1 25; Ithaca 1st, 27 68. Chemung—Burdett, 3. Geneva—Canoga, 3 48; Geneva 1st, 27 13; Oak's Corners, 2; Ovid 1st, 21 30; Penn Yan 1st, 26; Phelps, 20 75. Hudson—Circleville, 10; Florida, 1 53. Long Island—Middletown, 14 11; Port Jefferson, 20 60; Setauket, 15; West Hampton, 47 25. Nassau—Huntington, 1st, 78 95. New York—New York 1st, add'l, 50; —Mount Washington sabb-sch, 7 95. Niagara—Albion, 18; Lockport 1st, 37 06; Murray (Holley), 23 20. North River—Bethlehem, 7; Wappinger's Creek, 7. Rochester—Fowlerville, 2; Genesee Village 74 21. St. Lawrence—Morristown, 12 61; Ox Bow, 11 65; Watertown 1st, 115 50. Steuben—Arkport, 1 99; Canistota, 26; Cuba, 17 05; Hammondsport, 5. Syracuse—Amboy, 5; Oswego 1st, 17 07; Syracuse Memorial, 12. Westchester—Gilead, 21 23; Peekskill 2d, 13; South Salem, 15 13; Stamford 1st, 81 87; Thompsonville 1st, 23 25; Yonkers Westminster, (30 from S. S.), 68 77. 2,240 21
 OHIO.—Athens—New England, 2 40. Chillicothe—Bainbridge, 2; South Salem 16. Cincinnati—Avondale, 53 50; Cincinnati 2d, 20; —North, 7 18; Lebanon 1st, 22 50; Monroe, 5; New Richmond 5; Sharonville, 4 16; Springdale, 15 52. Cleveland—East Cleveland, 1st, 11 94; Gullford 1st, 7 41. Columbus—Central College, 19 96; Columbus Broad Street, 26 61; —Westminster, 6. Dayton—Clifton, 24 30; New Jersey, 4 35; Springfield 2d 53 53; Troy 1st, 20 54; Xenia, 7 50. Huron—Norwalk, 1st, 18 11. Mahoning—Ellsworth 11. Marion—Berlin, 2. Marysville, 7 41. St. Clairsville—Buffalo, 17 90; Cambridge, 7; Mount Pleasant, 6 56; Washington, 4. Steubenville—Annapolis, 3; Carrollton, 11; Linton, 3 60; Madison, 7; New Cumberland, 8 65; Steubenville 1st, 22 10. Wooster—Canal Fulton, 8; Frederickburg, 13;

Perrysville, 3 90; Shreve, 4; Wooster Westminster, 13 65.
 Zanesville—Homer, 4 80; West Carlisle, 5 34. 525 51
 Oregon.—Portland—Portland 4th, 10 83; Albina, 6.
 Willamette—Spring Valley, 5 30. 21 13
 PENNSYLVANIA.—Allegheny—Concord, 1 75; Freedom
 1st, 5; Leetsdale, add'l, 130; New Salem, 4; Vanport, 3 92.
 Blairsville—Braddock 1st, 43; Fairfield, 21 51; Greensburgh 1st, 101 90; Harrison City, 13 50; Livermore, 7 60; Manor, 15; New Salem, 42 09; Parnassus, 118 48. Butler
 —Harrisville, 5 25; Middlesex, 19; Pleasant Valley, 2 76;
 Summit, 9 30. Carlisle—Fayetteville, 2; Lebanon 4th Street, 34 70; Rocky Spring, 2; Saint Thomas, 3 63; Waynesboro, 6 55. Chester—Bryn Mawr, add'l, 45; Chester 1st, sab-sch, 12; Christiana, 3 72; Kennett Square, add'l, 8; Ridley Park, 8 61. Clarion—Beech Woods, 43 23;
 Clarion, 19; Edenburg, 20; Mount Tabor, 5 17; Oil City
 2d, 7; Richland, 2 80; Rockland, 2; Wilcox 51 cts. Erie—
 East Greene, 3; Millidgeville, 5; Pleasantville 30; Sandy Lake, 2; Utica 5; Waterloo, 2. Huntingdon—Alexandria, 27; Altoona 1st, 32; Bedford, 13 81; Houtzdale, 9;
 Oscola, 13 62. Kittanning—Clarksburgh, 6; Ebenezer,
 8; Freeport, 6 50; Rural Valley, 4; Strader's Grove, 3 13;
 West Glade Run, 8 60; Worthington, 10. Lackawanna
 —Canton 18; Carbondale, (4 01 from sab-sch.), 82 31;
 Forest City, 1; Great Bend, 8; Herrick, 3; Kingston, 26 38;
 Towanda 1st, 78 24; Troy, 13 80. Lehigh—Easton Brainerd 151 76; Reading 1st, 44 57. Northumberland—Berwick, 10; Derry 4; Great Island, 75; Mount Carmel 1st, 12 57; New Columbia 4; Sunbury 1st, 45; Warrior Run,
 6 23; Washington, 14; Washingtonville 7; Watsonstown, 6.
 Philadelphia—Philadelphia 2d, 82 46; —Tabernacle, 270.
 22. —Gaston, 31; —Kensington 1st, 100; —Memorial,
 50; Olivet, 44 23; Oxford, 85 52. Philadelphia North—Abington, 60 50; Fox Chase Memorial, 15 50; Germantown 1st, sab-sch, 71 34; —Redeemer, 10; Hermon, 40; Leverington, 12; Morrisville, 6; Newtown, 51 59. Pittsburgh—Cannonsburgh Central, 9 75; North Branch, 4; Phillipsburg, 8; Pittsburgh 2d, 12 15; —East Liberty, 120; —Park Avenue, 22 50; —Shady Side sab-sch., 13 50;
 Wilkinsburgh, add'l, 50. Redstone—Connellsville, 20;
 McKeesport, add'l, 124; Mount Pleasant Reunion, 14 40.
 Shenango—Mount Pleasant, 18; New Castle 1st, 39 49;
 —2d, 10; Rich Hill, 3. Washington—Cameron, 4;
 Wheeling 1st, 23. Westminster—Centre ($7 from sab-sch.),

25; Chestnut Level, 24 58; Pequesa, 18; Wrightsville, 17;
 York 1st, 188 91. 3,273 29
 SOUTH DAKOTA.—Southern Dakota—Parker, 9; Sioux Falls 1st, 13 75. 22 75
 TENNESSEE.—Holston—Jonesboro, 12. Union—Rockford, 2; Washington, 2 75. 16 75
 UTAH.—Montana—Bozeman Y. P. S. C. E., 16 33; Helena 1st, 37 20. 53 53
 WASHINGTON.—Puget Sound—Seattle 1st, 45 60. Walla
 Walla—Waitsburg 1st, 5. 50 60
 WISCONSIN.—Chippewa—Hudson 1st, 10. La Crosse—
 Bangor, 4; West Salem, 8. Milwaukee—Milwaukee, Cal-very, 45 73; —Immanuel, 106 54; —Perseverance, 8 50
 Waukegan 1st, 14 13. 196 90

From the churches and Sabbath-schools.....$ 10,391 87

FROM INDIVIDUALS.

W. H. Hastings, Delta, Colo., 6 25; Mrs. Helen
 D. Mills, Tunkhannock, Pa., 25; "Newton,
 N. J.," 50; Rev. R. B. Moore, Vineland, N.
 J., 10; A. J. Gere, Halstead, Pa., 1; James
 T. Imley, Hamilton, O., 5; M. R. Alexander,
 Chambersburg, Pa., 5; Mrs. C. J. Taylor,
 Argenta, Ill., 1 50; Elizabeth A. Cummins,
 Bellaire, O., 25; Rev. A. Parker and wife, Petoskey, Mich., 5; Wm. B. Wray, Brockwayville, Pa., 5; Mrs. Mary E. Palmer, New Brighton, Pa., 5; Rev. J. L. Leeper, Fort
 Wayne, Ind., 1 95; Rev. L. J. Matthews,
 West Plains, Mo., 1; "E. S. M.," 10; "N. M.
 C.," 5; Rev. W. C. Cattell, Phila., 50; Mrs.
 Mary E. Welles, Minneapolis, Minn., 5; S. S.
 Ward, Dayton, N. J. 5; Rev. Joseph Stevens, Jersey Shore, Pa., 5; Rev. John Newton,
 Pensacola, Fla., 5; "C. Penna.," 6.....$ 237 70
 Interest from permanent fund including $90, from the Roger Sherman Fund 41 67, from the Latta fund..... 5,967 92

For the current fund$ 16,517 49
 Total for the current fund since April 1, 1892...$ 76,606 61

WILLIAM W. HEBERTON, Treasurer.

RECEIPTS FOR SABBATH-SCHOOL WORK, OCTOBER, 1892.

BALTIMORE.—Baltimore—Baltimore 2d, 4 20;—Breckenridge sab-sch, 14; La Fayette Square sab-sch, 13 63; Hampden sab-sch, 35; The Grove sab-sch, 27 27. New Castle—Wilmington, West sab-sch, 30 cts. 94 40
 COLORADO.—Boulder—Longmont, Central, 5 75; Val-mont, 6 cts. 5 81
 ILLINOIS.—Chicago—Chicago 1st, 16 50;—Christ Chapel sab-sch, 44 90;—Covenant, 1 50. Freeport—Cedarville, sab-sch, 6 58. Mattoon—Marshall sab-sch, 13. Peoria—Knoxville, 8 62. Schuyler—Quincy, 1st, 1 32. Springfield—Jacksonville 2d Portuguese ch & sab-sch, 54; Springfield 2d, 33 42. 179 83
 INDIANA.—Indianapolis—Hopewell, 13 69. Logansport
 —Union, 2 40. New Albany—Jefferson sab-sch, 3. 19 09
 INDIAN TERRITORY.—Cherokee Nation—Elm Spring sab-sch, 10. Choctaw—Wheelock, 1. 11 00
 IOWA.—Council Bluffs—Casey sab-sch, 2 06. Clarinda (sab-sch, 30) 33 04. Sharpsburg 1 60. Yorktown 2 13.
 Des Moines—Des Moines—Westminster, 2 80. Iowa—
 Keokuk, Westminster, 4 04. Kirksville 3 00. Iowa City —Montezuma sab-sch, 11 75. Sioux City—Merrill, 3 00.
 Plymouth Co. 2. 70 51
 KANSAS.—Emporia—Mount Vernon, 3 00. Oxford 8 01.
 Highland—Baileyville sab-sch, 10 50. Washington, 2 61.
 Larned—Anthony sab-sch, 1 60. Spearville, 2 61. Neosho—Carlyle, 35 cts. Girard, 7. Osborne—Hays City,
 6 00. Topeka Junction City sab-sch, 25 00. 61 78
 KENTUCKY.—Louisville—Hodgensville, 1 40. 1 40
 MICHIGAN.—Detroit—Brighton, 3 00. Detroit, 2d Ave.
 sab-sch, 17 70. Holly sab-sch, 4 00. Grand Rapids—
 Grand Rapids, Immanuel sab-sch, 5 00. Kalamazoo—
 Allegan 6 00. 35 70
 MINNESOTA.—Red River—Crookston, ch and sab-sch,
 6. St. Paul—St. Paul, House of Hope, 43 69. 50 69
 MISSOURI.—Kansas City—Holden, 10. Sedalia, Broadway sab-sch, 25. Padmyra—Kirksville, 6 45. Platte—Lat-throp, 4; St. Joseph North, 20. St. Louis—St. Louis
 2d German, 2. 67 45
 NEBRASKA.—Hastings—Oak Creek German, 2. Kearney—Ord, 10. Nebraska City—Adams 1 23; Hickman
 German, 7 50; Omaha, 2; Plattsmouth, 5 43; Sterling,
 3. Nebraska—Atkinson sab-sch, 7 60; Stuart sab-sch,
 3 55. Omaha—Craig, 4 79. 47 09
 NEW JERSEY.—Elizabeth—Roselle, 2 40. Jersey City

—West Milford, sab-sch, 5. Monmouth—Columbus, ch.
 and sab-sch, 13 50. Morris and Orange—Hillsdale, 10;
 Madison, 3 51; Whippany, 9 06. Newark—Newark 2d,
 8 73;—1st German, 4;—Park, 2 67. New Brunswick—
 Alexandria, 1st, 5; Dayton, 1 58; Trenton 2d, sab-sch, 43 77; Marksboro sab-sch, 2; Yellow Frame sab-sch, 6 20.
 117 43

NEW MEXICO.—Rio Grande—Socorro, 2. 2 00
 NEW YORK.—Binghamton—Binghamton 1st, 52 19.
 Cortland, 18 82. Buffalo—Buffalo Westminster, 11 96;
 Franklinville, 2; Jamestown, 47 14. Cayuga—Auburn, 2d, 5 81. Champlain—Peru, 1 48. Chemung—Elmira North, sab-sch, 9. Genesee—East Pembroke sab-sch, 3. Hudson—Florida, 51 cts; Nyack, 20 50. New York—New York University Place, 233 21; West 23d Street sab-sch, 25. Niagara—Albion, 4 50. North River—Bethlehem, 7; Newburgh Union, 30 00. Otsego—Stamford, 10 00. Rochester—Rochester, St. Peter's sab-sch, 50 00. St. Lawrence—Waddington sab-sch, 25 00. Steuben—Addison sab-sch, 22 15; Arkport, 67 cts; Hammondsport, 10 00. Syracuse—Oswego, 1st, 20; Syracuse, Memorial, 10. Troy—Hoosick Falls, 20 78; Malta sab-sch, 5 53. Utica—Kirkland, 5.
 Westchester—Peekskill, 2d, 13 27; Sing Sing sab-sch,
 14 60. 679 14

NORTH DAKOTA.—Fembina—Glasston, 2 25; St. Thomas, 2 66. 4 90

OHIO.—Chillicothe—Bourneville sab-sch, 4. Cincinnati—Reading and Lockland, 9. Columbus—Central College sab-sch, 13 62. Dayton—Clifton, 6 48. Huron—Melmore sab-sch, 1 54. Lima—North Baltimore sab-sch, 15 25.
 Mahoning—Clarkson sab-sch, 1 74. Marion—Delaware,
 20. St. Clairsville—Buffalo sab-sch, 7 50; Buffalo ch;
 13 20. Zanesville—Newark Salem, German, 2. 103 63
 PACIFIC.—Benicia—Covelo, 3; Los Angeles—Fillmore sab-sch, 5; Redlands, 7 90. Sacramento—Placerville sab-sch, 10. San Jose—Hollister, 2. 37 90

PENNSYLVANIA.—Allegheny—Allegheny Central sab-sch, 15; Industry sab-sch, 13 43. Blairsville—Laird, 4; Mur-rysville, 3; Plum Creek, 4. Butler—Middlesex, 17 25;
 Mount Nebo, 3 30; Prospect, 2 50; Sunbury, 6. Carlisle
 —McConnellsburgh, 3 64; Waynesboro, 2 19. Chester—
 Honeybrook, Harmony sab-sch, 1 98; Ridley Park, 2 87.
 Clarion—Mount Pleasant, 1; Wilcox, 16 cts. Erie—Fredonia, 5 45; Oil City 1st sab-sch, 35 11; Titusville sab-sch.

41 26; Utica, 5; Waterloo, 2. Huntingdon—Huntingdon sab-sch, 15 97. Kittanning—Glade Run, 4 75. Lackawanna—Uniondale, 4 79; West Pittston sab-sch, 26 75; Wilkes-Barre, 1st, 59 40; Grant St. (sab-sch, 4 10) 9 62. Northumberland—Mount Carmel sab-sch, 3 25. Philadelphia—Calvary, 100; Wylie Memorial sab-sch, 8 26. Philadelphia North—Hermon sab-sch, 27 43; Langhorne, 4. Pittsburgh—Mingo sab-sch, 11; North Branch sab-sch, 12; Phillipsburg sab-sch, 18; Pittsburgh 2d, 4 06;—East Liberty, 86;—Park Avenue, 7 60;—Shady Side sab-sch, 4 50. Redstone—Little Redstone, 26 55; McKeesport, 4; Mount Vernon, 8; Pleasant Unity, 2 75. Shenango—Neahannock, 6 39. West Virginia—Bethel sab-sch, 10 51. 655 55

SOUTH DAKOTA.—Central Dakota—Beulah sab-sch, 1. 1 00
TENNESSEE.—Holston—Beach sab-sch, 3. Union—Knoxville Bell Av. 6. 9 00
Utah—Utah—Springville sab-sch, 8. 8 00
WASHINGTON.—Spokane—Spokane, Centenary, 4 4 00
WISCONSIN.—Milwaukee—Milwaukee Immanuel, 33 66.
Winnebago—Wausau sab-sch, 17 86; Weyauwega, 3 55. 55 07

Total from churches, October, 1892.....$ 1,438 90
 Total from Sabbath-schools, October, 1892..... 878 86

Total from churches and Sabbath-schools,
 October, 1892.....$ 2,317 76

MISCELLANEOUS.

Thos. Clemence, Peck, Mich., 2 75; Maitland sab-sch, S. Dakota, 75 cts.; A. J. Gere, Hallstead, Pa., 1 00; Anonymous, Lewistown, Pa. 1 00; Harris Chapel, Ark., 1 00; T. R. Veal, Feasterville, S. C., 1 80; Chas. Shephard, Wash., 2 55; M. H. Hagler, Ark., 1 1 cts.; W. H. Long, N. Car., 2 65; Valley Center sab-sch, Iowa, 1 84; G. V. Albertson, Ok. Ter., 2 50; David Brown, N. Car., 1 85; Hainesburg sab-sch, N. J., 3 00; Columbia sab-sch, N. J., 2 50; Venice sab-sch, N. J., 4 00; Douglas sab-sch, Wis., 3 21; G. T. Dillard, S. C., 3 26; Elk Mission sab-sch, Mich., 85 cts.; L. O. Sutherland, Iowa, 5 00; Wm. Travis, Oregon, 7 58; H. B. Wilson, Ga., 80 cts.; R. J. Young, Ind., 1 27; Angus Sillars, Wis., 26 52; J. D. Ibbotson, Mo., 5 53; J. H. Cooper, S. C., 2 10; W. F. Donnell, N. C., 70 cts.; Alex. Ross, Mich., 20 cts.; Albright sab-sch, Va., 74 cts.; "C. Penn'a", 1 00; Interest from Trustees, 634 73,..... 721 85

Total receipts for October, 1892.....$ 3,084 61
 Amount previously acknowledged,..... 69,809 16

Total contributions received since April 1, 1892, $72,843 77

C. T. McMULLIN, Treasurer.
 1324 Chestnut Street, Phila.

Marble and granite are perishable monuments, and their inscriptions may seldom be read. Leave your names on human hearts; they alone are immortal.

The three years of Christ's marvelous ministry are all condensed into the one simple, matchless line,—"He went about doing good."

T. L. CUYLER.

It is said that it costs twice as much to fire one shot from one of our largest guns as to support a Missionary and his family a year in Japan.

Rev. Dr. Clark, of Christian Endeavor fame, expresses the belief that the Church needs more than anything else, a host of symmetrical, well-rounded Christian men and women. Amen, say we.

Discretion in speech is more than eloquence.—Lord Bacon.

But why not give us both? Some preachers and some Senators do.

A reverent, thoughtful study of the Bible should be part of the curriculum in every college, and the Christian parent will be wise to send his boy to no college where such a course of Bible study is not to be had.—Christian at Work.

THE DRINK QUESTION is the question of the day. The tariff wrangle is a mere baby to it. If intelligent, steady-going people could be induced to spend upon the drink question a fraction of the time and money devoted to the other, we might hope for some real improvement in its treatment.—Prof. J. J. McCosh, in the Forum.

We need a deeper and stiller element in our piety. We want not only to work, but to believe that God in Christ works, and with mightier forces than we: works through and by us, or without us, as he will; and that we are at best but inapt and incompetent instruments in his hands.

F. D. H.

OFFICERS AND AGENCIES OF THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

THE CLERKS.

Stated Clerk and Treasurer—Rev. William H. Roberts, D.D., Lane Theological Seminary, Walnut Hills, Cincinnati, O.
Permanent Clerk—Rev. William E. Moore, D.D., Columbus, O.

THE TRUSTEES.

President—George Junkin, Esq.
Treasurer—Frank K. Hipple, 1840 Chestnut Street.
Recording Secretary—Jacob Wilson.
Office—Publication House, No. 1384 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

THE BOARDS.

1. HOME MISSIONS, SUSTENTATION.

Corresponding Secretaries—Rev. William C. Roberts, D.D., Rev. William Irvin, D.D., and Rev. Duncan J. McMillan, D.D.

Treasurer—Oliver D. Eaton.

Recording Secretary—Oscar E. Boyd.

Office—Presbyterian House, No. 53 Fifth Avenue, New York, N. Y.

Letters relating to missionary appointments and other operations of the Board should be addressed to the Corresponding Secretaries.

Letters relating to the pecuniary affairs of the Board, or containing remittances of money, should be sent to O. D. Eaton, Treasurer.

2. FOREIGN MISSIONS.

Secretary Emeritus—Rev. John C. Lowrie, D.D.

Corresponding Secretaries—Rev. Frank F. Ellinwood, D.D., Rev. Arthur Mitchell, D.D., and Rev. John Gillespie, D.D.

Assistant Secretary—Mr. Robert E. Speer.

Treasurer—William Dulles, Jr., Esq.

Field Secretary—Rev. Thomas Marshall, D.D., 48 McCormick Block, Chicago, Ill.

Office—Presbyterian House, No. 53 Fifth Avenue, New York, N. Y.

Letters relating to the missions or other operations of the Board should be addressed to the Secretaries. Letters relating to the pecuniary affairs of the Board, or containing remittances of money, should be sent to William Dulles, Jr., Esq., Treasurer.

Certificates of honorary membership are given on receipt of $30, and of honorary directorship on receipt of $100.

Persons sending packages for shipment to missionaries should state the contents and value. There are no specified days for shipping goods. Send packages to the Mission House as soon as they are ready. Address the Treasurer of the Board of Foreign Missions, No 53 Fifth Avenue, New York, N. Y.

The postage on letters to all our mission stations, except those in Mexico, is 5 cents per each half ounce or fraction thereof. Mexico, 2 cents per half ounce.

3. EDUCATION.

Corresponding Secretary—Rev. Daniel W. Poor, D.D.

Treasurer—Jacob Wilson.

Office—Publication House, No. 1384 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

4. PUBLICATION AND SABBATH-SCHOOL WORK.

Secretary—Rev. Elijah R. Craven, D. D.

Superintendent of Sabbath-school and Missionary Work—Rev. James A. Worden, D.D.

Editorial Superintendent—Rev. J. R. Miller, D.D.

Business Superintendent—John A. Black.

Treasurer—Rev. C. T. McMullin.

PUBLICATION HOUSE—No. 1384 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

Letters relative to the general interests of the Board, also all manuscripts offered for publication and communications relative thereto, excepting those for Sabbath-school Library books and the periodicals, should be addressed to the Rev. E. R. CRAVEN, D.D., Secretary.

Presbyterial Sabbath-school reports, letters relating to Sabbath-school and Missionary work, to grants of the Board's publications, to the appointment of Sabbath-school missionaries, and reports, orders and other communications of these missionaries, to the Rev JAMES A. WORDEN, D.D., Superintendent of Sabbath-school and Missionary Work.

All manuscripts for Sabbath-school Library books, also all matter offered for the WESTMINSTER TEACHER and the other periodicals, and all letters concerning the same, to the Rev. J. R. MILLER, D.D., Editorial Superintendent.

Business correspondence and orders for books and periodicals, except from Sabbath-school missionaries, to JOHN A. BLACK, Business Superintendent.

Remittances of money and contributions to the Rev. C. T. McMULLIN, Treasurer.

5. CHURCH ERECTION.

Corresponding Secretary—Rev. Erskine N. White, D.D.

Treasurer—Adam Campbell.

Office—Presbyterian House, No. 53 Fifth Avenue, New York, N. Y.

6. MINISTERIAL RELIEF.

Corresponding Secretary—Rev. William C. Cattell, D. D.
Recording Secretary and Treasurer—Rev. William W. Heberton.
OFFICE—Publication House, No 1334 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

7. FREEDMEN.

President—
Office Secretary and Treasurer—Rev. J. T. Gibson.
Corresponding Secretary—Rev. Edward P. Cowan, D. D.
OFFICE—No. 516 Market Street, Pittsburgh, Pa.

8. AID FOR COLLEGES AND ACADEMIES.

Corresponding Secretary—Rev. Edward C. Ray, D. D.
Treasurer—Charles M. Charnley, P. O. Box 294, Chicago, Ill.
OFFICE—Room 23, Montauk Block, No. 115 Monroe Street, Chicago, Ill.

PERMANENT COMMITTEES.COMMITTEE ON SYSTEMATIC BENEFICENCE.

Chairman—Rev. Rufus S. Green, D. D., Orange, N. J.
Secretary—Kiliaen Van Rensselaer, 56 Wall Street, New York, N. Y.

COMMITTEE ON TEMPERANCE.

Chairman—Rev. I. N. Hays, D. D., Allegheny, Pa.
Corresponding Secretary—Rev. John F. Hill, Room 813, Penn Building, Pittsburgh, Pa.
Treasurer—Rev. James Allison, D. D., Cor. Sixth Avenue and Wood Street, Pittsburgh, Pa.

PRESBYTERIAN HISTORICAL SOCIETY.

President—Rev. W. C. Cattell, D. D., Philadelphia.
Corresponding Secretary—Rev. D. K. Turner.
Treasurer—DeB. K. Ludwig, 3300 Locust Street, Philadelphia.
Library and Museum—1229 Race Street, Philadelphia.

TREASURERS OF SYNODICAL HOME MISSIONS AND SUSTENTATION.

New Jersey—Elmer Ewing Green, P. O. Box 133, Trenton, N. J.
New York—O. D. Eaton, 53 Fifth Avenue, New York, N. Y.
Pennsylvania—Frank K. Hipple, 1340 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa.
Baltimore—D. C. Ammidon, 31 South Frederick Street, Baltimore, Md.

BEQUESTS OR DEVISES.

In the preparation of Wills care should be taken to insert the Corporate Name, as known and recognized in the Courts of Law. Bequests or Devises for the General Assembly should be made to "The Trustees of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America."

Board of Home Missions,—to "The Board of Home Missions in the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, incorporated April 19, 1872, by Act of the Legislature of the State of New York."

Board of Foreign Missions,—to "The Board of Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America."

Board of Church Erection,—to "The Board of Church Erection Fund of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, incorporated Mar. 27, 1871, by the Legislature of the State of New York."

Board of Publication and Sabbath-school Work, to "The Trustees of the Presbyterian Board of Publication and Sabbath-school Work."

Board of Education,—to "The Board of Education of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America."

Board of Relief,—to "The Presbyterian Board of Relief for Disabled Ministers and the Widows and Orphans of Deceased Ministers."

Board for Freedmen,—to "The Board of Missions for Freedmen of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America."

Board of Aid for Colleges,—to "The Presbyterian Board of Aid for Colleges and Academies."

Sustentation is not incorporated. Bequests or Devises intended for this object should be made to "The Board of Home Missions of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, incorporated April 19, 1872, by Act of the Legislature of the State of New York, for Sustentation."

N.B.—Real Estate devised by will should be carefully described.

Vol. 13.

No. 74.

THE CHURCH AT HOME AND ABROAD.

PUBLISHED MONTHLY BY ORDER OF
THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF THE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH
IN THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA.

FEBRUARY, 1893.

EDITOR:

HENRY A. NELSON, D.D.

EDITORIAL CORRESPONDENTS:

WILLIAM IRVIN, D.D.,
For Home Missions.
JOHN GILLESPIE, D.D.,
For Foreign Missions.
DANIEL W. POOR, D.D.,
For Ministerial Education.
ELIJAH R. CRAVEN, D.D.,
For Publication and S. S. Work.

ERSKINE N. WHITE, D.D.,
For Church Erection.
WILLIAM C. CATTELL, D.D.,
For Ministerial Relief.
EDWARD P. COWAN, D.D.,
For Missions to Freedmen.
EDWARD C. RAY, D.D.,
For Colleges and Academies.

The Editorial Correspondents are responsible only for matter sent from the rooms of their respective Boards, as indicated in the table of CONTENTS.

PRESBYTERIAN BOARD OF PUBLICATION
AND SABBATH-SCHOOL WORK,
No. 1334 CHESTNUT STREET,
PHILADELPHIA, PA.

When answering an advertisement, our readers will help the magazine and the advertiser by mentioning THE CHURCH AT HOME AND ABROAD. For advertising space, address RICHARD S. DEY, 150 Nassau Street, New York.

LINCOLN UNIVERSITY

Our 30th Academical year began in September with larger classes than ever.

A new Hall for Instruction was completed in the summer vacation. It has 17 ample rooms, well finished and furnished. It is built and equipped without debt. Hard by stands our new and beautiful chapel, the generous gift of a lady friend.

The College and Theological Faculties, with their Nine Professors, are provided for, insufficiently indeed, but there is no appeal for more.

The liberal bequests recently received have been spent on the foundations of this work, to enlarge and strengthen them. But now the wheels of our progress are blocked. We can build nothing on our new foundations till you give us a new dormitory for the many approved candidates waiting to enter the classes. Our most earnest appeal to you is for this ($20,000).

This burden we carry is too heavy without your help. Make provision for the support of these young men, $130 a year, or its equivalent—the interest of a permanent endowment of $2,000 or $2,500.

In making bequests, note that our corporate title is "LINCOLN UNIVERSITY." in Chester County, Pa.

Rev. A. T. Rankin, D.D., Greensburg, Ind., is our Western Agent. Rev. W. P. White, Germantown, Penn'a, is Assistant Secretary; Rev. Edward Webb, Oxford, Penn'a, is Financial Secretary, L. U.; to whom your gifts may be sent and your inquiries addressed.

W. R. BINGHAM, Pres't B'd Trustees, L. U.

SCOTIA SEMINARY.

A High School for colored girls under the care of the Board for Freedmen and the Women's Ex. Committee for Home Missions of the Presbyterian Church. Incorporated under the laws of North Carolina. Legal name "The Scotia Seminary," Concord, N. C. The final title to all property is vested by the charter in the Board for Freedmen.

Donations solicited to a permanent fund which will provide for the salaries of the teachers and supply scholarships and thus relieve the treasury of the Board.

D. J. SATTERFIELD, President.

PENNSYLVANIA, Chambersburg.

WILSON COLLEGE FOR YOUNG WOMEN.

Fifty miles southwest of Harrisburg, in famous Cumberland Valley. Border climate, avoiding bleak north. $250 per year for board, room, etc., and all College Studies. Handsome Park, Large Buildings, Steam Heat, Gymnasium, Observatory, Laboratory, etc. Endorsed by Pennsylvania Synod, Baltimore Synod and Presbytery, Presbytery of Carlisle, etc.

THE YOUNG LADIES' SEMINARY.

FREEHOLD, NEW JERSEY.

Healthful location. Good teachers. Pleasant family life. Personal care for pupils. Fall term opened Sept. 14th, 1892.

Principal, MISS EUNICE D. SEWELL.

10% Dividend Guaranteed

On the Stock of the

JASPER COUNTY TITLE AND INVESTMENT CO.

CAPITAL, $50,000.00 (Paid up).

Investors will have their Stock Guaranteed by First Mortgage Notes secured by Real Estate.

Stock offered for sale limited to $20,000.00.

For particulars, address,

HORACE B. MARTIN

Carthage, Mo.

Investment Broker

—THE— ECONOMY

HOT WATER HEATERS
COMBINATION HEATERS
WARM AIR FURNACES

SEND FOR CATALOGUE
J. F. PEASE FURNACE CO.
SYRACUSE BOSTON NEW YORK

THE CHURCH AT HOME AND ABROAD.

FEBRUARY, 1893.

CONTENTS.

The Joy of Willing Offerings to God, Editorial ,	85
Beginnings of Presbyterianism on the Pacific Coast,	87
The Church and the Fair, W. C. Gray ,	88
Henry Kendall, E. D. Morris, D. D. ,	90

FOREIGN MISSIONS.

Notes. —Treasurer's Statement of Receipts—Generous Offer—Syria Mission's Special Concert of Prayer—Magic Lantern Slides—Baptisms in Lodiana Mission—Synod of New York on Foreign Missions—Messrs. Curtis and Bryan on Japan—Danger to Japanese Students—Dr. Briggs on Moung Praa Among the Laos—Afternoon at Korean Hospital—Wolf Boy—Oriental Religions and Christianity,	98-99
Concert of Prayer. —Missions in China—Our Responsibility in Hainan—After the Riots—Retrospect—Flank Movement on Thibet—Imperial College—China Inland Mission—Tsze Chien, C. W. Martin, D. D. —Progress of Missions in China, J. G. Kerr, M. D. ,	100-111
Letters. —Syria, Rev. Mr. Hoskins ; Miss M. C. Holmes —Persia, Miss C. Montgomery —Africa, Miss Nassau —Persia, Rev. S. G. Wilson —Siam, Miss L. J. Cooper —Brazil, Rev. J. B. Kolb —Japan, Rev. F. S. Curtis —Mexico, Rev. C. S. Williams ,	111-117

HOME MISSIONS.

Notes. —Delay Disastrous—Benefit of Organization—Synod of Wisconsin—Suggestions of Census—Notes on Kansas—Natives of Alaska, Contributors to Home Missions,	118-121
Concert of Prayer. —Two Heroes of Dakota Mission, Rev. J. R. Williamson in the Word Carrier —The Last of Her Race—Indians and the Indian Problem, Rev. John B. Aughey ,	122-125
Letters. —Indian Territory, Rev. W. L. Miller, Sup't —Kansas, Rev. H. C. Bradbury ; Rev. J. A. Oliver —Utah, Rev. Theo. Lee —Minnesota, Rev. J. H. Meyer ; Rev. G. W. Martin —New Mexico, Rev. H. J. Furneaux —N. Dakota, Rev. J. McCoy ,	126-128
HOME MISSION APPOINTMENTS,	130
COLLEGES AND ACADEMIES.—Daniel Baker College—February Small Fruits—Appropriations,	131-133
MISCELLANY.—The Ainu of Northern Japan—Baptism of a Persian Mollah—Repression of the Liquor Traffic in Chili—Pleasant Letters—The Feminine Element of Eloquence, Addis Owen —Thoughts on Sabbath-school Lessons—Native Agents and Their Proper Training,	133 141
YOUNG PEOPLE'S CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.—The Value of Association With Those Whom God Loves—An Old Love Letter—Scenery of Lebanon—A View from Mt. Lebanon,	141-143
CHILDREN'S CHURCH AT HOME AND ABROAD.—Voyage in a Chinese Junk, Mrs. Lane —God's Work Among the Cornplanters,	144-145
GLEANINGS AT HOME AND ABROAD,	146-150
MINISTERIAL NECROLOGY AND BOOK NOTICES,	150-151
RECEIPTS,	152-162
OFFICERS AND AGENCIES OF GENERAL ASSEMBLY,	163-164

THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY'S COMMITTEE.

JOHN S. MACINTOSH, D. D., CHAIRMAN,
2021 Delancey Place, Philadelphia, Pa.

CHARLES A. DICKEY, D. D.,
ANSON D. F. RANDOLPH, Esq.,
WARNER VAN NORDEN, Esq.,
HON. ROBERT N. WILLSON,
JOHN H. DEY, Esq.,

STEALY B. ROSSITER, D. D.,
REV. HENRY T. MCEWEN,
STEPHEN W. DANA, D. D.,
CHARLES L. THOMPSON, D. D.,
F. F. ELLINWOOD, D. D.

WILLIAM C. ROBERTS, D. D.

BUSINESS SUPERINTENDENT, JOHN A. BLACK,
1334 Chestnut Street.

All Business Correspondence and remittances by Draft or Postal Order should be addressed to the Business Superintendent—not to the Editor.

The price of the CHURCH AT HOME AND ABROAD is ONE DOLLAR per year, payable in advance. No new subscription is received without the payment of one dollar accompanying it. But subscriptions, not accompanied with directions to discontinue at the end of the time paid for, will be continued and bills will be sent to remind the subscriber that another payment is due.

Issued November 14th.

A NEW HYMN AND TUNE BOOK

For use in Presbyterian Churches

By the REV. CHAS. S. ROBINSON, D.D., LL.D.

"The New Laudes Domini," we confidently believe to be the most comprehensive and practical book for congregational singing yet issued. It is enriched by many fresh hymns of wonderful spirituality and poetic beauty, and nearly every one of its tunes is marked by a characteristic melody, and can be sung by the average congregation. "The New Laudes Domini" is calculated to be popular in the best sense.

Mechanically it is unequalled. All the type used is new, and was chosen especially for this book. The press-work is of the best. By using thin but opaque paper we are enabled to furnish more hymns and tunes with less weight and bulk. It is a real surprise to find that such a wide range of hymns (1200) and of tunes (675) can be furnished in large clear type making a book only three-fourths of an inch in thickness.

A novel feature in this issue is the pocket edition (16mo.), which is reproduced from the large book, containing all the hymns and tunes in facsimile, the size of the printed page being $3\frac{1}{4} \times 5$ inches. Sample copies free to pastors and committees.

"Laudes Domini for the Prayer Meeting," and "Laudes Domini for the Sunday-School" complete the series. For descriptive circulars, terms, etc., address,

THE CENTURY CO., 33 E. 17th Street, New York

THE CHURCH AT HOME AND ABROAD.

FEBRUARY, 1893.

THE JOY OF WILLING OFFERINGS TO GOD.

One of the most interesting and beautiful scenes described in the Old Testament is that of the people of Israel presenting their offerings to God for the building of his house, which was to be "exceeding magnificent, of fame and glory throughout all countries." 1 Chron. xxii, 5. Those gifts amounted to an immense sum, sufficient for the splendid work. Far from grudging these, or feeling that they were unkindly exacted, the people and their king exulted in the privilege with great and unusual joy. "Then the people rejoiced, for that they offered willingly, because with perfect heart they offered willingly to the LORD." 1 Chron. xxix, 9.

They even followed this large contribution with a sacrifice of thanksgiving, in which a multitude of lambs and bullocks and plentiful accompanying drink-offerings were presented to the Lord. More joyful festivities were never celebrated by a happy and thankful people. The nature and elements of this joy and the considerations which sustained it are an interesting study. They are set forth most vividly in the prayer of King David on the occasion:

Blessed be thou, Lord, God of Israel our father, for ever and ever. Thine, O LORD, is the greatness and the power, and the glory, and the victory, and the majesty; for all that is in the heaven and in the earth is thine; thine is the kingdom, O LORD, and thou art exalted as head above all. Both riches and honor come of thee, and thou reignest over all; and in thine hand is power and might; and in thine hand it is to make great, and to give strength unto all. Now, therefore, our God, we thank thee, and praise thy glorious name. 1 Chron. xxix, 10-13.

Deep and true was the piety of the heart which poured forth such fervent praise to Jehovah. Such a view of God and such reverent and loving loyalty to him are the only reliable source of pecuniary offerings for his service from any people in any age.

David disclaimed all credit for the offering which he and his people had made. "Of thine own have we given thee."

Has this sentiment the practical hold on us now which it ought to have? Do we not think of ourselves as giving to the Lord, to the Church, to Missions, to Charities, that which is our own? We know well enough that all our means of enjoyment and all our means of usefulness belong to God. He has caused all of it to come into our possession. We hold every dollar of it, not merely as his beneficiaries, but also as his stewards. We are trustees for him, and when His providence shows us how he would have us use it, in obeying those intimations, we are acting simply as honest stewards. We are not to admire ourselves for giving God His own.

David and his people felt this, and were glad and happy in avowing it. The sentiment was aided to retain its ascendancy in their minds by the consideration of the fleeting and transitory nature of all their connections with earthly possessions and scenes. "Our days on earth are as a shadow, and there is none abiding." David the more easily regarded all his earthly possessions as only held in trust for God because he cherished the habitual recollection of his own mortality. His throne and his jewels, his treasures and his kingdom—he knew that he must soon leave them and go to give account of them to their real owner.

Remarkable is David's thankful acknowledgement of his indebtedness to God for the disposition, as well as for the ability, to make such offerings to him.

"Who am I, and what is my people, that we should be able to offer so willingly after this sort?" The pious men of the Bible habitually ascribed all their right dispositions and doings to a divine influence upon them as frankly as they ascribed all their enjoyments to a divine bestowment. The psalms are full of such humble and thankful acknowledgements. David and his people gratefully acknowledged this as the best of God's gifts to them, that he enabled them to offer so willingly.

Left to itself, the human heart naturally fastens upon its earthly possessions with idolatrous attachment. It is a work of God's free grace to unfasten the heart from this natural hold, and make it glad to give back to God what is his own.

David saw clearly that no giving with the hands can please God unless the heart lets go its hold. "I know also, my God, that thou triest the heart and hast pleasure in uprightness."

We need to be constantly reminded of this. Our solemn assembling, our decent and orderly behavior, our reverent attitudes and demeanor and words, our frequent offerings of money—all are in vain unless he who sees quite through these, looking into our hearts, beholds there sincerity and humility and penitence and faith.

David's acknowledgement of dependence on God for a right disposition of mind takes still another form. Looking with paternal and patriotic solicitude to the future of his people, he earnestly desired that both the people and his beloved Solomon should by the grace of God evermore possess such a spirit as God would approve. "O Lord God of Abraham, Isaac and of Israel, our fathers, keep this forever in the imagination of the thoughts of the heart of thy people, and prepare their heart unto thee."

What do we, God's Israel of this time and land, now need for the successful fulfillment of the great work for him which he is trusting us to do? We are the richest people he has in any land, the richest he ever had in any age. He is showing us uses for our wealth such as David and Solomon had no opportunity for—a work for him to which the building of that "magnificent" temple was as the acorn to the oak. Are we hastening to do it, filling his treasury with our gifts, and shouting forth our thankful gladness for the privilege of giving so willingly?

What do we need?—ingenious plans, novel methods—thrilling appeals to our pity for the hungry and the perishing?

We need a revival of loving loyalty to God. We need to be made to feel that this abounding wealth is not our own but His, and that He hath need of it. "O LORD GOD, keep this in the imagination of the thoughts of the heart of thy people, and prepare their heart unto thee."

BEGINNINGS OF PRESBYTERIANISM ON THE PACIFIC COAST.

Suitably supplementary to Dr. Babb's article on California, in our last issue, are some statements which he has since sent us concerning the genesis of the Presbyterian Church, in the metropolis of the Pacific Coast. He says that he finds the facts in a volume entitled "A Pioneer Pastorate and Times." We give the substance of those statements mostly but not wholly in the words of Dr. Babb's notes, which were written while he was "quite sick." We hope that in that salubrious climate his vigor has returned and will long continue.

The First Presbyterian Church of San Francisco, was organized, May 20, 1849, by Rev. Albert Williams, whose name now stands first on the roll of the Presbytery of Morris and Orange in the Synod of New Jersey. That organization was effected in less than two months after Mr. Williams' arrival in San Francisco. It well illustrates the cosmopolitan character of the early population, that the six members of which that church consisted had come from Massachusetts, Vermont, Michigan, Pennsylvania, Chili, and China—one from each. The church was organized, and at first worshipped in the school-house in which Mr. Williams had opened the first school in San Francisco.

When the congregation outgrew that room, they worshipped a while in the District Court-room, and then bought the marquee of a disbanded mining association, and set it up on a lot which Mr. Williams had bought for the church.

In November, 1850, a church built for them in New York and paid for mostly by members of the Scotch Church in that city, arrived in San Francisco. This was set up in Stockton Street, on a more eligible lot than that on which their tent had been pitched. When the frame was up, and partly covered, a storm wrecked it and destroyed much of its value. But the faith and courage of the little band were equal to the emergency.

That building was found capable of seating seven hundred and fifty persons. Of the audience that crowded it, at its dedication, only fifty were women.

This new edifice was joyfully occupied just five months, and was then consumed in one of the great fires which swept over the new city.

Immediately the brave congregation began to build another house, plainer in style, but not smaller. After they had occupied this a few years, it also was burned. A substantial brick edifice succeeded it. But soon that quarter of the city became crowded with a Chinese population of such character and habits as made the approaches to the church wholly unfit and unsafe for children and women. The brick church was sold to the Board of Foreign Missions, and became the headquarters of the important work since conducted by them—foreign mission work on home mission ground!

A new house of worship was built for the First Church, in one of the finest locations in the city, at the corner of Van Ness Avenue and Sacramento Street. Dr. Babb closes his narrative in the following glowing words:

Here the troubles of the church seem to have ended, and it has enjoyed, since this last removal, under the pastoral care of Rev. Robert Mackenzie, D. D., several years of unexampled prosperity. It went to the new location in 1886 with a roll of only 120 communicants. But it gave that year to all objects reported in the minutes over $7,000, an average of nearly $60.00 to a member. Next year the membership was 252 and the contributions were over $25,000. The year 1888 shows about the same aggregate and average as 1887. But in 1889, the tide still rising, with 385 communicants, the church gave over $71,000, of which $35,738 was for the cause of Christian Education—pretty well for the fortieth anniversary of the first school and first church in San Francisco, so blended in the person and the work of one pioneer pastor. And now in the report for 1890 we have a crowning demonstration of the fact that what is done in faith God will own and honor in his own good time. That year the first Church gave to all objects a total of $285,400, of which large sum $255,000 went to the endowment of the San Francisco Theological Seminary. In 1891 the contributions as reported in the minutes were over $45,000. In 1892 the record of 1891 is doubled, the aggregate being over $93,000.

Thus this church, which had to wander for months, like Noah's dove, among the tents and shanties of the Golden Gate, which was tried by storm and fire, after having completed its forty years of trial, found rest, and then it began to give with a liberality that has few parallels. In the years '89, '90, '91, '92 the aggregate of its contributions was $494,000! Do not such facts demonstrate that Home Missions pay? Should they not stimulate the faith and liberality of the Church in this work? Plant a church of six members, and only the Lord can tell whereunto it may grow.

THE CHURCH AND THE FAIR.

WM. C. GRAY, Editor of The Interior.

Our Detroit Assembly appointed a committee to represent our Church in a religious exhibit at the Columbian Exposition. The Portland Assembly "heartily joined with the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church in the United States, and with other branches of the Church of Christ, in recommending to all Christians to abstain from patronizing the Columbian Exposition in 1893, either by sending exhibits there, or buying or selling goods there, or attending it in person if its gates should be kept open on Sunday." The Assembly also ordered "that no exhibition be made in the interests of the Presbyterian Church, or as representing this Assembly, except with the express provision that we reserve the right to cover our exhibit on the Lord's day, if the Exposition be opened on that day."

The Assembly also disapproved participation in the parliament of religions. What our committee will do is not yet decided upon. By the time this is printed Congress may have taken action. But even that will not end the controversy. The question has been taken into the courts, on injunction proceedings, to forbid the Exposition authorities from closing Jackson and Washington Parks against the public on Sundays. In this way they may be able to hold on to the congressional appropriation, and yet violate the agreement under apparent legal compulsion.

The Roman Catholics will make a great display of their educational and other work, and show a rich and attractive line of historic mementoes. They are autocratic and dictatorial. At the opening exercises, in October, their demands were unlimited and the conduct of their preludes contemptible. Indecision and confusion on the part of the Evangelical bodies over the closing question will put them at disadvantage, should an exhibit, at a later date, be decided upon.

I should like to speak more hopefully of the moral and religious prospects of our city and the Fair for next summer. We shall have a godless revel every Sabbath, and the day will be trodden under foot. The lake will be white with steamers and sailing craft, the rails hot with excursions, the theatres running night and day, the saloons all open, and the emissaries of hell turned loose upon us. We shall be Paris without the outward veil of French refinement—and all this no matter what Congress may do or not do in regard to repealing or modifying the closing clause. Chicago is the chief publishing center, in this country, of obscene literature and art.

Per contra, special activity is now in progress to suppress the worst things. The Society for the Prevention of Vice in December jailed eight publishers within one week, and the effort to awaken public sentiment on this subject has been successful. The worst gambling association in the country, at Garfield Park race tracks, has been broken up by a St. Louis gambler who has planted the same kind of a concern just out of the city limits. He wanted to monopolize the business himself! The tract and publication societies and the Bible society are preparing for the active dissemination of religious literature. Our churches will all be ready, with preaching in all of them and active committee work all summer and larger accommodations for the mid-week meetings—everything that they can do. Mr. Moody will organize the greatest campaign of his life. Already he has secured the services of Drs. Munro Gibson of London, J. Pindar of Poland, F. Schrivera of Italy, besides Whittle, MacNeill, Meyer, Torrey, Merton Smith, and others; also for singers, Sankey, Stebbins, Burke, Towner, Lowe, and some fine clearly-articulating women soprano soloists. Many more preachers and singers will be engaged. This will require one tabernacle seating ten thousand and a number of tents seating from one thousand upward. The cost will be about $100,000. The details are not yet worked out, but I suppose there will be quite an army of volunteers drilled for personal work, as opportunity offers.

Just here comes in a scheme which I originated, but now wish I had not. I said to the promoters, who were so solicitous about the fate of the crowds to be shut out on Sunday: "If you will close the buildings but open the park gates, and set up a score of preaching places, with 150,000 chairs, we will see that the people have a chance to hear the gospel and worship God on the Sabbath." They bit at it like bass. Our mayor recommended it to the city council, and the council recommended it to Congress. Even the Devil can be funny. What do you suppose is the form in which our saloon-councilmen practically put it? One preaching stand and 1,500,000 glasses of beer!

We shall have a congress of the religious press, lasting three days. The Y. M. C. A. are getting ready for active work in their line—very important work. They ought to be well supplied with funds for it. The Christian Endeavorers will also be on hand in their young and pure enthusiasm, and the W. C. T. U. intend to put in their best year's work. The fair is to last six months. As all sorts of Christian work progress, new plans and enterprises will be suggested. We count much on Mr. Moody's powers of organization, experience and solid common sense for the general management; and also on the authority which he possesses because of the general confidence in him. We mean to do the best we can, and we count on our brethren from all parts of the world as volunteers in any work that is open to them. Is it not possible that at the end we shall be able to look back, and then in each others faces, with Christian congratulations?

Of course this is possible, Brother Gray. Remember the story of Daniel Webster and the crowd that was gathered to hear his oration at the laying of the corner stone of the Bunker Hill Monument? They were pressing against the platform so hard that there was danger of its falling with serious if not fatal effect. Webster requested them to move back. Those nearest, pressed upon by the host behind, cried, "Mr. Webster, it is impossible." Lifting himself to the full height of his majestic stature, extending his arm and waving it above them, the great orator thundered: "On Bunker Hill, nothing is impossible." The vast mass surged backward and the danger was past.

After the demonstrations which the nation and the world have seen of energy and enterprise in that marvel of cities, her orators or her editors could scarcely be deemed extravagant if they should say, "In Chicago, nothing is impossible." Surely, with such instruments and agencies and opportunities as are providentially within reach, it would be unchristian cowardice to forget that with God all things are possible. The saloonists and gamblers may have forgotten this. The churches must not forget it. "When the wicked, mine enemies and my foes came upon me to eat up my flesh, they stumbled and fell. Though an host should encamp against me, my heart shall not fear; though war should rise against me, in this will I be confident."

"The Lord of hosts is with us; the God of Jacob is our refuge."

HENRY KENDALL.

[Just before we have filled the pages of this sheet, which though first in the order of reading are the last to be sent to press, we gladly receive a proof copy of the pamphlet which is about to be issued containing "A MEMORIAL DISCOURSE delivered in New York and Brooklyn, November 20, 1892, at the request of the Board of Home Missions by EDWARD D. MORRIS."

We hope that our readers will not be satisfied without obtaining and reading the entire discourse, but are thankful for this opportunity to give them a taste of it.

The Board of Home Missions could not have found any other man better able to depict the life and character of their illustrious Secretary than Dr. Morris. None knew him better or appreciated him more justly or is better qualified to point the way for the continued progress of the great work of which he was lately the leader. It is only this admirable pointing forward with which this discourse closes, for which we have space. It is in these clear, true, forceful words:]

Suffer me to ask just here, before I turn from this survey, whether this grand enterprise, to which in all these varied aspects the thoughts and strength of DR. KENDALL were so entirely consecrated, has reached the summit of its possibilities? Has the marvelous growth of the past, like that of the human body, attained its appointed maturity? Has our Church done its allotted work in the evangelizing of the nation? As we look out over the continent, with all its materials, monuments, prospects, possibilities, must we not rather say that this missionary work is as yet only in its beginning? Must we not rather conclude that all the various efforts and processes now combined in it should be more fully utilized—more diligently used? Must we not rather anticipate that, as in the past, new opportunities, will present themselves—new calls will be heard—new progress made, not only along lines already traversed in part, but in new directions, and with new and added instrumentalities? And what would the clarion voice of HENRY KENDALL say, if he were here, but the single and decisive word—ADVANCE! There is no doubt that the sustentation of churches and the support of missionaries in the Eastern States, and even as far as the Mississippi, ought very soon to be cared for by synodical or other provincial agencies, so that the Board might be free to employ its resources entirely in more distinctively missionary work. There is no doubt that the task of organizing new churches along the frontiers will become less and less prominent as the frontiers themselves are slowly receding from view. There is no room for doubt that many of the churches now dependent on the Board for aid will be able within the next decade or two, not only to care for themselves, but to contribute largely toward the prosecution of the work along other lines. But in such a nation as ours, on such a continent as this, there is no room to doubt that further advances are inevitable, and that the mission of our beloved Church to the millions who ought to people this continent will grow in variety, in magnitude, in preciousness, even for generations to come. And were HENRY KENDALL here we should hear his voice, like that of a general commanding a victorious army, shouting still the battle cry of advance, advance, advance, until the kingdom of Christ shall be established from ocean to ocean.

But let us return from these visions, past and present, and prospective, of the grand work, to look once more, amid our tears, on the dead face of the man whom God had ordained to be thus a prophet unto the nation, and who through more than a generation conferred not with flesh and blood, in the expenditure of his life and all his marked powers in that grand work. When less than a year ago I saw DR. KENDALL for the last time, his physical vigor plainly declining, his strong mind moving less vigorously along its cherished lines of thinking, his end of the long day of service obviously drawing near, it seemed to me a sore pity that such a personality could not be set free from the decrepitudes of a perishing bodily organism, and put into some new organism, replete with the vigor of early manhood, and ready for another half century of labor for God and for man. How touching it was to see the old love for the old work, flashing out from every feature, and to hear the old voice, strong and hearty still, as he spoke of Home Missions, in the old tones of faith and courage, and expressed the hope that there might yet be something for him to do in the old and loved sphere. It seemed as if heaven itself was hardly so attractive a vision, to him, as that one vision on which his mind had been gazing for thirty years—the vision of a Christianized nation, and of the Church he loved standing within it as an angel of blessing, with outstretched hands, giving the Gospel to every hamlet and to every heart from the Atlantic to the Pacific sea.

But the long day of service was ending; the sunset had passed, and the evening star, with its one clear call, was already shining. Progressive enfeeblement, slight prostrations, the slower throbbing of the heart, the narrowing limitations of step and movement, went on and on. The city was exchanged for the pleasant village home, and the busy office for the chamber of seclusion; work ceased, and care faded away like the retreating shadow of a cloud; the wearied body more and more confessed its growing infirmity and waste, until at last the final lapse into unconsciousness, and the supreme hour came; and out of all the freed spirit passed upward to its Maker and Redeemer: and then the world was darker for us all!

And yet it is a pleasant and profitable task to contemplate a life so well finished, and a personality so strong and so sanctified, alike for service, and for death and eternity. Enough has been intimated already respecting the natural endowments of Dr. KENDALL—his vigorous intellect, his comprehending and organizing capacity, his firm will, his native power to command men, and to carry forward his chosen work, through many instrumentalities, to a successful completion. Something has been suggested also respecting his religious nature and attainments, and the large gifts and equipments for service conferred on him by the Spirit of God.

But much more might be said by those who were permitted to pass through the somewhat reserved portals of his nature, and to become familiar with its more interior sentiments and tendencies. Men sometimes thought him brusque in manner, and even dictatorial in his administration, as indeed, in such administration, he was on occasions almost compelled to be. Yet how many missionaries there are who can testify how gentle and brotherly he was in the delicate relations he sustained toward them on the one hand and toward the Church on the other! Men sometimes thought him too strenuous a denominationalist, and too eager in the prosecution of his particular work. But, while he believed in a type of Calvinism that was strong as well as irenic, and eminently preachable and practicable, and therefore worthy of universal proclamation, he loved all who loved Christ, and his broad evangelic sympathies, developed through his wide observation of the spiritual needs of men, rendered it impossible for him to be a partisan, even in the interest of the Church and the faith he loved so ardently. Nor could those who were brought into contact with his stalwart nature amid the perplexities and conflicts incident to the position he filled, and who knew him only as the true, sagacious, positive, sturdy and sedate man of affairs, realize how much he loved home and children, and all dear and endearing things. I have heard his voice tremble like that of a woman when he spoke, though but rarely, of his own little ones gone, and confessed the emptiness and the longing that had come to him through their translation. How patient he was, not only under such bereavement, but in and through all the troubles and burdens that came upon him, from time to time, in the discharge of his difficult duties, none can know but those of us to whom he poured out his feelings in the intimacies of fraternal correspondence or fellowship! But his faith, and his courage, and his sense of a divine call and endowment were strong enough to lift him above all earthly trouble; and his peace of spirit, amid whatever disturbance, often seemed to me, like the peace of a mountain, serene and sunny at its summit, whatever storms might sweep around its lower altitudes. And so, along all these lines of experience, and in and through his varied labors, he grew with the years, more and more, into the magnificence of a truly Christianized manhood—one of the most conspicuous personalities, one of the most useful and noble minds among the men of his generation in our great Church. Long may his name be honored, and long may his influence be felt, and long may his example and his unique and signal work be an inspiration to the generations that shall follow.

All the pages which follow this are in print before this and those preceding it. This enables us to give our readers here an interesting note from Africa received too late for insertion in the pages especially devoted to Foreign Missions.

The last African mail brings tidings of the safe arrival of Dr. Good at Batanga from his second tour of exploration in the interior. This will be welcome news to many who have been devoutly praying for the success of the enterprise. The exploring party consisted of Dr. Good and seven native men who carried food and trade goods with which to purchase food on the journey. They were absent thirty-five days and marched about four hundred miles. Although exposed to no little hardship and privation Dr. Good returned in excellent health. He is profoundly impressed with the field which opens before us in the interior—the greatness of the population, the unity of language, notwithstanding difference of dialect, the accessibility of the people and the relative healthfulness of the climate marking it as a field of large promise. The field which Dr. Good regards as ours to occupy for Christ, and on the borders of which we are already established, extends northward from the Campo River to the frontier of the Soudan north of Zewondo, and as far into the interior as we choose to penetrate. God give us courage to occupy!

A full account of this interesting journey will appear in the next number.

ERRATA.—On page 184, second column, eighth line, omit "not;" in sixth line from bottom add s to "Department:" on page 143, the figures giving the height above the sea of Mr. Ford's "summer camping ground" should be 6,000, not 600 feet.

Just as we are about ready to go to press, comes a letter with the following GOOD WORDS in it.

The Y. P. S. C. E., of Montclair, in arranging for a missionary meeting, are desirous of having some one authorized to take subscriptions for the CHURCH AT HOME AND ABROAD. I write to ask if I can have that authority. If all right, will you kindly send me a few sample copies? Our object is to get the missionary magazines into the homes of the young people.

Most gladly do we send sample copies as desired. As gladly will we send to any others, for similar use. Most thankful are we for such help. Is not what these young people propose a real Christian endeavor?

The inadvertence of omitting the Business Superintendent's address from the January number has brought to the editor's desk many letters which should have been addressed to Mr. Black. These are mostly pleasant reading, but they take time needed for the editor's proper work. Please address all business letters to Mr. John A. Black, 1334 Chestnut Street.

In letters which the editor has thus received, he finds such words as these:

"The magazine has become a household necessity in our home, and its monthly visits are warmly welcomed. S. L. M."

"Having taken the magazine since the first year of its publication, I should feel lost without it. Mrs. E. W. H."

Also some such as this:

"Please discontinue the CHURCH AT HOME AND ABROAD forwarded to me. I should like to continue it, but have not time to read it for press of other work and reading matter.

REV. T. J."

FOREIGN MISSIONS.

TREASURER'S STATEMENT OF RECEIPTS, MAY 1 TO DEC. 31, 1891 AND 1892.

	CHURCHES.	WOMEN'S B'DS.	SAB. SCHOOLS	Y. P. S. C. M.	LEGACIES.	MISCELLANEOUS	TOTAL.
1891	$97,471 28	$88,675 53	$11,377 91	$2,695 43	$59,009 08	$44,139 41	$308,268 58
1892	95,090 83	85,305 13	13,301 59	5,041 66	*103,788 81	38,978 33	339,496 25
Gain			$393 68	$2,346 24	$43,779 73		$36,207 67
Loss	$2,310 45	$3,280 40				$5,151 18

* The Board has received from the estate of Mrs. Mary Stewart $50,000, subject to a refunding bond and interest.
 Total appropriated..... $999,968 18
 Deficit of May 1, 1892..... 54,521 06

Total needed for year..... 1,054,489 18
 Received from all sources to January 1, 1893..... 339,496 25

Amount to be received before May 1, 1893, to meet all obligations..... 714,992 93
 Received last year, January 1, 1892, to May 1, 1892..... 638,008 89

Increase needed before the end of the year..... $36,989 04
 Copies furnished on application.

The above accounts show an increase in the Board's receipts up to December 31 of $36,207.67, but it should be noted that the increase is almost entirely from legacies, owing to the receipt of $50,000 from the estate of Mrs. Stuart. This money is received in advance of the time it is due, subject to refunding bond and interest at 5 per cent., and enables us to cancel the deficit of May 1, 1892. The churches, however, still remain behind in their gifts, and a large increase is needed to close the year without debt.

The underlying question is whether the Church is determined to give the Gospel to those who have not received it, and whether each member of the Church has done what he could for this object.

A noble friend of Foreign Missions, hitherto unknown by name in the Mission Rooms, and who insists on withholding his name from the public, has offered to become responsible for the salary of a new ordained married missionary. He proposes to make quarterly payments, beginning January 1st, 1893. As most of our missionaries leave for their fields in the Autumn, he will allow the accumulation to go towards the outfit and travelling expenses of the missionary and his wife. This generous offer provides for one of more than a score of ordained missionaries who ought to be sent to the missions next year. Who will provide for a second?

Our treasurer recently received a draft for $250, the gift of an aged couple, "as a thank-offering for the many blessings received during their long married life." So writes the treasurer of the church to which the gift is credited. What a beautiful illustration of bringing forth fruit in old age!

For some time past the members of the Syria Mission, including those in this country, have united their hearts in prayer at noon each day for "the outpouring of the Holy Spirit on the missionaries, native teachers, and preachers, and congregations of Syria; also on all those who are being, and have been taught in our schools, and for the protection and continuance of those schools in view of the present threatening attitude of the Government; also for a general awakening in the land of Syria, and an ingathering of many souls." This surely meets the condition, "If two of you shall agree."

The rescue and protection of Chinese girls on the Pacific Coast is no easy task. It calls for the utmost vigilance, and frequently involves humiliating and trying experiences. Recently Mrs. Holt, the wife of the Rev. W. S. Holt, of our Chinese Mission in Portland, was sued for $2000, on the charge of "harboring a runaway wife," she, with others of our ladies having refused to surrender a Chinese girl who had sought the shelter of our Portland Home. The prosecution failed to establish its case, but one of the friends of Mrs. Holt had to pay $100 for costs. When will these iniquities cease?

The attention of Young People's Societies is called to the fact that magic lantern slides of several countries occupied as mission fields are in course of preparation. Each set is to be accompanied by a lecture explaining the pictures. That on India is now ready. The rental is one dollar for each exhibition in addition to express charges. Inquiries should be addressed to Mr. W. Henry Grant, No. 58 Fifth Avenue, New York.

The Annual Reports from India have not yet reached us, but a recent letter states that baptisms in the Lodiana Mission during the past year have been quite in excess of any year in its history.

MISSIONARY CALENDAR.

DEPARTURE.

From San Francisco, for Siam mission, Dec. 15, Rev. E. P. Dunlap and family (returning); for Central China mission, Rev. D. N. Lyon (returning); for Tokyo mission, Miss A. B. West (returning).

ARRIVAL.

From Peking, China, Nov., B. C. Atterbury, M. D., and Mrs. Atterbury; from Mexico City, Mexico, Nov. 12, Miss Ella DeBaun.

The Permanent Committee on Foreign Missions of the Synod of New York, Rev. John Balcom Shaw, D. D., Chairman, recently held a meeting in the Mission Rooms with the chairmen of the Presbyterian committees of the Synod. Fifteen Presbyteries were represented. The programme, prepared in advance, suggested practical topics which were carefully considered, the officers of the Board taking part in the discussion on invitation. As an outcome of the discussions the following resolutions were adopted:

1. Resolved, That this Conference urge Presbyteries to make careful preparation for the Synodical Missionary Conference to be held in the spring.

2. Resolved, That this Conference recommends to the Presbyteries of this Synod to consider not later than the next spring meeting, the advisableness of overturing the General Assembly in favor of holding a National Conference in behalf of Missions, including the work of the Boards of Foreign and Home Missions and Freedmen.

3. Resolved, That Presbyterian Committees be urged to put themselves in communication with Sessions, with a view to securing the appointment, in every individual church under its charge, of a Committee on Foreign Missions, representing all its various departments of aggressive work.

4. Resolved, That each Presbyterian Committee be urged to secure a missionary conference of the Young People's Societies of the Presbytery, if possible in connection with one of the meetings of Presbytery.

5. Resolved, That the Board of Foreign Missions be requested to prepare a leaflet for general distribution in our churches on the subject of indiscriminate giving.

At midday a pleasant hour was spent in Lenox Hall where, through the kindness of Mr. Cleveland H. Dodge, a bountiful lunch was served. The meeting was admirable throughout and cannot fail to be helpful to the cause of Foreign Missions. Can not other Synods, especially in the older states, profit by the example?

Attention is called to a letter in this issue from the Rev. F. S. Curtis of Hiroshima, Japan, giving an account of a recent bitter persecution on the part of the Buddhists. Additional facts on the same subject have been received from the Rev. A. V. Bryan, also of our Mission in Hiroshima. Happily no personal assault had been made up to the date of writing beyond the pelting of two Japanese preachers with gravel. Thus far the authorities seem to have been both able and willing to hold the mob in check, the police on one occasion even escorting our missionaries to their homes. This active opposition stands in sharp contrast with the former listlessness and indifference of the Buddhists in Hiroshima, and it is to be accounted for by the presence of four active Protestant bodies and one Romish and one Greek Church which have gradually established themselves in the city. Such persecution, however, is to be regarded as one of the hopeful signs that a vitalizing Christianity is making itself felt in Japan.

REV. GEORGE PIERSON writes that some Japanese students have the dangerous impression that the teachings of Jesus are in part hoben; e. g. when Christ speaks of the Father, he uses this form of speech to give the common people a motive for morality, and does not mean to deceive any more than the Buddhists do when they preach Paradise and Hell in order to induce a higher type of morals in men. Then too, that if we conform to reason we shall do about right, and that such conformity is about the real meaning of all the better religions. I hear this, or something like it, from students. This unconsciously patronizing attitude is rather lofty from our standpoint. We should try to present Christ rather than Christianity, and life rather than teaching. This presentation of Christianity is coming more into prominence I hope.

DR. BRIGGS writes from Lakawn, Laos:—Moung Praa is just in the right condition to enter at once. To think that there is only one reason why we cannot enter is the saddest of all, viz: "There is not money enough." One cannot describe the heart sickness that comes over one when the cry comes to go and take the light into the darkness, and we say, "No, there is not money enough." I would those at home could only see and hear what we see and hear.

AN AFTERNOON AT THE ROYAL KOREAN HOSPITAL.

C. C. VINTON, M. D., SEOUL.

The number of women and children was not great, some six or eight only. Nearly all came for the relief of disfiguring sores, such as ulcerated enlargements of the glands in the neck, or irritating eruptions. One woman brought a two-year-old child, whom she had carried nearly a hundred miles, only to learn that its blindness was irremediable. Another, a resident of Seoul, paid the third visit with her little girl of nine, from whose eyes under treatment the clouded inflammation was slowly disappearing.

Seated in a squarely-built but comfortable chair of Chinese make, beside a western window, record-book on knee, I write upon a small square of paper the number of each applicant and a symbol or two to denote her treatment. At my left stands the "amah," a kindly old body, whose duty it is to accompany and assist all female patients. At my right a "chusah" is seated, a man of rank in the kingdom, a government attache of the institution, whose duty it is to act as my interpreter. Around the walls are cases of instruments, for, though sadly lacking in many other essentials, this hospital is reputed to possess the best collection of surgical instruments in the East.

These women are short of stature and have, almost all of them, a stoop of the shoulders, due to their habit of walking leaning upon a long staff, and of carrying heavy children tied upon their backs. They are brown of skin—the brown of the Japanese. Their skirts, gathered in many folds, are tied just beneath the shoulders, and their jackets, usually of gay colors, come down only to the same level. Upon the streets they cover their heads with dark green cloaks, which they gather with one hand around the face. The dress of the children is nearly all of bright red, but so seldom, in most instances, is it changed or washed that its color resembles more nearly that of the ground.

After they had all been served and had carried their prescriptions to the druggist's window, the end door was opened and the men and boys admitted. These were a dirtier, more unkempt company by far than the women, and yet among them not a few scholars, and men of rank for the most part, pleasant to look upon in white flowing robes and well adjusted black horse-hair hats. White being the national dress, only those of the better classes can afford the cost of frequent washings, and the garments of toilers soon acquire a grime anything but picturesque. There is often some conflict at the door between those who are striving to enter, but "first come, first served" is the rule, and the servants soon enforce good behavior. These men with bundles in cloth slung over their shoulders are all from the country. Some have come from distant provinces to attend and compete in the government examinations, or "quaggas," and some are farmers whom one cause or another has brought to the city and to the hospital. In many instances the complaint is of "haktjil," or ague, and the request is directly for quinine, whose virtue they well know. Sometimes in this and in the contagious skin diseases I have application for medicine not merely for one individual, but for a whole family at home, or even, as has once happened, by a committee of two for all the soldiers quartered in a certain barracks.

A frequently recurring ailment is dyspepsia, and no wonder, for rice, their staple diet, is so deficient in nutritious properties that they must constantly overload their stomachs in order to sustain life, and this, with the prevalent use of "syoul," or bean-wine, rapidly breaks down the digestion.

I cannot yet speak enough Korean to talk with any of these people on religious topics, and at the hospital it is not possible, because of government opposition, for anyone else to come and hold services or engage in such conversation. But at my morning hour of dispensary work in the drug-room attached to my house I have an opportunity of freer intercourse; and there some have been told of the true religion. For the most part I am now simply winning the regard of the people and studying the language, which at present is a barrier but will later be a channel of intercourse between them and me.

THE WOLF-BOY OF SECUNDRRA.

[A little tract with the above title recalls one of the most remarkable sights we saw during our recent visit to India. While the honored guests of the Rev. Colin S. Valentine, M. D., L. L. D., Principal of the Agra Medical Missionary Training Institute at Agra, our generous host took us to see the tomb of the celebrated Emperor Akbar Shah at Secundra, a few miles from Agra. Near the tomb is the Secundra Orphanage, an institution of the Church Missionary Society, which occupies the tomb—an immense building—of some noted personage whose name is long since forgotten. One of the inmates of that Orphanage is Sanichar, the Wolf-Boy, whose remarkable story Dr. Valentine relates "freed from all embellishments." The pen portrait is admirable, describing the man—for he is no longer a boy—as we saw him. Strange, yet true! The tract is printed by the "Secundra Orphanage Press," Secundra, N. W. P., India, and may be had for eight annas, or about eighteen cents, besides postage. The main facts from the pen of Dr. Valentine are given below. J. G.]

Early in 1867, a number of natives who were in search of large game in the unfrequented jungles of Bulandshahr, situated in the North West Provinces of India, surprised a stray wolf which they followed to a dwarfed-hillock. Out of this hillock rose a rock, and on this rock, evidently sunning itself, sat a dark curious-looking object, which, to their utter astonishment, turned out to be a human being, who, on seeing the hunters approach, sprang from its eminence, and, running on all fours, entered a cave along with the startled wolf.

Unable or afraid to unearth the strange object, but, feeling that something should be done in that direction, the natives communicated with the Magistrate of Bulandshahr, who advised them to kindle a fire at the mouth of the cave and smoke the curious "find" from its den. This was done, and done so successfully that the creature preceded by the wolf, rushed from the cave, and, after a short struggle, during which several of the natives were bitten, was captured.

On the fourth day of February 1867, sent by the Magistrate already referred to, the boy was received into the Secundra Orphanage; and, as the day happened to be a Saturday, he was named Sanichar. For a considerable time after he entered the Orphanage, all attempts to get him to conduct himself as a human being failed. He persisted in eating his food from the ground, picking up vegetables with his lips, and gnawing the flesh from bones with his teeth, like a carnivorous animal; and the clothes with which he was supplied he tore into shreds, and cast them from him as encumbrances. By and by, however, he grew docile, and conformed to his new surroundings so far as to submit to wear clothes, and eat his food—native fashion—with his fingers.

At the present time Sinichar must be about thirty years of age, but looks older. His head is small, his brow uncommonly low and contracted, while his eyes, in proportion to his head and face are large and of a greyish color, restless and squinting. He has a small, thin, wrinkled face on which are one or two large cicatrices, marks, no doubt, of what have been severe bites. These are also found on other parts of his body and are evident signs of the rough treatment to which he was involuntarily subjected when living in the cave with his unamiable companions. His height, when he stands erect, is five feet two inches. In walking, he lifts his feet like one wading through wet grass, and when he moves along, the whole muscles of his body seem to be undergoing a series of jerks, while his arms are thrown about in such a manner as to convey the impression that they must materially assist him in his progress. His head also continually in motion, turning from side to side with great rapidity, while his eyes, which have at all times a hungry appearance, glare, as if he expected an attack from some unseen enemy. When viewed from behind as he walks, or when he stands in front of you with his head inclined to one side, rolling his large grey eyes, beating upon his stomach to show that he is hungry, or imitating the smoking of a cigar, of which he is extremely fond, grinning and uttering inarticulate and non-understandable sounds, he certainly does present a strange appearance. Still,

I think visitors are, at first, disappointed with him, having expected to find him bearing a great resemblance to the lower creation than he really does. In fact, people who visit him for the first time expect to see a wolf who has spent his early years among boys, rather than a boy whose infancy was spent among wolves. I saw him immediately after he had been received into the Orphanage, and have seen him many times since, and I cannot help thinking that the missionaries in whose charge he was placed, made a very great mistake when they concluded that, his infancy and incipient boyhood having been spent among wolves, it would be impossible to teach him anything.

One of the missionaries in writing about the boy says that "all attempts to teach him to speak have failed," a state of things not to be wondered at considering that he is deaf and consequently dumb. Whether he was born in this condition or through some cause unknown has lost the power of hearing and speech, I have not been able to determine, but that he is deaf and dumb, and has been so since I first saw him, I have not the slightest doubt. Notwithstanding all this, however, I have always found him wonderfully intelligent. By the use of signs I can get him to do almost anything I wish, sit, stand, walk, run. Had it been poor Sanichar's fortune to be placed under the care of the good doctor who did so much for Laura Bridgeman, it is just possible that his faculties might have been sufficiently developed to enable him to impart at least a moiety of information concerning his life at the time he was found in the wolf's den. This we say without the slightest reflection on those who have had him in charge. Indeed one cannot but feel grateful to the missionaries for what they have done for him and for thousands of other orphans they have protected and trained; and I cannot close this brief account of poor Sanichar without giving it as my firm conviction that there exists not in these provinces, an institution more deserving of the consideration and practical support of those whose delight it is to spend their money on New Testament lines, than is the Secundra Orphanage, the home of the wolf boy, Sanichar.

As Mr. Sperry, the new United States Minister to Persia, has arrived there, we are well assured of early redress for recent wrongs to our school and church at Tabriz.

"ORIENTAL RELIGIONS AND CHRISTIANITY."

REV. JAMES S. DENNIS.

[Dr. Ellinwood's Recent Volume.]

The year 1892 has brought us a rich invoice of fresh and valuable missionary literature, which is exceptional in its range and variety. We have the lives of Martyn, Carey, Gilmour, Paton, and Mackey, (the two latter for youthful readers,) and a noble volume on India, by Bishop J. M. Thoburn; another on Mexico by Dr. W. Butler; another on Japan, by Dr. M. L. Gordon, and another entitled "Four Years in Upper Burma," by Rev. W. R. Winston. There is also the timely and wonderfully stimulating Centenary Volume of the Baptist Missionary Society of England, giving the magnificent record of the century since Carey uttered that now famous missionary watchword: "Expect great things from God; attempt great things for God;" and a little volume entitled, "Serampore Letters," being an unpublished correspondence of Carey and others with John Williams. Rev. G. W. Gilmore has given us a book on Korea; Dr. Thwing has published a suggestive volume upon Eastern missions and their environment, to which he has given the title, "Ex Oriente." We have "The Story of Uganda," by Sarah G. Stock, and "Trophies from African Heathenism," by Robert Young, and two little volumes entitled "Missionary Points and Pictures," and "Missionary Landscapes in the Dark Continent;" by Rev. James Johnston. "The Bishop's Conversion," is full of point and pathos, and gives a living picture of life in India, and is a bright rejoinder to many shallow criticisms which are current just now. What promises to be one of the most popular volumes on China and the Chinese has been issued at Shanghai, by Rev. Arthur H. Smith, of the North China Mission of the American Board, and is entitled, "Characteristics of the Chinese." It is awaiting some enterprising publisher in America, who will no doubt find it to his advantage to reproduce it here. "The Holy Spirit in Missions," by Dr. A. J. Gordon is ready to be issued. What promises to be an exceptionally able and thorough treatment of missions from historical, scientific, philosophical, and practical points of view, is the great work of Dr. Gustav Warneck, the first volume of which has just appeared in Germany, to be completed in three volumes. The subject of the first volume is introductory, and covers the warrant and purpose of the missionary idea; volume second will deal with the agencies; and volume third with the methods. His introduction upon the Biblical warrant of missions is said to be one of the most powerful and thorough treatments of missionary apologetics that has yet appeared.

There is a field of missionary research which has lately attracted the special attention of all thoughtful students of the subject, which has received two notable contributions during the past year. The subject to which we refer is the Science of Comparative Religion from a missionary standpoint, and the volumes referred to are, "The Genesis and Growth of Religion;" Stone Lectures for 1892, by

Rev. S. H. Kellogg, D. D., and "Oriental Religions and Christianity;" Ely Lectures, by Rev. Frank F. Ellinwood, D. D. The author of the latter volume has made a special study of comparative religion in the discharge of his duty as lecturer upon that subject in the University of the City of New York, and has had also unusual opportunities for practical observation of the intellectual conflicts of missions in connection with his long and honored service as Secretary of the Board of Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian Church. His volume as might be expected from one so eminently fitted for the task, is a happy combination of discriminating scholarship and practical wisdom, and is written with a full appreciation of the existing need for an evangelical treatise on this theme which would have the true ring of loyalty to the Gospel, and yet be free from unguarded and indiscriminate denunciation of the great ethnic religions. The book is timely, both at home and abroad—to the ministers and students of missions in America, and to the busy missionary in his field. It is a help to those who would study comparative religion in the light of scholarship, and yet not miss the sympathetic touch with the great commission of our Lord, and the helpful impulse towards the chief work of His Church. It is a vigorous and sufficient reply to all false admiration and exaltation of Eastern religions, and is full of philosophical instruction and apologetic power, and high missionary inspiration. The need of a thorough understanding of false religions is first, dwelt upon, and the methods of the early Christian Church in dealing with heathenism are studied. Then follows a review of the great religious systems of the East, and out of these researches is brought the evidence of a primitive monotheism, and the testimony of heathen systems to Biblical truth. A comparative survey of the ethical tendencies of Eastern and Western philosophies is then given, followed by a closing chapter on the divine supremacy of the Christian faith. We are grateful for such a book; its influence is wise and helpful. These great ethnic religions deserve thorough and sympathetic study, not merely as philosophies, but as religions which have swayed millions of our fellowmen, and held the devout allegiance of vast multitudes during long centuries of human history. Missionaries are becoming more and more convinced of their need of special wisdom from on high in their efforts to lead ignorant and enthralled souls into the light of the Gospel. First hand scholarship, generous good sense, Christian sympathy, loyalty to the truth in a tender and persuasive rather than a disputatious spirit, is usually the outcome of a few years of missionary experience in the atmosphere of these giant systems of error. Missionaries seek to lead rather than to drive, to persuade without incensing, to convince without alienating, to subdue without arousing anger, to address the religious nature by a thoughtful and quiet appeal, rather than arouse the passion for dispute by an open attack upon the religious beliefs of their hearers. These ethnic religions are false lights, but to their adherents they are the only lights they have to walk by. Many a mistake has been made at the outset of missionary work by an attempt first of all to extinguish this light in the hearts of men. A better way is to let it burn while it will, but at the same time to pour in the true light and flood the soul with the sunlight of the Gospel, and when this is done, the false lights go out of themselves. While the soul is still in ignorance the extinguishing of its only light seems to make everything dark, but bring it into the glorious light of God's truth, and everything becomes bright, and all other lights are useless. The era of blind and hot and pitiless disparagement of false religions, which has happily, however, prevailed only to a limited extent as a missionary method, has passed, and that of a more discriminating, sympathetic, and wise, but no less loyal, approach to this great task has come. To the interests of such a generous and kindly, but not less uncompromising, and in the end more successful missionary campaign this volume is a distinct contribution, and we prophesy for it a large and genial influence in preparing the Church for her winning battle with error, and in giving a riper and more wisely gentle tone than has hitherto obtained to this particular phase of the missionary policy of our times.

Concert of Prayer For Church Work Abroad.

[Conducted by REV. JAMES S. DENNIS, D. D.]

JANUARY,	General Review of Missions.
FEBRUARY,	Missions in China.
MARCH,	Mexico and Central America.
APRIL,	Missions in India.
MAY,	Siam and Laos.
JUNE,	Missions in Africa.
JULY,	Indians, Chinese and Japanese in America.
AUGUST,	Korea.
SEPTEMBER,	Japan.
OCTOBER,	Missions in Persia.
NOVEMBER,	South America.
DECEMBER,	Missions in Syria.

MISSIONS IN CHINA.

CANTON MISSION.

CANTON: On the Pearl River, 90 miles from Hong Kong; occupied 1844; laborers—Rev. Messrs. B. C. Henry, D. D., H. V. Noyes, O. F. Wisner, A. A. Fulton, and Edward Thwing, and their wives; John G. Kerr, M. D., J. M. Swan, M. D., Miss E. M. Butler, Miss Hattie Noyes, Miss Hattie Lewis, Miss M. H. Fulton, M. D., Miss N. W. Niles, M. D., and Miss Gertrude Thwing; 2 ordained natives; 23 unordained evangelists, 19 native assistants, 44 teachers and 15 Bible-women.

HAINAN: An island on southeast coast; occupied 1885; laborers at Kiung Chow—Rev. J. C. Melrose, H. M. McCandless, M. D., and their wives; Rev. Alfred E. Street, at Nodoo, Rev. and Mrs. F. P. Gilman, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Jeremiaassen.

LIEN CHOW: 200 miles northwest of Canton by water; occupied 1890; laborers—Rev. W. H. Lingle, E. C. Machle, M. D., and their wives, Miss Louise Johnson.

YEUNG KONG: 20 miles southwest of Canton; occupied 1892; laborers—Rev. J. C. Thomson, M. D., Rev. Andrew Beattie, D. A. Beattie, M. D., and their wives.

In this country: Dr. and Mrs. Kerr, Miss Hattie Noyes, Miss M. H. Fulton, M. D., Rev. Messrs. J. C. Thomson, M. D., and W. H. Lingle and their wives.

CENTRAL CHINA MISSION.

NINGPO: on the Ningpo River, 12 miles from the sea; occupied 1845; laborers—Rev. Messrs. W. J. McKee and V. F. Partch and their wives; Miss Annie R. Morton, and Miss Edwina Cunningham; 9 ordained natives, 6 licentiates, 7 teachers, 16 Bible-women.

SHANGHAI: on the Woosung River, 14 miles from the sea; occupied 1859; laborers—Rev. Messrs. J.

M. W. Farnham, D. D., J. N. B. Smith, D. D., George F. Fitch, John A. Silsby, Mr. Gilbert McIntosh, and their wives; Miss Mary Posey, Miss Mary E. Cogdal; 4 ordained natives, 2 licentiates, 2 Bible-women, 22 teachers.

HANGCHOW: the provincial capital of Chekiang province, 156 miles northwest of Ningpo; occupied 1859; laborers—Rev. Messrs. J. H. Judson, J. C. Garritt, and their wives; 2 ordained natives, 4 licentiates, 2 Bible-women, 5 teachers.

SUCHOW: 70 miles from Shanghai; occupied 1871; laborers—Rev. Messrs. J. N. Hayes, D. N. Lyon, Joseph Bailie, and their wives; Rev. W. N. Crozier, 2 licentiates, 2 Bible-women, 5 teachers.

NANKING: on the Yang-tee-Kiang, 90 miles from its mouth; occupied 1876; laborers—Rev. Messrs. Charles Leaman, W. J. Drummond, T. W. Houston, and their wives; Miss Mary Lattimore, 1 Bible-woman, 3 teachers.

SHANTUNG MISSION.

TUNGCHOW: on the coast, 55 miles from Chefoo; occupied 1861; laborers—Rev. Messrs. C. W. Mateer, D. D., Charles R. Mills, D. D., W. M. Hayes, and S. B. Groves and their wives; Robert Coltman, Jr., M. D., and wife; and Mrs. E. G. Ritchie; 2 ordained natives, 1 licentiate, 15 teachers.

CHEFOO: the chief foreign port of Shantung; occupied 1862; laborers—Rev. Messrs. Hunter Corbett, D. D., J. L. Nevius, D. D., and George S. Hays, and their wives; Rev. F. W. Jackson, Jr.; 27 licentiates, 44 helpers, 5 Bible-women.

CHINANFU: capital of the Shantung province, 300 miles south of Peking; occupied 1872; laborers—Rev. Messrs. John Murray, and W. B. Hamilton, and their wives; Rev. Gilbert Reid, J. B. Neal, M. D., and wife; 1 Bible-woman, 3 helpers.

WEI HIEN: 150 miles southwest from Tungchow; occupied 1882; laborers—Rev. Messrs. J. A. Leyenberger, R. M. Mateer, and F. H. Chalfant, J. A. Fitch, and their wives; W. R. Faries, M. D., and wife; Miss Emma F. Boughton, Miss Mary Brown, M. D., Miss Fanny Wight, and Mrs. M. M. Crossette; 4 ordained natives, 1 licentiate, 51 teachers, 3 Bible-women.

ICHOWFU: 150 miles southwest from Chefoo; occupied 1890; missionary laborers—Rev. Messrs. W. P. Chalfant, C. A. Killie, W. O. Elterich, and their wives; and C. F. Johnson, M. D., and wife; 5 native assistants.

CHIN NING CHOW: 150 miles southeast of Chinanfu; occupied 1890; laborers—Rev. William Lane, Rev. J. H. Laughlin, J. L. Van Schoick, M. D., and their wives; Miss Emma Anderson.

In this country: Mrs. J. A. Leyenberger, Rev. C. W. Mateer, D. D., and J. B. Neal, M. D., and their wives.

PEKING MISSION.

PEKING: the capital of the country; occupied 1863; laborers—Rev. Messrs J. L. Whiting, John Wherry, A. M. Cunningham, and their wives; Rev. J. Walter Lowrie, Rev. J. N. Young, B. C. Atterbury, M. D., and wife; G. Y. Taylor, M. D., Mrs. Reuben Lowrie, Miss Grace Newton, Miss Marion E. Sinclair, M. D., and Miss Jennie McKillican; 1 ordained native, 2 licentiates, 13 helpers.

In this country: Rev. J. Walter Lowrie, Mrs. Reuben Lowrie, Rev. and Mrs. J. L. Whiting.

Protestant mission work in China is at present conducted by 42 societies, with 1,500 Foreign Missionaries, and 250 native pastors, and 3,000 unordained native agents. There are 523 evangelical churches, and 50,000 communicants, and 150,000 native Christians. There are 8 missionary colleges, and 435 schools of all grades, with 17,000 pupils in attendance. There are 105 hospitals and dispensaries, in which 350,000 patients are treated annually. In 1843 there were not more than ten native Christians in all China.

The above statistics of the entire evangelical missionary status in China are larger than any which are current in missionary literature, but they are not far from the exact truth at the present date. The latest official statistics for all China were given out at the Shanghai Conference in 1890, and gave the results up to the close of the year 1889, so that exact statistics at the present time would include all progress in the three years which have elapsed since then. It was shown at the time the Shanghai statistics were published, that there had been an addition of about 10,000 communicants in the three years previous to December 31st, 1889. This gave a percentage of increase of about 33 per cent., and there is every reason to believe that this same ratio has been kept up in the three years which have followed the Conference, which would bring the number of communicants at the present time to about 50,000. The number of Foreign Missionaries has increased since the Conference to about 1,500, and there has been progress in all the departments of missionary activity, so that we have no hesitation in presenting the above tabulated view of present results in China as substantially true. The Rev. Dr. J. W. Davis has recently published in the Chinese Recorder, printed at the American Mission Press, Shanghai, some articles on Protestant Mission Work in China, from which these figures are in part taken. It is upon his authority that we give the number of missionaries at present as 1,500, and the number of communicants as 50,000.

The statistics of our own Presbyterian Missions are as follows:—

Ordained American missionaries, 52; total of American missionary laborers, 146; ordained natives, 27; total native agents, 326; churches, 57; communicants, 5,556; number added on confession of faith last year, 1,041; number of schools, 192; total of pupils, 3,688; a college at Tungchow, with 98 pupils, and one largely under Presbyterian auspices, at Canton. The latest reports from the Shantung Mission indicate that there will be over 500 communicants received up to December 31st, 1892.

OUR RESPONSIBILITY IN HAINAN.

The island of Hainan off the southern coast of China, three hundred miles southwest of Hong-kong, is exclusively a field of our own Presbyterian mission. Its population is estimated at a million and a half. It was opened to mission work in 1881, by Mr. C. C. Jeremiassen, who entered it as an independent missionary. In 1885, the work became incorporated with our Canton Mission, Mr. Jeremiassen becoming a member of that mission and receiving appointment from our Board. The entrance to the island was made at its northern extremity, where only a narrow strait separates it from the main-land, and at this point is the city of Kiung Chow, which has been made the chief station of the island, and is at present occupied by Dr. and Mrs. H. M. McCandliss, and Rev. and Mrs. J. C. Melrose. Rev. Alfred E. Street, who has recently joined the Mission, is at present reported as in Kiung Chow, although his final destination may perhaps be Nodoo, further inland. Nodoo, ninety miles in the interior, has been occupied as an out-station, where Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Gilman, and Mr. and Mrs. Jeremiassen are at present located. Beyond Nodoo, ten miles to the south, is the small out-station of Namfung, and still further in the interior, in a southwesterly direction, is the mountainous Loi country, which has been recently visited by Mr. Gilman and Mr. Jeremiassen, and in which there is a promising opening for the extension of our Hainan field, HOSPITAL AND SCHOOL, NODDA, HAINAN.

At Kiung Chow there is a chapel, and, in 1891, a girls' school was opened by Mrs. McCandliss, and a boys' school by Mr. Melrose, and a large and important medical work is carried on by Dr. McCandliss. In 1890, 5,032 patients were treated; in 1891, there were 8,931, not including 404 special surgical cases; and, in 1892, there were 9,406, and also 645 surgical cases. This medical work has been carried on in contracted and inconvenient quarters, greatly to the disadvantage of the physician in charge, but there is a prospect at present that a better place will be secured for the future. A small printing press has been presented by friends of the Mission to the Hainan Station, and everything is now ready for the printing of the Gospels and some other translations which are awaiting publication.

The Nodda station, although only ninety miles in the interior, is four days of rough journeying from Kiung Chow. Here the energetic labors and the practical abilities of Mr. Jeremiassen are noticeable in the pleasant and healthful mission buildings used as residence, school, and hospital with its dispensary. During a season of severe epidemic Mr. Jeremiassen, whose medical knowledge is of much value, was able to render efficient services to a garrison of native soldiers located in Nodda, and as a reward he was able to secure a most desirable building site, where our mission plant has been located. At the dispensary under his charge an average of four thousand patients are treated annually. Here is well organized work, in which there is every prospect of reaping a harvest. But the inspiring features of our Hainan field are in connection with the outlying regions towards the centre of the island, where a numerous and stalwart people are ready to receive our missionaries, and seem to have been prepared by Providence to welcome the Gospel. They seem to have given up their ancient religious worship, and are waiting for spiritual guidance. What an alluring appeal to the missionary heart of the Church! Shall we not press on with a vigorous, aggressive campaign to take possession of Hainan for the Master? It is a call which is direct and emphatic to our own Church, for with us seems to rest the sacred responsibility of seeking for these Hainanese souls. Our missionaries on the ground are alert to the opportunity, and Mr. Jeremiassen has recently made a journey southwest of Nodoa into the Loi country. It is a wild region, and travelling through it is attended with some peril, and much discomfort, as may be seen from a few extracts from a letter just received from Mr. Jeremiassen. He writes in substance as follows:

"In leaving Namfung, we took a south-westerly direction through the mountains. My first Sabbath was spent in Nga-sa, a market town, where a large number of the Lois came to visit me from the surrounding country. I visited a number of villages in the vicinity, staying a few days in each, and found some who were interested in hearing the Gospel. In one of the chief villages of the region I stayed four days, and had a number of operations to perform for eye troubles, which seemed to be very prevalent in that region. Many of the chiefs from the surrounding country came personally to bring me to their villages, and it was almost impossible to refuse them, and those to whom I had to say no, were quite jealous of others whom I promised to visit. It was, of course, impossible for me to visit them all. Rain had set in before we reached the higher mountain regions, and travelling became more difficult. The rivers were swollen into almost impassible streams. The roads were as slippery as ice, and those tormenting enemies of the traveller, the mountain leeches, were both lively and vigorous, as if awakened to new life by the moisture of the abundant rain. We climbed the hills to the plateau of Nga-kheng village, which is about two thousand feet above the sea, and would make a beautiful place for a mission station. I spent the night with the chief of the village, and had quite a gathering to hear me in the evening. The next day we plunged still further into the mountains, and our climbing that day was not free from danger. Our path wound up the side of a ravine, where a slip of the foot would have sent us down the abyss, and I had to give such close attention to my steps that I could not even stand still to pick off those blood-suckers, the mountain leeches, for while getting one off, ten others would climb upon me. The weather was warm, and the air in the wooded ravine very oppressive, so that I was glad to reach the summit, and breathe the fresh air of the heights, and enjoy the beautiful prospect from the top of the mountain. This whole country is very beautiful with its wild mountains and its deep valleys. The men and the women are like mountain wild flowers, free in their growth and movements, but how sad that the tendrils of their souls should be wound about such debasing religious superstitions, instead of reaching out to the true God and Saviour. We still pressed on through the mountains, our path in many places winding around perilous precipices, and being so slippery that I had often to use both hands and feet to save myself from a fall. I climbed mountains, and then plunged down into deep valleys until I finally reached the village of Fang-feng, where I received a warm welcome at the pleasant house of the chief. An important feature of my toilet was to clean myself from the mud, and get rid of the leeches. So we went on from village to village. In some of them I had interested audiences, and I trust made an impression for good. I finally reached the central river valley, where I met many old friends, whom I had seen on former visits. This river valley divides the island into two parts, north and south, and here is a promising field of mission work, had we the men to send here. I continued my journey towards the west coast of the island, and one of the greatest hindrances I had to my progress, was the cordiality and importunity of the people, who were extremely kind. I finally reached Lok-lah, and here I had a grand opportunity, as my presence was soon known for miles around, and the people came from all directions, either from curiosity, or to seek healing. I saw daily many who were sick in body and soul. My evening meetings were well attended; some came to dispute, but others to inquire, but I think very few went away without seeing the folly of idolatry. From Lok-lah I took passage in a junk, and visited some of the islands along the coast, where I preached to the fishermen, who were apparently much interested. I could have gone by sea around to Kiung Chow, but I preferred to make another exploration of the interior on my way home, so I landed at Ji-lim, a harbor in the south, well known to old East India men, where they used to spend several months waiting for the monsoon, or trade winds. From this point I struck into the Loi country, which extends in the south to the shores of the Pacific. This last part of my journey was the most profitable and interesting of all, for all the way from the Pacific to Nam-fung, they speak the Hainanese dialect. There are several places in this region where we ought to establish stations, and the people would be glad to have us settle among them. The village of Ta-han, two or three days' journey from Nam-fung, and only a few hours journey from the central river valley, is a particularly eligible site. The opening of a station here would place us in touch with many important localities. We need efficient native agents, but our training facilities are poor. I reached home in safety, deeply impressed with the importance of extending our work in Hainan."

We have in this island parish of Hainan a unique opportunity, and an urgent appeal directly to our great Presbyterian Church to lift the cross before the waiting hearts of these neglected Hainanese. To whom can they look for the Gospel, if not to us? Shall we not discharge this duty with promptness and liberality?

AFTER THE RIOTS.

During the recent disturbances there have been two storm-centres in China; one was the fanatical province of Hunan, just south of the centre of the Empire, in a northwesterly direction from Hongkong, to whose capital, Chang Sha, were traced the villainous and vile literature against foreigners which has been disseminated so largely through the Empire. The other was in the northern regions of Manchuria, and was a military rebellion against the present Manchudynasty. Whether there is any connection between the two disturbances is a matter of doubt; both, however, are symptoms, and indicate serious dangers that threaten the Government on the one hand, and foreign residents on the other. Whether the present Government is strong enough to cope with its enemies, should an able leader appear and succeed in organizing a wide-spread spirit of rebellion, seems very doubtful. Another outbreak of the dimensions of the Tai-ping rebellion would surely be the downfall of the Manchus. At present there seems to be a lull. The rebellion has been put down, amidst terrible scenes of slaughter and destruction, and many of its leaders have been put to death by barbarous torture. The obscene placards, with their unspeakable slanders and incredible charges, have been brought to the attention of foreign governments, who have had facsimiles laid before them, with full explanations, and the Chinese Government has made a vigorous effort to suppress them, and has punished severely some of those who have been implicated in their origin and dissemination, and in the meantime the Emperor has issued his imperial edict forbidding these outrages, and requiring the recognition of Christianity and the protection of its adherents. Out of the throes of our Civil War came the Proclamation of Emancipation; out of the restless upheavals of heathen fanaticism in China has come forth an imperial proclamation of Christianity and the rights of Christians, which was telegraphed to the higher officials throughout the Empire, on the day it was issued. Let us select a few sentences from this remarkable document, and let us believe that the interests of the Kingdom and the persons of its ambassadors are in the hands of an overruling Providence.

“The Tsung Li Yamen (or Council of Ministers) has memorialized us in regard to the missionary cases that have occurred in the various provinces, asking that we issue stringent instructions to the Governor General and Governors to lose no time in devising means for a settlement thereof. Similar outrages have been committed on missionary establishments there, and it is now necessary that the miscreants should be arrested, and unrelenting measures taken in good time to provide against further outrages of this kind.

The propagation of Christianity by foreigners is provided for by treaty, and Imperial decrees have been issued to the provincial authorities to protect the missionaries from time to time. For years peace and quiet have prevailed between the Chinese and the foreigners. How is it that recently there have been several missionary establishments burned out and destroyed, and all happening at about the same time? This is decidedly strange and incredible. It is evident that among the rioters there are some powerful outlaws whose object is to secretly contrive or plan for discontent among the people by circulating false rumors, and causing them to become agitated and excited, and then to avail themselves of the opportunity to rob and plunder, and peaceable and law-abiding persons are enticed and led to join them, resulting in a tremendous uprising. If strenuous action is not taken to punish the miscreants, how can the majesty and dignity of the law be maintained, and peace and quiet prevail? Let the Governor General and Governors issue without delay orders to the civil and military officers under their respective jurisdictions to cause the arrest of the leaders of the riots, try them, and inflict capital punishment upon them, as a warning and example to others in the future. The doctrine of Christianity has for its purpose the teaching of men to be good. Chinese converts are subjects of China, and are amenable to the local authorities. Peace and quiet should reign among the Chinese and missionaries, but there are reckless fellows who fabricate stories that have no foundation in fact, for the purpose of creating trouble Let the Governors issue proclamations warning the people not to listen to idle rumors or false reports which lead to trouble. Should any person secretly post placards containing false rumors with a view to beguile the minds of the people, strenuous steps must be taken to cause his arrest, and vigorous punishment be meted out to him. The local authorities must protect the lives and property of foreign merchants and missionaries, and prevent bad characters from doing them injury. Should it transpire that the measures taken to protect them have not been adequate, and trouble in consequence ensues, the names of those officers that have been truly negligent are to be reported to us for degradation Let this decree be universally promulgated for the information of the people."

That a State paper like the above should have been issued by authority of the Emperor is nothing less than an intervention of Divine Providence. A careful study of the whole situation by many who have abundant opportunity to form an intelligent judgment has led to the conviction that the underlying motive of this agitation against foreigners is not hatred of Protestant missionaries, or distrust of their work; it is rather a deep-laid political scheme on the part of the Chinese literati and the leaders in the great secret society of the Ko Lao Hui, to excite political tumult throughout the Empire, and precipitate complications with foreign governments, with the ultimate purpose of overthrowing the reigning Manchu dynasty, and affording opportunity for robbery and plunder. Hatred of foreign influence and a purpose to prevent foreign commercial encroachments are also no doubt prominent notions in the minds of the Chinese populace.

A RETROSPECT.

REV. F. H. CHALFANT.

American Protestant Missions in China have just now completed their fifth decade since the treaty of Nan King in 1842. This further prompts us to review the whole history of Christian effort in the Middle Kingdom, not attempting a detailed review, which would fill volumes, but only glancing at the several epochs which constitute the mile stones of Christian progress in the far East.

No historical trace of Christianity is yet found in China until the 7th century, when, according to the famous Nestorian Tablet (discovered at Si Ngan Fu, 1625) Christian missionaries appear to have been preaching in Shen Si province. Their work seems not to have stood the test of persecution and the counter religious influence of Buddhism, for in a few centuries all traces of their work had vanished save the memorial tablet erected in the year 781. This was due largely to the attempt of the Nestorian missionaries to mingle the Truth with the philosophy of Buddha, which experiment, like that of the Neo-Platonists, proved a failure. They either fell into the error of the Church in Pergamum, because they held the doctrine of Balaam who taught "to eat things sacrificed to idols," or else their "Light shone in the darkness and the darkness comprehended it not."

In 1292 (just 600 years ago) the Jesuit missionary Corvino appeared in China, and was welcomed by the Mongol Emperor, known in Western history as Kublia Khan. Himself a "foreigner" in China, this monarch doubtless felt a sympathy for the strange European who visited his court. There is certainly much to be admired in Corvino's zeal and self-sacrifice, although he was the agent used by the Pope, to introduce into China the semi-idolatry characteristic of his church, for we are told that he was made Archbishop of China and ordered to have the "mysteries of the Bible" represented by pictures in all the churches.

In this age of fast railways and steamers, we in China think our lot hard if a mail be delayed a month, but the venerable Corvino writes in his chronicles:

"It is now twelve years since I have had any news from the West. I am become old and gray-headed, but it is rather through labors and tribulation than through age, for I am only 58 years old. I have learned the Tartar language (Chinese) and literature, into which I have translated the whole of the New Testament and the Psalms of David, and have caused them to be transcribed with the utmost care. I write and read and preach openly the testimony of the law of Christ."

Would that the same could be said of Rome's modern method in China! Now the "Law of Christ" is withheld from the people, and instead of "open" proclamation, we see only mysterious intrigues with the "powers that be," and a hollow shell of Christianity offered to the people, who need the nutritious kernel of the Truth.

The next historical effort centers about Matteo Ricci and his companions, who entered China in 1582, and prosecuted a work as noted for political manœuvres, as for evangelistic progress. Ricci visited Peking in 1601, but his preaching was marred by superstition and idolatry. The Emperor Kang Hi was, nevertheless, strongly impressed by the Truth, even thus seen through a glass dimly. Though he refused to be called a Christian, yet he incorporated the titles of Jesus and God in his great dictionary and so officially recognized the "God of Western Lands."

The greatest advantage accruing to China from the Jesuit Missions, was not spiritual, but scientific. They corrected the Calendar, taught astronomy, and surveyed the Eighteen Provinces, which work, though not religious, has yet proved of great value to subsequent evangelists in the Flowery Kingdom.

Protestant Missions began in China with Dr. Robert Morrison in 1807. At his death, in 1834, the few surviving missionaries struggled faithfully with fearful odds against them. Among these, was that intellectual giant and Christian diplomatist, Dr. S. Wells Williams, to whom the Church will never realize its just indebtedness. This brings us (with many important steps omitted) to the Treaty of Nan King, 1842, which opened the doors to the Gospel message.

China, that walked in darkness, hath seen a great light. May she see it shine even unto the perfect day!

A FLANK MOVEMENT UPON THIBET.

Thibet is as yet an inaccessible land to mission workers. The Moravians have stood for many years upon its southwest borders, waiting and praying for an opportunity to enter, and now a flank movement on the northeast is being made by the missionaries of the China Inland Mission, who have entered the provinces of Kan Suh and Szchuen, and are already facing towards Thibet. They have four regular stations in the former province, manned by twenty-five missionaries, and three others are already at work among some Thibetans that live on the border. They have already secured a lodgment in a small village just on the boundary line, and they have obtained a house from a friendly Thibetan, and although an effort has been made to drive them out, they have been defended and protected by Chinese officials, and are still there. In the province of Szchuen their missionaries are pushing towards the west, and are approaching nearer and nearer towards the borders. The population of Thibet is estimated at six millions. Their religion is but little known, except that they are steeped in superstitions, and the religious hierarchy of the country has absolute sway over the consciences and lives and property of the people. The Moravians while waiting for the signal to enter, have been engaged in a work of faith, and labor of love, in preparing the New Testament in the Thibetan language, and a prayer union has been formed among them to pray for the opening of the country. The Government is tributary to China, and the Chinese are anxious to perpetuate the policy of absolute exclusion of foreigners, fearing that if the country is opened, some political schemes may develop, either for its independence, or its annexation by some powerful government.

The Imperial College at Peking has an imperial pupil. The Emperor of China is studying English under the instruction of two members of the college staff of teachers. It is difficult for us to appreciate the significance of this condescension on the part of this exalted personage. To ordinary mortals, of whatever rank in the world, the study of the English language might well be considered a privilege, and be regarded with a degree of interest and enthusiasm as opening up a magnificent literature, and bringing with it many advantages. Its significance in this case, however, is not that it reveals any literary ambition on the part of the Emperor, but that he has so far consented to the recognition of the Western world as to turn his attention to the study of one of the prominent languages outside of his kingdom. Chinese Christians are praying fervently for the conversion of the Emperor.

The China Inland Mission has 526 missionaries on its staff, and they occupy 108 stations in 14 provinces of the Empire, and including out-stations, there are 172 localities where the work is going on. They have 94 organized churches, with 3,038 communicants; 82 boarding and day schools; 7 hospitals; 18 dispensaries and 13 opium refuges. The income reported at the Annual Meeting, in May, 1892, was £26,905.

TSZE CHIEN.

REV. C. W. MATEER, D. D.

Tsze Chien means "paper money"—not the real bank notes which are so extensively used in China as money, but the make-believe tinsel money which the Chinese burn as a part of their religious worship. This paper money, which is sometimes vulgarly called joss paper by foreigners, is of three kinds, one representing copper, one silver and one gold. The chief and only coined currency of China is copper cash, of which it takes about ten to make a cent. They are spoken of as copper, but are generally made of brass. They are about as large as a quarter dollar and each one has a square hole in the centre by means of which they are strung on strings. They are represented in paper money by a special quality of cheap straw-colored paper. The paper is cut into bits and holes are punched in it in imitation of "cash." Silver is not coined in China, but is used for money in ingots, both large and small, and is sold and exchanged by weight. It is commonly called "sycee" by foreigners, and the large ingots are called "shoes." Tinsel paper representing silver is made of very thin leaf tin pasted on white paper which is cut, folded and pasted into the shape of silver ingots, both large and small. Gold is not often used for money in China, but when it is so used it is used in ingots in the same way as silver. Tinsel to represent gold is made of very thin leaves of brass pasted on yellow paper, which is cut, folded and pasted into the shape of ingots of gold.

The use of paper money prevails all over China, and the burning of it forms a part of almost every act of worship. By being burned it is supposed to be transmitted to the spirit world and there becomes available for use, not merely to the amount of its actual cost, which is comparatively trifling, but to the amount the ingots would represent if composed of real silver or gold. One dollar would easily buy ingots representing $100,000 of silver.

Paper money is burned as an offering to the dead and also to the gods. In the hands of the dead it serves as a means of defraying current expenses, but especially of feeding the underlings and bribing the gods before whom they are brought for judgment. With the gods it serves as a fee or bribe for the obtaining of some coveted favor, such as wealth or health or deliverance from calamity. By far the greater part of the paper money burned is offered to the dead. It is called forth partly by affection but chiefly by fear; that is, it is offered to propitiate the dead and avert the calamities they would otherwise bring on the living in revenge for neglecting them.

In order to understand the use of paper money it is necessary to bear in mind that the Chinese idea of the future world is that it is a reflection of the present world. The dead need food, clothing, money, etc., just as men do in this life. The government also is similar. There are magistrates both high and low (the gods), with assistants, constables, lictors, etc. They rotate in office, are advanced for meritorious conduct, and like men, are influenced by money considerations. As in this life money answers all things, so in the life to come; whether for travelling expenses, or in payment of taxes, or in evading the clutches of the law, money is the essential thing. A man is supposed to have three souls; after death one of them remains with the body in the grave, one resides in the ancestral tablet, and one is arraigned before the gods for judgment. Each one of these souls requires money in order to secure immunity from want and from punishment.

When any one dies a small quantity of paper money is burned just without the door. Immediately after death the soul is supposed to be seized and conducted to the presence of the local magistrate of the under world, who is called Cheng Hwang. Money is needed to fee the constables or the soul will receive very rough treatment at their hands. A larger quantity is sometimes burned in hope that the spirit may be able to bribe these constables to let him go, and report to the god that he could not be found. This is a frequent trick of Chinese constables. On the third day, or as soon as may be, the eldest son or lineal descendant goes to the temple of Cheng Hwang and worships and burns paper money for the benefit of the deceased who, it is feared, may be detained there undergoing punishment and unable to secure a release. At the time of the funeral paper money is burned at the grave, oftentimes in large quantities. At the end of seven days and of every seventh day until seven times seven, lamentation is made and paper money is burned both at the grave and before the tablet. At the end of a hundred days after death a more extensive burning is made at the temple of the "Three Rulers." It consists of paper effigies of sedan chairs, carts, horses, servants, etc., and especially of paper money, which is sometimes burned in enormous quantities. While the burning is going on the family prostrate themselves and mourn aloud for the dead.

Besides the offerings connected with their death, ancestors are regularly worshiped at least twice each year, once at home before the tablet and once at the grave. The former is at the new year and the latter at the Ching Ming, which occurs in the spring, about the fifth or sixth of April. On both occasions paper money is burned, but especially at the latter.

In addition to all these special offerings made by each person to his own ancestors, there are public or charitable offerings made to the souls of the outcast poor, and to such as have no posterity to sacrifice to them. They suppose that the souls of all such become outcast, vagrant spirits, and being angered by poverty and neglect send sickness and all sorts of calamities on the living. Contributions are levied by official authority on all the people three times each year, and extensive burnings are made to supply their need and appease their anger. A procession is formed in which the principal idols are carried in state. This procession passes through the principal streets of the city, and as it passes paper money is burned at all the corners and crossings, at which places these vagrant spirits are supposed to collect. Private offerings are also made to them by such as are anxious to avert their anger from themselves or their children.

But paper money is not burned to the souls of the dead alone. It is also offered to all the gods of the land. In times of distress or misfortune each man or woman appeals to the gods for help, and paper money always forms a part of the worship. Each temple also has at least one festival in honor of its god each year, and large temples have two or three. At these festivals large numbers go to worship, and nearly all offer more or less paper money. A furnace in the shape of a large brazen urn is commonly placed in front of the god, and in this the paper is burned. In the great temple on the top of the Tai mountain in Shantung there is a large brick furnace a short distance in front of the god into which worshipers cast their paper money. During the two months of the annual festival a stream of worshipers keeps this furnace constantly aglow with the paper money cast into it. It should be observed, however, that paper money is not used in the imperial sacrifice offered by the Emperor to heaven and earth, nor in the official worship offered at stated seasons to Confucius.

ENORMOUS EXPENSE.

The cost of paper money is trifling as compared with the amount it is supposed to represent, yet it is offered in such quantities, and on so many occasions, that its aggregate value is enormous. It has been estimated, that each family spends, on an average, about a dollar and-a-half each year in the worship of ancestors, of which, at least, two-thirds is for paper money. China, is estimated to contain about eighty million families, which would give eighty million dollars. A fair estimate for the three annual burnings to the vagrant dead, would be about six thousand dollars to each hsien or county, which would aggregate about ten million dollars for the whole country. The average amount burned by each family in the direct worship of the gods in the temples may be taken as about half that expended in the worship of ancestors, or forty million dollars for all China. Thus, we have the aggregate amount of one hundred and thirty millions of dollars spent annually in China for paper money.

Faith in the efficacy of paper money is universal.

A few, perhaps, offer it to escape criticism, but the great mass believe in it. Without a hearty belief in it, such enormous sums would not be spent for it by a people noted for their careful expenditure of money. Many stories of its efficacy in special cases are told by the priests in order to confirm the faith of the people. The following incident came within my personal knowledge. A poor widow had pawned her son's coat, and was in straits for the means to redeem it. When asked why she pawned it, she said she had a dream a few weeks before, in which her husband appeared to her and asked for money to buy a coat, saying that he was freezing. Not having any money, she pawned her son's coat and bought paper money which she burned at her husband's grave that he might have means to buy a warm coat.

SILLY IDOLATRY.

Notwithstanding her boasted civilization, the idolatry of China is well nigh as silly and quite as besotting as that of the veriest savage. The ideas on which the burning of paper money is based, disclose a very low and sordid view of the life to come, and of the gods who rule over it. It seems scarcely to have occurred to the average Chinaman, that burning paper money to the gods degrades them by assuming their venality. The Chinese mind is so thoroughly schooled to the idea, that money is the prime consideration, that he cannot conceive, that even the gods can be otherwise than actuated by the same motives. The absence of sensuality from Chinese worship is often referred to as a singular excellence, and as lifting it above the idolatrous worship of Greece and Rome. It is a question, however, whether this conceded excellence is not more than counterbalanced by the distinctly mercenary character of Chinese worship and Chinese gods. The aggregate effect on the moral character is probably worse in the latter case than in the former. The subordination of every moral principle to the influence of money, is probably greater in China than in any other land. The love of money being the root of all evil, no land presents greater obstacles to the Gospel than does China.

PROGRESS OF MISSIONS IN CHINA.

J. G. KERR, M. D.

	1830	1847	1854	1880	1889
Societies represented,	2	14	15	29	40
Missionaries (Male),	3	68	78	250	589
" (Wives),	1	45	40	163	391
" (Single Ladies),	0	5	3	63	316
Native preachers (ord.),	0	0	0	73	211
" (unord.),	0	0	29	511	1,266
" helpers (female),	0	0	0	90	180
Churches,	0	0	5	400	522
Communicants,	1	6*	351	18,000	87,287
Schools,	0	?	?	347	?
Pupils (in all schools),	0	?	812	7,295	16,836
Theological Schools,	0	0	?	20	?
" Students,	0	0	?	231	?
Hospitals,	0	6	6	16	61
Dispensaries,	0	?	?	24	44
Physicians (male),	0	6	6	?	101
" (female),	0	0	0	?	25

NOTE.—An increase for three years must be added to last column to bring statistics to date. The number of communicants is now estimated to be about 50,000. (Rev. Dr. Pierson.)

AUTHORITIES.—S. Wells Williams; Newcombes' Cyclopedia; Bainbridge; Report of Shanghai Conference, 1890.

In 1807 the first Protestant Missionary, Rev. Dr. Morrison, arrived in China.

From 1807 to 1842 Canton and Macao were the only places open to foreigners.

In 1840-42 the opium war occurred. By the Treaty of Nankin (1842) the Ports of Amoy, Foochow, Ningpo and Shanghai, in addition to Canton, were opened to foreigners, and Hong Kong was ceded to England. Travel was restricted to a day's journey from any of the open ports.

From 1842 to 1860 mission work was restricted to the five open ports and vicinity and to Hong Kong and Macao, the latter a Portuguese possession.

In October 1856 the second war began. By the Treaty of Tientsin (1858) and the Convention of Peking (1860) the following new ports were opened: North of Shanghai, Newchwang, Tientsin and Chefoo. On the Island of Formosa, Taiwan and Takao; on the mainland south of Amoy. Swatow. On the great river Yangtsz, Hankow, Kiukiang and Chinkiang. The right to travel anywhere in the interior on passports was granted and protection was pledged to missions and converts. From this time (1860) mission work began to extend all over the Empire.

S. Wells Williams arrived in China in 1833. Some days after landing he writes, "I saw the only convert, Leung Afat."

In the Life and Letters of Dr. Williams, p. 60, it is stated, "We made an attempt (1833) to have Chinese tracts and gospels printed from blocks, but this resulted so disastrously to the natives employed that thirteen years passed before another attempt of this sort was made."

In reference to Dr. Morrison, Dr. Williams says, (see Life and Letters, p. 70), "The spirit of seclusion then in the fullness of its might among Chinese officials, joined to the equally restrictive rules of the East India Company against converting the natives, made the open propagandism of Christianity impossible during his (Dr. Morrison's) whole life at Canton."

Have Christian Missions made any progress in China in 8½ years?

Letters.

SYRIA.

A SUBSTITUTE FOR WATCHES.—Rev. Mr. Hoskins writes: Perhaps some of the readers of the CHURCH would be amused to learn how we measure distances in Syria. Of course people now know something of miles and kilometres, but they very seldom make use of such. If one asks the distance to a certain place the answer always comes so many "hours," meaning as far as a mule or loaded animal will travel in an hour. Now seeing that there are thousands of people who never owned either watches or clocks, and many thousands more who could not tell the time if they did own them, an "hour" is a very indefinite length or quantity. -I frequently go a distance of eleven "hours" in six or seven, and once I took in seventeen consecutive hours a distance of at least two day's journey. If one asks concerning a short distance a man may answer, "a cigarette away," meaning if one walks as long as it takes him to smoke a cigarette he will reach the place in question. But one of our Syrian friends who is now in America deserves the credit of a new way of measuring since he wrote to his friends, that "New York was just two dollars and a half away from Philadelphia."

SPIRITUAL ATMOSPHERE AND FRUIT.

MISS M. C. HOLMES, Tripoli:—The spiritual atmosphere which has pervaded our school for three years we are increasingly grateful for.

There is a constant assurance of the Spirit's presence manifested in many ways. Last week we were gladdened and comforted by the conversion of a daughter of our helper in Safita. This is her second year as a boarder with us and we have watched long and anxiously for her conversion and at last it came as a blessed surprise.

Another girl, a new boarder, said last night that she desired to be a "Christ child" and told me how she said the same to her father, a prominent man in the Greek Church, but who is so far enlightened that he lets this child of his refrain from going to confession because she has made up her mind that it is better to go into her room and confess her sins to God alone. She has been a day pupil for years and has absorbed the truth as a plant drinks in sunshine, and now knows no other way. You "have brought me up," she says, and prays to neither virgin nor saint but God to give her a new heart. The various meetings for prayer are solemn occasions. Each day in the noon recess there is a meeting for church members and those desiring admittance to the church; just a withdrawing for fifteen minutes into the presence of the Master, a waiting on him to lay special cases of need before him and to get his commands for the rest of the day. Every Friday afternoon there is a general meeting for prayer in the senior study room, conducted by Miss LaGrange or myself, and once a month by one of the gentlemen of the station. Then on Sunday, in addition to the Sunday-school and church service, there are four different prayer circles which meet in the evening, led by Miss LaGrange, myself and two assistant teachers, and in all these meetings many of the girls take part and are really interested.

PERSIA.

MOSLEMS AGAINST THE JEWS.

MISS CHARLOTTE MONTGOMERY, Hamadan—There has only been one case of cholera among the Armenians in the city, and I think that might be traced to imprudence. The Moslems are very angry that the Armenians have escaped, for at first their Mollah said their prayers would keep it from their quarter of the city and it would only be among the Jews and Armenians. They seem to be venting their anger on the poor Jews. Several were seized and beaten one day this week and an order was given that they should not appear on the street without a certain sign on, so that every one should know that they were Jews. One morning a great crowd gathered at one of the Mollah's houses, and asked what they should do. Should they kill them all, exterminate them, pull down their houses or what? As he commanded so they would do. He said no one should sell them anything or buy anything from them, and they (the Moslems) should not call in Jewish doctors, and so boycott them. Whether this will satisfy the mob or not remains to be seen.

Hamadan is all in an uproar, and who knows what the end will be? About three hundred men came to the telegraph office and telegraphed to the king, "These Jews must become Moslems or we must kill them all." The Governor is not in the city, none of those in power are here, so the mob has it all its own way. But there is One who can restrain the wrath of man.

Every one seems as if walking on a volcano. The other day the Governor sent word he was coming, and ordered preparations made for quite a regiment, and people thought he was coming to seize the Mollah and send him to Teheran.

I heard that the old Mollah was at the Bawbs again yesterday. Some of them had their noses bored, a string put through, and thus were led through the bazaars. It is said that there are inflammatory placards up in the bazaars to this effect: "There are six persons who have taken money from the Jews and are working for them. Let us gather this afternoon in the Mexhed and gather money to give them. If they turn to our side well; if not, we will kill them with the other Jews."

It is reported that the Governor and others called the chief of the Jews and made them consent to several things. 1st. That all Jews wear the mark; 2d. That the women wear black veils; 3d. That none of them appear on the street on a rainy day; 4th. That their houses must not be higher than any Moslem house; 5th. That the men must wear a cloak of two colors.

Later: Everything is comparatively quiet in the city now. There are companies of soldiers stationed at all the city gates, for what reason nobody knows. They say there is a man coming from Teheran to look into things.

AFRICA.

FERNANDO PO—SPANISH ROMANISM.

Miss Nassau and Miss Babe have encountered serious difficulties in reaching Africa. Their steamer struck a rock in Clarence Bay and was so disabled that she could not continue her voyage. After a detention of three weeks in Fernando Po, the ladies took passage for Batanga on the "Nubia" where they arrived October 2d. While waiting for the steamer to sail, Miss Nassau wrote as follows on September 30:

To look upon, Fernando Po is a beautiful island. The sunsets baffle any description of their gorgeous beauty. The town of Santa Isabel with its white buildings, set in the midst of feathery palms, crowns the steep hill that forms a half curve of the harbor; but it is a miserable place when you come to look at the humanity which lives surrounded by all this beauty. Spanish Romanism flourishes here, uncontrolled by any civilized government.

It was refreshing to us to sit in the well-filled church of the English Primitive Methodists, in one of whose houses we were lodged, and listen to the sermon of the missionary in English, to the soulful singing and hearty responses of the people. It did seem to me incongruous at first, that people who spoke such an unusual dialect of the English tongue could understand the cultured phrases of Revs. Messrs. Fairley and Pickering, but they certainly did hear enough to make them exceedingly attentive. The numbers in attendance on these precious English services are greatly superior to those who attend the meagre worship of the Romanists.

Spanish is spoken of course by the Government officials and their employes, but the people who call themselves Fernandians, speak this Sierra Leone dialect of English which is not Pigeon English, neither Kroo, nor yet that of our Americo-Africans in the South. Many of the people are from Sierra Leone.

The dear missionaries in Fernando Po are very brave in faith, though no school-teaching in any language is allowed them, and soon the order may come to cease even preaching.

DOWN THE OGOWE.

REV. HERMAN JACOT, Kangwe.—My first trip carried me far down the Ogowe and into the side lakes and lasted ten or eleven days. The outfit for such a trip is about as follows: A camp bed on cross legs, folding into a small roll a yard long; a provision box, partitioned off and containing provisions, chiefly in tins, with the necessary complement of table and kitchen utensils. Two jugs of filtered spring water, a small trunk containing exchange-goods, cloth, fish hooks, etc., for buying food for the men; a valise of personal effects; an iron trunk containing the silver communion set; and last, but not least, the little portable Mason and Hamlin organ in its case, by means of which the crowd is quickly drawn. Besides these, my five oars-men and Yongwe, the Bible-reader, have each their little roll of bedding. All this is stowed away in the capacious sides of the "Montclair", the mission boat, which has already travelled many hundred miles up and down the Ogowe and in and out of the lakes which form a chain on each side of the water course. . . . On Friday, I awoke at six, held prayers, invited my white friend to partake of my breakfast seasoned with a Christian spirit. We left at seven-thirty for Igenja, where we have a little native chapel, and where I am to hold the first communion.

SPIRIT WORSHIP.

After a short rest and landing part of our cargo, including the bedding, we left for Asynpa, which is the last Galwa town down the river and the limit of my proposed trip. It is a town almost wholly given up to spirit-worship and heathen rites and festivities. I walked around town, preaching Christ in and out of season, and after dinner gathered our few Christians and all others we could draw, and preached to them on God's being light. This town has already given us some good Christians and our best Bible-reader, Yongwe.

I was presented by the chief with two branches of plantains (coarse bananas and the staple food of the country) and some smoked fish. Then we passed on to a neighboring town of the Ivilis and preached to them of God's love. A long pull back of two hours brought us again to Igenja.

EDIFYING CHRISTIANS.

After supper we gathered together our Christians by ringing the bell, and I spoke to them on hungering and thirsting after righteousness. It occurred to me at that moment that I should hold a little class-meeting in every town I came to, somewhat after the style of our Methodist Episcopal brethren, that I might know the religious status of each one and perform intensive as well as extensive work. I had a little particular conversation after, but I mean to try the experiment as a regular part of my work.

On Sunday Communion service was held. In all, nineteen persons were received into the inquiry class, and three were baptized.

PERSIA.

Describing a tour among the outstations of Tabriz, the Rev. S. G. Wilson writes: Leaving Mianeh we cross a high pass, the Kofan Kuh, and shortly afterwards leave Azerbaijan and enter a small province called Khamseh (on the map Gerrus or Kurdasir). It is perhaps one hundred miles long and about the same broad. Its capital is Zenjan (20,000 or 30,000), situated in a fertile valley on a river of the same name. On the river bank are extensive gardens and orchards. The city was surrounded by a wall before the Babi rebellion, but it is now demolished. It has a striking looking mosque with fine blue tile dome and several graves of Emaum-Zades. The new residence and court house of the Prince Governor, an uncle of the Shah, are built somewhat in European style with gable roofs. This Governor is just recovering from a wound inflicted by the chief of the Shahsavan nomads who dwell in the mountains. He had murdered his wife and defied the Government to punish him. When they went to capture him his tribe killed forty of the King's soldiers and wounded the Governor and his brother. Afterwards he fled and his villages were looted. Here there is also an office of the Indo-European Telegraph Co., with a German in charge. The situation of Zenjan is remarkably central. It is about seven days' caravan journey (200 miles) from Tabriz, Teheran, Hamadan, Ardebil, Rascht and Maragha. It is part of the Tabriz field, as the language of the people is Turkish. The ruins of the Moghul capital of Persia with the dilapidated Mosque of Shakh Hooda Benda, are twenty-five miles to the east at Sultanieh. The city of Zenjan has a few Armenians, chiefly wine sellers, and several Jewish doctors. The rest are Shiaks with many Babis and Sufees.

A year ago Merza Mesrof, one of our theological students, spent his vacation here, and after graduation came to settle permanently.

SIAM.

SCHOOLS AND PRESS.

MISS LARISSA J. COOPER, Bangkok:—This term the attendance at the Sumray Christian High School is the largest in years; 106 are enrolled, 46 of whom are boarders. The classes are being worked up to a higher standard in grade, and the need for a preparatory department is urgent. Three of the most promising pupils were admitted to the church in September, and another placed on probation for three months. Seven have confessed Christ during the year, and meet every Sabbath afternoon to pray for their fellow students individually. Several of those prayed for have shown a deepened interest in religion.

At the Ban Mai School 38 pupils are enrolled. The teacher collects the dues from the pupils, and the school is almost self-supporting.

Wang Lang School is growing almost to the limit of our accommodations. We have received four new pupils already this month, and promises of two or three more soon. Almost all are boarders, and with the teachers our family at table numbers 34 at present. Our desks are all in use, and our primary department which recites upstairs is encroaching on the sleeping quarters. The finances of the school are very gratifying. Thus far this year receipts have exceeded expenses.

Part of the press work for August and September has been to print 1,265,600 pages of Scriptures, tracts, newspaper, and school books. Two thousand six hundred volumes have been covered with paper or cloth, and 142 volumes of Scripture portions have been bound.

DARKNESS IN BRAZIL.

REV. J. B. KOLB, Brazil:—Owing to their ignorance, the common people are terribly superstitious and idolatrous. They believe, that when their priests bless their images, the saint represented enters them at once and there abides; so that when prayer is offered before the image, the saint addressed, at once hears. Certain way-side crosses are considered as especially miraculous in their powers. It has been noticed that these crosses, set up where the most atrocious murders have been committed, work the most marvelous miracles. In some parts of Brazil, in the time of drought, the priests gather their people together, generally at the time of the change of the moon, then in solemn procession remove an image of one of their saints, generally that of the Virgin Mary, from one church to another, with the idea that the saint removed, will be so anxious to get back to his church and shrine, that he will cause it to rain. If the rain comes, people will gladly bear him home. Sometimes the image is carried and placed in the midst of a dry cistern or reservoir. In order not to be exposed to sun and dew, he causes it to rain. At this, the people quickly carry him back. In other parts, people carry pots of water or vessels with food to the priests to have their contents blessed before using them. All sorts of amulets and charms are worn and believed in. They say, that every evening about 6 o'clock, the Virgin Mary passes along the streets, and is saddened if she does not find a lamp burning before her shrine. Strange stories are told of the punishment inflicted upon their saints when they do not comply with their petitions; as when some boatmen trying to beat into the harbor of Bahia, appealed to St. Antonio, whom they had on board, to help them, but prayed in vain; finally, in desperation, they pitched him, Jonah-like, into the sea, and then redoubling their efforts, gained the harbor. From ignorance and superstition, the steps are easy to the violation of the Seventh Commandment, which sits very lightly upon the conscience of the people.

Illegitimate children are as numerous as the legitimate, if not more so. The violation of this commandment constitutes a barrier to the reception of the gospel on the part of very many. All this evil, in a great measure, can be laid at the door of the priests who, by their vicious example and still more vicious axiom, "do as I say and not as I do" have led their people into these depths of corruption and sin.

Probably no other class of men have exerted and do still exert so great an influence over the people, as a whole, as the priests. A sad picture and revolting could be traced of the ignorance, vice and superstition of the priesthood, although there are some notable exceptions. A deceased archbishop said, that of the two worst things in Brazil one was the priest. A legate of the Pope, a few years ago, was sent to inquire into the religious condition of Brazil; he in confidence allowed a part of his report to be examined, which showed all too plainly into what an awful state of corruption the Church had fallen. It has been said by Romanists that Rome needs to send missionaries to convert and teach its own people. A vicar not long ago said to a colporteur, "Say to your pastor, come and visit my parish and teach my people, I do not pretend to teach them anything; all I care for is their two milreis, the price of the masses which they want said." Another priest is not known to have preached a sermon in a long term of years. Yet another priest, who is a chaplain in the army and very popular, was chided because of his immoral life; his reply to his overzealous friends was this: "When I am in the church I am a priest; but outside of it I am just as any other man, and I may do as I please. No thanks to you for meddling in what does not concern you."

Brazilians, owing to their religion, are always ready to give an alms when asked in the name of God. They make much of good works. When they come to know the truth as it is in Jesus they make excellent Christians as a rule. It is not easy for North American Christians to understand to what an extent their brethren in Christ in Brazil have to suffer. Friends will often bear with those who love the Gospel for years, but just as soon as they come out openly on the Lord's side they at once begin to persecute; not always by open, violent persecution, but by that kind of persecution which, in the intimate social relations of life it is so hard to bear. The wonder is that so many care to openly confess Christ and that so few go back to Rome.

But a missionary's life among these people has so many compensations that he forgets all about those things which might be called privations. Compensation, abounds such as the love and good-will of those who have come to Christ and of those who are friendly, shown in the sending of all sorts of little presents, and in cordial visits after a return from a journey, or during sickness.

Above all that greater joy of hearing such good testimony of the Holy Spirit's power and seeing the consistent Christian living of so many. Surely to be in the midst of such things, must yield great satisfaction and joy; and to the missionary when obliged by failing health to leave those labors and rest for a while at home, there comes an intense desire and longing to return and be engaged once more in such delightful and stirring scenes.

JAPAN.

PERSECUTION BY BUDDHISTS.

REV. F. S. CURTIS, Hiroshima:—We are having quite an agitation in Hiroshima at present in the shape of sharp opposition on the part of the Buddhists. Several weeks ago some of the priests hired young men to break up our chapel preaching services; and recently, for a number of nights in succession, they held large "Lecture Meetings" in a theatre, for the express purpose of running down Christianity and driving it out of the city. Some fifteen hundred to two thousand people attended these nightly meetings. The avowed determination of the opposers is:

1st. To close up Christian preaching places and churches.

2d. To harass the Christians.

3rd. To drive out the Missionaries and Japanese preachers.

On the 19th of last month they made a special effort to put some of their principles into action. Our preaching place in the west central part of the city at "Shusamba," is directly opposite the theatre where the Buddhist lectures were going on. On the evening mentioned, even before the time for opening the meeting, a crowd had filled the house, the theatre, and the entire court-yard between. Our chapel steps were so crowded that it was with difficulty that I entered. The first speaker, a young licentiate, Mr. Fujita, had barely begun, when some one in the audience demanded with a loud voice, an answer to the question: "Of what use was it for God to create man?" Not being noticed by the speaker, he reiterated his question in still louder tones, and announcing himself as the representative of a large part of those present, appealed to the latter as to whether his question deserved a reply. Some fifty young men and boys, evidently drilled for the occasion, supported him most vociferously and in spite of the efforts of the chairman and several policemen (who told him that the meeting was for preaching and not for lecture or debate, and therefore that question would not be publicly answered, and that his purpose, as he well knew, was simply to break up the meeting) the meeting was interrupted for about a quarter of an hour.

At the close of this time, however, the disturbers arose in a body and left the hall in great disorder. The Christians immediately united in singing "God is Love," and there was no further serious interruption, either during the sermon of Mr. Fujita, Mr. Tomegawa, or myself. At the close of the meeting we found the doorway and steps blocked with people, and some two hundred to three hundred standing in the court. When we appeared, the crowd shouted in derision, using the contemptuous word for foreigner, Ketojin. Several policemen advanced and cleared an opening through the crowd which pressed on after us into a narrow exit to the main street. Here, for a moment only, the police held back the crowd, while we three speakers walked around the corner, where I bade the Japanese brethren good night and went to the back of a store to get my bicycle. I had no sooner entered, than the crowd came surging by. Supposing we had all taken to our heels, they rushed on, even beyond the other two, and up a side street, where they supposed we had gone, but falling in their search, they returned to the Main Street, though not so far back as the store where I was lighting my bicycle lamp, so I rode home without detention. But the crowd discovering the two Japanese preachers, began to deride and jostle and pelt them with gravel. The latter accordingly sought refuge in a near police station, and were obliged to remain there for several hours, the crowd refusing to disperse.

This occurrence is neither the beginning nor end of a persistent fight against Christianity. Besides disturbances of this kind, the names of the believers have been published with appropriate advice as to how those should be treated who bear the name of "Yaso" (Jesus). In view of all this, the four denominations in Hiroshima have established a plan of union, and are holding large preaching meetings with no other opposition than a jeering crowd at our heels for several blocks on our way home from the services. Already the excitement caused by the Buddhist Lectures seems greatly allayed.

Our minds are at rest, for we know that nothing can be done except that which His hand and His counsel hath determined beforehand to be done. For several weeks we have been praying for an especial outpouring of the Spirit upon the Hiroshima Church, and we feel that this petty persecution may be the means to the end we seek.

MEXICO.

A WIDE BUT DIFFICULT FIELD.

REV. C. SCOTT WILLIAMS, San Luis Potosi.—I think that this is a hard field. There is not possible here, at present, the advance that has been made at Zitacuaro and Zacatecas. I suppose that the difference is the fanaticism of the people. There is much suffering from the drought and many of our members are scattered in search of work. One little town near here where we had a student employed in the vacation last year is almost entirely depopulated. I presume that similar word has come to you from Mr. Wallace in Zacatecas. In a recent letter to me he says: "I never found myself so busy looking after the sick and poor." Every day members of our church come to me and want help of some sort. I am not well enough acquainted with the town and merchants to procure them work.

CITIES AND TOWNS.

In this state there are four cities of over 20,000 inhabitants where there is no Christian work undertaken as yet. Besides, there are a score or more of smaller towns of from five to eight thousand where as good a work could be done, in time, as we have started in Venado. To be sure there is difficulty attending the work in every place. A Bible colporteur passed through Catorce, a town of 6,000 and failed to sell a single book. Much of this state is in the hot country where it is hard to live, but in those very parts the people are most open to the Gospel. I made a visit to Charcas and Venado this week, returning last night. I find that the work has suffered some since the visits of Mr. Beall ceased, but it can be revived again. Where there was a strong opposition a few months ago, and even persecution, now there is tolerance. I presume that all new work must go through this stage in these small towns.

At Venado I baptized two infants and then preached. There was a crowd of curious people at the window and they made some confusion, but they were simply the ruder element of the town.

HOME MISSIONS.

DELAY DISASTROUS.

The work of Home Missions must be pushed forward without delay. It is not safe to slacken our speed a single year. If the English and the Germans should be neglectful of their home work for a generation they would not be much affected by it socially, politically, or religiously, because they have reached their maturity and become settled in their principles and habits. That is not the case with our nation. We are as yet in the germ which has to be developed. The population of Great Britain and Germany will not be much larger at the end of the century than it is to-day, but the population of the United States will have increased by that time from twenty to thirty millions. This unprecedented growth of our nation led the late John Angell James, of Birmingham, England, to say at a public dinner given to a number of Americans: "Your home work, gentlemen, is paramount at present at least to all others. The object of your zeal must be your own country—to supply her rapidly increasing population with able and faithful ministers. You must cultivate the waste places of your homestead or it will be overrun with thorns and briars."

If the nation, in the future, is to be what our forefathers intended it to be, its religious forces must be greatly strengthened. The hosts of evil are increasing in number and strength so rapidly that they will soon prove too strong to be controlled by the Church, unless she is up and doing. "It is characteristic of such a period as we live in," says Prof. Phelps, "that moral forces not only accumulate fast but they set quick in the mold of national character. They are indurated rapidly and for centuries to come. That process of national conservation which results in fixed character, and which, in the Oriental world, has produced such immobile usages, laws, beliefs and institutions is here in its beginning. We have the privilege of shaping it just here. It can be modified now; not so half a century later. It can be changed and revolutionized, headed this way or that, at present; not so probably three decades hence." What shall we do? Undertake to fulfil the task, or allow indifference and disregard for the future to let the rarest opportunity of our life slip?

In this as in other great enterprises time is an all-important element. Material interests in the shape of commerce, trade, railway, banking, etc., are advancing with astonishing rapidity. Those who have not visited the great West can form no conception of the growth of towns, the settlement of districts, and the multiplication of industries there. All over the land pulses are beating at a fever rate. Electricity and steam are the only symbols that can adequately set forth the rapidity of our material progress. Society is in a perpetual whirl foaming like a boiling caldron. All is hurry, bustle and confusion. Houses run up as by magic, mountains are tunnelled in a day, torrents are bridged whilst people are asleep, and lines of railways extend over prairies and through valleys at the rate of many miles per week. The steam engine is thundering over the plains of Kansas and Nebraska and through the canons of Colorado, Utah and New Mexico with a speed that never slackens.

With all worldly enterprises thus quivering with life and activity can the Church afford to move leisurely! Can the pastor afford to let his people remain in ignorance of what is going on and can the layman refuse to do all in his power to save the land for Christ? Not without proving recreant to their trust. Our home missionaries should join the long cavalcade of immigrants as they begin their march across the plains; their voice should be heard in the miners' camp, along the gulches of the Rocky Mountains and at the door of the dug-outs on the frontier, or the Romish priest, the Mormon missionary and the zealous infidel will have secured their victims. These stirring times call upon us for self-denying efforts.

THE BENEFIT OF ORGANIZATION.

A short time since a noble contribution came to the treasury of the Board from the Sabbath-school of the Westminster Presbyterian Church of Yonkers, N. Y. The amount of it created a little surprise, because the school would hardly be classed among the rich ones. Upon inquiry, it was found that the great work of evangelizing our land had been strongly presented to every organization connected with the school. The Young Men's Bible-class, and the Thomas Bible-class, as well as the different societies represented therein, had been urged to do their best toward paying the debt of the Board and carrying the Gospel to the uttermost parts of the country. The result was a large contribution that gladdened our hearts and helped to reduce the debt and carry on the work in the field. If pastors, superintendents, Sabbath-schools, and presidents of church societies, could be induced to interest all classes and ages in the Church's work, the treasuries of our Boards would soon feel the good effects of it. The effort would not have to be very great, but the fruit would be rich.

EASTERN WASHINGTON—that part of the state east of the great bend of the Columbia, and forming perhaps one-third of the state—is one of the richest and most rapidly-developing regions of the great Northwest. Dr. Gunn writes in a recent letter as follows:

The field consisting of Rockford and Fairfield, Spokane Co., is now particularly hopeful because of the extraordinary development of Fairfield. The beet-sugar product promises to be the finest in the world. The sample produced was 24 per cent. sugar. It is a very fine farming region, regardless of this. The new church building there is nearly complete. We are virtually the only church in the place, as the other church (Lutheran) is only for the scattered German population. We have the most earnest people, and if we do simple justice to our work we will be very successful.

At the earnest instance of one of the town site owners of the new town of Bridgeport I had a board of trustees appointed, who will incorporate and accept of lots for building. This new town is situated on the Columbia, near the mouth of Okanogan River, on the main route from Coulee City to the extensive gold and silver mines known as the Conconnully and Slokan mines. The railroad is soon to be extended to Bridgeport, and great development is inevitable. The request for our coming is from a number of Presbyterian families who first settled up the farms adjoining.

Two years have made a wonderful change in the region known as the "Big Bend." This includes all that region west of Spokane and south of the Columbia and Spokane rivers, reaching 175 miles east and west. The towns are becoming substantial, excellent school and church buildings have been put up, frame business blocks are giving place to brick, and the rude board farmhouse to the elegant and commodious home. The southern part of this plain is crossed by the new Great Northern railroad, which has already created towns of great and permanent importance. One little station where we now have lots selected has already shipped this season 400,000 bushels of wheat. That of itself would soon make a town. But west of this is the wonderful Chelan region, contiguous to Lake Chelan, perhaps the most picturesque body of water in the United States. It is surrounded by very rich mines which are being very rapidly developed. An electric line will connect the mines at the head of the lake with the steamers on the Columbia river. Two towns are now there, and this railroad line will develop another. The development in mining in Okanogan and Stevens counties, which embrace all that part of Washington north of Spokane, has been very rapid during last year, and will be much greater next. At least six prominent points should be occupied there by us this year.

The city of Omaha fairly represents the condition of society in the new West. Three years ago a census revealed the following facts: There were 62,000 Americans, 15,000 Irish, 14,000 Swedes, 10,000 Germans, 3,000 Danes, 3,000 Bohemians, 1,000 Norwegians, 1,000 Welsh, 1,000 other foreigners. Of these 54,000 were Protestants, 30,000 Catholics, 6,000 Jews, and 20,000 unbelievers.

SYNOD OF WISCONSIN.

REV. W. D. THOMAS, S. M.

The foreign work in our midst is being pushed with vigor. We meet with considerable encouragement. On the morning of Friday, Nov. 4, 1892, a commission from the Presbytery of Madison, accompanied by two Bohemian pastors—the Rev. Joseph Balcar of Melnick, and the Rev. Joseph Bren of Racine—visited Muscoda and organized there a Bohemian Presbyterian Church. Number of members enrolled, 25. Then the church elected three elders and four trustees. Here the people, thus far unaided, have almost completed a neat sanctuary for the worship of God. John Huss did not die in vain. The seed of truth scattered by him many centuries ago is being gathered to-day on this far-off continent, a ripened harvest. This people have this day their earnest prayers answered and their most cherished dreams realized in a Bohemian Presbyterian church.

On the afternoon of the same day they organized at Highland, a neighboring village, a Bohemian Presbyterian church of thirty-two members. To complete the organization they elected three elders and three trustees. Before they separated they determined to build a house of worship, and raised more than half of the necessary funds. We have but two Bohemian pastors in our synod, consequently the Rev. Joseph Balcar of Melnick has to travel a long distance and preach to these two congregations once a month. This consecrated Bohemian is doing splendid service for the Master, and his success with his own people is truly apostolic. We hope this coming spring for a re enforcement of pastors to tell to this people the story of God's infinite love in the Bohemian tongue. They are tired of the galling yokes that Rome has placed around their necks for so many centuries. They still love the old Gospel, if they only knew how to find it, that their forefathers thought so much of on the plains of Bohemia as to die for it.

SUGGESTIONS OF THE CENSUS.

The Presbyterian Journal gives, in a recent issue, the following item and table:—

The Chief of the Bureau of Statistics reports that the total number of immigrants arrived at the ports of the United States from the principal foreign countries, except from the British North-America possessions and Mexico, during the month ended November 30th, 1892, and the first eleven months ending the same, as compared with the same periods of the preceding year, was as follows:—

Countries.	Month ended November 30. 1892. 1891.		11 mo's ended November 30. 1892. 1891.
Austria-Hungary-Bohemia	580	591	7 181	10 677
Hungary	508	2 583	21 728	21 278
Other Austria (except Poland).....	668	2 539	28 230	30 508
Denmark.....	471	642	9 743	10 175
France.....	412	520	4 948	6 028
Germany.....	9 266	9 604	111 966	116 929
Italy.....	3 685	3 724	55 427	65 561
Netherlands.....	500	342	7 496	5 241
Poland.....	35	1 616	26 635	30 078
Russia (except Poland)...	219	5 261	51 835	67 149
Sweden and Norway.....	2 546	3 190	53 992	51 061
Switzerland.....	537	537	6 155	6 640
United Kingdom—Eng- land and Wales.....	4 044	3 375	43 197	49 929
Scotland.....	670	688	10 767	12 068
Ireland.....	1 962	1 943	40 408	54 964
All other countries.....	1 439	1 470	23 120	19 867
Total.....	27 492	38 615	520 793	562 073

There are obvious suggestions from the above as bearing on the work of Home Missions.

1. It is evident that the tide of immigration is not slackening. In 1891, it brought to our shores about 600,000 souls—nearly one-hundredth of the entire population. At the rate above indicated for eleven months, 1892 will bring us even more.

Immigration must some day diminish by its very continuance; but for these two years it has really increased as compared with a few years past.

2. The quality of the immigrants has greatly deteriorated. A large proportion of them are of a lower grade, socially, and morally, than their predecessors of years ago. There is much desirable material among them still; but the newcomers from many of the countries above-named, are largely poverty-stricken, illiterate, godless, discontented, vicious, or even criminal. The element thus added to the nation is becoming every day more and more undesirable, and more and more hard to manage and assimilate.

All this intensifies unutterably the need and call for more strenuous efforts and more liberal gifts to widen, and press the work of home evangelization. There could be no more convincing home mission appeal than the sight of one of these disembarking shiploads from Bohemia, or Hungary, or Italy, or Russia.

NOTES ON KANSAS.

S. B. FLEMING, D. D., S. M.

The work in Kansas, on the whole, is in better shape this year than it has been for the last three years. More vacancies are permanently supplied, and with the help of our two pastors at large we are able to give most of the smaller churches an occasional supply. The work is in a very satisfactory condition.

We note with sadness the death of Rev. J. S. Atkinson, our missionary in Graham County. He came to the bracing climate of north-west Kansas on account of his health some three and one-half years ago, and rallied so rapidly that he was able to begin missionary work at Hill City and other points in Graham County. He was a faithful laborer, and did much to strengthen our cause.

The church at Harper, which was destroyed in a cyclone, the evening of May 27, 1892, had a glad and happy Christmas Day. Through the kindly assistance of friends from abroad and the self-denial of their own people they were able to dedicate a neat, new church free of debt. To the present supply of the church, Rev. C. C. Hoffmeister, is largely due the success of this movement. He not only manifested a spirit of true courage and strong faith when all others were disposed "to give up all as lost," but went out among the churches and made such appeals for help that soon he could see his way clear to "go forward." Being a practical architect himself, he wrought out "plans and specifications" and assumed the superintendency of the building, and did his work so well that to day we have as neat and commodious a church building—all complete—for $1,750 as I know of anywhere, saving just $750 to the church.

This building could not be duplicated for less than $2,500 anywhere in all the West.

The Synodical Missionary preached the dedicatory sermon and raised $110 to bring up a few deficits in the way of bills and to insure the building against fire and cyclone.

The congregation gave a Christmas present of about $25 to their pastor as a small token of appreciation for what he had done for them.

A church of 49 members was organized in Oakland, a suburb of Topeka, on Oct. 16 by a committee of Topeka Presbytery. Rev. H. S. Childs takes charge of this and Bethel churches.

Arkansas City has called Rev. D. H. Stewart of El Dorado to become the pastor of that church at a salary of $1,200. He will accept the call and enter upon his work the first of the year. Several points are agitating the question of church organization and necessity will compel us, soon, to move in this direction.

NATIVES OF ALASKA CONTRIBUTORS FOR HOME MISSIONS.

During the visit of the treasurer and other representatives of the Board to Sitka, after the last Assembly, some native women, members for years of the native church at Sitka, brought them a number of baskets, of their own make, as their contribution to Home Missions. The sale of these baskets is now reported by the treasurer as having realized $19, which will be duly credited to the Sitka church.

Nothing can be more significant and touching as an evidence of genuine religion and Christian principle and character, than such a generous and self-denying gift from these sisters in the Lord in far-off Alaska. The native church there is under the pastoral care of Rev. A. E. Austin, and reports 338 communicants. Their Christian character and conduct are favorably spoken of; and this voluntary gift to Home Missions manifests a growth in the grace of giving much beyond that of many of our churches in more favorable surroundings.

Concert of Prayer for Church Work at Home

JANUARY,	The New West.
FEBRUARY,	The Indians.
MARCH,	The Older States.
APRIL,	The Cities.
MAY,	The Mormons.
JUNE,	Our Missionaries.
JULY,	Results of the Year.
AUGUST,	Romanists and Foreigners.
SEPTEMBER,	The Outlook.
OCTOBER,	The Treasury.
NOVEMBER,	The Mexicans.
DECEMBER,	The South.

TWO HEROES OF THE DAKOTA MISSION.

REV. J. R. WILLIAMSON.

[From the Word Carrier.]

During the year 1891 two men, notable in the annals of the Dakota Mission, passed, hoary with the frosts of time, quietly across the narrow stream that separated them from their heavenly home. They were Rev. Samuel W. Pond, who died at Shakopee, Minn., December 12, 1891, and Simon Anawangmani, who died at Sisseton Agency, S. D., July 20, 1891. Mr. Pond was born in 1808 in an enlightened New England home. Anawangmani was probable born the same year, but far away on the banks of the Minnesota in a lowly Indian teepee. Alike in early manhood they gave themselves to Christ, and devotion to him became their strongest passion, and led them ahead of their times to take these first steps in danger which shows the proud heart. Rev. Samuel Pond was the first man to bring the Gospel to the Dakotas, and Simon Anawangmani was the first full Indian man to profess Christ. The Dakota Mission and Dakota Christians should ever remember these brave men in whose footsteps they have trod.

It was in May, 1834, nearly 58 years ago, that Mr. Samuel Pond, with his brother Gideon, appeared at Fort Snelling in the office of Major Taliferro, who was the first and so far the only Agent for the Dakota Indians, and informed him that they had come to teach the Dakotas. He stopped not to confer with flesh and blood, he asked no missionary society for a commission, he stopped to pursue no classical or theological course, but taking with him his younger brother he went—Bible in one hand and an ax in the other, to be the Lord's missionary. He was soon building his log-cabin on the shores of Lake Calhoun, now in the suburbs of Minneapolis.

The language was the first great citadel to be stormed, and with his brother he made it a systematic study. He found no books to help him. Sometime before him a military officer or trader had undertaken to jot down some Dakota words, but between their untrained ears, and the European notations they used, no one could reproduce the words from their writings unless they already knew the language. Mr. Pond discovering this, discarded their notations and struck out for a phonetic representation. A character for every sound, and only one sound to a character was his rule. By one who knew the language, a reduction with this rule might have speedily been made. But with so many strange sounds, grunts and clicks it was slow and delicate work. However before the end of a year he had the satisfaction of teaching one young man so that he could read and write his own language.

It was however some years later before the Dakota alphabet as we now use it was entirely settled, and in the meantime the missionaries T. S. Williamson, S. R. Riggs and others had arrived to take a hand in the superstructure. But Mr. Pond studied out the plan, as I understand, and laid the foundations of the present system of writing the Dakota language, so that it may justly be called the Pond notation. Mr. Pond prepared the first primer printed in the Dakota language and some of the first translation of Scripture.

Mr. Pond's zeal and devotion led him not only to build his cabin in a wild Indian village, but also join with the Indians in their hunts, sharing their teepee, their wild food, their pangs of hunger and the dangers of war. This was an outing for the teacher instead of the pupil, and under many circumstances is more practical for the improvement of the Indians than the so-called Capt. Pratt's outing system.

Mr. Pond labored 18 years among different bands of the Sioux, but principally among the Lake Calhoun and Shakopee bands. Owing to the Treaty of 1851 the Sioux removed in 1852 to the Redwood Reservations, and Mr. Pond then turned his attention to the incoming whites. He gathered the church at Shakopee which he supplied till 1866. He died in the house near Shakopee in which he had lived for 44 years, the lumber for which he hauled on the ice from the St. Croix, and in which the writer, then a boy, lent a helping hand.

It may comfort some of our straitened missionaries now to know that the average salary of a missionary in those days was $300 a year, and this was the most that Mr. Pond ever received. Mr. Pond was ordained by a Congregational Council in his native state March 4, 1837. When the Dakota Presbytery was organized in 1844, he became one of the organic members, and his ministerial connection was thereafter with the Presbyterian Church.

Of the early Dakota converts Simon Anawangmani is in many ways the most prominent character. Old Joseph Renville, the half breed trader and his family became Christians before him, but that made no break in heathenism. Some heathen women too had been converted like good old Catharine, and she was a hero. But Anawangmani was the Indian man converted. He was not the first Indian that learned to read, nor was he a bright scholar when he was taught by Dr. T. S. Williamson at Lac qui Parle. But he did learn to read, and held on to what he learned. There has been a great deal written about Indian bravery. The truth is, Indians like other people are some brave and some cowards. There was no doubt about Anawangmani's bravery. As an Indian warrior in his youth he attained to the distinction of First Brave. That was his first victory. Then at Lac qui Parle after several years of study he accepted the Christian faith, and on February 21, 1841, made public profession of his faith. And then came the battle. Instead of the most honorable place which he had held in his nation, he was now cast out with the dogs. Even the women and children sneered at him. Even his wife deserted him under most vexatious circumstances. But none of these things moved him. He set up his teepee with his own hands, took care of the deserted baby and dug up his garden by turns, and then read the Bible and prayed to God every night. But Simon Anawangmani will be remembered for what he did in another line. Before the massacre of 1862 Anawangmani was living like a white man on a well-fenced farm, in a comfortable house, close to Dr. S. R. Riggs' church, of which he was a ruling elder. August 19, 1862, the news of the terrible butchery of that morning reached his ears. Soon the missionaries and their families were fleeing, for whom he did what he could. The Hostiles were galloping everywhere driving all the Indians into the war-camp. Against the entreaty of his friends he heeded them not. The Hostile camp was now on the edge of his farm. A poor captive white woman, hearing him at evening worship, came secretly and besought him to save her. He believed that was his work. By night he took her and her children safely through the hostile lines and stopped not till he had them over fifty miles away in the Camp at Fort Ridgely. There he entered the service under Gen. Sibley with whom he remained through the Indian war, performing dangerous and valuable service. This was his third victory, and one for which he will live in the memory of the good citizens of Minnesota. He was a lay commissioner to the General Assembly that met in Minneapolis, and those who attended the Missionary Meeting will remember his meek appearance as he was called to the platform to receive the honors of the meeting.

THE LAST OF HER RACE.

Old Jennie, the last representative of the famous Rogue River Indians, now living in this country and quite advanced in years, is making a burial robe, after the custom of the distinguished members of the tribe, in which to be laid away when the summons shall come and she shall pass to the happy hunting-grounds, where the white man is not and fire water is unknown. The groundwork is of fine buckskin and is superbly decorated with the various kinds of money used by the tribe for generations past, and richly ornamented in a pleasing and skillful manner, with jewels, pebbles, beads, and other valuables used and admired by the tribe in the past. The robe, when completed, will weigh fully fifty pounds, and as a relic or reminder of the peculiar customs and practices of a nation of people now practically blotted from existence, is most valuable, and should be preserved. With this commendable purpose in view, Mrs. Rowena Nichols, who has been employed by the World's Fair Committee to paint the Table Rocks, has procured a number of sketches of this interesting subject and will paint a life-size picture of old Jennie, wrapped in her gorgeous cerements, and thus happily preserve a sacred custom about to pass forever into oblivion. Old Jennie was born and raised at the foot of Table Rocks, and during the wars was once captured by the whites, and later rescued by her people. She lives about a mile and a half from Jacksonville, up Jackson Creek, and to hear her tell, in that peculiar and impressive Indian style, the grievous outrages and nameless wrongs perpetrated upon her people, and their consequent annihilation from the face of the earth, would touch the stoutest heart with sympathy, and almost make one wish he could face again the brawny braves who fought and died for this fair heritage, and for which sad fate old Jennie's heart goes out in bitter wails. This painting will be a valuable object lesson as indicating the fast fleeting cycles of time, and the rapid mutations of human customs and usages, and will serve as a most fitting companion piece to the Table Rocks, where Jennie was born and grew up, chiefly on war-whoops and camas, clad only in the free raw material of innocence and a copper complexion, happy in her native simplicity and blissfully ignorant of modern civilization.—Jacksonville Times.

Those days are lost in which we do no good;
those worse than lost in which we do evil.

INDIANS AND THE INDIAN PROBLEM.

REV. JOHN H. AUGHEY.

The total number of Indians in the United States exclusive of Alaska, is	244,704
On reservations or at schools under control of the Indian office, not taxed.	130,234
Indians incidentally under the Indian office and self-supporting, are as follows in the Indian Territory:
Cherokees	25,357
Chickasaws	3,464
Choctaws	9,996
Creeks	9,291
Seminole	2,539
Total Indians	50,657
Colored people of mixed Indian blood living with and members of the above tribes	14,247
The total Indian and Negro population of the five civilized tribes is therefore	64,904
Pueblos of New Mexico	8,278
Six nations and St. Regis of New York	5,104
Eastern Cherokees of N. C.	2,885
Indians, 98 per cent. of whom are not on reservations, taxed and self-sustaining counted in general population	32,567
Apaches at Mt. Vernon Barracks as prisoners	384
Indians in state or territorial prisons	184
Total	114,470
Those on reservations or at school as above	130,234
Total Indians in United States exclusive of Alaska	244,704
Alaskan Indians estimated	37,000
Grand total	281,704
Number of whites on the several reservations in the Indian Territory	107,987
In Cherokee Nation	27,176
In Chickasaw Nation	49,444
In Choctaw Nation	27,990
In Seminole Nation	96
In Creek Nation	3,281

Total whites on the reservations of the five nations—Indian Territory . . . 107,987

The area of country occupied by the Indians is 116,000,000 acres, or 182,250 square miles. By far the greater portion of this vast domain, which is much greater in extent than Great Britain and Ireland, has been lying idle, a bar to the progress of civilization, and no benefit to the Indians. A comparison of figures shows that while the Indian population of the United States not including Alaska is but little more than that of the District of Columbia and less by nearly one-half than that given by the recent census of the city of Baltimore, they occupy an area of country greater than the combined area of the New England and Middle States. In the Chickasaw Nation there is land enough to give every man woman and child 1,200 acres, and yet the most of this magnificent domain is a wilderness. In the Indian Territory nearly all the land that is cultivated has been monopolized by "squaw men" who rent it to tenants. Squaw men are white men who marry Indian women, and thus secure head rights in the nation which carries with it the privilege of claiming all the land they can fence and cultivate. Mr. Murray of Erin Springs has enclosed and cultivated 20,000 acres. His tenants are numbered by the hundred. The fullbloods are pauperized and become more wretched every year. The fullblood is the victim of the unscrupulous trader and the baronial squaw man. His contact with the white man only demoralizes him as it is with the very worst class that he comes in contact. He is in a pitiable condition whose only remedy is through allotment. Were he to hold his share of the domain in fee simple, his enfranchisement would be complete.

The enactment of a law to vest in the individual, and not in the tribe, the title to the land in the reservations is resisted by the squaw-men with great bitterness. The United States Government is moving in this matter, and allotment and Statehood will come, and that right speedily. The Government has the right of eminent domain, which is paramount to any rights granted by treaty, and should the rights of any be infringed, it is the duty of the Government to interfere in behalf of the oppressed. When the Aborigines procured a livelihood by hunting and fishing, tribal proprietorship or a community of interest in the reservations wrought no harm. Now the buffalo and deer and bear are practically extinct. While this large game abounded, the Indian knew no want. He delighted in the chase, and by this attractive pursuit he could supply his squaws and papooses with food, and with comfortable tepees whose coverings of skins and beds of skins skillfully tanned and dressed afforded a far more comfortable home than the shack or dugout or hut of the pioneer white man. Now the game has disappeared from the forest and the Indian occupation is gone. He must adopt the manners and customs of civilized life. He must fence and cultivate the land as does his white brother or he is doomed to extinction. The full blood, with savage instinct, tenaciously clings to his Aboriginal mode of life. He will not work as does the white man. He will perish by preference. Land is of no value to him, much less a superabundance of it when it is destitute of game.

What is the solution of the problem? Must the Indian perish? Must the present method of dealing with him prevail till the red man disappears like the buffalo from his native forest? There is no necessity for this. A course should be adopted which the squaw-men and Indian traders will most strenuously oppose. Let the land be allotted and each Indian hold his allotment in fee simple and inalienable for 30 years. Let the surplus land be sold for the benefit of the Indians, and held in trust by the Government for the benefit of these wards of the Nation. Let industrial and training schools be established in the midst of the Indian populations where their children can be taught the sciences and arts of civilized life—taught industrious habits and moral and religious principles. Let this be done and the next generation will prove the wisdom and humanity of this course. The full blood will be no longer the red savage that he is, defrauded by the unprincipled squaw-man and trader, and oppressed beyond measure by the magnates—the officers of his own tribe, who for the major part are only Indians by remote affinity. The United States can at once relieve the fullblood of his disabilities and oppression through right of eminent domain. Power is vested in the President of the United States by act of Congress to make allotments of lands to Indians. This is the act: "The President may in his discretion have any Indian reservation surveyed or resurveyed, and the lands of such reservation allotted in severalty to any Indians located thereon. The size of the allotments shall be to each head of a family one quarter section (160 acres) of land; to each single person over 18 years of age, and to each orphan under 18 years of age one-eighth of a section." After lands have been allotted to all Indians of a tribe, or sooner if the President thinks best, the Secretary of the Interior may negotiate with that tribe for the sale of any of their unallotted lands, such negotiation to be ratified by Congress. At the breaking out of the rebellion the five civilized tribes (so called) espoused the cause of secession and thus forfeited their treaty rights. These were restored after the war with certain modifications. Some years ago the five nations scarcely regarded themselves as integral parts of the United States, and were very jealous of tribal autonomy. The missionaries sent by our Church were classed among foreign missionaries. This anomalous condition should terminate. Our Church is doing a noble work among the five nations, a description of which I will give in the near future. Its wide reaching influence and permanent results cannot be exaggerated.

Letters.

INDIAN TERRITORY.

REV. W. L. MILLER, Segeeyah.—I held a protracted meeting at Lenapah, which promised much, and I rejoice in the clear conversion of several. At this place I hope to be able to organize a church. I did not receive any into the church, as I thought it best to wait until I could see more clearly whether there was reasonable prospect of permanency.

At Talalah people are engaged in building a school house. I have been preaching in the hotel. The hotel changed hands, and I had to suspend my labors there until the school house is completed.

At Oologah there is a subscription circulated for building a church house (Presbyterian). We have several members here ready to form a church.

At Sageeyah the congregations are better than at any other point. I started a Sabbath-School at Lenapah, which has done well. I fear, however, that the school will have to be suspended during the cold months.

The Sabbath-School and Christian Endeavor Societies at Segeeyah are doing good work.

Society in my wide field is in a chaotic state. Thousands of white men have come in with their families and leased lands from the Cherokees for from five to twenty years. These leases are contrary to the Cherokee law, but the Muskogee U. S. court has decided that the Cherokee Nation has allowed the leases so long that they will require the Cherokee citizen to indemnify the "lessee," before they will put the "lessor" in possession. This has been accepted pro tempore by the Cherokees, and thousands of acres of land have been leased by white men, and fenced and sown in wheat.

But there is a sense of insecurity; if Congress assents to the demands of the Cherokee Nation that Cherokee courts shall have exclusive right to decide who are "intruders," the white men who have opened farms will lose all they have invested in improvements. I regret to say that while few of the Cherokees will work themselves, they think all they can make out of a white man legitimate. The great mass of the people are ignorant. They are under the control of corrupt leaders.

This sense of insecurity gives a feeling of desperation to many white men who leased, being advised by Cherokees that they would be secure.

At the close of the war the United States compelled the Cherokees to adopt as citizens their former slaves, and are now forcing the Cherokees to give these equal rights in the land and invested money. The Cherokees say this is oppression. The United States did not deal thus with the white rebels of the South; the slaves of white men were made citizens, but no confiscation of land or money for their benefit was inflicted.

Then there is a large class of lawless men like the "Daltons," who infest the territory. The night of the day on which the "Daltons" made their raid on the Coffeyville bank, my son was knocked down at his own gate and left for dead. He was robbed and no trace of the robbers was left.

Wheat is the main reliance of the people in my field. The price has been so low that the farmers are greatly crippled.

I have given you the dark side of the picture; there is a bright side. First, this state of chaos cannot last long. The white man is in this country, and he is here to stay. Soon the entire country will be settled and the Cherokees will not make one-twentieth of the population. Here and there are excellent Christian families. Their influence will prevail, and churches and schools will flourish.

I am the only Presbyterian minister in all the region north of the Frisco railway, from Osage Nation to near Vinita, a region 50x50 miles, and the best part of the Cherokee Nation.

We must hold on to all we have here and gather in others as they come. With God's blessing this region will yet be dotted with Presbyterian churches.

KANSAS.

REV. H. C. BRADBURY, Lincoln:—My people are full of enthusiasm. They keep up their Sabbath-school well, and we are paying for our parsonage very nicely. We bought eight more lots this week for $50. They are next to the church and parsonage, and are in the center of the town. We want them for a park and wagon sheds.

At LUCAS we have bought four lots in the very center of the town.

At SHILOH they have a very fine Sabbath-school of sixty, with the Westminster lesson leaves. I have preached there once a month lately, and also at FAIRVIEW, where they have a very small Sabbath-school. Elder Lott helps me some at these stations.

HARMONY CHURCH is formed of three stations—Harmony, Paris, and Surprise, with three good Sabbath-schools and one Christian Endeavor Society. They are very good to support the minister, though they are poor.

BARNARD and MILO go together. Five lately joined the church, who had been members before but needed repairs. Milo wants some place in town where to hold meetings. We are circulating a subscription and I think they will make it with some outside help. Spiritualists and all take an interest in it. We have a grand man there to run the Sabbath-school.

Bro. Arthur, of Lincoln, this summer took Pleasant Valley off my hands. Spring Valley is made up like Pleasant Valley of foreigners mixed with Americans. They come out very well.

BASHAN Church has had poor feed, no Sabbath-school lately, and little preaching. I'll go and try to stir them up.

Bro. May, our Sabbath-school missionary is a great help to me on my big field.

REV. J. A. OGLEVEE, Caldwell:—There are many people here who are waiting for the opening of the CHEROKEE STRIP. Many of them are very poor. They live some in covered wagons, some in tents, some over barns. A boy of one family was just in to say that he had a new baby brother this morning. How they can keep the little one alive is a mystery.

Ask these people to come to church and their reply is: "We are not fit to come." The "fit" has reference to their clothing. If they have "Sunday clothes" they are stored away in boxes in the bottom of the wagon.

The "boomers" are not all poor, however. Many of them can rent our best houses, or board at our hotels. They have money and expect to add to their wealth by the opening of the new country.

It is almost impossible to reach these people till they become settled. It is a serious problem to me what can be done for these people. There is a Presbyterian Church at Anthony—25 miles west. There is one at Arkansas City, 35 miles east—with no pastor. Dividing the distance it leaves 30 miles of frontier for me to look after. And that means 25,000 or 30,000 people—or it may be twice that number. The clans are already gathered. The Strip will most likely open in the Spring. We ought to be ready to go in with the people. Other denominations are preparing. The new cities in the northern half of the Strip will naturally look to Kansas for ministerial help. Caldwell is on the border of the cream of the new land. Being in the very midst of boomerdom, therefore, I am naturally interested.

The soldiers have just burned the grass off the Strip, making it look like a great black desert. They resorted to this as a final means of getting the cattle off. There is scarcely a living thing on it now. Even the prairie chickens have come up into Kansas, thus furnishing meat for your home missionary, who has a gun.

UTAH.

REV. THEODORE LEE, Spanish Fork:—One Sabbath a full Sabbath-school and a well attended church service make us feel that things are indeed changing; without any apparent cause the next Sabbath may find us with diminished school and almost empty pews. Last Sabbath we had about as many Sabbath-school scholars as we could take care of. In the evening a young man who has recently given his heart to Jesus, led the Christian Endeavor meeting for the first time, and he did well. He is the only Christian young man of my knowledge in this wicked city of three thousand souls. He was surrounded by those who knew his past life and have been witnesses of the change. A year ago he was about to enter a saloon as barkeeper; this week he entered Hungerford Academy as a Christian student.

The work in Spanish Fork seems more encouraging than at any time since my acquaintance with the field, and I have preached here nearly every Sabbath for nearly five years. Ten persons are ready to unite in the organization of a church as soon as the way is open.

Things are changing in Utah. The old members of the Mormon Church who have held away so long are losing their grip. The young men who are growing up will not bear their rule much longer. The division on party lines has come to stay. I doubt whether the leaders saw the end when they allowed the division, but the prospect is that it will cleave the Mormon Church. No such campaign was ever before witnessed in Utah. The political pot has boiled and boiled. It has been a blessing to Utah. In Spanish Fork, I notice that most of the "old timers" belong to one party while the other is made up of young men, young men of enterprise who will not bear the yoke much longer. May God hasten the day.

MINNESOTA.

REV. J. H. MEYER, Scandinavian work, Minneapolis:—We have organized a church of twelve members, which now belongs to the Minneapolis Presbytery, and has called its own pastor. A mission has also been begun in the N. E. part of Minneapolis, which is now under the care of this church. The Sabbath-school scholars in the Church and mission number together about fifty-eight. So the work in Minneapolis looks very bright.

In St. Paul we also have been trying to work up a mission, but as yet we have not the man or the means. The Norwegian and Danish population in the Twin Cities number at the very least fifty thousand, and surely we must have a part in that work.

In Duluth we have at last been successful in organizing a Norwegian—Danish Church, which looks forward with a great deal of hope to a prosperous work in that rapidly growing city. We have placed an earnest missionary in that field. Many other places could also be opened had we the time and money. Earnest appeals come to us to help with missions.

I have also published and edited our little paper, the Free Church Messenger (Frikirkens Budbærer), which has met with a great deal of approval and sympathy, in spite of obstacles, and in our judgment is doing the work of six missionaries.

We feel thankful to God for the growth of a work which began in Norway about fifteen years ago with a little company of fourteen persons, and to-day numbers twenty-three thousand members, about twenty-five mission houses and some thirty preachers of the Gospel. Surely we ought to have a place in the work of this country where so large a portion of our people come. We hope therefore to have the help and sympathy of our stronger brethren, the American Presbyterian Church, which is the same in polity as our beloved Norwegian Free Church.

NEW MEXICO.

REV. HUGH J. FURNEAUX, La Plata.—The attendance, particularly of the Mormon portion of the community, has been very encouraging at Fruitland, but at the other stations not so full as during last quarter. The ranchmen and their families have been busy gathering fruit and hauling it to market in Durango, a distance of thirty-five to fifty-five miles. Then the grain crops had to be harvested and hauled to market. Sunday and Monday, day and night, wagons have been traveling over the three roads that lead to Durango.

Now that the people are beginning to rest from their labors, I expect the interest to revive in regard to public services. I am now preparing for a special effort to bring souls to Christ, and to organize two churches in La Plata and Fruitland. There are over forty families in La Plata portion of field, and about twenty-five in Lower San Juan. No church organization at either place except a "stake" of Latter Day Saints at Fruitland. I have left the parsonage, which is seventeen miles from this part of La Plata, and am living in a "dug out." Yesterday I dug a hole in the wall, then went outside and sunk a shaft until I struck the hole, and the combination gave me a fire-place and chimney. To-day I filled up holes in the roof with bark of the cedar tree, and to-night I am toasting my shins at a cedar wood fire, and writing.

I have systematically given away a number of Bibles and Testaments to young people, also a large quantity of back numbers of our Sabbath-school papers, also a number of Westminster Paper Series. I must have my stock renewed, as during the winter months the young people will have time to read.

Towards my support, since May, I have received five dollars from the people, a fifty pound sack of beans, and the promise of twenty-five pounds of potatoes, but I hope to do better than that before the end of December.

MANTI AND EPHRAIM, UTAH.

REV. GEO. W. MARTIN:—A bright girl of sixteen, of Norwegian parentage, who has grown up in our school, recently made a good confession of faith, her conversion having taken place some months ago. She has entered the Salt Lake Collegiate Institute, working in Superintendent Caskey's home, to pay her way. At Manti six adults have been received into church membership; four of them on confession. Two of these have been in our school. Another of our members, a young man, has gone East and entered school for a course at Oxford, Pa.

The Manti day school had a good program on Columbus Day, at the same time dedicating a beautiful school flag, 10x18 feet in size; the pupils had raised $25 00 toward the enterprise; the pole and all costing $40 00. In the afternoon our school joined in the citizens' patriotic meeting at the Mormon Tabernacle,

Mrs. Martin and I, attended the Mills meetings nearly a week at Salt Lake City, a privilege long to be remembered; pentecostal preaching. In the after-meetings I met two men with whom I had had conversation on the great subject, year ago, in distant settlements. One was now an active Christian, and a soldier at Fort Douglas; the other took a stand for the Christian life in the meetings.

RESCUED FROM POLYGAMY.

In our field one woman was recently received; reared a Lutheran, for years a Mormon, the third or fourth wife of an elder, but latterly an apostate, and "divorced," taking her maiden name, though having grown children; she became interested two years ago, but did not settle the question then. "Nothing is too hard for Thee, O Jehovah!"

The political canvass opened between the Democrats and Republicans early in Summer, much after the manner in other parts of the United States. But ere long, tiring of national issues, the leaders made strong efforts to win voters on lines of prejudice, arguing that Mormons should vote so and so because the prophet, Jos. Smith, was so and so. And the fun of it was, that both parties were right; both had had him! Then the canvass was a scramble, amusing to an American, but finally disgustingly painful. Utah is not ready for statehood.

REV. JOHN MCCOY, stated clerk of Aberdeen Presbytery and late missionary at Ellendale, N. D., on leaving this field for another, writes in a very pleasant way as follows:

In leaving the service of the Board, under which all my ministerial work has been done, I wish to express my grateful appreciation of the many favors shown and the unvarying kindness accorded me. I haven't done much for the Board, but I have acquired a large stock of home mission enthusiasm to take to my new field of labor, where I trust to be able to serve our Home Board better than on the home field.

HOME MISSION APPOINTMENTS FOR DECEMBER, 1892.

J. W. Flagg, South Framingham,	Mass.	J. S. Cronas, Medora,	Iowa.
Thos. A. Reeves, Woonsocket,	R. I.	A. G. Martin, Pastor at Large,	"
S. Dodd, Stephentown,	N. Y.	D. W. Rosenkrans, Blackbird, Scottville and Apple Creek,	Neb.
A. Dracas, Corinth,	"	R. H. Fulton, Gordon and Clinton,	Iowa.
D. N. Grummon, Ross Memorial,	"	L. McIntyre, Morrison,	"
C. C. Cook, Hillsdale,	"	N. McLeod, Dows,	"
O. C. Barnes, Huevelton,	"	H. Hostetler, Sioux City, 2d,	"
G. Le Fevre, Ancram Lead Mines,	"	D. W. Cassat, Vail,	"
P. A. Schwarz, Melville,	"	W. Semple, Union Township,	Neb.
S. R. Warrender, Otego,	"	J. W. Knott, Holdredge,	"
H. A. Hall, Helena,	"	W. M. Porter, Nelson,	"
T. S. Day, Camillus,	"	R. N. Powers, Superior,	"
G. Gozzelino, Bagor, Audenried Italians,	Pa.	E. L. Dodder, Ashton and Cozad,	"
A. B. Lowes, Presbyterian Missionary,	W. Va.	J. W. Robb, Gandy,	"
T. C. Potter, Crescent City,	Fla.	J. Warner, St. Edward,	"
J. K. Wight, Green Cove Springs,	"	B. F. Sharp, Gresham,	"
S. O. Faris, Starke,	"	C. S. Vincent, Auburn,	"
G. S. Rice, Sorrento and Seneca,	Tenn.	S. T. Davis, Omaha, Clifton Hill,	Mo.
N. Bachman, Synodical Evangelist,	"	E. D. Walker, Synodical Missionary,	"
J. P. McMillan, Park Place of Chattanooga,	"	J. Kirkwood, Grant City and Knox,	"
C. F. Brause, Ft. Cheatham of Chattanooga,	"	T. J. May, Pastor at Large,	"
W. A. Ervin, Kismet and Wartburg,	"	W. H. Hyatt, Kansas City, 2d,	"
R. B. Irwin, Grassy Cove and Piney Falls,	"	G. H. Duty, South Joplin and Lone Elm,	"
D. McDonald, Synodical Missionary,	Ky.	E. A. Hamilton, Springfield, 2d,	"
I. N. Erwin, Dayton,	"	J. T. Houston, La Clede and Centre,	"
H. M. Walker, Marselles,	Ohio.	F. Lonsdale, St. Joseph, 3d Street,	"
A. Schafer, Leipsic,	"	J. Wilson, Pastor at Large,	"
O. W. Wallace, Pres. Missionary,	"	W. J. Lee, D.D., St. Louis, McCausland Ave.,	"
A. N. Smith, Brink Haven,	"	E. P. Keach, Windsor Harbor, Kinswick and Station,	"
E. L. Anderson, Chicago,	"	A. M. Flory, Cottonwood Falls,	Kan.
C. K. Smoyer, Ph. D., Elmore and Genoa,	"	W. Coleman, Deepwater and Browningtown,	"
G. E. Wilson, Clyde,	"	D. Kingery, Galva and Canton,	"
H. B. Douglass, Golconda,	Ill.	D. M. Moore, Valley Township,	"
G. B. Blake, Earlville,	"	J. W. Van Eman, Ellinwood and Geneseo,	"
H. Hanson, Oquawka,	"	H. B. Johnson, Emerson and Macksville,	"
J. Swindt, Milan,	Mich.	J. L. Amlong, Roxbury and Marquette,	"
T. D. Bartholomew, Corunna,	"	A. Glendenning, Dows and Rose Valley,	O. T.
T. A. Scott, Port Huron,	"	S. P. Meyers, Norman,	Tex.
A. D. Grigsby, Hastings,	"	A. K. Baird, Wichita Falls,	Ariz.
J. P. Mills, Gladstone,	"	R. Colman, Flagstaff,	"
R. L. Williams, Au Sable and Oscoda,	"	C. R. Nugent, Tombstone,	N. M.
E. F. Smith, Black River, Caledonia and Alcona,	"	H. M. Shields, Las Cruces,	Col.
G. W. Borden, Gladwin and Beavertown,	"	W. W. Dowd, La Junta,	"
B. Hunter, Taymouth,	"	A. Covert, Eastonville and Peyton,	"
J. W. Winder, Galeville,	Wis.	W. Keiry, Valley View,	"
W. J. Turner, Horicon, Mayville and stations,	"	W. Mayo, Rocky Ford,	"
W. J. Mitter, Crandon,	"	H. M. Goodell, Del Norte,	"
C. Eckhof, Alto, German,	"	C. Burgess, Walsenburg,	"
S. Riderus, Cato,	"	F. G. Webster, American Fork,	Utah.
S. E. Very, Stiles and Little River,	"	F. L. Arnold, Westminster of Salt Lake City,	"
C. A. Adams, Packwaukee and Buffalo,	"	P. Bohback, Hyrum,	"
J. Bren, Racine, Bohemian,	"	W. R. Campbell, Mendon and Wellsville,	"
J. Blauw, Duluth, Norwegian,	"	F. W. Blohm, Pleasant Grove and Scandinavian work in Utah,	"
W. H. Ware, Brainard,	Minn.	G. Edwards, Armells and Lewiston,	Mont.
T. A. Ambler, Two Harbors,	"	B. Parsons, D.D., Centralia,	Wash.
C. Slack, St. James,	"	J. N. Roberts, Butte Mission,	Mont.
D. P. Grosscup, Beaver Creek and Rushmore,	"	A. McLain, Ridgefield and Woodland,	Wash.
A. W. Benson, Minneapolis, Bethany,	"	J. McMillan, White River,	"
L. Wideman, Minneapolis, Scandinavian,	"	C. M. Calvin, Enumclaw,	"
D. E. Evans, Minneapolis, House of Faith,	"	C. C. McCarty, Spring Lake Valley, Deming and Stations,	"
L. F. Paulsen, Minneapolis, Norwegian,	"	W. McNair, Kent,	Idaho.
J. H. Meyer, Scandinavian,	"	I. Wheels, Bonner's Ferry,	"
J. Godward, Ashley, Evansville and Elbow Lake,	"	J. A. McArthur, Davenport, Minnie Falls and Egypt,	Wash.
A. H. Holloway, Scotland and Sabin,	"	B. L. Aldrich, Wilkeson,	Idaho.
G. Johnson, Western,	"	D. D. Allen, Kendrick,	Oreg.
M. R. Myers, Royalton and stations,	"	W. P. Miller, Portland, Westminster,	"
J. B. Freeman, St. Paul, Arlington Hills,	"	I. V. Milligan, St. John's of Portland,	"
W. A. Hutchison, St. Paul, Westminster,	"	F. G. Strange, Ashland,	"
J. D. Todd, Oronoco and Chester,	"	H. A. Mosser, Bandon, Port Oxford, Parkersburg and Pershtaker,	"
W. T. Gibson, Milnor and station,	N. D.	G. A. Holzinger, Myrtle Point, Flabtrap and Coquille City,	"
C. D. McDonald, Grafton,	"	R. Ennis, Jacksonville and Phoenix,	"
S. Andrews, Hunter and Blanchard,	"	W. Gay, Mehama (Niagara),	"
W. C. Whisnand, Colgate and station,	"	G. Gillespie, Dallas,	Cal.
R. J. Creswell, Inkster, Elkmont and Conway,	"	A. Fitzpatrick, Little River,	"
Thos. Wylie, Minot and station,	"	I. M. Crawford, Ojal of Nordhoff,	"
J. Mordy, Hoople, Crystal and Canton,	"	D. M. Stuart, National City,	"
A. Armstrong, Gilby and station,	S. D.	J. B. Stewart, Santa Monica,	"
Z. F. Blakely, Beulah and Howell,	"	H. Hill, Anaheim,	"
E. L. Dresser, Flandreau and House of Hope,	"	D. S. Banks, Santa Cruz,	"
W. J. Hill, Rose Hill and Hitchcock,	"	M. C. Hayes, Shandon, Eagles, Parkfield, Imusdale and Melville,	"
F. W. Stump, Forestburg and Artesian,	"	R. Ballagh, Traver,	"
W. O. Rogers, Wood Lake,	"	J. L. Woods, Sanger,	"
G. A. White, Hurley,	"	J. F. Drake, Gen'l German Missionary for the West,	Wis.
J. B. McBride, Wheatland,	Iowa.	R. H. Hughes, Columbus,	"
S. H. Noel, Hazleton & Oelwein,	"
J. M. Wiggins, Humeston and Derby,	"

COLLEGES AND ACADEMIES.

DANIEL BAKER COLLEGE.

PROF. CHARLES S. NEWHALL.

Daniel Baker College began in September, 1890, with an enrollment of one hundred and eleven students. The second year it had two hundred and twenty-one. The third year promises an equal increase.

It is located in Brownwood, nearly at the geographical centre of great Texas.

Daniel Baker was a Presbyterian Home Missionary pioneer in Texas, who did a noble work, was widely known, and died at his post. Because the college was to be a Presbyterian institution to send into the home and foreign fields workers like him, his name was given to it.

The length of Texas is greater than the distance from New York to Chicago; its width, greater than the distance from New York to Richmond, Va. Within these bounds Daniel Baker is the only college of our Church.

The work of the college is broadly planned. There are fourteen resident professors. The college proper has three courses, Classical, Scientific and English. There are commercial, normal, art, music, primary training, and kindergarten training departments.

Eighteen years ago the Rev. B. T. McClelland came to Brownwood as a missionary of the Board. The town contained two hundred and fifty people; now it has four thousand. From the first Mr. Mc-Clelland planned and wrought for the founding of a christian college. Now the work is accomplished.

That work is accomplished, but the college is not endowed. It is established, and is doing a large and good work, but more is needed. It is one of those colleges which Secretary Ganse loved, and of which Secretary Ray spoke in his address before the last General Assembly. It is strong in its numbers, in its faculty, in its plan of work, in the scholarship and christian character of its students, in its local friends and helpers. It would be capable of vastly wider and more effectual work if its libraries and cabinets could be enlarged, the number of its scholarships increased, and its professorships endowed.

FEBRUARY SMALL FRUITS.

Different varieties of the Tree of Life, whose, "leaves are for the healing of the nations," grow in different parts of the Lord's garden on earth, coming nearer paradisaical perfection in some soils than in others. The Presbyterian variety commonly approximates the inspired description of the typical Tree: "Which bore twelve manner of fruits and yielded her fruit every month." Some crop statistics of gatherings from our Tree last year have interest.

The November yield, which feeds and clothes our noble home missionaries, was largest of the twelve; January coming next with its bread-of-life-fruit for the heathen world; mid-Summer July following with provision for erecting churches; and February, whose fruits help to feed our self-denying, able, faithful, school and college teachers, coming fourth. This evidences our Church's deep interest and strong belief in the founding and maintaining of educational institutions to supply future ministers, missionaries and influential lay-workers, and especially to control, mould, and use new communities and states rising in the West and South.

That is what the statistical tables of the General Assembly Minutes show. But that means what has gone into our schools and colleges both East and West; into Princeton and the like, as well as into Salt Lake City and the like, and far more into the former than into the latter class. The report of the Committee of Systematic Benificence shows what has gone into the treasury of the College Board, into the missionary department of our higher educational work, into effort to win and hold the developing West and South. From that report it appears that most of the Church's higher educational contributions went East, not West; that the Board of Aid for Colleges and Academies was not fourth in receipts, but seventh; that the February fruits of this branch of our Tree of Life were next to the smallest of them all.

Several things explain this smallness of the Church's gifts where its evident interest and faith are so large. This branch was the last grafted in, of only nine years growth in the sound old stock, not yet getting its full share of the richness of the parent trunk. Year by year the Assembly asks the Church to give this Board six per centum of its total beneficence; and year by year the Church gives it three per centum. This branch is growing stronger, but not fast enough; we dare not lag in "sowing seed-corn of the bread of life," in planting schools and colleges. Then the forcing of the January yield, which is for the dying nations and should be twice as large as it is, naturally exhausts the forces of the Tree, and the February fruits are consequently smaller. As February is the smallest month, it may be that some givers approximate their beneficence to its shortness. But, after all, it is plain that the chief and sufficient cause for the smallness of the February fruit is the neglect of pastors and sessions to shake the Tree in February; the College Board is eighth, last of all the boards, in the number of church offerings made for its treasury.

Dear Brother: You are educated. Then how can you neglect this cause? Will you not see that your church omits it no more? This young Board gets less in legacies than others; its friends are still living; and it needs more of them and larger help from those it has won. It cannot spare from its list of friends one minister who has been aided to get his education by endowments of school, college, and seminary; or one elder or church-member who is educated or who hopes for education for his children.

APPROPRIATIONS.

The Board of Aid for Colleges and Academies has voted the following appropriations from its General Fund for the current expenses of institutions during this school year. Italicised names of synods and presbyteries indicate that the institutions have no money appropriation, but have the privilege of soliciting and receiving the College Board offerings of churches in the regions designated. The German Theological Seminary at Dubuque has the privilege of such solicitation in all German churches. Some colleges, which do only academic work, are aided as if they were academies.

COLLEGES, 23.
Albany College, Albany, Oregon,	$1,300
Alma College, Alma, Michigan,	Michigan
Albert Lea College for Women, Albert Lea, Minnesota,	500
Bellevue College, Bellevue, Nebraska,	1,100
Buena Vista College, Storm Lake, Iowa, Fort Dodge, Sioux City.
Coates College for Women, Terre Haute, Indiana,	1,000
College of Emporia, Emporia, Kansas,	800
College of Idaho, Caldwell, Idaho,	500
College of Montana, Deer Lodge, Montana,	1,800
Daniel Baker College, Brownwood, Texas,	1,000
Gale College, Galesville, Wisconsin,	500
German Theological Seminary, Dubuque, Iowa,	850
Greenville and Tusculum College, Tusculum, Tennessee,	500

Hastings College, Hastings, Nebraska,	1,400
Jamestown College, Jamestown, North Dakota,	1,000
Lenox College, Hopkinton, Iowa,	Dubuque
Occidental College, Los Angeles, California,	1,000
Oswego College for Women, Oswego, Kansas,	800
Pierre University, Pierre, South Dakota,	1,200
Presbyterian College of the Southwest, Del Norte, Colorado,	1,200
Washington College, Washington College, Tennessee,	500
Whitworth College, Sumner, Washington,	1,000

ACADEMIES, 18.

Brookfield College, Brookfield, Missouri,	750
Butler Academy, Butler, Missouri,	350
Carthage Collegiate Institute, Carthage, Missouri,	600
Corning Academy, Corning, Iowa,	900
Geneseo Collegiate Institute, Geneseo, Illinois,	750
Glen Rose Collegiate Institute, Glen Rose, Texas,	800
Grassy Cove Academy, Grassy Cove, Tennessee,	300
Huntsville Academy, Huntsville, Tennessee,	350
Lewis Academy, Wichita, Kansas,	1,300
Longmont Academy, Longmont, Colorado,	800
New Market Academy, New Market, Tennessee,	350
Pendleton Academy, Pendleton, Oregon,	500
Poynette Academy, Poynette, Wisconsin,	600
Princeton Collegiate Institute, Princeton, Kentucky,	500
Salida Academy, Salida, Colorado,	500
Salt Lake Collegiate Institute, Salt Lake City, Utah,	1,100
Scotland Academy, Scotland, South Dakota,	800
Union Academy, Anna, Illinois,	700
Total,	$30,000

Miscellany.

THE AINU OF NORTHERN JAPAN.

The popular work by Miss Bird, known as "Unbeaten Tracks in Japan," has given to the world the impression that the Ainu are without religion of any kind. The author's impression in this respect is like that which travelers in unknown countries have often received upon very superficial acquaintance. The difficulty has been that their assertions were taken up by anthropologists and put forth with the conclusiveness of scientific facts. Rev. Mr. Bachellor, agent of the Church Missionary Society, has done something more than make a hasty trip through the Island of Yesso. He has spent fourteen years of missionary labor among the Ainu, and it is one great merit of his book, sufficient to pay the cost over and over, that he has given to the world a clear and satisfactory account of a very distinct and rather elaborate religious system as existing among these people. They believe in one supreme God, who created the world, including a great number of minor deities. These are assigned to departments, as gods of the Woods, gods of the Sea, gods of Agriculture, etc., etc. It is to these that devotions are paid on the ground of a sort of official etiquette: that is to say, it would be discourteous to appeal to any other deity than the one belonging to the particular sphere. It would also be discourteous to appeal to the Supreme Being himself, inasmuch as he is supposed to have farmed out the particular sphere in which the appeal lies, to competent subordinates, who are to be respected as such. On this rather ingenious theory polytheism has become widespread. One of the deities to whom the universe is practically entrusted, is a sort of revealer and intercessor between the Supreme Creator and mankind. There is a belief in immortality, or at least in future existence in a disembodied form, and the fear of ghosts is one of the dominating superstitions of the country. The Aynu are an unusually religious people. Their regard for the supreme control of Providence is such that they dare not interfere with the providential ordering of the world in even common, every day matters. For example, it would be an offense to fertilize a piece of land with a view of making it produce more than the natural amount which Providence has assigned to it. If it becomes too barren to repay planting, it is to be exchanged for a spot more fertile. The Aynu asks a blessing always upon his meal, and there seems to be an almost constant reference to supernatural powers as controlling the affairs of life. The book is full of interest and instruction.

BAPTISM OF A PERSIAN MOLLAH.

REV. LEWIS F. ESSELSTYN, TEHERAN.

About three or four years ago I made the acquaintance of a Persian Mollah called Mirza Z. I cannot remember the first time I met him, nor under what circumstances, but I remember distinctly, that in the Summer and Autumn of 1889, an acquaintance had sprung up between us, and he often came to our house and attended church, more or less, regularly. He generally came Bible in hand, and often with a long list of written questions or references to form the subject of our conversation and Bible reading. This acquaintance continued, and he has been a frequent visitor at our house, and at one of the other missionary homes, except during intervals when he has gone to his native city of Koshawn,

His inquiries about Christianity have always been keen and impartial, and he seems to have read the Bible thoroughly.

About a year ago he told me he was convinced of the truth of Christianity, and was ready to renounce Islam and become a Christian. At the same time, he asked to be baptized. I advised him not to take the stand for Christ at once, but to wait awhile before being baptized. Soon after that he went to his native city of Koshawn to spend the winter, and says, he at once told his father, who is a chief doctor of the law, all the change his views had undergone, and urged him also to accept Jesus Christ as the Son of God and Saviour of sinners. The father merely called him a blasphemer and treated him as if he were demented.

This summer he returned to Teheran and came up to see us at the summer place. He again asked and urged that he be baptized. So one evening, in the latter part of July, we called together two of the elders of the church—the native Armenian preacher, and two or three other friends, and subjected him to a thorough examination, after which every person present was heartily in favor of his being baptized. After Scripture reading and prayer, as he knelt on the carpet in the centre of the circle of friends, his turban was removed, and the ordinance of baptism administered, he receiving the name of Yahyan, which is John.

It was a quiet, pleasant, and solemn occasion, and we all separated for the night, feeling that it had been good for us to be there. God had given us another visible token to encourage us to work on and expect results.

REPRESSING THE LIQUOR TRAFFIC IN CHILI.

REV. J. C. WILSON.

SANTIAGO, CHILI.—A bill for the restriction of the liquor traffic has been passed by the Chilean Congress. This bill divides the Department of the Republic for purposes of license, into five classes. In each class three grades of license will obtain. Departments of the first-class include such places as Santiago, Valparaiso, and Tarapasa. In these places saloons, restaurants, etc., desiring to sell liquor to be drunk on the premises, must pay a license of $1200.00, first grade; $800.00, second grade; and $400.00, third grade. In departments of the fifth division, the lowest license is to be $75.00. The law is to take effect immediately after its publication in the official gazette.

That this is a grand step in advance for Chili, will be seen from several points of view.

First, it is a new thing in the history of the Republic to attempt to restrict the traffic. It makes an era of reform.

Second, the difference between these sums and the amount charged for license formerly speaks for the value of the new law. Hitherto, almost any place could open and sell liquor for the small sum of $5.00.

Third, the bill has become a law in spite of much opposition. The Roman Catholic clergy, so far from giving the measure their hearty moral support, are among the best patrons the liquor producer has. The Dominicans, indeed, are said to produce the best wine in Chili. This contrast with the attitude of evangelical clergy in the United States speaks volumes. President Mont, from whom the measure originated, deserves great praise for his noble effort to redeem Chili from its great curse. A mob of the lower classes, on Sunday before the passage of the bill, assembled on the main avenue in Santiago, went to the President's house, the Moneda, and called for him to appear. He wisely declined to do so and was obliged to disperse the mob with police.

The bill is not all that could be desired. It does not touch places that sell liquor by the bottle, not to be drunk on the premises. A man with money can get all he wants to drink at home. But many "despatchos" will be closed, some drunkenness stopped, some children saved, and some revenue, (the price of blood) brought in to support the Government.

PLEASANT LETTERS.

[We take the liberty of sharing with our readers the very great and very pure pleasure which the following letters give us. The first was written west of the Mississippi; the second east of the Hudson.]

It is near the end of another year—I enclose draft $5 as usual for you to use in sending the Magazine to some needy, worthy ones. I was pleased yesterday when I handed D. the money he was to have to buy Christmas presents with, and he turned to his mother of his own free will and handed a tenth of the amount, saying: "That is the tithe." I did not expect him to do that; it simply shows the force of habit established in a boy twelve years old. We have tried to teach our children that a tenth belongs to the Lord, and that we are not giving anything unless we give more than the tenth. Each child regularly gives more than the tenth from their weekly earnings.

Enclosed check for ten dollars; please send one copy of CHURCH AT HOME AND ABROAD to Mrs. ——. The remaining copies send to whom you think best. I have hitherto had the reading of my sister's copy; now that she has entered into "the rest that remaineth," I shall take a copy. Mrs. —.

A SENSIBLE WOMAN writes from Ohio to our Business Superintendent as follows:

DEAR SIR:—You may think me very changeable, as I wrote you a week or so since, you need not send THE CHURCH AT HOME AND ABROAD next year.

I had to write a paper for our Missionary Society for the last Friday in December, on Syria. I was hunting up material for it, and the December number came, which gave me so much on Syria that it caused me to change, for I thought it best to do so. I will enclose one dollar for it.

It is not a little encouraging to find that such people get so much help from the CHURCH AT HOME AND ABROAD. There are some such who have not tried it as this lady has, and who tax the Secretaries with the labor of answering letters of inquiry for helps, such as she finds in our magazine. Some such inquirers, nearly every month, get in that way only what is in the magazine for that month, in its monthly concert pages, at greater pecuniary cost to the treasury of the Board than the whole monthly cost of the magazine to its regular subscribers. Can thoughtful readers do a better thing for their thoughtful neighbors than to induce them to become subscribers. The Secretaries are sure to give the best that they have of information on these subjects to their readers in this magazine. Why not find it here? Why not help us to extend this help to others?

THE FEMININE ELEMENT OF ELOQUENCE.

ADDIS OWEN.

A wise woman whose husband was pastor of one congregation for sixty years once said to him: "I think your sermons would sometimes be more effective if you allowed yourself to put into them some of the minute details of description, and the little touches of nature, which a woman would be more apt to put in than a man."

There is a quality of written or spoken discourse which adds greatly to its power to win and hold attention, and to make its way into the deepest places of readers' or hearers' souls, of which that venerable lady had a just conception. It is as difficult to define it as it would be to measure the flavor of a fruit or weigh the fragrance of a flower. It is none the less a reality, and a power.

The most manly oration is not made less powerful by the suffusion of that aroma which womanly thought more readily generates. This is an added power, a power wonderfully subtle and penetrating. It existed in an unusual degree in the oratory of Henry Ward Beecher, and in that of John B. Gough. That happy power of graphic description; that facility of passing quickly and yet not abruptly from the elevated and stately to the familiar and conversational—do not these seem verily feminine powers or graces? And yet they are admirably blended with the most manly attributes. They not only give increased interest and effectiveness to discourses, but they give to the speakers a certain pliancy and elasticity which enable them to endure the labor of speaking, to recover from its fatigues, and to avoid its rapid exhaustion of vitality. They are thus enabled to enjoy life much better, and their valuable powers are much less rapidly worn out.

How do such men get this power? Doubtless there are diversities of natural endowment in this as in all other respects; but all natural endowments are capable of increase by cultivation, and are liable to be impaired or lost by neglect or abuse.

It is the high privilege of educated women to be, in this respect, pre-eminently "helps-meet" for educated men. We use that sacred phrase because it is most expressive of our meaning, and we by no means limit it in this application to the relation of marriage, to which it was first divinely applied. There is intellectual fellowship, and mutual intellectual helpfulness between men and women in society, quite beyond that which they give each other in the domestic relations; and doubtless this is to be so increasingly, as methods of education are improved, and opportunities of education are extended.

There is no educated woman who does not exert influence, who may not exert helpful influence, over more than one educated man. Probably there is no one who may not make some public speakers more eloquent than they would otherwise be, by continual help of their preparation for coming occasions of public discourse. This is not to be kept in mind with laborious pains-taking; that would spoil it. In the very rest and pastime of social intercourse, in the reading of good books together, in the observation of works of art, in the comparison of views and impressions concerning works of art, and natural scenery; and books, and historic events, and human experiences, and human characters, and concerning God and eternity—in all conversation which is worthy of men and women, women are educating men, and may be educating orators—helping them, more than any other culture can help them, to acquire that peculiar power of which that pastor's wise wife spoke to him, flavoring the very substance of future discourses with that fine aroma which is so difficult to define, so good to enjoy. The ability of women to exert such influence is increased by all increase of their intelligence, by all healthful development of their womanly nature. Let all teachers of women understand this, and be cheered and strengthened by it in all their patient work. All humanity is elevated by the elevation of women; all sources of influence and of power in human society are improved, and purified, and made more beneficent by all true improvement in the education of women. Preeminently is this true with reference to that marvellous power which we name eloquence. Men need to study the feminine element which should always enter into it, and women should thoughtfully consider how womanly influence can best promote it.

That good lady, Priscilla, seems to have had equal part with her husband in helping Apollos to become more "mighty in the Scriptures" than he was before. Paul also names her among those to whom he sent affectionate salutation, in that wonderful roll of his loved ones, at the end of his epistle to the Romans. Nor was she the only woman to whom that great apostle felt himself indebted. See how he salutes Tryphena and Tryphosa and the beloved Persis, and how charmingly he writes, "Salute Rufus, the chosen in the Lord, and his mother and mine."

Thoughts on the Sabbath-School Lessons.

I.

Feb. 5.—Dedicating the Temple.—Ezra vi: 14-22.

Prominent among the causes for thanksgiving at the dedication feast, was the remembrance that the Lord had "turned the heart of the king of Assyria unto them, to strengthen their hands in the work." There are no better illustrations in all God's word or in all history of the truth that "The king's heart is in the hands of the Lord, as the rivers of water; he turneth it whithersoever he will," than the deliverances that came to Israel through Cyrus and Darius. Imperial edicts of religious toleration and royal benefactions for missionary enterprises from heathen rulers have illustrated the same truth in more modern times. And if, often, He does leave these royal hearts to devise and carry out their own schemes of opposition to the onward march of His kingdom, it is no less true that "the Lord is mindful of his own" and that it is still His "good pleasure to give them the kingdom."

II.

Feb. 12.—Nehemiah's Prayer.—Neh. i:1-11.

We perceive in Nehemiah's prayer all the essential parts of true devotion; to wit, adoration, confession, faith, specific petition, and the proper use of means. But, after all, the form of prayer is a matter of minor consideration. It is not so important that we should know the set phrases and due order as that we should want something and mean what we say. D. J. BURRELL.

Long before the sorrowful cupbearer in the Babylonish court, mourning the desolation of the sacred city of his nation and the sin that had caused it, brought his petition for forgiveness and help, the need had been anticipated. In the closing petition of his prophetic prayer at the dedication of the Temple, Solomon had pictured the circumstances and in almost the very words of Nehemiah prayed for the future captives of his nation,

"If they shall bethink themselves in the land whither they were carried captives, and repent, and make supplication unto thee in the land of them that carried them captives Give them compassion before them who carried them captive."

III.

Feb. 19.—Rebuilding the Wall.—Neh. iv: 9-21.

"We made our prayer unto our God, and set a watch against them." The helpless submission of the fatalist to the inevitable, stands in striking contrast to the active faith of the servant of God, who "trusts in God and keeps his powder dry." That it was no lack of faith that followed prayer for protection by the judicious setting of a watch, we may feel sure, with the battle cry of the twentieth verse sounding in our ears, "Our God shall fight for us!"

IV.

Feb. 26.—Reading the Law.—Neh. viii: 1-12.

Church history, ancient or modern, will hardly furnish record of a more remarkable convention of Bible-students than that gathered in "the street that was before the water gate" of Jerusalem, more than twenty-three centuries ago; remarkable in its numbers, in the reverent attention, in the absence of all argument, in the deep impression made by the simple setting forth of Scripture truth, in the practical results that followed.

The brief statement of the eighth verse is full of suggestion for preacher and teacher; while for every Bible student who has felt the keen stroke of the "sword of the Spirit" forcing home the conviction of a broken law, there is comfort in the cheering words of the tenth verse. The truly repentant heart will waste no time in mourning and weeping over the past, but will go forth to meet new opportunities for obedience and service. "The joy of the Lord is your strength," and a sense of forgiveness is no small element in that joy. "Unto him that loved us, and washed us from our sins in his own blood, and hath made us kings and priests unto God and his Father; to him be glory and dominion forever and ever."

NATIVE AGENTS AND THEIR TRAINING.

REV. JAMES S. DENNIS, D. D.

[Divers providential hindrances having prevented several of our editorial correspondents from sending what would have occupied several pages, we gladly give their space to extracts from this timely and instructive paper read at the General Council of the Alliance of the Reformed Churches, at Toronto, September, 1892.]

A grave question of expediency and wise economy of administration is the proper regulation of the proportion of foreign and native agency in any given field of mission enterprise. It is a matter to be decided largely with reference to the conditions of the problem in each separate field. Great weight should be given, of course, to the judgment of missionaries on the field, yet there is a call for careful scrutiny and independent judgment on the part of those who, as officers and administrators of the gifts of the Church, stand between the missions and the churches as the representatives of the interests of both. The training of native agents is often attended with many discouragements. They frequently seem to fail at the most critical moments, and under circumstances of peculiar aggravation. They will sometimes demand an unreasonable and disproportionate increase of salary, and if denied, will desert their posts of service for some more lucrative worldly employment after the mission has been at a large outlay to prepare them for their position. Their work is sometimes slovenly and done in the spirit of a hirling. The moral dignity and spiritual force of their personality seem, in some cases, to be in a state of chronic collapse. They fail often to respond to the higher motives of service, and seem willing to let their work drag on with no enthusiasm and little zeal. Their labor appears to be barren in results, with little to give promise of better things. Under such discouraging circumstances the heart of the missionary grows despondent, and turning away from his native help with feelings of distrust and despair, he looks longingly toward the Church at home, and prays for a brother missionary of his own race and blood who will bring aid and cheer and sympathy, and give a manly and heroic tone to the loved service of the Master. His call is loud and full of moral earnestness and heart pathos. It should be responded to promptly and sympathetically in probably the majority of cases, yet cautiously and always with discriminating inquiry as to the exact status of the problem of native agency, and the actual relative proportion of foreign to native forces in the field. In most cases it may be an absolute necessity to send foreign missionaries; in others it may result in an over-supply of the foreign element, and prove a hindrance to the employment of native agents, who should be brought forward and made to bear responsibility and assume burdens which no one as yet has had the courage to place upon them.

An indiscriminate urgency for the multiplication of foreign missionaries throughout the world needs to be tempered and directed by a proper regard for the imperative call in most mission fields for native workers, and the undoubted propriety and advantage of committing the work of missions in foreign lands as rapidly as possible to the hands of native converts chosen and called of God to serve in His kingdom. If we take a sober view of the present and prospective resources of foreign missions, and pass a fair judgment as to the relative desirability of foreign and native laborers in the pastoral service of mission churches, and in the every-day personal contact with native communities, we are constrained to deprecate any such undue or disproportionate multiplication of foreign agents as shall render impossible an enlarged and vigorous policy in the direction of a more efficient native agency. * * *

The call of need from the foreign fields, with their vast populations and open doors, is the most impressive and startling voice of Providence to the Church in this century. * * * Granted the need, how can we best meet it? * * * At the present moment it is not so much zeal in indiscriminate sowing of the seed broadcast over the world by foreign agents which is needed, as it is the steady and diligent effort to nourish and cultivate and harvest [the product] of seed already sown, and from this native fruitage to obtain the seed, and also prepare the soil, and raise up the native laborers to further cultivate the arts of spiritual husbandry, and give the cheering promise of a natural increase of ten, twenty, fifty and a hundred fold to the Lord's harvest fields. An excess of foreign laborers to occupy positions which native agents could fill, and perform services which could safely and advantageously be committed to native hands, is a policy which in the end will surely react to the injury of missions. It is costly and absorbs funds which might be used to serve for a larger ministry in the employment of natives; it retards the progress of the native element toward the assumption of the higher functions of Christian service; it is apt to injure the feelings and excite the jealousy of worthy and efficient helpers, who feel that a larger scope should be given them in the honors and responsibilities of the Lord's work; it has a tendency to unduly coddle and over-serve with gratuitous foreign ministrations the native Church, and in some cases to make unacceptable the humbler and less highly educated services of the native ministry.

In view of these considerations I desire to offer, at the present stage of our foreign missionary enterprise, an earnest plea for an advance in the policy of more systematic training and more general employment of native agents.

DIFFICULTIES AND DISCOURAGEMENTS.

I know there are natives in every field clamoring for employment who are utterly unworthy of a place in the Lord's vineyard. I know that there are some of those who are already employed who could be dismissed with little or no loss to the Church. I know that neither these natives nor their friends would coincide with this judgment, and that some low motive of selfishness, or favoritism, or personal feeling, or unfair discrimination is usually attributed to the missionary as exerting an undue influence over him. I am well aware of the instability, restlessness, worldliness, and mercenary spirit of some of the native helpers who have become identified with mission work in different fields, and that there is only one thing worse than a mercenary native agent, and that is a mercenary foreign missionary. Yet this is not a state of things which should lead us to lose faith in native agents. Mission work has necessarily appealed to the mercenary spirit where it existed. It offers regular and very honorable employment with fair wages to all who can secure places. Applicants have multiplied who were entirely unfit for service, and who were not capable of even passing an intelligent judgment upon the higher and more spiritual qualifications necessary in a candidate. The result is that there is usually in every field a circle of discontented and unhappy candidates who are bitterly disappointed that they are not employed, and regard themselves as unjustly treated. This is inevitable, and if in some cases mistakes have been made, and men who were not called and furnished by God have been put into places of responsibility by the missionary, it is due to that lack of perfect discernment which is ever incident to the exercise of fallible human judgment.

THE BRIGHTER SIDE.

Native agency has had a most honorable history in the modern missionary enterprise, and deserves a large and generous share of the credit of its success. There are native helpers who are chosen and called of God, and furnished by Him with gifts of heart and mind to do noble service in the Church. There are men and women whose hearts have been made humble and tender and consecrated, and who serve in the spirit of love, with zeal and enthusiasm. Their aspirations are high, [their services loyal, their motives pure, their self-denial marked, their success indisputable. They love the Master, study and honor His Word, rejoice in His service, seek the spiritual welfare of souls, and long and pray for the coming of his kingdom in the power and glory of its triumph. They live in natural and hearty contact with the people; they are in sympathetic and helpful touch with fellow natives, they command the love and respect of their constituency, and are truly prophets and guides among God's people. Many of them are gifted and mighty in prayer, and preach the Gospel of life with tender unction and spiritual power. They have a blessed ministry as peacemakers and comforters and kindly councillors in the native circles where they live. Many of them do the work of an evangelist with conspicuous success, and teach the way of life with singular clearness, impressiveness, and persuasiveness. Every missionary can name such persons in his field. He honors and trusts them, and prays that others may be raised up like them. They seem to represent the spirit and power of the Gospel, and to adapt the lessons and apply the instructions of the Divine Word to the daily life of native families in an Asiatic village, without any unnatural wrenching of the immemorial customs of society or needless clashing with native susceptibilities. There is a certain native simplicity, tact, good sense and homely naturalness in the way in which they state and enforce the teachings of the Bible which it is all but impossible for a foreigner to imitate, unless he is thoroughly at home in the use of the vernacular and has spent many years in close contact with the native mind. Our foreign missions at the present time, almost without exception, are in desperate need of just such men as I have described. * * *

Men prominent in mission service who have the right to speak with the authority which supreme devotion and large experience give, have put themselves on record as fully convinced of the value and necessity of trained native agents as permanent factors in a true mission policy.

THE TRUE POLICY.

We should make arrangements for thorough and systematic training of native helpers, and give ourselves with energy, perseverance and enthusiasm to the task of inspiring and guiding and helping natives into the higher and nobler walks of Christian service. This can be done, and if our mission work is to become a healthy plant of the soil it must be done. It may seem to involve a certain loss of morale in the service and a temporary lowering of standards, and a deterioration in the spiritual quality of the work done, while the native agents may be less able to resist powerful opposition and more exposed to persecution; yet its advantages will far out-balance its disadvantages, and the missionary himself can to a large extent remedy these defects, if they exist, by proper oversight of the work done, and by his inspiring personal influence over his native assistants. It will be an immense gain to have the Gospel mirrored in the character of the native teacher, and the truth interpreted by native experience, and the instructions and exhortations of the preacher spring out of the native heart in a simple and natural way, free from officialism, and not associated with the expectations of worldly benefits, which are almost inevitably identified in the mind of the natives with the services of the foreign agent. It will be an immense saving in money, time, and labor to select men on the ground from among the people, knowing the language, familiar with the native character and customs and modes of life, ready to mingle with men on the same social level and deal with them at close quarters, able to adjust instruction to the idiosyncrasies of the native mind, and avail themselves of the power which is often wrapped up in a native idiom or hidden away in some tone or gesture or shrug of the shoulder or familiar illustration.

This policy is already the generally accepted one in our missions with useful results; but it needs emphasizing, just at the present time, as par excellence the policy especially indicated by Providence and taught by experience as the one which should be adopted and systematically carried out as a permanent method of conducting the work.

PROPER TRAINING OF NATIVE AGENTS.

There seems to be practical unanimity among experienced missionaries upon two points with reference to the training which is desirable: First, it should be given on the field, and, second, it should be largely, although not exclusively, in the vernacular of the country. With reference to the desirability of conducting the training of native helpers in their native lands, there is apparently a consensus of missionary opinion; and it becomes us to be wise and cautious, and to walk by the light of experience in a matter so vital as this. A capital mistake may be made just here in giving unwise encouragement to natives to seek an education in America or England, as a preparation for evangelistic service in their native lands. It is a far wiser and more hopeful method of securing the usefulness of native agents to provide for regular, thorough, systematic training in the fields, and to insist upon their obtaining it there. It is only exceptional natives of the highest moral calibre and finest spiritual fibre, who have been plainly called of God to a front rank in His service, and who have been tested and found true, who will profit by a course of American training. The vast majority of Asiatics would never survive it and retain the requisites of a successful ministry among their fellow-countrymen. We would not, of course, contend that this must necessarily be so in every individual case; but it may safely be said that not one in a hundred of the natives at present engaged in foreign fields could be wisely selected to stand this test. It is more likely, however, if this matter is not watched, that ninety-nine out of every hundred would seek their educational and ecclesiastical fortune in these favored lands, toward which many of them are already longingly looking, and hoping that the door may be thrown open for them to come. The other point upon which the weight of missionary opinion seems to be in one direction is that, as a general rule, the vernacular should be the medium through which this training should be imparted, especially in all that relates to biblical education and religious instruction. In many missions, however, an exception has been made in cases where an advanced academical training and a more thorough theological course is called for; in which case it seems to be the universal custom in mission fields to make the English language the medium of this advanced curriculum.

There are three points which must be guarded with special care in this process of training the native agent: First, he must not be educated above or away from the humble duties of the native ministry; second, he must not be denationalized in the process, so that this higher education will separate him from his countrymen; third, he must not be spoiled in the spirit and tone of his service by an unwise use of foreign money. He must be a native still, and whatever robs him of his native quality is likely to be a detraction from his power. While his character must be changed and elevated, his nationality must be untouched; while his service should be properly rewarded it should be still a service of love and not of hire. Proper pay will not spoil a proper man, while any pay will be too much for an unworthy man. * * * *

When the foreign mission work which we have carried on shall crystalize into native Christian churches and institutions, and become a fountain of further missionary enterprise to the regions beyond, it will not be possible to continue to introduce the foreign missionary into this enlarged sphere of effort. Native missionaries of native churches must then have their innings; and why should we not have confidence that God is going to use His people, in what are now mission lands, as the chief agents in the general extension of His kingdom to the myriad souls in the as yet obscure and untouched villages and hamlets of Asia and Africa? Has He not called our Christian churches, within the lifetime of many still among us, out of a state of almost utter neglect of this great duty, to participate in the honors of the modern missionary enterprise? Does He intend, do you think, to limit the sacred privileges of this co-operation with Him in the crowning work of redemption to the churches now within the bounds of modern Christendom? Were not His first missionaries Asiatics? Did He not call Saul from consenting to the martyrdom of Stephen, to be Paul, the missionary to the Gentiles? Let us not be distrustful of His power or doubt the meaning of His purpose. * *

There are now sixty-eight native missionaries in New Guinea from the Samoan Islands, concerning whom one of the resident missionaries of the London Missionary Society recently gave this remarkable testimony: "Our South Sea Island teachers are our mainstay, and no pen can write the grand work they have done." Here is actual foreign missionary work, where less than a century ago the grossest darkness and superstition prevailed. At a recent meeting of the Malagasy Congregational Union, a native organization among mission churches of the London Missionary Society in Madagascar—a gathering representative of eight hundred churches of the Province of Imerina, held at Antananarivo, the capital of the island—was recently witnessed the novel spectacle of "returned missionaries" of the native churches appearing on the platform and giving accounts of their labors and of the strange customs of the tribes among whom they had been residing. * * * *

The Church can never complete this majestic enterprise by foreign agents, even were she inclined to largely increase their number. We must have the native missionary.

Young People's Christian Endeavor.

THE VALUE OF ASSOCIATION WITH THOSE WHOM GOD LOVES.

Those who are truly God's friends have their character improved by that friendship. A truly godly man is always an honest man, a sober man, a virtuous man. A man who is sincerely pious will not cheat you; will not betray you; will not wrong you; will not corrupt you. It is every way safer and better to be connected with those who have the character which is assured by godliness than with those who lack it.

Suppose that Joseph had not been a God-fearing young man, would Potiphar's domestic affairs and his most sacred domestic interests have been so safe? Does any skeptic believe that Joseph's piety could have been lost without endangering his virtue?—that he would have been just as reliably honest, just as incorruptibly chaste, if he had lost his faith in God?—that any natural sentiments of honor and uprightness could have kept him as whole in the midst of temptation as he was kept by his reverent love of God?

Experimental religion, coming into the sphere of natural causation, touches and quickens and rectifies all its natural forces.

Are you the child of parents whom God loves, who have by faith taken hold of his covenant to be a God to them and to their seed after them? Is there any price for which you would sell that birth-right? Have you a Christian employer whose whole authority and example urge you and encourage you to a course of uprightness and of piety?

Have you a room-mate whom you believe to be a sincere Christian? Is your most intimate friend a true Christian?

So far as you can have your choice, it is wise to seek earnestly and carefully such associates.

We cannot, in this world, be wholly separate from the wicked. God will not have us, for He wishes us to do good to them. Whenever in His providence, it is clearly made our duty to be connected with persons who do not fear Him, we may trust Him to keep us from being corrupted, and to enable us to do good to them with whom we are thus connected. Yet is it neither wise nor right, for us unnecessarily to identify our interests with those of ungodly men. A partnership in business with a man destitute of religious principle is almost sure to be a hindrance—quite apt to be a dangerous snare. A connection in marriage with one who does not fear God exposes the soul still more seriously. An apostle earnestly exhorts his Christian readers “not to be unequally yoked together with unbelievers.” He knew the evil and the danger of having close connection with those whose example and influence will tend to draw us from God.

On the contrary, how great, how inestimable is the privilege of being identified in interest and in hopes, with those who have a good and firm hold on God—the covenant-keeping God—to have an interest in the prayers of those whom God promises to hear, and a share in the destinies of those whom He promises to bless.

A still pleasanter thought is this: You may be such a person that any connection with you will be a blessing to others. “It is more blessed to give than to receive.” It is a higher happiness to do good to others than to have others do good to us. How shall we measure the blessedness of being such a man or such a woman that none of our fellow-creatures can be associated with us without thereby being benefitted?

To have such a servant as Potiphar found in Joseph is a great providential favor. To have such a son and brother as Joseph was—how it elevates a family! To have such a prime-minister as Joseph, what a blessing was it to Pharaoh and to Egypt! But is it not an unspeakably greater privilege to be the Joseph?—to have others feel, with good reason, that the Lord hath blessed them for your sake?

In no other human relation is it so important to be connected with those whom God loves and who love him, as in marriage. All thoughtful young people look upon marriage as a possibility to themselves in the near future, and as probably desirable. It is quite right that this should be so. It is quite right for young men and maidens to expect and to desire marriage—subject, like all other right desires, to God’s wise and holy will. Another way of expressing this, is in the words of an apostle—“only in the Lord.”

An excellent example of right Christian feeling on this subject, is given in a letter written by one John Kelly, of Norwood, Mass., seventy-five years ago, from which we find the following extract in the Independent, in which it is called :

AN OLD LOVE LETTER.

“I expect that she to whom I am united . . . will not be wholly unmindful of the termination of our journey—that she will sometimes, whether in prosperity or adversity, health or sickness, sorrow or joy, look beyond the scenes of time to those far more important that will open upon her hereafter—and I hope most earnestly that she will be qualified and disposed, by her example and friendly admonitions, to recall her partner from his wanderings to a sense of his duty, and accompany and assist him on his way to a better world than this is.

“As to our prospects in life, you know they are humble, very humble, and unless our minds are humble, too, we have no chance for happiness.

“No one will suspect either of us of marrying for money. There never was a couple united who were, in fact, more dependent, or ought more sensibly to feel their dependence upon Providence than we; and if we neglect constantly and daily to acknowledge that dependence we shall be undeserving of that support and assistance on which only we can rely.

“I could wish for your sake (ten times more than for my own) that I had a fortune equal to my love for you, and could raise you to a rank that you would honor and that would do honor to you. But, Susan, I have nothing to offer you—nothing but a hand that will be cheerfully given, and a heart that is faithfully yours. If these you are willing to accept—if you are willing to share my fate, whatever it may be—to share my sorrows and my joys, and allow me to participate in yours—then come to my arms and come to my heart, thou most beloved of women.

“But examine yourself and see. If you love any other man than me—if there is any one to whom (could you choose from all the world) you would prefer being united—if you can give me only a share in your affections and a heartless hand—if you cannot in heart as well as in life forsake all others and cleave unto me, and to me only, so long as we both shall live, I entreat you, even now to renounce me. I would rather go to the grave than to the marriage altar under circumstances like these. I conjure you by all your hopes of happiness in this life and by all your hopes of happiness beyond the grave, not to deceive yourself or me in this great and solemn concern.”

SCENERY OF LEBANON.

The land of THE BOOK abounds in scenery both beautiful and grand. It moved and lifted up and aggrandized the souls of ancient psalmists, and it stirs to similar emotion the souls of our now living missionaries. One of them, as modest as he is earnest, was prevailed upon by a brother missionary to send us the verses, on the next page, with much “distrust of their usefulness.” Notwithstanding that modest “distrust” we gladly give them to our readers, and are quite sure that they will enjoy them.

Eight years ago, when I was spending the winter in Syria, I rode with that missionary over Mt. Lebanon, and far up Mt. Hermon. He was familiar with that country, having been born and passed his boyhood in it, his father and mother being missionaries. He was mounted on his swift, brave Arabian, which he had named Ramapo in affectionate remembrance of the place in the State of New York, where he was a happy pastor for a few years before he became a happy missionary. My first crossing of the upper Jordan was with him, and I have vivid recollection of the moment when, pointing southward down the valley, he showed me a small spot of water surface glistening in the morning light, and told me it was Lake Merom, and that not far beyond it was Gennesaret.

If the youth who read this may not all be permitted to ride over those mountains and view that goodly scenery with their own eyes, certainly their souls will be pleasantly and profitably stirred by the glimpse which they may now have through Mr. Ford's eyes of a noble specimen of that scenery.

A VIEW FROM MT. LEBANON.

REV. GEORGE A. FORD.

[On the summit of the southern spur of Lebanon where I have my chosen summer camping ground 600 feet above the sea, far from any human dwelling, it is my delight to let the eye sweep over the 250 cities and villages (including Tyre and Sidon) that I counted one clear morning; and of which nearly all are in our own Sidon Station, and to pray for the coming of the kingdom in this district, with the habitations in full view. The grandeur of the scenery, with Hermon looming up in the rear close by, and the broad Mediterranean and its interesting coast directly in front, Lebanon piled heap on heap to the right and the Sea of Galilee with its surroundings and its suggestions to the left, is to me intensely impressive; and there, one eve, on the tip-top, some distance from camp, in the lonely and lovely moonlight, the thoughts in my mind found this utterance.]

"For He spake and it was done. He commanded and it stood fast." Ps. 33: 9.

Jehovah! Creator, Preserver and Friend;
Whose wisdom and power and love cannot end,
I bow at thy Majesty, awed and subdued,
Beholding thy wonders my faith is renewed.

How true to thy purpose and order benign,
Is every work of thy wisdom divine.
How loyal is each to thy sovereign command,
Of all thou has wrought with omnipotent hand!

The mountains thy summons once heard and obeyed,
And rose from the deep in their grandeur arrayed;
The deep heard thy voice and fled back at thy call,
Hemmed in by thy will, as with adamant wall.

The sun and the moon, in their stately career
Await thy direction with reverent fear,
And the numberless stars beaming bright overhead,
Keep time to thy law in their orderly tread.

The clouds, as they sweep thro' th' ethereal expanse,
At thy mandate dissolve, or recede or advance.
The springs as they bubble, the streams as they flow,
Instructed by thee on their missions do go.

The thunder's loud peal and the lightning's keen flash,
The hurricane's roar and the earthquake's dread crash,
As well as the dew-drop and soft rustling breeze
And blossoming flowers, fulfil thy decrees.

The leaves as they quiver, the showers as they fall,
Wild beasts of the jungle and beasts of the stall.
The tides of the ocean and seasons that roll,
Accept thy dominion and love thy control.

The reptiles and insects, a marvellous host
Of life microscopic to reckoning lost,
The birds in the air and the fish in the sea,
And the trees in the forest yield homage to thee.

Then why should the "Lord of Creation" alone
Resist thy commandments, refusing to own
Allegiance to thee in whose image sublime
He was formed by thy hand in the morning of time?

And why are thy children so slow to respond
By bearing the Gospel to "regions beyond,"
When Thou hast commanded "Go carry the news,
Of grace and salvation to Gentiles and Jews?"

O, thou who hast made us and freely didst give
The Son of thy love that we sinners might live;
So teach men to love thy commands and obey,
That the BLOT OF CREATION may vanish away!

Children's Church At Home And Abroad.

A VOYAGE IN A CHINESE JUNK.

MRS. MARY LANE.

[Our young readers will be glad to hear again from Mrs. Lane, who has given them some lively and instructive stories before. See December number, 1892, and October, 1891.]

The rainy season being over, we began to prepare for moving to the new station, Chi Ning Chow, which is five hundred miles from Tungchow, in the southwest of Shantung Province. On such an occasion one is tempted to envy the poor white trash in the South, who, when they wish to change their quarters, first throw a gourd of water on the fire, then call the dogs and go. The Chinese regard the foreigner with great disgust because he moves so often and has so many things. They seldom leave their native village. They will brave famine and pestilence rather than forsake the graves of their fathers. They look upon emigration with horror.

We passed on to our boat and waited a short time on the tide. We soon weighed anchor and the sailors pulled the boat out through the water-gate into the Gulf of Pei Chili. The sailors now hoisted the sails, chanting in a wild, weird, wailing tone, as they pulled the ropes. The boat is also propelled by a scull, which is a great flat paddle fixed on a pivot to the stern of the boat and works like the tail of a fish. We sat down upon the deck to watch, and wondered who would be first to get seasick. Our party consisted of seven persons, my son and his wife, myself, two Chinese teachers, a Chinese helper and our servant. We enjoyed the splendid sunset, but the sky was soon overcast with long fleecy clouds, which reminded me of the sailors' old song,

"Mackerel scales and mares tails
Make tall ships carry low sails."

Being wearied, we soon retired to rest. There are no cabins or state rooms in a junk, only a hole fore and aft. Mine was like a well curb six feet square. I started down, feeling much as if I were going down into a well to sleep. I was met by a strong odor of putrid dried fish, the favorite food of the Chinese, but the force of gravitation overcame even this stench, and I landed at the bottom. My Chinese teacher, a nice clean Christian woman, occupied the hole with me. We found, when lying down, we could stick our feet out under the deck on one side, likewise our hands on the other side. We were very glad of this extension. We soon fell asleep, "rocked in the cradle of the deep." I was awakened by the winds howling and shrieking, the old boat groaning and creaking, the huge waves pounding against her sides as if cannonading her. I attempted to rise, but struck my head with such force against the great wooden beam above that I was glad to subside. I tried again more successfully, hoping that I could peer out and see the storm, but in vain, we had been shut down so closely to keep out the water. I called to my son, but he could not hear. I realized how utterly helpless we were. All at once came the comforting thought, "Is not God upon the sea just as well as upon the land?" I lay down and soon fell asleep. When morning came we found that the winds had been favorable, and we had made great progress during the night. The wind was still blowing a gale, and continued to do so all day. The junk anchored for breakfast near shore, and remained there until evening. The sailors at first made excuses that the winds were contrary, but when it changed, they owned up that they were afraid of the rough sea, lest they should be seasick. There were a great many junks in harbor, some of which were loaded to the water's edge with huge logs they were bringing from Korea. Little sam pans were flitting about among them. At 4 P. M. the wind subsided, and we set sail. When night came on, it was lovely sailing through the phosphorescent waters.

About four P. M., on the fifth day, the tide was in, and we sailed up the mouth of the river "Why Ho," and stopped for the night.

Monday morning we entered port. A cable is stretched across the river to stop the boats until customs is paid. My son sent his teacher with his passport to the official, the cable was taken down, and we passed up and anchored.

We were eight days coming one hundred and sixty miles. Truly, when it comes to travelling, China is a slow coach. We are, probably, the first white women that ever made a sea voyage on a junk.

GOD'S WORK AMONG THE CORN PLANTERS.

MRS. SARAH L. TRIPPE.

[More than a year ago, Mrs. Trippe gave us a very interesting account of "A Pic-nic Among the Corn-Planter Indians," in the western part of New York. Do you remember it? It is worth your while to go, with your mother's permission, to the shelf on which she keeps the back numbers of the CHURCH AT HOME AND ABROAD, and find that particular number, December, 1891, page 560. By reading that first, you will be better prepared to enjoy what Mrs. Trippe now tells you about the interesting people to whom she and her husband are missionaries.]

Better than "A Pic-nic Among the Corn-Planter Indians," even though that day closed with a blessed hour of prayer in the home overlooking the rivers, was the feast of good things enjoyed by the missionaries among that people during a five days meeting in November last. These special meetings beginning on Tuesday evening and closing on Sabbath evening have, for many years, been held during the Fall and Winter months on the various reservations of western New York, and they are often times of great refreshing.

To us, settled for a few days in the little mission-house, recently built and furnished by the ladies of the Red Stone Presbytery, in the Synod of Pennsylvania, and by the hands of the Indians, as we glanced over the quiet snow-covered reserve, it seemed that surely here was a place where temptation and sin might be almost unknown. Lying for two miles on the river-side, its twenty homes are clustered near the monument of a common ancestor, Corn-Planter, with church, school, and mission-house, all pretty and well-cared for, situated at a short distance from the resting-place of their father. All seemed to speak of peace and love; but to the missionary comes that knowledge of heart and home which dispels all happy delusion. Yet the Lord is very gracious, and his coming to the Corn-Planters at the time of this meeting, seemed like the days of his ministry upon earth, when he came with his disciples to tarry for a time in the village.

The missionaries were accompanied by earnest Christian Indians from other reserves, whose fervent words, prayers, and hymns, were of great worth. Indeed, as the missionaries do not speak the Seneca language, these dear brothers were indispensable. The plan of meetings was to visit every home, holding a service of prayer and song, and requesting the inmates of the home to speak of their spiritual condition. We started daily at 9 A. M. and 2 P. M. for these meetings at the homes, and at half-past six all gathered at the church. The first meeting at the home of our good brother Jackson, an elder, was a precious season, where we found renewed consecration to the Master. In each home following we found the Holy Spirit had gone before us, melting the heart in contrition and love. Each following day seemed more precious than the one before, until we could realize the blessing of those ten days which the disciples spent together in the "upper room" in Jerusalem. In the evening service, the truth preached seemed given, indeed, from above, and hearts that had long resisted the pleadings of the Spirit, submitted to him. On the Sabbath, three parents were received into the church, bringing with them their children to receive the "sign of the covenant." Three young people, two of them young men, were also received, the church coming forward to give the "hand of fellowship."

These precious services it was very hard to bring to a close, but the work on other reserves must not be neglected; so the elders must take charge for five weeks till the missionary might return. On Sabbath evening the "God-be-with-you," was given, but the next morning, a large number of the people accompanied the departing ones to the station, while the band stood on the opposite shore endeavoring, by choice music, to express that which words fail to do. Pray with us for the coming and abiding of the Spirit on all the reserves of Western New York!

Gleanings At Home and Abroad.

The net increase in the Telugu Mission of the S. P. G. for 1891 was 2412, or nearly as great as during the whole previous decade.

The Gospel of John has been published in the Quichua language, a root language for many tribes in the interior of South America.
—Bible Society Reporter.

To call attention to the genuineness of mission work as seen in the changed lives of some of the more notable converts, is one purpose of Mr. Robert Young's "Trophies from African Heathenism."

In all generations to come the name of William Carey as an apostle and master-workman in missions will stand higher than any other, that of the great apostle to the Gentiles excepted.—Dr. Leonard in Bibliotheca Sacra.

"Caste is the chief outward obstacle to the open spread of Christianity in India to-day; but it is safe to say that all the outworks of caste have been taken, and it is fighting for life in the very keep of its castle."

Within two years, says The Free Church of Scotland Monthly, the C. M. S. has sent 150 new missionaries into the foreign field; and so great is the desire to undertake the work that the society is overwhelmed with applications.

Friendship is secured by stronger bands in Africa than in civilized countries. Chibwenzi has often an influence over a man's whole life. A native has been known to take a new name on the occasion of forming a new friendship.—Life and Work.

Dr. William Ashmore, of Swatow, on visiting a neighboring village asked the population, and was told, "about three or four thousand." "Does this include women?" he asked. "Oh, no;" was the reply, "We follow the Chinese custom and do not count the women."

Two Chinese young women have entered the medical department of Michigan University in preparation for missionary work in their own country. This is believed to be the first instance of Chinese women entering an American College.—Christian Statesman.

The cash receipts of the Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church for the year ending October 31, 1892, were $1,257,372, a net increase of $24,484. The appropriations for the coming year are $1,275,000, of which 55 per cent. goes to foreign missions and 45 per cent. to domestic missions.

The way to create and deepen home interest in missions is for those who are face to face with heathenism to keep it constantly before us. No work will in the long run tell so effectively upon the heathen world as the work of writing to the church at home.—Presbyterian Record.

On the island of Tanna sickness drives people away from church. It has more than once broken up the mission. Three promising young women recently died, and the heathen exultingly said: "Now, are we not right; the gospel kills, for are not all the Christian girls dying?"

Missionaries in the New Hebrides, says the Presbyterian Record, do not dare to keep their children, while their characters are forming, in daily contact with native children, so they are sent to Australia or Scotland to be taught and trained by strangers. What greater sacrifice can a missionary make?

The Chinese respect old age, says Miss C. E. Richter in the Baptist Missionary Magazine. Among the inquirers at Uni, a city of 20,000, was a woman 82 years of age, whose example had great weight with her neighbors. They thought if such an old woman can find good in this doctrine it must be good.

Mr. Lamont is attempting to reach the Singapore "Babas" through the avenue of their desire for an English education. He has organized evening classes for these Straits-born Chinamen, and hopes by winning their confidence as a friend to win a way for Christ into their hearts.—The (London) Presbyterian.

The work of converting the Mohammedans is not to be done at our ease, with the mere surplus of our wealth and the fragments of our time. It demands all the energy, and faith, and prayers of the Church. It is a dead lift, demanding the redeeming grace of Almighty God working through man doing his best.—Free Church of Scotland Monthly.

Rev. John Batchelor in his "The Ainu of Japan" says, this ancient race, which occupied the land before the Japanese, is slowly but surely passing away, one cause of their decrease being drunkenness. Fully 95 per cent. of them will get drunk whenever they can obtain sake enough; and the state of intoxication is their supreme ideal of happiness.

Writing of Hospital work in Ningpo, Dr. J. S. Grant says there are no other such opportunities in China to bring home spiritual truths to the hearts of the people. Separated from heathen environments, surrounded by Christian influences, and the heart made tender by sickness, the news of salvation is often eagerly sought after and thirsted for.

Dr. Cobb on his recent visit to Ferris Seminary observed no efforts to Europeanize the pupils. The daily papers of Yokohama, speaking in terms of unqualified praise, admitted that while the scholars gave such evidence of judicious and skillful training, they had lost nothing of their simple native modesty and grace.—Christian Intelligencer.

Only 17,000 persons at the rate of one penny a day would be required to give 26,000 pounds sterling, the entire income of the China Inland Mission for the last current year. Therefore 17,000 who will give two pence a day can double that income during the next current year.—Dr. Pierson at the last annual meeting of the C. I. M.

Says Rev. Donald McGilvray in the Presbyterian Record: Pilgrims come from a distance of 300 li to offer incense to the grandam of Tai Shan, the sacred mountain in Shantung. Her great power is supposed to be the gift of children, the supreme longing of every Chinamen, in order that he may have some one to sacrifice at his grave and appease his hungry manes.

Dr. R. N. Cust regards the missionary as the highest type of human excellence in the nineteenth century, and his profession the noblest. He has the enterprise of the merchant without the narrow desire of gain; the dauntlessness of the soldier without the shedding of blood; the zeal of the geographical explorer, but for a higher motive than science.

Our German Work describes the missions-fests in which German Christians give expression to their missionary spirit and kindle missionary enthusiasm. Several ministers are secured to help the pastor; the people gather from the surrounding country; services are held morning, afternoon and evening for two days, and a collection taken at each service.

Bishop Key of the Southern Methodist Church in the Conference examinations, when a preacher's name is called, is accustomed to say: "We have sent you out to do two things; to save souls, and to raise means to save other souls. How many have you received into the Church, and how have you succeeded with your missionary collections?"—Gospel in All Lands.

Much of Martyn's strength was spent in translating the New Testament into the Persian. In studying the original his spirit was refreshed. His spiritual life was deepened by living and working in the atmosphere of God's Word. So far from having his faith injured, these scholarly researches gave robustness and vigor to his saintly life. —Free Church of Scotland Monthly.

The Damascus Mission of the Edinburgh Medical Society, in its appeal for 5,000 pounds to build a hospital in that city, says: "Is it not almost incredible that, at the end of the nineteenth century, there should exist a city of about 200,000 inhabitants—and that the oldest city in the world—without a hospital for its sick?"—Quarterly Edinburgh Medical Society.

There are still among the hills and mountains of India tribes scarcely more advanced than those who used agate knives and flint weapons, erected Druidical stones, and formed mounds at a period antecedent to that remote age when the Aryans conquered the aboriginal people. It was only in 1871 that the women of the Juangs, or leaf-wearers, of Oriassa, were induced to wear any kind of clothing.—Surgeon General Moore in the Asiatic Quarterly Review.

The work of the Bâle Mission on the Gold Coast, with its ten principal and many out-stations, is steadily extending and increasing. Quiet companies of Christian people in outlying places, under regular supervision, are exercising an unmistakable influence for good. In January, 1892, there were sixteen native ministers and 160 catechists and teachers. During the year 614 were baptized, and there were 8,081 pupils in the schools.—Herald of Mission News.

According to reports from Lake Nyassa in the Free Church of Scotland Monthly the followers of Islam are realizing that a crisis in the history of their African influence is at hand. The Arab cannot exist in Africa without trading in ivory, and he cannot trade in ivory without slaves. He knows the antipathy of the European to slavery; and the breach between the two is increasing. The British Government is placing gun-boats on Lake Nyassa to suppress the slave trade.

A lady missionary in Burmah, after administering a famous painkiller to invalids, left a number of bottles to be used after she was gone. Returning after some months the head man of the village said: "We have come over to your side; the medicine did us so much good that we have accepted your God." She was ushered into a room where the painkiller bottles were arranged on a shelf, and before them the whole company immediately prostrated themselves in worship.—Monthly Messenger.

The standard of moral teaching of the Kashmiris is being raised. In spite of their objection to Christianity, ideas essentially Christian are filtering through their prejudices and influencing the lives of many. Once let ideas be received which are superior to Mohammedan teaching, and lives lived which are purer and better, there must come a silent confession of the inferiority of their creed. In this way Christianity will eventually triumph.—Dr. Neve in Monthly Messenger.

All India is crying out for Christian teachers; all classes are eager for instruction. We want preachers and doctors and translators, but we want teachers most of all. The majority of our teaching staff must be native, but the best American and European teachers are wanted to train this native agency. The wise laborer in a pagan land desires to reproduce himself in hundreds of native laborers whom the climate cannot drive out of the country. He desires to perpetuate himself in the hearts and lives of his pupils.—J. L. Phillips, M. D., in the Independent.

We distinguish between Christianizing and Europeanizing. We do not wish to make Africans bad caricatures of Englishmen. We want to Christianize them in their own civil and political conditions; to help them develop a Christian civilization suited to their own climate and circumstances. Boys in our schools are not allowed to wear European clothing. It is not our business to encourage the trade in boots by spoiling the feet of the Africans for their own climate. We teach only those trades which will enable people to live in independence of the mission.—Bishop A. C. Smythies of the Universities' Mission.

The curators of Kew Gardens sent to Blantyre ten years ago a number of slips of the coffee plant. One survived the long journey, took kindly to the soil, and is to-day the progenitor of a million plants growing on a single estate, besides hundreds of thousands on neighboring lands. The coffee produced realizes a good profit in the London market. "That little cutting," says Dr. Kerr Cross, "bids fair to have a mighty civilizing influence on this part of Africa, and to confer an inestimable boon on its people."—Johnston's Missionary Landscapes in the Dark Continent.

The moving force in India is Christianity. The name of Christ is one of the best known in that land. Christ has been preached and read and sung into the hearts of the people. India acknowledges His beauty and supremacy, but she will not bow to Him because He was not born a Brahmin nor inaugurated His religion in India. She has compromised with her pride and adopted a religion that is half-way. The whole Somaj movement has been born of contact with Christianity, and is not due to any innate goodness in the Hindu religion.—Rev. N. H. Russell.

Dr. Anderson of the Taiwanfoo Hospital, Hainan, says that poor people pawn articles of clothing and jewelry that they may come for treatment. One sick man, long unable to work, had raised money for the journey by the sale of his wife to another man. One young man, having been unable to work for some time, had been dismissed by his wife, who then married some one else. She had been honorable enough, he said, however, to give him back the fifteen dollars he had paid for her, and with this money he was able to live at the Hospital while the doctor sought to effect a cure.—London Presbyterian.

The Chinese in Sung-pan, province of Szchuen, having exhausted the ordinary causes for drought, blamed Mr. and Mrs. Turner of the C. I. M. for the calamity. Dragged from their home, stripped of their clothing, and driven along the streets, they were rescued by a military Mandarin and taken to the Yamen. The Magistrate, wishing to appease the mob, asked the two servants if they were willing to be beaten instead of Mr. and Mrs. Turner. The brave men, who were Christian inquirers, willingly volunteered, and patiently received each one thousand blows, their only comment being that their sufferings were not greater than Peter's or Paul's.—Chinese Recorder.

Chinese physicians are not so ignorant of medicines as one would suppose from some of the articles of their pharmacopea. Their infusions, teas, and syrups, concocted from various roots and herbs, are upon occasion wonderfully effective. They use various pepsin compounds with great skill; but on the same principle that the powdered digestive juices of an animal will stimulate the digestive forces of a man, they hold that powdered tiger's teeth are a sovereign cure for general debility. The tiger being the strongest animal known, and the teeth the strongest part of the tiger, therefore pills made from them contain the elements of great strength, is a method of Chinese reasoning.—Medical Missionary Record.

Dr. John Morrison of Calcutta, noting the fact that while in 1881 there were 987 Christians in connection with the missions of the Church of Scotland in India, in 1891 there were 3,903, or four times as many as ten years before, says: "But far beyond the figures is the hope that some of the Christian knowledge, faith and power that we are implanting is self-propagating and will continue so."

"It was a girl, you know," was the reason given by a man and his wife on Epi, one of the New Hebrides, who had unblushingly confessed to having buried one of their children alive.—The Presbyterian Record.

Mrs. DeHeer, Mrs. Reutlinger and Miss Christensen of our Gaboon and Corisco Mission, recently made a trip up the Benito river and found to their surprise that the Boheba and Pangwe, or Fan people had come down in large numbers from the interior and were crowding the Balingis down to the coast. No native laborer has been permanently located among these tribes, but they have been visited regularly every month by a native licenciate and as a result a number are inquiring the Way of Life.

The editor of the Review of Reviews has contributed to his December number an article upon physical culture at Wellesley College. It takes very advanced grounds as to the duty of every college for young women in the direction of supplying complete facilities for the care of the health of students and for the development of their physical strength. Some extremely interesting steps in advance have lately been taken at Wellesley, and these are fully described. The most interesting part of the article, however, are the graphic tables with which it is fully illustrated, and which show what forty Freshmen have been able to accomplish under regular gymnasium instruction during six months in respect to the increase of the girth, depth and strength of chest, the capacity of lungs, the breadth of the shoulders, the strength of back and the strength of other muscles. It is an article which will certainly have weight in the educational world, and will interest parents who have daughters to educate.

NOTES FROM PEKING.

BOUDINOT C. ATTERBURY, M. D.

THE RIOTS seem to have stopped for the present. Still, one living here, never gets over the feeling that under all the apparent quiet an earthquake may at any time break forth. Now that severer measures are to be taken to exclude the Chinese from the United States, we Americans cannot complain if broad hints are thrown out that we should leave China. Not that this government is likely to take any direct retaliatory steps. Officials will certainly, however, point to this exclusion act whenever our minister goes to the foreign office for favors or concessions of any kind. It may not be desirable to have the Chinese go in any large numbers to America, but certainly to prevent this a formal treaty need not be broken without due notice being given to the other party.

MEMORABLE DAY.—The nineteenth day of June, 1892, marked the first fifty years since Shanghai, the great trading port of the East, was thrown open to the world's markets. Though done by force, against the will of the Chinese, who desired to have nothing to do with "barbarians," the whole Empire, as well as the outside world, has gained by Great Britain's action.

GREAT CHANGES have taken place in China in this half century. More ports have been opened, foreign trade has enormously increased, foreigners, chiefly missionaries, have penetrated to all parts of the Empire, telegraphs, steamers and several short railroad lines have been built; better than all, the knowledge of a pure religion has been spread everywhere.

Ministerial Necrology.

 We earnestly request the families of deceased ministers and the stated clerks of their presbyteries to forward to us promptly the facts given in these notices, and as nearly as possible in the form exemplified below. These notices are highly valued by writers of Presbyterian history, compilers of statistics and the intelligent readers of both.

ATKINSON JOHN S.—Born near Delaware, O., July 15, 1835; graduated from the Ohio Wesleyan University, 1881, and from the Western (Allegheny) Theological Seminary, 1864; licensed by the Presbytery of Marion, 1865; ordained by the Presbytery of Wooster, 1866; pastor of Wayne and Chester churches, 1866-1874; Lower Ten Miles, Pa., 1874-1880; Buffalo and Westminster churches, 1880-1887; after a season of ill-health renewed his ministration in a mission station at Hill City, Kansas, 1889; died at that place, November 14, 1892. Married Miss Lida Kerr Thompson. One daughter, Mrs. Anna Prewitt, of Hill City survives.

BRONSON, EDWIN.—Born in Delhi, N. Y., July 1, 1799; graduated from Union College, 1828; from Auburn Theological Seminary, 1831; ordained at Parma, N. Y., by Genesee Consociation, June 8, 1831; Marion, N. Y., 1831-32; Springwater, N. Y., 1833-34; Guilford, 1835-36; Wysox, Pa., 1837-39; Windsor, N. Y., 1840 to 1843; Scotts-ville, 1844-46; Elkland and Osceola, Pa., 1847; Rome, Pa., 1848; Harford, N. Y., 1850-51; Agent of American Bible Society in Luzerne County, Pa., 1852-53; Mahanoy, 1854-61; Laporte, 1862-64; Resident at Monroeton (H. R.) from 1865. Afterwards at Aspinwall and Nelson. Married to Miss Mary Hitchcock, of Homer, N. Y., 1831. Died at Nelson, Pa., Nov. 3, 1892, aged 93 years, 4 months and 3 days. His wife survives him, a son and a daughter having died before him.

CAMPBELL, SAMUEL MINOR, D. D.—Born in Campbell, N. Y., June 1, 1823; united with the Presbyterian Church in Campbell, April, 1841; studied at Almond, N. Y., at Franklin Academy, Prattsburgh, N. Y., and privately; graduated at Auburn Theological Seminary, 1849; A. M. from Hamilton College, 1855, and D. D. from the same, 1864; married Sophia L. Burton of Prattsburgh, N. Y., Sept. 18, 1845; married Mrs. Mary B. Judson of Prattsburgh, May 1, 1878. Ordained and installed at Paris Hill, N. Y., by Oneida Association, Nov. 1850, Alder Creek and Remsen Presbyterian Church, 1849-50; Paris Hill Congregational, 1850-57; Dansville Presbyterian Church, 1857-58; Westminster Church, Utica, 1858-66; Central Church, Rochester, 1866-81; First Church, Minneapolis, Minn., 1881-89. Supplied the Presbyterian churches in Astoria, Oregon, Montecito, Cal., Oneida, N. Y., and Fort Dodge, Ia., 1889-92; died at Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 17, 1892; buried, Campbell, N. Y., Nov. 23, 1892. His wife and sons, Charles, of San Francisco, Rev. Frederick of Jefferson Park Church, Chicago, and Edward Franklin of Portland, Oregon, survive him. Published "Across the Desert, a Life of Moses," 1872; "The Story of Creation," 1877; "The Life of Christ," 1890; "That Other World," 1890.

PALMER, EDMUND M.—Born near Flemingsburgh, Ky., May 2, 1832, and removed to California with his parents in 1849; entered Westminster College, Mo., but repeated failures of health compelled him to abandon a college course; studied theology and was ordained by the Presbytery of Palmyra, Sept. 19, 1868; ministered to Olivet church, St. Charles County; La Belle church, Lewis County; and the Philadelphia church; In 1879 removed to Parkville to educate his children. From that time to his decease, Feb. 1, 1892. Platte Presbytery was the field of his labors as pastor at Parkville, evangelist and Bible colporteur. Died Feb. 1, 1892.

Married, Miss Eliza B. Matthews who, with five children, survives him. One daughter, a missionary teacher died in Utah, in 1891; the younger one is now on her way to Japan.

Book Notices.

JAPAN IN HISTORY, FOLK-LORE AND ART, by William Elliot Griffis; Number 10 of the Riverside Library for Young People, published by Houghton, Mifflin & Co., Boston and New York. Price, 75 cents.

This little volume is full of information on the points mentioned, and is written in a bright, attractive style. Though not dealing with its subject from a missionary stand-point, it should have a place in the missionary library. It will interest those who wish to make themselves thoroughly acquainted with the inhabitants of the Sunrise Kingdom, while it gives specimens of Japanese folk-lore that will remind young readers of their favorite tales of Grimm and Hans Andersen.

THE AINU OF JAPAN, by Rev. John Bachellor, C. M. S. Missionary to the Ainu. Fleming H. Revell Co., Union Square, East, New York. Dr. Ellinwood writes of the Ainu on page 133.

AN AMERICAN MISSIONARY IN JAPAN, by M. L. Gordon, with an Introductory Note by Wm. Elliot Griffis, D. D. Houghton, Mifflin & Company, Boston and New York: Riverside Press, Cambridge, 1892.

This little book of nearly three hundred pages is one of eminently practical interest, especially to those who are to become missionaries in Japan, and also those who love the cause and are wishing intelligently for its support. The titles of its twenty-two chapters are suggestive. We give a few only:

Missionary Life in Japan is a picture of experience. The Study of the People is a compact epitome of common-sense suggestions. It is time for the missionary to understand more fully the absolute importance of knowing not merely the language and habits, but also the modes of thought, the religious beliefs and philosophies of a people. The chapter designated "The Kumamoto Band" is a little romance, full of encouragement and hope. The chapter on Japanese Preachers sets forth that remarkable class of men who have been found in Japan in the last twenty-five years, men of the middle class who have constituted the strength of the Japanese church. The Doshisha University is the subject of another chapter with the romance of Neesima as its germ. Christian Womanhood, another title, invites the perusal of all women who are interested in the uplifting of their sex. Chapter XX. is devoted to Christianity and New Japan. Chapter XXI. presents The Present Outlook concerning which all are so deeply interested. Dr. Gordon has proved himself one of the most observing and intelligent of missionaries in Japan.

RECEIPTS.

Synods in SMALL CAPITALS; Presbyteries in italic; Churches in Roman.

It is of great importance to the treasurers of all the boards that when money is sent to them, the name of the church from which it comes, and of the presbytery to which the church belongs, should be distinctly written, and that the person sending should sign his or her name distinctly, with proper title, a. g., Pastor, Treasurer, Miss or Mrs., as the case may be. Careful attention to this will save much trouble and perhaps prevent serious mistakes.

RECEIPTS FOR THE BOARD OF CHURCH ERECTION, NOVEMBER, 1899.

BALTIMORE.—Baltimore—Baltimore Hampden sab-sch 5. New Castle —Green Hill, 8.	8
CALIFORNIA.—Los Angeles—Riverside Calvary, 19; San Pedro, 6; Santa Ana, 15. Stockton —Traver, 2.	35
COLORADO.—Boulder—Cheyenne 1st, 10.	10
ILLINOIS.—Alton—Virden, 5. Bloomington —Watska, 5. Cañero —Carterville 1st, 3. Chicago —Chicago 3d, 250; Herscher, 5. Freeport —Galena South, 33 35; Prairie Dell, German, 10. Mattoon —Vandalia, 4. Rock River —Dixon, 37 06; Edgington, 10; Princeton, 26 71. Schuyler —Macomb, 13 50; Monmouth, 17 77; Warsaw, 2; Wythe, 5; Springfield —Flagah, 2 16; Unity, 1 66; Williamsville Union, 4 18.	434 39
INDIANA.—Crawfordsville—Rockville Mem'l, 7 85. Fort Wayne —Elkhart, 10; Lima, 3. Logansport —Lucerne, 4. White Water —Knightstown, 7 50.	32 35
INDIAN TERRITORY.—Cherokee Nation—Barren Fork, 2. Muscogee —Red Fork, 6; Tulsa, 5 57.	11 57
IOWA.—Cedar Rapids—Mount Vernon, 30. Council Bluffs —Missouri Valley 1st, 10. Des Moines —Jacksonville, 3 50; Ridgedale, 5 15. Dubuque —Independence 1st, 9 05; Wilson's Grove, 9 25. Fort Dodge —Spirit Lake, 5. Sioux City —Ida Grove, 10.	81 95
KANSAS.—Highland—Axtell, 5. Larned —Sterling 1st, 6. Neosho —Yates Central, 13 60. Osborne —Hays City, 9 74. Solomon —Glen Elder, 2. Topeka —Riley Centre, German, 2.	38 34
KENTUCKY.—Louisville—Hopkinsville, 5.	5
MICHIGAN.—Detroit—Brighton, 7; Erin, 3; Marine City 10 52. Flint —Gaines, 2; La Motte, 4. Grand Rapids —Grand Rapids 1st, 30 33. Lansing —Oneida, 1 36.	58 30
MINNESOTA.—Duluth—Duluth 1st, 41. Mankato —Baldwin, 3; Mankato 1st, 8 75. St. Paul —St. Paul House of Hope sab-sch, 6 25.	59
MISSOURI.—Platte—St. Joseph Westminster, 10; Union, 3. St. Louis —St. Louis Corondelet, 8 05. White River —Hopewell, 2.	23 05
NEBRASKA.—Hastings—Hanover, German, 4 10. Kearney —Buffalo Grove, German (Incl. L. M. Soc'y, 2) 6 60; Nebraska City —Diller, 5; Meridian, German, 40 cts. Nebraska —Wakefield, 1st, 6 48. Omaha —Omaha, Knox, 6; Plymouth, 2; Webster, 2.	33 96
NEW JERSEY.—Elizabeth—Elizabeth, Siloam, 3 39; Springfield, 16. Jersey City —Passaic, 1st, sab-sch, 4 92. Monmouth —Teunent, Y. P. S. C. E., 5. Morris and Orange —East Orange, Brick, 96 06; Morristown, 1st, 96 63; Orange Central, 200;—1st German, 15. Newark —Bloomfield, 1st, 89 57; Newark Park, 14 44. New Brunswick —Bound Brook, 23; Kirkpatrick Memorial, 4; Lawrenceville, 13; Trenton, 3d, 38 31. Newton —Beattystown, 2; Mansfield, 2d, 4.	627 23
NEW YORK.—Albany—Amsterdam, 2d, 41 06. Boston —Boston, 4th, 6 75; Scotch, 5. Brooklyn —Brooklyn, Classon Avenue, 60. Buffalo —Fredonia, 3; Portville, 40. Champlain —Feru 1st, 1 34; Plattsburgh 1st, 20 85. Chemung —Elmira 1st, 16. Geneva —Dresden, 5. Hudson —Good Will, 1 36; Hopewell, 16; Ridgebury, 32 c; Scotchtown, 10; Washingtonville, 1st, 14. Long Island —Bridgehampton, 20 69; Mattituck, 4; West Hampton, 15 04. New York —New York, 4th, 91 10;—4th Avenue, 150;—Washington Heights, 2 65;—West End, 40. Niagara —Lockport, 1st, 21 99; Murray 1st, 6 45. North River —Newburgh, Union, 35; Foughkeepsie 1st, 14 20. Rochester —Ogden Centre, 2 69; Pittsford 1st, 11; Rochester, Emanuel, 1 03. St. Lawrence —Rosale, 1st, 4 20. Steuben —Corning, 9 57. Syracuse —Canastota 1st, 10 53. Troy —Glens Falls, 37 24; Schaghticoke, 2 76. Utica —Ilion, 3. Westchester —Thompsonville 1st, 30 50.	805 29
OHIO.—Athens—Amesville, 4 60; New Plymouth , 4. Bellevue —Bellevue 1st, 1 98. Cincinnati —Bond Hill, 5; Cincinnati, Mount Auburn, 10; Reading and Lockland, 3. Cleveland —Akron, 1st, 3; Willoughby, 1st, 2. Columbus —Bremen, 2; Rush Creek, 3. Huron —Fremont, 33; Huron, 9 50. Lima —Kalida, 4 76; St. Mary 1st, 14 31. Mahoning —Canton, 24 39. Marion —Marion 1st, 15. Steubenville —Bethel, 10; Two Ridges, 2. Wooster —Holmesville, 5; Hopewell, 15. Zanesville —Mt. Vernon, 17; New Concord, 1 60; Norwich, 2.	191 04
OREGON.—Portland—Portland Calvary, 30 85.	30 85
PENNSYLVANIA.—Blairsville—Blairsville, 48; Salem, 5. Butler —Buffalo, 2; Centreville 1st, 7; Concord, 8 20; West Sunbury, 8. Carlisle —Gettysburg, 1; Millerstown, 7. Chester —Coatesville, 14 73; Fagg's Manor, 16; West Chester 1st, 31 97. Clarion —Mount Tabor, 7 57; New Rehoboth, 3 03. Erie —Belle Valley, 2; Kerr's Hill, (including S. S., 53 cts.), 5 06; Mercer 2d, 13; Venango, 2; Westminster, 4. Huntingdon —Milroy, 7 50; Phillipsburgh 1st, 13; Tyrone, 31 03. Lehigh —Slatington, 5 50. Philadelphia —Philadelphia Memorial, 58 75;—Tabor, 87;—Walnut Street, 114 59. Philadelphia North —Conshohocken, 3; Frankford, 11 03; Pottstown (including S. S., 2 97), 16 10. Pittsburgh —Bethany, 5 31; Chartiers, 4; McDonald 1st, 15 30; Oakdale, 23 25; Pittsburgh, East Liberty, 32;—Mt. Olivet, 4;—Shady Side, 64; Redstone —Lelsenring, 12. Washington —Fairview, 9 23; Washington 1st, 56 07. Wellsboro —Wellsboro, 8 07. Westminster —Cedar Grove, 5.	773 17
SOUTH DAKOTA.—Black Hills—Sturgis, 2.	2 00
UTAH.—Montana—Boulder Valley, 16 65.	16 65
WASHINGTON.—Olympia—La Camas St. John's, 3; Spokane—Spokane Centenary, 5.	6 00
WISCONSIN.—Madison—Beloit 1st, 11 14. Milwaukee —Milwaukee Immanuel, 10. Winnebago —Florence, 6 54; Winneconne, 10.	37 68
Total from churches and Sabbath-schools.....	$ 3,327 54
OTHER CONTRIBUTIONS.
C. Penna., 4; Rev. S. Murdock, Oaks Corners, N. Y., 5; Rev. W. L. Tarbet and wife, 80c....	9 80
	$ 3,327 34
LEGACIES.
Estate of Miss C. A. Ward, Newark, N. J.....	3,000 00
MISCELLANEOUS.
Sale of Church property.....	498 75
Plans and specifications.....	7 50
Sale of Book of Designs.....	50
Partial loss recovered.....	26 66
Premiums of Insurance.....	346 97
	880 28
SPECIAL DONATIONS.
CALIFORNIA.—Los Angeles—North Ontario.....	31 65
ILLINOIS.—Ottawa—Aurora 1st.....	2 00
INDIANA.—Muncie—Wabash.....	25 00
KANSAS.—Neosho—Paola.....	20 00
NEW YORK.—Utica—Lyons Falls Forest.....	8 50
NEW YORK.—Utica—Oriskany.....	5 00
Charles S. Scott, New Brunswick, N. J.....	20 00
	112 15
	$ 7,289 57

Church collections and other contributions, 8 months, April to November, 1892	39,501 45
Church collections and other contributions, 8 months, April to November, 1891	39,501 15

MANSE FUND.

NEW YORK.—Syracuse—Canastota 1st	5 00
MISCELLANEOUS.
Installments on loans	1,155 00
Interest	27 00
Premiums of insurance	7 50
	<hr/> $1,189 50

SPECIAL DONATIONS.

Special for work in Utah	500 00	500 00
		<hr/> $ 1,694 50

If acknowledgment of any remittance is not found in these reports, or if they are inaccurate in any item, prompt advice should be sent to the secretary of the Board, giving the number of the receipt held, or, in the absence of a receipt, the date, amount and form of remittance.

ADAM CAMPBELL, Treasurer,
53 Fifth Avenue, New York.

RECEIPTS FOR EDUCATION, NOVEMBER, 1893.

ATLANTIC.—Atlantic—Charleston, Olivet, 1 50; Mt. Pleasant, 1 25. South Florida—Titusville, 3 15. 5 90
BALTIMORE.—Baltimore—Emmitsburgh, 30 50; Hampden sub-sch., 5; Taneytown, 13. New Castle—Buckingham, 7 50; Wilmington Central (sub-sch., 6 74), 63 85. Washington City—Washington City, Western, 30. 138 85
CALIFORNIA.—Los Angeles—Glendale, 3; Tustin, 2 15. Oakland—Oakland 1st, 47 25. 52 40
COLORADO.—Boulder—Cheyenne 1st, 8; Laramie, Union, 9. Denver—Denver 23d Avenue, 27 96; Golden, 6. Pueblo—Canon City, 19. 69 96
ILLINOIS.—Alton—Ebenezer, 1; Nokomis, 4. Bloomington—Bloomington 2d, 75; El Paso, 9; Rossville, 5. Cairo—Anna, 8; Murphysboro, 7. Chicago—Chicago 3d, 300; Hinsdale, 3 52; Lake Forest, 160 62; Peotone 1st, 2 15; Riverside, 21 62. Freeport—Elizabeth, 2; Forest Grove, 60; Galena 1st, 18 45. Mattoon—Ashmore, 7; Mattoon, 9 63. Ottawa—Waltham, 3. Peoria—Canton 1st, 12 15; Caldwell, 18; Elmira, 16; Farmington, 11; Washington, 4. Rock River—Centre, 5; Edgington, 7; Garden Plain 1st, 15 43; Munson, 3 50; Newton, 13 53. Schuyler—Camp Creek, 10; Elvaston, 6; Plymouth, 1 73; Rushville, 15 85; Warsaw, 3 25. Springfield—Jacksonville, 3; Pisgah, 1 63; Unity, 1 04. 759 77
INDIANA.—Crawfordsville—Rockville Mem'l, 4 91. Fort Wayne—Bluffton, 5; Huntingdon 1st, 2; Lima, 6. Indianapolis—Franklin 1st, 14. Logansport—Concord, 5. New Albany—Jeffersonville 1st, 15 80. Vincennes—Sullivan, 8 25. White Water—Knightstown, 7 20; New Castle, 17 25. 84 91
IOWA.—Cedar Rapids—Lyons, 3. Council Bluffs—Missouri Valley 1st, 5 43. Corning—Clarinda, 30. Des Moines—Albia 1st, 5 59; Derby, 3; Dexter, 3 80; Humeston, 3 50; Laurel, 2; Marietta, 4. Dubuque—Hopkinton 1st, 12 11; Line Spring, 6 30. Iowa—Mediapolis, 15 69; Morning Sun 1st, 12 10; Ottumwa 1st, 7 27; Winfield, 6. Iowa City—Columbus Junction, (sub-sch., 2 57), 4 51; Davenport 2d, 18 61; Unity, 2 50. Sioux City—Vail, 11. Waterloo—Grundy Centre (sub-sch., 2 03) 9; Kamrar, German, 10; Tama, 2; Toledo, 4 15; Waterloo 1st, 10; Williams, 5 62. 185 63
KANSAS.—Emporia—Big Creek, 2; Mount Vernon, 4; New Salem, 3; Oxford, 5 08; Peotone, 5; Walnut Valley, 4. Neosho—Cherokee, 2; Colony (Milliken Mem'l), 5 57. Kincaid, 4 85; Lone Elm, 3 13; Monmouth, 2; Neosho Falls, 2 61; Osage 1st, 9 60; Princeton, 4; Richmond, 3. Osborne—Colby, 7 79. Solomon—Abilene, 5; Cheever, 3. Lincoln, 4; Salina, 31. Topeka—Riley Centre, German, 1 50. 107 13
KENTUCKY.—Ebenzer—Frankfort 1st, 30; Ludlow, 8. 38
MICHIGAN.—Flint—Cass City, 6. Kalamazoo—Sturgis 1st, 6. Lansing—Albion, 25; Onelda, 85 cts. Monroe—Tecumseh, 27 50. Petoskey—Elk Rapids, 2. Saginaw—W. Bay City Covenant, 1. 68 35
MINNESOTA.—Duluth—Duluth 1st, 40. Mankato—Fisk, 18 49. St. Paul—Minneapolis Bethlehem (sub-sch., 4 09), 19 78; Westminister, 125 98; St. Paul 1st, 4 68. 209 93
MISSOURI.—Kansas City—Butler 1st, 11; Sedalia 2d (sub-sch., 4), 13 45. Ozark—Eureka Springs, 5; Webb City church and sub-sch., 30. Platte—Breckenridge, 2 15; New York Settlement, 2; St. Joseph Westminister, 20. St. Louis—Bethel German, 8; Poplar Bluff, 6; Salem German, 5. 103 60
NEBRASKA.—Hastings—Holdrege 1st, 5. Kearney—Buffalo Grove German (L. M. S.), 4. Nebraska City—Diller, 3; Hebron, 7 66; Meridian German, 25 cts; Table Rock, 6 75. Niobrara—Elgin, 2; Oakdale, 2. Omaha—Plymouth, 4. 34 66
NEW JERSEY.—Elizabeth—Elizabeth 3d, 28; —Marshall Street, 25 57; —Westminister, 1. Jersey City—Passaic, 4 17. Monmouth—Beverly, 38 08; Farmingdale, 3; Freehold 1st, 23 25; Lakewood, 14 65; Manasquan, 13 30. Morris and Orange—East Orange Brick, 47 28; —1st, 25 44; Fairmount, 2; Mt. Olive, 10; Succasunna, 15.

Newark—Newark Park, 8 96. New Brunswick—Amwell 1st, 7; —United 1st, 5; Kirkpatrick Memorial, 3; Lambertville, 45; Stockton, 4; Trenton 1st, 2; —Prospect Street, 29. Newton—Belvidere 1st, 25. West Jersey—Bridgeton 2d, 12 18. 456 30
NEW YORK.—Albany—Amsterdam 2d, 59; Broadabin, 1 93; Kingsboro Avenue, 17 40; Northampton, 10. Binghamton—Bainbridge, 11 78; Deposit 1st, 10 65. Brooklyn—Brooklyn Classon Avenue, 183; —Memorial, 175; —Mount Olivet, 5 90. Buffalo—Buffalo Westminister, 300; Fredonia, 10. Cayuga—Kings Ferry, 10; Port Byron, 7. Champlain—Plattsburgh, 12 60; Chemung—Elmira 1st, 10; Havana, 4; Horse Heads, 11. Genesee—Leroy, 35. Geneva—Phelps 1st, 23 87. Hudson—Good Will, 85 cts; Scotchtown, 10. Long Island—Amagansett, 7 24; Mattituck, 6; Middletown, 12 78; Southampton, 53 53; West Hampton, 18 04. Lyons—Marion, 2 45. Nassau—Huntington 1st, 27 74; —2d, 18 34; Islip, 8. New York—New York Rutgers Riverside, 121 32; —Washington Heights, 3 53; —West, 238 71. Niagara—Lockport 1st, 43 38; North River—Canterbury, 7 66; Freedom Plains, 10; Newburgh Union, 30; Pleasant Valley, 7; Poughkeepsie 1st, 8 57; Wappinger's Creek, 3 50. Otsego—Coopersstown, 22 55; Stamford, 30. Rochester—Brookport, 23 33; Fowlingville 1st, 3; Ogden Centre, 1 68; Rochester Brick, 40; —Emmanuel, 1 28. St. Lawrence—Governor, 23 30; Oswegatchie 2d, 6; Potsdam, 16; Sackett's Harbor, 2 25; Waddington Scotch, 35. Steuben—Almond, 1 50; Canisteo 1st, 26; Corning 1st, 5 98; Painted Post, 15. Troy—Schaghticoke, 2 91. Utica—Ilion, 5. Westchester—Bridgeport 1st, 98 08; Gilead, 15 50; New Rochelle, 43 46; Peekskill 1st, 28 94; Yorktown, 11. 1,968 94
OHIO.—Bellefontaine—Bellefontaine 1st, 1 23; Bucyrus, 12 34. Chillicothe—North Fork, 3; Salem South, 18 35. Cincinnati—Cincinnati 3d, 6; —Poplar Street, 8; Glendale 1st, 47; Sharonville, 3 11; Springdale, 13; Cleveland—Akron 1st, 5; East Cleveland 1st, 9 60. Columbus—Columbus Westminister, 8. Dayton—Blue Ball, 6; Dayton 4th, 10; Middletown 1st, 22 57; Monroe, 3 50; Seven Mile, 4 07; Troy 1st, 15 99; Xenia, 11 36. Huron—Freemont, 24; Huron, 9 50. Lima—Harrison, 2 75. Mahoning—Canton 1st, 19 29; Middle Sandy, 5 55; Poland, 11 10. Marion—Berlin, 9; Marion 1st, 10; Salem, 2. Maumee—Toledo 8th, 4. Portsmouth—Hanging Rock, 4; Ironton, 10. St. Clairsville—Bannock, 4; Cambridge, 8; Farmington, 3 19; Mount Pleasant, 6 66; New Athens, 5 40; Rock Hill, 9 30; Scotch Ridge, 5 14; Short Creek, 10; Wheeling Valley, 3 60. Steubenville—Carrollton, 7; Long's Run, 7 38; New Hagerstown, 3; Unionport, 1. Wooster—Loudonville, 2 25; Perryville, 3 80. Zanesville—Homer, 6 60; Mt. Vernon, 11; Muskingum, 7; New Concord, 1; Norwich, 1; Utica, 12 25; Zanesville 1st, 33 84. 467 63
OREGON.—Portland—Oregon City, 13. 13 00
PENNSYLVANIA.—Allegheny—Bellevue sub-sch., 3 59; Bull Creek, 5; Evans City, 4; Glasgow, 1 48; Glenshaw (sub-sch., 1 25), 10; New Salem, 8; Pine Creek 2d, 4 25. Blairsville—Braddock 1st, 21 18; Greensburgh Westminister, 7 50; Irwin, 12 82; New Salem, 26 36; Poke Run, 25; Salem, 10. Butler—Harrisville, 5 10; Middlesex, 20; New Hope, 3; Pleasant Valley, 3 15; Scrub Grass, 6. Carlisle—Lebanon 4th Street, 38 34; Lebanon Christ, 116 83; Mechanicsburgh, 9 43; Millerstown, 7 65; Monaghan, 9; Tionesta, 3 32. Chester—Bryn Mawr, 88 13; Coatesville, 12 94; Oxford, 47 78; Penningtonville, 10. Clarion—Academia, 4 27; Punxsutawney, 6 20; Richland, 1 50; Rockland, 3 25. Erie—Belle Valley, 2; Corry 1st, 3 45; Fairview, 3 50; Girard (Miles Grove Branch, 2 35), 7 36; Greenville, 21; Mount Pleasant, 3 14; Sugar Creek, 4. Huntingdon—Buffalo, 2 70; Clearfield, 32; Lost Creek, 11 18; Lower Tuscarora, 8; Mifflintown Westminister, 23 10. Kittanning—Boiling Spring, 2; Rural Valley, 3; West Glade Run, 10 14; Worthington, 14. Lackawanna—Canton, 19; Honesdale 1st, 23 85; Nicholson, 3; Scrant-ton 3d, 123 99; Wilkes Barre Westminster, 21. Lehigh—Andenreid, 20; Brainerd, 27 96. Northumberland—Mahoning, 10; Mifflinburg 1st, 3; Washington, 18. Philadelphia—Philadelphia 3d, 29 76; —South Western, 7 50; —West Spruce Street, 243 83; —Corinthian Avenue, 7 67; —Memorial, 77; —Northern Liberties 1st, 7 12; —Northminster, 150; —Olivet, 70 84; —Oxford, 106 88; —Princeton, 173 94; —Susquehanna Ave, 40. Philadelphia North—Frankford, 16 43; Macalster Memorial, 4, 13; Newtown, 54 64; Pottstown 1st (sab-sch, 3 65), 34 35; Thompson 12 12. Pittsburgh—Centre, 18 12; Charleroi, 7; Chartiers, 250; McDonald 1st, 29 27; Mansfield 1st, 20 45; Mount Olive, 4; Pittsburgh 6th, 1; —East Liberty, 32; —Shady Side, 80; Wilkesburg, 50 30. Redstone—Dunlap's Creek, 12 95; Laurel Hill, 29; McKeesport 1st, 100; Mount Pleasant Reunion, 10; New Providence, 4 50; Smithfield, 2 11; Sewickley, 6. Shenango—Leesburgh, 5; New Castle 1st, 31 35; —2d, 5. Washington—Burgettstown, 22 59; Cross Creek, 27; Fairview, 6 01; Mill Creek, 5 30; Washington 1st, 56 07. Wellsboro—Wellsboro, 5 05. Westminster—Grove, 5; Leacock (sab-sch), 49 cts., 14 52; York 1st, 41 91. Parkersburg—Clarksburg, 5. 2,656 16

SOUTH DAKOTA.—Central Dakota—Madison, 6 72. 6 72
TENNESSEE.—Holston—Mount Bethel, 4 90. Union—Hopewell, 3; New Salem, 2; St. Paul's, 1. 10 90
WASHINGTON.—Olympia—St. John's ch, 5; Willamette—Spring Valley, 3 80. 7 80
WISCONSIN.—La Crosse—Nellville, 3. Madison—Baraboo 1st, 10 77; Kilbourne City, 4 26. Milwaukee—Assembly, 12; Milwaukee Calvary, 32 70; Somers, 11 10; Stone Bank, 2 14. 75 97

Total receipts from churches in November, 1892.....$ 7,499 39
Total receipts from Sabbath-schools in November, 1892..... 80 02
Total.....$ 7,519 41

LEGACY.

Est. Rev. Sam'l Wilson, D. D., Portland, Oregon, 50. $ 50 00

GRATITUDE FUND.

87 50; 2.....$ 89 50

INCOME ACCOUNT.

20 25; 61 50; 262 50.....$ 344 25

MISCELLANEOUS.

Rev. Geo. Morton, 2; A friend, 50; Jno. H. Converse, Esq., 400; Rev. A. S. Taylor, 15; C. Penn, 2; Rev. W. L. Tarbet and wife, 60 cts. 470 60

Total receipts in November, 1892.....$ 8,473 75
Total receipts from April 15, 1892..... 63,269 78

JACOB WILSON, Treasurer,
1234 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia,

RECEIPTS FOR FOREIGN MISSIONS, NOVEMBER, 1892.

ATLANTIC.—Knox—Madison, 2. South Florida—Eustis Y. P. S. C. E., 13 00. 15 00
BALTIMORE.—Baltimore—Baltimore Brown Memorial, 243 53; Frederick City, 3; Hampden sab-sch, 10. Washington City—Falls Church Ballston Branch, 26; Washington City, 4th, 29 80. 311 33
CALIFORNIA.—Benicia—San Rafael, 123 45; sab-sch, 15 05. Los Angeles—Cucamonga, 4; Glendale sab-sch, * 2 89; Antelope Valley, 10. Stockton—Traver, 2. 163 39
COLORADO.—Denver—Littleton sab-sch, 5 96. Pueblo—Canon City, 24; Rocky Ford sab-sch, * 2 87; Fountain sab-sch, * 7 21. 109 74
ILLINOIS.—Alton—Alton, * 29 11; Bethel, 5; Ebenezer, 5; Edwardsville, * 16 25; Virden, 11. Bloomington—Philo sab-sch, 6; Roseville, * 6 00, sab-sch, * 2 00, Y. P. S. C. E., * 2 00. Cairo—Anna, * 12; Cairo, * 10; Metropolis, 5 18, sab-sch, 2 31; Murphysboro, * 6 00, sab-sch, * 4 00. Chicago—Chicago 1st, 105 50—2d, 3d, 144 80—5th, 28 40—8th, 78 72—Covenant, * 370 66—Scotch, 12; Riverside, * 60; South Evanston, 80; Hinsdale, * 11 80. Freeport—Belvidere, * 50 47; Prairie Dell German, 5; Ridgefield, * 3 65. Mattoon—Arcola, 5; Effingham sab-sch, 9 54; Kansas, * 4. Ottawa—Earlville sab-sch, 3; Ottawa, 23 52. Peoria—Brimfield, 10. Rock River—Aledo, Y. P. S. C. E., 25; Coal Valley Y. P. S. C. E., 4 63; Dixon, * 3 00; Edgington, * 10 00; Morrison, 277 83, sab-sch, 3 86; Morrison Y. P. S. C. E., 11 18; Munson, * 5 50; Princeton, 18 69, * 41 83; Sterling, * sab-sch, 2 88. Schuyler—Carthage, * 1 00; Doddsville, Y. P. S. C. E., 5; Macomb, * 8 10. Springfield—Manchesters sab-sch, 2 55; Mason City sab-sch, * 7; Pisgah, 7 56; Springfield 2d, 159 60; Unity, 6 85; Winchester sab-sch, 8 23. 1740 53
INDIANA.—Crawfordsville—Ladoga, 4 85; Rock Creek, 8 48; Rockfield, 3 44; Rockville, 23 37; Union, 5 50; Williamsport, 2 90. Indianapolis—Indianapolis Tabernacle Y. P. S. C. E., 25. Muncie—Wabash, Y. P. S. C. E., 15. New Albany—Livonia, 5. Vincennes—Terre Haute Central Y. P. S. C. E., 7 00. White Water—Cambridge City, 1. 110 54
INDIAN TERRITORY.—Cherokee Nation—Tahlequah, 6. Chickasaw—Purcell sab-sch, 2. 8 00
IOWA.—Cedar Rapids—Cedar Rapids Bohemian sab-sch, 2 11; Clinton sab-sch, 40; Mount Vernon, Bethany Band, 5; Wyoming, 19 85. Council Bluffs—Villisca, 26. Des Moines—Des Moines Central, Y. P. S. C. E., 43 50. Fort Dodge—Paton, 5; Rolfe, 2d, 7 05. Iowa—Fairfield sab-sch, 16. Iowa City—Davenport, 1st, 207 69, sab-sch, 8 00; Davenport, 1st, Y. P. S. C. E., 5 00; Summit, 24 50; Wilton sab-sch, 4 25; —Y. P. S. C. E., 1 75. Sioux City—Hospers, 5 00. 529 70
KANSAS.—Emporia—Peotone, 5; Wichita 1st Y. P. S. C. E., 10; Winfield sab-sch, 7 44. Larned—Burton sab-sch, 2 50; Hutchinson Y. P. S. C. E., 4 07. Neosho—Glendale, 1 20; Parsons, 100. Solomon—Carlton sab-sch, 4 56; Glen Elder, 2. Topeka—Lawrence, 2; Riley Centre German, 7; Topeka Westminster sab-sch, 2 48; K. C. Central, Y. P. S. C. E., 2 22. 150 60

KENTUCKY.—Louisville—Louisville 4th Y. P. S. C. E., 6. 6
MICHIGAN.—Detroit—Holly sab-sch, * 3; Ypsilanti, 23. Flint—Galena, 1. Grand Rapids—Grand Rapids Westminster, 17 89. Kalamazoo—Niles Y. P. S. C. E., * 6 82; Richland Y. P. S. C. E., 4. Lansing—Albion, 20; Oneida, 5 61. Monroe—Blissfield, 17; Coldwater Y. P. S. C. E., 10; Erie, (sab-sch, 1 50,) 1 50; La Salle, 1 75. Saginaw—Alpena Y. P. S. C. E., 5; Westminster, 17 90; West Bay City Covenant, 25 cts. 136 42
MINNESOTA.—Duluth—Duluth 1st, 22 62. Mankato—Balaton, 2; Winnebago City Y. P. S. C. E., 3 66. Red River—Scotland, 6. St. Paul—Minneapolis Stewart Memorial, 56; St. Paul House of Hope sab-sch, Bible Class work in Africa, 30 00. Winona—Claremont, 5. 124 29
MISSOURI.—Kansas City—Butler sab-sch, 2 70; Kansas City 2d, sab-sch, 116 79. Ozark—Ebenezer sab-sch, * 3; Joplin, 34 88. Palmyra—Milan, 5 30. Platte—Avalon, 23; Barnard, 31 85; Lathrop, 14; New York Settlement, 2 50; Parkville, * 16 45. St. Louis—St. Louis West, 15; North, * 6; Webster Grove, 7 50. 275 95
NEBRASKA.—Kearney—Buffalo Grove German, 4; North Platte, 16 19. Nebraska City—Burchard, 18 86; Hebron, 14 13; Meridian German, 1 65; York "a friend," 5. Nebraska—Ponca, 7 40; South Fork, 2 62. Omaha—Omaha 1st, (sab-sch, 100,) 74 45; —Castellat Street sab-sch, * 7 79; —Low Ave, Y. P. S. C. E., 2 65; Silver Creek sab-sch, * 43 cts.; Tekamah (sab-sch, * 2 60, Y. P. S. C. E., * 4 30,) 1 50; Webster, 5. 263 87
NEW JERSEY.—Elizabeth—Elizabeth 2d, 333 67; Elizabeth Westminster, 10 00; Pluckamin sab-sch, 4 75. Jersey City—Jersey City 1st sab-sch, 45; Passaic sab-sch, 8 84; Tenafly sab-sch, 26. Monmouth—Burlington, 26 19; Cranbury 1st, 100 10; Farmingdale, 15 63; Forked River, 10; Freehold, 26 79, Y. P. S. C. E., 8 54; Hightstown, * 6; Long Branch, 24; Providence sab-sch, * 2 70; New Gretna, * 4 06. Morris and Orange—Dover, * 75; sab-sch, * 109 21; East Orange, Brick, 323 12; Morristown 1st, 159 30; South Street, Special for Sao Paulo, 19 22; —1st, Special for Sao Paulo, 19 22; —South Street, Men and Boy's Special Fund, 266 50; —South Street sab-sch, * 71 86; Orange German sab-sch, * 9; Summit Central, 508 43. Newark—Newark 1st, 254; —High Street Y. P. S. C. E., 25 37; —Park, 53 09, Y. P. S. C. E., 25; —Roseville, 261 55; —Woodside sab-sch, * 5; —Fifth Avenue, 40. New Brunswick—Milford Y. P. S. C. E., 7; Pennington Harboursat sab-sch, 7 32; Trenton 1st, 2 members, 15; —Prospect Street, 39. Newton—Belvidere 1st sab-sch, * 6 18. West Jersey—Bridgeton West sab-sch, 24 53; Deerfield sab-sch, * 10; Hammonton, 28 01. 3,034 68
NEW YORK.—Albany—Albany 6th, 3, sab-sch, * 20 00; Amsterdam 2d, 173 60; Corinth, 2; Rockwell Falls, 12; Menard's Bethany, 72. Binghamton—Binghamton, West sab-sch, 12. Boston—Newburyport 2d, 50; Windham sab-sch.* 83. Brooklyn—Brooklyn 1st.* 161 78, sab-sch.* 11 21; —Greene Avenue Y. P. S. C. E., 10; —Lafayette Avenue, 19 64; —Memorial, 687 60; —Mount Olivet, 3 66; —Prospect Heights sab-sch.* 8 26; —South Third Street, 42 83; —Throop Avenue, 101; —Trinity Y. P. S. C. E., 7 05; Edgewater 1st, 20 00, sab-sch, 26 00; West New Brighton Calvary Y. P. S. C. E., 1. Buffalo—Allegheny sab-sch.* 1 40; Buffalo 1st, "a friend," 2,000; —Bethany sab-sch.* 20; —Central sab-sch.* 5 80; —North, 111 99, sab-sch, 30 47; —Westminster sab-sch, 33 36; —West Avenue, 10 45; Fredonia, 13; Silver Creek sab-sch, 3 70. Cayuga—Genoa 1st, 32; —2d.* sab-sch 2 00.* Y. P. S. C. E., 1 60; —3d sab-sch.* 2 60; Owasco, 15 00, sab-sch.* 9 08. Champlain—Chazy, 17. Chemung—Burdett, 11 40; Elmira 1st, 66; —Lake Street, 50. Columbia—Catakill, 12 94; Windham, 35. Genesee—Batavia sab-sch.* 8 88; Bergen Y. P. S. C. E., 15. Geneva—West Fayette Y. P. S. C. E., 5; Shortsville Y. P. S. C. E., 20. Hudson—Cohecton, 4 00, sab-sch, 1 60; Good Will, 5 61; Goshen sab-sch, 50 Hamptonburgh, 25; Haverstraw 1st, 10; Ridgebury, 2 35; Scotchtown, 50; Unionville, 3; Washingtonville 1st, 50. Long Island—Amagansett sab-sch, 6 21; Cutchogue 16 86; Greenvort Y. P. S. C. E., 5 73; Mattituck, 8; Shelter Island Y. P. S. C. E., 32 47. Lyons—Alloway sab-sch, 6; Rose sab-sch, 2; Wolcott 1st, 5 54. New York—Montreal American, 600; New York 1st, 2,960 35; —Central, 2,080; —Christ, 37 71; —Covenant, 268; —Harlem sab-sch, 46; —Mizpah sab-sch, 50; —Rutgers Riverside Y. P. Asso. for Jacot Fund, 31 70; —West 23d Street, 100, sab-sch, 75. Niagara—Lockport 1st (sab-sch, support of Miss Murray 150), Y. P. S. C. E., for support of Miss Murray, 11 12; Wright's Corners, 10. North River—Amenia Y. P. S. C. E., 11; Highland Falls, 11; Newburgh Calvary, 13 43; Pine Plains, 15; Poughkeepsie (sab-sch 70 87), 58 37. Otsego—Delhi 2d, Rev. F. H. Seely, 40. Rochester—Brighton, 10; Ogden Center, 11 07; Parma Centre, 7; Rochester 3d Y. P. S. C. E., 10; —Emanuel, 3 07; —St. Peter's, 138 06; Webster, 28 75. St. Lawrence—Chaumont sab-sch, 5; Or Bow, 23 81; Watertown 1st Y. P. S. C. E., support of Mr. Chatterjee, 150. Steuben—Corning, 46 09; Cuba, 28 27. Syracuse—Fulton Y. P. S. C. E., 9 20; Liverpool sab-sch, 76c; Oswego Grace, 100. Troy—Argyle, 7; Cambridge, 37 58; Fort Edward, 3; Troy Westminster, 47 43. Utica—Ilion, 15 00; Little Falls, 50; Rome, 34 74; Sauquoit,* 4; Vernon Centre, 8 23; Waterville sab-sch.* 10; Westchester—Bedford 40; Peekskill 1st, 143 53; Yonkers 1st, R. E. Prime, Esq., 100. — 11,763 86

NORTH DAKOTA.—Bismarck—Mandan, 5. 5

OHIO.—Athens—Barlow,* 5; Bristol, 13 20. Bellefontaine—Belle Centre, 11; Bellefontaine, 8 15; Chillicothe—Chillicothe Memorial, 3; French, 3; North Fork, 10; Union, 2; White Oak Y. P. S. C. E., 14. Cincinnati—Bond Hill, 8; Cincinnati Fairmount, German, 3 50; Reading and Lockland, 5; Reading and Lockland Y. P. S. C. E., 6. Cleveland—Akron Y. P. S. C. E., 5; Cleveland 1st, Student Vol Soc., 187 50. Dayton—Bath,* 1 50; Dayton Riverdale Y. P. S. C. E., 5; Osborn,* 2. Lima—Kalida, 7 75; North Bethel, 3 80. Mahoning—Hanover, 9; Poland, 43 80. Marion—Marion (sab-sch, 37 50), 60; Milford Centre, 4; Richwood sab-sch,* 2. Maumee—Toledo Westminster,* 22; North Baltimore, 15. Portsmouth—Ripley sab-sch, 10. St. Clairsville—Cambridge sab-sch,* 6; Crab Apple sab-sch, 59 81; Nottingham, 114. Steubenville—Scioto, 10; Two Ridges, 3 68; Yellow Creek, 14. Wooster—Fredericksburgh sab-sch,* 22; Fredericksburgh Y. P. S. C. E., 4; Holmesville sab-sch,* 3 20; Mansfield 50; Nashville, 11 82. Zanesville—Jersey, 19; Mt. Vernon, 18; New Concord, 7; Norwich, 8; Zanesville 2d sab-sch, 26. 945 21

OREGON.—Portland—Portland Cavalry, 31 90; —Chinese sab-sch, 2 65. South Oregon—Ashland, 5. Willamette—Brownville, 7 75; Crawfordville, 5. 43 80

PENNSYLVANIA.—Allegheny—Allegheny, School Street sab-sch for Junna High School, 25. Blairsville—Greensburg sab-sch, 7 15; Johnstown Y. P. S. C. E., 15; Ligonier, 14 30; Murrysville, 28; Salem, 5. Butler—North Butler, 14. Carlisle—Burnt Cabins, 3; Harrisburgh, Pine Street Y. P. S. C. E., 7; Lower Path Valley, Fannettsburgh sab-sch, 1 92; —25 06; Upper Path Valley,* 14; J. W. Bidle Memorial,* 4 75. Chester—Ashmun, 25; Bryn Mawr, for Mr. Fulton's House, 500 00; —sab-sch,* 34 96; Darby borough sab-sch, 7; Fagg's Manor sab-sch, 50; Ridley Park, 31 57; sab-sch, 40. Clarion—Shiloh, 2; Tionesta sab-sch, 50. Erie—Hadley sab-sch, 1 07; North East sab-sch,* 15; Stoneboro, 7; Westminster sab-sch, 5 96; —,* 3 16. Huntingdon—Altoona, 1st, 121 45; Clearfield, 53; Middle Tuscarora sab-sch,* 4 27; Mount Union, 50; Sinking Valley Y. P. S. C. E., 16 41. Kittanning—Bolling Spring, 8; Rayne sab-sch, 1 00; West Glade Run sab-sch,* 2 45. Lackawanna—Dunmore, 7 18; Harmony, 97; New Milford, 10 50; Scranton, 2d, Y. P. S. C. E., 105 13. Northumberland—Great Island sab-sch,* 20; Lycoming, 43; Sunbury sab-sch,* 17. Philadelphia—Philadelphia, 1st, sab-sch, 50; —2d, 45 22; —Atonement, 2 56; —Walnut Street Y. P. S. C. E., 25; —West Spruce Street Y. P. S. C. E., 25. —Gaston Memorial Y. P. S. C. E., 30 30; —Zion, German, 4; Harper Memorial Y. P. S. C. E., 4; —McDowell Memorial, 5 19; Philadelphia North—Ambler, "through Christian Steward," 2 00; Fox Chase, 38 88; Frankford, 37 46; Y. P. S. C. E., 4 50; Jenkintown, Grace, 11; Manayunk, 60. Pittsburgh—Centre, 43 20; Chartiers, 16 50; Fairview, 4; Pittsburgh, 1st sab-sch, 143 04; —2d sab-sch, 35 58; —East Liberty, 160; —H. C. Ayers, salary of Henry Wilson, 68 00; —S. L. Fullwood, support of Zia Zin Tong, 13 50; —sab-sch, support of Hira Zahl, 12 50; Shady Side, 122. Redstone—Brownsville, 12; Dunlap's Creek, 20; McKeesport sab-sch, 31 89; Mount Vernon, 6; Rehoboth, 29; Round Hill, 1. Shenango—Clarksville sab-sch, 13 87; Neshannock sab-sch, 100; Mich Hill (sab-sch, 4 00), 20 00; Westfield sab-sch,* 7. Washington—Burgettstown (sab-sch, 6 47), 8 69; Cross Creek, salary J. C. R. Ewing, 14; Washington, 1st 113 14; Waynesburgh, 14. Wellboro—Beecher Island, 4; Farmington Y. P. S. C. E., 2 78; Wellsboro, 33 31. Westminster—Union sab-sch, 13 20. 2,987 85

SOUTH DAKOTA.—Aberdeen—Castlewood Y. P. S. C. E., 6. Central Dakota—Miller sab-sch, 3. 9 00

TENNESSEE.—Union—Eusebia, 14 51. 14 51

TEXAS.—Austin—Austin, 1st, 167 45

UTAH.—Montana—Anaconda, 4 55; Helena, 1st, 43 48; Stevensville, 5; Kallispell, 8 00, sab-sch, 2 50. Utah—Huntington, 3 01. 66 51

WASHINGTON.—Olympia—St. John's, 5 00. Puget Sound—Kent, 6 10; White River, 8 00. Spokane—Spokane Centenary* 15 00. 34 10

WISCONSIN.—Chippewa—Chippewa Falls sab-sch, 10 97; Hudson sab-sch,* 4 50, Y. P. S. C. E., 11 00. Milwaukee—Beaver Dam, 1st, Y. P. S. C. E., 2 42; Beaver Dam Assembly, 14 14; Cedar Grove, 20; Milwaukee, Calvary, King Sons, 6 25; Immanuel, 165 51. Winnebago—West Merrill, 5 00, sab-sch, 5 00. 244 79

WOMAN'S BOARDS.

Woman's Board of Philadelphia, 4,784 99; New York, 3,445 60; North West, 4040 00; South West, 518 99.....$ 12,789 58

LEGACIES.

Estate of D. C. Reed, dec'd, 5,700; Estate of W. S. Culbertson, dec'd, 1,000; Estate of Miss Julia Chandler, dec'd, 27 10; Estate of Alexander Cook, dec'd, 1,500; Estate of S. R. Rutledge, dec'd, 100; Estate of Alfred Benedict, dec'd, 200; Estate of Margaret Sloane, dec'd, 450; Estate of Laura Carter, dec'd, 5,000; Estate of Susan H. Hoyt, dec'd, 200; Estate of Jno. Davison, dec'd, 1,766 74.....$ 15,943 84

MISCELLANEOUS.

State of California, 1,000; Rev. I. N. Sprague, Poultney, Vt., 5; Mrs. L. B. Stone, Llewellyn Park, 500; Washington and Jefferson College, support of W. G. McClure, 12 00; Rev. Thomas Marshall, D. D., $65; Donald Ross, Spokane, Washington, support of U. S. K. K. 35; Friends in Markleton Sanitarium, 10; "F. M." Montgomery, O., 2 50; Miss. Society of Wooster University, support of Henry Forman, 236 00; Miss Adelaide Smith, Eau Claire, Wis., 5; Woman's Missionary Meeting, Jamaica, L. I., 5; Rev. Austin D. Wolfe, State Center, Ia., 10 00; Mrs. Thomas Marshall, Pittsburgh, Pa., support of S. B. Groves, 1900 00; Louis Shoup, Widroon, Pa., 5; E. W. Sample, N. Y., 50c; Mrs. Sarah W. Sample, Sewickley, Pa., 25; E. R. Forsythe, Greensburg, Ind., support of J. M. Irwin, 100; Madison Ave. Reformed Chapel, N. Y., 29 20; "T. and M., 8; "Haplant," 800; Mrs. Emeline Barker, Homer, Mich., 50; Brook Sayre, 5; Julia L. Ozanne, Cleveland, O., 100; "M. E. P.," 2; Miss Carrie Pierson, for Mr. Mateer's work, 20; Rev. Paul D. Bergen and wife, Alledo, Ill., 18 51; William Campbell, Lexington, Ky., 50; Rev. J. H. Rankin, Buffalo, Pa., for Persian Scholar, 30; "A friend," Springfield, Mo., 5; E. K. Mechlin, Allegheny, Pa., 2 50; Faculty and Students of Hastings College, 50; H. T. Walker, St. Joseph, Mo., 100; Miss C. G. Williamson, Philadelphia, 5; Miss B. A. R. Stocker, Pine Ridge Agency, South Dakota, 15; H. M. Bartlett, Montchanin, Del., 30; "Thanksgiving," 5; Y. M. and Y. W. O. A., of Parson's College, support of W.

G. McClure, 27 85; Mrs. S. J. M. Eaton, Franklin Park, 26; A. D. A. Miller, Buffalo, N. Y., 100; Miss M. T. Cockcroft, N. Y., 6; James Rattray, Reading Center, N. Y., 3; Miss Hughes-Waterville, N. Y., 100; A. D. Jacke, Clarendon, Ind. Territory, 10; "C. Penna., 22; Miss M. Graham, Afton, N. Y., 28; Rev. S. Murdock, 10; J. H. Conant, Chester, Ill., 10; Rev. W. L. Tarbet and wife, 2 80; Mrs. B. B. Brier, 5; J. D. Lynde, Haddonfield, N. J., 100; Rev. A. G. Taylor, Japan, 50; Contribution through Mrs. Van Hook, 12; T. H. P. Saller, for Industrial School, Sangli, 123 78; Mrs. Sarah D. McNair, Groveland, N. Y., for

Hahn Hospital, 1,000; Rev. G. W. Saller, 6 25.....$ 5,571 90

Total receipts during November, 1892.....$37,570 63
Total receipts from May 1st, 1892, to November 30, 1892.....232,089 05
Total receipts from May 1st, 1891, to November 30, 1891.....242,687 24

WILLIAM DILLER, JR., Treasurer,
55 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

* Offerings on Columbus Day for Foreign Missions in the Western Hemisphere.

RECEIPTS FOR FREEDMEN, NOVEMBER, 1892.

ATLANTIC.—South Florida—Titusville, 3 15. 3 15
BALTIMORE.—Baltimore—Baltimore Broadway, 7;—Fulton Avenue, 5; Hampton sab-sch, 5; Highland, 5. 22
COLORADO.—Fueblo—Cañon City, 16. 16
ILLINOIS.—Bloomington—Minnok, 10; Chicago—Chicago 2d sab-sch, 40;—3d, 300;—Hapland, 100; South Evanston, 35. Freeport—Freairie Dell, German, 4; Willow Creek, 31 40; Winnebago, 20. Peoria—Peoria, 2d, 33 51; Yates City, 5. Springfield—Pisagah, 2 24; Unity, 1 04; Williamsville Union, 4 18; Jacksonville, 3. 639 37
INDIANA.—Crawfordsville—Rockville Mem'l, 4 90; Spring Grove, 20 65. Indianapolis—Bethany, 6 50. 41 08
INDIAN TERRITORY.—Choctaw—Choctaw Nation, per A. T. Hunter, 4 15. 4 15
IOWA.—Cedar Rapids—Anamosa, 7. Council Bluffs—Corning, 8. Des Moines—Winterset, 20 87. Dubuque—Dubuque 2d, 3; Waukon, German, 20. Sioux City—Sioux City 1st, 5 25; Spirit Lake, 8. Iowa—Ottumwa East End, 5. Iowa City—Iowa City, 45; Williamsburg, 8. 121 98
KANSAS.—Solomon—Culver, 5 85. Topeka—Black Jack, 3 60. 9 34
MICHIGAN.—Detroit—South Lyon, 11 78; Ypsilanti, 20 35. Grand Rapids—Grand Rapids Westminster, 14 64; Lansing—Oneda, 55 cts. Flint—Marlette 1st, 6; Mundy, 5. Saginaw—Saginaw Immanuel, 4. 73 63
MINNESOTA.—St. Paul—St. Paul House of Hope sab-sch, 6 23. Winona—Owatonna, 10. 16 25
MISSOURI.—Kansas City—Sedalia Central sab-sch, 3. Ozark—Eureka Springs, 6. Platte—Parkville W. M. Soc., 4 65. St. Louis—St. Louis Carondelet, 6 75. 20 41
NEBRASKA.—Kearney—Buffalo Grove, German, 4. Nebraska City—Diller, 3; Hopewell, 3; Humboldt, 5 70; Lincoln 1st, 40; Meridian, German, 25 cts. Omaha—Plymouth, 1. 56 95
NEW JERSEY.—Jersey City—West Hoboken, 22. Morris and Orange—East Orange Brick, 63 80; Myersville, German, 3; Orange Central, 200; Whippany sab-sch, 18 84. Newark—Bloomfield 1st, 78 52; Newark Park, 9 83. New Brunswick—Trenton 3d, 50 38. Newton—Harmony, 15 33; Wantage 1st, 5. 465 70
NEW YORK.—Albany—Sand Lake, 3 65. Binghamton—Binghamton Floral Ave., 2 76. Boston—Antrim, 14 75. Brooklyn—Brooklyn 2d, 123 80;—Classon Avenue, 75;—Memorial, 61 16; Edgewater 1st, 20. Buffalo—Fredonia, 6. Cayuga—Genoa 1st, 16. Chemung—Elmira 1st, 10. Geneva—Bellona, 9; Geneva 1st, 24 39. Hudson—Good Will, 85 cts.; Scotchtown, 5; Unionville, 3; Long Island—West Hampton, 21 76. Lyons—Newark sab-sch, 20 48. Nassau—Far Rockaway, 17; Whitestone, 10. New York—New York 14th St., 5;—University Place, 570 94;—Westminster sab-sch, 50. North River—Little Britain, 8 25; Lloyd, 8 78; Marlborough, 48 41; Poughkeepsie, 8 87. Osage—Gilbertsville, 17. Rochester—Dansville, 9 80; Ogden Centre, 1 68; Rochester Emmanuel, 1 03. St. Lawrence—Plesia, 2. Steuben—Corning, 5 98. Troy—Johnsonville, 2. Utica—Ilion, 5; Rome, 8 62. Westchester—White Plains, 39. 1,346 96
OHIO.—Bellefontaine—Bellefontaine, 1 22; Crestline, 5; Gallion, 13. Chillicothe—Memorial, 1; North Fork, 4; Union, 2. Cincinnati—Avondale, 100. Cleveland—Cleveland 1st, 40. Columbus—Columbus 2d sab-sch, 22 22; church, 25 36; 47 43. Dayton—Dayton Memorial, 10. Lima—Delphos, 4. Mahoning—Hanover, 3 15; Kinsman, 25. Marion—Marion, 10; Ostrander, 5; Richwood, 8 50; York, 4. Steubenville—Yellow Creek, 9. Zanesville—Mt. Vernon, 27; New Concord, 1; Norwich, 1. 321 36
PENNSYLVANIA.—Allagheny—Emsworth, 2110; Freedom, 7. Blairsville—Parnassus, 71 14; Salem, 5. Chester—Honeybrook, 15 88; West Grove, 4 70. Huntingdon—Buffalo Run, 2 70. Kittanning—Kittanning 1st, 78; Salisbury, C. E. S., 20. Lackawanna—Scranton 1st, 239. Northumberland—Jersey Shore, 14. Philadelphia—Philadelphia 3d, 24 03. Philadelphia Central—Philadel- phia Cohocksink, sab-sch, 15 40;—Mantua 2d, West Hope, 16 56—North Broad Street, 54 25. Pittsburgh—Bethany, 14 35; Chartiers, 2 50; Middletown, 10; Pittsburgh 1st, sab-sch, 44 72;—Central, 29 51;—East Liberty, 80;—Shady Side, 80; Raccoon sab-sch, (7 25) 68 19. Redstone—Smithfield, 1 23. Shenango—Rich Hill, 4; Sharpsville, 4. Washington—Washington 1st, 56 07. Wellsboro—Elkland and Osceola, 5; Wellsboro, 5 04. Westminster—Cedar Grove, 5. 1012 42

SOUTH DAKOTA.—Central Dakota—Woonsocket, 4 86. 4 86
WISCONSIN.—Chippewa—Chippewa Falls, 5. La Crosse—Nellville, 2 40. Winnebago—Wausau, 61 70. 69 10

Total receipts from churches.....$ 4,144 63

Woman's Executive Committee.....1,104 49
"C. Penna.".....8 00
Rev. W. L. Tarbet and wife, Springfield, Ill.,...1 20
J. H. Conant, Chester, Ill.,.....10 00
James T. Imley, Hamilton, Ohio,.....5 00
Mrs. Harriet G. Curry, Pittsburgh, Pa.,.....20 00
Wylie Homer, Grant, I. T.,.....1 00
J. D. Thompson, E. Los Angeles, Cal.,.....400 00
"A. W." Ohio,.....5 00
"T. and M." Chicago, Ill.,.....4 50
Miss M. B. Campbell, Uniontown, Pa.,.....5 00
"A Friend," Poughkeepsie, N. Y.,.....100 00
Miss Martha Graham, Afton, N. Y.,.....3 00
John Updegraff, Fort Palmer, Pa.,.....100 00
L. P. S., Cambridge, Mass.,.....250 00
Estate of Amelia Kerr, deceased, N. Y.,.....9,205 00
Transfer church Shenango, for Board of Education, Pa.,.....2 75

$ 11,233 94

Directs sent to Cotton Plant, for October.
Y. P. S. C. E., White Lake, Mich.,.....10 08
Chester sab-sch, Pa.,.....15 08
L. M. Society Presbyterian Church, South
Evaston, Ill.,.....30 00
Students for October and November,.....111 00
Sent to Scotia.
Miss Caroline Willard, Auburn, N. Y.,.....200 00
Scotia Circle, First Church, New Castle, Pa.,...50 50
B. S. Colwell, Portville, N. Y.,.....25 00
Miss Lizzie French, Clark, Pa.,.....10 00
H. M. S., Immanuel Church, Los Angeles, Cal.,...5 00
Sent to Cotton Plant for November,
Oshkosh, L. H. M. S.,.....2 00

Total directs,.....$ 458 00

Total receipts for November,.....$ 15,896 57
Previously reported,.....47,696 32

Total receipts to date,.....63,533 29
Receipts during corresponding period of last year,.....63,482 37

Decrease of.....4,958 98

J. T. GIBSON, Treasurer.

RECEIPTS FOR HOME MISSIONS, NOVEMBER, 1893.

- ATLANTIC.—Fairfield—Ladson, 1. South Florida—Crystal River, 28 96.
- BALTIMORE.—Baltimore—Baltimore, Boundary Avenue, 75;—Fulton Avenue, 10. New Castle—Buckingham, 13 25; Dover, 100; Forest, 30 26; New Castle 1st, (sab-sch, 9), 225 63; Stockton Gunby Mem'l, 3 42; Wilmington, East Lake Mission, 3 79. Washington City—Darnestown, 8 50; Falls Church (Ballston Branch, 1), 16; Washington City Assembly, 23;—Guntton Temple Mem'l, 9 24. 586 30
- CALIFORNIA.—Benicia—Healdsburg, 9 60; Napa City, 233 30; Shiloh, 5. Los Angeles—Los Angeles 3d and sab-sch and Y. P. S. C. E., 20;—Boyle Heights (sab-sch, 5 55), 27 36;—Grand View Y. P. S. C. E., 6 65; Rivera sab-sch, 5; Tustin, 16 05. Oakland—Concord, 14; Danville add'l, 9. San Francisco—San Francisco Westminster (sab-sch, 7 60), 93 20. San Jose—Centreville, 5; Livermore (sab-sch, 3 25), 10. Stockton—Madera, 5 25; Sanger, 30. 659 21
- COLORADO.—Boulder—Fort Morgan, 138 92. Denver—Akron, 5; Littleton sab-sch, 5 96. Gunnison—Aspen 1st, 13 70; Gunnison, 13. Pueblo—Alamosa (sab-sch, 4 53), 11 88; Canon City 1st, 94. 371 97
- ILLINOIS.—Alton—Ebenzer, 5; Jerseyville 1st, 73; Moro, 10; Virden, 15. Bloomington—Wenona, 17. Cairo—Cairo, 11; Murphysboro sab-sch, 4; Old Du Quoin, 1. Chicago—Chicago 1st, 990 15;—1st German, 5;—2d, 1900;—3d, 740 27;—Glenwood Ave. Mission, 2 50;—St. Ann, 5;—Scotch, 13; Du Page, 28 50; Evanston, south, 75; Hyde Park, 199 64; Kenwood Evangelical, 573 90; Lakeview, (a friend, 15), 66; Libertyville, 12; Manteno, 61; Peotone 1st, 73 87. Freeport—Middle Creek, 60; Prairie Dell, German, 5; Rockford 1st, (sab-sch, 4 16), 91 52. Mattoon—Arcola, 5; Charleston, 48 23; Greenup, 8; Redmon, 3; Toledo, 8. Ottawa—Aurora, 24 91; Earlville, (sab-sch, 3), 15; Mendota, 70 45; Oswego, 50; Waltham, 17. Peoria—Princeville sab-sch, 16 80. Rock River—Morrison Y. P. S. C. E., 11 18; Norwood, 51; Rock Island, Central, 45. Schuyler—Bushnell, 6; Elvaston sab-sch. Thanksgiving Offering, 12. Springfield—Jacksonville, State Street, 108; Lincoln, 41 45; Manchester sab-sch, 2 60; Piquan, 6 48; Springfield 1st, 311 95; Unity, 6 23; Winchester sab-sch, 8 29; Rev. W. L. Tarbet and wife, 2 40. 5,116 47
- INDIANA.—Ft. Wayne—Elkhart, 14. Logansport—La Porte, 28 21. 43 21
- INDIAN TERRITORY.—Cherokee Nation—Clear Creek, 2; Pleasant Hill, 5; Pleasant Valley sab-sch, 2 40. Choctaw—McAlester, 5; Philadelphia, 1 60. 16 20
- IOWA.—Cedar Rapids—Anamosa, 6 10; Cedar Rapids, Bohemian, 2 11; Clarence 1st, 9; Linn Grove (sab-sch, 10), 20; Lyons, 12 05; Monticello, 3 85; Vinton add'l (sab-sch, 54), (H. M. Band, 15), 101. Cornwall—Anderson, 5; Conway, Sharsburg Branch, 11 80; Sidney, 8. Council Bluffs—Shelby, 5 50. Des Moines—Adel, 9 75; Colfax, 17; Dallas Centre, (sab-sch, 9), 23. Fort Dodge—Boone, 109; Coon Rapids, 46 23; Dedham, 2 80. Iowa—Martinsburg, 20 80; Mediapolis (sab-sch, 3 13), (Y. P. S. C. E., 6 12), 8 25. Iowa City—Atalissa, 5 90. Sioux City—Early, 5 10; O'Brien Co. Scotch, 6. Waterloo—Greene, 10; Holland, German sab-sch, 5 30; Janesville, 7; Marshalltown, 19; Rock Creek, 9 65. 587 88
- KANSAS.—Emporia—Clear Water, 5; El Paso, 7 69; Ewell, 1 08; Indianola, 4; Marion (Y. P. S. C. E., 5) 40; Melvern, 3; Morris, 3; Peotone, 5; Silver Creek, 3 20; White City, 9; Wichita First, 60;—Oak Street, 25. Highland—Highland, 12; Larned—Burton sab-sch, 2 56; Dodge City 1st, Y. P. S. C. E., 5. Neosho—Fredonia, 34 60; New Albany, 3 80; Weir City, 3. Osborne—Colby, 20 03; Hays City, sab-sch, 6 72; Osborne, 4 75. Solomon—Carlton, 6 05; Clyde, (sab-sch, 3) 59; Cuba, 2; Glen Elder, 3; Lucas, 1. Mt. Pleasant, 10 25; Solomon, (sab-sch, 5) 18 50. Topeka—Clinton, 12; De Soto, 3 50; Junction City, add'l, 1; Lawrence 1st, 47 32; Manhattan (sab-sch, 5) Y. P. S. C. E., 5 50) 23 70; Riley Centre German, 7; Topeka, Westminster (sab-sch, 2 95); (Y. P. S. C. E., 2 21) 5 16. 459 00
- KENTUCKY.—Ebenzer—Falmouth, 1st, 10. Louisville—Owensboro 1st, 50 50. 60 50
- MICHIGAN.—Detroit—Ann Arbor, 54 36; Detroit, 1st, in part 100;—Bethany, 10 25; East Nankin, 7; Milan, 5; Ypsilanti 1st, 18 10. Flint—Brookfield, 2 23; Berne Junction, 1 43; Cassville, 1 68; Flint—in part, 60; Elkton, 1 30; Gaines, 1; Bingham, 3; Vassar, 8 60; Papple, 3 12. Grand Rapids—Grand Rapids Westminster, 37 68. Lansing—Albion, 20; Homer, 55; Jackson, 37; Lansing 1st, 44; Marshall, 11 50; Onoda, 5 10. Monroe—Coldwater 1st, Y. P. S. C. E., 10; Erie, and sab-sch, 3; Jonesville, 16 25; La Salle, and sab-sch, 1 50; Tecumseh, 81 70. Petokey—Cadillac 1st, 43 55. Saginaw—Saginaw Washington Avenue, 5; Westminster, 20 19. 606 54
- MINNESOTA.—Duluth—Brainerd, 19; Cloquet, 5. Manitowish—Beaver Creek, 12; St. James, 5 10; St. Peter's, Union, 6; Shetek, 4; Wells 1st, 9 50; Winnebago City, 25 75; Worthington Westminster, 63. Red River—Bethany, 5 50; Dearborn, 3 25; Maine, (W. M. S., 4 25) 15; Maplewood, 4 50; Sabin, 3; Scotland, 5 33. Western (W. M. S., 10) (Y. P. S. C. E., 1 51) 24. St. Paul—Minneapolis Bethlehem, (sab-sch, 6 34) 41 20;—House of Faith, 5 27;—Stewart Light Bearers, 8; Oak Grove, 9; St. Paul Westminster, 6 10. Winona—Claremont, 7 27; Fremont (sab-sch, 2 56) 15 65; Oronoco, 5 37; Owatonna, 1st, 37 50; Ripley, 3 13; Robertson Stations sab-sch, 64 cts.; Rochester, 64; Utica, 2 52. 395 63
- MISSOURI.—Kansas City—Butler 1st, 40; Creighton, 5; Holden, 13 10; Kansas City 2d, sab-sch, 86 80. Ozark—Ebenzer, 12; Eureka Springs, 14. Palmyra—Centre, 2 88; Glasgow, 9 10; Louisiana, 11. Platte—Lathrop, 8; Mirabile, 3; New York Settlement, Mrs. Etta Town, 2 50. St. Louis—Emanuel German, 10; St. Louis West, additional, 5; Zoar, 10. 230 78
- NEBRASKA.—Hastings—Axtel, 4; Hanover German, 5. Kearney—Buffalo Grove German, L. M. S., 14; St. Edwards, 12; Shelton, 7. Nebraska City—Auburn, 6 40; Beatrice 2d, 5; Goshen, 3 23; Lincoln 2d, additional, 1 75; Meridan, German, 1 50; Plattsmouth, 14 21; York, A Friend, 5. Nebraska—Apple Creek, 1; Black Bird, 1 40; Scottville, 4 60; Wayne, 45; Willowdale, sab-sch, 1 30. Omaha—Fremont, 14 88; Tekamah, 9 75. 157 04
- NEW JERSEY.—Elizabeth—Basking Ridge (sab-sch, 43 38) 131 63; Bethlehem, 11 23; Cranford 1st, (sab-sch, 31) 93 63; Elizabeth Siloam, 6 91; Lamington, 114; Plainfield 1st, 57 57;—Crescent Avenue, 1000. Jersey City—Jersey City, 1st, Sab-sch Missionary Association, 45; Tenafly, sab-sch, 16 43. Monmouth—Burlington, 77 66; Calvary, additional, 2 50; Freehold 1st, 13 37; Jacksonville, 2 66; Mount Holly, 175 69; Providence, 3 11. Morris and Orange—Chatham, additional, 2; East Orange, Brick, (sab-sch, 46 85) 219 43; New Providence, 9; Orange, 1st, sab-sch, 100; St. Cloud, sab-sch, 13 25. Newark—Bloomfield Westminster, 1058 60; Newark 6th, 25;—Park, 61 97;—Roseville, sab-sch, 50;—Woodside, 15 78. New Brunswick—Amwell United, 1st, 9; Hamilton Square, 21; Holland, 10 50; Milford, 36 75; Pennington 1st, (sab-sch, 7 32) 55; Trenton 1st, 707 14;—Prospect Street, 71. Newton—Beattystown, 3; Blairtown (sab-sch, 27 48) 258 79; Danville, and sab-sch, (Allamuchy Mission, 2 73) 5 53; Mansfield 2d, 7; Oxford 1st, 43; Phillipsburgh Westminster, 18. West Jersey—Bridgeton West, sab-sch, 24 53; Cedarville 1st, 10 20. 4674 22
- NEW MEXICO.—Santa Fe—Las Vegas 1st, 35 33. 35 33
- NEW YORK.—Albany—Albany 6th, 8; Amsterdam 2d, 166 01; Ballston Centre, 6 12;—Spa, 23; Charlton, 41; Esperance, 24; Northampton, 19; Sand Lake, 10. Binghamton—Bainbridge, 35; Coventry 2d, 17 64. Boston—Newburyport 1st, 40. Brooklyn—Brooklyn Lafayette Avenue add'l, 330;—Westminster, 811 16; Edgewater 1st, 20. Buffalo—Buffalo 1st, "By a friend," 3,000;—North (A. D. A. Miller 50, 90 71;—West Ave. 5 81; East Aurora (sab-sch, 13 65), (Y. P. S. C. E. 1), 14 65. Cayuga—Fair Haven, 3; Genoa 1st, 21; Ithaca 1st, 990 63; Port Byron, 10. Champlain—Chazy, 10. Chemung—Big Flats sab-sch, 30; Elmira 1st, 60;—Lake Street, 50; Havana (sab-sch, 3), 31; Horse Heads, 18 50; Moreland, 10; Watkins, 32. Columbia—Ashland, 8; Catskill, 218 63; East Windham, 4 21; Windham Centre, 56. Genesee—Warsaw (sab-sch, 56 15), 191. Geneva—Branchport, 5; Dresden, 10; Manchester 1st, 14; Orleans, 2 70; Penn Yan 1st, (sab-sch, 22 30), 95; Seneca Castle, 3 61; Seneca Falls 1st, 97 36. Hudson—Chester, 25 60; Circleville, 3; Good Will, 5 10; Middletown 2d sab-sch, 50; Montgomery, 69; Palisades, 33 31; Ridgebury, 1 50; Scotchtown, 50; Washingtonville 1st, 50. Long Island—Amagansett sab-sch, 6 21; Greenport Y. P. S. C. E., 2 69; Mattituck, 8; Sag Harbor 1st, 40. Lyons—Wolcott 1st, 8 30. Nassau—Christian Hook, 13; Hempstead Christs 1st, 40 50; Jamaica, 173; Oyster Bay (sab-sch, 15), 28; Springfield, 63. New York—New York Brick, 1068 30;—Faith, 45;—Scotch, 160 92;—University Place (sab-sch, 45), (Bethlehem Chapel, 4 40), 107 32;—West 33d Street Westminster sab-sch, 75. Niagara—Lockport 1st (sab-sch, 50), 123 42; No. Tonawanda North (sab-sch, 5), 17 50. North River—Matteawan (sab-sch, 5), 38 37; Millerton, 8; Milton, 8; Newburgh Calvary, 87 66; Poughkeepsie 1st, (sab-sch, 79 87), 124 11; Smithfield, 5. Osego—Delhi 2d Rev. F. H. Seely, 75; Guilford Centre, 23 55; Shavertown, 5 43. Rochester—Brighton, 10 54; Dansville, 3 71; Genesee Village (sab-sch, 60), 360; Mount Morris, 29 13; Nunda, 43 86; Orden Centre, 10 06; Parma Centre, 9; Rochester Grace, 7 25;—Emmanuel, 1 26; Sparta 1st, 48 77;—2d, 21 63; Sweden, 40; Victor 1st, 22 71. St. Lawrence—Adams, 14; Carthage 1st, 22 66; Gouverneur 1st, 149 40; Hammond, 54; Heuvelton, 5. Steuben—Belmont, 1; Canisteo, 112;

Cohocton, 4; Corning 1st, 48 51; Jasper, 11 63. Syracuse—Baldwinsville 1st, 38 05; Mexico 1st (sab-sch Primary Class, 5), 113; Oswego Grace, 100. Troy—Cohoes, 100; Lansingburgh 1st, 189 78; Schaghticoke, 30 77; Troy Liberty Street, 5;—Second Street, 874 69;—Woodside, 231 56; Waterford 1st, 623 52. Utica—Clinton, 66 19; Knoxboro, 26 33; Little Falls 1st, 12; Redfield, 3; Vernon Centre, 3 09. Westchester—Huguenot Memorial, 310; Patterson, 140; Peekskill 1st, 123 63; South East Centre, 19; Yonkers 1st per R. E. Prime, Esq., 100; Yorktown, 23.

13,515 60
NORTH DAKOTA.—Fargo—Durbin, 2; Lamoure, 11; Mapleton, 10; Sanborn, 5. Pembina—Ardoch, 8 10; Elk-mont, 3; Greenwood, 3 15; Locke School House, 9 85; Webster Chapel, 15 33. 66 48

OHIO.—Athens—Amesville, 10 80; Beverly, 10; Cross Roads, 2 75; Guysville, 3; Pleasant Grove, 2 08. Bellefontaine—Bellefontaine 1st, 7 41; Gallon 1st, 21 25; North Washington, 3; Zanesfield sab-sch, 3 49. Chillicothe—Hillsboro (Sycamore Valley sab-sch, 2 55), 85 33; Memorial, 3; North Fork, 10; Union, 3. Cincinnati—Bond Hill, 9; Cincinnati 2d, 25;—6th, 33;—Clifton, 12 97;—Mount Auburn, 45; College Hill, 41. Cleveland—Cleveland 1st, 348; East Cleveland 1st 233 63. Columbus—Columbus 2d, 25 57; Darby, 10; Darbyville, 2. Dayton—Bethel, 2; Dayton 1st, 250 04;—Memorial, 10; Eaton, 13; Jacksonburg, 3 04; New Carlisle (sab-sch, 3), 15. Huron—Fremont, 35 25; Peru, 5 50. Lima—Ada, 80; Blanchard (Y. P. S. C. E., 6), 56; Bluffton sab-sch, 3 25; McComb (Y. P. S. C. E., 10 50, sab-sch, 6 55), 51 87; St. Mary's (sab-sch, 19 01), 79 60; Van Buren, 10. Mahoning—Ellsworth, 80; Leetonia, 10 58; Vienna, 4 25. Marion—Liberty, 10; Marion 1st (sab-sch, 37 50), 93 50. Maumee—Perrysburgh Walnut Street, 10 75; Weston (sab-sch, 2), 7 28. Portsmouth—Hanging Rock, 10 40; Mount Leigh, 7; Portsmouth 1st add'l, 131 96; Red Oak, 15. St. Clairsville—Buffalo (sab-sch, 20 03), 65 62; Farmington, 1 72; Scotch Ridge, 3 63; Wheeling Valley, 10. Stubenville—Bakersville (sab-sch, 2 60), 3 60; Bethel, 40; Buchanan Chapel, 11; Carrollton, 26; East Springfield 1st, 139; Feed Spring, 3 50; Island Creek, 15; Nebo, 1 33; New Cumberland (Y. P. S. C. E., 2), 5 60; Still Fork (sab-sch, 10 95), (Y. P. S. C. E., 1 55), 25; Two Ridges, 6 96; Yellow Creek, 16. Wooster—Apple Creek (sab-sch, 21 62), 53 62; Berlin, 1 75; Doylestown, 8; Lexington, 20 50; Loudonville, 1; Marshallville, 1; Orrville, 3; Perrysville, 1; Savanah, 27 20; Shelby, 11. Zanesville—Bladensburg, 7 72; Dresden, 7 46; Jersey, 12 60; Madison, 29; Martinsburg, 15 48; Mt. Pleasant, 12 54; New Concord, 6; Norwich, 9; Utica, 20; Zanesville 1st, 85 18.

2,760 57
OREGON.—East Oregon—La Grande, 5. Portland—Portland 1st, 1,401 35;—3d, 42;—Calvary, 19 90. —Mizpah, 10. South Oregon—Ashland (L. M. S., 8), 14; Willetta—Corvallis, 25; Oak Ridge, 5; Yaquina Bay, 35. 1,537 25

PENNSYLVANIA.—Allegheny—Allegheny 1st Bible School, 27 84;—Providence, 126; Bellevue, 23; Concord, 2 25 Hoboken sab-sch, 10; Leetsdale, 119 41; Sharpsburgh 53 46. Blairsville—Fairfield, 57 88; Greensburgh Westminster, 28 08; Salem, 5; Unity, 30; Rev. W. B. Carr, 30. Butler—Harrisville, 13 12; Pleasant Valley, 6 23; Princeton, 14. Carlisle—Mercersburgh, 68 50; Shippensburg, 70 55; Woman's Annual Meeting, 10. Chester—Downingtown Central, 3; Fairview, 12; Honeybrook, 75 82; Wayne (sab-sch, 54 08), 169 08. Clarion—Beech Woods, Wm. B. Ray, 6; Brockwayville, 8 50; Brookville, 23 70; Clarion, 25 19. Erie—Bradford, 61 61; Corry, 12; Erie Chestnut Street, 19 15; Fairfield, 8; Franklin add'l, 5; Garland, 17 26; Harbor Creek, 2; Milledgeville, 8; Oil City 1st, 74 40; Pittsfield, 10 09; Titusville, 179 96; Westminster (sab-sch, 5 96), 10 96. Huntingdon—Bellefonte, 160 63; Birmingham, Warrior's Mark Chapel, 68 79; Curwensville (King's Daughters, 5), 20; Fruit Hill, 18 52; Lower Spruce Creek, 12 12; Mount Union, 27 91; Petersburg (sab-sch, 5), 11 23; Sinking Creek, 2 45; Spruce Creek, 90; Tyrone, 120; Williamsburgh, 41 43. Kittanning—Slate Lick, 18 40; Brader's Grove, 16 40. Lackawanna—Bethany, 4 01; Brooklyn, 20; Carbondale, 177 89; Franklin sab-sch, 1 50; Hawley 1st, 11; New Milford, 8 50; Rushville, 8; Stevensville (sab-sch, 5), 14; Towanda 1st, (sab-sch, 50), 180; Troy, 54 83; Wyoming, 4; Sarah C. Adams, 5. Lehigh—Bangor, 5 16; Easton, Brainard, 572 85; Mahanoy City, Y. P. S. C. E., 3 25; Mountain, 11 62; Reading 1st, 77; South Easton Y. P. S. C. E., 10; Upper Lehigh, 17 59; Ladies, 10. Northumberland—Bald Eagle and Nittany, 8 33; Berwick, 20; Derry, 4 25; Hartleton, 6; Mahoning (sab-sch, 15 47), 17 47; New Columbia, 7 50; Sunbury sab-sch, 18; Washington sab-sch, (Allentown sab-sch, 1 86), 6; Ladies, 11. Parkersburgh—Clarksburgh, 3 55; French Creek, 4; Hughes River, 9; Lebanon, 3 25. Philadelphia—Philadelphia 10th, 1230;—Evangel, 29; Holland Memorial, 43;—McDowell Mem'l, 4 53;—South, 15;—Tabernacle, 500 61;—Woodland, 1100 16;—Cohocksink, 3d Street Mission, 6 22;—Covenant, 24;—Susquehanna Avenue, 40. Philadelphia North, 159; Ambler, 2; Carversville, 3 14; Chestnut Hill, 159; Doylestown, 68 25; Frankford, 87 46; Germantown, Redeemer (sab-sch, 14 55), 93 25; Leverington sab-sch, 10; Morrisville, 5 60; Springfield, 10. Pittsburgh—Bethany, 31 33; Cannonsburgh 1st, 38; Cannonsburgh Central, 21 50; Centre sab-sch, 46; Chartiers, 15 50; Lebanon, 75; Miller's Run, 13; Mount Olive, 10; Pittsburgh 1st sab-sch, 136 82;—2d, 300;—4th, 67 25;—6th, 177 50;—East Liberty, 534;—McCandless Ave., 5;—Shady Side, 128; Raccoon (sab-sch, 5), 84; Wilkinsburgh, 205. Redstone—Dunbar (sab-sch, 10), 61; McKeesport 1st, 200; Scottsdale (sab-sch, 1 71), 32; Uniontown, 261 50; Friends, Markleton Sanitarian, 6. Shenango—Clarksville, 29; Little Beaver sab-sch, 12 16; Neshannock sab-sch, 100; New Castle 1st, 35;—2d, 23 50; Sharon, 34 38; Transfer, 3; Unity, 30; Westfield, 156. Washington—Burgettstown (sab-sch, 35 12), 105 12; Cross Creek, Mary Vance, 10; Forks of Wheeling, 105; Upper Buffalo (sab-sch, 7 19), 122 80; Washington 1st, 100 93; Wheeling 1st, 55 33;—3d, 15. Wellboro—Elkland and Osceola, 67; Farmington (Y. P. S. C. E., 2 09), 7 15; Tioga, 4; Wellsboro, 31 29. Westminster—Chestnut Level, add'l, 10; Middle Octorara 11; Union sab-sch, 13 20; Wrightsville, 12; York Westminster, 10. 10,225 25

SOUTH DAKOTA.—Aberdeen—Andover, 3; Britton sab-sch, 32; Holland 1st, 8 55; Huffton, 1 25; Leola, 6 59; Pembroke, 6 50. Central Dakota—Endeavor, 2; Union, 3. Southern Dakota—Scotland, 7 50. 70 30

TENNESSEE.—Holston—Chuckey Vale, 2; Lamar, 3. Kingston—Chattanooga, Ft. Chatham Chapel, 1 03; Piney Falls, 71 cts. Union—New Providence, 36; Shannondale, 23 11. 65 85

TEXAS.—Austin—Rev. C. F. Richmond, 25. North Texas—Denison 1st, 26 65. Trinity—Waskom, 10. 61 65
UTAH.—Montana—Anaconda, 7 50; Boulder, 20; Deer Lodge, 67 25; Philbrook, 1. Wood River—Bellevue, 7; Boise City (sab-sch, 6), (Y. P. S. C. E., 5), 30; Caldwell, 10; Nampa, 10. 153 75

WASHINGTON.—Olympia—Hoquiam, 4; Montesano 1st, 38 50; Tacoma 2d, Y. P. S. C. E., 8; Wynooche, 6. Puget Sound—Ballard, 4 47; Lake Union, 2 45; Seattle, Calvary, 5 15. Spokane—Coeur d'Alene, 6 40. 75 17
WISCONSIN.—Chippewa—Ashland, Bethel, 5; Cadotte, 5; Chippewa Falls 1st, (sab-sch, 10 97), 37 12; Hurley, 11 81. Madison—Beloit 1st, 58 69; Madison St. Paul's German, 5 50; Middleton, German, 1 50; Pierceville, 7. Milwaukee—Beaver Dam Assembly, 12; Milwaukee Immanuel, 163 62. Winnebago—Buffalo, 14 50; Little River, 2 50; Neenah (sab-sch, 15), 95 04; Packwaukee, 5 50; Stiles, 2 50. 427 23

Woman's Executive Committee of Home Missions.....$ 15,147 18

Less amount refunded to Hays City Church, 53,008 16
Osborne Presbytery.....9 74

Total received from churches.....$ 57,998 42

LEGACIES.

Legacy of Rev. D. Reed, dec'd, late of New Castle, Pa., 2,850; William S. Culbertson, dec'd, late of New Albany, Ind., 1000; Miss Julia Chandler, dec'd, late of Chicago, Ill., 27 10; Mrs. Grier, late of Elkland, Pa., 1-10, 25; Alexander Cook, dec'd, late of Cottage Grove, Wis., 1,500; Margaret Sloan, dec'd, late of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., 450; Laura Carter, dec'd, late of Geneva, N. Y., 5,000; Susan H. Hoyt, dec'd, late of Stamford, Ct., 200; Mrs. E. Spangler, dec'd, late of Edgerton, O., 130 60; Miss Callista M. Bessac, dec'd, 25; John S. Davison, dec'd, late of Cranbury, N. J., 1,766 74; Louisa M. Gardner, dec'd, late of East Hampton, N. Y., 787 55.....$ 13,751 99

MISCELLANEOUS.

Unknown, 1; F. M., Montgomery, O., 2 50; Rev. Wm. Drummond, Stone Bank, Wis., 50 cts.; Donation from a friend, 20; Mrs. Sarah W. Semple, Sewickly, Pa., 25; Mrs. Jane M. Anderson, Bellairs, O., 5; "T. and M.", 8; "Hapland," 300; Mrs. Emeline Barker, Homer, Mich., 50; M. L. Roberts, Brooklyn, N. Y., 60; Brooks Sayre, Summit, N. J., 5; Rev. I. S. Lord, Lainsburg, Mich., 1; "C. Penna.", 14; Miss Martha Graham, Afton, N. Y., 3; Rev. S. Murdock, Oaks Corners, N. Y., 10; J. H. Conant, Chester, Ill., 10; Mrs. Edwin G. Benedict, Cleveland, O., 1; M. E. Potter, Brooklyn, 2; a friend of Missions, special for New Mexico, 30; Mayer Wetherill, Syracuse, N.

Y., 1; "M. S. S.," 500; "L. R. F.," 500; A friend, La Porte, Ind., 15; Mrs. S. J. M. Eaton, Franklin, Pa., 20; "L. B.," 5; "A believer in Missions," 500; A friend through Rev. John Hall, D. D., 250; Sabbath-school at East Bloomfield, N. Y., 15 52; "A. E.," 70; Friend, Logansport, Ind., 5; A friend who loves Missions, 20; A. D. A. Miller, Buffalo, N. Y., 100; Ithaca, N. Y., 90; A believer in Missions, 500; J. W. Parks, South Haven, Kans., 25; Octogenarian, Ashland, N. Y., 3; Rev. A. G. Taylor, Japan, 20; Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Brookmilt, Cedar Rapids, Iowa, 25; Sabbath-school of Monticello, Minn., 1 55; E. Sterling Ely, Buffalo, N. Y., 23 75; Interest on John C. Green Fund, 535; Interest on Permanent Fund, 30.....$ 3,513 82

Total received for Home Missions, November, 1892.....$ 75,563 23
Total received for Home Missions from April 1, 1892.....$ 398,554 53
Amount received during same period last year.....$ 364,496 80

O. D. EATON, Treasurer,
Box L, Station D. 53 Fifth Avenue, New York.

RECEIPTS FOR HOME MISSIONS, DEBT ACCOUNT, NOVEMBER, 1892.

ATLANTIC.—South Florida—Upeala, Swedish, 2 60. 2 60
BALTIMORE.—Baltimore—Ashland sab-sch, 1 21; Baltimore Aisquith St., c, 16 81;—Central sab-sch, 16 51;—La Fayette Square c, 20;—Westminster sab-sch, c, 8 08; Waverly c, 17 70. 80 25
CALIFORNIA.—Los Angeles—Orange 1st, 16. Sacramento—Roseville (sab-sch, 2 10), c, 21 50; Sacramento Westminster, (sab-sch, 2 75), c, 27 75. San Jose—Monterey 1st, 7; Wright Highland, c, 8. 80 25
CATAWBA.—Yadkin—Bowers Chapel, c, 2 50; Freedom and sab-sch, c, 4 20. 6 70
COLORADO.—Boulder—Greeley, c, 15; Rankin, c, 7 25. Pueblo—Cañon City 1st sab-sch, c, 107; Pueblo Fountain, c, 2 50. 121 75
ILLINOIS.—Alton—Alton 1st, c, 24 21; Edwardsville, c, 16 25; Plainview, Mrs. A. R. Edward, son and two daughters, 10. Bloomington—Clarence sab-sch, c, 3 50. Calro—Anna, c, 18; Cairo 1st, c, 10; Murphysboro, c, 6. Chicago—Cahery, c, 8; Chicago 10th, c, 25;—Covenant, 545 07; Harvey Y. P. S. C. E., c, 15 55; Hinsdale, c, 11 80; Maywood, c, 4; Riverside, c, 21 77. Freeport—Belvidere, c, 67 50. Mattoon—Ashmore, c, 10; Kansas, c, 4. Ottawa—Troy Grove, c, 5. Rock River—Dixon, c, 31 28; Edgington, c, 44; Munson, c, 10; Princeton, c, 41 55; Rock Island Broadway, c, 15 30; Sterling sab-sch, c, 3 58. Schuyler—Carthage add'l, c, 2; Kirkwood, 11 91; Macomb, 14 15. Springfield—Greenview, c, 19. 1,007 97
INDIANA.—Logansport—Union, c, 3 06. White Water—Clarksburg, c, 15 53; Kingston, c, 51 59. 69 98
INDIAN TERRITORY.—Muscogee—Wewoka, c, 2. 2
IOWA.—Cedar Rapids—Atkins, 4 50; Mechanicville, c, 10. Council Bluffs—Hamburg, c, 2; Missouri Valley and sab-sch, c, 16 90. Fort Dodge—Lohrville sab-sch, 8 29. Iowa—Wapella, c, 6 10. Iowa City—Davenport 1st, c, 17 03; Wilton, c, 6. Sioux City—Vall, 9 53. Waterloo—Grundy Centre, 10; State Centre, c, 16; Tama sab-sch, 1 61; Waterloo 1st sab-sch, c, 40. 148
KANSAS.—Emporia—Clear Water, 1; Melvern, 2. Highland—Axtel, c, 13 16; Baileyville, c, 12 37. Neosho—Columbus, 7; Fort Scott 2d, c, 4; Princeton, c, 6; Richmond, c, 4. Osborne—Bow Creek, 4; Long Island, 4 46; Phillipsburg 1st, c, 6. 63 99
KENTUCKY.—Transylvania—Harrodsburgh Assembly sab-sch, c, 6 18. 6 18
MICHIGAN.—Detroit—Detroit Trumbull Avenue sab-sch, c, 45;—Westminster sab-sch, c, 20 24; Holly, c, 10. Lake Superior—Iron Mountain 1st, c, 6 07. Lansing—Brooklyn, c, 5; Oneida sab-sch, c, 4. Saginaw—Saginaw E. S. 1st, c, 26 75. 117 06
MINNESOTA.—Mankato—Fulda, c, 4 27; Madella, c, 7 60; St. James, 3. Red River—Red Lake Falls, c, 13 85. St. Paul—Minneapolis Andrew, a member, c, 1. Winona—Alden, c, 8 67; Austin, 4; Claremont, 3 20; Ripley, 2 40. 47 99
MISSOURI.—Kansas City—Butler sab-sch, c, 4 95. St. Louis—De Soto, 10; Rolla, 5; St. Louis North, c, 10;—West, 101 12. 131 07
NEBRASKA.—Hastings—Hanover German, 5; Nelson, c, 10 16. Nebraska City—Bennett, c, 12; Palmyra, c, 8. Tamora, c, 3. Omaha—Omaha 1st German, c, 10;—Knox, c, 36;—Southwest, c, 18; Silver Creek (sab-sch, 43 cts.) c, 79 cts. 102 25
NEW JERSEY.—Elizabeth—Pluckamin sab-sch, c, 4 75; Springfield, c, 12. Jersey City—Garfield Y. P. S. C. E., c, 6. Monmouth—Beverly sab-sch, c, 13; Manalapan, c, 13 90; Mount Holly, c, 24 41. Morris and Orange—Boonton, 1st sab-sch, c, 16. New Brunswick—Kirkpatrick Memorial, c, 7; Trenton Prospect Street, 20. West Jersey—Janvier, c, 3 17; Williamstown, c, 8 08. 128 26
NEW MEXICO.—Arizona—Tombstone, c, 12 50. Rio Grande—Las Cruces 1st, c, 8 25. Santa Fe—J. P. Ortega, N. M., 12; R. Blea, N. M., 8; A. A. Maes, N. M., 5; Juan Y. Martinez, N. M., 5; Juan L. Torres, N. M., 5. 50 75
NEW YORK.—Albany—Pine Grove, c, 5; Sand Lake sab-sch, c, 4; Stephentown, c, 2 50. Binghamton—Cortland L. H. M. Soc'y., 43 50. Boston—Portland, c, 13 20. Brooklyn—Brooklyn Arlington Avenue Y. P. S. C. E., c, 5. Buf- falo—Dunkirk sab-sch, c, 2 46. Cayuga—Genoa 2d, c, 4;—2d, c, 6; Ithaca 1st, 75. Champlain—Plattsburgh 1st Y. P. S. C. E., 10. Chemung—Elmira 1st, c, 137 69. Geneva—Bellona, c, 17. Hudson—Hamptonburgh and sab-sch, 13; Mount Hope (sab-sch, 3 20), c, 14; Ridgebury, c, 8 50. Long Island—Marion, c, 2 58. Nassau—Astoria sab-sch, c, 14 50. New York—New York, Madison Avenue, c, 156 20; University Place, c, 45. North River—Pleasant Valley and sab-sch, c, 8 75; Poughkeepsie 1st, c, 109 82. Rochester—Brighton (sab-sch, 5 87), Allen's Creek sab-sch, 2), c, 13 46; Mount Morris, c, 3 35; Ossian, c, 3. Steuben—Cuba, c, 25 15; Woodhull, 4 20. Syracuse—Mexico, c, 40; Oswego Grace, 44 46; Troy—Warrensburg, c, 40 06. Westchester—Port Chester sab-sch, c, 3 21; South East, c, 5. 879 70

NORTH DAKOTA.—Pembina—Milton, c, 2; Osnabrock, c, 3 50. 5 50
OHIO.—Athens—Barlow, c, 5; Logan sab-sch, c, 4. Bellefontaine—Bellefontaine 1st c, 22 34; Forest, 5; Gallion sab-sch, c, 21; Mount Blanchard, 2. Cincinnati—Cincinnati 3d, 10;—7th, 25;—North, c, 29 37; Reading and Lockland, 6. Cleveland—Ashtabula, 1st c, 8 79. Dayton—Dayton 4th, 23. Huron—Fremont, c, 26. Maumee—Toledo Westminster, 25; West Unity, c, 10. Steubenville—Bakersville, 6 40; New Hagerstown, c, 2 26. Wooster—Savannah sab-sch, 22 53. Zanesville—Bladensburg, 3 74; Martinsburg, 5 62. 271 05

OREGON.—South Oregon—Ashland sab-sch, c, 11; Willamette—Yaquina Bay, c, 2. 26
PENNSYLVANIA.—Carlisle—Gettysburgh sab-sch, c, 13 51; Middle Spring sab-sch, c, 12 58. Chester—Fairview, c, 5 20. Erie—Bradford 1st sab-sch, c, 25 98; Erie, Chestnut Street Y. P. S. C. E., 3 25. Huntingdon—Williamsburgh sab-sch, c, 12 94. Kittanning—Slate Lick, 11 60. Lackawanna—Honesdale 1st sab-sch, c, 23 82; Montrose (sab-sch, 8 80), c, 28 23. Wyoming Y. P. S. C. E., c, 4. Northumberland—Berwick, c, 40. Philadelphia North—Ambler, 4. Pittsburgh—Cannonsburgh Central sab-sch, 4 62. Shenango—Westfield sab-sch, c, 7. Washington—Claysville, c, 20. 237 43

SOUTH DAKOTA.—Central Dakota—Beulah, c, 5 45; Howell, c, 2. 7 45

TENNESSEE.—Holston—Jonesboro, c, 10 20; Salem sab-sch, 12. Union—Hopewell, 3; Mt. Zion, c, 8; St. Paul's, 5. 27 20

UTAH.—Utah—Corrine, c, 1 50; Box Elder, c, 2 85. Wood River—Malad, c, 3. 7 35

WASHINGTON.—Puget Sound—Port Townsend 1st, 8 85; White River (sab-sch, 2 19, Y. P. S. C. E., 2 85), c, 19. 27 85

WISCONSIN.—Chippewa—West Superior Steel Plant, c, 2 50. La Crosse—Neillsville, c, 4 54. Milwaukee—Milwaukee Calvary, c, 160. 166 84

Less amounts transferred to Home Missions from Los Angeles.....$ 3,338 11

Presbytery Los Angeles, 3d ch, sab-sch and Y. P. S. C. E.....$ 20 00

Amount refunded to Foreign Missions from Waterville sab-sch, Utica Presbytery.....$ 11 00

Total received from churches.....$ 3,807 11

MISCELLANEOUS.

Miss K. D. Stewart, Abington, Pa., 19; "From a friend," 5; "An aged lady," 2; "H.," 5; Mr. and Mrs. John W. Keese, Cortland, N. Y., 500; A friend of the cause in Bellefonte, 5; "M. W. G.," 2.....$ 539 00

Total received for the Home Mission debt, November, 1892.....$ 4,336 11

Total received from the Home Mission debt from July 1st, 1892.....$ 13,941 27

O. D. EATON, Treasurer,
Box L, Station D. 53 Fifth Avenue, New York.

NOTE.—All items marked "c" were contributions on Columbian Home Mission Day, October 9, 1892.

RECEIPTS FOR SUSTENTATION, NOVEMBER, 1892.

ILLINOIS.—Ottawa—Waterman, 3. Rock River—Rock Island Central, 3 50. Springfield—Pisgah, 1 08; Unity, 21 cts.; Rev. W. L. Tarbet and wife, 40 cts. 8 19
 MICHIGAN.—Lansing—Onelda, 17
 MISSOURI.—Kansas City—Sunny Side, 2. St. Louis—Zoar, 1; Emmanuel, 1. 5 00
 NEBRASKA.—Nebraska City—Meridian, German, 05
 NEW JERSEY.—Newton—Wantage 1st, 5 00
 OREGON.—Willamette—Yaquina Bay, 5 00

Total received for Sustentation, November 1892..... 23 41
 Total received for Sustentation from April 1, 1892..... 2,253 99
 Amount received during same period last year..... 1,188 58

O. D. EATON, Treasurer,
 Box L, Station D. 53 Fifth Avenue, New York.

RECEIPTS FOR NEW YORK SYNODICAL AID FUND, NOVEMBER, 1892.

Albany—Sand Lake, 12; Albany 6th, 6; Amsterdam 2d, 106 23. Boston—Newburyport 1st, 9 40. Brooklyn—Brooklyn South 3d Street, 58 44. Buffalo—Fredonia, 3. Cayuga—Fair Haven, 2. Champlain—Chazy, 3. Chemung—Elmira 1st, 2. Geneva—Geneva 1st, 26 13. Hudson—Greenbush, 3 40; Nyack 1st, 20; Good Will, 17 cts.; Scotchtown, 10; Washingtonville 1st, 20. Long Island—Westhampton, 21 61; Mattituck, 5. Lyons—Joy, 5. Nassau—Oyster Bay, 23; Far Rockaway, 23. New York—Christ, 6; West End, 23 50; Fourth, 21 10. North River—Pine Plains, 7; Poughkeepsie 1st, 1 78. Rochester—Ogden Centre, 24 cts.; R. Emanuel, 77 cts. St. Lawrence—Hammond, 13; Chamont, 10. Steuben—Campbell 1st, 10; Corning 1st, 1 20. Syracuse—Hannibal, 12 50. Troy—

Troy, Liberty Street, 5. Utica—Boonville, 13 17. Westchester—Stamford, 43 65.
 Total from churches..... 610 41

MISCELLANEOUS.

Rev. S. Murdock, Oaks Corners, N. Y. 5 00
 Total received for New York Synodical Aid Fund, Nov., 1892..... 615 41
 Total received for New York Synodical Aid from April 1, 1892..... 5,115 99
 Amount received during same period last year 6,083 06

O. D. EATON, Treasurer,
 Box L, Station D. 53 Fifth Avenue, New York.

RECEIPTS FOR MINISTERIAL RELIEF, NOVEMBER, 1892.

BALTIMORE.—Baltimore—Baltimore Boundary Avenue, 41 57; — Brown Memorial, 133 06; Taneytown, 23 86. New Castle — Wilmington Gilbert, 1. Washington City—Washington City 4th add'l, 11. 219 49
 CALIFORNIA.—Los Angeles—Los Angeles, 3d, 5; Riverside, Calvary, 12; Santa Ana 1st, 15. Stockton—Stockton, 1st, 23 30. 54 30
 COLORADO.—Boulder—Rankin, 3. Denver—Denver 23d Avenue, 30 23; — Central, 193 63. Pueblo—Canon City 1st, 28. 254 06
 ILLINOIS.—Alton—Virden, 5. Bloomington — Bement 1st, 15 83; Bloomington 1st, 23 09; Normal, 10 43; Philo, 7. Cairo—Carterville 1st, 2 50; Dubois, 1; Fairfield 1st, 5 25; Flora, 5 50. Chicago—Chicago 3d, 250; — 6th, 69 73; Oak Park 1st, 120 17. Freeport—Prairie Dell, German, 5. Mattoon—Assumption 1st, 10 73; Pleasant Prairie, 10 40; Vandalla, 7. Ottawa—Waterman, 6. Rock River—Newton add'l, 23 cts.; Princeton, 14 65. Schuyler—Plymouth, 2 35. Springfield — Pisgah, 1 06; Unity, 1 87. 574 26

INDIANA.—Crawfordsville — Rockville Memorial, 8 63. Fort Wayne—Fort Wayne 1st, 108 45. Muncie—Union City, 6. New Albany—Jeffersonville 1st, 15 50. Vincennes—Claborn, 6. 189 73
 IOWA.—Corning—Clarinda, 25. Council Bluffs—Missouri Valley, 5. Des Moines—Grimes, 7 25; Newton, 21 81. Iowa City—Summit, 6; Unity, 4 60. Waterloo—Dysart, 4. 73 66

KANSAS.—Emporia—Peabody, 21 23. Neosho—Chanute, 5 44; Fort Scott 1st, 20; Neosho Falls, 3 65. Topeka—Lawrence 1st, 19 71; Wamego, 4. 84 03

KENTUCKY.—Transylvania—Lancaster, 8 05
 MICHIGAN.—Detroit — South Lyon, 13. Flint—Flint, 24 48. Lake Superior — Negaunee, 20 86. Lansing—Homer, 13 25; Onelda, 1 53. Monroe—Adrian 1st, 12 50; Jonesville, 8 34; Tecumseh, 51. Potoskey—Potoskey 1st, 25 46. Saginaw—Mount Pleasant, 5. 181 42

MINNESOTA.—Mankato — Mankato 1st, 21 23. Minneapolis—Minneapolis Westminster, 129 51. St. Paul—St. Paul House of Hope sab-sch, 6 25. Winona—Rochester 1st, 19. 175 04

MISSOURI.—Ozark — Ebenezer, 11; Neosho, 4; Springfield Calvary, 26 97. Palmyra—Louisiana 1st, 4. Platte — Cameron 1st, 5; St. Joseph Westminster add'l, 10. St. Louis—St. Louis Cote Brillante, 13 23; — Westminster, 5 80; Webster Grove (sab-sch, 4) 84. 164 00

NEBRASKA.—Kearney—Buffalo Grove Ger. (4 from L. Miss. Soc.), 8. Nebraska City — Diller 3; Lincoln 1st, 37; — 3d, 10 25; Meridian, German, 45 cts; Table Rock 7 65; York 1st, 18 44. Omaha—Omaha 1st, 55 07; — Knox, 9; Plymouth, 1. 149 86

NEW JERSEY.—Elizabeth—Perth Amboy, 47 75. Monmouth — Beverly add'l, 5; Burlington, 56 93; Calvary, 20 40; Perrineville, 5 25; Tennent Y. P. S. C. E., 5. Morris and Orange—East Orange 1st, 28 44; — Brick, 118 85. Mendham 1st, 31 50; — 2d, 13; Mt. Olive, 14 26; Orange Central, 400. Newark—Newark Park, 55 32. New Brunswick—Dutch Neck, 15; Princeton 1st, 90 09; Trenton 1st, 2; —

3d, 75 79; — 4th, 55. Newton — Andover, 7 26; Beattytown, 2; Harmony, 6 13; Mansfield 2d, 4; Phillipsburgh Westminster, 8. West Jersey—Salem, 54 33. 1,193 35

NEW YORK.—Albany—Amsterdam 2d, 41 72; Sand Lake, 6; Stephentown, 2. Brooklyn—Brooklyn, Classon Avenue, 60; — Lafayette Avenue, 543 97; — Memorial, 236 98; — Mount Olivet, 3; — Throop Avenue add'l, 1. Buffalo—Fredonia, 6. Cayuga—Ithaca, 1st sab-sch, 24 26; Champlain—Plattsburgh 1st, 24 55. Chemung—Elmira 1st, 18. Columbia—Greenville, 8; Jewett, 12. Genesee—Batavia 1st, 60. Geneva—Seneca, 23 44. Hudson—Good Will, 1 53; Scotchtown, 5; Unionville, 1; Washingtonville 1st, 15. Long Island—Amagansett (thank off'g), 4 35. Lyons—Marion, 2 33; Newark 1st sab-sch, 30 47. New York—New York, 4th, 303 48; — Covenant, 257 28; — West 23d Street, Westminster sab-sch, 50. Niagara—Niagara Falls (8 35 from sab-sch), 23 12. North River—Amenia, south, 20 43; Highland Falls 1st, 15 06; Milton, 2; Newburgh Union, 40; Poughkeepsie 1st, 15 97. Rochester—Lima, 8 75; Ogden Centre, 3 02; Rochester Emmanuel, 1 54; Sparta 1st, 27 11. Steuben—Corning 1st, 10 77. Syracuse—Casenovia, 23 29. Troy—Schaghticoke, 6 62. Utica—Ilion, 5; New Hartford, 15 25. Westchester—Mt. Vernon 1st, 120 23; Rye, 60. 2,149 22

NORTH DAKOTA.—Fembina—Inkster, 1 47. 1 47

OHIO.—Athens—Athens, 25. Bellefontaine—Bellefontaine 1st, 2 22; Chillicothe—Memorial, 1; North Fork, 2; Union, 1. Cincinnati—Avondale add'l, 25; Cincinnati, Poplar Street, 6; Hartwell, 13. Cleveland—Willoughby 1st, 2. Columbus—Bethel, 1 21; Bremen, 3 27; Columbus 1st, 75; Rush Creek, 3 22. Dayton—Dayton 4th, 23; Monroe, 2 50; Oxford, 27 50. Huron—Fremont, 40. Lima—Bluffton, 2 27. Mahoning—North Jackson, 6. Marion—Brown, 3 20; Marion 1st, 17; Pisgah, 3 25; Salem, 2. Massene—Toledo 5th, 4. St. Clairsville—Pleasant Valley, 1 01. Steubenville—Bakersville, 4; East Liverpool 1st, 70; Two Ridges, 4 15. Wooster—Hopewell, 15; Nashville, 10. Zanesville—Mt. Vernon, 19; Muskingum, 5; New Concord, 1 50; Norwich, 2. 422 20

OREGON.—Portland—Calvary, 50 06; —St. John's, 6 89 59 86

PENNSYLVANIA.—Allegheny—Allegheny 1st, 78; Avalon, 6; Bull Creek, 8; Pine Creek 1st, 11; Sharpsburgh, 16 40. Blairsville—Beulah, additional, 6; Laird, 6; McGinnia, 3; Murrysburg, 5; Salem, 5; Turtle Creek, 30. Butler—New Hope, 3. Carlisle—Great Conewago, 2 40; Lebanon Christ, 229 06; Lower Marsh Creek, 4 60. Chester—Coatesville, 17 23; Middletown, 23; Oxford 1st, 49 78; West Chester 1st, 69 66. Clarion—Academia, 3; Tionesta, 15. Erie—Greenville, 21; Harbor Creek, 9; Mercer 2d, 13; North East, 25 59; Tideoute, 13; Westminster, 4. Huntingdon—Clearfield, 20; Huntingdon, 49 29; Sinking Creek, 2 55. Kittanning—Kittanning 1st, 58. Lackawanna—Scranton 2d, 173 21; Tunkhannock, 43; Wilkes Barre 1st, 278 99; Wyoming, 5. Lehigh—Shenandoah 1st, 5. Northumberland—Mahoning, 26 79; Milton, 100. Parkersburg—Terra Alta, 17. Philadelphia—Philadelphia 10th, additional, 53; —Calvary, 221 51; —Tabernacle sab-sch., 49 47; —

Walnut Street, 260 05;—Westminster, 14 72;—Woodland, 297 66;—Covenant, 10 50;—Northern Liberties 1st, 26 58.
Philadelphia North—Bristol, 22; Chestnut Hill 1st, 180; Frankford, 15 43; Germantown 1st, 672 43;—Second, 231 32;—Redeemer, "Thanksgiving," 20; Pottstown 1st, (4 67 from sab-sch.) 23 97. Pittsburgh—Bethany, 8 32; Bethel, 87 50; Chartiers, 4 50; Crafton, 13; Fairview, 4 30; Forest Grove, Ladies Society, 8 25; Homestead, 25 30; McKee's Rocks, 8 07; Mount Olivet, 4; Pittsburgh 6th, 8 50;—East Liberty, 53;—Homewood Avenue, 10 12;—Shady Side, 64; Sharon, 23 85. Redstone—Sewickley, 7; Uniontown, 58 98. Shenango—Sharpsville, 3 30. Washington—Burgettstown, (9 01 from sab-sch.) 26 04; Hookstown, 7; Washington, 1st, 56 07; Wellsboro—Wellsboro, 9 09. Westminster—Cedar Grove, 5; Chestnut Level, additional, 4; York Calvary, 26 42. 4,318 66
 SOUTH DAKOTA.—Black Hills—Whitewood, 3. 3 00
 TENNESSEE.—Holston—Mount Bethel, 4 95. Union—Caledonia, 2. 6 25
 WASHINGTON.—Olympia—St. John's, 2. 2 00
 WISCONSIN.—Madison—Janesville, 19 13. 19 13
 From the Churches and Sabbath-schools.....$ 10,233 10

FROM INDIVIDUALS.

Through Rev. Chas. J. Young, Paterson, N. J., 50; William Kershaw, Germantown Pa., 25; Rev. J. H. Blackford, West La Fayette, O., 2; "Friends," Poughkeepsie, N. Y., 100; Mrs. Martha Graham, Afton, N. Y., 2; "T. and M.," Chicago, Ill., 3; Wm. Campbell,

Lexington, Ky., 50; Mrs. E. J. Burghardt, Washington, D. C., 5; Rev. C. C. Carr, Horseheads, N. Y., 5; Mrs. Mary E. Little, Newton, Mass., 10; Rev. G. W. Newell and wife, Central City, Neb., 10; Mrs. Jennie Keefer, Germantown, Pa., 5; "E. C. G.," Phila., 100; Rev. W. C. Cattell, D.D., Phila., 50; Mrs. Mary A. Cargen, Cambridge, Wis., 5; "C. Penna.," 6; Rev. W. L. Tarbet and wife, Pisgah, Ill., 40 cts.; Mrs. Rev. J. B. Hall, Grand Lodge, Mich., 1..... 490 40
 Interest from Permanent Fund including $100 50 from Roger Sherman Fund,..... 6,276 60
 Interest on bank deposits,..... 200 28
 For the Current Fund,.....$ 17,170 38

PERMANENT FUND.

(Interest only used.)

Legacy from W. S. Culbertson, New Albany, Ind., $2,000; Legacy from Rev. Samuel Wilson, Streator, Ill., 50. From the Estate of Mrs. Amelia Kerr, New York, 2,205..... 11,255 00
 Total for November, 1893.....$ 23,425 38
 Total for Current Fund since April 1st, 1892... 93,776 99

WILLIAM W. HENNETON, Treasurer.

RECEIPTS FOR SABBATH-SCHOOL WORK, NOVEMBER, 1893.

ATLANTIC.—East Florida—Hawthorne sab-sch, 4 60; Knox—Hopewell sab-sch, 1; Madison sab-sch, 1 40; St. Paul, sab-sch, 30 cts. 7 20
 BALTIMORE.—Baltimore—Frederick City, 5. 5 00
 CALIFORNIA.—Los Angeles—Coronado Beach, 12 75. San Francisco—San Francisco Trinity sab-sch, 25. 27 75
 CATAWBA.—Catawba—Miranda sab-sch, 6;—Yadkin Durham sab-sch, 3. 9 00
 COLORADO.—Denver—Denver, Central, 89 75; Pueblo—Canon City, 9. 95 75
 ILLINOIS.—Bloomington—Bloomington, 2nd 40. Castro—Vergennes sab-sch, 2 74. Chicago—Chicago 2d, sab-sch, 20;—Jefferson Park, 23 80. Mattoon—Pana sab-sch, 8 67. Ottawa—Sandwich C. E. S., 5 50. Springfield—Pisgah, 1 63; Unity, 63 cts. 105 97
 INDIANA.—Crawfordsville—Frankfort sab-sch, 15; Rockville, 3 94. Muncie—Wabash sab-sch, 15. New Albany—Jefferson sab-sch, 1; Pleasant Township sab-sch, 2. White Water—Richmond, 33 68. 69 68
 IOWA.—Council Bluffs—Missouri Valley, 8; Yorktown sab-sch, 1. Des Moines—Des Moines, Bethany sab-sch, 2 25. Dubuque—Dubuque 2d sab-sch, 40. Fort Dodge—Laverne sab-sch, 13. Iowa City—Davenport 1st, 27 54. Waterloo—Kamrar, 5. 21 86
 KANSAS.—Solomon—Bashan sab-sch, 38 cts. Topeka—Riley Centre, German, 1. 1 88
 KENTUCKY.—Ebenezer—Lexington, 2d sab-sch, 36 18. Louisville—Hopkinsville sab-sch, 1 25; Louisville, Central sab-sch, 35. 73 48
 MICHIGAN.—Detroit—Marine City, 10 13; South Lyon sab-sch, 5 71. Kalamazoo—Edwardsburgh sab-sch, 14 08. Lansing—Albion, 15; Delhi sab-sch, 1 61; Oneida, 51 cts. Monroe—Tecumseh, 87 50. Saginaw—Church of the Covenant, 1. 85 54
 MINNESOTA.—St. Paul—St. Paul Dayton Ave. sab-sch, 59 10;—House of Hope sab-sch, 6 21. 65 35
 MISSOURI.—Ozark—Aah Grove sab-sch, 15. 15
 NEBRASKA.—Hastings—Beaver City sab-sch, 10 40; Ong sab-sch, 1 25. Nebraska City—Diller, 4; Lincoln 1st, 27; Meridian German, 15 cts.; Seward sab-sch, 5 15. Niobrara—Willowdale sab-sch, 2. Omaha—Plymouth, 1. 50 95
 NEW JERSEY.—Elizabeth—Elizabeth Westminster sab-sch, 48 22; Plainfield 1st sab-sch, 75. Jersey City—Passaic sab-sch, 5 14. Monmouth—Barnegat, 4; Forked River, 3; Long Branch, 14. Newark—Newark 3d, 202 08;—Bethany, sab-sch, 30;—Park, 5 45. New Brunswick—Dutch Neck, 15; Kirkpatrick Memorial, 3; Trenton 4th, 15. Newton—Danville, 3 15; Wantage 1st, 2. West Jersey—Greenwich, 5 22. 499 26
 NEW YORK.—Boston—Boston Scotch sab-sch, 5. Brooklyn—Brooklyn Classon Avenue, 30;—Memorial, 75 66;—Mount Olivet, 2. Buffalo—Fredonia, 6. Chemung—Elmira 1st, 6. Hudson—Good Will, 51 cts.; Scotchtown, 5. Long Island—West Hampton, 10 70. New York—New York Mispah Chapel sab-sch, 25. North River—Cornwall, 7 66; Pine Plains ch & sab-sch, 10; Poughkeepsie (sab-sch, 49 25), 5 22. Rochester—Genesee 1st sab-sch,

8 69; Ogden, 1; Rochester Emmanuel, 1 02;—Westminster sab-sch, 7 34. Steuben—Corning, 3 59. Syracuse—Oswego Grace sab-sch, 24 01; Troy—Salem sab-sch, 20; Schaghticoke, 11 11. Utica—Rome, 11 71; Waterville, 8 21. Westchester—Bedford, 7. 341 88
 NORTH DAKOTA.—Fargo—Fullerton sab-sch, 3; Milnor sab-sch, 8 56; Oakes sab-sch, 3. Pembina—Bottineau sab-sch, 4 46; Minnewaukon sab-sch, 3 87. 17 39
 OHIO.—Bellefontaine—Bellefontaine, 74c; North Washington sab-sch, 2. Chillicothe—North Fork, 2; Dayton—Bethel sab-sch, 4 06; Blue Ball, 6; Dayton Third Street sab-sch, 22. Huron—Fremont, 24. Lima—Van Wert sab-sch, 25. Mahoning—Canton sab-sch, 92 53; Warren sab-sch, 7 50. Marion—Iberia sab-sch, 21. Steubenville—Two Ridges, 1 60. Zanesville—Mt. Vernon, 6. 225 43
 PENNSYLVANIA.—Allegheny—Allegheny School Street sab-sch, 13; Glenfield sab-sch, 3 65. Blairsville—Salem, 5. Butler—Buffalo, 2; Butler, 41 02; North Butler, 7. Carlisle—Gettysburgh, 11. Chester—Chester 2d sab-sch, 41 98; Fagg's Manor, 16. Erie—Westminster 4. Northumberland—Milton, 65; Warrior Run, 3 94. Philadelphia—Philadelphia 3d, 53 97;—Walnut Street sab-sch, 61 27;—Woodland, 26 86. Central Philadelphia—Cochoksink sab-sch, 10 70;—Northminster sab-sch, 137 71;—Tioga, 20. Philadelphia North—Frankford, 10 43; Germantown 1st sab-sch, 51 16; Norristown Central sab-sch, 87 46; Roxborough sab-sch, 19 45. Pittsburgh—Bethany, 10 10; Chartiers, 1 50; Edgewood sab-sch, 20; Middletown, 10; Mount Olive, 3; Pittsburgh sab-sch, 47 23;—East Liberty, 16;—Lawrenceville, 12 45. Washington—Cross Creek, 5; Fairview, 6; Washington 1st, 23 64. Wellsboro—Wellsboro, 3 08. Westminster—Slateville sab-sch, 3 51. 895 41
 SOUTH DAKOTA.—Aberdeen—Britton sab-sch, 52. Black Hills—Sturgis sab-sch, 4. 56
 WASHINGTON.—Olympia—St. John's sab-sch, 6 62. Spokane—Spokane 1st sab-sch, 13 44. 20 06
 Total from Churches, November, 1893..... 1,294 78
 Total from Sabbath-schools, November, 1893... 1,388 10
 Total from Churches and Sabbath-schools, November, 1893.....$ 2,682 88

MISCELLANEOUS.

Robinson sab-sch, Alliance, Neb., 3 22; Mrs. John Webber, Rapid City, South Dakota, 2 10; Murray Missionary Society, Elizabeth, N. J., 53; Bloomville sab-sch, Wisconsin, 8 15; Matana sab-sch, Ontario, 2; A. Friend, Princeton, N. J., 200; Stanley sab-sch, South Dakota, 1; E. M. Atwood, North Dakota, 2 71; David Brown, North Carolina, 1 53; Joseph Brown, Wis., 55c; Camp Russell sab-sch, Oklahoma Ter., 2 25; D. N. Good, Iowa, 2 26; Jas. P. Harper, Missouri, 1 70; W. H. Long, North Carolina, 2 28; False Bottom sab-sch, South Da-

162 Contributions of Clothing, Etc., to Poor Children on Mission Fields. [February, kota, $ 40; Cotton Wood Creek sab-sch, South Dakota, $ 60; Cottonwood sab-sch, Minnesota, 1 60; Osceola sab-sch, Washington, 3 20; Burton sab-sch, Oregon, 1 30; Burton sab-sch, Minnesota, 1 50; State C. E., Florida, 5; Mt. Joy sab-sch, Arkansas, 15c; Bradford sab-sch, Minnesota, 1 70; "C. Penna.," 1; Rev. W. L. Tarbet and wife, Illinois, 60c; Georgiana Willard, Auburn, N. Y., 600; A Friend, Bridgehampton, N. Y., 3; Miss Ann

Consty, Philadelphia, 200; Miss Kate Wentz, Philadelphia, 200.....$ 1,305 20

Total receipts, November, 1892..... 3,968 06
Amount previously acknowledged..... 72,843 77

Total receipts since April 1, 1892.....$ 76,811 85

C. T. McMULLIN, Treasurer.
1324 Chestnut Street, Phila.

CONTRIBUTIONS OF CLOTHING, ETC., TO THE POOR CHILDREN ON MISSION FIELDS.

Woman's Missionary Society of Parma church, Mich., 60 08; Woman's Missionary Society of 1st church, Hastings, Neb., 60; Woman's H. and F. Missionary Society, Loudonville, Ohio, 64; Woman's H. and F. Missionary Society, Paton, Iowa, 20; Sabbath-school, Ackley, Iowa, 20; Woman's Missionary Society of Greensburg church, Pa., 60; Woman's Missionary Society of E. Kishacoquillas, Pa., 55; Sabbath-school, Plymouth, Pa., 40; Woman's Missionary Society Central church, Canonsburg, Pa., 75 50; 1st Sabbath-school, Ingram, Pa., 55; Woman's Home Missionary Society Central church, Wilmington, Del., 55; Children's Band, Smith Centre, Kan., 30; Shining Circle King's Daughters, Bakerstown, Pa., 40; Sabbath-school, Columbiana, Ohio, 50; C. E. Society, Washington, Ills., 32; Young Ladies Missionary Society, 1st church, Gloversville, N. Y., 35; Y. P. S. C. E., Oxford 2d church, N. J., 163 48; Rev. J. L. Polk, Fagg's Manor, Pa. 43; Miss A. Buchanan, Honeybrook, Pa., 35; Toughkenamon church, Pa., 75; Woman's Missionary Society Pittsfield church, Pa., 16.50; Beckwith Mem. S. School, Cleveland, Ohio, 49; S. School 1st church, Youngstown, Ohio, 15; Woman's H. Missionary Society, 48; S. School, Cadiz, Ohio, 110; S. School and C. E. Society, Holden, Mo., 20; Woman's Missionary Society Buchanan Chapel, Jewett, Ohio, 48; Rev. Jno C. Hill, Belvidere, Illa., 60; Y. P. S. C. E., 1st church, Verona, N. Y., 15; Home Missionary Society, 1st church, Chambersburg, Pa., 60; S. S. and Woman's H. M. Society, Monroeton, Pa., 113; Woman's F. M. Society, Mt. Pleasant Reunion church, 40; Ladies Missionary Aux. Society Maple church, Broomall, Pa., 12; Woman's H. and F. Missionary Society, Bethany church, Bridgeville, Pa., 138; Y. P. S. C. E., Parker church, Parker's Landing, Pa., 50; H. H. Beadle Band 2d church, Bridgeton, N. J., 47; S. School Ludlow Grove, Ohio, 25; Ladies H. M. Society and S. S., Belleville church, Ohio, 33; Rev. M. R. Baer, Alexis, Ills., 50; Mrs. Traill Green, Easton, Pa., 58; S. School, Hector, N. Y., 25; Norristown Central church, 75; Pres. church, Morrissonville, Illa., 30.

C. T. McMULLIN, Treasurer.

November 30, 1892.

A Turkish local official having closed a mission school unrighteously and unlawfully, intimated to a missionary that for a certain sum of money he would open it, the missionary indignantly answered, that "if he would open the school for a bribe of one cent we would not give it, but would sooner spend $500 in lawful efforts to sustain our rights."

Rev. James S. Dennis, D.D., in the "Presbyterian and Reformed Review" says: "There are school children in Syria, under fourteen years of age, who know the cream of Scripture by heart, and have been trained in evangelical doctrine until they can pass a better examination in it than in any other branch of study. Not long ago I attended an examination of one of our mission schools, where a class of larger boys were questioned upon the life of Paul. They seemed to be familiar with every movement and incident of the apostle's life which is recorded in scripture."

WASHINGTON AND JEFFERSON COLLEGE was reported to the Synod of Pennsylvania as having 208 students in attendance, of whom 142 are communicants, and probably fifty preparing for the ministry.

LAFAYETTE COLLEGE was also reported as "in the best condition it ever experienced."

STATE UNIVERSITIES are said to have furnished only twenty of the nearly 1800 students in five great theological seminaries last year.

The Commissioner of Indian Affairs congratulates the nation on the freedom from hostilities which has characterized the last year, and also on the decided advance in the education of Indians.

Two Sunday-school teachers of little girls asked their classes what was meant by a "trance," where it is said that Peter "fell into a trance," Acts x. 10. Both received the same answer: "A window over the top of a door."

An intelligent lady in Missouri says: "When I was at Parkville lately it struck me, as it has before, that when they speak, as they often do, of the Bible being a textbook there, they might add that the CHURCH AT HOME AND ABROAD is another, they quote it so constantly."

OFFICERS AND AGENCIES OF THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

THE CLERKS.

Stated Clerk and Treasurer—Rev. William H. Roberts, D.D., Lane Theological Seminary, Walnut Hills, Cincinnati, O.
Permanent Clerk—Rev. William E. Moore, D.D., Columbus, O.

THE TRUSTEES.

President—George Junkin, Esq.
Treasurer—Frank K. Hipple, 1840 Chestnut Street.
Recording Secretary—Jacob Wilson.
OFFICE—Publication House, No. 1534 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

THE BOARDS.

1. HOME MISSIONS, SUSTENTATION.

Corresponding Secretaries—Rev. William C. Roberts, D.D., Rev. William Irvin, D.D., and Rev. Duncan J. McMillan, D.D.

Treasurer—Oliver D. Eaton.

Recording Secretary—Oscar E. Boyd.

OFFICE—Presbyterian House, No. 53 Fifth Avenue, New York, N. Y.

Letters relating to missionary appointments and other operations of the Board should be addressed to the Corresponding Secretaries.

Letters relating to the pecuniary affairs of the Board, or containing remittances of money, should be sent to O. D. Eaton, Treasurer.

2. FOREIGN MISSIONS.

Secretary Emeritus—Rev. John C. Lowrie, D.D.

Corresponding Secretaries—Rev. Frank F. Ellinwood, D.D., Rev. Arthur Mitchell, D.D., and Rev. John Gillespie, D.D.

Assistant Secretary—Mr. Robert E. Speer.

Treasurer—William Dulles, Jr., Esq.

Field Secretary—Rev. Thomas Marshall, D.D., 48 McCormick Block, Chicago, Ill.

OFFICE—Presbyterian House, No. 53 Fifth Avenue, New York, N. Y.

Letters relating to the missions or other operations of the Board should be addressed to the Secretaries. Letters relating to the pecuniary affairs of the Board, or containing remittances of money, should be sent to William Dulles, Jr., Esq., Treasurer.

Certificates of honorary membership are given on receipt of $30, and of honorary directorship on receipt of $100.

Persons sending packages for shipment to missionaries should state the contents and value. There are no specified days for shipping goods. Send packages to the Mission House as soon as they are ready. Address the Treasurer of the Board of Foreign Missions, No 53 Fifth Avenue, New York, N. Y.

The postage on letters to all our mission stations, except those in Mexico, is 5 cents per each half ounce or fraction thereof. Mexico, 3 cents per half ounce.

3. EDUCATION.

Corresponding Secretary—Rev. Daniel W. Poor, D.D.

Treasurer—Jacob Wilson.

OFFICE—Publication House, No. 1534 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

4. PUBLICATION AND SABBATH-SCHOOL WORK.

Secretary—Rev. Elijah R. Craven, D. D.

Superintendent of Sabbath-school and Missionary Work—Rev. James A. Worden, D.D.

Editorial Superintendent—Rev. J. R. Miller, D.D.

Business Superintendent—John A. Black.

Treasurer—Rev. C. T. McMullin.

PUBLICATION HOUSE—No. 1534 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

Letters relative to the general interests of the Board, also all manuscripts offered for publication and communications relative thereto, excepting those for Sabbath-school Library books and the periodicals, should be addressed to the Rev. E. R. CRAVEN, D.D., Secretary.

Presbyterial Sabbath-school reports, letters relating to Sabbath-school and Missionary work, to grants of the Board's publications, to the appointment of Sabbath-school missionaries, and reports, orders and other communications of these missionaries, to the Rev. JAMES A. WORDEN, D.D., Superintendent of Sabbath-school and Missionary Work.

All manuscripts for Sabbath-school Library books, also all matter offered for the WESTMINSTER TEACHER and the other periodicals, and all letters concerning the same, to the Rev. J. R. MILLER, D.D., Editorial Superintendent.

Business correspondence and orders for books and periodicals, except from Sabbath-school missionaries, to JOHN A. BLACK, Business Superintendent.

Remittances of money and contributions to the Rev. C. T. McMULLIN, Treasurer.

5. CHURCH ERECTION.

Corresponding Secretary—Rev. Erskine N. White, D.D.

Treasurer—Adam Campbell.

OFFICE—Presbyterian House, No. 53 Fifth Avenue, New York, N. Y.

6. MINISTERIAL RELIEF.Corresponding Secretary—Rev. William C. Cattell, D. D.Recording Secretary and Treasurer—Rev. William W. Heberton.OFFICE—Publication House, No 1334 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa.7. FREEDMEN.President*—Office Secretary and Treasurer—Rev. J. T. Gibson.Corresponding Secretary—Rev. Edward P. Cowan, D. D.OFFICE—No. 516 Market Street, Pittsburgh, Pa.8. AID FOR COLLEGES AND ACADEMIES.Corresponding Secretary*—Rev. Edward C. Ray, D. D.Treasurer—Charles M. Charnley, P. O. Box 204, Chicago, Ill.OFFICE—Room 23, Montauk Block, No. 115 Monroe Street, Chicago, Ill.

PERMANENT COMMITTEES.COMMITTEE ON SYSTEMATIC BENEFICENCE.Chairman*—Rev. Rufus S. Green, D. D., Orange, N. J.Secretary—Kiliaen Van Rensselaer, 56 Wall Street, New York, N. Y.COMMITTEE ON TEMPERANCE.Chairman*—Rev. I. N. Hays, D. D., Allegheny, Pa.Corresponding Secretary—Rev. John F. Hill, Room 813, Penn Building, Pittsburgh, Pa.Treasurer—Rev. James Allison, D. D., Cor. Sixth Avenue and Wood Street, Pittsburgh, Pa.PRESBYTERIAN HISTORICAL SOCIETY.President*—Rev. W. C. Cattell, D. D., Philadelphia.Corresponding Secretary—Rev. D. K. Turner.Treasurer—DeB. K. Ludwig, 3800 Locust Street, Philadelphia.Library and Museum—1239 Race Street, Philadelphia.

TREASURERS OF SYNODICAL HOME MISSIONS AND SUSTENTATION.New Jersey—Elmer Ewing Green, P. O. Box 133, Trenton, N. J.New York—O. D. Eaton, 53 Fifth Avenue, New York, N. Y.Pennsylvania—Frank K. Hipple, 1340 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa.Baltimore—D. C. Ammidon, 31 South Frederick Street, Baltimore, Md.

BEQUESTS OR DEVISES.

In the preparation of Wills care should be taken to insert the Corporate Name, as known and recognised in the Courts of Law. Bequests or Devises for the General Assembly should be made to "The Trustees of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America."

Board of Home Missions,—to "The Board of Home Missions in the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, incorporated April 19, 1872, by Act of the Legislature of the State of New York."

Board of Foreign Missions,—to "The Board of Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America."

Board of Church Erection,—to "The Board of Church Erection Fund of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, incorporated Mar. 27, 1871, by the Legislature of the State of New York."

Board of Publication and Sabbath-school Work, to "The Trustees of the Presbyterian Board of Publication and Sabbath-school Work."

Board of Education,—to "The Board of Education of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America."

Board of Relief,—to "The Presbyterian Board of Relief for Disabled Ministers and the Widows and Orphans of Deceased Ministers."

Board for Freedmen,—to "The Board of Missions for Freedmen of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America."

Board of Aid for Colleges,—to "The Presbyterian Board of Aid for Colleges and Academies."

Sustentation is not incorporated. Bequests or Devises intended for this object should be made to "The Board of Home Missions of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, incorporated April 19, 1872, by Act of the Legislature of the State of New York, for Sustentation."

N B.—Real Estate devised by will should be carefully described.

EX
8751
1256

Vol. 13.

No. 75.

THE CHURCH AT HOME AND ABROAD.

PUBLISHED MONTHLY BY ORDER OF
THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF THE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH
IN THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA.

MARCH, 1893.

EDITOR:

HENRY A. NELSON, D.D.

EDITORIAL CORRESPONDENTS:

WILLIAM IRVIN, D.D.,
For Home Missions.

JOHN GILLESPIE, D.D.,
For Foreign Missions.

DANIEL W. POOR, D.D.,
For Ministerial Education.

ELIJAH R. CRAVEN, D.D.,
For Publication and S. S. Work.

ERSKINE N. WHITE, D.D.,
For Church Erection.

WILLIAM C. CATTELL, D.D.,
For Ministerial Relief.

EDWARD P. COWAN, D.D.,
For Missions to Freedmen.

EDWARD C. RAY, D.D.,
For Colleges and Academics.

BUSINESS SUPERINTENDENT, JOHN A. BLACK.

Remittances by Draft or Postal Order and all business correspondence should be addressed to the Business Superintendent—not to the Editor.

PRESBYTERIAN BOARD OF PUBLICATION
AND SABBATH-SCHOOL WORK,
No. 1334 CHESTNUT STREET,
PHILADELPHIA, PA.

When answering an advertisement, our readers will help the magazine and the advertiser by mentioning THE CHURCH AT HOME AND ABROAD. For advertising space, address RICHARD S. DEY, 150 Nassau Street, New York.

LINCOLN UNIVERSITY

Our 30th Academical year began in September with larger classes than ever.

A new Hall for Instruction was completed in the summer vacation. It has 17 ample rooms, well finished and furnished. It is built and equipped without debt. Hard by stands our new and beautiful chapel, the generous gift of a lady friend.

The College and Theological Faculties, with their Nine Professors, are provided for, insufficiently indeed, but there is no appeal for more.

The liberal bequests recently received have been spent on the foundations of this work, to enlarge and strengthen them. But now the wheels of our progress are blocked. We can build nothing on our new foundations till you give us a new dormitory for the many approved candidates waiting to enter the classes. Our most earnest appeal to you is for this ($20,000).

This burden we carry is too heavy without your help. Make provision for the support of these young men, $130 a year, or its equivalent—the interest of a permanent endowment of $2,000 or $2,500.

In making bequests, note that our corporate title is "LINCOLN UNIVERSITY," in Chester County, Pa.

Rev. A. T. Rankin, D.D., Greensburg, Ind., is our Western Agent. Rev. W. P. White, Germantown, Penn'a, is Assistant Secretary; Rev. Edward Webb, Oxford, Penn'a, is Financial Secretary, L. U.; to whom your gifts may be sent and your inquiries addressed.

W. R. BINGHAM, Pres't B'd Trustees, L. U.

SCOTIA SEMINARY.

A High School for colored girls under the care of the Board for Freedmen and the Women's Ex. Committee for Home Missions of the Presbyterian Church. Incorporated under the laws of North Carolina. Legal name "The Scotia Seminary," Concord, N. C. The final title to all property is vested by the charter in the Board for Freedmen.

Donations solicited to a permanent fund which will provide for the salaries of the teachers and supply scholarships and thus relieve the treasury of the Board.

D. J. SATTERFIELD, President.

PENNSYLVANIA, Chambersburg.

WILSON COLLEGE FOR YOUNG WOMEN.

Fifty miles southwest of Harrisburg, in famous Cumberland Valley. Border climate, avoiding bleak north. $250 per year for board, room, etc., and all College Studies. Handsome Park, Large Buildings, Steam Heat, Gymnasium, Observatory, Laboratory, etc. Endorsed by Pennsylvania Synod, Baltimore Synod and Presbytery, Presbytery of Carlisle, etc.

THE YOUNG LADIES' SEMINARY.

FREEHOLD, NEW JERSEY.

Healthful location. Good teachers. Pleasant family life. Personal care for pupils. Fall term opened Sept. 14th, 1892.

Principal, MISS EUNICE D. SEWELL.

READ.
Do
WRITE RIGHT
AWAY TO

HORACE B. MARTIN,
CARTHAGE, MISSOURI.

INVESTMENTS IN LEAD AND ZINC LANDS, MINES,
STOCKS AND SECURITIES.

THE BEST REAL ESTATE PAPER ON THE MARKET
FOR SALE.

TACOMA PUGET SOUND METROPOLIS. LOTS ONLY $50 TO $200
Monthly Payments, $5 to $15
PAYS MUCH BETTER THAN SAVINGS BANKS
Address, TACOMA INVESTMENT CO., TACOMA, WASH.

—THE— ECONOMY

HOT WATER HEATERS
COMBINATION HEATERS
WARM AIR FURNACES

SEND FOR CATALOGUE
J. F. PEASE FURNACE CO.
SYRACUSE BOSTON NEW YORK

THE CHURCH AT HOME AND ABROAD.

MARCH, 1893.

CONTENTS.

EDITORIAL. —"Advance! Advance! Advance!"—Mirza Ibrahim—Pacific Coast
Pioneers,	167-173
The Hausa Memorial Association, Rev James Johnston ,	172-173
Lincoln University, W. P. White, D. D. ,	175-177

FOREIGN MISSIONS.

Notes. —Treasurer's Statement—P. C. E. Societies,	173
Missionary Conferences in New York,	179-181
Second Journey in the Interior, Africa, Rev. A. C. Good ,	181-184
Concert of Prayer. —Missions in Mexico—What Hath God Wrought?—Mexico's Greatest Need, J. Milton Greene, D. D. —Mexico City and Its Outstations, Rev. H. Brown —Encouragements During Last Year, Rev. H. C. Thomson, D. D. —Between the Caribbean and the Pacific, Miss Alice Mitchell —Transition of Mexico, Rev. P. F. Leavens, D. D. ,	185-193
Letter of Rev. William Jessup—Notes,	193

HOME MISSIONS.

Notes. —Our Final Effort—Mr. Penfield for Y. P. C. E. and S. S. Work—Cherokees—Alaska—Arizona—Rev. J. J. Gilchrist in New Mexico—President Harrison's Proclamation of Amnesty—Utah—Mormons—New England, Roman Catholic—Mountain Whites—Comity—Report on Denominational Co-operation—First Presbyterian Church in Alaska—Alaska Indians,	199-207
Concert of Prayer. —Home Missions in Older States,	207-208
Letters. —Ohio, Rev. P. W. Taylor —W. Virginia, Rev. A. B. Lowes —Illinois, Rev. F. M. Alexander —Synod of Tennessee, Rev. C. A. Duncan, S. M. —Indian Territory, Rev. E. E. Mathes —Minnesota, Rev. J. Dudycha —Oregon, Rev. G. W. Giboney —Utah, Rev. P. Bohback ,	208-213

CHURCH ERECTION. —From Churches—Wise Words from the Synod of Missouri,	213-214
COLLEGES AND ACADEMIES. —A Chicago Offer,	215-216
FREEDMEN. —Colored Education in the South,	217-218
EDUCATION ,	218-219
PUBLICATION AND SABBATH-SCHOOL WORK. —Recent Publications—Ragged Schools and Sabbath-schools—Far Out Upon the Prairie,	220-223
MINISTERIAL RELIEF. —Birthday Celebration at the Ministers' House, Perth Amboy, N J.,	223-224
GLEANINGS AT HOME AND ABROAD ,	225-227
THOUGHTS ON SABBATH-SCHOOL LESSONS ,	228-229
TEMPERANCE. —Gains for Temperance—Save the Children,	229-231
YOUNG PEOPLE'S CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR. —Elements of Strength for Christian Work—Local Ingenuity,	232-234
MINISTERIAL NECROLOGY AND CHILDREN'S CHURCH AT HOME AND ABROAD ,	234

THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY'S COMMITTEE.

JOHN S. MACINTOSH, D. D., CHAIRMAN,
2021 Delancey Place, Philadelphia, Pa.

CHARLES A. DICKEY, D. D.,
ANSON D. F. RANDOLPH, Esq.,
WARNER VAN NORDEN, Esq.,
HON. ROBERT N. WILLSON,
JOHN H. DEY, Esq.,

STEALY B. ROSSITER, D. D.,
REV. HENRY T. MCEWEN,
STEPHEN W. DANA, D. D.,
CHARLES L. THOMPSON, D. D.,
F. F. ELLINWOOD, D. D.

WILLIAM C. ROBERTS, D. D.

BUSINESS SUPERINTENDENT, JOHN A. BLACK,
1334 Chestnut Street.

All Business Correspondence and remittances by Draft or Postal Order should be addressed to the Business Superintendent—not to the Editor.

The price of the CHURCH AT HOME AND ABROAD is ONE DOLLAR per year, payable in advance. No new subscription is received without the payment of one dollar accompanying it. But subscriptions, not accompanied with directions to discontinue at the end of the time paid for, will be continued and bills will be sent to remind the subscriber that another payment is due.

A STANDARD HYMN BOOK FOR PRESBYTERIAN CHURCHES

Within sixty days of publication sixty churches have adopted it, including The Central, (John M. Freeman, D.D.) Denver; West Hope, Phila.; First, Wheeling, W. Va.; Immanuel, Milwaukee; Brown Memorial, Baltimore; First, Evanston, Ill.; Second, Tacoma, Wash.; Second, Washington, Pa.; First, Orange, N. J.; Central, Allegheny, Pa.; First, Los Gatos, Cal.; First, Glens Falls, N. Y.; First, Dansville, N. Y.; First, Zanesville, Ohio; Union Presbyterian, Seoul, Korea.

26.
Lillian B. Allen
4-6-82

THE CHURCH AT HOME AND ABROAD.

MARCH, 1893.

“ADVANCE! ADVANCE! ADVANCE!”

This was the “battle cry” with which the fervid Cymrian genius of Professor Morris thrilled the hearts of his hearers in the First Church of Brooklyn and in University Place Church, New York, at the supreme moment of his eloquent Memorial Discourse, as if it had been indeed “the clarion voice of HENRY KENDALL.”

The orator had caught the very spirit of the illustrious subject of his discourse. He knew him well and knew that he would say to us: “Pause not from the forward march in which you have owned me as leader, either to weep for me or to eulogize me. Only for my work’s sake may you rightly honor me, and that work I have only begun. Let it not stop. Let it not linger. Advance! advance!—Westward, Southward, Northward—to the Gulf, to the Pacific, to the Arctic Sea. Advance and strengthen your lines from torrid Florida to frigid Alaska.”

Not to those only who were privileged to hear that discourse has that thrilling cry come. The press has borne it to many myriads of readers, and to thousands of them the printed words will seem to make the familiar voice sound in their ears again with its old clearness and strength.

It is well thus, from the grave of Henry Kendall, to look forward and to move forward in the direction to which the whole course of his earnest life points us.

The term “statesmanship” has been frequently applied to the wide-seeing, far-seeing, sober and sagacious planning, and the steady, strong pushing which made that life memorable. We abate not a jot from that estimate and hold it not more generous than just. Yet long and intimate connection with that life leaves us fully persuaded that its great “statesmanship” resulted mainly from simplicity and steadfastness of faith in God, and continual looking for divine guidance. The wide and great results were not all foreseen; the bold steps were not all taken with full foresight of all to which they would lead. The “kindly light” was often only sufficient for one step forward. “One step enough for me,” was the trustful courage in which each step was firmly taken.

We hold it to be greatly significant, that when the appreciative orator called us to “look once more on the dead face” of our Christian hero, and made us seem to hear his “clarion voice” crying, “advance, advance, advance”—in that solemn contact with the very soul of his departed comrade, he gave immediate utterance to the following statesmanlike, business-like, Kendall-like words: "There is no doubt that the sustenance of churches and the support of missionaries in the Eastern States, and even as far as the Mississippi, ought very soon to be cared for by synodical or other provincial agencies, so that the Board might be free to employ its resources entirely in more distinctively missionary work."

When, ten years ago, the synods of our Church were made larger bodies than before and generally became co-terminous with States, there came a reviving of the consciousness of definite responsibility of each synod for all Presbyterian work of evangelization and of planting and sustentation of churches within its own field. The need of help for this work in the younger and feebler synods was recognized, and these were seen to furnish the proper field for the agency representing the entire Church, the honored BOARD OF HOME MISSIONS. But in the stronger synods in the older States, whose people were able and willing to furnish more money and to rear more ministers than are needed for their own accessible populations, it was seen to be incongruous that there should any longer be dependence upon the Church at large. The responsibility of providing for their own should be distinctly recognized and assumed by the synods, and then, thus invigorated, they should generously replenish the treasuries of the two great Boards of missions for their work outside of such weaned and full-grown synods, within and beyond the boundaries of our great land. It was felt to be a graceful, manly, Christian thing, for such a synod to say to our Church's Board of Home Missions, "As soon as we can make the necessary arrangements, we will cease to ask of you any appropriations for any portion of our field. We will nevertheless continue and enlarge our contributions to your treasury and our rearing and training of men and women, that your proper work may go on in accelerating progress all across the Continent. Nor will we doubt that this very exercise of our faith, working by love, will cause also a steady increase of our gifts of money and of our educated sons and daughters to the work of world-wide evangelization, conducted by the Board of Foreign Missions."

Of the three synods in which this virile purpose earliest took practical form the Synod of New Jersey was the most favorably situated, inasmuch as its territory was less extended, and it had long occupied the entire State, whereas in Pennsylvania and New York a number of synods in each had been recently consolidated and needed time to become fully conscious of their unity and fully acquainted with their field.

It is not surprising that the Synod of New Jersey has found itself able soonest to fulfill that purpose.

But it did surprise those who were most hopeful that, at once, it entirely relieved the Board of Home Missions of all care of its field and no longer made any drafts at all upon its treasury; and this, not by withholding contributions which it had been wont to make to that treasury and turning them into its own, but actually giving to the treasury of the Board more than ever before, at the same time that it gave directly to its own churches more than they had before drawn from the Board.

It must be only a question of time when all adjustments will be so satisfactorily made in the two larger synods, that not only will they give, as they have all the while given, far more money to the general treasury than they draw from it for their needy churches, but will themselves directly and sufficiently provide for their own, relieving the general Beard of all perplexing care for them, and conserving its strength and increasing its resources for its continental work. Surely the greatest and strongest synod of all, the one within the bounds of which Henry Kendall was born and educated and lived all his grand life, except its three years in his Pittsburgh pastorate, and in which he died and was buried, will not fail to hear and obey the "clarion voice" in which he being dead yet cries, "Advance! advance! advance!"

MIRZA IBRAHIM.

Our readers will remember the interesting account of this faithful witness for Christ in our October number, 1892. That narrative was prepared by Dr. Mitchell from narratives contained in letters from Persia. Rev. Dr. Labaree, the senior member of the West Persia Mission, informs us that Mirza Ibrahim is still in rigorous imprisonment in Tabriz, sometimes with a chain about his neck. Rev. Rabi Baba, of the native Evangelical Church, a resident of Oroomiah, is now in this country, and has been several times in our editorial room. In one of these visits we had this CONVERSATION.

Editor. I understand that your home, all your life-time, has been in or near the city of Oroomiah, and that you came from there in June 1891. Did you know Mirza Ibrahim, who is now in prison for confessing Christ?

R. B. Yes: I knew him quite well. A good many times we have spoken and prayed with each other.

Editor. Did he live in Oroomiah when he was a Moslem?

R. B. No, he lived in Khoi, three days' journey from Oroomiah—about 100 miles.

Editor. Did he learn the Gospel and become a Christian in Khoi?

R. B. Yes, he learned the Gospel from the Evangelical preacher there, whose name is Warda,* and he was baptized by Rev. J. C. Mechlin a missionary.

Editor. It was at the house of that very preacher, Warda, that I spent a night with Dr. Cochran, Mr. Rogers and my son, when we were journeying from Oroomiah to Djulfa in November, 1884. I remember Brother Warda's hospitality very well. Is he now preaching and teaching in Khoi?

R. B. He is. Mirza Ibrahim was persecuted in Khoi after his baptism, and on that account came away and lived in Oroomiah. He came, I think, in 1889. There he was employed to do writing for the missionaries, for which they payed him four dollars a month.

Editor. Could he live on so small a sum and support his family?

R. B. He had no children, and his wife forsook him when he became a Christian.

Editor. Did he make open confession of his faith in Jesus at Oroomiah?

R. B. Yes, he could not keep still. He went out to preach to Mohammedans for Jesus. He kept on doing this nearly a year, until they put him in prison. He went once to a village near Dizza Taka, and was in the house of the preacher there, a young man, David, a son of Kasha (pastor) Hourmudz, whom you heard preach at the dedication of the new chapel in Dizza Taka.

*Warda in Syriac means a rose. Just so we have Mr. Rose.

Ibrahim and David went about the village talking with Mohammedans and telling them about Jesus and his Gospel.

The news of this came to the Khan (ruler of that village), who sent a message to David, requiring him to put Ibrahim out of his house.

David's answer was: "I will not put him out, for he is my brother." The Khan sent a message to the governor, who sent men to bring Ibrahim and David before him.

The governor asked Ibrahim what was his religion. He held a New Testament in his hand and said, "This is Injil (Gospel); do you acknowledge it to be a book of God?" The governor answered, "Yes."

Ibrahim said: "I follow the teachings of this book."

The governor then asked: "What think you of Jesus?" Ibrahim replied: "I believe in Him as the Saviour. Whoever believes in Him will have eternal life."

The governor then asked: "What is your opinion of Mohammed?"

He answered, "That which I believe I have told you. About Mohammed it is for you to decide." The governor then ordered both Ibrahim and David to be severely beaten. This order was fulfilled, and then both men were sent to prison. After two days David was set free, but Ibrahim was kept in prison, and there he began to speak the Gospel to the other prisoners. Just as Paul said, "The word of God was not bound."

The prisoners all liked him, and thought him a good man.

Letters from Oroomiah tell me that Ibrahim is still kept in prison. By Mohammedan law, a Mohammedan declaring himself a Christian should be put to death. But if this should be openly done, all the people would know that one intelligent Mohammedan had become a Christian. This the rulers seem to be trying to avoid. They hope, I have no doubt, by keeping him in prison and making him suffer so much, to make him renounce his faith in Christ and come back to Islam. Lately the Shah and the Governor of Azerbaijan at Tabriz sent a message to him asking, "What is the fault for which you are in prison?" Such a question from the rulers in Persia to any prisoner was never heard before. They knew very well for what offense Ibrahim was in prison! But I am sure that they hoped he would name some other thing and not confess himself a Christian. But Ibrahim answered, "I am a new converted Christian; I believe in that same Jesus whom the Koran declares to be Ruh Allah, i. e., Spirit of God.

Being kept in prison, this man preaches Christ more than if he was not in prison. This is in three ways:

1. The Mohammedans never believed that any one of them would become a Christian. Now they are convinced that Mirza Ibrahim has become a Christian, and that he cannot be frightened to deny his faith.

2. My friends write me that many Mohammedans are getting the Bible and studying it to find out what this Christian faith is.

3. This man's example is making the Christians much more courageous in avowing their faith, and in working for the conversion of the Mohammedans.

So Paul wrote to his beloved Philippians from his imprisonment in Rome:

Now I would have you know, brethren, that the things which happened unto me have fallen out rather unto the progress of the gospel; so that my bonds became manifest in Christ throughout the whole prætorian guard, and to all the rest: and that most of the brethren in the Lord, being confident through my bonds, are more abundantly bold to speak the word of God without fear.

PACIFIC COAST PIONEERS.—In Dr. Babb's interesting account of them in our January number, page 9, he wrote, "The only survivors of the ministers who came in 1849-50 are Rev. S. H. Willey, D. D., who is principal of a Female Seminary in San Francisco, and Rev. Albert Williams, organizer of the First Presbyterian Church in San Francisco."

Dr. Babb afterward wrote us, he had learned that another of those honored pioneers still lives, Rev. T. Dwight Hunt. We have also received a letter from Mr. Hunt, giving some interesting reminiscences which should go to our readers, to be kept with Dr. Babb's. They came after our February number was entirely printed, and ready for the mail.

In Dr. Babb's article, (page 8) he gives "December, 1848" as the time of Mr. Hunt's arrival from the Sandwich Islands, where he had been a missionary. Mr. Hunt corrects this, and gives October 29, 1848, as "the exact date." This seems to show him the first pioneer of them all. He says:

Allow me also to add that all classes of people united in calling me to the chaplaincy of the town. So desperate had become the morals of the place, and so universal had become the desire for some minister of the Gospel to set up the Sabbath and institute needed reforms, that even the most godless united with the few Christians in the welcome that met me on the very day of my arrival, and in the call that two days after, in public meeting, invited me to become the village pastor.

This general relationship to Christians of several denominations, was the reason, as Dr. Babb says, why I did not at once organize a Presbyterian Church.

The same reason will explain why Rev. Albert Williams, coming 5 or 6 months later, was the organizer and first pastor of the first Presbyterian Church in San Francisco, and why soon after, to meet the next call for a church organization, I organized and became first pastor of the first Congregational Church in the city and State.

The same reason will also explain why the Rev. O. C. Wheeler, of the Baptist Board, who came on the first steamer, anticipated us both by the organization of a Baptist Church.

May I add also that the same General Assembly (1849) which grouped Messrs. Willey and Douglas with myself into the Presbytery of San Francisco also appointed me, as the first pioneer, its first Moderator.

I was alone in the State four months until the first steamer brought Rev. Messrs. Woodbridge, Douglas, Willey and Wheeler to share in the toils and honor of laying the foundations of the future Church and State.

My first dwelling place—for six months—was in the unfinished attic of a very friendly Mormon, and my bed for that period was a canvas hammock hung between two rafters. My study table was a dry goods box, at which I sat and wrote sermons and letters all winter without a fire—my legs kept warm by an extra pair of pants, and my shoulders and arms covered with a cloak.

But I was never so happy—and never in better health—as in those early days of pioneer work, when heart and hands were full of care and work, and when the rapid growth of all things, material and spiritual, inspired my hope for the best results, and quickened my zeal to my best endeavors.

Similar was and is the testimony of those grand men sent out by our Boards whom I had the pleasure to welcome to their important parts of that work, most of whom have been called up higher, but two of whom remain—one in a most useful supplementary work of education in San Francisco, and the other in honorable and well earned retirement at West Orange, New Jersey.

It should here be added that Rev. T. Dwight Hunt, now in his seventy-second year, is still in the active work of the ministry as settled pastor of the Church in Westernville, N. Y., in the Presbytery of Utica.

CHAUTAUQUA AND THE BROTHERHOOD OF CHRISTIAN UNITY.—Bishop J. H. Vincent has arranged for a day at the Chautauqua Assembly next summer to be devoted to the interests of the Brotherhood of Christian Unity, under the direction of its founder, Mr. Theodore F. Seward.

The following departments or subjects will be represented by eminent speakers:—

1. The evangelical denominations; 2. Denominations that are not classified as evangelical; 3. Non-Church members who are Christians; 4. Lay congresses and inter-denominational movements; 5. Sectarian waste in frontier towns; 6. The relation of Christian Unity to Foreign Missions.

Suggestions on the above lines or in any way tending to the promotion of Christian Unity are solicited. Address Theodore F. Seward, 19 Park Place, New York.

THE HAUSA MEMORIAL ASSOCIATION IN THE SOUDAN.

REV. JAMES JOHNSTON.

In a commendable form the friends of that deeply lamented missionary, the Rev. J. A. Robinson, have decided to perpetuate his labors in the Hausa countries on the Middle Niger, which will take the shape of a scientific-philanthropic association for the study of the Hausa language and people, and the advancement of the highest interest of the natives. An equally important object contemplated by the Hausa Association is the translation of the Scriptures into that language, which must, by and by, materially aid in the evangelization of the Mohammedan lands of the Central Soudan. The death of Mr. Robinson last year was a disastrous blow to the prospects of Niger Missions and the conversion of the Hausa Mohammedans to Christianity.

This intrepid pioneer was a co-leader with Mr. Graham Wilmot-Brooke, another martyr missionary who, in March, 1892, succumbed to black water fever at Lokoja, a malignant disorder which had previously carried off his colleague. For the cause of Mohammedan missions in that part of Africa Mr. Robinson gave up a brilliant career at Cambridge, England, and a large income at home. A devotedly self-sacrificing man his personality recalls the figure of that scholarly and sainted missionary, the Rev. Marsham Argles, who died a few years back in the service of the Oxford Mission to Calcutta.

It was with some difficulty that Mr. Robinson, on account of modesty, though possessing inexhaustible energy, could be persuaded to accept the post of joint leader of the fresh mission to the Upper Niger and the Soudan. For two brief years he lived among the Hausa races, and, in an astonishing degree, won their confidence. At the time he was fatally seized by fever he had mapped out a prolonged missionary expedition and sojourn. He has fortunately left behind him very clear suggestions respecting the lines which it is desirable to follow in the effort to evangelize the large populations, and, as far as possible, avoid rousing Arab fanaticism in the wide Soudan. One of the first planks in Mr. Robinson's missionary platform was an accurate translation of the Bible in the Hausa tongue, to which the newly-formed association will give its warm coöperation.

Of the Hausas, one of the most important races in West Central Africa, little is known in Europe and the United States. As soon, however, as the recently-accomplished brilliant journey of the Frenchman, Commander Monteil, is published, some valuable contributions will be made to the knowledge of a dangerous and hitherto inaccessible region. On this trans-Saharan expedition to Lake Chad, M. Monteil set out two years ago and traveled successfully from Segon, on the Upper Niger, across the chord of the arc formed by the Niger to Say, due east through Sokoto, the Sultan of which is one of the most powerful rulers of the Hausa states in the Central Soudan, to Gandu, Kano and Kuka, the capital of the Mohammedan

State of Bornu, eventually reaching Tripoli. The Hausas represent the enterprising and commercial portion of a large, though not wholly barbarous population of a territory in and near the basin of the Niger, which covers about half a million square miles identified primarily with the voyages and travels of Lander, Mungo Park, Dr. Barth, Caille and Binger. One reason of this part of the Dark Continent being shrouded from the eye of the outside world may be the vast breadth of savage or fanatical states which separate the Central Soudan from civilizing influence, both on the west and on the east coasts of Africa, while on the other hand the Great Sahara, with its nomad Tourregs, has rendered access from the Mediterranean well nigh impossible.

A direct and most natural route to the Central Soudan is evidently feasible by ascending the waterways of the Niger, crossing a malarial belt some hundreds of miles broad which later experience shows has not the deadly perils frequently attributed to it. Mr. Joseph Thomson, the Scotch traveller, describes this area of the Central Soudan as of enormous extent and more densely populated than any other sphere of the Dark Continent. It is dotted over with numerous towns inhabited by varying numbers up to 150,000 souls, a people far advanced in civilization and, throughout Northern Africa, famous for a variety of manufactures and industry. Much superior to the savage tribes on the Congo, for example, they have many of the wants and ideas which progress implies. Over the greater part of this immense region the Hausas, the principal merchant traders on the face of the African Continent, whose home in the Hausa States lies south of the Great Sahara, between the Middle Niger and Lake Chad, are continually passing with their caravans.

Hausa-speaking merchants travel with their caravans northward to Tripoli, eastward to Suakim, southward to the Gulf of Guinea, and westward to the Atlantic, representing a total population estimated at one-hundredth of the human race and, possibly, a greater portion, who use the Hausa tongue. In the speech of this race there is not a complete dictionary or grammar, a linguistic blank which hindered Mr. Robinson from holding familiar communication with the people. The influential English committee, whose funds have already received handsome donations, includes leading men in religious and missionary organizations and, in the departments of science and travel, who have resolved upon founding two or more studentships of the Hausa language. These will be held by acknowledged capable philologists, who are also qualified in other ways to fulfil the necessary conditions.

The primary work of the "Robinson students" will be to gather materials for translations of the Scriptures into that tongue. For this purpose they will take up their residence at Tripoli with a view to proceeding later to the Central Soudan, and there more definitely preparing the way in the heathen wilderness for the enlightenment and Christianizing of millions, to rescue whom, those promising young laborers, John Alfred Robinson and Graham Wilmot-Brooke, died heroically in carrying out the loftiest traditions of the missionary spirit and enterprise.

What effect the death of Cardinal Lavigerie may have on North African and Soudan missions it is impossible at present to forecast. He will be remembered as one of the most zealous champions of the anti-slavery cause in Africa and a friend of the Negroes. With some of his methods Protestants naturally had small sympathy. The Cardinal's organization of a fraternity of armed laymen as pioneers, to restore fertility to the Sahara, has not succeeded, and the community has just been dissolved. He died at Algiers on November 26 and was buried at Carthage.

Turning to Church of England missions there is deep regret at the resignation, and its acceptance, of the Rev. Eric Lewis of the Soudan Mission. Recognized as a man of power, of conspicuous devotion on the field, and well acquainted with the Soudan, he was equally loyal to the Committee's instructions.

"But to do good and to communicate forget not; for with such sacrifices God is well pleased."

UNIVERSITY HALL—ERECTED 1892.

LINCOLN UNIVERSITY.

W. P. WHITE, D. D.

Of all the forms of benevolent effort now engaging the attention of churches, societies and individuals none is of greater importance to us, at least as citizens of the United States, than that which seeks the education and elevation of the eight millions of the African race residing among us. They are our fellow citizens. The right of suffrage is possessed by them. They are increasing at the rate of 130,000 a year. And great numbers of them are ignorant and degraded, with scant opportunities of Christian education. What a threatening element to national peace, progress and prosperity!

Who can help being interested in the effort to provide for them, from their own race, Christian educators—those who shall be competent to preach to them and instruct them and endeavor, as brethren, to lift them to a higher plain?

Of institutions, making the advanced education of colored youth and their training as teachers and preachers to their own people a chief end and aim, one of the foremost, as well as the earliest established, is Lincoln University.

It is located in Eastern Pennsylvania on the line of the Philadelphia and Baltimore Central Railroad, 46 miles from Philadelphia and 61 from Baltimore. No better physical or geographical location could be found.

It is near enough the border line of the South to be easily accessible by the great majority of those needing and desiring its benefits, and yet far enough from the associations and influences to which they have all their life been subjected.

It was founded in 1854, six years before the war which gave emancipation to the colored race. During this period it had to contend with prejudice strong and bitter. The negro's right to be a man and to receive the blessings which Christ offers freely to every race was not then so universally admitted.

Previous to 1864 it was known as Ashmun Institute; but in that year an amended charter, with additional privileges, was obtained for it, and a new name was assumed—one that will be forever linked with the freedom of the negro and with the most eventful crisis of American history.

Since then the institution has grown largely in resources, in influence and in adaptability to the end for which it was established.

The results of its work will compare favorably with that of any institution of like age in the history of our country.

Five hundred young men have been sent out from the Preparatory Department and from the lower classes of the Collegiate Department, many of whom are engaged in important positions as teachers in the Southern States.

Nearly four hundred have been graduated from the Collegiate Department after a course of instruction extending through four and in many cases seven years. Most of these graduates are engaged in professional and educational labors in the South.

About two hundred have graduated in the Theological Department and received ordina-

Mr. Fayerweather in including it, a few years since, with other representative institutions of the land, for a share in his munificent bequest, to the extent of one hundred thousand dollars, testified in the most striking way to its importance and usefulness.

The campus or grounds of the University consist of seventy-eight acres on which are four dormitories for students; nine residences for professors; LIVINGSTON HALL for commencement assemblies, capable of seating one thousand persons; UNIVERSITY HALL, a four-story building, containing eighteen rooms, designed largely for recitation and class purposes, carefully constructed and conveniently arranged and surmounted by a revolving observatory for the reception of the telescope recently presented to the University; and THE MARY DOD BROWN MEMORIAL CHAPEL, containing an audience room for Sabbath services seating four hundred persons, a Prayer Hall for daily use communicating with the chapel by sliding frames, and two class-rooms similarly connected with the Prayer Hall.

The nine professorships, including the president's chair, are all endowed and filled by able and efficient scholars and teachers.

For twenty-seven years Rev. Isaac N. Rendall, D. D., has been its President and to his eminent fitness for the position is owing largely its success and present proud position among institutions of its kind.

The connection with it in earlier years, as instructors, of such men as Reverends E. E. Adams, E. R. Bower, Thomas W. Cattell and Casper R. Gregory served to give it wide reputation.

Each successive year of its history has brought to it an increased number of students until now two hundred and forty crowd its halls and tax to the utmost its measure of accommodation and means for their support.

These 240 students represent twenty-two states of the Union, the West Indies, South America and Africa.

Among them are seven sons of Alumni. Three-fourths of them at least are professing Christians. Perhaps one-half of them will study for the ministry.

REV. JOHN MILLER DICKEY, D. D.
(Founder of Lincoln University)

tion as ministers in different Evangelical denominations.

Thirteen have gone to Africa as missionaries of the cross.

The Institution has so commended itself to noble men and women of wealth during the past twenty-five years as to lead them to place it upon a firm financial basis, thus securing to it a large degree of success in its work.

THE MARY DOD BROWN MEMORIAL CHAPEL—ERECTED 1891.

In their eager desire for knowledge and in their aptness of reception of it; in their application to study and their readiness in recitation; in their observance of the rules of the institution and in their conduct of their devotional meetings little difference is observed between them and those of white institutions.

The most of them however are very poor and nine-tenths of them will fail to acquire an education unless they receive help from the benevolent. Hence though Lincoln University is well equipped and endowed, yet yearly it must appeal to the public for the maintenance of those students who have sought admission within its walls, but have no means of support while there. Scholarships of from one hundred to one hundred and thirty dollars a year is needed to feed and warm them and provide with light, furniture, &c.

The curriculum of the University has in the past been at least on a par with, if not in advance of, other institutions, but if it would keep abreast of the times it is felt that advance must be made in courses of study, and hence endowments for new chairs are earnestly sought.

To meet the increasing applications of students for admission a new dormitory must also be erected. Without it the institution must remain stationary.

A suitable building for the accommodation of the growing library of fifteen thousand volumes is also most urgently demanded.

How soon the friends of the colored race, recognizing the importance of the work which Lincoln University is doing and the still greater work it is possible for her to do will supply her present needs we know not. We feel assured that in time they will. But we hope that the waiting period will not be allowed to last very long, for the fields are already white to the harvest and the cry to come over and help us is heard from many thousands who are anxiously desirous of being helpers to others of the millions of their race.

FOREIGN MISSIONS.

TREASURER'S STATEMENT OF RECEIPTS, MAY 1 TO JAN. 31, 1893 AND 1893.

	CHURCHES.	WOMEN'S B'DS.	SAB. SCHOOLS	Y. P. S. C. E.	LEGACIES.	MISCELLANEOUS	TOTAL.
1892	$151,191 86	$106,786 20	$17,439 01	$3,549 15	$68,057 23	$32,250 25	$389,275 80
1893	154,178 60	112,716 28	19,079 50	6,786 26	*112,438 06	53,410 27	458,609 63
Gain Loss	$2,986 74	$5,928 08	$1,640 49	$3,237 11	$44,381 43	$1,160 02	$59,323 28

* The Board has received from the estate of Mrs. Mary Stewart $30,000, subject to a refunding bond and interest.
 Total appropriated.....$1,075,263 99
 Deficit of May 1, 1893.....54,521 06

Total needed for year.....1,059,805 04
 Received from all sources to February 1, 1893.....458,609 63

Amount to be received before May 1, 1893, to meet all obligations.....601,195 42
 Received last year, February 1, 1892, to May 1, 1893.....522,016 67

Increase needed before the end of the year.....$69,178 75
 Copies furnished on application.

Happily the tide of receipts, which, with distressing uniformity has been running at ebb most of the year, has turned. Comparing the figures with those of last year we note with devout gratitude to God an increase in every department, not only for the month of January, but for the fiscal year to January 31st. Of course, we do not forget that this large advance is owing mainly to the appropriation for current use of $50,000 from the legacy of the late Mrs. R. L. Stuart, which the Board had hoped to use as a fund to borrow against during the dry season of the treasury. But even this apart, we are still more than $9,000 in advance of the same period last year. Let us thank God and take courage, for courage, vigilance and energy are still needed. More than $600,000 must be received between February 1st and April 30th, in order to close the year without debt, or $69,000 over the amount received during the same period last year.

We are glad to see various calls for meetings of the representatives of the Presbyterian Christian Endeavor Societies for the purpose of discussing practical methods of interesting their members and others in the work of Home and Foreign Missions. The importance of training the young for the great responsibilities which must soon devolve upon them along these lines cannot be over-estimated.

F. F. ELLINWOOD,
WM. C. ROBERTS.

Dr. Samuel Jessup, of our Syria Mission, who*endeared himself to so many of God's people during his recent furlough in the United States, and who has recently returned to his field, writes, "I find the work here growing everywhere. Our schools were never so full, especially the boarding schools. There is the same repression on the part of the Turk but our mission pushes steadily and quietly on. We are praying hard for a special blessing—that after all these years of subsoiling and deep plowing and sowing, we may reap a harvest that will make men and angels rejoice!"

The Rev. A. A. Fulton, of Canton, with three native preachers, recently visited forty-nine villages, holding three preaching services daily. He baptized five persons, making twenty-seven in all since May last.

MISSIONARY CONFERENCES IN NEW YORK.

Three important Missionary Conferences were held in the Mission House, 58 Fifth Avenue, New York, on as many successive days, beginning January 11th. The first two were held at the suggestion of the Alliance of Reformed Churches, which recently sat in Toronto. That held on the 11th consisted of the members of the Committee of the Alliance, and representatives of the Boards of Foreign Missions connected with Churches identified with the Alliance; while that held on the 12th was open to all Foreign Missionary Boards of the United States and Canada. Eight boards and societies were represented on the first day, and nineteen on the second, besides the Committee of the Alliance, the American Bible Society and the International Committee of the Y. M. C. A. Expressions of interest in the Conference were received from several missionary societies who could not respond to the invitation, while it was deeply regretted that owing to an unfortunate oversight the Moravians were not represented. Practical topics, both on the home and foreign side of the work, were discussed briefly and earnestly, the time being so distributed as to give every Board represented an opportunity of being heard. The discussions throughout were interspersed with prayer, the intention being to keep everything connected with the Conferences on a high spiritual plane. The officers and members of our Board counted it a great privilege to welcome so many distinguished guests, including honored brethren occupying positions of responsibility in Foreign Missionary Boards in this country and Canada. The fellowship was delightful and helpful,—so much so that provision was made for calling a similar conference at some subsequent time. Arrangements were made for printing the proceedings of the two conferences in pamphlet form. Meanwhile it is thought wise to lay before the Church the conclusions reached as embodied in the resolutions adopted which are given below.

The Conference of the third day was between representatives of the Executive Committee of the Southern Presbyterian Church and of our own Board, and was held in accordance with the recommendation of the respective General Assemblies. The entire day was spent in considering various topics bearing upon co-operation in the foreign field. The proceedings were marked throughout by a spirit of brotherly love and an earnest desire on both sides to reach some working basis of co-operation in fields already jointly occupied, and to take steps for even wider co-operation wherever possible. The recommendations, after approval or modification by the Executive Committee and the Board, respectively, will be presented to the General Assemblies at their next sessions.

ACTION OF CONFERENCE HELD JANUARY 11TH.

(1.) With respect to the question of uniformity in the salaries and other allowances paid to missionaries of different societies occupying the same fields the Conference would express its deep sense of the importance of joint efforts on the part of all Presbyterian and Reformed missions to diminish the wide differences which now exist.

To this end the Conference heartily recommends that the different Presbyterian and Reformed Boards of Foreign Missions shall by conference or correspondence or both, study to accomplish at least an approximate uniformity in salaries on the fields where their missions are contiguous.

(2.) The Conference feels that the principle of uniformity in the salaries of native preachers, teachers and other helpers is of still greater importance. The possibility of receiving a larger salary from a neighboring mission is one of the worst temptations that can possibly present itself to the mind of a native laborer. It not only involves serious injustice to the mission which has borne the expense of training up a preacher or other helper, but it sadly demoralizes the native ministry by giving emphasis to an unworthy motive.

Moreover it is fatal to that harmony among different missions which it is most important to preserve and cultivate. The Conference therefore earnestly recommends all the missions which it represents, to avoid the offer of a larger salary in any case, without consultation with the mission to which the helper belongs.

(3.) The plan of raising funds for missions in the home churches by subscription commends itself to the Conference as likely to result in an increase; and without presenting any particular method of securing subscriptions, and without suggesting any pledges made by Presbyteries or Synods, the Conference recommends that individual churches carefully consider the feasibility of adopting some systematic method by which all church members and the congregation may be asked to contribute for the cause of missions.

(4.) The Conference would express its great satisfaction at the results which have been accomplished within the last two decades, by Women's Boards and Societies of the Presbyterian and Reformed Churches. By their generous additions to the funds of the Boards and by the diffusion of knowledge on the general subject of missions especially among the young; in the goodly number of representatives of their own sex whom they are supporting on the mission fields, and in the bonds of sympathy which they are establishing, they are exerting an influence of incalculable value. It is the prayer of the Conference that in the years to come still greater blessings may attend their efforts and their prayers.

(5) The Conference sympathizes with the missions which it represents in their difficulty of developing the self-help of the native churches. But such is its deep sense of the importance of this subject that it is constrained to urge upon the missions continued effort in this direction.

We realize the poverty of the native churches in all foreign lands, but we believe that the New Testament example in its methods of spreading Christianity so largely on the principle of self-support is not an example which it is impossible to follow in our day. As a rule the burdens laid upon the native churches are even less than those imposed by their own heathen systems. It is believed that the efforts to gradually develop self-support in the churches is not only safe but most salutary. It promotes not weakness, but increased strength, intellectually and spiritually.

(6) The Conference, therefore, recommends, (a) That the churches be encouraged to call native pastors at as early a day as possible. (b) That from the first they be trained to assume at least some small part of their pastor's support and that the proportion be increased as rapidly as possible till self-support be attained. The history of the churches in the New Hebrides and in Samoa has shown that now, as in the days of the churches of Macedonia, the very poor may set examples worthy of being followed by all.

(7) Whereas, some Mission Boards spend large sums upon institutions for the Higher Education of natives, while others are content to confine their efforts mainly to evangelistic work,

Resolved, That we recommend co-operation among Presbyterian and Reformed Missions in the conduct of institutions for the Higher Education, especially in the education of mission agents, and that when one mission takes advantage of the educational institutions of another mission for the training of their mission agents, these advantages should be gratefully acknowledged, and some share taken of the financial burden of the mission which supports these institutions.

(8) The Conference takes a deep interest in the question of sending lay missionaries to the foreign field. It regards the subject as worthy of earnest thought, and of future conference. The comparative value of industrial education presents a problem upon which further light seems likely to be thrown by the experiments which are being made in some of our missions along that line. The whole subject should have increased attention.

(9) Resolved, That it is the sentiment of this Conference that it should be embodied in the regulations of the different Boards and Societies in connection with this Alliance that in no case a communicant from another mission should be received without a certificate of good standing, and that in all respects there should be proper Christian courtesy maintained with all other churches.

(10) The Conference recommends to the various Boards here represented, that they seek to establish co-operation and concert of action in all matters relating to Foreign Missions, which shall not conflict with the rights, duties and privileges of the respective Boards.

ACTION OF THE CONFERENCE HELD JANUARY 12TH.

(1.) The importance of the examples and deeds of the apostles, who were divinely commissioned to plant the Christian Church in so many parts of the Roman Empire, is to be heartily recognized, and so far as a change of circumstances will admit, the methods of evangelistic work in New Testament days are to be taken as instruction and guide to the missionary work of to-day.

(2.) The Conference, recognizing the desire of some of the more able and promising native converts in many fields to visit America and enjoy the advantages of the schools and Christian life of this country, is at the same time agreed in the conviction, warranted by the express judgment of the missionaries on the field and the experience of past years, that native converts should be discouraged from coming to Europe and America for education; and the Conference is unanimously of the opinion that such natives educated in America should not be commissioned on the ordinary missionary basis.

(3.) The Conference desires to express its conviction of the importance of a careful and economical administration of missionary funds; and while satisfied that in no part of church affairs is so great economy shown as in the collection and distribution of funds for foreign missionary work, it would emphasize the importance of still further effort being made to perfect and simplify the financial business of these Boards. To this end it adopts the following resolution:

That the Conference urge upon the Boards of Foreign Missions the careful consideration of plans for analyzing appropriations and expenditures, with a view to securing, if possible, some uniformity in this respect which will make the study of different forms of work more practical.

(4.) The Conference deeply feels the importance of developing spiritual power, and stimulating missionary effort in the native churches, and desires to express its unanimous and emphatic conviction that this interest rightly take the first place in the thought, both of missionary Boards at home and of missionary laborers in the field. It would call the especial attention of missionary laborers to the importance of this part of their work, and would urge as an indispensable condition to success in this effort, a deepened tone of personal Christian life.

(5.) The Conference is agreed that the direct preaching of the Gospel should have precedence in all missionary effort. Other forms of work—educational, literary and medical—are important, but they should be subsidiary to the prime matter of giving the gospel for the salvation and edification of the people.

(6.) In awakening the churches on the subject of the world's evangelization, the main instrumentality is a faithful ministry giving regular instruction on the essential obligation of giving the gospel to mankind and the progress of mission work. The success of all other agencies will largely depend on the enthusiasm of pastors in preaching the gospel of missions.

(7.) The Conference heartily rejoices in the growing interest of the young people of our churches in this great work of evangelizing the world, and recognizes in these youth the promise and strength of the church of the future. It earnestly recommends that in every possible way this interest be so recognized and guided as to secure both an increasing number of volunteers for the foreign field and enlarged gifts to our mission treasuries, and the enthusiastic devotion of our youth to this supreme movement of the age.

SECOND JOURNEY IN THE INTERIOR.

REV. A. C. GOOD, PH. D., WEST AFRICA.

My second journey into the region east of Batanga began August 30, and ended October 4, the party consisting of myself, seven carriers and a guide.

I took with me provisions and trade goods to purchase food for six weeks or two months. My guide led me down the beach to a point about four miles south of Batanga and thence east and southeast seven or eight miles to the Lobe River, which flows north and northwest and enters the sea at the north end of Batanga. Next day we kept on southeast having the river on our left till noon when we reached Lole, the first Bule town. Here we were, from twenty to twenty-five miles southeast from Batanga. This is the most westerly point reached by the Bule in their advance from the interior; but they are preparing for another move, and it is only a question of a few years when they will be within eight or ten miles of Batanga.

This road differs entirely from that followed on my first journey. All the way from the beach to this Bule town we were passing through villages and farms of the Mabea people. Here there is no wide forest belt to be crossed where neither shelter nor food can be obtained.

Next day we crossed the Lobe River, and after a march of twelve or fourteen miles in a direction averaging about northeast we reached a long line of Bule towns called Kokoa. Our road had been all the way through unbroken forest, but I was told that on a longer road to our right were many towns. At Kokoa a Bible reader would have a population of some thousands of souls which he could reach within a day's journey. All the Bule encountered thus far belong to the same clan or family, and as we go further east I continue to hear of large towns of this same clan north of our road for thirty or forty miles. As there are over one hundred Bule clans of which this, the Esakuta, is only one, the aggregate population must be large.

About 2 P. M. on Tuesday in a pouring rain, as usual, we reached Minkale, having traveled about thirty miles through a very mountainous country in a direction a little north of east. Here we had expected to rest for a few days, but we found food so scarce and expensive that we dared not stay long. Minkale is a fine situation, elevated from 2,200 to 2,300 feet above the level of the sea, surrounded by peaks three or four thousand feet higher, the climate cool and bracing, but there is here no field for mission work.

We stayed one day here and then, hearing that there was food in the towns northward, we set out in that direction. A tramp of four hours brought us to a group of towns called Nyabitande. Here hundreds of people crowded about me, and I found villages and people everywhere. I now began to realize that I had been skirting the southern end of the Bule country, hence the sparse population. But here I found myself again on the main line of migration from the interior which I had left at Kokoa. One fact I regretted, however. The barometer which indicated an elevation above the sea of over 2,200 feet for Minkale, only showed 1,640 feet here at the highest point in these towns. We had left the mountains to the south and descended into the valley of the Kribi River.

SITE FOR A MISSION STATION.

Having laid in a supply of provisions we started east next day. From Nyabitande eastward in the first four or five miles our road passed through twenty or more towns, some of them quite large, and together containing what is, for this part of Africa, a very large population. I was especially attracted by a long line of almost continuous villages called Nkonemekak where the people seemed to swarm on all sides. This line of towns partly encircled the base of a hill which struck me as an admirable site for a mission station. The elevation of the town was only 1,600 feet, but this hill is I think at least 200 feet higher. Here is, in my opinion, the site for our first interior station. Taking into consideration all my observation both going and returning, I should say Nkonemekak is from fifty-five to sixty-five miles a little south of east from Batanga in a direct line. By the crooked path we must travel, the distance is not less than seventy miles, but this is the first large centre of population on elevated ground we met with in coming from the coast, and the largest to be found in this region within one hundred miles of the sea. This point can be reached from the coast by two or three different roads, and from here we can go eastward by two roads, which soon become three. This is an important consideration in a country where any chief who imagines he has a grievance may close the road against us. Here too food is reasonably abundant, though not very cheap. And in all this region I found the people friendly and ready to listen to the Gospel wherever I stopped long enough to preach to them.

TRIBUTARY OF THE CAMPO.

On Thursday we reached a considerable tributary of the Campo River called the Muile (pronounced as in Millet) and here the scene changed. On either bank of the river we found large towns and a few miles southeast from where we crossed we came to a line of towns called Biba, where we found more people than I had yet seen in any one group of towns. As I afterwards learned the whole valley of the Muile is densely populated, i. e., for Africa, and no wonder: the country is as level as a Nebraska prairie, and the soil wonderfully fertile. But we miss the hills here, and the cool bracing breezes that creep down into the valleys from their wooded heights. For the first time since we left the sea the heat at noon day became oppressive. As I looked about at the luxuriant vegetation, and at the rich black soil, I could not help questioning whether white men would not find this valley rather unhealthy at times. I speak of this region as a valley, but it is really the beginning of the plateau which here has an elevation of from 2,100 to 2,200 feet and rises very gradually as it stretches northward. We are here from 140 to 150 miles from the sea by my reckoning—by the Government maps, a little farther—and in a direction a little south of east from Batanga.

The people of Biba, at first timid, soon became very rude. We could buy almost no food, and for a time they acted as if they wanted to loot us. I learned afterward that the question of plundering us was openly discussed and I could not help thinking how easily they could take all we had if they had the courage. But we were in no great danger. As the matter was discussed, the wise ones said the white man has a powerful fetish or he would never venture so far from his people and we had better let him alone. So all I had to do to be perfectly safe was to act as if I owned the earth and could easily make my claim good. We struck out south-east from Biba and soon left the valley and were among the hills again.

INSPIRING WHOLESOME FEAR.

One of the Biba people was our guide, and that night as we sat under our tent around a very dim fire, for the wet wood could only be persuaded to smoke sullenly, he began to sound me as to how we could venture with so small a party and only one gun among people who were in the habit of plundering passers by, especially with such wealth as we carried? And "here in the forest," he said, "how do you know who may be prowling around? Why do you not keep your gun by you?"

He never for a moment left his gun beyond his reach and at once noticed that mine was leaning against a tree twenty feet away. I simply said, "I am not afraid." But thinking the story of my carelessness might get out and do harm, I took occasion to slip my revolver out of my satchel and into my pocket. Then seating myself beside him I carelessly drew it out, turned out the cartridges, and snapped it eight or ten times just to see that it was in good running order, and then rapidly reloading it, so that he could get no idea of the number of shots it contained, I slipped it into my pocket again. That was enough. I did not carry the revolver much, there was no need; but from that to the end of the journey the fame of the small gun preceded us wherever we went, and we heard no more of proposals to p'under us. Scores of times I was asked to show the "small gun," but I always sternly refused, which, of course, heightened the mystery.

I write all this not to boast of what was really a very simple, almost silly, ruse for frightening these timid grown-up children, but to show their true character and the difficulties of penetrating far into this interior.

When we are one hundred and fifty miles from the coast we are where people are very poor in all kinds of goods. Most of the men have guns but they have very little else. The meagre outfit of our small party would have made several scores of these people feel very rich. Knowing them, and taking advantage of their exaggerated ideas of a white man's power, I easily passed through their country, but how often could I do so? Such little games as I played on them this time with perfect success would soon become old and might not answer at all in the interior where less had been heard of the white man's power. And the further I went the more fabulous would seem the value of our clothing and loads. I am not at all certain that I could have gone one hundred miles farther on this road. Not very far from where I turned back two Frenchmen with a considerable party had a fight with the people and came near being wiped out, and the sole object of the attack according to native accounts was plunder. The kind of exploring work I was here doing has therefore, it seems to me, its limitations. I could go a hundred miles farther in this region in certain directions but only by exercising great caution. Of course, a strong, well-armed party could go where they pleased, but such exploration has no place in mission work. The true theory is to establish a station and from this explore for the next, choosing the best seasons and going only one hundred miles at a time.

From Biba we penetrated about twenty-five miles further in a southeast direction. Here we were among the mountains again; the population was rather sparse, and as far as I could learn, continued so for forty or fifty miles further. The Campo River which I had been vainly trying to reach for the last ten days seemed further away than ever. Misled by my maps, I had expected to strike the Campo about sixty miles east from Batanga. At Minkale I was much surprised to learn that it was two or three day's journey to the south. At Nemeyon it seemed a little nearer, but not much. Then I thought that I would surely find it a few days further east. We went on five days more, not less than seventy or seventy-five miles to the Muile, and lo! the Campo was said to be still two and a half days distant and to be nearest to the southwest. I thought I was being deceived, but when I reached a point twenty or twenty-five miles southeast from where we crossed the Muile I found I was getting farther and farther from the mysterious river. Southwest it was said to be three days distant, but on the course I was going southeast, it was declared to be six or eight days' journey to the Campo. I then decided that the geography of the Campo River needed revision. And as I studied the question I began to see that many things that before had been mysterious to me were cleared up by putting the Campo in its right place. Its head waters are not far from the latitude of its mouth. It flows northwest to about where the Muile enters it, fifteen or twenty miles southwest of where I crossed the latter stream, then east to about the longitude of Nemeyon and thence southwest to the sea, as indicated on the maps. Finding I could not reach the Campo or a large population within a reasonable distance, I decided to turn back and seek for a more populous country to the northward.

A POPULOUS REGION.

When I gave up reaching the Campo I determined to strike northward into the Bule country, but at the point where I turned back the hostility between two tribes was so bitter that no one would venture to guide me. I therefore retraced my steps to Biba, near the Muile, and thence struck northward without a guide, knowing that in so populous a region we would soon strike some town. A mile north of Biba we came to a large collection of villages called Melen. Here we got a guide to a considerable town of the Salahn clan who have dealings with the Bule, and from here we got a guide to a town of the Bule proper. Here we were ten or twelve miles northeast of the point where we had crossed the Muile River on our way east. This town, called Asokesen, was a large one, and we were soon surrounded by hundreds of good-natured but very curious people. I determined to go from here to Akok, the town at which I had turned back on my former journey, and so we started westward once more. Our course was between west and northwest, and from Asokesen where we struck the Bule road took nearly three days' hard marching, about forty miles. As soon as we started it was clear that we were on an important road. Hundreds of people followed us from town to town. We seemed hardly to get out of one group of towns till we were in another, and at last we came to a really immense town a mile or more in length, called Biyemyem.

After this there was a break of a few miles, and then we came to several lines of towns, of a chief named Evine, who is famed from the coast to the far interior for violence and bloodshed. He has, I am told, eighty wives, but his town was not very large and seemed to be in a rather dilapidated condition. I called to see him, but was glad to find that he was away from home.

SITE FOR A SECOND STATION.

Next day I found a large population all along the road, but no very large aggregation of towns till in the afternoon we came into a region called Zingi, from mountains near by of that name. Here within two or three miles I found five or six large groups of towns besides a number of scattered villages. This point impressed me most favorably as the site of our second station. The distance from Nkonemekak is about four or five days. Here we are among the hills again and more likely to find the country healthful than on the plain. A wooded hill near by, a few hundred feet higher than the town and from 2,300 to 2,500 feet above sea level, offers a fine site for our station, and the proximity of high mountains ensures a supply of good water. I was especially attracted to this place by the fact that we have here a mingling of many clans or families not only of the Bule but also of Fan. Of the Bule there were towns of the Yevo from the borders of Yeondo on the north, ensuring us an open road in that direction, and there were Yensele, Yengap, Esehen and Esakoi towns, of which clans the first three are just beginning to come from their old homes far to eastward. All these are true Bule; and close by is a very large group of towns of Upper Campo Fan of the Esamvak clan. I saw nowhere else on my whole journey such a mingling of different clans. Each of these clans numbers from five to ten thousand souls, scattered through twenty or thirty groups of towns, some of which are still in their old homes to eastward, while others have already gone farther west, but no matter how widely separated the members of each clan always try to keep up communication with each other. What an influence would therefore be exerted by a vigorous work located at Zingi!

[After a few days more of hard marching, including two and a half consumed in crossing the forest belt, the explorer and his little company of carriers reached the coast in safety. Something concerning the people and the climate of the interior will appear in subsequent issues.—Ed.]

Concert of Prayer For Church Work Abroad.

[Conducted by REV. JAMES S. DENNIS, D. D.]

JANUARY, . . .	General Review of Missions.
FEBRUARY, . . .	Missions in China.
MARCH, . . .	Mexico and Central America.
APRIL, . . .	Missions in India.
MAY, . . .	Siam and Laos.
JUNE, . . .	Missions in Africa.
JULY, . . .	Indians, Chinese and Japanese in America.
AUGUST, . . .	Missions in Korea.
SEPTEMBER, . . .	Missions in Japan.
OCTOBER, . . .	Missions in Persia.
NOVEMBER, . . .	Missions in South America.
DECEMBER, . . .	Missions in Syria.

MISSIONS IN MEXICO.

SOUTHERN MEXICO.

CITY OF MEXICO: occupied in 1872; laborers—Rev. Messrs. Henry C. Thomson, D. D., Hubert W. Brown and J. G. Woods and their wives, Miss A. M. Bartlett and Miss Ella De Baun. Native ministers: Mexico City, Rev. Arcadio Morales, Rev. Abraham Franco; Toluca, Rev. Luis Arias; Jalapa (Tabasco), Rev. Evaristo Hurtado; Ozumba, Rev. Jose P. Navarez; Zimapan, Rev. Severiano Gallegos; Jacala, Rev. Vincente Gomez; Zitacuaro, Revs. Daniel Rodriguez and Felipe Pastrana; Tuxpan (Mich.), Revs. Maximiano Palomino and Pedro Ballastra; Jungapeo, Rev. Enrique Bianchi; Vera Cruz, Rev. Salmon Diaz; Galera de Coapilla, Rev. Hipolito Quesada; Jalapa (Vera Cruz), Rev. Antonio Lopez; Paraiso, Rev. Miguel Arias; San Juan Bautista, Rev. Leopoldo Diaz; Comalcalco, Rev. Eligio N. Granados; Cardenas, Rev. Procopia C. Diaz; Chilpancingo, Rev. Plutarco Arellano; Tixtla, Rev. Prisciliano Zavaleta; licentiates, 6; native teachers and helpers, 42.

NORTHERN MEXICO.

ZACATECAS: occupied 1873; laborers—Rev. Thos. F. Wallace and wife, and Rev. William Wallace; Rev. Jesus Martinez, Rev. Brigidio Sepulveda, and Rev. Luis Amayo; licentiates, 10; native helpers, 5.

SAN LUIS POTOSI: occupied 1878; Rev. C. S. Williams; Rev. Hesiquio Forcado; licentiates, 3; teachers, 6.

SALTILLO: occupied 1884; Rev. Isaac Boyce and wife, Miss Jennie Wheeler and Miss Edna Johnson; licentiates, 7; teachers, 6.

SAN MIGUEL DEL MEZQUITAL: occupied 1876; laborers—Rev. David J. Stewart and wife; teachers, 2.

In this country: Rev. Dr. and Mrs. J. M. Greene, Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Henry C. Thomson and Mrs. T. F. Wallace.

MISSION IN GUATEMALA.

GUATEMALA CITY: 60 miles from the seaport of San Jose; occupied 1882; laborers—Rev. Messrs. E. M. Haymaker, and D. Y. Iddings, and their wives; 1 teacher.

WHAT HATH GOD WROUGHT IN MEXICO?

Protestant mission work in Mexico has hardly attained its majority. It will be twenty-one years this coming October since it entered the country in the form of an organized effort. The new era of religious liberty has been signalized by the entrance of the Gospel, and although religious freedom has often been trampled upon, and all its rights cruelly and vindictively violated, yet the Gospel has held its own, and won its victories, and is now entering upon a period of larger and more triumphant freedom. The Papal authorities are still intolerant, and would be prepared to sanction bitter persecution to the extent of martyrdom, were it not for the restraint which the Government exercises. The story of progress is an inspiring one, not only in the measure of success attained, but in the heroism, devotion, and loyalty of Protestant converts. Much honor is due to a devoted Christian woman, Miss Melinda Rankin, who as early as 1850 began the distribution of Bibles in Northern Mexico, and for over twenty years she was engaged in a work of spiritual pioneering in the northern half of the country. The results of her work were subsequently incorporated into a mission under the auspices of the American Board, while in October, 1872, our Presbyterian Board entered the field. The struggle to secure facilities and obtain a permanent foothold was a severe one, and attended with many trials year after year.

The Methodist Episcopal missionaries were in the field early in 1873, and those of the American Board entered almost contemporaneously, and at present the Southern Methodists, the Baptists, (North and South), the Southern Presbyterians, the Episcopalians, the Friends, the Associated Reformed and Cumberland Presbyterians are all engaged in missionary efforts within the borders of Mexico.

Our own Presbyterian work is probably the strongest, and as regards the number of workers engaged, and the variety of operations, it is more extensive than that of any other single denomination. The spirit which animates the entire missionary army of Mexico is one of delightful harmony and cordial co-operation, and while the difficulties are formidable, yet they are constantly lessening, and although the opposition is malicious and persistent, yet its power to do us harm is steadily weakening. The Government is openly and unreservedly committed to the full protection of the liberties of the people, and wherever it is possible, lays a strong hand upon the spirit of religious persecution. The day of Jesuit rule and clerical intrigue is fast waning. President Diaz, who has just been elected for the fourth time, is a man of great energy of character, and of liberal principles and statesmanlike views. The great aim of his administration is to advance the material, commercial, educational, economic and international interests of Mexico; and the progress under his administration has been something phenomenal. A missionary on the field refers to it in the following graphic and significant words: "Perhaps there is no mission field where there is to be found a stronger desire for material progress than in the Mexico of to-day. The iron yoke so long borne uncomplainingly, has been thrown off, and the nation is forging ahead, not by a process of gradual development, but rather by huge strides. From the donkey to the locomotive; from the peon to the steam engine; from the tallow dip to the electric light, are some of the changes effected in two short decades. Contact with the outside world has wonderfully stimulated native enterprise, and progress is the watch-word on all hands."

The difficulties which now beset Protestant missions are not so much in connection with the Government, or even with the power of the Romish Church to interpose its authority, as with the frivolity of the people and the widespread prevalence of infidelity and agnosticism. The Romish Church is not growing better, but her power to injure is held in check by Divine Providence. Her priesthood is not growing purer or less venal, but its authority and power to terrorize are growing weaker.

The Bible is doing its silent work in many hearts, and its distribution throughout Mexico has doubled in the past two years. During the last year the agent of the American Bible Society sold 4,861 Bibles, 7,475 Testaments and 9,240 Gospels. Several of the Missions publish religious newspapers that are widely circulated. The centres where preaching services are established are increasing rapidly in number. The schools of the various Missions are well attended. The high-schools for girls are especially flourishing and useful. This is true to a marked extent of the Madero Institute, under the care of the Baptists, and our own Normal School for girls, in Mexico City, which has eighty-four pupils on its roll. Full statistics of our own work will be found in another article.

In an interesting and instructive volume recently issued, entitled "Mexico in Transition," by William Butler, D.D., we find a valuable summary of the present statistics of all Protestant Missions in Mexico. The book is a cheering and instructive contribution to current missionary literature, especially in the story it records of the workings of Divine Providence in the interests of Missions, and the inspiring evidence it affords of God's purpose to deliver Mexico from the power of political Romanism and bring that interesting land into the full and free enjoyment of civil and religious liberty. The statistics given by Dr. Butler are as follows:—

I. THE FIELD.

Centers of operation.....	87
Congregations.....	469

II. THE WORKERS.

Ordained foreign missionaries.....	59
Wives and unordained missionaries...	51
Foreign lady teachers.....	67
Whole number of foreign workers....	177
Native ordained preachers.....	111
Native unordained preachers.....	161
Native teachers.....	177
Other native helpers.....	63
Total of native workers.....	512
Grand total of foreign and native workers.....	689

III. THE CHURCHES.

Churches organized.....	385
Communicants.....	16,250
Probable adherents.....	49,512

IV. THE SCHOOLS.

Training and theological schools.....	7
Students in same.....	88
Boarding-schools and orphanages.....	28
Pupils in same.....	715
Common schools.....	164
Pupils in same.....	6,538
Total number under instruction.....	7,336
Sunday schools	347
Sunday-school teachers and officers...	694
Sunday-school scholars.....	9,814
Total membership of Sunday-schools	10,508

V. PUBLISHING INTERESTS.

Publishing houses.....	5
Papers issued.....	11
Pages of religious literature issued...	75,197,885

VI. PROPERTIES.

Church buildings.....	118
Value of same.....	$391,675
Parsonages.....	45
Approximate value of same.....	$158,835
Educational buildings.....	81
Approximate value of same.....	$256,940
Value of publishing outfit.....	$36,850
Total value all missionary property...	$844,300

VII. HISTORIC AND PERSONAL.

Number of martyrs in mission work	58
-----------------------------------	----

MEXICO'S GREATEST NEED.

REV. J. MILTON GREENE, D. D.

Her needs are many and vital. After 350 years of Spanish Roman Catholic domination of the most absolute type, with no Bible, no moral law, no Sabbath and no godly ministry, her condition intellectual, social and spiritual, is deplorable in the extreme. Not more than one in ten of her men can read, and of her women not one in twenty. Only the extremes of society are found in her population, the very wealthy and the very poor. With a territory nine times as large as that of Kansas and a population of 10,000,000 there are only about 100,000 land owners.

THE EVILS OF PEONAGE.

In four states of the Republic peonage, or slavery for debt, exists under the protection of the law. Many and eloquent appeals have been made from time to time by philanthropic, liberty-loving Mexicans to secure the abolishment of this nefarious system, but the influence of Spanish greed and cruelty, combined with priestly avarice and licentiousness, have hitherto effectually neutralized all these noble efforts, so that Congress has given no relief. Thus while the Pope boasts of his achievements in the suppression of the slave trade in Africa, and the Papacy is lauded to the skies in the press as the friend and champion of human liberty, this plague-spot of virtual enslavement, created and perpetuated under Romish rule, is still defended and conserved by the priesthood, and every third man you meet in the streets of Chiapas, Tabasco, Campeche and Yucatan is a mortgaged chattel. The cases are very rare indeed in which these peones succeed in self emancipation. The most exorbitant rates of interest and free rum are the means which human rapacity employs to perpetuate their bondage and misery. If the facts of peonage in Mexico could be written by another pen equal to that of Mrs. Stowe, the world would be startled and horrified even as they were in the perusal of "Uncle Tom's Cabin." And even in the states which do not formally legalize peonage, the condition of the masses under Spanish tyranny and self-indulgence is hardly superior. From the beginning priestly craft and the avarice of landlords have been in collusion to keep the poor Indian in poverty and squalor, ignorance and superstition. They have refused even to recognize his intellectual nature.

AN EFFORT AT REFORM.

At the present time when President Diaz and his noble co-adjutors are making heroic efforts to establish a system of public instruction that shall be compulsory, gratuitous and laical, their efforts are utterly inoperative away from the centres of influence, simply because the landed proprietors are in league with the selfish and unscrupulous priesthood to prevent the education and uplifting of the peón. Hardly above the animals with which they often herd, is the sphere in which the abject Mexican Indian lives, moves and has his being. I am fully aware that this is not the picture given in modern books on Mexico nor in the voluminous correspondence of very many of our journalistic tourists who "write up" the country after a ride through it on an express train, in which they touch only its principal cities; but this is a missionary's picture after 11 years exposure of the mental camera to the facts in city and country, far and wide.

WHAT MEXICO NEEDS.

What then do we find to be our first and greatest duty as we go among the Mexicans to do them good in Christ's name? In other words, what is their greatest need? In my humble judgment, it is just that which Paul found in philosophic and dissolute Corinth. In Mexico even as in Corinth, nine men out of ten have adopted as their practical motto, "Let us eat and drink, for to-morrow we die." They are disbelievers of the worst sort, deceived and disgusted with what they once believed a divine religion, and bold to avow from platform and press that "the Bible has been the greatest obstacle to Mexico's progress in civilization." Those who have not enough intellectual vigor to take this stand are superstitious, blinded, supine and obsequious, the tools and victims of designing priests, ignorant as to moral distinctions and depraved in moral habits. And even as Paul in Corinth set himself consistently and persistently to ignore their mystical, shadowy, philosophical theories and tenets, and addressed himself directly and without "wisdom of words" to a spiritual need which he took for granted existed in them, and would respond to his preaching, so must we labor. Although the Jews who were there required a sign, and the Greeks demanded wisdom, Paul from first to last preached "Christ crucified, unto the Jews a stumbling block and unto the Greeks foolishness; but unto those who are called both Jews and Greeks, Christ the power of God and the wisdom of God." Avoiding mere excellency of speech or of wisdom, he knew nothing among them save Jesus Christ and Him crucified.

MORE GOSPEL PREACHING.

It has become a serious question whether or not in all our missionary boards and societies we have not expended too much time and money in the educational training of our native ministers instead of aiming simply and only as a general rule, to equip men as evangelists, and send them forth as heralds of the Cross to meet and satisfy a universal and spiritual need. In a letter received not long since from an honored Secretary, he says: "All along the line our most earnest missionaries are getting tired of mere teaching and other forms of routine work. Some of Dr. Henry's letters from Canton express this feeling, and there is a belief not only there, but elsewhere, that we have been too well satisfied with routine work, looking for results by and by, when we ought to have been saying 'Give me Scotland or I die, and give it to me now.'"

"I suppose in India for every man whom we have educated, who is doing Christian work, we have five who are using our education to build up agnosticism as against Christianity. Possibly my estimate is too large, but the odds are fearfully against us I am sure, and many of those whom we have trained are only agnostics."

AN ECHO IN MEXICO.

Some such experience, though not in the same proportion; has happened to us in Mexico. French, German, and American infidelity abound in the land. Spiritualism with its insidious charms, is honey-combing the more progressive minds. What can we do? Can we train a ministry who by superior logical and argumentative endowments and acquirements shall refute all these forms of error? This has proved a failure there as here and everywhere. No, I am sure that I speak for the brotherhood of missionaries in Mexico, when I say that for ourselves and the native ministry, we feel that our greatest need is an overflowing love to Christ and souls, a spirit so fully in touch with the mission and heart of Jesus, a sense so vivid and operative of the desperate need of perishing men everywhere, and a heart so fully surrendered to the Holy Spirit, that for us to live shall be Christ, to preach Christ, to live Christ, to glorify Christ, to count all things but loss for the excellency of the knowledge of Christ, in a word, to magnify Christ whether it be by life or by death. Pray for us, brethren at home, that thus we may be equipped as never before to meet and supply the desperate needs of our long blinded, cruelly wronged, and spiritually enslaved Mexicans, for whom we are sure that Christ our Saviour died.

MEXICO CITY AND ITS OUTSTATIONS.

REV. HUBERT W. BROWN.

The mission work of our church which centers in Mexico City is comprised virtually within the limits of the Presbytery of the same name, which is a part of the Synod of Pennsylvania. Two foreign missionaries and 21 Mexican ordained men are members of that Presbytery, which has also under its care six licentiates and 14 lay preachers and eight students for the gospel ministry. In addition to the above, all of whom are supported by the mission, we have two Bible women, 11 male teachers, and 17 female teachers. The educational work is carried on in one Theological Seminary, with 34 pupils, 9 of whom are in the theological department; in one Girls' Normal and Boarding School with 84 pupils, half of whom are boarders and entirely supported at mission expense; and in twenty day schools with 867 pupils.

In Mexico City we have three organized churches and four congregations not yet organized, and five of the above named day schools, together with a dormitory for newboys, supported by voluntary contributions. The work has been prospered during the past year if not remarkably, still by steady and substantial growth.

INTERIOR OF NORMAL SCHOOL FOR GIRLS, MEXICO CITY.

The outstations are 76 in number, in 54 of which we have regularly organized churches. The total membership is 2,692, of which 247 were added in 1892. The ground covered is very extensive, being the Federal district, and the states of Mexico, Michoacan, Hidalgo, Guerrero, Vera Cruz, Tabasco and Yucatan. Some of the congregations are in the tierra caliente and others at the opposite extreme on the mountain sides in the tierra fria. Many are off the lines of railroad and accessible only on horseback, over tedious, even perilous trails.

We have 30 Sabbath-schools with a reported membership of 733. In these we use a Spanish translation of the Westminster Lesson Leaves, printed on our press.

The contributions of the several churches reached during the year are $1,060.26. We have also a Mexican Home Mission Board, which is raising at present the salary of one man, paying him forty dollars a month. He has done a good work in Tenanguillo, Guerrero and the surrounding ranches.

Our mission press is in the efficient hands of Mr. D. C. Smith, an Englishman. We can now do printing, binding, ruling and stereotyping, and have considerable job work from outside. Mair's "Evidences of Christianity" in Spanish, translated by Dr. Greene, was set up and stereotyped last year, and our own Board of Publication has done the same with my translation of Dr. Fisher's "History of the Reformation." Dr. Thomson has also a work on the Acts nearly ready for the press. We have printed during the year 60,000 tracts of 12,155,000 pages in all, which with the "Faro," Lesson Leaves, and other religious works makes a total of 13,141,000 pages.

The church in Paraiso has been awakened under the ministry of Mr. Miguel Garza, and Rev. Salomon Diaz reports a similar gracious work in Frontera. The congregation of Vera Cruz has raised over three hundred dollars toward a new chapel, and I expect toward the last of this month (January 1898) to dedicate the hall fitted up at their own expense by the Messrs. Vaca, owners of the Aguacate ranch. Other equally favorable reports have been received from a number of points.

This brief resume will give some idea of the varied nature and wide extent of our work in Mexico. We greatly need more men to rightly cultivate this large field.

ENCOURAGEMENTS DURING THE PAST YEAR.

REV. HENRY C. THOMSON, D. D.

"Have you had any discouragements in your work during the past year?" Yes, we have, but that is generally the case in all missionary countries. One can find something to complain of if he is disposed to grumble or hunt up trouble.

"Has progress been made, notwithstanding?" All things considered, we believe there has been considerable advance made during the year.

A SEASON OF QUIET SEED-SOWING.

It has not been a harvest time, a period of joyful ingatherings in which the reapers return, bringing their sheaves, but it has been a season of sowing seed in peace and quietness. We pray for such times, and should gratefully acknowledge them when they are received.

In the greater part of our 100 churches that average 50 communicants each, the Gospel has been faithfully preached, and the Bible studied, (following the International S. S. Lessons), in the Sabbath schools.

A goodly number of our ministers and licentiates (about 50 in number), are earnest and consecrated men, who labor in word and doctrine, "according to their several ability." The same is true of the labors of the other 50 teachers and helpers who toil through the length and breadth of the Lord's vineyard in Mexico. Their standard is continually being elevated, their knowledge and experience increased, and in due time we should see the results in augmented usefulness.

Our paper, El Faro, visits its large and annually increasing family of subscribers twice every month, and is ever freighted with Christian instruction suited to all classes and conditions of the people.

Our two Normal schools for girls, one in Mexico City, and the other in Saltillo, which during the year have trained about 100 scholars, have done, and are still doing, excellent work for the whole of our Mexican Zion. Some ten years ago it was my duty to select, and gather into our school at Monterey, (now removed to Saltillo), quite a number of girls, chosen from the families of the different congregations, that were distinguished for their piety and promise. You ask: "What has become of them?" So far as I am able to learn, scarcely one of them has proved unworthy of the care and expense bestowed upon her. The most of them have become teachers in our schools, wives of our preachers, or efficient helpers in our churches. We feel justly proud of their record and are greatly aided by their help to-day. Encouraged by this experience, we hope to continue that kind of work, and, if possible, to enlarge it. During the past year both of these Normal schools have made improvements in their course of study, in thoroughness of training, and in general efficiency. A Society of Christian Endeavor in each has done much to mould the character of the girls, and make them more useful in the churches.

Much the same must be said of our Seminary in Tlalpam, ten miles south of the city of Mexico. The 34 candidates for the ministry, 9 of whom have been engaged upon the theological curriculum during the past year, have studied more, and made better progress than during any previous year. They also have their Society of Christian Endeavor, and in many ways evidence the greater pains taken by all, and the better management of the institution.

These various results may be less startling than reports of persecutions, of thrilling adventures or remarkable conversions that have been given in former times, but their combined effect on the future condition of the Church may be greater.

IS THERE INCREASED DESIRE FOR THE BIBLE?

This is a more tangible, and in some respects, a more convincing evidence of real progress, than the observations given. About 11 years ago, Rev. H. P. Hamilton was appointed Bible agent in Mexico, and he has systematized the work so that we can know just what has been done. The American Bible Society has donated a great number of Bibles in Mexico, which have doubtless done a great deal of good. At present, however, I shall not base any conclusions on this charitable work, as I wish to call attention to a more decisive test, an examination of the actual amount of money the Mexicans have paid for Bibles and Testaments. Men will seldom or never pay their money for religious literature, if they do not hold it in high esteem. This is specially so of the Mexicans. The class that is reached by the Gospel is exceedingly poor, and besides, has had the idea that everything connected with the Gospel must be bestowed upon them gratuitously. The question, then, becomes very interesting: "Do they pay more for the Scriptures year by year?"

Each year there has been an increase in the receipts of sales of about $250. This arithmetical progression has continued regularly until the last year, when in spite of the general loss of crops and threatening famine in the country, there was received from sales during the first six months, more money than during the whole of either 1890 or 1891.

The amount of increase ($250) may seem small, but if the great poverty of the people and their lack of intelligence be taken into consideration, it signifies much more than many thousands of dollars would in the United States. The conclusion is plain; the Bible is more valued than formerly, and there is great activity in the Bible agency that finds a corresponding eagerness to obtain God's truth. This steady and accelerated increase in the healthy circulation of the Bible, and the better training of persons that are to teach the people its truths are true signs of progress.

A NEW GENERATION.

Another encouraging feature of our present work is, that we are beginning to train the children of those who first received the gospel in Mexico 20 years ago.

At that time all who heard us were steeped in Roman Catholicism, were familiar with all its teaching and practice, and had received the injuries that were necessarily inflicted by such causes of evil. We have now to teach minds that were never corrupted by Jesuitism. Many of our youths know little or nothing of the great abuses and falsehoods practised on their fathers, (and sometimes by them,) but instead, like Timothy of old, have had their minds and hearts imbued with Gospel truth from earliest childhood, and may therefore be expected to be more zealous for the truth, and better examples of true Christianity than our first converts. These sons and daughters of the faith are the beginnings of a second generation, and we actually observe in them a better type of piety. It will not be long before the Church will be in their hands, and we anticipate greater and more permanent results of their labors than of those of the first pioneers of the Gospel amongst the native. We already have the evidence before us that our hopes are being realized.

BETWEEN THE CARIBBEAN AND THE PACIFIC.

MISS ALICE MITCHELL.

The Republic of Guatemala, though so near a neighbor of ours, is as little known to us in the United States as if it lay in the heart of Africa, rather less so, indeed. The prevalent notion seems to be little more than a vague impression of a region prone to earthquakes, physical and political; a notion not incorrect, but somewhat inadequate. For it is a land with many attractions to offer us, —a delightful climate; a rich, fertile soil; a mysterious past, yet unread from its curious monuments. Still more it is a land with great needs which should appeal to us and which make it a field very attractive to the missionary.

A LAND OF VOLCANOES.

The country is not large—about five times the size of New Jersey. It is mountainous throughout a large part of its extent, but varied by high plains and broad, rich valleys. Its mean altitude is about 5000 feet, the only low lands being a narrow strip along the coast. The main axis of the range runs parallel to the Pacific, distant from it only about fifty miles, and on this side the slope is extremely abrupt. Volcanoes are here the characteristic feature. There is no such unbroken chain of volcanic cones in the world, their number, in Central America as a whole, reaching several hundred. The sailor along this coast, we are told, sees smoke always rising somewhere on the horizon, and within the last 350 years 52 volcanic eruptions and 300 earthquakes severe enough to be recorded have taken place.

AN INHOSPITABLE COAST.

This coast conspicuously lacks good harbors, the river mouths being inevitably obstructed by a bar. At the chief ports, San Jose and Champerico, one finds only an open roadstead, with a surf of great rollers. At these points there are long iron piers, extending out into the sea. That at San Jose is nearly a third of a mile long, yet though it reaches beyond the breakers, vessels are not able to come alongside. Steamers must anchor about two miles out, and their passengers are brought to the pier in lighters, from which they are hoisted in a sort of iron cage swung from a crane. Embarking or disembarking in rough weather is always trying to the nerves of a passenger, and is attended with so much real danger and difficulty that one is occasionally forbidden to make the attempt and obliged to go on to the end of the voyage and try again on the return trip. San Jose is the port through which our mission, located in Guatemala City, communicates with the outer world and may be reached in sixteen days from New York by way of the Panama Railroad, or in twelve days from San Francisco.

The chief port of the Atlantic coast is Livingston, at the mouth of the Rio Dulce, a village of Carib Indians with only a few white inhabitants. Steamer lines from New Orleans and New York connect us with this point and carry on trade, principally in fresh fruit.

NATURAL RESOURCES.

The natural resources of Guatemala are very great. Its mineral wealth is probably considerable, though but few mines are in operation. The Spaniards obtained forty million dollars of silver from the mines in Chiquimula, which are still yielding to some extent. The forests abound with useful trees, including mahogany, logwood, rosewood, cedar, many kinds of palms, cacao and india-rubber. Fine cabinet woods are plentiful, though many of them are unknown to commerce. Of food products Guatemala can boast a large variety; indeed, we are told that "almost anything in the vegetable kingdom will grow there." Among the most characteristic products are coffee, chocolate of a very fine quality, cocoanuts, sugar, vanilla, bananas and oranges, of which it is said that "the quality of the uncultivated fruit is nearly equal to the Syrian oranges." Indian corn grows everywhere, and in the form of tortillas is the chief food of the Indian population. Wheat is also grown to a considerable extent in the uplands. The soil is wonderfully fertile. Indian corn averages three ears to a stalk and the crop is harvested three times a year. Rice yields two crops a year of excellent quality. "Sugar cane has been found to yield three tons of sugar per acre for twenty years without replanting—a result unknown in any other sugar country."

SCENERY AND CLIMATE.

No sketch of this interesting land, however slight, would be complete without allusion to its wonderful scenery. Tropical verdure, clothing mountains of Alpine grandeur, affords a picture of bewildering richness and splendor, thrown into stronger relief by some gray volcanic cone, with smoking top, towering in the distance. The forests of the low lands are without undergrowth, but with the more abundant overgrowth. So dense is the foliage that small plants unless climbers or parasites have little chance of life. The ground is scantily covered with ferns, gingers or wild bananas, while overhead is a dense network formed by the branches of trees intertwined and entangled with vines. "From a mountain ridge" says a traveler, "this forest looks like a level plain, even as the top of a well trimmed hedge; its surface is here and there broken by the giant mahogany, or seamed by the river and its affluents."

Underneath the green canopy of the forest is a region of perpetual twilight, where the profoundest silence reigns.

The climate varies greatly with the elevation, as in Mexico, but is superior to that of Mexico throughout. While the coast lands have a hot, moist climate, where tropical diseases are to be found, a short journey inland brings one to uplands where the air is pure and bracing, and the temperature free from extremes either of heat or cold. In Guatemala City, where our missionaries reside, the thermometer in summer rarely registers over 80°, perhaps never over 90°; while the coffee-growing region to the port of Champerico. Elsewhere throughout the country travel is primitive. There is a conspicuous lack even of carriage roads, and anyone who travels at all extensively in Guatemala must become familiar with the saddle, with rough mountain roads and worse mountain inns. The utmost indifference to this state of things prevails. A traveler, new to the country, once asked why a certain mule-path, the main line of travel between important points, was in such a shocking condition and was told it was because "so many mules traveled over it."

GUATEMALA CITY.

the winters, which are chilly, are without frost. The air of morning and evening is described as "thin and piercing," necessitating heavy wraps, and the open style of architecture, devoid of chimneys, causes some discomfort to those accustomed to well-heated houses; yet the climate is by no means an unpleasant one. Many foreigners describe it as "the finest in the world!"

"A LAND OF TO-MORROW."

The country is largely undeveloped as yet. Only two railroads are in operation, the one connecting San Jose with Guatemala City, the other running a short distance through Promptness and exactness are unknown. It is "the land of to-morrow."

VIRTUES AND VICES.

The population is about a million and a half. Of these about 180,000 are whites, largely Spaniards, 300,000 are Ladinos, or of mixed blood, and the remainder are indigenous races, the so-called Indians. Many of these are descendants of the ancient Toltecs, who were driven by the Aztecs from Mexico and whose civilization has left many interesting monuments in Guatemala. These Indios of the present day are described as a peaceable, docile, honest and cleanly race; not a warlike, but an agricultural people; not nomadic, but living in villages; not savage, but semi-civilized; tilling the soil, weaving cloth, making pottery and building houses. They are so honest and peaceable that Central America is the safest place in the world in which to travel, and altogether, to an American, with our idea of the Indian as a painted savage, they are quite an attractive people. But they, poor things, are the "beasts of burden" of the country, pack mules being so rare that almost everything is transported on Indian backs, and the amount they carry is wonderful. The burden is placed in a wooden cage or basket, to which a strap is attached and passed around the head, so that the weight comes upon the forehead. In this manner, with a weight of over a hundred pounds, they trot off at a queer but rapid pace, making twenty or twenty-five miles a day, and for this arduous work they are never paid more than a real (twelve and a half cents) a day. The upper classes, of more or less pure Spanish blood, are characteristically Spanish in customs and ideas. The evil effects of three centuries of tyrannical and absolute rule are nowhere more evident than in the character of the dominant race. With all the charm of Spanish courtesy and hospitality, the most charitable critics cannot deny that the moral tone of society is very lax, and vice rampant and respectable. Gambling prevails to an alarming extent; men and women are inveterate smokers, boys sometimes beginning this habit at three or four years of age. "The family relation," writes Mr. Haymaker, "is a mere form for those who wish to keep it up. Flagrant violations of the seventh commandment in one form or another are more than common among the lower classes—they are general. Equal to this evil, if not worse, is the crime of drunkenness, which among the poor is all but universal, including among its victims not men only, but also women and growing boys."

THE TRAIL OF ROMANISM.

A startling degree of ignorance prevails throughout the country. A few years ago the percentage of illiteracy was estimated at ninety per cent., but this has been much diminished of late through the system of public and compulsory education inaugurated by President Barrios. Yet while considerably more than a tenth of the people can now read and write, the ignorance of the masses remains still such as it is difficult for one to realize whose lot has been cast in a more favored land. In 1890 and 1891, eighty thousand people died of smallpox during an epidemic that swept over the land. Mr. Haymaker wrote at that time: "I have known them to sleep wrapped in the same cotton covering that had wrapped a well-developed case of smallpox but a few hours before, and to grind and make corn cakes (tortillas) within six feet of a patient who was perfectly black with it." This ignorance is a charge which must be laid to the account of the Roman Catholic Church in Guatemala. For three hundred years and more this has been the supreme—the only Church. Magnificent cathedrals attest its power and wealth, yet under the very shadow of their spires the people have been allowed to sink into this desperate slough of ignorance. But their religious condition constitutes a heavier charge. Most of them, it is true, still merit the description of a former traveler, that they are "very religious." Yet their religion is without morality, and almost without conscience. Sunday is a day of amusement and festivity, when cock-fights and bull-fights share with the theatre, the opera, and social pleasures the attention of the people. Images, many of them most hideous and grotesque, abound in the churches and are often believed to possess miraculous powers. It is difficult to discern any difference between the reverence in which these images are held and the idol worship of pagan lands. The priests are little better than the people, careless of their responsibility and absorbed in lives of selfishness. Many of them are guilty of flagrant immorality.

GOD'S WORD GIVETH LIGHT.

Our Presbyterian mission is, so far as we know, the only Protestant mission in the country. Established in 1882, it dedicated its first church building on February 29th, 1892, a building seating 850 persons and with provision for subsequent enlargement by galleries to a seating capacity of 600. The church, which it was felt had been prematurely formed, was recognized in connection with this event. It is very small as yet, but Mr. Haymaker says it is "vigorous and healthy, the members trustworthy, the ideal of membership high, with a high appreciation of Church privileges." A second church was organized last September with sixteen members from among the English speaking residents of Guatemala.

A day school for poor boys is maintained, at which forty-four were enrolled last year, besides twenty-four in a night school. A girls' school, begun in 1884, was maintained for seven years and was accomplishing a valuable work in removing prejudice and securing influential friends for the mission, as well as in sowing seeds of truth in families otherwise inaccessible to Protestant missionaries. This school has been suspended for the present, owing to an embarrassment in its circumstances caused by the sale of the house it had been renting. Could suitable property be secured and the school be reopened, especially as a boarding school, there is no doubt that it would enter at once on a wide field of usefulness. A more extensive, more thorough, and a truly Christian education is one of the great needs of Central America to-day, and Protestantism need ask no better opportunity than is thus afforded for establishing itself securely in the country. Mr. Haymaker writes, "we ought to be doing a hundred-fold more than we are in educational work. Here the outlook is brightest."

Outside the city are several points where the truth is beginning to take root. At Santa Rosita is a considerable number of adherents, also at San Jose del Golfo. At Quesaltenango, the second city of the Republic, is a regular agency for the distribution of Bibles and tracts, and another at Coban. Churches will probably soon be organized at Santa Rosita and at Quesaltenango. Evangelistic tours, made by the missionary or helper, with magic lantern and books, disclose a large field for effective work in the country districts. While the priests, of course, oppose, the Government favors and protects, and the people are prejudiced in favor of all things American. The opportunity is ours, if we will seize it now, of meeting the awakening intellect of the nation with evangelical truth and of averting that reign of atheism which we have so often seen succeed the dethronement of Romanism.

THE TRANSITION OF MEXICO.*

REV. PHILO F. LEAVENS, D. D.

The evolution of liberty in the United States of Mexico was a far longer and more violent process than in the older republic, the United States of America. There were the best reasons. Mexico had been a vice-royalty of Spain nearly three hundred years; and the Roman Catholic Church was established so firmly that for more than forty years of the struggle there was no effort, and perhaps no desire, to unseat her. Can there be civil liberty without religious liberty? In that question is the key to the procrastination.

Hidalgo sounded the note of independence in 1810, and ten months later was shot. Men thought him shot in disgrace; it proved in glory. A constitution was proclaimed in 1814, but the constitution that brought down the Spanish flag was put forth in 1821, just three centuries after that flag had been raised. From that date till 1854 was a turbulent period. Liberty was battled for, but religious liberty was hardly conceived. Dr. Butler well says:—"All the constitutions framed under the various plans retained the papal concordat as an item of the social compact. This excluded religious liberty. The highest of all liberty being denied, the remainder was not worth dying for."

"THE WASHINGTON OF MEXICO."

When Benito Juarez entered the cabinet of President Alvarez, a strong and original mind took control. A pure-blooded Indian;

Mexico in Transition*. By William Butler, D. D., Hunt & Eaton, New York, 1893. Dr. Butler was the founder of Methodist Episcopal Missions in India in 1857, and author of "The Land of the Veda;" also founder of the Missions of his Church in Mexico in 1873.

Constitution of the United States of Mexico, with an introduction by Bernard Moses. Annals of the American Academy of Political and Social Science, July 1891. It is also published by the Academy as a separate document.

Les Missions Catholiques. Correspondence of R. P. Terrien and others, 1890-1-2.

Review of Reviews, January 1893. President Diaz and the Mexico of to-day.

left an orphan; a shepherd boy to his uncle's flocks; first learning Spanish at the age of twelve; a student, choosing the law, and admitted to the bar at twenty-eight; a magistrate, a governor, then an exile in our country—after such a career Juarez assumed national office shortly before he touched fifty years of age. His secretaryship covered an ample field. It included the department of justice, ecclesiastical affairs and public instruction. Very soon a National Congress was summoned, and the "Law of Juarez" for the administration of justice was proclaimed. A whole year was devoted to the framing of a constitution, which was issued on the 3rd of February 1857. With various modifications not affecting its substance or spirit, it is the fundamental law of Mexico to-day. Our eminent countryman, Secretary William H. Seward, is quoted as regarding it "the best instrument of the kind in the world." "But this Constitution," says Prof. Moses, "by abolishing the ecclesiastical and military privileges, excited vigorous opposition. As a result, the nation found itself, in 1858, in civil war with Juarez as leader of the Constitutional party, while General Zuloaga led the Revolutionary party."

THE STRUGGLE FOR FREEDOM.

We find at hand a remarkable synopsis of the opposing platforms of these two parties. It will be noticed that the principles antagonize each other like the battalions of two armies.

THE REVOLUTIONARY PLATFORM.

1. The inviolability of all Church property and Church revenues and the re-establishment of former exactions.

2. The re-establishment of the fueros, or special rights of the Church and of the army. (Under these fueros the military and clergy were responsible only to their tribunals, and not to the law of the land.)

3. The restoration of the Roman Catholic religion as the sole and exclusive religion of Mexico.

4. The censorship of the press.

5. The exclusive system with regard to immigration, confining it solely to immigrants from Catholic countries.

6. The overthrow of the Constitution of 1857, and the establishment of an irresponsible central dictatorship, subservient solely to the Church.

7. If possible, the restoration of monarchy in Mexico, or the establishment of a European protectorate.

THE CONSTITUTIONAL PLATFORM.

1. The establishment of a constitutional federal government in the place of a military dictatorship.

2. Freedom and protection to slaves to enter the National territory.

3. Freedom of religion.

4. Freedom of the press.

5. The nationalization of the $200,000,000 of property held by the clergy.

6. The subordination of the army to the civil power, and the abolition of military and ecclesiastical fueros.

7. Commercial treaties of the fullest scope and liberal character.

8. Colonization by the opening of every part of the country to immigration.

THE IMPERIAL EPISODE.

As the outcome of the conflict the government of Juarez found itself installed in the National Palace, Mexico City, in January, 1861. There was to be, however, another act in the drama, the tragic act in which Maximilian was the victim. Professor Moses points out its connection with and sequence from the civil war just concluded. "The Revolutionary party entered into certain foreign alliances against the Constitutional party, led by Juarez, and from these alliances proceeded the series of events which constitute the Imperial episode of Maximilian's reign." The whole affair depended upon external support. "Three months after the withdrawal of the French troops, in obedience to the demands of the United States, the Imperialists were undone, Maximilian, Miramon, and Mejia had been shot, and the way was once more open to the Constitutionals."

The government was resumed, not to be again successfully disturbed. The "American Academy of Political and Social Science" has done good service in placing within our reach the full text of the Mexican Constitution. The initial words strike a thrill, "In the name of God and with the authority of the Mexican people." Sentences here and there are crisp and resonant: "In the Republic all are born free." "Instruction is free." "The liberty to write and to publish writings on any subject whatsoever is inviolable." "No religious institution may acquire real estate or capital fixed upon it, with the single exception of edifices destined immediately and directly to the service and object of the institution."

TRUTH HAND IN HAND WITH LIBERTY.

Here is liberty as clear as the most sensitive man could desire. First of all is the guaranty of free speech, a free press, free suffrage, and the right of trial by jury. Surely it may require time to make these high privileges actual and universal. The secularization of the vast estates controlled by the Church was duly accomplished. The system of schools inaugurated and urged as rapidly as practicable is in the line of national progress. The development of industries and the swift extension of railways are extolled by all writers on the Mexico of to-day. And it is an oft-told story how the ray of evangelical religion entered at the time of the war with the United States, and how at last Protestant Missions were begun vigorously at the firm establishment of the Republic after the fall of Maximilian. Twenty-five years have elapsed and the statistician now counts 385 organized churches, embracing 16,250 communicant members. He discovers 111 native ordained preachers and 88 students preparing for the ministry. There is a grand total of 689 foreign and native workers; 10,508 in the Sunday school; 118 church buildings, and five publishing houses. It is conceded that the success has been among the common people. The cynical reviewer, commenting on liberty, says, "Protestants are allowed to spend thousands of dollars in their endeavor to make good Baptists, Methodists, or Presbyterians out of the Indians." Thanks—and if the Indian thus made a "good Presbyterian" should prove another Benito Juarez in some national emergency, would not the game have been worth the candle?

A SATOLLI INCIDENT IN MEXICO.

In the other extremity of society is a motion entitled to notice. The Central Council of "L'Oeuvre de la Propagation de la Foi" located at Lyons, France, has turned eyes toward Mexico as a field from which to gather resources. Accordingly, an expert agent with an assistant or two was designated in 1889 to visit the country. It is his commission to organize the work of the propagation of the faith in all the dioceses of the Roman Catholic Church where the association does not already exist. The plan is to call upon the archbishops and bishops, then upon the prominent and wealthy families; to enlist their interest; to secure the appointment of committees and treasurers of local circles, who shall collect funds for the propagation of the faith among the pagans. The commissioners report a hearty welcome in Mexico. In some places rich families pledge themselves for $250 or more annually. In one city a collection of $5,000 was gathered. Says the commissioner, "If the modern spirit which is here called liberalism has found adepts in Mexico, the most part of the grand families have kept intact the ardent Spanish piety, and that true Christian charity which gives without taking account." It is not difficult to see that a hearty enlistment of the higher classes in the world-wide "Propagation of the Faith" might have a decided effect on the future of the Roman Catholic Church in Mexico. A very large proportion of the funds of the Lyons Council is now contributed in France. Let Mexico join hands, and there is a coalition which may tie bonds where Louis Napoleon and Maximilian failed.

We meet a single allusion to Protestant work in the correspondence of the European visitors. In a certain city, they say, "The Protestants who have attempted to install themselves here have lost their time and their money; they would have lost their lives also but for the spirit of tolerance and moderation which animates every good Catholic" —"tout bon Catholique." Indeed! if that is the way it lies, what is going to be the fate of the Protestant who falls into the hands—des Catholiques méchants? The record of fifty-eight names already inscribed in the roll of Protestant martyrs answers the question. This commissioner received his commission from the hand and lips of the Pope, in these words, "Go, my son—go to those far off regions, to those people of ardent faith and generous heart; say to them that if the Councils of the Propagation of the Faith have chosen you, it is the Pope himself who sends you, the Pope who blesses all who receive you and respond to your appeal." For one thus commissioned even to hint at the sacrifice of Protestant lives, unless it were to condemn it relentlessly, is inflammatory, and is a crime against the free spirit of these Western Republics.

THE HOUR FOR PROTESTANT MISSIONS.

Surely missionary plans should be adapted to respective fields. What might do for an island group in the Pacific might be ineffective in China; what might be indispensable at the present hour in China, might be behindhand in Mexico. Here is a land in the flush of civil and religious liberty, falling eagerly into the currents of modern progress, speaking a noble literary and Christian language. Is not this land entitled to the Christian university teaching the full curriculum of fresh learning, to an evangelical literature of the highest grade, and to theological schools competent to train an order of cultivated preachers? Should we not do our part for the nation and for souls sooner and better by erecting an institutional Christianity, trusting to its quality of self-diffusion, than by attempting to cover a wide area of evangelism with imperfect instruments? Can not the Presbyterian Church be put upon a scheme to loan lavishly of her learning and wealth to the neighbor so near at hand?

SUMMER IN ZAHLEH, SYRIA.

REV. WILLIAM JESSUP, Zahleh.—The air of Zahleh is exceedingly dry in summer. In winter the rains and snows keep the air very agreeably moist and sometimes quite cold, but when the rains cease in the spring the sun soon dries up all the latent moisture in the air and, as the range of Lebanon completely shuts off all sea air and moisture from us, we experience a very decided change. The air becomes so dry as to crack furniture badly, warp books and make some people very nervous. This nervousness I would speak of more especially in connection with the ladies who can get little exercise in going about because of another feature of our Zahleh climate, which is a strong wind that blows incessantly a great deal of the time after the heat begins, from 9 or 10 a. m. till sunset. It is peculiar to this side of Lebanon and seems to be occasioned by the heating of the air on the plains which rises and draws down the wind from the higher altitudes which comes with a steadiness like that of a blast furnace. This raises the dust in clouds, for the mud roofs of the city are very dry at this time and the winds soon make it exceedingly trying for ladies to stir about out of doors. The heat of Zahleh in the city is also intense, for the town is in a narrow valley and valleys always collect the sun's heat more than other places. The heat may not be as great as in Be'rut or other seaport towns, but it is of a different character—dry heat.

—Rev. Manawar Khán, a convert from Islám, was lately ordained and installed pastor of the United Presbyterian Church (Scotland) at Todhgarh in Rajputana. He is a strong man and full of energy. Thus the crescent gives way to the cross.

—A missionary visiting a mission station at Rhenok in Sikkin heard a headman of the region say: "If it were not for caste and custom and my friends holding me back, I would like at once to come out and take Jesus Christ as my Saviour."

—A Roman Catholic Missionary at Pedong, on the India border of Thibet, is translating the Gospel of John into Thibetan. This he proposes to have printed and sent into Thibet by the traders who pass that way.

—The question of "hasty baptisms" is being discussed very earnestly by the missionaries of North India. The earnestness is, however, degenerating into somewhat acrid controversy, which is greatly to be deprecated. The hosts of God cannot afford to quarrel over methods. The Church wants to pray for the charity "which believeth all things."

HOME MISSIONS.

OUR FINAL EFFORT!

We have come to the last month of the fiscal year. Every possible effort has been put forth by the Board to meet the demands of the field and to pay the debt that has been for years impeding our progress. We think that we see a gray dawn on the near horizon. But the full day of deliverance will not come unless all the Pastors, Sessions, and friends will lend us all the aid in their power. This is a hard struggle that cannot be carried on successfully, single handed. We beg therefore that every Pastor, Stated Supply and Session will see that all our people have the opportunity to contribute something, if not as the Lord has prospered them, before the closing of our books on the first of April. It will reflect credit on the liberality of our Church and redound to God's glory and the good of our country to be able to announce at the next General Assembly that the harassing debt is cancelled, that the hard working and self-denying Missionaries are paid, and that the Board is moving cautiously on to take possession of the land for Christ. We pray all to join us in the final effort to bring about this blessed result.

The Board of Home Missions at the January meeting appointed Mr. Thornton B. Penfield to represent its interests among the Christian Endeavor Societies and Sabbath schools of our churches. This is an important movement. The Board has long felt that the young people, now so thoroughly organized for regular systematic training and effort in Church life and work, ought to be brought into close sympathy and co-operation with the missionary operations of the Church. But time has been taken to find the right man for the work. At last one has been found who is in every way qualified for the important position.

Mr. Penfield is a member of the senior class of Union Theological Seminary, a recent graduate of Columbia College, and a young man of experience in mission work. He was employed by our Board of Publication two summers as Sabbath-school missionary in Minnesota, where he was conspicuously wise in his methods and successful in his work.

It is with pleasure that the Board announces that he has accepted the appointment, and that he will enter at once upon the work, giving it such a portion of his time, until his graduation, as his remaining duties in the Seminary will permit. The present arrangement is tentative, but it is hoped that the results will justify the Board in making it permanent.

Mr. Penfield is commended to the Sabbath-schools and Young People's Societies of the Presbyterian Church. His address is the same as that of the Board, Box L, Station D, 53 Fifth Avenue, New York.

CHEROKEES.—The church among the full-blood Cherokees at Elm Springs recently received fourteen new members. Among them was one little girl only twelve years old who had learned and was able to repeat the entire Shorter Catechism.

ALASKA.—A Bill has been introduced into the United States Senate proposing a more perfect government for Alaska. Besides providing the executive and judicial officers, it establishes a land office so that citizens and actual settlers can acquire title. It makes natives and other residents citizens under certain wise restrictions, prohibits the manufacture or sale of liquor except by licensed druggists and for medicinal purposes, and adopts the laws of Oregon for the Territory.

ARIZONA.—Our missions among the Pimas and Papagoes in Arizona has been prosperous and fruitful from the first. During the past year Rev. Charles H. Cook, our missionary to these tribes, received twenty-nine members on examination, making a total membership of 54 in the church at Sacaton. His Sabbath-school numbers

144. He has taught them even in their poverty to worship God by offerings. Last year they contributed to seven of our denominational causes. He is a man of untiring energy and unflagging zeal, and he has evidently succeeded in communicating these qualities to these Indians, as the following extract from his last report shows:

"We have had little rain here since March, 1892, and some of the horses and cattle are dying from starvation. This makes it difficult for some of our members who live from 15 to 35 miles from here to come to church as often as they would like to come. Otherwise there has been an increase of attendance at both of our churches, also at our open-air meetings. The churches are generally full; sometimes we barely have room for all who come. We should like very much to have some of our New York friends spend Sunday with us."

Rev. J. J. Gilchrist, our Missionary at Mora, New Mexico, is a very busy man. Besides preaching regularly three times a week in his circuit he publishes a little paper in Spanish which is a great help among the families where so little evangelical literature in their language is found. He reports ten received on profession of faith, and one by letter during the last quarter. He has also baptized four infants and eight adults.

A very prominent feature of work in the older States is clearly visible in the following extract from a report of Rev. A. M. Shaw of Whitney's Point, New York. There is nothing discouraging about it, for his work is evidently blessed, and he is doing great and permanent good, but the results do not remain with him. They are found elsewhere blessing and enriching other churches in the larger cities, in the new States, on the frontiers, extending their influence in wider spheres. Mr. Shaw writes: "With this report I send seventeen dollars, our contributions for benevolence for the past three months. My church has received three additions to its membership during the past quarter. If it were not for the fact that we are constantly losing members by death and by removals to other and larger places this church would have become self-supporting before this time. But with all the additions it scarcely holds its own."

HOPE FOR JEWS IN CALIFORNIA.—Rev. A. J. Goodfriend writes: "Having been brought up in the Jewish Church my heart goes out for my people. I think the Gospel ought to be preached to them. I wrote to the Board asking for an opening and praying that an effectual door might be opened, for my heart's desire for Israel is that they might be saved. I firmly believe that if the Board undertook this work among the Jewish people money would flow into your treasury to carry on the work that would surprise us all. It is God's cause."

PRESIDENT HARRISON'S PROCLAMATION, granting amnesty to all Mormons convicted of polygamy who have not violated the Edmunds-Tucker law since 1890, shows a magnanimous desire to help the Mormons out of their disgrace and up to the level of American citizenship. It is the expression of a willingness to forget the treachery and double dealing of the past, and to take at par the pledge made by the authorities of their Church two years ago to abandon the doctrine and practice of polygamy. It requires a wonderful amount of charity for one at all acquainted with the history of this peculiar people to do this. But it is greatly to the credit of the President that he can be thus charitable, even when reinforced by the recommendation of the Utah Commission and Gov. Thomas. But it ought not to seem a strange thing if, as the Mormon papers say, "an apologetic air pervades the document," for the President is answerable to a nation of people who cannot soon forget Mormon treachery by which the authorities, State or National, were deceived and outwitted at Kirtland, O., at Independence, Mo., at Nauvoo, Ill., and at Winter Quarters, Ia.; or the snares by which unsuspecting men and women were lured to destruction at Mountain Meadows, at Nephi and the Willow Springs, at Springville and the Willow Grove, at Toquerville in the valley of the Rio Virgin, and at many other places in Utah; or the half century of history throughout which under the most sacred professions of purity and honor, confiding innocence has been outraged and beguiled to destruction. But possibly twenty years of pupillage, under the authority of the government reinforced by the military, under the influence of Christian missions and the instruction of mission schools, under the civilizing power of enforced contact with American civilization and the stern discipline of gentile enterprise, they may in truth have decided to abandon their oriental practices and unamerican ambitions. Possibly Prophet Wilford Woodruff, whose manifesto is the warrant for President Harrison's proclamation, is not such an one as Prophet Joseph Smith, who wrote, "Thus saith the Lord, there shall not any man among you have save it be one wife, and concubines he shall have none," and then took to himself five wives; or as Prophet Brigham Young, who, in 1851, declared with much indignation that the current report that the Mormons practiced polygamy was a "gentile lie," and in 1852 published the so-called revelation, not only permitting plural marriages among the saints, but making polygamy a condition of celestial exaltation and favor with God, and then married 19 wives; or Prophet John Taylor, who at Boulogne-sur-mer, in France in 1850, denied with holy indignation the charge that Mormons were polygamists, and at the same time had five wives in Salt Lake City. It may be that President Woodruff is not in accord with the apostles and high priests now honored and obeyed in their Church, who for years have been preaching throughout Utah that "The saints would yet succeed in pulling the wool over the eyes of Congress and the administration, and secure statehood and then go to casting out devils as they used to do in the good old times." At any rate, it is well that President Harrison has issued that amnesty proclamation upon the terms and with the restrictions by which it is guarded, and the Mormons ought to receive it with becoming gratitude and penitence. But Congress should give them a long time to get used to the new order of things and to prove their sincerity, before conferring the powers of statehood upon them. Let it be clearly manifest that polygamy has been abolished in good faith, that the disloyal endowment house oaths are no longer to be administered and that those persons who have hitherto been bound by them are released from their obligations, before the control of a sovereign state is committed to them.

UTAH.—The patient and faithful toilers upon this field are cheered with the prospect of an increasing harvest. Rev. Frank G. Webster of American Fork writes:

I do not think the outlook was ever as encouraging. I am chairman of the evangelistic committee of Presbytery. I cannot supply the demands that come to me for ministers to assist in special services. I myself have had seven invitations to assist the brethren in special meetings. I have already this quarter been to Box Elder where over thirty started in the new life of service to King Immanuel. Four were added to the church at American Fork as the result of special meetings.

The good friends everywhere who have been giving and praying and watching and longing for the prosperity of our work among the Mormons will be glad to read the following extract from Miss Coogle's report:

It would cheer your hearts, even as it does ours, could you step into our academy one of these bright, cold mornings, and look into the faces of so many grown-up Mormon boys and girls. Never have we had such an ingathering of Mormon youth; never have we had such opportunities of presenting Bible truths to them as now; nor are we unmindful of these responsibilities which are upon us during the short time they will probably be in. Some of the Mormon fraternity are a little uneasy over the condition of affairs, but as yet have not drawn the rein so tightly that these pupils have discontinued coming.

Then, as we come to school each morning, our eyes are always delighted with the pretty structure rapidly rising on these same academy grounds. The new chapel begins to assume proportions that make it seem a reality to us.

Similar tidings come from nine other missions in Utah. There is a steady and gratifying advance all along the line of that division of our Home Mission army.

"Be not overcome of evil, but overcome evil with good.

Be not weary in well-doing, for in due season ye shall reap if ye faint not."

NEW ENGLAND, ROMAN CATHOLIC.

The above caption may strike some of our readers as sensational. It may be regarded by a few of the descendants of the Puritans, who have not watched the recent changes in New England, as untrue. We affirm that it is not sensational, much less untrue. We have no disposition to awaken interest in Home Missions by doubtful means, and no one, we trust, will accuse us of stating knowingly what is false. The distinguished gentleman who prepared religious items for the last Census tells us in a late number of the "Independent" that there are to-day in New England 1,000,000 members of the Romish Church as against 230,000 Congregationalists. If all the Methodists, the Baptists and the Episcopalians are added to the Congregationalists, they will not equal those claimed to belong to the Romish Church. Years ago Cardinal Tachereau admitted to two United States Senators who called on him on business, that there were at least 800,000 of his subjects in the New England States. I read in one of the Quebec journals a quotation from the address made by the same Prelate to a company of his subjects on departing for the land of the Puritans, stating that they were not going thither to become citizens of the United States, but propagandists to restore to its rightful owner, the Pope, Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut. This is truly alarming! The enemy is getting literally behind our Home Mission forces as Sherman got behind the Confederates by his memorable march to the sea.

The change that has taken place in New England has been so rapid that none save those who are studying the problem of evangelizing our land, fully understand the facts. In the memory of many still living, nearly all the farmers of New England were natives of the soil and Puritans by descent and education. At that time even the operatives in the great factories of Lynn, Fall River and Providence were reared in the good old way of the fathers. Home Missionaries were not needed, hence all the benefactions of the churches were devoted to work in foreign lands and the great West. Then the spires of Protestant churches only pointed the people to heaven, and the bells of all the places of worship called the young and the old to hear the simple truths of the gospel of Christ.

What is the condition of things there to-day? The majority of the operatives, if not of the farmers also, are foreign born, and the great body of them are Romanists. The image of the Virgin and the elaborately decorated altars are found where a few years ago the severe Puritan worship only was witnessed. To-day the chimes of Cathedral bells call multitudes in New England to the mummeries of the Church of Rome. This Church, I state it to her credit, follows with care all her members, whithersoever they go. Perhaps the very best of the foreign population of New England are those of the Presbyterian persuasion from Scotland, Ireland, the Provinces and the United States. They demand that their children be reared in the faith of their fathers. Shall it be denied them?

Some have thought that it is a waste of money to do it, because they are all welcome to the Congregational churches. It must not be forgotten that the Scotch and the Irish have not known much in their early days about our Congregational brethren. Besides, they find, here and there, when they enter the churches in New England, Unitarians going under that name. The intelligent people of New England appreciate their preference for Presbyterianism. For some of the best and most influential of the ministers and professors there have thanked the Board for sending missionaries to care for our own people, and to help them resist the great avalanche of Romanism coming down from the North. Let it be fully understood that we do not spend a dime in attempting to make proselytes of our Congregational brethren, but simply and solely in caring for those who will not go to any church but our own. We are only looking after the homeless and lost of our own household of faith. In so doing we are but emulating the Romish Church in her commendable care for her destitute and wandering members.

THE MOUNTAIN WHITES.

The above title is now given to the people inhabiting a hundred or more counties in the mountains of Virginia, North Carolina, Kentucky, Tennessee and Alabama. Their number is variously estimated from 1,000,000 to 1,500,000. They are believed to be, from their history, traditions, peculiarities and names, of Scotch and Scotch-Irish origin, and presumably Presbyterian far back. Until recently the country knew very little about them. During the late war they were, with a few exceptions, loyal to the government and believers in the integrity of the Union. Many of them carried the musket, and not a few fell in defence of their country. These people have not felt the commercial quickening and business activity witnessed all around them, because their homes are in the mountains, too high to be affected by the whistle of the locomotive or the passing tides of immigration.

The result of isolation and other causes in the case of these mountain whites is great ignorance and lack of religious advantages. Their forefathers, unlike those who went West from New England and the Middle States, did not take with them a sufficient number of ministers and teachers to keep their descendants intelligent and religious. They have had, through all these years, some preachers and teachers after their kind, but they have been ignorant, and in many cases not of very high moral character. Many of the ministers have been unable to read the texts which they have undertaken to expound, and often asked some one in the congregation to read them for them. Notwithstanding, they have great respect for the Bible and the religion of Christ. Scarcely an infidel can be found among them. They hear the gospel gladly whenever it is preached to them with earnestness and power.

There is at present a strong movement among the evangelical denominations to supply these people with Christian schools and religious privileges. Our Church has already made Asheville, North Carolina, a centre, around which cluster a number of schools and preaching places. The work is going on prosperously, and the results of the few years' experiment have been very encouraging. No difficulty is experienced in securing students who are willing to make sacrifices for the sake of an education. Our policy is to prepare them to be good Christian teachers for our future schools, and to be good Christian mechanics and farmers, who will show to others in their neighborhood, by word and example, how to make in those callings a respectable living. About forty students have been recently brought to Christ in our schools at Asheville, as the result of a few days preaching by our Presbyterian Missionary, the Rev. John Bachman of Tennessee. If this work is pushed forward as it ought to be, these mountains, which are to-day great moral wastes, will soon blossom as the rose.

Work Among the Mountain Whites in Tennessee.—Rev. C. A. Duncan, S. M., writes of the school at Wartburg having an enrollment of fifty scholars, and "trusts that the foundation is being laid for a permanent school that will bless all that region. The principal proposes to introduce a systematic study of the Bible."

At Asheville Rev. Nathan Bachman, Synodical Evangelist, "has just closed a series of meetings in the Normal and Collegiate Institute, of which Rev. Thomas Lawrence, D. D., is superintendent. Forty girls from the Institute and the Industrial Home were hopefully converted."

COMITY.

The attention of the Church and country was called afresh to the subject of Denominational Comity in Home Mission work by the report of the Committee to the Portland Assembly, and the instructions which that Assembly sent to the Board. It is a matter of gratification to the Boards of the "allied denominations" that the religious papers of the country have so thoroughly discussed the subject. But in this discussion there is manifestly an erroneous and exaggerated notion of the evils complained of. The long-standing rules quoted in the paper which follows, show that the subject is not new nor neglected in the offices of these Boards.

It is a matter for regret that the other denominations invited were not represented at the conference. But those who were present by diligent comparison of records discovered the following facts which may be of interest:

There are 183 mission fields occupied by both Presbyterian and Congregational missionaries. Of these 91 are communities of 2,000 to 25,000 population, in which, of course, there could be no offensive rivalry. The remaining 42 are towns of less than 2,000 inhabitants. Of these, 31 have never been in dispute, nor has the propriety of occupancy in both denominations ever been questioned by anybody so far as can be learned. The remaining 11 have at one time or another, been in dispute. Seven of these cases have been amicably settled as they came up, from time to time, as the result of friendly conference such as the General Assembly now recommends, by the withdrawal of the one or the other party from the field. The remaining four fields are in process of amicable adjustment in the same way.

But one such case has arisen between the Presbyterian and Reformed Churches and that was settled by the voluntary withdrawal of one party.

REPORT OF THE DENOMINATIONAL CO-OPERATION CONFERENCE ON HOME MISSIONS.

The General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America two years ago appointed a committee on this subject, which presented to the last Assembly a very full and exhaustive report, containing among other recommendations the following:

"In view of the fact that a lack of conference is given as the frequent reason for lack of co-operation, we recommend a joint conference of the Executive Officers of the allied denominations, to be held at some time in the near future, for the purpose of devising some plan for future operations in the general line of the facts and principles herein given."

As a result of the above action a meeting was held at the Presbyterian Mission Rooms, 53 Fifth Avenue, New York, on the 5th of December, 1892, at which the following persons were present:

Rev. William C. Roberts, D. D., Rev. William Irvin, D. D., and Rev. Duncan J. McMillan, D. D., Corresponding Secretaries of the Board of Home Missions of the Presbyterian Church; Rev. Charles

L. Thompson, D. D., Chairman, and Rev. J. Aspinwall Hodge, D. D., members of the General Assembly's Committee on Co-operation; Rev. J. B. Clark, D. D., Rev. William Kincaid, D. D., and Rev. Washington Choate, D. D., Corresponding Secretaries of the American Home Missionary Society; and Rev. Paul D. Van Cleef, D. D., President, and Rev. Charles H. Pool, D. D., Corresponding Secretary of the Board of Domestic Missions of the Reformed Church in America.

After a full and free discussion on the subject of Denominational Comity in missionary work, in which all were of one mind, a committee of three, one from each denomination, was appointed to embody the result of this Conference in some appropriate form, and report at another meeting, to be held at the same place.

At a meeting on December 13th, the Committee reported as follows:

"That each of the Boards or Societies represented has on record rules for the government of its agents in their interdenominational relations on missionary fields.

The Presbyterian Home Missionary is required by the printed terms of his commission to 'avoid interfering improperly with existing organizations, or multiplying churches from mere sectarian considerations.'

"The Congregationalists, in their printed statement of principles furnished to their Superintendents and Missionaries, say: 'It is the invariable rule of the Society not to plant a Congregational Church or Mission on ground which, in the proper sense of the word, is cared for by other evangelical denominations.'

"The rule adopted by the Board of the Reformed Church is 'not to gather a congregation in any community when the field is fully occupied by other evangelical churches.'

"The Committee endorse these rules as wise, and sufficient to cover the whole ground, needing only to be applied as circumstances arise.

"The Committee, therefore, recommend in the first place, that these rules be emphasized as of universal application.

"Secondly.—That exceptional cases which may arise shall be referred to Committees of Conference on the field, consisting of the Chairmen of the Local Home Missionary Committees of the denominations concerned, together with the Synodical Missionaries and the Home Missionary Superintendents.

"Thirdly.—In case of disagreement on the field, the question in dispute shall be referred to the Secretaries of the Home Missionary Societies in New York.

"In regard to the feasibility of uniting small churches, it is recommended that each Board or Society inquire of its field agents what churches, if any, belonging to the different denominations can be served by one pastor or supply, the missionary grant in that case to be equitably divided between the several Boards, and the churches to retain their denominational relations; also that inquiry be made what church or churches should be discontinued, and its members be advised to unite with some other evangelical church."

The following resolution was then unanimously adopted:

"Resolved, That the Boards here represented furnish the religious press with these rules and suggestions, and also supply their missionaries on the field."

THE FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH IN ALASKA.

REV. CLARENCE THWING, M. D., FT. WRANGEL.

[Our readers will be interested in Dr. Thwing's vivid picturing of his work and his people. He has passed from the medical profession into the ministry, and is as successful in the latter as he was in the former. He preached while he was practicing, and continues his practice while he is preaching.]

The natives were eagerly awaiting the coming of their new minister, and all greeted me kindly and heartily. But few families were in from their summer camping grounds, or the "fall hunt," when I arrived, and so the Church services were thinly attended, but the numbers gradually increased from week to week (80, 50, 70, 90, and so on); and during the past month the audience has been, on Sabbath mornings, about as large as could be comfortably seated—not counted, but probably 120 or over. The people seem to be generally pleased with simple expository talks on the parables and other scripture passages easy to be interpreted, and they will listen to quite plain talking if it is earnest and kind. I have found it a great help, in making acquaintances and winning the indifferent to church attendance, to spend a good part of my time in visiting the families at their homes.

The Alaskans receive a white visitor with conspicuous courtesy and attention, particularly when they feel that he comes as a friend and not a mere curio hunter, critic or spy. I have often felt that I could learn something of politeness and urbanity from them—especially in the reception of a caller who is inopportune! My calls, however untimely, even when interrupting their meals or other household business, have always elicited a respectful and pleasant welcome. Of course, the Thlinkets can reciprocate rudeness as well as sympathy and civility, and it behooves strangers not to be too dainty or top-lofty in approaching them if they have favors to ask.

When you knock at their door you receive an instant invitation to enter. The inmate will call "Ha goo," or "come in," without delay, no matter whether he is ready for company or not. The latch string is always out if anyone is within, and you are welcome to join the group at the open fire where a free hospitality prevails. If you doff your hat and offer your hand, while speaking a friendly greeting, you will receive a cheerful response, and some one will rise to grasp your hand and others will skirmish around to find and uncover a chair (kept for such distinguished guests) and place it for you in the midst of the group at the best place available by the central fireplace. Should you be disposed to pass a kindly remark or favorable comment, instead of sniffing in disgust at the drying skins and clothing or smoked fish overhead, you will hear a hearty "Koon cheese"—a native word which proves that the Alaskans can say "Thank you," whether they understand the quality of gratitude or not.

The effect of frequent calls by the minister is to remind the church members of the regular, or special, services of worship and Bible study, and to keep in their minds the obligation of Christian living which they are tempted to neglect or forget, in the midst of ungodly neighbors who observe the "old customs." It is well for them to feel that their pastor's eyes are often upon them (as well as the Heavenly Shepherd's unslumbering and everwatchful sight), and that he cares to look after their daily life as well as their worship in the sanctuary. There are many matters also which are brought up for discussion and illumination at the family hearth which are not referred to in the formal gatherings for prayer and conference. Individual difficulties and perplexities are there brought to light, or in the still more private conferences at the minister's study, which show what the real needs of the congregation are, and what teachings are best suited for their present circumstances.

On account of the numerous calls at the parsonage (about 450 in three months) and the visits (nearly half that number) paid to parishioners, I have not made much progress yet, either in theological study [Dr. Thwing went from the medical profession into the ministry] or in learning the language; besides, I have no teacher for either subject. My aim has been, and will be, chiefly to "do the work of an evangelist," to preach—seven days in the week—the simple gospel of salvation, to invite young and old, everywhere, to repent, believe and be baptized. I feel that my call to labor here is to win souls and to make that my chief business until all are won to Christ.

As a result of the season of prayer there were twelve adults and five young children (brought by Christian parents) baptized on Christmas morning. At the communion service, on the first Sunday in December, two adults and three children were baptized, and two church members received on certificate, from Sitka and Howcan. Thus our church roll has been increased by 16 adults and 8 children during the quarter. One member has died during the quarter, and about 60 names are now on the roll.

Several others are awaiting baptism, and several young people, who were baptized in infancy, are to be received into the fellowship of the Church on confession of their faith. Two couples, who have been living together according to native custom for many years, came last week to be lawfully united in marriage (at their own suggestion) prior to baptism on the Sabbath. Several other couples who wish to enter Church fellowship are considering the question of legal and Christian marriage, but some are deterred by the influence of unconverted friends or an unwillingness to abandon all old customs relating to family ties and property rights. There have been no marriages recorded here since 1889, and I know of quite a number of young couples living together as the white men live with native women, unwedded. In some instances married couples have separated, with or without good cause, and formed new alliances which are very difficult to disentangle. The marriage problems are about the most vexing ones which confront an earnest pastor here.

Our nearness to the Metlakahla colony at Portchester, where the natives are supposed to be living very much like white people in the East (?), affords a wholesome incentive to our younger men to adopt the degree of civilized life there enjoyed; and the young men here are ambitious enough and enlightened enough to wish to discard many old practices which are unbusiness like, unprofitable and senseless, or superstitious, and to learn some more modern amusements in place of the old-fashioned dances—with painted faces, adornments of beads, blankets and feathers, and other barbaric or heathenish accompaniments. They would be glad, for example, to receive some help toward the purchase of musical instruments for a band, such as those among the boys at Sitka and Portchester. It is no small question how to properly occupy and entertain the young people and the older ones too (for all are mentally childlike and consider amusement very necessary), during the winter vacation, when they are not required to work much, because the summer toil has provided the necessary food, fuel and other necessities for winter use. Quite a number of "old-fashioned" dances and potlatch-feasts have been held the past few weeks, as a social and entertaining way of settling their accounts with each other, paying off indebtedness and comforting the bereaved.

I have hope, however, that another year the standard of morality and civilized living may be raised to that set by the few at present.

As a partial offset to the somewhat demoralizing influences of the native dance-feasts, we have had some extra meetings for prayer or song practice, on Tuesday and Saturday afternoons. Mrs. Thwing has been arduous in rehearsing the Gospel Hymns, for Sunday services, and songs for Christmas, two or three times each week, with the children and others who cared to join. She also plays the organ at most of the church meetings.

Our Christmas tree and treat occurred on last Monday evening, the 26th, and the church was crowded full. A half hour or more was occupied with singing, recitations, a simple calisthenic exercise (which was quite a triumph for lethargic Thlinket children), and some pieces by a quartette of white friends. On the tree were presents for all the children who could be discovered in Wrangel, and apples, candy and picture cards for the older natives. All present, including a score of villagers, seemed to enjoy the evening, and a hearty vote of thanks was given the ladies who had decorated the meeting house and conjured up the gifts and ornaments on the tree.

The contributions of the Church, by subscription and collection, have been nearly sufficient to meet the current expenses (for interpreter, fuel and light) thus far; it is proposed to meet these congregational expenses during the coming year wholly by subscription, if possible, so that the offerings in church may be devoted to benevolent and missionary work. Collections have been taken already for the Home and Foreign Boards of our Church, amounting to $20 and $30 respectively, for the extension of missionary work in Alaska (outside of Wrangel) and for the support of a native missionary helper in China.

Perhaps it should be explained that rather more than half of these benevolent contributions came from an individual, who follows the practice of tithing; however, the remainder indicates a fair start, for a "home missionary" church, in giving to objects outside of congregational needs. In addition to the sum of $20 already given for current expenses, over $15 was contributed for some minor repairs to the church and additions to its furnishing.

Alaska Indians.—Rev. L. F. Jones writes impressively of the enhanced difficulty of evangelizing Indians whom the Russian priests have baptized. "The very mystery in which the Russian Church is enshrouded has a fascination for them." He says, "My hope lies with the children whom I am teaching every day the rudiments of an English education, notwithstanding they have all already been ticketed for heaven by the Russian Church. Some of these boys and girls are quite apt in learning."

Concert of Prayer for Church Work at Home

JANUARY,	The New West
FEBRUARY,	The Indians.
MARCH,	The Older States.
APRIL,	The Cities.
MAY,	The Mormons.
JUNE,	Our Missionaries.
JULY,	Results of the Year.
AUGUST,	Romanists and Foreigners.
SEPTEMBER,	The Outlook.
OCTOBER,	The Treasury.
NOVEMBER,	The Mexicans.
DECEMBER,	The South.

HOME MISSIONS IN THE OLDER STATES.

The terms Older States have different applications. They sometimes imply the thirteen original States of the American Union, and sometimes the commonwealths lying between the Allegheny Mountains and the Atlantic Ocean. In this article, we shall apply the words to all that territory extending from our extreme Eastern boundary to the Mississippi River. This includes only one-third of the United States. Until a comparatively recent date it was regarded as the whole of it that was of much value. It is, indeed, a wide extent of country. No one who has not travelled from New York or Boston to St. Paul or Minneapolis can form any just conception of its area.

As many of our readers are more familiar with the extent of the different countries of Europe than they are with that of the States west of the Alleghenies, a comparison of the two may aid in grasping their vastness. The older States cover about the same number of square miles as the Republic of France, the Empire of Austria and the States of Germany, together with the Kingdoms of Spain and Italy. The soil of the States is richer and their minerals are more abundant than those of the European countries with which they are here compared. But the population, at the present time, is in the ratio of one to four, or 48,000,000 to 174,000,000. But the day is not far distant when there will be as large a number of people in the older States of this Union as there is to-day in France, Austria, Germany, Spain and Italy combined. In this light, the work still to be done by the Board of Home Missions east of the Mississippi is vast and important.

There is an impression more or less general that the territory here designated the older States is rapidly ceasing to be a Home Mission field. This is probably based on the fact that the people there are becoming more settled, and the Presbyteries better able to take care of them. Whilst that is unquestionably true, it is just as true that parts of New Jersey are as needy as any districts on the Pacific coast; that counties in Delaware and on the Eastern shore of Maryland are as truly home missionary ground as similar counties in Montana and Idaho; that sections of Pennsylvania need missionaries as much as portions of Puget Sound, and that the lake and lumber regions of New York are as dependent on the Board as some of the valleys of Colorado and New Mexico. The reason of this is easily explained. Multitudes of the farmers in the older States emigrate to the West, and people of foreign birth come in to take their place; new discoveries and industries like the oil wells of Pennsylvania, the lumber of New York, the natural gas of Indiana, the iron of Wisconsin, and the pines of Michigan, attract to them multitudes of skilled workmen and day laborers who need religious privileges.

There are in addition to what is said above vast regions of virgin soil and unsettled plains and valleys in the older States. This is specially true of northern Wisconsin, parts of the Lower Peninsula and most of the Upper Peninsula of Michigan, West Virginia, Tennessee and Kentucky. All these are filling up more or less rapidly with a needy population. It is safe to say that the Board of Home Missions could profitably expend all its present receipts in the evangelization of that part of our land lying east of the Mississippi River. Consequently instead of decreasing, the demand for missionaries even there is increasing.

The work of missions in these older States is two-fold, namely, that carried on by the different Synods and that conducted by the Board itself. It is a notable and encouraging fact that the Synod of New Jersey supported last year all its weak churches and contributed towards the general work of the Board of Home Missions the sum of $48,000, or from $4,000 to $6,000 more than during any preceding year, except when special gifts were made toward paying the debt. The Synod of Indiana is supporting this year all its weak churches and contributing about $2,000 towards the general work. The Synods of New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio and some others are caring for most of their weak churches in addition to their large contributions towards the general work of the Board. On the recommendation of the Presbyteries, the Board of Home Missions is aiding all the churches that are unable to support themselves in the States that have not as yet a Sustentation Scheme, and aiding all the properly called Home Missionary churches within the bounds of the Synods that take care, wholly or in part, of their weak churches. The two plans are working admirably together and the contributors seem to appreciate the value of and reason for each. It is apparent from the above statements that $800,000 or $900,000 is a small sum of money to be distributed over the whole of this broad land. For the region lying beyond the Mississippi is twice as large and ten times as destitute as that embraced in the older States. It is everywhere opening up for immigration and advancing in population and material riches. But the prayers of God's people are specially asked this month for the work of the Board and that of the Synods in the older States.

Particular attention is called to the letters from Ohio and Illinois, as appropriate to the topic for the month:—"Home Missions in the Older States." These letters glow with holy zeal and report results that are not only gratifying but inspiring. They show that we may do as grand work for the Master in the older States as in the newer. The Home Mission field is our whole beloved country.

Letters.

OHIO.

REV. PARK W. TAYLOR, Hanging Rock:—I love these little feeble churches in Southern Ohio where my father labored for nearly forty years, part of the time as a home missionary. I have taken hold of the work here on the river and find that I am needed. This little church pays my salary and allows me one Sabbath per month in which to do missionary work around among the feeble churches. I have two brothers laboring among these small churches, two of them members of Athens Presbytery. We are doing missionary work, though at present we receive nothing from the Board. I have just received joyful news from one of them that the Spirit has visited his church and fourteen have been received into the church on profession of their faith. Though my church here has but 30 members I am pushing them up on missions and getting good collections for the Boards. Our collection for home missions was nearly $11.00. I am the only resident minister in a town of 500 people, and the only resident minister on the river between Ironton and Portsmouth, a distance of 30 miles. I wish we had more men down here. We have needy fields, but no men to put into them. We have not fields with large salaries, but we have needy fields and fields that will pay in souls redeemed from sin, and which, with a little help from the Board, could support a man.

I do not understand all this discussion about "unemployed ministers and vacant churches." I can tell you of vacant churches; I understand that part of it. But I don't know of any unemployed ministers. All the ministers around here are busy, and in fact have more than they can do.

WEST VIRGINIA.

REV. A. B. LOWES:—Our presbytery of Parkersburg embraces twenty-seven of the fifty-four counties of the State, and more than one-half the population. In these twenty-seven counties we have only thirty-one churches, fourteen ministers and 1,656 members.

The total strength of our Church in the entire State, is 46 churches, 26 ministers and 4,447 members, in a population of more than 800,000. Wetzel county, with a population of 17,000, has not a Presbyterian church in it. Monongalia county (16,000), has one, Preston (20,000), has two weak churches, and these counties all border on the great State of Pennsylvania. Doddridge county (12,000), has none, Tyler (16,000), one, Wood (30,000), two, Jackson (20,000), one, and Mason (20,000), two. But one county in the bounds of the presbytery of Parkersburg has as many as three Presbyterian churches. This is not a flattering showing for our Church.

"Can the Presbyterian Church be built up in West Virginia?" Most emphatically, yes. Take one illustration which will serve for the whole State.

In Marshall county there is one pastoral charge, consisting of three organized churches, and a fourth place of preaching. In the last three years there have been added to these churches, on examination 139, on certificate, 37, total 176. Last year they received on examination 60, and on certificate 26, total 86. This is wholly a country charge. With men of such zeal and consecration such as characterizes the pastor of this charge, like results can be secured anywhere else in the State. I can go into any of the country school houses, and with a few hour's notice, can have them crowded any night and every night in the week. And as these white school houses, which dot the hillsides are multiplied, and the school term is lengthened, comes a demand from the people, particularly from the young people for better preaching, and the Presbyterian Church must be the foremost in supplying this demand. The present is the opportunity of our Church in this State.

One more illustration, last winter I received a letter from a gentleman of Hendricks in Tucker county, saying there was no church of any kind in their town—not an isolated case by any means—and they had determined to build one. They then had the building well under way, had deeded it to the Presbyterians, and wanted a little aid in helping to finish it. I went up to see what could be done for them. I enquired for the gentleman with whom I had been corresponding, and was most cordially welcomed by him. When the subject of the church came up he said to me, you will be surprised when I tell you that both my wife and myself are members of the M. E. Church, and I have been writing to you about this Presbyterian church. I was surprised and asked him how it was. He replied that when they decided that they must have a church of some kind in the place, a public meeting of the citizens was held and well attended, and by more than a two-thirds vote it was decided that it should be Presbyterian.

Some said to him, if we make it an M. E. church we will get more preaching than from the Presbyterians. He replied, if we make it Presbyterian we will get better preaching than from the Methodists. He was ready with the wife to go into a Presbyterian church as soon as one could be organized.

I found they were in the hands of the Winchester Presbytery of the Southern Assembly, and so advised them that it would be to their advantage to seek an organization from them. I called to see the nearest Southern minister, and told him of them, and a promising church has since been organized. There is no friction between the churches in the North and South. At only two points in our presbytery are there Northern and Southern Churches. They ought to be united. The State is now being rapidly developed, railroads are being projected into every part of the State in order to reach the valuable timber, coal and other minerals, the supply of which is almost inexhaustible.

New towns are springing up, new fields for the Church are opening. So far as the people are concerned, their presence here is no experiment. They are here to stay. Any work done will be permanent work, not to be affected by draught, cyclones or mushroom towns. I regard West Virginia as one of the most inviting and promising Home Mission fields open to our Church. It is at the same time the most neglected. The people generally are poor, or in but moderate circumstances, and have never been educated to give. They need the simple though glorious Gospel, and for the present it must literally be given to them.

ILLINOIS.

REV. FRANK M. ALEXANDER, Murphysboro.—When we made our application to you for aid to the amount of $50 for six months, I determined to see whether our benevolent offerings could not be made equal to the amount of aid that we asked. This hope has been realized and exceeded as to the last quarter, as the following table will show:

OCTOBER.—Columbus Day Offering, $20 00

HOME MISSIONS.

Church, . . .	$6 00
Sunday School, . . .	4 00
		$10 00

FOREIGN MISSIONS.

Church, . . .	$6 00
Sunday School, . . .	4 00
		$10 00

Total,		$20 00
------------------	--	---------

NOVEMBER.—Special for support of a little girl in Presbyterian Mission School in City of Mexico.

Ladies' Society, . . .	$5 00
Junior C. E. Society, . . .	1 00
Sabbath-school, Primary Class, . . .	1 00
		$7 00

Board of Education, . . .	7 00
		$14 00

DECEMBER.—Foreign Missions—Sunday School Christmas offering not yet sent,		8 00
---	--	------

Total,		$42 00
------------------	--	---------

We also in January sent $7.00 to the Freedmen's Board, so that already since October 1, we have made up $49—only one dollar short of the amount asked for the six months.

We have begun enlisting also the other churches in the work of systematic house-to-house visitation. The town has been divided into 31 districts, and as fast as possible these are assigned each to two visitors who go to every family, ascertain names of parents and children, church preferences, whether in Sabbath-school or not, etc., keeping record of these facts to be used by the minister. The committees also aim to leave suitable tracts or some kind of religious literature in every house—to find out any families that may not have Bibles, and try to induce them to buy; or, in extreme cases, supply them. We are hoping this work may do much good.

Our own congregation hope to be able to build a parsonage in the spring. This has been a great desideratum with us—the source of considerable inconvenience and discomfort to the minister and his family. The principal difficulty is that we have no site for building, and desirable lots are sold quite high.

REV. JOHN WESTON, D. D., SUPERINTENDENT, Chicago.—It has given me pleasure to address to each one of our churches a letter stirring up their pure minds by way of remembrance in respect to the importance of being generous toward the treasury of the Board. I have sent to every pastor copies of the leaflets published by the Board offering to send any number to circulate in the pews on the Sabbath preceding the offering, and a number have asked for a generous supply and they have been sent. We are aiming to have every church in the Presbytery send an offering to the Board this year, and we are quite hopeful of success.

We have some young churches that are progressing finely and will soon be self-supporting. We have conducted with good success a Presbyterian Convention at which some very important topics were discussed bearing upon the Home Mission work of our Presbytery. We made an effort to get all the elements of our churches to attend and succeeded above our expectation.

We have been able to take advantage of a fine opportunity to advance the Lord's work in a very needy portion of the city. The only thing at first attempted was the mission school. No effort was made to develop a church. Indeed, it was feared that the regular preaching of the Gospel would result in the children being taken out of the Sunday-school. In this very neighborhood is our Olivet Church, and because of the wickedness of the place it was at one time known as Little Hell Church. This church has been meeting in the third story of a building occupied on the first and second stories as a liquor store. The room has been too small and the work crippled. It was at once determined to try and get possession of a large building near by. The money is about raised and our Olivet Church is about to take possession. The Sabbath-school now numbers 1,300. We expect to secure the help of thirty students of the seminary to teach in the Sunday school and canvass in the district, and we are looking for great things as the result of this enterprise. To reach the thousands of indifferent people in this neglected district will take labor and wisdom, but it is a field white to the harvest.

SYNOD OF TENNESSEE.

REV. C. A. DUNCAN, S. M.

In Alabama the present urgent demand is for at least three new men, and I will leave no stone unturned for securing these from the senior classes in our seminaries. It is hoped that Rev.

James Bassett will continue his work in Anniston. We have an encouraging field at Bridgeport, where the church with new building paid for is eager for a pastor.

The church at New Decatur has recently been relieved of its debt and must be supplied. Then we need to open a new work in a mining region fourteen miles west of Birmingham, with Bloosburg as a center. Near by are Cardiff, Gintown, Fieldstown and Coalburg. These towns together have a sturdy Scotch-Irish population of more than five thousand, and but little missionary work is being done by any denomination among them.

The churches of Thomas and Pratt Mines can easily be cared for by one man, and this is being well done by Rev. Henry A. Mullen, who during my visit early in December resumed his work at Pratt Mines. Bloosburg and the contiguous towns are at easy supporting distance from Thomas and Pratt Mines, and in turn another field opened so near will furnish encouraging companionship to the minister and church at Thomas and Pratt.

Some progress has been made at Elizabethton, Tenn., in the securing of a fine location for an academy building. The lot is paid for and I am in correspondence, which, I trust, will result in the locating of a good man there for church and school.

November 8 we started a subscription paper for the erection of a new church building at Riceville, N. C. The Sabbath following I preached at Reems Creek, seven miles from Riceville, and tried to bring the church there up to a higher point of system and liberality in the support of their minister, the Rev. Frank M. Fox.

Soul-warming and saving revivals of religion follow in the track of our excellent evangelist, Rev. Nathan Bachman.

INDIAN TERRITORY.

REV. E. E. MATHES, Elm Springs:—Bro. Manus is our only available interpreter, and he is with Bro. Lelper half of the time, and without him I could not hold services to any advantage in any other full-blood neighborhood; but I can here, because nearly all the school children and many others in the community understand a good deal of English. In this we see one of the benefits of the Mission Day schools. But we are planning for more out-reaching work in the near future.

In my last report I referred to our quarterly communion service held on the second Sabbath in October, at which time fourteen new members were received—thirteen on profession of their faith in Christ. "One soweth and another reapeth." Five of the thirteen were children in the school, and since that time one of them, a girl twelve years old, has recited to me the entire Shorter Catechism. Thus are we greatly encouraged in the work.

It is true there are many discouragements and hinderances. Oft-times we feel inclined to grow faint and give up the strife. Then we remember the promises—they are so full and precious and we cast about and see signs of growth and fruitage.

OUR THANKSGIVING SERVICE.

This was to me very interesting indeed. The thank offering that the people brought—some money—some oats—some beans, etc., etc., tho' not large in itself, showed appreciative and grateful hearts, and gave evidence that they are trying to do something in return for what is being done for them. Somewhere near seven dollars were contributed in this way above referred to. We of the Mission make it ten dollars.

The Christmas exercises on Friday night before Xmas were well attended, tho' it was a dark and rainy night.

The exercises were almost entirely by the school children, and all did exceedingly well. We had some songs and recitations in Cherokee (the same that were given in English) for the sake of those who could not understand English.

The tree was a very pretty one, and the presents made many hearts glad and caused many faces to beam with brightness. The congregation was very attentive thro' it all. I never saw better order at a Christmas tree.

On Christmas Day, after preaching from the words "It is more blessed to give than to receive," we received contributions for foreign missions, the amount of which was most gratifying.

REV. DAVID SMALLWOOD, a young Indian minister, writes of his place and work in a very interesting style:

"My service begin 1 day of Oct. 1892, to January 1, 1893. I have preached 21 times Girty Spring Church and 2 Station."

"My Congregation is changeable; some tim large congregation and some tim small."

"Because it has been good deal sickness this fall, they were not able to come to meeting,

They enjoy very much my preaching—third Sunday in each month, and rest at 2 Station. Girty Spring Church we have good church house built, will comodat 168 to 175 people. We do have big congregation this country."

"We don't have no Sabbath-school, I am sorry, but I thank God yet we have good chance to organize."

"I know we going to Sabbath-school, we have good church house to go to."

"We have no public school, no privat school, no mission school needing to train children."

"I hope the Lord be with you brethren, and by the power of the Holy Ghost, be with you all—your work and my work."

MINNESOTA.

REV. JAMES DUDYCHA writes of his work in Montgomery, a town of about 1200 people, of whom 500 are Bohemians—the rest Germans and Americans.

There is one Catholic priest aided by four sisters of Charity. . . . One hundred children in the public school and over two hundred in the parochial school. . . . Began work by visiting and inviting to religious services. . . . Taught the children to sing three times a week or more, knowing their national love of music. . . . By such tact and diligence he has doubled the number in his Sabbath-school. . . . Becoming acquainted with the Catholics, he finds them "quite liberal"—"Protestant at heart, lacking courage to make a stand. . . . An old Catholic couple have got hold of a Bible, and have read it through twice and esteem it highly." Another old lady said of the Bible, "That book is my comfort, my joy."

They have a church of ten members; four Bohemians, one German and five Americans—one elder of each of those nationalities.

He pictures strongly the perplexities incident to such a situation, among them the being obliged to live with his newly wedded wife in one room that must serve as "kitchen, parlor, study" and all other domestic uses. This seemed to him hardest for his wife, who had always lived in New York. No wonder he longs for a "manse." . . . Helped by many friends, they have a church "plastered and wood-work done, also a pulpit and desk," but yet needing many things to complete its appointments.

All this looks very hopeful. Small beginnings alive are far better than being "rich and increased in goods," feeling "need of nothing."

OREGON.

REV. G. W. GIBONEY, Oregon City:—I suppose you have been informed by the H. M. Committee of this Presbytery that we make no further application for assistance. This stand for self-support was made at our last annual congregational meeting and in addition they voted an increase of my salary. The movement has proved of great helpfulness to the Church itself. The contributions to the benevolent objects of our Church have been much better than ever before.

At our November communion service, we received six into the membership of our church, four on profession and two by letter.

During the past quarter a Junior Endeavor Society has been organized with a membership of about 30, and under the efficient management of one of our lady members, it is doing excellent work.

On behalf of our church I wish to express to you our thanks for your generous help to this church since its organization. Your assistance began about 3½ years ago and has been truly a blessing to this church in her infant life. I can only speak for the loyalty and ever increasing interest in mission work on the part of our people, and I'm sure that you can count upon their help and co-operation in the future work of the Church.

UTAH.

REV. PHILIP BOHBACK:—It is a great pleasure to me to see some of these Mormons attending our services and eagerly drinking in the truth of the gospel of Christ. But these close listeners are young men of our day school of the past years as well as this year. It does show what the schools can do here.

I hope that, through our prayers and conversation with these hearers of God's word, they will be converted to the truth and find Jesus as their Saviour. In spite of opposition our work is growing more and better than ever. As the day school grows during the winter, the attendance also at divine services grows.

At the communion at Millville September 25, one of the Sabbath-school scholars, baptized some years ago, was received into our church on examination, and another letter.

The first Sabbath-school Convention was held at Logan November 4, 1892. That is the first one in Cache Valley.

Our Thanksgiving service was a very precious one to school and all, and well attended, though the day was wet and cold.

CHURCH ERECTION.

The above design for a small Presbyterian church is prepared by Messrs. L. B. Vahl & Son, architects, Johnson Building, Brooklyn, N. Y.

It represents a very attractive building 30 x 48 feet in size and seating 224.

It is of stone or brick up to the windows and above shingled. The interior is plastered and completed with an arched ceiling.

The cost is estimated at from $2,800 to $3,000.

FROM CHURCHES.

LEWISTOWN, MONTANA.

If it were not for the aid received from the Board, it would be almost useless to attempt to build on fields like this back on the frontier.

FLORENCE, ARIZONA.

I am happy to announce that the long struggle is over and we have paid the last dollar on our church, and with the help of Bro. J. A. Menaul and S. M., we dedicated it to the Triune God on the 27th ult., free from all incumbrance. For this I wish now to express my most hearty thanks to the members of the Board for their patience and kindness and their generous donation. I wish also to voice the united sentiment of sincere thanks from our Trustees and every member of our church for the above. I now have an offer of a lot for the Spanish Church for $200 cash. As soon as I see my way clear to purchase this lot I shall make an effort to have the "adobes" made on the ground, and when they are finished we will fill out and send the application. I shall act on the cash and work principle from start to completion, "from turret to foundation stone." No slavery of debt for me any more for life.

ELGIN, ILLINOIS.

We have fulfilled all our promises to the Board of Church Erection. We have paid and have pledges for everything. The Trustees hold the church free of debt.

We have done more than we expected. We did not expect to complete and finish the Sunday school room, but we did.

We have a bowled floor, circular pews with 400 sittings and 200 additional sittings in the Sabbath-school room, which is immediately in front of the pulpit. Our basement room for parlors and infant classes is not finished, and was not designed to be when we commenced. Many thanks to the Board for their kindly and timely assistance. Our building more than meets the expectations of the friends interested. I thought you would doubtless be interested to know of the outcome and hence I send the program and notice in paper.

WISE WORDS FROM THE SYNOD OF MISSOURI.

We give below extracts from the report of the Standing Committee upon Church Erection of the Synod of Missouri. For the Synod's plain and wise words in its behalf the Board expresses its sincere acknowledgement. Were the advice of this Synod and of many others to their churches heeded, the Board would not have as now too often, to postpone the payment of grants greatly needed.

After speaking of the efforts of the committee to secure contributions from all the churches, the report continues as follows:

"Letters were also addressed to the Presbyterian Committees to ascertain as nearly as possible how many organizations are still without houses of worship. Answers have come from all the Presbyteries.

Kansas City Presbytery reports	4	houseless churches
Ozark	" 19	" "
Palmyra	" 6	" "
Platte	" 8	" "
St Louis	" 1	" "
White River	" 3	" "

making a total of 36. The report may not be entirely accurate, but it is not far out of the way. Should the Lord be pleased to visit these shelterless flocks and 'give them a little reviving in their bondage,' and direct the steps of some faithful under shepherds to look after them, it is evident that the Board of Church Erection would soon find an enlarged opportunity to exercise its blessed offices in the Synod of Missouri.

From the Board's report it appears that during the year 1891 2, 101 churches of the Synod contributed $1,034.78.

125 churches contributed nothing. This, however, is a gain of 18 contributing churches and $38.36 in contributions over the preceding year.

It may be profitable to note in this connection that of the 125 non-contributing churches, 55 have a membership of from 25 to 200; only 37 are reported vacant, and altogether they show a footing of 3,905 communicants, of whom 229 are ruling elders. It seems well nigh incredible that such a host of Presbyterian members and so large a body of ordained overseers (episkopoi) could let a whole year pass away without giving one cent to an agency absolutely indispensable in such a field as the Synod of Missouri! It might well be suggested to these almost 4,000 redeemed people that they solemnly ask themselves, "What are we here for?"

During the last year, and up to September 17th of the present year, fifteen churches of the Synod have received aid, ten of them for houses of worship and five for manses. The whole amount granted by the Board, as per its report up to April 1st, was $5,100 as against $1,034 received. The Committee in their statistics have confined themselves almost wholly to Board's Report, which of course shows the exact amount of contributions sent to its Treasury, while in the columns of the Assembly's schedules several churches report large donations under Church Erection which did not reach the Board's Treasury, but were expended in forwarding home enterprises.

This accounts for the discrepancy between $1,034 reported by the Board, and $12,482, the footing of the Assembly's column.

The General Assembly at Portland, declared: "This Board ought not to have less than $150,000 to carry on its work for the coming year," the Board says: "this means that the contributions of the churches should be doubled."

Your committee would recommend the following action:

That Synod warmly commends the entire work of this Board and expresses the ardent hope that the churches which last year gave nothing, will enroll themselves hereafter with the givers; and that those already giving, may abound more and more; that our Synod may as nearly as possible reach the measure of duplication suggested by the Assembly.

That the Presbyterian Committees lay this matter heavily upon pastors, supplies and sessions of vacant churches, and endeavor to see that every church supplied or vacant, feeble or strong, be called upon and at least permitted to contribute to the noble work of the Board of Church Erection. The Board in an appeal sent doubtless to all pastors, says almost plaintively: "This failure of more than half of our Churches to contribute even a small amount to the funds of the Board, is absolutely unwarrantable. With rare exceptions, all these churches could have given something; and the contribution of even a single dollar on the part of each of them would have enabled the Board to assist needy enterprises which have now been compelled to suffer."

COLLEGES AND ACADEMIES.

A CHICAGO OFFER.

Ten thousand dollars are offered to the College Board on condition that $40,000 additional be secured. The kind givers are two Chicago friends who have often and largely supplied the Board's treasury since its organization.

WHY THIS OFFER?

They have aided some institutions to pay their debts; they have put up buildings for others; they have assisted some to find permanent endowment; they have watched the results of such giving for ten years; they are persuaded of its paramount importance in our home mission work, in getting hold of the new regions for Christ; and this conditional offer is evidently to draw others into the same sort of giving that they may share the same satisfaction in its results. "These things write we unto you," they might say with John, as they make the offer, "that your joy may be full." They see the need of larger aid to the business of building up our young institutions, and they wish others to experience such pleasure as they have found in it.

WHAT ARE THE DOLLARS FOR?

The entire $50,000 will be offered, in sums ranging from $500 to $10,000, to certain most promising colleges and academies, on condition that the friends of each institution secure in its vicinity from three to five times the amount offered by the College Board. Thus gifts to this fund will be stimulants for sluggish Western pocket-books. Each gift toward the $40,000 will secure three or five times itself to the educational apparatus of our Church.

EXEMPLORUM GRATIA.

A far Western college, the only Presbyterian school in a vast region, which has run so far without debt, doing as high grade work as most Eastern colleges, but at the cost of extreme sacrifices by its president and teachers, must have more buildings. $5,000 offered by the Board will secure buildings to cost $20,000 or more, and at once.

Another college, with property worth $90,000, and 80 students, turns away a score of boys this year for lack of place to put them. $5,000 offered to it will secure $15,000 to $20,000 worth of buildings ready for use next autumn, and the income from room rents and tuitions will make it nearly self-supporting, relieving the Board of an annual burden.

Our Collegiate Institute at Salt Lake City is doing a work second in excellence to no school in this country; its students enter Princeton and other colleges without conditions. It has the foundation of a dormitory laid, and perhaps $6,000 toward completing the building. This Board should be able at once to give it $5,000 more; it is a home mission enterprise, and its locality cannot aid it now. The building means about forty more lads under its influence another year.

ENDOWMENTS.

$5,000 offered in each of the following cases will secure $20,000 additional from the vicinity of each institution, the total endowment of $25,000 making each one henceforth self-supporting. All are essential to our Church, doing admirable work, and out of debt. They are: A college with property worth $30,000 and 52 students; an academy with property worth $20,000 and 51 students; and a collegiate institute with property worth $35,000 and 99 students. Benefactions placing these first-class schools on a basis of permanence and self-support will win undying gratitude and go far to win large regions for Christ now and in the future.

PAYING DEBTS.

The College Board does not permit aided institutions to incur indebtedness. Some did so in earlier days; commonly in putting up the first building, expecting to sell land enough to cover the expense, the sudden breaking of the "boom" leaving them with both land and mortgage on their hands. Some excellent colleges and academies, whose trustees are wiser now, are burdened heavily, especially with interest charges so high in the West. They must have relief. Consider such cases as these sequent.

One Western college, the only Presbyterian school in a growing state, had $23,000 indebtedness. The Board promised it $5,000 if local friends would cancel the rest of the debt. They have done it; they did it a year ago; and the Board has not yet in hand the promised $5,000, on which the college is paying high interest. We want that at once.

A Western college for women, doing particularly useful work for the daughters of home missionaries and for Indian girls, had about $15,000 of debt. A local friend of the college has paid part of it and now holds in bank enough to cancel it all when this Board can give it a promised $5,200. Meantime the college must pay nearly $1,000 a year interest out of its slender income.

SMALLER AMOUNTS.

These are large amounts; three of them are probably now provided for, leaving four gifts of $5,000 each yet to be secured, or eight of $2,500 each, or the like. There are many opportunities for doing vast good with smaller sums, from $100 to $500 each, concerning which the Secretary of the College Board may be consulted.

EDUCATIONAL INVESTMENTS.

It is noticeable that people who once give for Christian educational institutions commonly keep on giving in that line, and more and more. It is because there is a peculiar and lasting satisfaction in putting money into a permanent institution which every year, year after year, continues and increases its output of Christian young men and women fitted for active and prominent part in their communities and regions, preaching, teaching, moulding society, building up the Church, influencing the entire social organism toward nobler living, and gradually moving the wealth and mental power of the people toward the Redeemer's kingdom. An investment of a few hundred or thousand dollars in such an enterprise brings life-long joy.

CONSULTATION.

The Secretary of the College Board is ready to write or to go to any part of the country to confer with stewards of our Lord's money who may care to make investments in our educational work.

A good college education is one of the best things for any young man just starting out in life. Of course, a bright, industrious, wide-awake man can get through life without much of an education, but he will get along much better with a good one. We heard Chauncey Depew say recently that he was personally acquainted with over three hundred millionaires, and that he did not know of one of them who was without a good education who would not be willing to part with half his fortune if that would bring him a true culture. Young men are crowding to our institutions as never before, because in the future an education will count for even more than it has in the past. The president of the Ohio Wesleyan University recently stated that, while only one-fifth of one per cent. of our population are college bred, thirty per cent. of all our Congressmen, forty per cent. of all our Senators, fifty per cent. of our Vice-Presidents, sixty per cent. of our Presidents, and more than seventy per cent. of our Federal Supreme Court judges, have been college men.—Herald and Presbyterian.

There is one "Name that is above every name," "towering o'er the wrecks of time." He is to us "Lux et Veritas," and if we be "reproached for the name of Christ, happy are we."

Let the day never dawn when we shall cease to unite worship with work, or when we shall disappoint that body of Christian believers, which wider than any species, makes up the generic Church, and which the good phrase of the Episcopal liturgy describes as "the blessed company of all faithful people."—Pres. Stryker, Hamilton College.

FREEDMEN.

COLORED EDUCATION IN THE SOUTH.

[Dr. Cowan, the new Corresponding Secretary of the Board of Missions for Freedmen, is entering into his work with a sober earnestness which gives the best promise. He is wisely making a tour of visitation to the southern field. From Newman, Georgia, he writes: "I have stopped over here on my journeyings to send off to you a few thoughts on the situation. I have not compassed the field sufficiently to write intelligently about our own work specifically, but I see enough to feel and know that the work is vast."]

It is not wise in studying the problem of Negro Education in the South to listen exclusively either to that class of writers who say "they are doing well enough;" or to that other class who say "there is hardly anything being done." To look at the needs of the Negro no doubt stimulates our zeal in the work; but to look at what has been done and what is being done, encourages us to hope for still better things. A glance at the statistics furnished us by the government through the Bureau of Education in "Circular No. 1, 1892" will give us both sides, and greatly aid us in getting that intellectual balance so necessary to an intelligent prosecution of any good work.

Encouragement is essential to the continued pushing of our plans. The history of the first generation of the Negro race since it emerged from slavery is just drawing to a close. When we see what has actually been done under the most adverse circumstances, we may well ask, what may we not expect in the way of advancement and improvement in the next twenty-five or thirty years amid circumstances almost as different as daylight from darkness.

The Southern States have by no mean been indifferent to the problem which they had to face and which they are facing yet. Considering the fact that so many of the white people of these states suffered the "loss of all things" in the calamities that overwhelmed them, it is not a bad showing that the sixteen Southern States in thirteen years, from 1876 to 1889, according to the government report already referred to, expended $216,000,000 on education, and that $50,000,000 of this sum has gone toward the establishment of public schools for the universal education of the children of the Negro race; 1,213,000 colored children are enrolled as more or less regularly attending the public schools. This is estimated as constituting about two-thirds of the number of colored children between the ages of 6 and 14 years. All this is good as far as it goes, and should not be lost sight of in forming our estimate of the present educational needs of the colored race. Having done so much, it cannot be doubted that the States will do better, as the magnitude and importance of the problem looms higher and higher, and as they themselves, with the increased prosperity that is coming upon them, grow stronger and stronger.

But all that has been done, or is yet likely to be done for a long time is utterly inadequate to meet the demands of the case.

The public school age is only from 6 years to 14. The length of school term averages only about 90 days for a whole year, and the instruction, to say the most of it, is elementary. The colored youth of these States between the ages of 6 and 21, not touched by any public school advantages, meager as they are, according to the most reliable figures, is at least one million. Denominational schools and some splendid institutions reared by noble, philanthropic Christian men are planted here and there in different centers of influence in the South to supplement the deficiency, but when we count them all up we are still constrained to say, "What are these among so many?"

Turning again to our authority, remembering of course that two full years have passed since the statistics were gathered, we find that without reference to states the Negro in the South is now blessed with 41 normal schools, 53 institutions of secondary grade, 22 universities and colleges, 22 theological schools, 4 law schools, 3 schools of medicine, and 9 schools for the deaf, dumb and blind. But in all these schools, grand as is the work they are doing, there are only about 25,000 students. Add these to the 1,213,000 that enjoy the 90 days advantages of public school education, and we still have the million untouched by one ray of the light that shines from the lamp of knowledge, and in their ignorance still sitting "in the region and shadow of death."

The Presbyterian Church with its teachers, preachers, churches, parochial and graded schools is doing much, but it is not doing its part. It is only doing part of its part.

Our Freedmen's Board received last year for this work from the churches and individuals, and from legacies $172,000. The Assembly wisely said we ought to have this year $250,000. If we only had this amount at our command how joyfully would we respond "yes" to the many urgent appeals for aid to which now with our utterly inadequate resources we are compelled to send a regretful "no."

If any man is looking around for a place in which to make some profitable investment for God and humanity, I point him to the South, and to the needs and claims of the Negroes as constituting one of the most promising missionary fields opened up in this century to the benevolence of the Church of God.

EDUCATION.

We are approaching the close of another ecclesiastical year and the Board feels grateful to the good friends who have thus far contributed to the support of that most important cause which it has in charge. Of these there is one who deserves special mention. Having been prevented from carrying out his purpose of entering the ministry, he has not only paid back all he received from the Board with interest, but he has also recently sent us an additional donation of $500 to be acknowledged as "cash." His full name, however, is recorded doubtless in other books for everlasting remembrance. Oh that we had more such friends.

But stop; as we write, here comes a letter. It is from a brother minister, containing $5 which the writer says he intends for a "nest egg around which other contributions may be gathered for the education of the young men whom the Board was obliged to leave out in the cold." Now who will lay another along side of it? "I will," says one to whom the letter was read and the question put. Are there not others who will respond in like manner? It is not necessary that the eggs shall be all of the same size. Whether small as those of a sparrow, or big as an ostrich's, they will be equally acceptable.

In the minutes of the Assembly for 1892, churches reported vacant number 1,183, and those dissolved partly for lack of care, 65. Many places also where churches are much needed are calling in vain for the preached Gospel. As a specimen of what we are frequently finding, especially in the papers from the West, take the following: "We bespeak for North Dakota a full complement of men. They are needed to go to the front; to supply towns of from one hundred to six hundred inhabitants with outposts adjacent; and in two instances, to enter cities of over a thousand inhabitants. Will the Church supply them?"

Synodical missionaries are liable to be faulted more for failing to supply an adequate number of suitable men, than for almost any other cause. If this was for want of effort on their part, it might well disturb their equanimity. But when we cry aloud and spare not, and use all available means to get our men, and then fail, the fault must lie with the Church in failing to supply suitable numbers. We again call attention to this harvest field. It is white. The grain is endangered. There are no adequate means within reach to garner it. It will waste if left to the present number of harvesters."

Appeals are also made for men to labor among the foreign populations that are thronging in upon us. And what we want in order to meet this demand, is not simply a larger number of candidates, but such also as are ready to deny themselves and encounter hardships of all kinds for the Master's sake, men who will be willing to take hold courageously of a handful of hearers for a pittance of support and build them up into a strong and influential church. Such men can be obtained only by prayer and effort prompted by a sincere zeal for God's Kingdom; and they can be educated only at a large expense, whether borne by themselves or by the Church. Mere perfunctory work will not accomplish the object. Our ministers must realize its importance and wake their churches up to a sense of the great need that is upon us. We are furnishing on an average not much more than 200 candidates yearly from our Seminaries, when we ought to send out fully 350 men well equipped for every good work. Can they be had? They could, provided there were a prevailing conviction of the many and great perils which are threatening us from the spread of dangerous doctrines and demoralizing agencies. Some years ago when the integrity of our nation was threatened by an extensive revolt and there was a call to arms for the purpose of suppressing it, we remember the zeal with which young men enlisted for the conflict at the hazard of life and limb, and shall there be less enthusiasm felt now when the foes to be met are of a far more dangerous and subtle kind. A free nation can preserve its freedom only so long as truth—the truth of Christ—maintains its hold upon the people at large and rules in all affairs civil and social and domestic. And this is what we want to have proclaimed and enforced throughout the length and breadth of our land, leavening public opinion so as to make it hostile to and intolerant of wrong in high places as well as in low. Is the Presbyterian Church doing its part towards accomplishing this result?

The following strong appeal comes from Dr. Baker, the President of the Board, and we hope it will be read and pondered by all.

WHAT THE BOARD DESIRES.

The Board of Education is greatly desirous of doing two things:

(1). Closing this year without a dollar of debt, and

(2). Refunding to the students under their care the amounts deducted from their appropriations at the beginning of the year, on account of the financial situation then existing.

We see our way clear to do both, provided the churches that have not as yet contributed anything during this present year, will do so without delay; and provided also there are on the part of individuals and perhaps also of some churches, additional gifts prompted by the appeal which these needy students must make to all who thoughtfully consider their case. They have shown a most praiseworthy spirit in the matter, "taking joyfully the spoiling of their goods" in order to relieve the Board, but all the more on this account are we anxious to pay them back the money so unselfishly surrendered, knowing full well how sadly they need it. The whole amount required is not much to the Church at large, but to these students it is much indeed, requiring self-denial and anxiety on their part from which we would fain relieve them. It ought to be clearly understood therefore, that according to the amount of money contributed during the months of February and March, will the students fare at the end of the year. We hope and we pray for the privilege of paying them in full, but we can do so only as this appeal meets with a generous response. It is our confident expectation that we shall report no debt to the next General Assembly, but the question is, who shall bring about this happy consummation, the poor students or the rich Church? Last year the churches said, "the students shall have at least one-half the amount deducted, refunded to them; the appropriation is small enough anyway, and shall not be reduced to a greater extent than this;" they said this by their increased contributions. Will not the churches say it again this year? We believe they will. We believe that a knowledge of the facts will result in our receiving money enough to pay our debt and pay the students too.

PUBLICATION AND SABBATH-SCHOOL WORK.

RECENT PUBLICATIONS.

KOREA FROM ITS CAPITAL: With a Chapter on Missions. By the Rev. George W. Gilmore, A. M. This is a delightful book about a country of which but comparatively little is known. Mr. Gilmore had exceptional opportunities for becoming acquainted with the people and their life, as he dwelt among them in a way which enabled him to mingle freely with all classes and to see what was to be seen. The volume treats of the country, the government, the language, the people, dress, woman, amenities, religion, resources, civilization and of the missionary work that is being done. The style is clear and simple. The illustrations—of which there are twenty-five—are reproduced from photographs, and are helpful to a comprehension of the descriptions. The country itself is one of such interest, and yet is so little known, that Mr. Gilmore's book ought to find wide reading. Those working in any way in behalf of Christian missions will be particularly pleased with this volume which will tell them so much about one of the countries in which our missionaries are engaged. Philadelphia: Presbyterian Board of Publication and Sabbath-school Work. Pp. 328. Price, $1.25.

LEAD ME TO THE ROCK:—By Rev. T. W. Hooper, D. D. This beautiful little volume contains a number of suggestive chapters of comfort and cheer for those who are walking beneath burdens or in the summer heat of trial. These chapters are written by one who has had long experience in giving comfort to others and whose own heart has learned many of the sweet lessons of divine love, while sitting in the shadow of the Rock. Philadelphia: Presbyterian Board of Publication and Sabbath-school Work. Price, 60 cents.

FAR OUT ON THE PRAIRIES:—By the author of "Drew Drake and His Nets." Most of the people in this world are ordinary; and therefore a book which deals with ordinary people and with commonplace experiences is the book which comes nearest to us. The characters in this story are not by any means beyond our conception, they are much like many of the boys and girls we see about us every day. It is a simple story of home-life in the great West. The scene is laid in Dakota, and the experiences of Prissy and Jack Bower find a counterpart in the lives of hundreds of other boys and girls in our great country. Prissy is a "shut-in," and a little missionary magazine, which comes providentially to her hand, proves the first connecting-link between the log-hut on the prairies and the great world beyond the sea. She is roused from her apathy and her discontent with her cramped and narrow life, and is brought in sympathy and touch with the brave workers in the foreign field. A great deal of attention is given also to Jack, who is neither too handsome nor too good, but who is, nevertheless, a very real boy, with plenty of pluck and perseverance. He, too, catches the spirit of missions and helps in the kindling of that little spark of mission fire, which will go on burning brighter and brighter forever. The story is told in a bright, engaging manner—an occasional bit of humor flavoring the whole. It will have good suggestions and hints to "shut-ins," and to all engaged in mission work. Philadelphia: Presbyterian Board of Publication and Sabbath-school Work. Illustrated. Pp. 320. Price, $1.15,

THE BIBLE TEACHER'S GUIDE; Or, Methods of Work in the Sabbath-school:—Prepared by James A. Worden, D. D. Dr. Worden has received admirable assistance in the preparation of this little manual from Mr. Israel P. Black, one of the best primary class teachers in the country. The book is full of practical hints and suggestions, covering all the departments of Sabbath-school work. Superintendents and teachers will find it of great value. One of the objects of the book is to furnish a basis for a Bible Teacher's Institute in every school, to help teachers in preparation for their work. Philadelphia: Presbyterian Board of Publication and Sabbath-school Work. Price, 25 cents.

THE WESTMINSTER QUESTION BOOK FOR 1893: This is indeed multum in parvo. This little volume of 192 pages contains the full lesson text of all the year's lessons, with special temperance lessons; notes on the same; golden texts; home readings for every day of the year; questions on lessons; catechism questions; practical teachings, etc. Philadelphia: Presbyterian Board of Publication. Price, $13 per 100 net; single copies, by mail, 15 cents each.

SUPPLEMENTAL LESSONS:—Primary Grade. By Mrs. W. E. Knox. There seems to be a demand in many schools for 'Supplemental Lessons,' including certain important teachings and the memorizing of certain passages of Scripture and of hymns. The desire is that these exercises shall be given a definite time, say five or ten minutes of each school session. This little volume has been prepared on this plan, and is adapted to the primary grade. It includes fifty-two lessons, which comprise the Lord's Prayer, the Commandments, the Beatitudes, Psalm 23, and certain hymns. The book is prepared for teachers, and is designed to guide them. The exercises are prepared as outline lessons which teachers will find it easy to adapt and use in their classes. Philadelphia: Presbyterian Board of Publication. Price, 35 cents.

RAGGED SCHOOLS AND SABBATH-SCHOOLS.

What is now known as the "Ragged School" enterprise, was commenced by Robert Raikes, in the city of Gloucester, about the year 1780. The design of this school was to give the rudiments of education to the children of the poor, who were gathered on Sunday afternoons to receive instruction. It is generally recognized that the school thus established was the germ of what is now known as the Sunday or Sabbath-School, in which children of all classes are gathered to receive religious instruction.

There is considerable difference of opinion as to when the development of the Ragged School, into the Sabbath-School took place, the general opinion being that it did not occur until the early part of the present century. A few weeks ago, the eye of the writer of this paper, fell upon an article that appeared in 1799 in the Evangelical Magazine, a religious periodical published in the city of London. A copy of this article is given below, from which it will appear, that what is now generally designated as the "Ragged School," was then known as the "Sunday-School," and that what is now styled, without discrimination, as the "Sunday-School," was not only then established, but was distinctively known as the SABBATH-SCHOOL.

"SABBATH SCHOOLS."

"Sabbath evening catechetical schools have been for some time established in the North, and some of the ministers who have lately visited those parts have been so much gratified with the institution that they have attempted to raise similar in England. Mr. Mosely, in particular, has formed two at Long Buckby since his return, and has been the instrument of beginning three in the neighborhood of London, viz.: at Hoxton, Kingsland, and at the New Mulberry Gardens' Chapel.

"The effects have, in many instances, proved the plan calculated to promote the cause of vital religion. Many young persons have already been converted; and the parents of several, drawn by curiosity to hear their children, have been also brought to the saving knowledge of Christ. A number of youth being deeply impressed with divine things, have at several places formed prayer meetings among themselves, and give good evidence of the sincerity of their profession.

"As Sabbath schools differ materially from Sunday schools, the following account may not be unacceptable to our readers. The latter are principally designed to teach children to read; the object of the former is religious instruction only. Sunday schools are for the poor; these [Sabbath schools] are equally intended for the offspring of the rich.

"These exercises are principally conducted by gentlemen and respectable tradesmen. While their ministers go on in their stated labors, these feeling a concern for the happiness of the rising generation, assemble the children in convenient places, and by informing their judgments in the mysteries of divine truth, and exhorting to the duties of religion and morality, endeavor to train them up in the nurture and admonition of the Lord.

"No children are admitted under the age of eight, nor any who cannot read. They generally meet on Sabbath-day evening, and are placed according to their age; the Sunday school children by themselves, and the sexes separate. The exercises begin with requesting an account of the texts and sermons heard through the day—their names are then called over, and those marked who are absent. A few minutes are spent in prayer—a short portion of scripture is then repeated, which had been appointed on the preceding Sabbath, and in a familiar manner the teacher endeavors to draw forth the ideas of the children; one question being asked from the Assembly's catechism, they give the answer with the proofs at length, and the catechist endeavors to explain and apply the truths contained in the answer to the question; in conducting this part of the work Fisher's explanation of the Assembly's catechism is commonly made use of, both by the teachers and the scholars. After this is over, the teacher delivers a short address, with the view to impress upon their hearts the great truths contained in the scriptures, and answered in the catechism; then, mentioning the scriptures to be repeated and explained the next Sabbath evening, the whole service concludes with another short prayer."

FAR OUT UPON THE PRAIRIE.

Mr. Joseph Brown, Sabbath-school Missionary for Synod of Wisconsin, would like those who have any doubts as to the efficacy of the work done by the Missionary Department of the Board of Publication, to COME AND SEE.

He gives us an interesting account of a family of ten persons, whom he found over three years ago, living in extreme ignorance, mentally and spiritually. He began a course of loving Christian effort in their behalf; visited them whenever in the neighborhood, gave them illustrated papers, and such reading matter as the father could manage. As the result, the family life turned upward.

SEEKING THE LIGHT.

The young girls of the family mentioned above, were sent to school—one of them, thirteen years of age, beginning her studies at the alphabet. They are now clean, and neatly dressed, making good progress, as regular attendants at school, notwithstanding they have a walk of ten miles, each way.

AFTER MANY DAYS.

One of our most faithful missionaries writes: "I need your prayers, my friends, for I meet with many difficulties in this arduous work—many discouragements. But on the other hand, I meet with much to encourage. Rev. Mr. Wilson said to me on the train the other day: 'You organized a Sunday-school in the Rose School House, in Green County, Mo., twenty years ago. In your address you spoke of a nobleman, who, when riding in a sled over the snows of Siberia, was attacked by wolves; the driver, you said, threw himself among the wolves to defend his master, giving his life for him. The application you made of Christ's coming to die for us, made so deep an impression on my mind, that, though a boy, I shall never forget it. I attended that school, gave my heart to God, and am now preaching the Gospel.

A BLIZZARD, AND A GOOD MEETING.

J. M. Tipton, Neb., tells us of perseverance in well-doing in the face of tempestuous elements: "One day, I drove fifteen miles in a blizzard, to my appointment, half expecting to find the house closed and no one present; but I was happily disappointed by finding a warm room, and some fifteen or sixteen earnest people present. A good meeting was had, and arrangements made for another, at which time it is expected a Sabbath-school will be organized. I have organized five schools, and on each occasion the day was more or less stormy."

SPURS TO FAITH.

"God often interposes what might appear at first thought to be obstacles in our pathway for the purpose, not of really hindering our progress, but of trying our faith, and, if you please, of testing our Christian 'mettle.' If we are true to our cause, and earnest in the execution of our duties, these things serve only to spur us to a loftier devotion, a stronger faith, and renewed effort."

FAMILY DEVOTIONS.

"One of my most enjoyable privileges is that of conducting family devotions. Sometimes, even in households where it has not been customary, the Bible has been placed in my hands, with the request to read and lead in prayer. At such times, I have felt that the Divine Spirit was indeed present, and that it was a hallowed hour."

BLESSED OPPORTUNITIES.

"The vastness of this missionary work grows upon one the longer he engages in it. The opportunities for doing good are almost infinite. As yet, I have found none who were unappreciative of my work. People seem glad to get appropriate reading matter; and the splendid tracts, books, and papers, furnished by our Board, give a variety for all. The scattering of such seed among the people will certainly bring forth the legitimate harvest in due time."

MINISTERIAL RELIEF.

A BIRTH-DAY CELEBRATION AT THE MINISTERS' HOUSE, PERTH AMBOY, N. J.

A recent number of the Mid-Continent contains a letter from one of the aged ministers at the Home in Perth Amboy, which, with the editorial note of introduction, is as follows:

HAPPY LONGEVITY.

[The following very interesting communication addressed to the Mid-Continent from the Perth Amboy home is gladly acknowledged and published. It is from one of the very aged servants of the Church, whose days in his honorable retirement are there made glad. It cheers the hearts of all to think of this beautiful and just provision for the comfort of the veterans. Our readers would be touched could they see the tremulous hand-writing of the letter.—ED.]

In the present family at the Presbyterian Ministers' Home, at Perth Amboy, N. J., are nine octogenarians: seven men and two ladies. Of these seven men, five were born in 1812; consequently these five all reached four score years of age during the year 1892. The eightieth anniversary of the last and youngest of the five was celebrated on Dec. 20th, 1892. Rev. W. C. Cattell, D. D., the corresponding secretary of the Board of Ministerial Relief, was present and added much to the interest of the occasion. After a sumptuous dinner, we held at 2 P. M., a most delightful symposium, and in the evening Dr. Cattell gave a charming address. The five were almost overwhelmed with congratulations, and beautiful mementos and a profusion of the choicest fruits and flowers. Our excellent superintendent doesn't do things by halves. The five aggregated 400 years in age, and about 240 years in professional labor for the Master in his Church.

THE YOUNGEST OF THE FIVE, A. R. N.

My honored and revered friend, the writer of this letter, has been so kind as to refer to the pleasure which the presence of the Secretary of the Board gave to these octogenarians on this memorable birth-day celebration, but what shall I say of the delight which the visit gave to the Secretary? Certainly it was a great privilege and a great joy to spend a day of such intimate fellowship with this little group of aged Ambassadors for Christ, and especially to be present at the Symposium to which the writer refers. Here were five men, "who aggregated 400 years in age," and each one of them had been a power for good to the Church and to the community in which he lived during the half century he had preached the Gospel. No one could have listened to the simple narrative of the long service of these venerable men—brief as was the account which each gave of his ministerial work—without a deepened sense of what the Church owes to such men for their long, faithful and self-denying service. But to a representative of the Board to which our Church has committed the tender and sacred duty of caring for them in their declining years, this Symposium was a veritable uplift. The small stipends of these five men, even when giving to their work the vigor of their best years, barely sufficed for the maintenance of their families from year to year; and they had been too deeply engrossed in their sacred calling to turn aside from it to make money in other ways for their support in old age. And this little group of patriarchs, now poor in this world's goods but contented and happy in The Home which a grateful and appreciative Church had provided for them for the few remaining years of their life, was really an "object lesson" to fill the hearts of God's people with gladness and a deep sense of their privilege and duty to support this Board. I do not wonder that the editor of the Mid-Continent as he read the account of this "occasion" in the "tremulous hand-writing" (with which I am very familiar) of "the youngest of the five" is moved to say, "It cheers the hearts of all to think of this beautiful and just provision for the comfort of these veterans."

The memories of that delightful day are a constant inspiration for me in my work, but I cannot reproduce them here though they crowd upon me as I write these lines. The five octogenarians were grouped together at the dinner table which appeared to them so "sumptuous," with its simple adornment of fruit and flowers which loving hands had brought, and the great birth-day cake in the centre, upon whose snow-white "iceing" stood out in bold relief the date, 1812! I was honored with a seat in their midst, and never shall I forget the "table talk" of that hour; nor the scene at the close of the repast when, as all the guests in the dining room rose from their seats, one of these patriarchs, without premeditation or arrangement, broke forth in sacred song:—

"O, God! our help in ages past,
Our hope for years to come"—

The old hymn, with the familiar tune, was taken up at once by his fellow octogenarians and then by all the other aged guests of The House, and the spacious dining room seemed to overflow with sacred melody as the company slowly moved out into the hall. I have heard many "processional" hymns grandly sung or chanted by robed ecclesiastics in noble churches and cathedrals, but my heart was never so deeply moved by them as it was on that day by the glad Christian song sent heavenward in the tremulous voices of the aged men and women in that "Happy harbor of God's saints." Then followed the Symposium, in the room of the writer of the letter to the Mid-Continent, when the "good gray heads" were bowed in prayer, and one after the other told the story of his work for the Master and spoke of the good Hand which had led him along the path of life's pilgrimage even down to old age! Then there was the gathering in the evening to which the writer also refers. The entire family were present—including all the "helps" of the household—and each of the five patriarchs took some part in the devotional exercises.

To all this I can make only this brief reference, though the memory of it will be to me a joy and a blessed inspiration so long as I shall live.

One thing, however, I must add about the Symposium, which lasted the greater part of the afternoon. In the reminiscences which were given there was but little said about the toil and self-denial of the minister's life, though these aged men had had their full share, in missionary fields and in laborious pastorates, of what may be called a minister's trials. No; the key-note in the prayers and in every speech was the joy they had found in all their service for the Master. Each of them had known what it was to practice self-denial in his long and laborious ministry, and to "endure hardness as a good soldier of Jesus Christ;" but the yoke had been easy, the burden had been light, and one and all joined in the words with which the Apostle expressed his gratitude as he, too, looked back over the trials and toils of a long life spent in the service of the Master:—

I THANK CHRIST JESUS, OUR LORD, WHO HATH ENABLED ME, FOR THAT HE COUNTED ME
FAITHFUL, PUTTING ME IN THE MINISTRY.

The day had been dark and lowering. A part of the time a winter's storm had raged. But I recall that, after the last prayer at the Symposium was offered and the benediction had been pronounced, we gathered at the window and looked out upon the western sky. The clouds had disappeared or were piled up here and there in golden splendor upon the distant horizon where the sun was slowly sinking to rest. The pathway of four score years over which these ministers had passed had doubtless been often storm-swept, but the sun-set hour of their lives was as beautiful and tranquil as the scene before us upon which the "gentleness of Heaven" seemed to rest.

THE CHURCH AT HOME AND ABROAD for May, 1889, contains a somewhat extended article upon The Ministers' House at Perth Amboy, with a picture of the old mansion surrounded by forest trees. Built in colonial times by the Proprietors of the Province of New Jersey as an official residence, it is still the residence of the King's servants—the home of the aged Ambassadors for Christ, resting peacefully from their labors until the King himself shall call them to the House not made with hands. This article has been reprinted in pamphlet form, and may be had on application at the office of the Board, 1334 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia.

Gleanings At Home and Abroad.

—Dr. Joseph Edkins believes that Persia is the source of China's religious beliefs.

—"We are convinced," says the Brahman's Journal, Lahore, "that the days of idolatry and caste are numbered."

—The first Protestant Hungarian Church in America was dedicated at Pittsburgh, Pa., in October, 1892.—Missionary Guardian.

—The hope of China is a Chinese Christian Church, says the report of one of the Scottish Missions.

—The American Bible Society will issue in April a translation of the Scriptures into the language of the Gilbert Islands.

—There are 116 Christians among the 20,000 Japanese in Hawaii, the result of Gospel work in their behalf for three years.

—The Gospel of Matthew in Tasiko, a language spoken on Epi and elsewhere in the New Hebrides group, is recently issued.

—It is estimated that about 1,500 Jews leave the synagogue for the Church of Christ every year; 100,000 Jews have become Christians during this century.

—Dr. Grant, of Chinchew, says the Chinese give up their idolatrous rites in planting rice when they see that their Christian neighbor's crop is good without these rites.

—Says the Rev. John Ross, of Moukden, Manchuria: The most important duty of the foreigner is to instruct, stimulate and guide the native Church to exert itself in preaching the Gospel.

—The Monthly Messenger in reminding its readers of the collection for the Jewish Mission, asks, "can any congregation afford to neglect the claims on Christians of the kinsmen of the Lord Jesus Christ?"

—The noblest building in Canton is said to be a beautiful Gothic Cathedral, of granite from the White Cloud Mountains, erected by the Roman Catholics.

—The complete New Testament in Luganda, the language of Uganda territory, is soon to be issued by the British and Foreign Bible Society.—Church of Scotland Mission Record.

—To commemorate its jubilee the Baptist Missionary Society raised more than the £100,000 asked for, and it is hoped the amount may reach £125,000.—Free Church of Scotland Monthly.

—The Catalogue of the Publications of the Society for the Diffusion of Christian and General Knowledge among the Chinese, contains a list of more than 1000 books and pamphlets.—Chinese Recorder.

—The books of the Hindu religion, says a Bombay native paper, nowhere indicate that God has any desire that man should be saved from sin and become pure and holy.

—Some of the most serious obstacles to mission work are disappearing, and opportunities for aggressive work were never greater than now.—Superintendent Lowry of the North China Mission of the M. E. Church

—Rev. Charles W. Holbrook, of Natal, South Africa, writing of the weakening force of native customs among the Zulus, says: "The practice of selling daughters to would-be husbands, is slowly losing its hold upon our Christians."

—The Peking Missionary Association has developed an educational scheme with methods similar to those of Chautauqua. It contemplates courses of study to be pursued by preachers after they have entered the regular work of the ministry.

—A writer in the Missionary Herald says among opium-smokers of Foochow eight hundred men have kneeled down in church and asked God to help them get rid of the evil habit.

—As soon as certain superstitions which for centuries have been wrought into the fibre of their social life are dislodged, the Chinese will spring to the front among the dominant races of the world.—Rev. Dr. Pond, quoted in Baptist Missionary Magazine.

—One of the superstitions of the Burmese is, that during sleep the spirit leaves the body and flits about at will; and if the sleeper be suddenly awakened he will surely die, for the butterfly spirit would be absent.—H. C. Moore in Fortnightly Review.

—The A. B. C. F. M. employs at its 95 stations 534 American and 2,600 native laborers. There are 434 churches with 40,333 members, of whom 3,516 were received last year. Native contributions for all purposes during the year, $104,089.

—Evangelical Christians in the United States are credited with possessing $13,000,000,000. They contribute annually 25 cents per capita for foreign missions, or one thirty-second part of one per cent of their wealth. Do they possess this wealth, or are they possessed by it?—Dr. A. J. Gordon.

—A Dhed in Anand, India, hired as teacher a Christian young man and kept him in his own home until the entire family was sufficiently instructed to receive baptism.—Irish Presbyterian Missionary Herald.

—A Chinese who had listened to a short address delivered in connection with out-patient work at the Laoling Medical Mission, was asked what he thought of the "doctrine." Pointing to the hospital, he replied: "If it induces men of other countries to come here and give relief to the sick and needy, it must be good."—Chinese Recorder.

—According to Canon Robertson's annual summary, says the Free Church of Scotland Monthly, the total British contributions to foreign missions for 1891 were £1,421,509, viz: Church of England Societies, £539,510; Joint Societies of Churchmen and Non-conformists, £206,330; English and Welsh Non-conformist Societies, £456,848; Scotch and Irish Presbyterian Societies, £210,306; Roman Catholic Societies, £9,015.

—The earnest, persistent, believing prayers of the churches at home seem to be the only need of our mission. If you give us such prayer as we need, you will first have made this mission a personal work of your own and all our lesser needs will find supply as a matter of course.—Rev. Henry O. Dwight of Constantinople in Missionary Herald.

—All Hindus are learning to speak of Christ with respect, and many regard Him as an incarnation. Religious reforms of many kinds show the discontent of the people. Hinduism itself is growing ashamed of its coarsest rites and teaching, and is putting on a more respectable garment in the presence of Christianity.—Rev. John P. Jones of Pasumalai, India.

—That epoch-making work, Gáspár Károli's translation of the Bible into the Magyar language, was published at Visol in 1590. The influence of its literary style is seen in the religious literature of the present day. In the revision of the Hungarian Scriptures now in progress, the Biblical and archaic style of Károli, so full of charm and beloved by the people, will remain intact.—Theodore Duka in Bible Society Reporter.

—The Secretary of the Free Church of Scotland Missionary Society states the faiths professed by the human race at the beginning of 1893, as follows:

Reformed Church, . . .	200,000,000
Roman Catholic, . . .	195,000,000
Greek and Eastern, . . .	105,000,000

Professing Christians, . . .	500,000,000
Jews,	8,000,000
Mohammedans,	180,000,000
Heathens,	812,000,000

Non-Christians,	1,000,000,000
---------------------------	---------------

—Bishop Taylor has established nurseries at various points, into which he receives young children. His doctrine of salvation is that all children before reaching the age of accountability are justified by the grace of God. African infants are not heathen any more than the infants of Christian parents; if taken in hand at a sufficiently early age they may be trained up as Christians.—The Independent.

—Persian literature has an exceptional influence over the moral education of nearly all the peoples of Western Asia. In the Orient the Persian language and literature play a part analogous to that played in Europe by the French language and literature. In Turkey its study is obligatory in all primary and secondary schools. In the Caucasus, in Afghanistan, and in English India the mass of the Mohammedan people have knowledge of no other sources of instruction.—Ahmed Bey.

—Women of the higher castes are practical prisoners inside their Zenanas. They are illiterate, and so not accessible to the Gospel through the Scriptures. They are the most conservative and fanatical defenders of their ancient faith, and persistently counteract the greater part of the influence gained over the men by the missionaries. The only remedy for this is to get into the Zenana with the Gospel.—Dr. George F. Pentecost in The Indian Female Evangelist.

—The Burmese are a merry and contented people, fond of gay clothes, and extremely unwilling to take the life of man or beast. A lazier man than the average Burman it would be hard to find. Devoid of enterprise and disliking exertion, they have allowed many golden opportunities to escape them; and the trade which should be theirs is now in the hands of Europeans, Americans, Chinamen or Mohammedans.—H. C. Moore in Fortnightly Review, via Literary Digest.

—The Melanesians believe in a supernatural power called mana, which effects everything beyond the ordinary power of men; also in the existence of intelligent beings full of mana, who are actively concerned in the affairs of men. They invoke these spirits, and also make prayers and offerings to disembodied spirits of men called ghosts. There is no priestly order.—Dr. Codrington in his "The Melanesians."

—Dr. Mowat, the successor of Dr. Narayan Sheshadri in Jelna and Bethel, reports the following: One of his catechists having found Rs 60, almost a year's salary, returned the money to its owner, who called the villagers together and told them what had happened. All expressed astonishment that a despised Mang should be so honest. Dr. Mowat has often been cheered by similar testimonies to the truthfulness of the Christians, borne by Hindus and Mohammedans.

—Probably no other country has suffered at the hands of Christian nations as has China; the chief offenders are the very ones that have sent most missionaries to convert the land to Christ. The greatest obstacle to the success of missions in that land is the attitude taken by England on the opium question, and by the United States in regard to the Chinese who come to this country.

—The Independent.

—It has been a pious belief from time immemorial with Hindus that they were restricted as a matter of religion from crossing the sea. The leading pundits of Bengal now declare that travel is not prohibited in the Shastras, if Hindu regulations about cooking and eating are observed. It is hoped the matter may be settled in time to allow visits to England and America in connection with the Columbian Exhibition, in which Hindus are taking a deep interest.—Rev. Alex. Tomory of Calcutta.

—During the controversy about the postponement of the operation of the new Japanese civil code a society of lawyers in Tokyo drew up a declaration in which it was objected that the code was based upon the ethics of Christianity, whereas the country ought to retain its own ethical basis of Confucianism. Many intelligent people who had never given the subject any attention, thus had Christianity brought to their notice, and their judgment was by no means detrimental.—Rev. D. B. Schneder in the Missionary Guardian.

—A woman in India whose husband would not permit her to be baptized asked him upon her death-bed to bring her water. She dipped her fingers into it, with great pain raised her arm to her head, and said, "I baptize myself in the name of the Lord Jesus."—London Presbyterian.

NOTES ON INDIA.

—The latest census of the native Christian population of India shows the total of Protestant Christians to be 559,661. This is a surprise to everybody. The expectation was that the number would approach the million line.

—The membership of all Presbyterian societies is placed at 34,395. The Indian Standard says "the Presbyterians have about doubled themselves" during the last decade.

—The report that "the American Mohammedan," Mr. Webb, is about to open a mission in America seems to promise something new. The Columbian Exposition should not fail to secure this new attraction.

—When Mr. Webb was in Calcutta his apostasy from the true faith led a Christian convert from Islam to seek his restoration. This man was Maulvie Hossein Ali, who addressed to Mr. Webb a letter propounding certain questions for discussion. This invitation was wisely declined.

—There are many even among Christian men who despair of making converts from the followers of Mohammed. The facts are just now beginning to open the blinded eyes. The Church Missionary Society reports among its converts 1,000 from Islam. Of 12,000 converts to Christianity in Sumatra one half are converts from Islam, whilst of 12,000 converts in Java nearly all were Moslems.

—Of sixty-five missionary societies carrying on missionary work in India sixteen are Presbyterian.

—"There is no more occasion to be anxious about the numerical advance of Christianity in India than about the spreading of light when dawn has appeared."—The Indian Standard.

—The Angale (Baptist) missionaries have publicly declared "that any such basis or principle as baptizing persons simply because they are willing to break away from Hinduism and place themselves under Christian instruction is unknown to us. Our missionaries still hold to the New Testament principle, that baptism is to be administered to those only who profess to be truly believing in the Lord Jesus Christ."

—The Church Missionary Society has in its service about fifty missionaries who are no expense to the society. They are either persons of independent means or are provided for by relatives. Why should not many of our wealthy people "go and do likewise?"

—It is said that the Pope is more anxious for the conversion of Protestants than of the heathen, "since the heathen are in a state of ignorance and so may be saved by the grace of God, but Protestants are living in the deadly sin of heresy." This accounts for the fact that Roman Catholic missionaries are more anxious to pervert the Protestant native Christian than they are to convert the heathen.

—At the last annual meeting of the missionaries of the Ludhiana Mission plans were adopted for more aggressive work in the villages. We may confidently anticipate large accessions to the churches in the near future as the outcome of this movement.—E. M. W.

Thoughts on the Sabbath-School Lessons.

I.

March 5.—Keeping the Sabbath.—Neh. xiii: 15-22.

The Old Testament Sabbath was in its deepest import not merely a duty, but also a right to rest in the midst of unrest; a privilege of freedom in earthly bondage. It was not merely a binding statute, but at the same time a gracious release from the accompanying and equally binding command to labor; a memento of the blessed rest of God and the redemption of his people; a gospel, therefore, in the Law.—Schaff.

Let each of us lay this well to heart, that our Sabbaths are a gift from our kind Father of unspeakable value. Used in the best way, they do make stepping-stones for our feet to walk to heaven by. They open to us at the wayside so many oratories and Bethel-like retreats where we may refresh our jaded spiritual nature, cultivate closer acquaintance with Christ, offer to God a less hurried praise, clear ourselves from the dust of time, re-examine the foundations of our confidence, scrutinize our motives, repair our faults and revive our drooping ardor in the task of self-discipline for eternal bliss. To make the very best of such costly possibilities—fifty-two of them in the year's round—how infinitely is that to be desired for such Christians as we are, far behind in grace, and battling with conditions adverse to holiness! To lose our Sabbaths and all they might bring to us—can anything replace a loss like that?—Dykes.

II.

March 12.—Esther before the King.—Esth. iv: 10-17; v: 1-3.

Mordecai's solemn words to Esther, "Who knoweth whether thou art come to the kingdom for such a time as this?" are not without meaning to Christians of the nineteenth century. The opportunities of to-day are ours. Our failure to recognize and improve them may hinder the advancement of Christ's kingdom on earth, though we may feel sure that our God can provide for the fulfillment of his promises in some other way, if we do not avail ourselves of the privilege of coming up to the help of the Lord. The present opportunities for missionary effort are a striking illustration of this. The doors into heathen lands which our parents and grand-parents prayed might be opened, have turned on their hinges and the army of the Lord should enter quickly to possess the land; for through the same door the merchant and the traveler, the printing press and the telegraph are introducing rum and infidel literature and the absorbing interests of civilization that so often leave no license and no inclination for attending to the highest interests of the soul.

III.

March 19.—Timely Admonition.—Prov. 23: 15-23 (A Temperance Lesson).

They tell us: "We are not obliged to be teetotallers. Let those be teetotallers who cannot govern themselves. We are quite able to drink temperately and get no harm of it. Let them who cannot do this be total abstainers; we are not obliged."

True, you are not obliged. We do not say you are obliged. But it is a river we have to cross, and it is deep and rapid. Whoever falls into it is sure to be drowned. Here is a single timber thrown across the gorge over the stream dark and swift far below. He who is lithe of limb and steady of nerve and brain may cross in safety on this narrow foot-bridge. But yonder is a broad, strong bridge with abutments of rock, with wide passages and high and strong balustrades. All can go over it in perfect safety—the aged and feeble, the young and giddy, and the careless, toddling wee ones, all go safely.

Now, you say, "Let such weak ones go yonder; we are not obliged; let us cross on this timber."

True you are not obliged. We do not say you are obliged. But, as for us, if we cross this timber, however safely we may go ourselves, we know that many another will follow us who will surely fall off and perish. And we feel better to go by the bridge.—Arnot.

The Vanity of Graven Images.—Isa. xlv: 9-20 (A Missionary Lesson).

Said a Hindu to one of our missionaries: "Reviling our gods, criticising our shastras and ridiculing our ritual will accomplish nothing. But the story you tell of Him who loved and died—that story, sir, will overthrow our temples, destroy our ritual, abolish our shastras and extinguish our gods. In the year 1800 the first Hindu convert was baptized in the Ganges, Krishna Pal by name. He was sorely persecuted, but his reply was, "I have been a great sinner. I heard of Christ, that He laid down his life for sinners. I thought, What love is this! Now, say if anything like this love was ever shown by any of your gods? Did Doorga or Kale or Krishna die for sinners?" Self-prompted he erected the first native place of worship in Bengal. In one of the hymns he wrote, he, coming from dark idolatry, expresses the sentiments of all who feel themselves redeemed by propitiatory love:

"O thou, my soul, forget no more
The friend who all thy sorrows bore!
Let every idol be forgot
But, O my soul, forget him not!

"Jesus for thee a body takes,
Thy guilt assumes, thy fetters breaks,
Discharging all thy dreadful debt,
And canst thou e'er such love forget?"
Monday Club, for 1879, page 401.

IV.

March 26.—Review.—Golden Text, Ps. cxix: 105.

A backward glance over the lessons of the quarters shows that the truth of our Golden Text is as truly illustrated in the passages chosen for our Sabbath School study from Ezra and Haggai, Nehemiah, Zechariah and Esther as in any that might be selected from other parts of the Bible. There has been no lesson in which we could not find some helpful practical thought, some warning, some encouragement, some example that could serve as "a lamp to our feet and a light to our path." And if we are learning ourselves and helping our scholars to learn, more and more, to bring our life-puzzles to the Bible for solution, we and they are making real progress in Christian experience.

Temperance.

How civil society can do most, by righteous law and faithful administration of it, to save the homes of its members from the evils of intemperance by suppressing the traffic in intoxicating drinks, is one of the most serious and difficult problems of our time. There is much diversity of opinion among christian statesmen and citizens, as to the methods of legislation and administration which can be made most effective. Problems of law and other practical problems are not ordinarily solved like problems of mathematics, with results demonstrably perfect and unchangeably correct for all times and all places. The wise friends of temperance are not unwilling to see various methods earnestly and honestly pursued in different localities. All should hold themselves ready to profit by these experiments. All discussions of these questions and all experiments in legislation should be conducted "with malice toward none, with charity for all."

The experience of the State of Massachusetts is set forth instructively in a recent issue of the Congregationalist of Boston, in an article which we copy below.

GAINS FOR TEMPERANCE.

If the votes of the cities of Massachusetts on the license question represent the temperance sentiment of the people there is a decided advance in the strength of the opposition to the sale of intoxicating liquors. Last year there was a notable gain for the temperance cause. But this year it is much greater. The increase in the no license vote of the cities over last year is 10,777, and taking into account the vote of the towns last spring there was a majority of about 25,000 votes in Massachusetts this year against license, a gain of 17,000 over 1891. There is ground in these figures for great encouragement to the friends of temperance. The majority of the citizens of this state appear to be opposed to liquor saloons and if they can be persuaded to act, and to act together they may abolish them.

But this greatly to be desired result is yet far from being attained and will be reached only after a thorough understanding of the motives which have led to this vote. In Boston at least three classes voted this year against license.

First were those opposed on principle to any traffic in intoxicating drinks. Next were those who are not disposed to forbid men to use liquor but who prefer no license to the existence of saloons. The third class are those who use liquor and want saloons, but who are opposed to the rule of the police commission. Some of this class have been disappointed in not being able to get licenses for themselves or their friends. Others want to frighten liquor dealers into furnishing more campaign funds for their political party. It is largely this third class which has reduced the majority for license in Boston from about 15,000 in 1890 to about 4,000 last year and 1,184 this year. No one who understands the city will question this when he notes that the most aristocratic ward on the Back Bay voted for license while the North End went strongly against it.

There were notable changes also in other cities. In those which surround Boston, as Chelsea, Somerville, Cambridge and Newton, the no license majority has increased. But Fitchburg, New Bedford and Worcester, which are not adjacent to a city where the sale of liquor is allowed, have changed to license, reversing by a heavy vote their verdict of last year. If Boston had gone for no license by a small majority it is more than possible that the result would have been a reversal of no license next year in the surrounding cities.

The fact to be recognized is that cities in which there is a large foreign population and whose situation affords no convenient opportunity to purchase liquor outside their limits either constantly vote license or alternate from one side to the other always, finding in the last trial the greater dissatisfaction. They make it evident that in the present condition of society no adequate solution of the liquor question has yet been found. A majority against saloons there undoubtedly is in Massachusetts, but there is far from a majority, as yet, against permitting any use of liquor as a beverage. The practical question is, how can the temperance sentiment which exists be made to exert the most wholesome influence?

There are signs that the Gothenburg system, which has gained so extensive favor during the last twenty-five years in Norway and Sweden, is attracting increasing attention both in England and in this country. In England it has earnest advocates in the Bishop of Chester and Hon. Joseph Chamberlain. The petition to the Massachusetts Legislature that all license fees be turned over to the county or state, so as not to be a temptation to voters to vote license, is in the same direction. The essential features of this system are that it takes the liquor question entirely out of politics, allows no profit to any individual from liquor selling, prevents all congregating in saloons for drinking purposes and uses all profits for public improvements not provided for by taxation. The application of this system in this country would require important modifications. Its trial would be an experiment and the most favorable conditions would be in towns where there is an undoubted majority against saloons. It would have the advantage of the experience for a quarter of a century of such a city as Bergen, which is three-fourths of the size of Worcester. Many of those who oppose the selling of liquor on a principle which they are not now able to maintain would, we think, be willing to try this experiment as a step towards the abolition of drinking. Those who have unsuccessfully struggled to close the saloons would certainly welcome it, and those who are in the main indifferent, but who cannot close their eyes to the great evils of the saloons would not oppose it.

SAVE THE CHILDREN.

FOREWARNED—FOREARMED.

The General Assembly's Permanent Committee on Temperance would gladly promote a deeper interest in the temperance education of the young. The vast importance and bright promise of this department of temperance work have not received due recognition. It is true that immediate results cannot be expected. The work is inconspicuous and unheralded, and the eager enthusiasm inspired by a sharp campaign is missing here. But let it be remembered that, though not instantaneous, the rewards of faithful work in this field are sure.

The sagacious statesmen of Germany, a generation ago, adopted as expressive of their policy, this maxim: "What you would weave into the life of the nation, put into the public schools;" and in pursuance of that policy what wonders have been achieved in that empire!

While therefore we should deprecate any relaxation of home training, and while we hope and strive after more specific and emphatic temperance teaching, and more effective organization in the Sabbath-schools, we do now especially commend to the earnest attention of all our brethren the "wide and effectual door" which God has opened to us, in the public schools of the land.

It will probably be shown by the Census report that there are nearly 15,000,000 children of school age in our country. By the good hand of our God upon us, and largely by means of the gentle yet persistent efforts of a few godly women, the enactment of laws has been secured for the Territories and in about three-fourths of the States, requiring that in all public schools the scientific truth shall be taught regarding the pernicious influence of alcoholic drinks and narcotics upon the human system. If a faithful observance of these laws can be had, the millions of the rising generation may be forewarned and forearmed. Their minds may be filled with a wholesome dread of this insatiate but insidious devourer. If now, while not yet fallen under the fascination of the fell charmer's eye, they are duly warned of the venom of his fangs, we may hope that a half a score of years hence we shall see coming forth upon the stage of action a generation of men and women who will both bar the door of the home against this monster and also quickly drive him from the land.

But let us beware of a fatal mistake here. No law is self-enforcing. Before these bright hopes can be realized there is still important work to be done. The character of the service which each of us in our respective environments may render to the cause, will, of course, vary, but three or four suggestions are offered, viz:

1. That all endeavor to give the subject of scientific temperance instruction of the young that degree of prominence before the public mind which its importance demands. Let it be made a frequent subject of conversation in the family and social circle. In sessional meetings will not those whom "the Holy Ghost has made overseers of the flock," regard this measure for guarding the lambs from the wolf, as a pertinent theme for conference and prayer? In the pulpit and in the prayer-meeting let its importance be impressed on all, and let the agency of the press be invoked in securing for it due public attention.

2. In the choice of School Directors, County and State Superintendents, or other officers who have control of public educational institutions, and in the selection by School Boards of teachers, the interests of this cause should be kept in mind. The best Temperance Educational Law may be rendered utterly futile by the failure to have directors and teachers who are competent and in sympathy with the object of the law.

3. School Boards and teachers should have the stimulus and support of an earnest public sentiment on this subject. Let them not be left to surmise as to whether you feel any interest in Scientific Temperance Instruction in the schools, but by frequent inquiry, and as often as possible, by visits of inquiry, make your interest and expectation unmistakably manifest.

4. The utmost care should be exercised as to text books. The first school books on Temperance Physiology, having been prepared and issued in haste, were crude, indefinite, inaccurate, ill-graded and hence unsuited for their purpose. But now several of the great publishing houses have issued text books which are in all respects satisfactory. Valuable service will be rendered to the cause by having the defective text books superseded by those which are so much better. "Cease from the instruction which causeth to err."

Come up "to the help of the Lord against the mighty," and let us be of good courage; for "to this end was the Son of God manifested that He might destroy the works of the devil."

We would call special attention to the Temperance Sabbath-school lesson under our title THOUGHTS ON SABBATH-SCHOOL LESSONS. That striking illustration was given by Rev. Dr. William Arnot in a Temperance address, in Philadelphia, in 1870, during the sessions of the first General Assembly after reunion.

Young People's Christian Endeavor.

ELEMENTS OF STRENGTH FOR CHRISTIAN WORK.

I. CHRISTIAN JOY.—The matters in respect to which we need to make exertion are of so great solemnity—the evils against which we need to strive are so terrible that the view of them is liable to sadden and depress us. If we were inattentive to these sad truths, if we did not feel in view of these terrible evils, we should lack impulse to the needful exertion. But if we let our minds dwell too much on these dark aspects, we shall be depressed and enfeebled, and quite incapacitated for successful and useful efforts. We need to be anointed with the oil of gladness, in order that our powers may be supple, and pliant, and tough. For this it will not do to depend upon the mirth of mere thoughtlessness. “The laughter of fools is like the crackling of thorns under a pot.” That is a fire that soon goes out. We must have a deeper, stronger, more enduring joy. It must be joy in the Lord. To Christians this joy is always available, and in all circumstances. However much we may have to be sorry for, we always have something to rejoice in. The basis of this is that grand Bible truth, that nothing can happen from which God's eternal plan has not made provision to educe good. If we thoroughly and firmly and constantly believe in God, we can always rejoice in Him, and this joy will always be deeper than any sorrows which may lie nearer the surface of our experience. The fierce sun may heat the water at the top of a deep lake, and the wind may worry and ruffle it, but deep down the water is always still and cold. There will inevitably be vexation and trouble and grief in your life, but deeper than vexation or trouble or grief can reach is that life which is hid with Christ in God. In this you can “rejoice in the Lord always.

II. CHRISTIAN MODERATION. — When Paul exhorts us (Phil. 4: 5) to let our moderation be known to all men, we surely do not take modera- tion to mean slowness. It rather expresses reasonable and wise regulation such as it is the duty of a moderator to insist upon in any assembly. The revised version gives “forbearance” instead of “moderation,” and in the margin suggests “gentleness. This difficulty of finding an adequate word for it shows the richness of the meaning.

If when you desire a boy to be a gentleman, he should turn upon you and demand a precise account and description of the things which a gentleman may not do, would you have any hope of that boy? Paul's exhortation to moderation is immediately followed by the declaration, “The Lord is at hand.” All turbulence of unrestrained passion, all arrogance, all fierce uncharitableness do readily subside under a realizing recollection of the presence of God. Not more quickly does a noisy school grow quiet at the teacher's coming, or a turbulent crowd at the unexpected appearance among them of the most venerable citizen. Walking with God, we shall not fail to attain the true Christian moderation.

III. CHRISTIAN UNANXIOUSNESS.—We confess that we do not find that word in Webster. But we feel the need of it in this meditation, and are we not entitled to it? Our lexicographers give us “anxiousness,” and is it because its opposite is so rare that our vocabulary has no vocable to express it?

“Be anxious in nothing” is the revised version of a Scripture exhortation, which the English of King James' time expressed by, “Be careful for nothing.” By carefulness we now mean proper and wise thoughtfulness, and we call undue care anxiety, or anxiousness. Unanxiousness cannot fail to be understood as meaning the freedom from anxiety, to which that Scripture exhorts us. In more homely phrase, Do not worry.

In that precious letter to his dear Philippians, Paul, after exhorting them to seek and gain these elements of Christian strength, then gives them this sweet and strong assurance:

“And the peace of God, which passeth all understanding, shall keep your hearts and minds through Christ Jesus.”

Is anything else on earth so much to be desired as this divine tranquility—this peace of God? It is not something merely to be enjoyed, a final attainment and reward, to be henceforth rested in. It is rather a state of supreme preparation for whatever work God calls us to in this world, and for which only thus he fits us.

This has been exemplified historically, by men and women who have lived the most busy and earnest lives. In the calmness of a steady faith they have "endured as seeing Him who is invisible." In the same faith they have "subdued kingdoms and wrought righteousness." Their lives have been like deep, strong-flowing rivers, not noisy in their flow, but moving irresistibly.

May this peace of God, which passeth all understanding, keep the hearts and minds of all our young Christian Endeavorers through Christ Jesus. So may you, as long as you live, be kept in readiness and in your highest attainable ability for the work, whatever work it may be, and wherever it may be, which God gives you to do.

LOCAL INGENUITY.

Starting with the few great and heavenly principles of confession, love and devotion, we may work them out in ten thousand practical ways. Take, for example, the opening clauses of the pledge: "Trusting in the Lord Jesus Christ for strength, I promise Him that I will strive to do whatever He would like to have me do." Few words are required in stating the principles of trust and service; many pages might not recount the instances of its every-day working-out.

A Christian Endeavor Society in Iowa recently contributed more than two hundred dollars toward enlarging the parsonage and furnishing the church. Another, in Illinois, purchased a hundred volumes for the Sunday-school library as a Christmas offering. A junior society in Massachusetts has "adopted" a home-missionary's little girl, living in the West, enrolling her among its members and sending her a present of a "junior pin;" to which she responds by mail in contributions to the consecration meetings of that society. A Pennsylvania society reports that its Flower Committee does not forget to provide flowers every Sunday for the pulpit.

In a New York town, not long ago, the Christian "Endeavorers" gave their pastor a "surprise party," and in addition to their expressions of sorrow that he was soon to leave them for another pastorate they brought expressions in government greenbacks, fastened as a border upon an "autograph quilt" which they had devised with an abundance of local ingenuity. In another city in New York one of the young people's societies, among other methods, keeps more than twenty barber-shops supplied with Christian periodicals. Away off in Australia a Christian Endeavor Society makes bags and fills them with various useful articles and books, to be given to sailors outward bound. And so it goes, all around the world. Everywhere the young Christians, as well as the older Christians, are acting out, working out the immortal principle of love. It is said that the leader of a prayer-meeting recently surprised the congregation with his local ingenuity. They had all taken the back seats. The congregation stood to sing, and the leader asked them to turn their chairs about before sitting down. At the same time he slipped down to the other end of the room, carrying the lamp-stand and setting up his leadership there; and the members of the meeting were surprised to find that they were occupying front seats. It is not said that this was a young people's prayermeeting; and one is inclined to think that it was not. Young people, in their own meetings, often prefer to come to the front.

A very interesting example comes from the Presbytery of Lima, Ohio, both of local ingenuity and of young people coming to the front. The Rev. Edson A. Lowe, the pastor of a church in that presbytery, having offered himself as a foreign missionary, was assigned by the Board of Foreign Missions to service in Santiago, Chili. Now, it seems that Lima Presbytery was the pioneer in the formation of a "Presbyterial Union" of Christian Endeavor Societies, two years ago. The first meeting was entirely informal, by the personal invitation of Rev. J. R. Mitchell, the pastor of the church at Findlay, Ohio, where the presbytery met. But the enthusiasm then and at the more formal one the following year surprised none more than the young people themselves. At the second meeting of these delegates of two from each society of the presbytery, the Presbytery's Committee on Foreign Missions urged them to do something definite for that cause. This request was kept in mind, and the societies of the presbytery were considering and experimenting, when later on the definite proposal came to them to share in the support of Mr. Lowe, whom many of them knew to be scholarly and devoted. Correspondence and visiting followed; a special Christian Endeavor Convention was called; nearly all the societies were represented in some way; and the Presbyterial Union unanimously voted to undertake the entire support of their own missionary. It is said that "the unanimity and heartiness of this action deeply affected him. He will thus be the more interested in them; and, as he is known and loved throughout the presbytery, his letters will always be specially interesting to them." This local ingenuity on a larger scale, it is predicted, will set some other presbyteries thinking. "Thus we see," the prophecy is, "that the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor furnishes the Church with a grand possibility; and if it is managed wisely and rightly and earnestly, it will become a mighty power for good." We add, it will be the working out of heavenly principles, not the following of set rules.

Christian young people, look about you! In a sense not technical each of you is to be a "Lookout Committee" of one. See what needs to be done, then do it! Not all at once, of course, but little by little. For it is "Just a mesh at a time, my child!

It's not so hard as you think:
Slip in the shuttle, draw up the loop
Without a knot or a kink.
So, one by one, those tiresome holes,
That seem so many to mend,
Will all be done, though you'll hardly guess
Just how, when you come to the end.

Ministerial Necrology.

WE earnestly request the families of deceased ministers and the stated clerks of their presbyteries to forward to us promptly the facts given in these notices, and as nearly as possible in the form exemplified below. These notices are highly valued by writers of Presbyterian history, compilers of statistics and the intelligent readers of both.

FRANCISCO, CHAUNCEY.—Born in Wells, N. Y., May 7, 1812; studied with Rev. Dr. John D. Lawyer, Sand Lake, N. Y.; ordained by Lutheran Synod, 1840; preached at Morristown, N. Y., at Brighton and Bath, Canada, at Litchfield,
Lassellville, Hopewell, when he joined Geneva
Presbytery; also, at Branchport, Bethany,
Junius, North Evans, and Middlefield Center,
N. Y. In October 1877 he removed to Phelps,
N. Y., residing there until his death; died January 2, 1893.

THOMPSON, AARON.—Born at Westchester, Ohio,
November 20, 1811; educated at Oxford, Ohio;

ordained by Presbytery of Dayton, July 1843; preached in Camden, Greenville, Felicity and Manchester, Ohio; in Logansport, Ind., Montrose, Iowa, and Brooklyn, Huntsville and Winchester, Illinois; died December 19, 1892, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. D. B. Hillis, in Keokuk, Iowa. Mr. Thompson was three times married, but his wives all preceded him to the other world. Several children survive him.

WILSON, AMZI.—Born in Northfield, O., June 17,
1845; graduated at Western Reserve College,
Hudson, O., in 1868; tutor in that college one year; after an interrupted course, through illness, graduated at the Western Theological Seminary, 1882; ordained and installed pastor of the church of Springfield, Pa., June 6, 1883; stated clerk of Erie Presbytery; died November 29, 1892, of typhoid fever. Married Miss M.
E. Parmelee, of Twinsburgh, O., September 18, 1878. His wife and two orphan children of a brother-in-law, whose home has been with him and to whom he was guardian, survive him.

Children's Church At Home And Abroad.

A WOODEN SAVIOR.—A large number of children have written in reply to our proposal on page 62 of our January number, giving the passages of Scripture of which they were reminded by Mr. Touzeau's story of the man whom he found making what he called "a Christ" out of a log of wood. One finds his verse in the twentieth chapter of Exodus, the second Commandment. Several find it in Jeremiah x., 3. Others find it in Isaiah xl., 20, and the greatest number in Isaiah xlv.,
9-17.

It will be a good plan to study all these passages and compare them with one another.
They all show how foolish and wicked it is to worship anything that we can see or touch.
"God is Spirit." He is always with us, but we cannot see him. There is a great deal in many parts of the Bible that shows how God abhors idols. If Mr. Touzeau's story leads you all to study these places in the Bible and to talk about them with your parents and teachers, it will be a good thing.

And now, please turn back to the piece entitled Mirza Ibrahim near the beginning of this number, and read it with your mothers, and see if it does not interest you as much as anything written on purpose for little readers.

RECEIPTS.

Synods in SMALL CAPITALS; Presbyteries in italics; Churches in Roman.

It is of great importance to the treasurers of all the boards that when money is sent to them, the name of the church from which it comes, and of the presbytery to which the church belongs, should be distinctly written, and that the person sending should sign his or her name distinctly, with proper title, e. g., Pastor, Treasurer, Miss or Mrs., as the case may be. Careful attention to this will save much trouble and perhaps prevent serious mistakes.

RECEIPTS FOR THE BOARD OF CHURCH ERECTION, DECEMBER, 1892.

BALTIMORE.— Baltimore —Baltimore Boundary Avenue Y. P. Missionary Society. $ 83.	2; Rush, 2. Philadelphia —Philadelphia Cohocksink, 38 30;—Temple, 25;—Woodland, 18 40;—Zion German, 4. Pittsburgh —Edgewood, 13; Long Island, 3 90; Mount Carmel, 3; Mount Olive, 4; Pittsburgh 7th, 9 96;—East Liberty, 28;—Shady Side, 23; Valley, 4. Washington —Pigeon Creek, 8 57. Westminster —Centre, 4. 412 39
COLORADO.— Boulder —Rawlins, 2. Denver —Denver Westminster, 10. Pueblo —Pueblo 1st, 2 87. 14 87	SOUTH DAKOTA.— Aberdeen —Palmer 1st, Holland, 10
ILLINOIS.— Chicago —Chicago 1st, 46 45;—4th, 341 68;—Christ Chapel, 14 80; Evanston 1st, 36 54; Highland Park, 43 50; Hinsdale, 5 38. Peoria —Peoria 1st German, 1 57. Rock River —Viola, 5 30. Springfield —Murrayville, 1 84; Pisgah, 1 83. 498 89	Southern Dakota —Bon Homme 1st, 5; Marion Emanuel, German, 3; Turner Co., 1st German, 8. 28 00
INDIANA.— Fort Wayne —Huntington, 3. Muncie —Hartford City, 5. 8 00	TENNESSEE.— Hulston —Salem, 3; Timber Ridge, 1. 4 00
IOWA.— Corning —Clarinda, 21 10. Council Bluffs —Griswold, 12 24; Logan, 6. Des Moines —Chariton, 6 10; East Des Moines, 12 85; LeRoy, 6. Fort Dodge —Bethel, 3. 67 29	TEXAS.— Austin —Eagle Pass, 3; San Antonio, Madison Square, 10. 13 00
KANSAS.— Emporia —Conway Springs, 3 06; Osage City 1st, 10; Wichita Lincoln Street, 6 15. Solomon —Belleville, 3; Salina, 17. Topeka —Clinton, 4. 48 31	UTAH.— Montana —Bozeman, 14 25. 14 25
KENTUCKY.— Ebenezer —Flemingsburgh, 10 30. Louisville —Louisville College Street, 26 10. 36 40	WASHINGTON.— Puget Sound —Everett, 5. 5 00
MICHIGAN.— Detroit —Birmingham, 7; Stony Creek, 7; White Lake, 5. Flint —Marlette 1st, 8. Grand Rapids —Grand Rapids Westminster, 19 73; Ionia, 32 17. Kalamazoo —Martin, 4 37. Like Superior —Iron River, 2. Monroe —Tecomseh, 16. Petoskey —Petoskey 1st, (Miss L. Finch), 80 cents. Saginaw —West Bay City Covenant, 1. 103 96	WISCONSIN.— Milwaukee —Oostburg, 2; Racine, 12 61. 12 61
MINNESOTA.— Duluth —Ely, 2 50. Minneapolis —Minneapolis Westminster sub-ech, 15. Red River —Maine, 4 90. St. Cloud —Litchfield, 10. St. Paul —St. Paul Dayton Avenue, 40. Winona —Fremont 1st, 5 53; Utica Union, 1 21. 79 14	Total from Churches and Sabbath-schools, $ 2,372 82
MISSOURI.— Platte —Cameron, 6; Gallatin, 3. St. Louis —Kirkwood, 30; St. Louis 1st, 6 54;—Lafayette Park, 30. 75 54	OTHER CONTRIBUTIONS.
NEBRASKA.— Kearney —Clontibret, 2. Nebraska City —Bennett, 15; Nebraska City 1st, 5 75; Palmyra, 5. Omaha —Omaha 2d, 9 75. 37 50	C. Penna. $ 4 00
NEW JERSEY.— Elizabeth —Basking Ridge 37; Rahway 1st German, 2. Morris and Orange —Madison, 9 85. Newark —Newark Calvary, 9 14;—Park, 30 08;—Wickliffe, 7 48. New Brunswick —Trenton 1st, 1;—Prospect Street, 31. Newton —Belvidere 1st, 25; Oxford, 2d, 7 46. West Jersey —Blackwoodtown, 25; Camden 2nd, 11; Greenwich, 7. 195 53	Alexander Guy, M. D., Oxford, O. 10 00
NEW YORK.— Albany —Albany 2d, 33 40; Saratoga Springs 1st sub-ech, 1. Binghamton —Cannonsville, 6. Boston —New Bedford 1st, 11. Buffalo —Tonawanda 1st, 16. Cayuga —Auburn 1st, 106. Geneva —Seneca Falls, 84 80. Hudson —Good Will, 1 44; West Town, 9. Long Island —Selden, 1. Nassau —Brentwood 10. Ontario —Cherry Valley, 26 04. St. Lawrence —Waddington Scotch, 39 95; Watertown 1st, 25. Steuben —Andover, 3; Painted Post, 6. Syracuse —Marcellus, 7 80. Troy —Salem, 8 87; Watertown 1st, 7 95. Westchester —Bedford, 7; New Rochelle, 26 93. 458 18	Martha J. Patton, Palestine, Ill. 1 00
NORTH DAKOTA.— Fargo —Elm River, 6; Lisbon, 4 80 10 80	Rev. W. L. Tarbet and wife. 1 60
OHIO.— Athens —Barlow, 2 75; Bristol, 3. Bellevue —Forest, 4; Urbana, 25 29. Cincinnati —Mount Carmel sub-ech, 3. Cleveland —Cleveland 1st, 61. Dayton —Monroe, 3 43; Piqua, 17 50. St. Clairsville —Powhatan, 1; Wheeling Valley, 4 10. Steubenville —Steubenville 2d, 20 71. Zanesville —Newark Salem German, 3 16. 151 06	Mrs. A. P. Thompson, Philadelphia, Pa. 5 00
OREGON.— Portland —Portland 1st, 65 80. 65 80	Rev. D. A. Wallace, Pontiac, Ill. 80
PENNSYLVANIA.— Allegheny —Cross Roads, 3. Blairsville —Greensburg sub-ech, 10. Carlisle —Buffalo, 1; Burnt Cabins, 2; Centre, 1; Chambersburgh Central, 3 26; Harriaburgh Westminster, 5; Landisburgh, 1; Lower Path Valley, 6; Upper, 1. Chester —Darby Borough, 22. Clarion —Du Bois, 19 44; Johnsonburgh, 87 cts; Wilcox, 61 cts. Erie —Atlantic 1st, 4; Fradonia, 4 40; Meadville Central, 10; New Lebanon, 1. Huntingdon —Beulah, 2 06; Little Valley, 8 30; Logan's Valley, 10. Kittanning —Cherry Tree, 1; Elder's Ridge, 10 20; Leechburgh, 15. Lackawanna —Ararat, 1; Forest City, 1; Gibson, 1; Plains, 4 20; Scranton Green Ridge Avenue, 25;—Washburn Street, 26 42. Lehigh —Pottsville 2d, 11. Northumberland —Elysburgh,	$ 22 40
	$ 2,395 22
	MISCELLANEOUS.
	Interest on Investment, $ 387 50
	Sale of church, 25 00
	Book of Designs, No. 5, 50
	Plans and specifications, 10 00
	Partial loss recovered, 200 87
	Premiums of Insurance, 416 07
	989 94
	SPECIAL DONATIONS.
	CALIFORNIA.— San Jose —Santa Clara, 20 00
	KANSAS.— Emporia —Osage City 1st, 4 00
	NEW YORK.— North River —Pleasant Valley, 8. Troy —Troy 2d, 34 98. 57 98
	UTICA—Kirkland, 15.
	PENNSYLVANIA.— Philadelphia —North Ashburne, 15; Bristol, 10; Falls of Schuylkill, 15; Germantown 1st, 296 45
	Jenkintown Grace, 5; Lower Merion, 5; Manayunk 1st, 20; Neshaminy of Warwick, 18 52; Norristown 1st, 40 47; Norriton and Providence, 20; Roxborough, 4; Thompson Memorial, 8. 457 44
	589 42
	$ 3,924 68
	Church collections and other contributions 9 months, April to December, 1892, $32,996 87
	Church collections and other contributions, 9 months, April to December, 1891, 32,880 76
	MANSE FUND.
	ILLINOIS.— Chicago —Highland Park, $ 5 00
	INDIANA.— Vincennes —Petersburg, 5 00
	IOWA.— Council Bluffs —Griswold, 7 65 17 65
	MISCELLANEOUS.
	Installments on loans, 731 10
	Interest, 32 64
	Premiums of Insurance, 29 25 792 99
	SPECIAL DONATIONS.
	Special for work in Utah, 400 00
	$ 1,210 64

If acknowledgment of any remittance is not found in these reports, or if they are inaccurate in any item, prompt advice should be sent to the secretary of the Board, giving the number of the receipt held, or, in the absence of a receipt, the date, amount and form of remittance.

ADAM CAMPBELL, Treasurer,
55 Fifth Avenue, New York.

RECEIPTS FOR COLLEGES AND ACADEMIES, DECEMBER, 1892.

ATLANTIC.— South Florida —Titusville, 3 15.	3 15
BALTIMORE.— Baltimore —Frederick City, 3 25. New Castle —Wilmington Central, 67 63. Washington City —Washington 6th, 21; Gunton Temple Memorial, 6 17.	98 95
COLORADO.— Pueblo —Pueblo 1st, 2 15.	2 15
ILLINOIS.— Alton —Lebanon, 1. Chicago —Chicago 1st, 46 44; 7th, 1 15; Fullerton Avenue, 28 86; Evanston 1st, 30 45. Freeport —Willow Creek, 29. Springfield —Greenview 1st, 6 40; Murraysville, 1 38; Pisgah, 4 00; Unity, 1 25.	149 95
INDIANA.— Crawfordsville —Rockville Memorial, 5 89. Fort Wayne —Huntingdon 1st, 2. Logansport —Union, 2 54.	10 43
IOWA.— Des Moines , 1 17; Ridgedale, 5. Iowa City —Scott, 5 25.	11 43
KANSAS.— Topeka —Riley Centre, German, 2	2 00
KENTUCKY.— Louisville —Louisville College Street, 21 36.	21 36
MICHIGAN.— Detroit —Stony Creek, 5. Flint —Gaines, 1. Lake Superior —Iron River, 50 cents. Lansing —Onedia, 1 02.	7 52
MINNESOTA.— St. Paul —Minneapolis Westminster, sab-sch, 16.	15 00
MISSOURI.— Kansas City —Sharon, 3 45. Platte —Carrollton, 4. St. Louis —St. Louis 1st, 13 19; Cote Brillante, 10 30.	30 94
NEBRASKA.— Nebraska City —Meridian German, 30 c. Niobrara —Wayne, 8 75. Omaha —Plymouth, 2.	11 05
NEW JERSEY.— Elizabeth —Elizabeth 2d, 49 25;—Marshall Street, 22 25;—Westminster, 79 14. Jersey City —Jersey City 2d, 5 11. Monmouth —Calvary, 4; Lakewood, 36 55; Plumstead, 4. Morris and Orange —East Orange Brick, 43 82; Madison, 7 02; Myersville German, 2; Orange Central, 200. Newark —Newark Calvary, 1 60; Park, 33 47; Wickliffe, 3 74. New Brunswick —Frechtown, 5; Kirkpatrick Memorial, 2; Trenton 1st, 1. Newton —Bloomburg 1st, 10 59. Oxford 2d, 5 60; Wantage 1st, 5.	531 14
NEW YORK.— Albany —Amsterdam 2d, 50; Ballston Spa 1st, 13 12; Bethany, 15 90; Mariaville, 4; Northampton, 6; Saratoga Springs 1st, sab-sch, 3. Binghamton —Binghamton West End, 2 15; McGrawville, 5 10. Brooklyn —Brooklyn, Classon Avenue, 31—Memorial, 176 93. Buffalo —Franklinville 1st, 2 50; Tonawanda 1st, 12. Cayuga —Genoa 1st, 15; Meridian, 4. Chemung —Elmira 1st, 12; Lake Street, 30. Columbia —Jewett, 7 20. Geneva —Gorham, 5 24; Seneca Falls 1st, 30. Hudson —Good Will, 2 10; Monroe, 10; Scotchtown, 5; West Town, 6. Long Island —Port Jefferson, 10 77; Selden, 1; West Hampton, 9 28. Nassau —Islip, 8. New York —New York Christ, 5 51;—Madison Avenue, 44 94. Niagara —Niagara Falls, 18;—Niagara Falls, sab-sch, 6 85. North River —Pine Plains, 5; Poughkeepsie 1st, 10 65. Rochester —Dansville, 8 12; Ogden Centre, 2 01; Rochester Emanuel, 1 03. St. Lawrence —Sackett's Harbor, 2 25; Waddington Scotch, 42. Steuben —Corning 1st, 7 18; Cuba, 15 29; Painted Post, 3. Troy —Brunswick 1st, 6 44; Waterford 1st, 7 95. Utica —Ilion, 3; Walcott Memorial, 13 58.	690 19
NORTH DAKOTA.— Bismarck —Mandan, 3 60.	3 60
OHIO.— Athens —Amesville, 5 20. Chillicothe —Hamden Junction, 3 85. Cincinnati —Cincinnati Mount Auburn, 10; Monroe, 4; New Richmond, 4. Lima —Delphos, 2; Lima 1st, 27. Marion —Marion 1st, 11. St. Clairsville —
Buffalo, 9 45; Martin's Ferry, 16 14. Zanesville —Zanesville Putnam, 8.	100 64
PACIFIC.— Sacramento —Carson City, 7.	7 00
PENNSYLVANIA.— Allegheny —Ball Creek, 8; Cross Roads, 2; Vanport, 2 90. Blairsville —Johnstown 24 76; Parnassus, 43 20; Salem, 5. Butler —Harrisburg, 7; Plain Grove, 11; Portersville, 7; Scrub Grass, 6. Carlisle —Buffalo, 1; Centre, 1; Harrisburg Olivet, 5 15; Landisburgh 1; Upper, 1. Chester —Avondale, 11 32; Bethany, 5; Dilworthtown, 2 75; Honeybrook, 7 07; Middletown, 7; West Grove, 5 79. Clarion —DuBois, 13 29; Johnsbury, 28 cts.; Maysville, 1 86; Richardsville, 1 61; Wilcox, 46 cts. Erie —Cambridge, 6; Erie Park, 23. Huntingdon —Beulah, 1 54; Lower Tuscarora, 5; Penfield, 3; Winterburn, 2. Kittanning —Cherry Tree, 2; Leechburgh, 14. Lackawanna —Scranton Washburn St., 21 25; Susquehanna 1st, 6. Lehigh —Pottsville 2d, 5 50; Stroudsburg, 5. Northumberland —Montoursville, 3 06; Rush Creek, 1. Philadelphia —Philadelphia Walnut St., 44 66—Alexander, 26 57—Cohocksink, 28 90. Philadelphia North —Neahaminy of Warwick, 10 75; Norristown Central, 1; Norriton and Providence, 17 25; Overbrook, 37 53. Pittsburgh —Charlata, 3; Edgewood, 10; Mount Carmel, 2; Pittsburgh 1st sab-sch, 10 23—East Liberty, 60—Lawrenceville, 15 50—Shady Side, 43 50; Valley, 2. Shenandoah —Hopewell, 2 50; Rich Hill, 3. Washington —Mt. Prospect, 3 77; Washington 1st, 56 07. Wellsboro —Wellsboro, 6 08. Westminster —Cedar Grove, 2; Centre, 4.	690 96
TENNESSEE.— Union —Caledonia, 2 New Salem, 1.	3 00
WISCONSIN.— Milwaukee —Milwaukee Holland, 5; Oostburg, 3.	8 00
Totals from churches and Sabbath-schools....	$2,367 57
PERSONAL.
Anonymous, Easton, Pa., 1; B. O. Williams, M. D., Martin's Ferry, Ohio, 5; C. Penna., 6; Rev. W. L. Tarbet and wife, 2 40; F. L. Janeway, N. Y., 175; Alexander Guy-Oxford, Ohio, 10; J. P. Wallace, Chicago, 50; Miss L. Finch, Petoskey, Mich., 60 cts.; Rev. D. A. Wallace, Pontiac, Ills., 60 cts.; Y. P. S. C. E. Boundary Ave. Church, Baltimore, 5 12; Mrs. A. P. Thompson, Philadelphia, 5.....	260 72
INTEREST.
North Chicago City Railway 4½ per cent. coupons.....	585 00
Total receipts for November and December, 1892.....	$ 2,213 23
Previously reported.....	43,644 40
Total receipts from April 1 to December 31, 1892.....	$46,857 69
C. M. CHARNLEY, Treasurer, P. O. Box 294, Chicago, Illa.
Received for transmission—for aid of students in Bloomfield Seminary—from Brooklyn 5th German Church, Brooklyn Presbytery, $15 00.

RECEIPTS FOR EDUCATION, DECEMBER, 1892.

BALTIMORE.— Baltimore —Baltimore—Boundary Avenue Y. P. Miss. Soc., 4 27; Hampden, 12. Washington City —Clifton, 2; Hermon, 2.	20 27
COLORADO.— Boulder —Rawlins, 2. Denver —Otis, 1. Gunnison —Grand Junction 1st, 5. Pueblo —Pueblo 1st, 1 79.	9 79
ILLINOIS.— Alton —Hillsboro, 13 06. Bloomington —Waynesville, 5. Cairo —Harrisburg, 2 65; Metropolis, 5 20. Chicago —Chicago 1st, 30 96;—4th add'l, 40 50;—8th, 7 80; Evanston 1st, 30 45; Oak Park, 54 96; River Forest 1st, 4 35. Mattoon —Tower Hill, 6; Vandalia, 4 50. Ottawa —Mendota 14. Peoria —Peoria 1st, 19 65;—2d, 73 01. Rock River —Geneseo, 8 80; Viola 1st, 5 75. Schuyler —Macomb, 15; New Salem, 2 50. Springfield —Murrayville, 1 15; Pisgah, 1 38.	345 67
INDIANA.— Crawfordsville —Beulah, 4; Newtown, 12; Rock Creek, 2; Rockfield, 2. Fort Wayne —Fort Wayne 1st, 79 31. Indianapolis —Carpentersville, 1. Logansport —Meadow Lane, 3; Remington, 4 20. Muncie —Centre Grove, 2 50; New Hope, 2; Winchester 10. New Albany —Mount Lebanon, 2. New Albany 2d, 19 50; Otseco, 3. Vincennes —Evanville Walnut Street, 47 27; Petersburg, 4; Washington, 12. White Water —College Corner, 2.	211 78
IOWA.— Cedar Rapids —Lyons, 1. Council Bluffs —Griswold, 8 92. Des Moines —Grimes, 4 15; Newton, 13 56. Fort Dodge —Wheatland German, 10. Iowa —Hope, 2 50. Sioux City —Lyon Co. 1st German, 10.	50 13
KANSAS.— Emporia —Belle Plaine, 6; Elmendaro, 4 65; Emporia 1st, 30; Madison, 2; Wichita Oak Street, 5;—West Side, 3 35. Highland —Horton 1st, 9; Troy, 2; Washington 1st, 3 24. Neosho —Chanute, 5 13; Fort Scott, 24 25; Pittsburgh, 6 55; Yates Centre, 9 32. Solomon —Minneapolis, 14 79.	114 28
KENTUCKY.— Louisville —Louisville 4th, 3 50;—College Street, 21 85. Transylvania —Richmond 2d, 12 77. 38 13	38 13
MICHIGAN.— Detroit —Birmingham, 5; Pontiac 1st (sab-sch, 5 20) 45 66; Stony Creek, 5; Flint—Flint 59 87. Lake Superior —Iron River, 50 cts. Monroe —Blissfield, 28. Petoskey —Petoskey 1st, 50 cts. Saginaw —Covenant, 3.	144 53
MINNESOTA.— Duluth —St. James' sab-sch, 3 64. Mankato —Madella, 13. St. Paul —Farmington, 2. Minneapolis —Shiloh, 18 40;—Westminster sab-sch, 25; Vermilion, 3. St. Cloud —Litchfield, 12 56.	77 60
MISSOURI.— Kansas City —Sharon, 4 96. Ozark —Carthage, 18 38; Greenfield, 6. Palmyra —Enterprise, 1. Platte —Maryville 1st, 8; Parkville, 6 56. St. Louis —Clifton Heights, 2 70; Kirkwood sab-sch, 11 35; Nazareth German, 3; St. Louis 1st, 12 79;—Cote Brillante, 14 40.	89 14
NEBRASKA.— Hastings —Nelson, 8 04; Ong, 1 70. Kearney —Broken Bow, 2 60; Clontibret, 2. Nebraska City—Alexandria, 2; Lincoln 2d, 8 07; Nebraska City 1st, 5 75. Omaha—Craig, 5 83.

New Jersey—Elizabeth—Elizabeth 1st, 89 80; Plainfield Crescent Avenue, 125. Jersey City—Jersey City 2d, 5 11; Tenafly, 15 00. Monmouth—Cranbury 2d, 15 10; Long Branch 1st, 18 00. Morris and Orange—Madison, 5 83; New Vernon, 6 74; Village, 40 53. Newark—Newark Calvary, 1 34; —Memorial, 10 64; —Park, 18 43; —Wickliffe, 7 48. New Brunswick—Amwell 2d, 4; Frenchtown, 7 96; New Brunswick 1st, 68 34; Trenton Prospect Street, 4 47. Newton—Bloomsbury 1st, 10 33; Branchville, 15; Oxford 2nd, 4 66. West Jersey—Blackwood, 25; Greenwich, 6. 493 30

New Mexico—Rio Grande—Albuquerque 1st, 8 05. New York—Albany—Albany 2d, 56 72; — 3d, 26 29; Saratoga Springs sab-sch, 2 50. Binghamton—Binghamton West, 17. Boston—Newburyport 1st, 11 73.

Brooklyn—Brooklyn Duryea, 31. Buffalo—Springville sab-sch, 3 44; Tonawanda, 10. Cayuga—Auburn 1st, 95 55. Columbia—Jewett, 7 20. Geneva—Canandaigua 1st, 13 66; Canoga, 1 09; Penn Yan, 23; Seneca Falls, 80 89. Hudson—Good Will, 90 cents; West Town, 6. Long Island—Selden, 1. New York—New York Madison Avenue, 44 95; — Washington Square, 189 76. North River—Rondout 2d 20. Otsego—Buel, 2 55. Rochester—Lima, 10 46; Webster, 3 50. Syracuse—Baldwinsville, 7 60; Cazenovia, 37 59; East Syracuse, 2; Marcellus, 10; Onondaga Valley, 4 30; Pompey, 3 75; Skaneateles, 5 81. Troy—Hoosick Falls, 16 50; Warrensburg, 6 89; Waterford 1st, 7 95. Utica—Rome 1st, 22 98; Vernon Centre, 8 65. 739 39

NORTH DAKOTA—Bismarck—Glencoe, 2. Pembina—Backoo, 2; Cavaller, 3. 7 00

OREGON—Portland—Portland 4th, 8 70; South Oregon—Ashland, 2. 10 70

OHIO—Athens—Barlow, 1 50; New England, 2 68. Bellefontaine—Urbana 1st, 23 97. Cincinnati—Cincinnati North, 11 13; — Mount Auburn, 43 58; Hartwell, 9; Mount Carmel, 2; Westwood, 2. Cleveland—Cleveland 1st, 40; — Beckwith, 23 48. Columbus—Bethel, 2; Bremen, 1 55; Rush Creek, 3 75. Dayton—Camden, 2; Clifton, 11 46; Middletown add'l, 43 cents. Huron—Monroeville, 2. Mahoning—Vienna, 1 70. Maumee—Weston, 2. Portsmouth—Eckmanville, 4 30. St. Clairsville—Powhatan, 3. Steubenville—East Liverpool, 1 93; Steubenville 2d, 20 06. Zanesville—Chandlersville, 4 60. 220 31

PACIFIC—Los Angeles—Grand View, 2 90. 2 90

PENNSYLVANIA—Allegheny—Plains, 2. Blairsville—Blairsville, 54 50; Greensburg (sab-sch, 20), 49 55; Jeanette, 7 75; Ligonier, 25 95; Livermore, 4 50. Butler—Summit, 5 70. Carlisle—Buffalo, 1; Carlisle 2d, 71 92; Centre, 1; Chambersburg Central, 12 88; Landisburg, 1; Paxton, 12 50; Upper, 1. Chester—Downingtown Central, 6 96. Clarion—Beech Woods, 32 84; Johnsonburg, 23 cents; Wilcox, 38 cents. Eric—Cool Spring, 3 56; Erie Central, 8; — Park, 40; Mill Village, 1 50; New Lebanon, 1; Stoneboro, 2 75; Tideoute, 20; Titusville, 60 78. Huntingdon—Alexandria, 19; Bedford, 6 50; Beulah, 1 29; Mapleton, 4; West Kishacoquillas, 14. Kittanning—

Cherry Tree, 1; Elder's Ridge, 11 48; Glade Run, 5; Bradley's Grove, 3 10. Lackawanna—Ararat, 1; Gibson, 1; Honedale, 13 24; Scranton Green Ridge Avenue, 27 65; — Washburn Street, 23 70. Lehigh—Pottsville 2d, 6 50; Reading 1st, 47; Stroudsburg, 10. Northumberland—Elysburgh, 2; Great Island, 52; Rush Creek, 2. Philadelphia—Philadelphia Chambers, 39 59; — Cohocksink, 56 15; — Olivet sab-sch, 18 61; — Temple, 20 75. Philadelphia North—Ashbourne, 20; Norristown Central, 15 52; Norriton and Providence, 15; Port Kennedy, 2; Thompson Memorial, 9. Pittsburgh—Edgewood, 10; Finleyville, 6 35; Forest Grove (sab-sch, 2), 10; Long Island, 3 49; Mount Carmel, 2; Mount Olive, 2 75; Pittsburgh 1st sab-sch, 29 89; — 7th, 17 77; — Shady Side, 28 76. Redstone—Leisenring, 12 54. Shenango—Neshannock, 7 60; Washington—Pigeon Creek, 11 18. Wellsboro—Mount Jewett, 1. Westminster—Hopewell, 16; Leacock add'l, 1; Pequea, 20; Wrightsville, 10. 1,000 35

SOUTH DAKOTA—Southern Dakota—Bridgewater, 5; Turner Co. 1st German, 6. 11

TENNESSEE—Holston—Salem, 3. Union—Shannondale, 9 50. 12 50

TEXAS—Austin—Fort Davis, 5; San Antonio Madison Square, 2. 7

UTAH—Utah—Hyrum Emmanuel, 1 35; Huntingdon, 2 50. 3 85

WASHINGTON—Puget Sound—Seattle 1st, 33; Fairhaven 1st, 6 76. Olympia—Olympia 5 50. 45 26

WISCONSIN—Madison—Janesville 1st, 9 96. Milwaukee—Cedar Grove, 14; Manitowic, 1 25; Oostburg, 3. Winnebago—Florence, 23 44; Oconto, 10; Shawano, 3. 63 65

Total receipts from Churches, December, 1892 2,705 70
Total receipts from Sabbath-schools, December, 1892 116 66

$ 2,822 36

INCOME ACCOUNT.

105; 45; 112; 119; 84; 838 50; 63; 52 50; 21; 90 1,530

GRATITUDE FUND.

5; 5; 4; 10; 50 74

REFUNDED.

Jno. H. H., Charlestown, Ind., 103 103

MISCELLANEOUS.

Mrs. E. H. Bement, 1; F. L. Janeway, Esq., 175; Mrs. A. P. Thompson, 5; Easton, Pa., 1; Dr. Alex. Guy, 10; Special scholarships, 240; J. B. North, 1; A. Friend, 5; Rev. W. L. Tarbet and wife, 1 20; "C. Penna." 2; Rev. D. A. Wallace, 50 cents; Rev. J. G. Shinn, 5... 446 70

Total receipts in December, 1892 5,976 06

Total receipts from April 16, 1893 68,345 84

JACOB WILSON, Treasurer.

1334 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia

RECEIPTS FOR FOREIGN MISSIONS, DECEMBER, 1892.

ATLANTIC—Fairfield—Ebenezer, 1. South Florida—Crystal River, 10 80. 11 80

BALTIMORE—Baltimore—Baltimore Boundary Ave., 67 82; — Light St., 6 38; Emmitsburgh sab-sch, 35 46; — Christmas, 10; Frostburgh sab-sch, Christmas, 3 16. New Castle—Buckingham, 5 25; Forest, 18 50. Washington City—Washington City 4th, 18 93; — Assembly, 85, sab-sch, 40; — Covenant Y. P. S. C. E., 50; — North Capitol sab-sch, 1; — North Youtbs' Miss. Soc., 10; — Western sab-sch, 27. 378 50

CALIFORNIA—Benicia—Shiloh, 5. Los Angeles—Antelope Valley, 1; Carpenteria, 11 50; Elsinore, 7; Monticeto, 10; San Buenaventura, 46 60; San Fernando, 2; Santa Barbara, 17 80; Santa Monica, 11. Oakland—Livermore, 16. 127 90

COLORADO—Pueblo—Del Norte, 10; La Junta, 3 45; Pueblo, 171 80. 185 25

ILLINOIS—Alton—Chester, 3; Spring Cove, 10. Bloomington—Bement, 32 26; Normal Y. P. S. C. E., 9 25; Watseka Col., 7 50; Waynesville Y. P. S. C. E., 1 25. Cairo—Carbondale, 26; Tamaroa, 26 59. Chicago—Chicago 1st, 229 15; — 3d, 148 99; — 4th, 230 53; — Covenant, 3, sab-sch, 50; Evanston, 158 24; Lake Forest, 30; Lakeview, 35 15; — "A friend," 15; Libertyville Y. P. S. C. E., 20. Freeport—Galena South, 109 62; — South, 219 52; Middle Creek sab-sch, 21 17; Polo Independent, 10 10; Rockford 1st Y. P. S. C. E., 21 70. Maitoon—Charleston sab-sch, 219 69. Peoria—Elmwood, 5; Galesburg, 28 07; Princeville sab-sch, 12 25. Rock River—Edgington, 46; Franklin Grove Y. P. S. C. E., 5; Princeton sab-sch, 23 75; Sterling,

223 85, 25 73, sab-sch, 3 69. Schuyler—Macomb Y. P. S. C. E., 40 39; — Y. P. S. C. E. Junior, 9 61; Rushville, 50 08, sab-sch, 50 45 (sab-sch Christmas, 10 32); Wythe Y. P. S. C. E. salary of J. N. Hyde, 12 30. Springfield—Macon Y. P. S. C. E., 1 77; Murrayville, 7 59, sab-sch, 10; Pisgah, 6 42—Support of A. M. Cunningham, 100; Springfield Y. M. Society, 39; Unity, 28 50; Virginia, 18 87. 1,998 13

INDIANA—Crawfordsville—Darlington, 3; Fowler, 4; Lexington, 50. Fort Wayne—Fort Wayne 1st Y. P. S. C. E., 10; Huntingdon, 13; La Grange, 6. Indianapolis—Acton, 3 25. Logansport—Bedford Y. P. S. C. E., 10 30; Concord, 5; La Porte sab-sch Christmas, 19 12; Union, 3 36. Vincennes—Evansville Walnut St. Y. P. S. C. E., 20. White Water—Ebenezer, 5; Lewisville, 4. 156 08

IOWA—Cedar Rapids—Cedar Rapids 2d sab-sch, 25; — 3d Y. P. S. C. E., 5; Garrison, 13; Linn Grove, 10. Council Bluffs—Griswold, 5; Shelby, 4 89, sab-sch, 6 11; Villisca Y. P. S. C. E., 39. Des Moines—Chariton Y. P. S. C. E., 5; Laurel sab-sch Christmas, 5; Leon Jun. Y. P. S. C. E., 5; Newton sab-sch, 4 43; Milo, 16; Pella Holland, 23; Unionville, 3 20; Winterset sab-sch, 7 80. Dubuque—Hopkinton, 22 50; Walker, 1 70; Fort Dodge—Spirit Lake sab-sch Christmas, 3 28. Iowa—Bellevue sab-sch, 3 55; Chequest, 1; Montrose, 8; Mount Pleasant German, 23, sab-sch 7 00; Winfield, 11. Iowa City—Scott, 11 60; West Branch, 23 02. Stout City—Lion Co. 1st German, 25; Paulling, 5; Sac City Christmas, 12; Storm Lake Buena Vista Y. P. S. C. E., 12 30. Waterloo—Clarksburg, 20. 377 88

KANSAS—Emporia—Belle Plaine sab-sch, 1; Burlington,

47 75, sab-sch, 2 15, Y. P. S. C. E., 5; Salem Welsh, 3 25; Waverly, 38 77; Wichita Oak St., 15. Larned—Medicine Lodge sab-sch, 4 86. Neosho—Fort Scott 1st, 20; Parsons sab-sch, 7 07. Solomon—Belleville, 25; Lincoln, 13. Topeka—Auburn sab-sch, 13; Gardner, 5 75; Lawrence, 4 79; Vine-land, 7, sab-sch, 2. 210 39

KENTUCKY.—Louisville—Hopkinsville Y. P. S. C. E., 5, Louisville College St., 50 24;—Warren Memorial, 30. 75 26

MICHIGAN.—Detroit—Ann Arbor, 104 68; Detroit West-minster, 97 90;—“Two members,” 250; Milford United sab-sch Tabriz School, 15; Plymouth, 4 19; Stony Creek, 20 50. Flint—Marianne 1st Christmas, 5 25. Grand Rapids—Grand Rapids 1st, 58 14. Lake Superior—Iron River 1. Lansing—Battle Creek, 50; Homer, 51 25; Lansing 1st Y. P. S. C. E., 12 50. Monroe—Dover, 23; Monroe, 29 98. Petokey—Conway, 6; Petokey Miss Finch, 3 30. Saginaw—Bay City 1st, 14 81; W. Bay City Covenant, 5. 732 46

MINNESOTA.—Duluth—Duluth 2d, 5; Ely, 1 05. Mankato—Mankato Y. P. S. C. E., 9 07; Morgan, 2 88; St. James, 10; Windom, 5 05. Red River—Red Lake Falls, 9 30. St. Paul—Delano, 2 13; Litchfield, 75 75; Minne-apolis Franklin Avenue, 9 00, sab-sch, 9 00;—Highland Park Y. P. S. C. E., 10;—Westminster sab-sch, 29 29;—Westminster sab-sch (For Debra Doon, 60 00); St. Paul Arlington Hills sab-sch, Christmas, 3 60; Spring Grove Y. P. S. C. E., 16 65. Winona—Alden Y. P. S. C. E., 4 50. 261 73

MISSOURI.—Kansas City—Raymore, 12 65. Ozark—Ebenezer, 10. Palmira—Glasgow, 8 55. Platte—Dawn, 5 23; Graham, 5 31; Grant City sab-sch, 10 56; Lakeside sab-sch, 1 30; New Point* 6 31. St. Louis—Emanuel, German, 10, sab-sch, 12 51; Jonesboro, 3;—“R. H. J.,” 5. Kirkwood sab-sch, 46 40; Nazareth German L. M. S., 5; Salem German, 10; St. Louis 1st, 73 46;—Cote Bri-lhante Y. P. S. C. E., 1 33;—Washington & Compton Ave., 200;—Y. P. S. C. E., 50 00;—Westminster Y. P. S. C. E., 1 45; Webster Grove, 101 60, sab-sch, 6, Y. P. S. C. E., 9 90; Zoar, 10, sab-sch, 10. 616 21

NEBRASKA.—Hastings—Lebanon, 3; Minden Y. P. S. C. E., 5. Kearney—Wood River, 22. Nebraska City—Fair-mont, 15; Humboldt, 17 33; Seward, 18 88, sab-sch, 1 13; Utica, 6 00, sab-sch, 4 40. Niobrara—Inman, 3 70; Oak-dale, 3. Omaha—Omaha 2d Y. P. S. C. E., 23 37. 122 81

NEW JERSEY.—Corisco—Gabeon, 10. Elizabeth—Eliza-beth 3d, 102 50; Rahway German, 3. Jersey City—Jersey City 1st, 201 28;—Claremont sab-sch, 6;—Westminster sab-sch, 9 51; Tenafly, 65. Monmouth—Allentown, 50; Farmingdale, 9 63; Freehold, 15 44; Lakewood, 23 25. Morris and Orange—Madison, 69 73; Mendham 1st, Y. P. S. C. E., 2 12;—2d Y. P. S. C. E., 2 13; Morristown South Street, 1,383 61; New Vernon, 25 90; Summit Central, 258; Wyoming, 15 29; Vailsburgh, 10 84. Newark—Caldwell (Sal. Wm. Lane), 300; Newark 3d, 430 54;—Calvary, 13 88;—High Street, 453 37;—Park, 38 41;—Roseville sab-sch, 50;—South Park, 44 68;—Wickliffe, 53 34;—Woodside, 22 90. New Brunswick—Dutch Neck, 11 09, sab-sch, 38 91; Trenton Prospect Street, 33. Newton—Asbury, 100; Belvidere 2d, 23 50; Oxford 2d, 30 78. West Jersey—Atlantic City, 50; Merchantville sab-sch, Christ-mas, 40; Osborne Mem'l, 10. 4,002 16

NEW YORK.—Albany—Albany 2d, 197 12;—State Street sab-sch, 230;—West End, 40; Ballston Centre, 14; Esper-ance, 16 15; Princetown, 28 68; Saratoga Springs 1st sab-sch, 16 50; Voorheesville, 12; West Galway sab-sch, Christmas, 2 70. Binghamton—Cortland, 65 21, debt 78 78. Boston—Fall River Globe, 5 18; Houlton, 20. Brooklyn—Brooklyn 1st Mon. Con. 21 43;—Lafayette Avenue sab-sch, 100;—Ross Street, 145 64; Friedens-kirche, 25;—South 3d Street, 25 15;—Westminster Y. P. S. C. E., 8 74; West New Brighton Calvary, sab sch, 40. Buffalo—Buffalo Central, 115 55;—East, 12, sab-sch, 17 06;—Lafayette Street, 41 17; Tonawanda, 66. Cayuga—Cayuga, Christmas, 2; Meridian, 30. Chemung—Big Flats, Rev. E. T. Scholl, 4; Elmira Lake Street “Debt,” 5 32. Geneva—Canandaigua, 34; Geneva North, 2,058 47; Naples Y. P. S. C. E., Christmas, 3; Seneca Castle, 2 10. Hudson—Good Will, 5 94; Haverstraw 1st sab-sch, 10 60; Liberty sab-sch, 9 25; Livingston Manor, 5; Monroe, 50; Ramapo, Sal. Geo. A. Ford, 498 88; West Town, 37. Long Island—Bridgehampton, 30 92; Port Jefferson, 20 31; Selden, 2. Lyons—Sodus, 16 28. Nassau—Fresh Pond sab-sch, 5; “A Pastor,” 2 50; Hempstead Christ’s Church sab-sch, 25; Islip sab-sch, 7 55; Melville sab-sch, 2. New York—New York 1st, 20;—1st Union Y. P. S. C. E., 14;—5th Avenue Y. P. Asso., 34;—14th Street Y. P. S. C. E., for Mr. Snyder, 19 37;—Good Will sab-sch, 75;—14th Street Y. P. S. C. E., 25;—Central Y. P. S. C. E., 65;—for Mr. Snyder, 65;—Covenant, 350;—Rutgers River-side, 50;—University Place sab-sch, 100;—West End Y. P. Asso.,* 4 40;—sab-sch,* 21 05. Niagara—Lock-port 1st, Sal. Miss Murray, 54 84. North River—Lloyd Y. P. S. C. E., 20; Milton, 6; Newburgh 1st, 205;—Cal-vary, 17 50; Wappinger’s Creek sab-sch, 5;—Falls, Y. P.

S. C. E., 8. Otsego—Springfield, 14 01; Stamford sab-sch, Christmas, 21. Rochester—Genesee 1st, 20; Genesee Vil-lage sab-sch, 60; Groveland sab-sch, 3 36; Mount Morris, 44 25;—Y. P. S. C. E., 2 74; Rochester 3d Y. P. S. C. E., 16 53;—Brick, 216 76, sab-sch, Christmas, 48 07;—North, 128; Sparta 1st sab-sch, Christmas, 11 20. St. Lawrence—Watertown 1st Y. P. S. C. E., support of Mr. Chatterjee, 29. Steuben—Andover,* 5 25. Syracuse—Amboy, 21; Canastota, 25; Cazenova, 21; Chittenango sab-sch, 23. Troy—Brunswick, 20 31; Cohoes sab-sch, Christmas, 10; Glens Falls sab-sch, 50; Hoosic Falls, 2; Middle Granville sab-sch, Christmas, 4 30; Troy Woodside, R. Davidson, 2 50; Waterford, 31 79. Utica—Rome, 26 56. Westchester—Bedford Y. P. S. C. E., 15; Bridgeport sab-sch,* 28 64; Greenburgh, 265 14; Irvington sab-sch,* 7 37; Mt. Vernon Y. P. S. C. E., 5; Peekskill 1st sab-sch, 125; Rye sab-sch, 33 59; Thompsonville, 166. 6,967 78

NORTH DAKOTA.—Bismarck—Albert Barnes, 2. Fargo—Wheatland 10. Fembina—Canton, 7. 20

OHIO.—Athens—Gallipolis sab-sch, 3; Marietta Y. P. S. C. E., sal. of H. D. Griswold, 100; Warren, 3. Bellevor-taine—Spring Hills, 23 53; West Liberty sab-sch, 1 26. Chillicothe—Chillicothe 1st sab sch,* 8 56; Concord, 6 65. Cincinnati—Cincinnati North, 17 23; Elizabeth and Berea, 6; Westwood German, 4. Cleveland—Ashtabula, 16 06; Cleveland 1st, 464; Guilford, 17 76, sab sch, 1 25; Rome sab-sch, 5. Columbus—Columbus 2d, 100, sab-sch, 61 05. Dayton—Springfield 2d, 134 18. Huron—Chicago, 4 43. Lima—St. Mary’s sab-sch,* 14 42, Christmas, 23 07; Wapa-koneta sab-sch, 8. Mahoning—Middle Sandy, 15 30; New Lisbon sab-sch, 31 74; Youngstown 1st, 50. Marion—Brown, 3 28; Iberia sab-sch,* 5; Kingston, 4 03; Marys-ville, 15 38; Mount Gilead sab-sch, 3 43; Porter, 3 23; West Berlin, 5 19. Maumee—Weston sab-sch, 3 15. Portsmouth—Hanging Rock sab-sch, Christmas, 12 36; Ripley, 24 74; sab-sch, 15; Sardinia, 5. St. Clairsville—Concord, 38 12; Kirkwood sab-sch, 20 10; Lore City, 18; Powhatan, 1; Short Creek, 1 50; Wheeling Valley, 5. Steubenville—Annapolis, 12, sab-sch, 4 00; Buchanan Chapel, 7 75; Island Creek, 15; Steubenville 2d Y. P. S. C. E.,* 7 50. Wooster—Ashland Y. P. S. C. E., 20; Doylestown, 21 26; Hopewell, 50. Zanesville—Granville, 40 90; Madison, 38; Newark Salem German,* 3 20; Zanesville 2d, 35 30. 1,557 86

PENNSYLVANIA.—Allegheny—Allegheny North sab-sch, 100; Concord, 2. Blairstown—Beulah, 38 84. Butler—Concord, 17 74. Carlisle—Buffalo, 4; Carlisle 1st, 57; Centre, 7; Harrisburgh Calvary Y. P. S. C. E., 25; Lan-disburgh, 7; Monaghan, 35 23; Petersburg, 3 19; Upper, 4. Chester—Bryn Mawr, 1,449 16; Charlestown, 2 60; Doe Run, 7. Clarion—Beech Woods, 5; Johnsonburg, 1 52; Wilcox, 2 53. Erie—Cambridge, 10; Erie 1st, 79 95;—Park sab-sch, 50; North East, 175 01; Waterford sab-sch Miss. Soc., 20. Huntingdon—Bedford sab-sch, Christmas, 12; Beulah, 8 50; Clearfield sab-sch, Christmas, 12; Lewistown sab-sch, 160; Lost Creek, 34 75, sab-sch, Christmas, 3 35; Lower Tuscarora, 37; Mapleton, 8 60, sab-sch, 5. Osceola, 19 54, sab-sch,* 5; West Kishacoquillas, 48 61. Kittanning—Cherry Tree, 4; Kittanning 1st, “a member,” 250; Worthington sab-sch, 4 25. Lackawanna—Bethany, 1 77; Carbondale, sal. J. A. Fitch, 43; Great Bend, 8; Montrose, 100; Scranton Washburn Street, 77; Y. P. S. C. E., 75;—Hickory Street German sab-sch, 50; Towanda Y. P. S. C. E., 32 79. Lehigh—Baagor, 3 50; Lehigh, 5; Mahanoy City, 15 82; Middle Smithfield, 4 92; Pottsville 2d, 13. Northumberland—Berwick sab-sch,* 13; Elysburg, 3; Jersey Shore, 92; Mifflinburg, 11; Williamsport 2d Y. P. S. C. E., 21 84; Rush Creek, 3. Parkerburg—Slatersville, 5 25. Philadelphia—Philadel-phia 9th, 133;—10th sab sch, 13 50;—Holland Mem-orial, 43;—Mariner’s, 6;—Tabor, 100, sab-sch, 52 13;—Woodland sab-sch, Christmas, 17 05;—Cohocksink sab sch, 11 20;—Gaston Mem’l Y. P. S. C. E., 29;—Patterson Mem’l, 25, Y. P. S. C. E., 5;—Susquehanna Avenue 25;—West Arch Street, 567 71, sab-sch, 114 05. Philadelphia North—Chestnut Hill, 106; Doylestown “Special,” 18; Frankford Y. P. S. C. E., 3 90; Harmon sab-sch, 25; Nesaminy of Warminster sab-sch, 10 50;—Warwick, 30; Norristown Central, 116 28. Pittsburgh—Edgewood, 58; Fairview sab-sch, 3; Mount Olive, 8; Oak-dale, 16 10; Pittsburgh East Liberty, 141;—Park Avenue sab-sch Bible Class, 13;—Shady Side, 69; Point Breeze, J. G. Stephenson, 1,000; Sharon, 23 69. Redstone—Reho-both, 5; Tent 5 93; Uniontown sab sch, 50. Washington—Cross Creek, 10; New Cumberland, 100; Upper Buffalo sab sch, 7 93; Washington 2d sab-sch, Christmas, 32;—3d, 140 27; Wellaburg, 28 09; West Alexander, 150; Wheeling 1st “M. H.,” 75. Wellaburg—Farmington, 3 48; Mount Jewett, 3; Tioga, 5. Westminster—Chestnut Level, 46 73; Hopewell, 17; Mount Nebo, 4; York West-minster Debt, 50. 6,901 23

SOUTH DAKOTA.—Central Dakota—Manchester, 5. Da-kota—Poplar Creek, 20. Southern Dakota—Canistota, 5;

Sioux Falls sab-sch, 8 75; Bonn Homme, 5; Emanuel, 3; Turner County 1st, German, 15. 61 75
 TENNESSEE.—Holston—Salem, 38. 38
 TEXAS.—Austin—Austin 1st, 100; — Y. P. S. C. E., 13 75. North Texas—Valley Creek, 5. 118 75
 UTAH.—Utah—Ephraim, 1 00; sab-sch, 3 00; Manti sab-sch, 5. 9 00
 WASHINGTON.—Walla Walla—Kendrick, 3 00. 3 00
 WISCONSIN.—La Crosse—Neillsville, 21 76. Madison—Lancaster, 1; Liberty, 1 50; Plattville German, 13 55; sab-sch, 5 00; Poynette Y. P. S. C. E., 12 90; Reedsburgh Y. P. S. C. E., 1 20. Milwaukee—Milwaukee Calvary sab-sch, 6 25; — Grace sab-sch, 8. Winnebago—Oconto Y. P. S. C. E., 31 79. 102 95

WOMAN'S BOARDS.

Women's Board of New York, 8,833 70; South West, 497 30; North West, 5,885; Occidental Board, 2,252 30. $ 16,968 30

LEGACIES.

Estate of Emilia S. Hequembourg, dec'd, 100; Estate of Eliza Gallagher, dec'd, 475; Estate of Edward Hill, dec'd, 500; Estate of Mary Van Schoonhoven, dec'd, 1,500; Estate of Mary Stuart, dec'd, subject to Refunding Bond and Interest, 50,000; Estate of Alexander Cook, dec'd, 816 48; Edwards' Estate, 250. $ 53,641 48

MISCELLANEOUS.

M. W. G., 2 00; Monticello (Minn.) sab-sch, 1 55; A. P. Logan, Nova Scotia, 5 00; Eliz. and Mary E. Sill, Geneva, N. Y., for Native Helper, 44 00; Savings of Robert McA. Baldwin, dec'd, 6 00; Rev. W. B. Carr, Latrobe, Pa., 30 00; "M. W.," 6 40; The Misses Patterson for India and Brazil, 10 00; Convention of German Ministers and Elders of the East, support of a native preacher under G. A. Goddard, Africa, 80 00; Mission School—Hot Springs, Ark., 5 44; Miss S. V. Stryker, 1 00; Misses Bassett, 1 00; Mrs. J. E. Dorland, 1 00; Rev. L. Dorland, 1 55; D. B. Gamble, Cincinnati, O., salary of Dr. Garvin, 25 00; "Substituta," native preacher in China, 30 00; Maria Rappelye, Palermo, Kansas, 5 00; Rev. H. P. McHenry, Oceanville, L. I., 2 68; "W. P. S.," 25 00; Rev. J. G. Cowden, Polo, Ill., for Native preacher in China, 25 00; From a friend in Princeton, 100 00; The Misses Masters, Dobbs Ferry, N. Y., 23 60; Rev. J. S. Craig, Noblesville, Ind., 12 00; F. L. Janeway, N. Y., 1,805 00; Y. M. and Y. W. C. A., of Normal University, for Native preacher, 100 00; E. F. Biddle, Ft. Wayne, Ind., 5 00; Jno. T. Williston, Ashland, N. Y., 4 00; Boys of Burnham Industrial Farm, work of J. J. Lucas, 3 10; Mrs. Jno. B. Davidson, 30 00; "M. G. M.," 10 00; J. H. and W. A. Van Schoick, Perrineville, N. J., 4 00; Alvin Cooper, Jefferson, N. Y., 25 cts.; Miss Sarah E. Thornton, Millersburg, Ill., 2 00; Rev. Alexander Guy, Oxford, O., 10 00; Mrs. Martha H. Clark, Sharon, Wis., 3 00; Rev. E. Thompson and wife, Taylorsville, Ill., 5 00; Students and Faculty of McCormick Theological Seminary, salary of T. G. Braashear, 126 10; Mrs. R. G. Houdin, North Greece, N. Y., 5 00; "In Memoriam," Turin, N. Y., 54 00; "Edwin," 25 00; I. O. C., 5 00; Congregational Society of E. Bloomfield, N. Y., 28 00; Missionary Society of Wooster University, support of Henry Forman, 50 00; Rev. J. G. Craighead, 50 00; Jno. C. Giffen, Crawford, Neb., 5 00; A. D. A. Miller, Buffalo, N. Y., 100 00; Congregational Church, Delavan, Wis., 40 00; Chinese in New York, 125 00; Robert Lamb, N. Y., 50 cents; M. Stewart, Titusville, Pa., 500 00; "M. E. and W. M.," 25 00; Mr. G. G. Williams, N. Y., 100; Mrs. M. E. Harrington, Troy, N. Y., 10 00; J. D. Rexford, Jonesville, Wis., 50 00; "G. W. M.," Dayton, Pa., 10 00; G. A. White, Hurley, South Dakota, 8 35; Rev. W. L. Tarbet and wife, 5 60; "C. Penna.," 23 00; Miss Rosa Stannus, Tacoma, Wash., 10 00; Miss Edna Jones, 20 00; Neri Ogden, Fairfield, Ia., 25 00; J. B. Wood and Sister, Sprout, Ky., 25 00; P. McClintock, Pittsburgh, Pa., Xmas, 12 50; Rev. D. A. Wallace, Pontiac, Ill., 3 30; "Donor," Perth Amboy, N. J., 50 cts.; E. O. Emerson, Titusville, Pa., 666 67; Martha G. Patton, Palestine, Ill., 2 00; Rev. S. H. Stevenson, 3 00; Rev. and Mrs. G. W. Chamberlain, Brazil, 75 00; Pupils of Sidon Seminary, 12 00; Copalpo Church, Chili, 20 00; S. Aten, Nevada, O., 55 00; "Persian returned Missionary," 15 00; E. A. Ford, Africa, 10 00; Rents from Princeton Property, 247 10. $ 4,951 10

Total receipts during December, 1892. $100,407 20
 Total receipts from May 1st, 1891, to December 31, 1891. 308,288 58
 Total receipts from May 1st, 1892, to December 31, 1892. 339,496 25

WILLIAM DULLER, JR., Treasurer,
 53 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

*Offerings on Columbus Day for Foreign Missions on the Western Hemisphere.

RECEIPTS FOR HOME MISSIONS, DECEMBER, 1892.

ATLANTIC.—East Florida—South Lake Weir, 11 15; Starke, 2 88; Waldo, 10. South Florida—Auburndale, 11; Tarpon Springs, 3 20. 38 17
 BALTIMORE.—Baltimore—Baltimore Boundary Avenue Y. P. Miss. Soc., 26 46; — Brown Memorial, 215 86; Deer Creek Harmony, 11 60; Emmittsburgh sab-sch, 20 66; Hampden add'l, 1; Pine Creek Miss. L. C., 20; Taneytown, 35; Waverly Y. P. S. C. E., 17 33. New Castle—Felton, 2 25; Green Hill (sab-sch, 20), 31 50; Harrington, 6 13; Newark 1st, 16 25; Pitt's Creek (sab-sch, 8), 34. Washington City—Clifton, 14; Hermon, 9; Washington City 4th, 47 75; — Covenant Y. P. S. C. E., 40; — Western S. S. Miss. Soc., 37. 5 58
 CALIFORNIA.—Los Angeles—Carpenteria, 17 25; Fillmore, 2; Los Angeles 2nd, 30 77; Pomona 1st, 84; San Diego 1st, 55 73; San Fernando, 1; Santa Ana 1st, 48 65; Santa Barbara 1st, 17 60; Santa Monica 1st, 12; Ventura, 46 60. Oakland—Alvarado, 18 45; Centreville, 6 55; Oakland 1st sab-sch (Primary Department, 7 82), 17 82; Yalona, (sab-sch, 4 85), 14 85. Sacramento—Vacaville, 15. San Jose—Felton (Greenwood Station, 2), 4; Watsonville, 19 80. Stockton—Sonora sab-sch, 50 cents. 407 77
 COLORADO.—Boulder (sab-sch, 5 00), 71; Brush, 6; Cheyenne 1st, 10; Fort Collins S. S. Thank offg, 3; Rawlins (sab-sch, 12 50), 42 50. Denver—Denver 1st Avenue, 53 35; — Westminster, 9; Otis (sab-sch, 4), 20; Platner German, 3; Yuma (sab-sch, 1), 3 25. Gunnison—Grand Junction (sab-sch, 3 21), 15; Oury sab-sch, 5. Pueblo—Colorado Springs 1st, 161 19; Florissant, 8 40; La Junta, 8 91; Monte Vista, 100; Pueblo 1st, 10 74; Trinidad 1st, 18 35; Valley View, 7. 576 30
 ILLINOIS.—Alton—Chester 1st, 6; Litchfield sab-sch, 7; No. Alton Mission Y. P. S. C. E., 2 65; Spring Cove, 10; Upper Alton (sab-sch, 5), 10. Cairo—Fairfield, 5 45; Flora, 12; Nashville, 3; Odin (sab-sch, 30 cts.) (Y. P. S. C. E., 70 cts.), 5; Ta maroa, 2 85. Chicago—Chicago 1st, 149 45; — 3d, 340; — 4th (sab-sch, 75), 4,235 07; — 8th, 180; — Calvary, 3; — Christ Chapel, 23 87; — Covenant (sab-sch, 50), 58; — Olivet, 3 68; Evanston, 146 16; Hinsdale, 19 80; Oak Park 1st, 164 45; Riverside, 16 80. Freeport—Galena 1st, 24 55; — South, 98 70; Polo Independent, 21; Rockford Westminster, 23 40. Mattoon—Bethel, 4; Morrisonville, 20; Tower Hill, 20. Ottawa—Aurora, 3 50. Peoria—Elmwood, 5; Galesburg (Jno. Irwin), 50 70; Green Valley, 3; Peoria 1st German, 1 58. Rock River—Ashton, 10; Morrison sab-sch 3 23; Newton sab-sch, 2 80; Rock Island Broadway, 60. Schuyler—Augusta sab-sch, 10; Camp Point (sab-sch, 6 50), 36 50; Carthage, 19 50; Monmouth 1st (sab-sch, 21 38), 26 63; Mount Sterling, 62 56; Rushville sab-sch, 38 93. Springfield—Jacksonville Westminster, 115 25; Mason City, 20; Murrayville (sab-sch, 7), 18 90; Pisgah, 5 67; Virginia, 18 88; Rev. W. L. Tarbet and wife, 4 80. 6,158 77

 INDIANA.—Fort Wayne—Kingsland, 3 25. Logansport—La Porte sab-sch, 46. Muncie—Rev. J. S. Craig, D. D., 10. 59 25
 INDIAN TERRITORY.—Cherokee Nation—Eureka Thank offering, 4. Muscogee—Nuyaka Mission, 15. Oklahoma—El Reno (sab-sch, 5 78), 10; Kingfisher, 10; Oklahoma City L. Soc., 10. 49 00
 IOWA.—Cedar Rapids—Cedar Rapids 1st, 240 52; — 2d, 65; — 3d (Y. P. S. C. E., 10) (sab-sch, 3 50), 59 25; Clinton, 70; Mount Vernon, 25; Springfield, 10. Council Bluffs—Conway add'l, c. 1; Council Bluffs 1st, 184 83; Griswold, 5; Logan, 8; Shelby, 12 50. Des Moines—Charlton, 60; East

NOTE.—Churches marked c belong in the new Presbytery of Corning.

Des Moines, 58 60; Leon Jr. Y. P. S. C. E., 5; Milo, 30; Newton sab-sch, 4 43; Winterset sab-sch, 7 80. Dubugue—Independence 1st, 49 58;—German L. M. S., 30; Otterville, 2 50; Pleasant Grove, 11 50. Fort Dodge—Bethel 14 43; Carroll, 10; Churdan, 7 56; Dana, 7 88; Fonda (sab-sch, 1), 16; Grand Junction, 23 72; Luverne, 4 2; Rolfe 2d (sab-sch, 4 04), 11 35; Wheatland German, 8. Iowa—Burlington Hope, 13 04; Chequest, 1 87; Lebanon 4 20; Montrose, 15; New London, 9; Troy, 4 93. Iowa City—Fairview, 8 17; Iowa City, 60; Marengo 1st, 5 02. Sioux City—Hospers 1st, 4; Larrabee, 16 65; Lyon Co. 1st German, 25; Le Mars, 97 21; Mt. Pleasant, 5 40; Sioux City 4th, 5; Sulphur Springs Providence, 4 37. Waterloo—Ackley, 96; Albion, 6 50; Applington (Y. P. S. C. E., 2), 27 01; Williams, 6 66. 1,431 33

KANSAS.—Emporia—Belle Plaine Y. P. S. C. E., 1 25; Burlingame Y. P. S. C. E., 3 35; Geuda Springs, 10; Quenemo, 7; Salem Welsh, 3 25; Wichita West Side, 5 60; Wichita Lincoln Street, 8 05; Willsie, 5. Highland—Blue Rapids, 17. Larned—Ashland, 10; Coldwater, 5. Neosho—Chanute, 12 83; Girard, 55; Osawatimie, 10; Parker, 5 62; Parsons sab-sch, 7 08. Solomon—Abilene 1st, 13 09; Cheever, 6; Ellsworth Y. P. S. C. E., 5, 14; Manchester 1st, 3; Minneapolis (Special, 10), 54 82; Poheta Y. P. S. C. E., 5. Topeka—Auburn, 9 75; Kansas City, Grand View Park sab-sch, 10 52 (Y. P. S. C. E., 2), 25;—Western Highlands, 17 10;—First, 100 50; Topeka 1st, 207. 630 29

KENTUCKY.—Ebenezer—Frankfort 1st, 50; Sharpsburg, 6 25. Louisville—Louisville College Street, 36 91; Warren Memorial, 206 30. Transylvania—Lancaster, 8. 407 46

MICHIGAN.—Detroit—Birmingham (sab-sch, 3 35), 14; Detroit 1st, 600;—Baker Street, 5;—Trumbull Avenue sab-sch, 50;—Westminster, 2 members, 250; Northville 1st, 17; Springfield sab-sch Infant Class, 11 25; Stony Creek, 5; Ypsilanti 1st, 18 75. Flint—Fenton, 13; Flint, 53; Flynn, 2; Grindstone City, 3 84; Huron, 1 30; Hayes' School House, 3; Linden, 6; Mariette 1st, 4; Mundy, 10; Otter Lake, 1 50; Port Austin, 3. Grand Rapids—Grand Haven 1st, 25 74. Lake Superior—Iron River, 3; Manistique Redeemer (Y. P. S. C. E., 10), 50 56; Marquette 1st, Y. P. S. C. E., 23 83; Menominee, 60 71. Lansing—Battle Creek 1st, 35; Eckford, 6 14; Hastings, 30 84; Homer, 5; Lansing 1st, (Mrs. Howell's Chapel Class of Boys, 2), 7 63; Tekonsha, 8. Petoskey—Elmira, 6 70; Petoskey 1st, (Miss L. Finch), 3. Saginaw—Bay City 1st, 10 92. 1,336 71

MINNESOTA.—Duluth—Ely, 1 50; Lakeside, 18; McNair Memorial, 4; St. James, 6. St. Paul—Buffalo, m, 15; Delano, m, 3 70; Farmington, 3; Minneapolis Westminster m, (sab-sch, 28 07), 713 88; Reiderland German, St. C., 4; Rockford m, 11 30; St. Paul Arlington Hills, 35;—Central, 43 48. Winona—Albert Lea, 71 90; Ebenezer, 5 60; Frank Hill German, 15; Winona German, 17. 969 36

MISSOURI.—Kansas City—Drexel, 2; Sedalia Central, (sab-sch, 9 55), 65. Ozark—Carthage 1st, 26 53; Golden City, 5 50; Lockwood, 7 25; Mount Vernon 16; Ozark Prairie, 10; Springfield 2d sab-sch, 3 60;—Calvary, 34 27; White Oak, 12 25. Platte—Graham, 8 15; Grant City, 11 65; King City Xmas Off'g, 9; Maryville 1st, 25; New Point, 8 11; Parkville Lakeside sab-sch, 3 10; Tarkio, 63; Weston, 4 20; Rev. Jas. Reed, 2. St. Louis—Bethel German sab-sch, 10; Kirkwood sab-sch, 33 99; Nazareth German (sab-sch, 3), (L. M. S., 4), 10; Pleasant Hill, 7; Salem German Ladies' Society, 10; St. Louis 1st, 91 47;—Cote Brilliante Y. P. S. C. E., 6 50;—Lafayette Park, 150;—Washington and Compton Avenue add'l, 200;—West Miss'y Society, 12 79; Rev. R. H. Jackson, 3. 853 31

NEBRASKA.—Hastings—Holdrege 1st, 17 30; Lebanon, 4; Oxford, 9 37; Wilsonville, 3 50. Kearney—Fullerton, 53 62; Sumner, 3 74. Nebraska City—Alexandria sab-sch, 7 10; Diller, 17 19; Firth, 2 11; Hubbell sab-sch, 3 40; Lincoln 3d, 20 55; Nebraska City 1st, 7; Seward (sab-sch, 1 60), 19; Utica, 11 40; York 1st (cash, 5), 44 59; Rev. T. L. Sexton and wife, 10; Rev. and Mrs. J. W. Hill, 10. Niobrara—Elgin, 3; Oakdale, 3. Omaha—Bellevue, 26 27; Grandview, 6 15; Omaha Clifton Hill, 1 80; Silver Creek, 3; Tekamah, 37 65; Webster, 10. 334 74

NEW JERSEY.—Elizabeth—Basking Ridge add'l member, 3; Springfield, 15. Jersey City—Tenafly, 40. Monmouth—Allentown, 50; Cranbury 2d, 20; Manasquan, 31 38; Matawan Aaron Longstreet, 200; Moorestown 1st add'l, 22; Oceanica 1st, 24. Morris and Orange—Madison, 36 23; Mt. Olive, 15; Pleasant Grove (Little Brook sab-sch, 4), 26 84; Rockaway, 87 50; St. Cloud, 120 30; Wyoming, 6 29. Newark—Montclair 1st Aid, 50; Newark 5th Avenue, 37;—Calvary, 9 23;—Memorial, 16 15;—Park (sab-sch, 44 42), 91 85;—South Park sab-sch, 105 01.

NOTE.—Churches marked m are in the new Presbytery of Minneapolis, and those marked St. C. are in the new Presbytery of St. Cloud.

Wickliffe, 44 86. New Brunswick—Ewing, 13 62; Frenchtown, 31 67; New Brunswick 1st, 245 35; Stockton, 11; Trenton 1st, 2. Newton-Oxford 2d (sab-sch, 13 61), 41 82. West Jersey—Blackwoodtown, 50; Camden 2d (sab-sch, 5), 40; Merchantville S. S. Miss. Soc. Christmas, 40; Salem 1st, 73 75. 1,710 56

NEW MEXICO.—Santa Fe—Las Vegas 1st, 10; Taos, 2 15; Rev. J. M. Whitlock, 10. 22 15

NEW YORK.—Albany—Albany 2d, 161 48;—3d, 53 94; Esperance sab-sch, 2; Jefferson add'l, 2; Saratoga Springs 1st sab-sch, 15. Binghamton—Smithville Flats, 5; Windsor, 20; Boston—Boston 1st, 57 47; Houlton, 20; Roxbury sab-sch, 5; South Boston 5th, 5 76. Brooklyn—Brooklyn Classon Avenue, 848 23;—Duryea, 160;—Lafayette Avenue (S. S. Miss. Asso'n, 100) (M. C., 53 86), 378 86;—Ross Street, 154 26;—Throop Avenue, 81; Westminster M. C., 12 93. Buffalo—Buffalo Lafayette Street, 41 18; Silver Creek, 13 49; Tonawanda 1st, 7. Cayuga—Auburn 2d, 70 21; Ithaca 1st, bal, 5; Sennett, 12. Champlain—Moorea, 25; Plattsburgh 1st, 108 21. Columbia—Durham 1st Y. P. S. C. E., 1 40. Geneva—Batavia, 155 12. Geneva—Canandaigua 1st, 20; Geneva 1st, 33 30; Gorham sab-sch, 14 23; Romulus sab-sch, 25; Seneca, 51; Waterloo, 21 70. Hudson—Good Will, 5 40; Goshee, 138 86; Hamptonburg, 35; Haverstraw 1st sab-sch, 10 60; Otisville, 23 26; West Town, 35. Long Island—Bridgehampton (sab-sch, 5 06) (Y. P. S. C. E., 10), 40 61; Selden, 1. Lyons—Williamson, 4 67. Nassau—Freeport, 40; Hempstead Christ Church sab-sch, 25; Islip sab-sch, 55; Melville sab-sch, 2 03; a Pastor, 2 50. New York—New York 1st M. C., 53 19;—1st Union C. E. Soc., 7;—4th Ave, 18 44;—5th Ave (three members Young Ladies' Branch H. and F. M. Soc., 215), 9,053 95;—14th St, 154 30;—Adams Memorial, 20;—Brick add'l, 200;—Central Y. P. S. C. E., 65;—Harlem sab-sch, 29;—Madison Avenue, 318 61;—Rutgers Riverside, 50;—West 51st Street, 12 50. Niagara—Knowlesville Mrs. Lora Johnson, 5. North River—Wappinger's Creek, 30;—Falls 1st, 20. Otego—Oneonta, 90. Rochester—Groveland sab-sch, 6 21; Mendon, 5; Mount Morris 1st Y. P. S. C. E., 2 74; Nunda 1st sab-sch, 4 73; Pittsford, 78; Rochester Brick (sab-sch Christmas off'g, 48 07), 348 07; Wheatland 1st, 35. St. Lawrence—Canton, 52 50; Cape Vincent, 6; Oswegatchie 2d, 5; Ox Bow, 20 56; Watertown 1st, 200. Steuben—Addison, 7 61; Cuba and Thank off'g, 8 86; Hornellville 1st, 14 34. Syracuse—Canastota personal gift, 30; Cazenovia Torrey League, 25; Chittenango sab-sch, 25; East Syracuse, 8; Liverpool, 4; Marcellus, 24 75; Syracuse Memorial, 7. Troy—Hoosick Falls, 41 50; Lansingburgh Olivet, 21 25; Salem 1st seven members, 35; Troy 2d, 113 44;—Memorial sab-sch, 9 60;—Oakford Avenue, 27;—Park, 29 16;—Woodside E. Davidson, 2 50; Waterford 1st, 15 89. Utica—Augusta, 5; Kirkland, 20; New Hartford, 46; Rome 1st, 73 59. Westchester—Bridgeport, 131 09; Greenburgh, 266 97; New Rochelle 1st, 120; Peekskill 2d, 95 89; South Salem sab-sch, 33 51; Yonkers 1st, 247 66. 15,414 84

NORTH DAKOTA.—Bismarck—Glencoe Albert Barnes add'l, 6. Fargo—Blanchard, 5; Hunter, 5. Pembina—Drayton, 10; Minot 7; Park River, 15 40. 48 40

OHIO.—Athens—Gallipolis sab-sch, 3. Bellefontaine—Bucyrus, 36 35; Urbana 1st, (Long's Station, 5), 73 51; West Liberty sab-sch, 1 20. Chillicothe—Greenfield 1st, 139 80; Salem, 111. Cincinnati—Bethel (sab-sch, 9 38), 7 18; Elizabeth and Berea, 5; Sharonville, 4 44; Springfield, 18 30; Westwood, 15 62;—German, 5; Wyoming, 75. Columbus—Central College, 32 15. Dayton—Dayton 1st add'l, 2; Oxford, a friend, 22; Piqua, 59 50; Troy 1st, 104 46. Huron—Fostoria 1st, 25; Monroeville, 2 15; Olena, 10. Lima—Convoy (sab-sch, 5), 11 60; Findlay 1st, 71; Harrison, 4; Middlepoint, 4 13. Mahoning—Mansfield 2d, 66 40; New Lisbon 1st, 35 28. Marion—Cardington, 12 50; Jerome, 2 50; Mount Gilead sab-sch, 3 49; Ostrander, 10. Maumee—Toledo 1st, 148 01; Waterville, 3. Portsmouth—Ripley (sab-sch, 25), (Thank Offering, 15), 53 85. St. Clairsville—Caldwell, 3; Concord, 41 12; Lore City, 14; Martin's Ferry 1st, 13 42; Mount Pleasant, 14 91; Olive, 7; Powhattan, 1; Rock Hill, 26; Washington, 19 30. Steubenville—Beech Spring, 22; Long's Run, 12 76; New Philadelphia, 15; Scio, 6; Steubenville 1st, 32 05; Steubenville 2d, 75 50; Two Ridges add'l, 1; Ulrichsville sab-sch, 6. Wooster—Fredericksburg, 40; Shreve, 6. Zanesville—Chandlersville, 4 75; Coahocton, 40; Homer, 10; Kirksville, 6; Mt. Zion, 3. 1,598 41

OREGON.—Portland—Fairview Smith Memorial, 4. So. Oregon—Grant's Pass sab-sch, 13 30. Williamette—McCoy, 3 46. 20 76

PENNSYLVANIA.—Allegheny—Allegheny 1st, 817 27; McClure Avenue, 286 05; Avalon, 18; Cross Roads, 5; Freedom, 7; Glasgow, 1 40; Glenahaw (sab-sch, 2 25), 22 25; Highlands, 22; Pine Creek 2nd, 8; Plains, 4; "M. G. M.", 10. Blairsville—Beulah (sab-sch, 30) 65 13; Greensburgh 1st, 111 85; Johnstown, 39 30; Manor, 7; New Salem, 33 12.

Plum Creek (sab-sch, 15) 25. Butler—Butler, 208 08; Prospect, 6. Carlisle—Buffalo, 6; Centre, 10; Chambersburg Central, 84 07; Dickinson Sab-sch., 2; Harrisburgh Olivet, 9 87; Pine Street, sab-sch, 150; Landisburgh, 8; Lebanon Fourth Street, sab-sch, 5; Upper, 6. Chester—Ashmun, 25; Charlestown, 2 50; Chester 1st, sab-sch, 13 80; Coatesville, 18; East Whiteland, 2 94; Kennett Square, 16; Oxford 1st, 153 48; West Chester 1st, 30 48. Clarion—Johnsonburg, 1 43; Wilcox, 2 38. Erie—Atlantic 1st, 5 70; Cambridge (sab-sch, 5) 15; Harmonsburg, 3; Meadville Central, 75; Mercer 2d, 43; New Lebanon, 3; Pleasantville, 35; Sugar Grove, 6; Tideoute, 35. Huntingdon—Alexandria, 63; Bedford, 28; Beulah, 7 99; Lewistown sab-sch (Infant Department, 10) 160 00; Logan's Valley, 12; Mapleton (sab-sch, 4) 9; Mifflintown, Westminster, 57 36; Pine Grove, 7 43; West Kiahacocquillas, 67. Kittanning—Cherry Tree, 3; Kittanning 1st, a member, 250; Leechburg, 54; Slate Lick, add'l, 19 51. Lackawanna—Bennett, 6; Kingston, 46; Langclyffe, 40; Montrose 1st, 100; Scranton 1st, 322;—2d, 249 80;—Green Ridge Avenue, 124; Wilkes Barre 1st, sab-sch, 106 89;—Westminster, 13. Lehigh—Allen Township, sab-sch, 13; Hokendauqua sab-sch, 5 31; Mahanoy City, 23 13; Upper Mt. Bethel Y. P. S. C. E., 1 15; Pottsville 2d, 11; Reading, Washington Street, 5. Northumberland—Buffalo, 42; Derry, add'l, 1; Elysburg, 4; Rush Creek, 4; Watsonstown, 25; Williamsport 3d, 46 80. Parkersburg—Clarksburg, add'l, 2 75. Philadelphia—Philadelphia 2d, 192 69;—Alexander, 69 75;—Calvary, add'l, 1,009 74;—Cohocksink (sab-sch, 11) 10 313 10;—Gaston, 29 60; Olivet (sab-sch, 11 34) 72 89;—Oxford, 158 36;—South Western, 6;—Tabernacle sab-sch, 43 29;—Walnut St. sab-sch, 58 01;—Woodland, add'l, 5;—Wylie Memorial, 55 45. Philadelphia North—Bristol, 16 17;—Germantown, 1st, 1,800 50;—2d (sab-sch, 50) 428 55;—Wakefield, 52 37;—Leverington (sab-sch, add'l, 24) 51;—Neshaminy of Warwick, 31; Newtown, 95 35; Norristown Central, 111 70. Pittsburgh—Centre, 17 13; Edgewood, 53; Forest Grove (sab-sch, 12) 28; Homestead, 45; Long Island, 7 20; McKee's Rocks, 11; Mansfield 1st, 54; Pittsburgh 1st, 1514 53;—3d, 511 49;—7th, 10 16;—East Liberty, 100;—McCandless Avenue, Morning Side Mission, 2 50;—Shady Side, 46; Point Breeze, 500; Valley, 12. Redstone—Dunlap's Creek, 19; Laurel Hill, 56 30; Little Redstone, Y. P. S. C. E., 14 55; McKeesport 1st, 33; Tent, 4 32. Schenango—Mount Pleasant, 19; Petersburg, 4. Washington—Cameron, 12; East Buffalo, 50 23; Hookstown, 24 35; Moundsville, 25; Mount Prospect, 42; Wellsburg sab-sch, 7 62; Wheeling 1st, A friend, 100;—Second, 18 54. Wellsboro—Mount Jewett, 2. Westminster—Centre, 50; Hopewell, 10; Leacock, 9; (Williamstown sab-sch, 5 47;) (Intercourse sab-sch, 2 47) 9; Strasburg, 5 70; York 1st, 239 77. 12,669 06

SOUTH DAKOTA.—Aberdeen—Ellendale, 7 50; Leola, 11 30; Penbroke, 11 30; Richland (sab-sch, 1 50) 3; White School House, 8 40. Black Hills—Bethel, 4 55; Elk Creek, 3; Laverne, 4; Rapid City, 15. Central Dakota—St. Lawrence, 12. Southern Dakota—Bon Homme, 1st, 5; Bridgewater, 37; Canton, 6; Marion Emmanuel, 5; Sioux Falls 1st, 35 35; Turner Co., First German, 25; Turner Co., Fourth German, 3. 190 80

TENNESSEE.—Holston—Jonesboro, 16; New Hope, 1; Salem (sab-sch, 10), 31. Union—Knoxville 2nd, 99 83;—Bell Avenue (sab-sch, 1 00), (Y. P. S. C. E., 3 00), 10; Spring Place sab-sch thank offering, 3. 160 83

TEXAS.—Austin—Eagle Pass, 8 50; Taylor, 23. North Texas—Leonard, 20; Valley Creek, 5. 66 50

UTAH.—Montana—Helena 1st, 34 30. Utah—Ephraim (sab-sch, 3), 4 43; Evanston, 12 50; Manti (sab-sch, 5), 5 15; Millville, 1. Wood River—Franklin Centennial, 10. 67 40

WASHINGTON.—Alaska—Sitka, sale of baskets given by Indian women, 19. Olympia—Aberdeen, 4; Edison sab-sch, 2; Fourth Plain, 5; Enumclaw Calvary, 5; Napavine, 1; Toledo, 2. Puget Sound—Anacortes Westminster, 15; Everett, 10; Fairhaven, 13; Kent, 7 50; Snohomish, 5; Woolley, 5. Spokane—Waterville, 6. Walla Walla—Kendrick, 4; Watsburg, 3 50. 107 00

WISCONSIN.—Chippewa—Rice Lake, 10; South Superior, 5. La Crosse—La Crosse 1st, 18. Madison—Columbus, 5. Milwaukee—Beaver Dam 1st, 18; Racine 1st, 70 40. Winnebago—Florence, 15 66; Rural sab-sch Thank Offering, 3 11; Steven's Point (sab-sch, 7 23), 45 10. 191 27

Woman's Executive Committee of Home Missions.....$ 37,316 55

Total from Churches.....$ 53,289 36

LEGACIES.

Legacy of Mrs. Emelia S. Hoquebourg, dec'd, late of Dunkirk, N. Y., 100; Rev. Daniel Rice, D. D., dec'd, late of Duluth, Minn., 2,000; John S. Kenyon, dec'd, late of N. Y., (in part), 5,000; Mrs. M. A. Bailey, dec'd, late of Pittsburgh, Pa., 500; Mrs. Elizabeth Gallagher, dec'd, late of Allegheny, Pa., 475; Edward Hill, dec'd, late of Norristown, Pa., 500; Miss Mary Van Schoonhoven, dec'd, late of Troy, N. Y., 1,500; Miss Eliza Logan, dec'd, late of Allegheny, Pa., 1,500; Alex. Cook, dec'd, late of Cottage Grove, Wis., 816 49; Rachael B. Tomlinson, dec'd, late of Keesville, N. Y., 11,238 24; Wm. E. Dodge, late of New York, 5,000.....$ 28,619 73

MISCELLANEOUS.

Savings of Robert McA. Baldwin, dec'd, 6; "C. Penna., 14; Miss Rosa Stannus, Tacoma, Wash., 10; Miss Ednie O. Jones, San Leandro, Cal., 20; Neri Ogden, Fairfield, Iowa, 25; Rev. H. T. Scholl, Big Flats, N. Y., 4; J. B. Wood and Sister, Sprout, Ky., 25; P. McClintock, Pittsburgh, Pa., Xmas Offering, 12 56; Rev. D. A. Wallace, Pontiac, Ill., 3 10; "Donor," Perth Amboy, N. J., 50 cents; E. O. Emerson, Titusville, Pa., 333 33; Rev. S. H. Stevenson, Perry, Ill., 3; Martha J. Patton, Palestine, Ill., 2; "S. M. C. and S. W. C.," Washington, D. C., 10; "R.," 4; B. O. Williams, M. D., Martin's Ferry, O., 5; F. L. Janeway, N. Y., 1,304; J. D. Lynde, Haddonfield, N. J., 100; Cash, 150; Mrs. A. L. Hubbell, Goshen, Ind., 5; From the Heirs in Memory of D. O. Calkins, 200; Rev. Thos. Marshall, D. D., Chicago, Ill., 25; Margaret J. Cratty, Belaire, Ohio, 5; "H. D. M.," Newark, N. J., 25; Rev. Sheldon Jackson, D. D., Washington, D. C., 300; "A. M.," 150; Normal and Collegiate Institute, Asheville, N. C., 10; Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Holt, Fairmont, Minn., 3; "W. E. M.," 8; Rev. Theo. Lee and family, Xmas Offering, 5; Mrs. Laura Mann and daughter, Marion, N. Y., 5; "Edwin," 25; Rev. H. H. Welles and family, Kingston, Pa., 50; A. D. A. Miller, Buffalo, N. Y., 100; J. E. Beebe, Union City, Pa., 200; Susie E. Drinkwater, Yonkers, N. Y., 1; Rev. J. C. Craighead, D. D., Washington, D. C., 50; Mrs. M. E. Harrington, Troy, N. Y., 10; J. A. Porter, Brooklyn, Mich., 70; John Price, Comphor, O., 5 20; G. W. M. Dayton, Pa., 5; Calvin De Witt, Surgeon U. S. A., Fort Sam Houston, Texas, 25; Rev. R. Craighead, Meadville, Pa., 100; Mrs. J. B. Davidson, 10; Miss Retta D. Scott, Aledo, Ill., 5; J. B. Worth, Tallula, Ill., 1; Interest on John C. Green Fund, 675; Interest on Lyon Trust 250; Interest on Carson W. Adams Fund, 146 25.....$ 4,500 88

Total received for Home Missions December, 1892..... 116,409 97

Total received for Home Missions from April 1, 1893..... 514,964 50

Amount received during same period last year. 465,721 18

O. D. EATON, Treasurer,
53 Fifth Avenue, New York.

Box L, Station D.

RECEIPTS FOR SUSTENTATION.

COLORADO.—Pueblo—Monte Vista 1st, 16 05; Pueblo 1st, 36 cts., 16 41

ILLINOIS.—Springfield—Pisgah, 92 cts.; Murrayville, 23 cts.; Rev. W. L. Tarbet and wife, 80 cts., 1 85

KANSAS.—Solomon—Belleville, 2. 2 00

MICHIGAN.—Detroit—Stony Creek, 1. Kalamazoo—Martin 1st, 5. Lake Superior—Iron River, 50 cts. Petokey—Petokey 1st, 10 cts. 6 60

Total received for sustentation, December, 1892..... 26 96

Total received for sustentation from April, 1893..... 3,290 95

Amount received during same period last year, 1,231 74

O. D. EATON, Treasurer,
53 Fifth Avenue, New York.

Box L, Station D.

RECEIPTS FOR N. Y. SYNODICAL AID FUND.

Albany—Saratoga Springs 1st sab-sch, 50 cts. Brooklyn—Brooklyn Duryea, 25;—Prospect Heights, 20;—6th German, 15. Buffalo—Tonawanda 1st, 12. Cayuga—Auburn 1st, 40 79. Hudson—Good Will, 18 cts. Long Island—Selden, 1. Lyons—East Palmyra, 6 05. Nassau—Islip, 15. New York—New York Brick, 313 41;—West Farms 3.

Niagara—Knowlesville, 5. Rochester—St. Peter's, 50; —
Brick, 20. Ossian, 5; East Kendall, 3. Syracuse—Cam-illus 4 56. Troy—Hooick Falls, 20 64; Troy 2d, 48 62; Waterford 1st, 7 95. Utica—Holland Patent, 16. Westchester—Mahopac Falls, 6 54; Greenburgh, 100; Rye, 50;
Huguenot Memorial, 16.
Total received for New York Synodical Aid
Fund, December, 1892.....$ 804 28
Total received for New York Synodical Aid
Fund from April 1, 1893..... 5,920 27
Amount received during same period last year..... 7,112 81

O. D. EATON, Treasurer,
Box L, Station D. 53 Fifth Avenue, New York.

RECEIPTS FOR HOME MISSIONS DEBT ACCOUNT.

ILLINOIS.—Alton—Elm Point c. 4 41; Reno c. 4 50. Cairo
1st, 15 50. Des Moines—Lineville and sab-sch c. 2. Dubuque—Frankville c. 11; Mt. Hope c. 10. Iowa—Ottumwa 1st add c. 5 10; Montrose, 6 72. Sioux City—Larrabee c. 4 59. 73 53
INDIAN TERRITORY.—Cherokee Nation—Fort Gibson,
15 40. 15 40
IOWA.—Cedar Rapids—Marion, 17 62. Corning—Lenox
1st, 15 50. Des Moines—Lineville and sab-sch c. 2. Dubuque—Frankville c. 11; Mt. Hope c. 10. Iowa—Ottumwa 1st add c. 5 10; Montrose, 6 72. Sioux City—Larra-
bee c. 4 59. 73 53
KANSAS.—Emporia—New Salem c. 2; Walnut Valley c.
2. Larned—Medicine Lodge c. 4 50. Topeka—Auburn,
5 36; Kansas City Western Highlands c. 19 05. 23 91
MICHIGAN.—Detroit—Detroit Memorial sab-sch and Y.P.
S. C. E., 24 53. Flint—Marlette 1st c. 15. Grand Rapids—
Muir c. 6. 45 52
MISSOURI.—Kansas City—Sedalia Central, 8; Warrensburg c. 43 73. Platte—Craig sab-sch c. 3. St. Louis—
Bethel German c. 5; Jonesboro c. 3. 62 73
NEBRASKA.—Hastings—Hansen (sab-sch, 1 75), 5 37.
Kearney—Clontibret, 3. Nebraska City—Lincoln 2d, 5.
Omaha—Craig c. 20. 23 37
NEW JERSEY.—Morris and Orange—Madison sab-sch c.
25. 25 00
NEW MEXICO.—Arizona—Florence (sab-sch, 2 25), c. 6.
Rio Grande—Albuquerque 1st c. 8 56. Santa Fe—Rev. J.
M. Whitlock, 5; Rev. G. G. Smith, 25. 44 56
NEW YORK.—Boston—New Bedford c. 9; Woonsocket
1st sab-sch, 5. Chemung—Elmira Franklin Street sab-sch 5, c. 12; Watkin's (Y. P. S. C. E.), 10. Geneva—Canandaigua 1st c. 9 74. Hudson—Middleton 1st sab-sch, 23 27; Monroe, 100. Otsego—New Berlin sab-sch c.
7 50. Rochester—East Kendall c. 5. Steuben—Andover

c. 13. Syracuse—Whitelaw c. 3 30. Troy—Troy Park sab-sch, 4 41. Westchester—Peekskill 2d c. 10 78. 312 00
OHIO.—Dayton—Clifton c. 30 61. Lima—Wapakoneta
c. 13. Maumee—Maumee (sab-sch, 3), c. 7; Waterville c.
3. Zanesville—Mount Vernon sab-sch, 3 87. 47 48
OREGON.—Willamette—McCoy c. 1 70. 1 70
CALIFORNIA.—Los Angeles—El Monte c. 2 68. Oakland —Oakland Prospect Hill c. 8. Sacramento—Sacramento
14th Street sab-sch c. 2 15. San Jose—Salinas Central Avenue Christmas gift, 10. Stockton—Sonora sab-sch c.
2; Oakdale c. 4; Hickman c. 1 40. 30 23
PENNSYLVANIA.—Huntingdon—Lost Creek sab-sch c.
3 50; Little Valley c. 21. Lehigh—Reading Washington Street and sab-sch c. 2. Philadelphia—Philadelphia 2d, 50. Philadelphia North—Germantown 2d c. 31. Redstone—Tent sab-sch c. 4 46; Laurel Hill sab-sch c. 31 70.
143 66
SOUTH DAKOTA.—Black Hills—Sturges c. 4. Southern Dakota—Tyndall c. 5 50. 9 50
TEXAS.—Trinity—Dallas Exposition Park sab-sch c. 18.
18 00
UTAH.—Montana—Anaconda, 7 10. Utah—Manti c.
4 62; Ephraim c. 5 38; Hyrum, 2 05; Springville sab-sch
c. 6. 25 15
WASHINGTON.—Olympia—Kent, 3 50. Puget Sound—Anacortes Westminster, 5. Walla Walla—Kendrick (sab-sch, 2), 5. 13 50
WISCONSIN.—Chippewa—Phillips c. 20; Winnebago
Marshfield c. 11 93. 31 93

Total received from Churches.....$ 1,153 25

MISCELLANEOUS.

Mrs. E. B. W. Hildreth, Southampton, N. Y., 5;
Margaret J. Cratty, Bellaire, O., 5; J. W.
Craighead, exr. of Sarah J. Craighead, dec'd,
100; Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Holt, Fairmont,
Minn., 3; School at Mekezukey, Ind. Ter., 15;
C. C. Benedict, Fulton, N. Y., 25; J. D. Rexford, Janesville, Wis., 100.....$ 252 00

Total received for the Home Mission Debt, December, 1892.....$ 1,404 25

Total received for the Home Mission Debt from July 1, 1893..... 15,345 53

O. D. EATON, Treasurer,
Box L, Station D. 53 Fifth Avenue, New York.

NOTE.—All items marked "c" were contributions on Columbian Home Mission Day, October 9, 1892.

NOTE.—In January number, New York 4th Avenue
Church is credited $1.49. It should have been $149.00.

RECEIPTS FOR MINISTERIAL RELIEF, DECEMBER, 1892.

ATLANTIC.—South Florida—Eustis, 5 50. 5 50
BALTIMORE.—Baltimore—Baltimore Boundary Avenue,
Y. P. M. Society, 7 68; New Castle—Wilmington Rodney Street, 39 82. Washington City—Lewinsville, 6; Vienna,
5. 51 50
CALIFORNIA.—Los Angeles—Alhambra (3 from sab-sch),
10; Arlington, 34; Fillmore, 3; Graham Memorial, 20 28;
South Pasadena Calvary, 3. Sacramento—Carson City,
8; Sacramento, Westminster, 20. 98 28
CATAWBA.—South Virginia—Albright, 1; Mt. Hermon,
1. 2 00
COLORADO.—Gunnison—Grand Junction, 8. Pueblo—
Pueblo 1st, 3 23. 11 22
ILLINOIS.—Bloomington—Champaign 1st, 27 36. Chicago—Chicago 1st, 77 40; — 4th, 705 14; — 6th, additional, 10; Evanston 1st, 36 54; Oak Park, additional, 46;
River Front 1st, additional, 1 25. Freeport—Galena
South, 69 15; Hanover, 3; Ridgefield, 3 30. Mattoon—
Pana 1st, 35; Taylorville, 8 50; Tower Hill, 5; Tuscola,
10 73. Peoria—Delavan, 16 65. Springfield—Mason City,
5 50; Murrayville, 2 07; Pisgah, 92 cts. 1 068 50
INDIANA.—Crawfordsville—Beulah, 3; Crawfordsville
Centre, 42 28; Dayton, 11 80; Newtown, 13; Pleasant
Hill, 3; Rossville, 2. Fort Wayne—Huntingdon, 3.
Muncie—Centre Grove, 2 30; New Hope, 2; Winchester,
10. New Albany—Jeffersonville, additional, 3 75; Mitchell, 12; New Albany, 2d, 39 50. Vincennes—Evansville Walnut Street, ($5.00 from sab-sch), 50. 197 63
IOWA.—Cedar Rapids—Linn Grove, 5; Marion, 15 68.
Council Bluffs—Logan, 7. Des Moines—Verby, 2 61.
Dubuque—Waukon, German, 20. Fort Dodge—Carroll,
5. Iowa—Mount Pleasant German, 16. Sioux City—
Emmanuel German, 2; Lyon Co. 1st German, 15. Waterloo—Clarksville, 10; Waterloo ($10 from sab-sch), 39. 137 29
KANSAS.—Solomon—Solomon City, 8 50. 8 50

KENTUCKY.—Ebenezer—Flemingsburgh, 17 50. Louisville—Louisville College Street, 23 02. 45 52
MICHIGAN.—Detroit—Detroit Jefferson Avenue, 200;
Erin, 3; Stony Creek, 10. Lake Superior—Iron River, 50 cts. Petoskey—Petoskey 1st (Miss L. Finch), 90 cts. 214 40
MINNESOTA.—Duluth—Ely, 2 72. Mankato—Madelia,
19. Minneapolis—Minneapolis Westminster sab-sch, 33 44; — Shiloh, 18 40. St. Paul—Farmington, 3; Ver-million, 3. Winona—Albert Lea 1st, 29 45. 109 01 MISSOURI.—Ozark—Carthage Westminster, 17 20; Neosho additional, 1; Springfield Calvary, 3. Platte—Craig sab sch, 3; Fairfax, 4. St. Louis—Kirkwood sab sch, 12 05; St. Louis 1st, 66 45; — Lafayette Park, 100; —
West, 32 02. 238 73
NEBRASKA.—Hastings—Holdridge, 3 62. Nebraska City
—Burchard, 4; Nebraska City 1st, 2 25; Plattsmouth 1st,
8 36. Omaha—Omaha 2d, 9 25. 27 48
NEW JERSEY.—Elizabeth—Lamington, 17; Plainfield, 1st, 42 33. Jersey City—Tenafly, 7. Monmouth—Lakewood, 166 04; Long Branch, 1st, 9. Morris and Orange—Madison, 60 53; Orange, 1st, 450. Newark—Newark Calvary, 2 41; — Park, 35 44; — South Park, 25 10; Wickliffe, 18 70. New Brunswick—Flemington, 104 57; Trenton, Prospect Street sab-sch, 3 78. Newton—Belvidere, 1st,
50; Oxford, 2d, 8 39. 1000 29
NEW MEXICO.—Rio Grande—Albuquerque, 1st, 13. 13 00
NEW YORK.—Albany—Albany, 2d, 90 83; — 3d, 17 45;
Broadalbin, 1 37; Saratoga Springs, 1st, 4 50 from sab-sch, and 6 96 from birthday boxes, 11 46; Schenectady, 1st, 198 97. Binghamton—Binghamton, West End, Floral Avenue, 1 52. Boston—Antrim, 11 25. Brooklyn—Brooklyn, Duryea, 37; — Green Avenue, (10 27 from sab-sch) 24 13.
Buffalo—Buffalo North, 54 81; — West Avenue, 5 80;
Jamestown 1st, 92 22; Tonawanda 1st, 18. Cayuga—
Auburn 1st, 50. Champlain—Peru 1st, 1 07. Genesee—

Castile, 25 64; Warsaw, 42; Wyoming 1st, 14 52. Geneva—Canandaigua 1st, 21 68; West Fayette, 2. Hudson—Good Will, 1 62; West Town, 10. Long Island—East Hampton, 22 15; Mattituck, 4; Selden, 1. Lyons—Newark Park, 23 75. New York—New York, Phillips, 83 97; University Place, 1,201 60. Otego—Richfield Springs, 32. Rochester—Dansville, 10; Sparta, 2d 12 59. St. Lawrence—Cape Vincent, 4; Potsdam, 14. Steuben—Almond, 3 70; Campbell 1st, 13 14. Syracuse—Marcellus, 8; Skaneateles, 7 87. Troy—Cohoes, 40; Green Island, 17; Hoo-sick Falls, 22 50; Lansingburgh 1st, 51 84; Waterford 1st, 7 85. Utica—Kirkland, 7; Rome 1st, 12 28; Sauquoit, 10. Westchester—New Rochelle, 109 58; Yonkers 1st, 170 01. 2636 79

OHIO.—Athens—Barlow, 2; Bristol, 8. Bellevue—Forest, 4; Gallon, 10; Urbana 1st, 20 72. Chillicothe—Hillsboro, 43 35. Cincinnati—Bethel sab-sch, 2 81; Mount Carmel sab-sch, 2; Pleasant Ridge, 20; Silvertown, 4; Westwood German, 2. Cleveland—Cleveland 1st, 72; Kingsville, 4. Dayton—Middletown, 48 66. Huron—Huron, 8 75; Monroeville, 1 78. Lima—Delphos, 3; Sidney, 16 11. Marion—Ashley, 1 70; West Berlin, 2 60. Mau-see—Bowling Green, 17 05. St. Clairsville—Martin's Ferry 1st, 27 49; Nottingham, 16 05. Steubenville—Beech Springs, 7; New Harrisburgh, 6; Steubenville 2d, 21 45. Wooster—Congress, 3 53; Wayne, 5; Wooster 1st, (b 54 from sab-sch) 59 09. Zanesville—Chandlersville, 6; Newark Salem German, 2 90. 448 54

OREGON.—Willamette—Gervais, 4. 4 00
PENNSYLVANIA.—Allegheny—Allegheny 2d, 20 75; Glen-shaw (1 72 from sab-sch), 18 72. Blairsville—Johnstown, 51. Butler—Buffalo, 2; Centreville 1st, 9; Mount Nebo, 2; Prospect, 4 05; Carlisle—Buffalo, 3; Burnt Cabins, 3; Carlisle 2d, 102 83; Centre, 3; Chambersburg Central, 15 96; Harrisburgh Olivet, 5 41—Pine St., 456 61; Land-sburgh, 5; Lower Path Valley, 12; Upper, 8. Clar-ton—Edenburgh, 16 25; Johnsonburg, 41c; Wilcox, 69c. Erie—Corry 1st, 6 25; Erie 1st, 84 05; Harmonsburg, 2; Kerr's Hill (57c. from sab sch), 6 01; Meadville Central 2d, 25; New Lebanon, 1; Neiltown, 2 55. Huntingdon—Beulah, 2 32; Curwensville, 15; Hollidaysburg (4 02 from sab-sch), 51 77; Lewistown sab-sch, 50; Logan's Val-ley, 10; Mapleton, 4; West Kishacoquillas, 15. Kit-tanning—Apollo 1st, 19; Bolling Spring, 2; Cherry Tree, 2; Leechburgh, 18; Tunnelton, 2. Lackawanna—Athens, 25; Harmony, 44; Scranton, Washburn St, 35; Stella, 10 67; Susquehanna 1st, 11. Lehigh—Catasauqua, Bridge St., 11 44; Hazleton 1st, 50 47; Middle Smithfield, 4 36; Mountain, 8; Pottsville 2d, 11; South Easton 1st, 3 34; Stroudsburg, 10. Northumberland—Elysburg, 2; Rush Creek, 2. Philadelphia—Philadelphia Bethany sab-sch, 19 64—Calvary, add'l, 50—Evangel, 12—Alexander, 29 80—Cohocksink, 77 35. Philadelphia North—Mount Airy, 43 43; Neahaminy of Warwick, 19; Norristown Central, 80 63. Pittsburgh—Edgewood, 15; Knoxville, 13 62; Long Island, 5; Mount Carmel, 4; Mount Olive, 2; Pittsburgh 1st, 30 63—7th, 9—Shady Side, 23; Valley, 2. Redstone—Pleasant Unity, 3 58; Smithfield, 2 08. Shenango—Hope-well, 3 25; Little Beaver, 1 87. Washington—Pigeon Creek, 4 50; Wellsburg 1st, 27; Wheeling 2d, 19 19. Wellboro—Mount Jewett, 2. Westminster—Hopewell, 10. 1,805 00

SOUTH DAKOTA.—Aberdeen—Aberdeen, 9 25. Central Dakota—Woonsocket 1st, 3 30. Southern Dakota—Scot-land, 3 50; Turner Co. 1st German, 15. 31 05

TENNESSEE.—Union—Knoxville Bell Ave., 3; [Spring Place, 2. 5 00
TEXAS.—Austin—Austin 1st, (Mrs. H. H. McLane), 10; San Antonio, Madison Square, 4. 14
UTAH.—Montana—Anaconda, 6 40. Utah—Hyrum Em-manuel, 2 45. 8 85
WASHINGTON.—Puget Sound—Sumner, 6 50. 6 50
WISCONSIN.—Madison—Kilbourne City, 5 65. Milwau-kee—Cedar Grove, W. M. Society, 10; Manitowoc, 5; Milwau-kee Holland, 10; Oostburg, 2; Racine 1st, 71. 103 65

From the churches and Sabbath-schools.....$ 8,287 22

FROM INDIVIDUALS.

Jeanette W. Judd, New York City, 9; S. M. C., S. W. C. and G. P. C., Washington, D. C., 15; Mrs. M. A. Maginnis, Lawrence, Kas., thank offering, 5; Dr. A. Vanderveer, Albany, N. Y., 200; F. L. Janeway, New York, 175 00; Peter Fulton, Jersey City, N. J., 15; Mrs. A. P. Thompson, Philadelphia, 5; "O. H. H. Anniversary thank offering," 5; Mrs. H. C. Scovel, Wooster, O., 25; Miss M. Dickson, Philadelphia, Pa., 19 25; "A friend," Ill., 2; Henrietta D. Miller and Mother, Newark, N. J., 25; Mrs. A. Reynolds, Clinton, Iowa, 10; Mrs. Wilson Holt, Fairmount, Minn., 1; Mrs. Ernest Ramsdale, Fairmount, Minn., 1; Rev. J. H. Phelps, Flushing, Mich., 10; L. Burg-hardt, Washington, D. C., Xmas offering, 5; S. A. and E. A. Raymond, Waterloo, Iowa, 5; Delavan, Wis., Congregational Church, 5; Mrs. Elizabeth Gethen, Westville, N. J., 5; J. B. Worth, Tallula, Ill., 1; Rev. F. J. Richert, Holton, Kas., 5; Mrs. J. B. Davidson, 5; Mrs. C. E. Turner, Sharpsburg, Pa., 10; First Congre-gational Church of East Bloomfield, N. Y., 5; Rev. J. L. Hawkins, Melrose, Kas., 15; Rev. W. L. Tarbet and wife, Pisgah, Ill., 20 cents; "C. Penna., 6; Rev. H. T. Scholl, Big Flats, N. Y., 2 50; Rev. D. A. Wallace, Pontiac, Ill., 90 cts.; "Anonymous," Philadelphia, 10; Mrs. M. Skey, Woodbridge, Cal., 5; G. W. Skey and wife, Woodbridge, Cal., 5..... 613 45
Interest from Permanent Fund..... 2,192 71

For the Current Fund.....$ 12,093 38

PERMANENT FUND.

(Interest only used.)

Legacy of Rev. Hamilton W. Pierson, Bergen, N. Y., 1000; Legacy of Mrs. Elizabeth Gal-legher, Allegheny, Pa., less tax, 475 00; Do-nation of Newtown Church, Crawfordville Presbytery, 2; From the Estate of James Miller, deceased, late of Neoga, Ill., through Rev. Arthur N. Thompson, Indianapolis, Ind., the Trustee under the will, for the Ministers' House at Perth Amboy, N. J., 2,069 45..... 3,566 45

Total for December, 1892.....$ 15,659 83

Total for the current fund since April 1, 1892.. 105,870 37

WILLIAM W. HERRINGTON, Treasurer.

RECEIPTS FOR SABBATH-SCHOOL WORK, DECEMBER, 1892.

ATLANTIC.—Knox—Augusta Christ, 1. 1 00
BALTIMORE.—Baltimore—Baltimore Boundary Y. P. Miss. Soc., 2 56. 2 56
CATAWBA.—Catawba—Charlotte, 13 75. 13 75
COLORADO.—Denver—Central City sab-sch, 7 80; Den-ver North, 10 75; Pueblo, 1 08. 19 63
ILLINOIS.—Bloomington—Clinton sab-sch, 32; Cooke-ville, 5 40. Chicago—Chicago 1st, 30 96; — 4th, 31; — 7th, 1 50; — 8th, 10; Evanston, 13 18; Hinsdale sab-sch, 5 76; River Forest, 1. Freeport—Elizabeth, 2. Mattoon—Tower Hill, 5. Rock River—Sterling, 59 24. Springfield—Murrayville, 60 cts.; Pisgah, 1 38. 198 11
INDIANA.—Crawfordsville—Delphi sab sch, 3 88; Dover 1; Eugene, 1. Fort Wayne—Auburn, 10 81. Muncie—Peru sab-sch, 23 11. White Water—Cambridge City, 1. 40 78
IOWA.—Cedar Rapids—Linn Grove, 5. Council Bluffs—Guthrie Centre sab-sch, 8. Des Moines—Charlton, 5 45; Dexter sab-sch, 3 35; East Des Moines, 6 55; English 1st, 7 94. Fort Dodge—Lyon Co. German, 10; Paton, 2. Iowa—Birmingham sab-sch, 9. 57 19
KENTUCKY.—Louisville College Street, 20 89. 20 89
MICHIGAN.—Detroit—Birmingham sab-sch, 10; Detroit Covenant sab-sch, 27 02; — Westminster 27 86; Stony Creek, 2. Grand Rapids—Iona, 6. Kalamazoo—Sturgis

sab-sch, 13 97. Monroe—Blissfield, 25. Petoskey—Alanson sab-sch, 6 17; Petoskey, 30 cts. 118 32
MINNESOTA.—Mankato—Madelia, 10. St. Paul—Litch-field, 10; Minneapolis Westminster, 15. 25 00
MISSOURI.—Ozark—Carthage, 11 85. St. Louis—Kirk-wood sab-sch, 7 76; Pleasant Hill, 8; St. Louis 1st, 13 60; — 1st German sab-sch, 7; — Lafayette Park, 30; Webster Grove sab-sch, 72 cts. 78 98
NEBRASKA.—Hastings—Glenville sab-sch, 1; Hanover German sab-sch, 1; Kenesaw sab-sch, 4; Omaha—Schuy-ler sab-sch, 4 32. 10 29
NEW JERSEY.—Elizabeth—Elizabeth Westminster, 134 94. Monmouth—Asbury Park sab-sch, 12 50. Morris and Orange—Madison, 28 51. Newark—Newark Calvary, 3 30; — Park, 11 19; — Roseville sab-sch, 50; — Wickliffe, 7 48. New Brunswick—Trenton 1st, 1. Newton—Oxford 2d, 2 80. West Jersey—Camden 3d, 3; West Cape May sab-sch, 3 96. 257 98
NEW YORK.—Albany—Albany 2d, 35 20; Saratoga Springs 1st sab-sch, 1 50. Boston—Antrim, 11 25; Farre sab-sch, 4. Brooklyn—Brooklyn Lafayette Avenue, 60; — South 3d Street sab-sch, 41 90. Buffalo—Buffalo Wells Street sab-sch, 6 27; Portville, 14; Tonawanda, 59 48. Cayuga—Auburn Central (sab-sch 3 79) 15 58; Meridian, 3 05. Champlain—Port Henry Miss. sab-sch, 5. Che- mung—Dundee sab-sch, 4 20. Geneva—Phelps sab-sch, 106 23. Hudson—Good Will, 54 cts; Greenbush, 2 50; West Town, 4. Long Island—Mattituck, 4; Selden, 1. New York—New York West Farms sab-sch, 20. Niagara—Medina sab-sch, 9 64. North River—Malden, 1 42; Marlborough, 29 89. Rochester—Rochester St. Peter's, 14; Sparta 1st, 6 88. St. Lawrence—Oswegatchie 1st sab-sch, 25; Watertown 1st, 25; —Stone Street, 9. Syracuse—Marcellus, 28 21. Troy—Cohoes sab-sch, 100; Troy 1st, 28 62; —Memorial, 17 87; —Second Street, 64 86; Waterford, 18 98. Westchester—New Rochelle, 45 41. 788 92

NORTH DAKOTA.—Pembina—Park River, 10; Westminster, 12 04. * 23 04

OHIO.—Chillicothe—Hamden, 3 85. Cincinnati—Mount Carmel, 2. Cleveland—Cleveland 1st, 24. Dayton—Oxford, 10. Lima—Wapakoneta sab-sch, 5. St. Clairsville—Powhatan, 1. Steubenville—Steubenville 2d, 16 53. 62 38

PACIFIC.—Los Angeles—Els'nore sab-sch, 3; Los Angeles 2d sab-sch, 24 15. Sacramento—Roseville, 3 15. 30 30

PENNSYLVANIA.—Blairsville—Greensburg, 50 02; McGinnis, 6. Butler—Amity, 3. Carlisle—Buffalo, 1; Centre, 1; Chambersburg Central, 25 02; Landisburg, 1; Upper, 1. Clarion—Brookville, 24 10; Johnsonburg, 14 cts; Mount Tabor, 4 15; Punxsutawney J. C. E. S., 7 60; Wilcox, 23 cts; Erie—Sugar Grove, 1. Huntingdon—Beulah, 77 cts; Mapleton, 10. Kittanning—Leechburgh (sab-sch, 28), 35. Lackawanna—Forest City, 1; Scranton Cedar Avenue, 80; —Washburn Street (sab-sch, 75), 23 45; Tunkhannock, 13. Lehigh—Hazleton sab-sch, 50; Pottsville 2d, 5 50; Stroudsburg, 5. Northumberland—Elysburg, 1; Rush Creek, 1. Philadelphia Central—Philadelphia Cohocksink, 45 95; —West Arch Street, 45. Philadelphia North—Norristown Central, 10 58. Pittsburgh—Edgewood, 6; Long Island, 4 09; Mount Carmel, 7; Pittsburgh 1st, 5; —7th, 7 26; Valley, 9; West Elizabeth sab-sch, 10. Redstone—Smithfield, 3; Tent sab-sch, 18 94. Westminster—Columbia sab-sch, 25; Hopewell, 8; Little Britain, 30. 604 74

SOUTH DAKOTA.—Southern Dakota—Lennox 1st German, 5; Parker sab-sch, 1; Scotland, 1 25. 7 25

TEXAS.—Austin—San Antonio Madison Square, 2 05. 3 05

UTAH.—Montana—Corvallis sab-sch, 25; Grantsdale sab-sch, 20. 45 00

WISCONSIN.—Lake Superior—Iron River, 50 cts. Milwaukee—Manitowoc, 2; Oostburg, 3. 5 50

Total from churches, December, 1892..... $ 1,561 82
Total from Sabbath-schools, December, 1892.. 854 88

Total from Churches and Sabbath-schools, December, 1892.....$ 2,416 64

MISCELLANEOUS.

Mrs. Sarah Gill, Reading, Ohio, 1; Wissahickon Mission sab-sch, 3 37; F. L. Janeway, New York, 175; interest on bank balances, 302 25; Mrs. C. P. Thompson, Philadelphia, 5; C. DeJ. Martinez, Dulce, New Mexico, 1 50; Ocoosa sab-sch, Washington, 1 25; Eustis sab-sch, Nebraska, 1 37; Long Rapids sab-sch, Michigan, 5; W. H. Long, North Carolina, 3 23; E. H. Grant, South Dakota, 1; Hartwell sab-sch, Nebraska, 1; Lysinger sab-sch, 1; Holmes Chapel sab-sch, 4 05; Allen Chapel sab-sch Arkansas, 4 23; Westminster sab-sch, Arkansas, 1 30; Paris sab-sch, Idaho, 1 50; Soda Springs sab-sch, Montana, 1 30; Brutis sab-sch, Michigan, 1 03; Pleasant Valley sab-sch, Nebraska, 65 cts; State C. E. Convention, Florida, 5 30; Wm. Travis, Portland, Oregon, 11 70; H. B. Wilson, Georgia, 1 50; Limestone sab-sch, Kansas, 3; Dudley sab-sch, Wisconsin, 1 75; Bethel sab-sch, Wisconsin, 2 85; Wm. Davis, Oklahoma Territory, 1 65; Deweys sab-sch, Montana, 1 10; Lone Rock Union sab-sch, Montana, 20; W. A. Yancey, Va., 1 15; Hartford sab-sch, Washington, 2; Joseph McKibben, St. Paul, Minnesota, 66 66; Mason sab-sch, Washington, 1; Dayton sab-sch, Washington, 1; Shiloh sab-sch, South Carolina, 86 cts; cash, 1; East Fairfield sab-sch, Wisconsin, 1 06; Grant's Mound sab-sch, Indian Territory, 1 90; Miss Mary Welsh, Philadelphia, 5; Congregational Church, Delavan, Wisconsin, 3 00; C. Penna, 1 00; D. A. Wallace, Pontiac, Illinois, 30 cts; W. S. Tarbet and wife, Illinois, 1 20.....$ 653 05

Total receipts, December, 1892.....$ 2,069 69
Amount previously acknowledged..... 76,321 85

Total receipts since April 1, 1892.....$ 79,401 54

C. T. McMULLIN, Treasurer,
1334 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

RECEIPTS FOR FREEDMEN, DECEMBER, 1892.

ATLANTIC.—McClelland—Immanuel Mission, 1. 1 00

BALTIMORE.—Baltimore—Baltimore Boundary Avenue (Y. P. M. S., 4 27) (ch., 9 27), 13 54; Deer Creek Harmony, 6 87; Emmitsburg (sab-sch, 2) 65) (ch., 24 20), 44 85. New Castle—Dover, 11; Gilbert, 2; New Castle, 118 96; Pitt's Creek, 7; Port Penn, 3 18. Washington City—Washington City Western, 25. 227 40

CATAWBA.—Cape Fear—Simpson's Chapel, 3 70; St. Paul, 4 45; Timothy Darling, 2. South Virginia—Ebenezer, 2; Grace Chapel, 2. Yadkin—Mooreville 2d, 1; Oakland, 1. 18 16

COLORADO.—Boulder—Boulder (sab-sch, 3) (ch., 36), 39; Cheyenne, 8. Gunnison—Grand Junction, 5. Pueblo—Alamosa, 3 89; Colorado Springs, 18 65; Fountain, 2 50; Pueblo, 1 79; Trinidad 1st, 8 40. 86 73

COLUMBIA.—Spokane—Rathdrum, 15. Portland—Oregon City, 3. Olympia—Aberdeen, 1 75. 19 75

ILLINOIS.—Alton—Chester, 4; Greenville, 10; Jerseyville, 10; Litchfield, 4 37; Nokomis, 4. Bloomington—Elm Grove, 2 50; El Paso, 5; Fairbury, 6; Rossville, 4 40; Waynesville, 4. Cairo—Tamaroa, 2 85. Chicago—Chicago 1st, 77 40; —6th, 141 47; Evanston, 36 54; Highland Park, 24; Hinsdale, 7 50; New Hope, 16 62; Peotone, 47 50; River Forest 5 70. Freeport—Foreston Grove, 18; Freeport 2d, 6; Middle Creek, 18. Mattoon—Taylorville, 12. Ottawa—Aurora, 12 30. Peoria—Elmira, 20; Galesburg, 20 58; Prospect, 10 50. Rock River—Alexis, 19; Centre, 5; Geneseo, 11 50; Morrison, 111 21; Sterling, 64 26. Schuyler—Camp Creek, 5; Elvaston, 14; New Salem, 2; Perry, 8; Warsaw, 3 58; Wythe, 4. Springfield—Greenview, 6 20; Jacksonville Westminster, 59; Murrayville, 1 15; Piegah, 2 75. 247 88

INDIANA.—Crawfordsville—Frankfort, 17 19; Rock Creek, 1 50; Rockfield, 1 50; Romney, 4 68; Waveland, 10. Fort Wayne—Huntingdon, 2. Indianapolis—Hopewell, 29 39; Indianapolis 13th, 4 50; Southport, 4 20. Muncie—Centre Grove, 2; New Hope, 2; Union City, 5. Vincennes—Evanville Walnut Street (sab-sch, 10), 20 87; Vincennes, 15 80; Washington, 9. White Water—Greensburg, 26 85. 159 48

INDIAN TERRITORY.—Choctaw—Choctaw Nation, per Miss

Berth Ahrens, 28 80; per Mrs. M. E. Crowe, 36 50; Pitt's Mission, 3 15. 67 45

IOWA.—Cedar Rapids—Cedar Rapids 1st, 43 81; Linn Grove, 6; Marion, 7 50; Vinton, 18. Corning—Conway, 2 18; Hamburg, 3 23. Council Bluffs—Anderson, 3; Logan, 5; Sidney, 5. Des Moines—Albia, 6 80; Derby, 1; Dexter, 5; Humeston, 3 65; Laurel, 6; Maripea, 4. Fort Dodge—Boona, 16 20; Dana, 5; Emanuel German, 3; Grand Junction, 10 08; Wheatland German, 10. Josca—Fairfield, 18 74; Libertyville, 2 60; Martinsburg, 20 33; Mediapolis, 5 61; Ottumwa, 3 22; Wapella, 5 35; Winfield, 6. Iowa City—Blue Grass, 2; Fairview, 2 25; Hermon, 3; Pleasant Prairie, 3 45. Sioux City—Alta, 6 52; Lyon Co. German, 10. Waterloo—Dysart, 3; Janesville, 4 20; Nevada Central, 8; Tama City, 1 23; Toledo, 5; Waterloo, 21 46; Williams, 8 23. 304 63

KANSAS.—Emporia—Burlington, 6; Council Grove, 11; Eldorado, 10; El Paso, 3 25; Peabody, 11 03; Winfield, 12; Highland—Clifton, 24; Hiawatha, 4. Neosho—Cherokee, 2; Monmouth, 1; Princeton, 7; Richmond, 3. Osburne—Norton, 4 53; Calvert, 3. Solomon—Belleville, 1; Clyde, 16 11; Ellsworth, 6 30. Topeka—Topeka 3d, 2 30; Grand View Park of K. C., 5; Western Highlands of K. C., 12 93. 144 50

KENTUCKY.—Ebenezer—Flamingsburgh, 10 31; Frankfort, 25 35. Louisville—Louisville College Street, 21 16. 56 82

MICHIGAN.—Detroit—Birmingham, 1 40; Detroit Jefferson Avenue, 150; —Westminster, 62 49; Stony Creek, 6. Grand Rapids—Big Rapids Westminster, 8. Kalamazoo—Edwardsburgh, 7 25. Lansing—Marshall, 5. Monroe—Erie, 5; La Salle, 2 50; Raisin, 3. Potoskey—Potoskey (Miss L. French), 50 cts; Flint—Cass City, 6 80; Flint, 22. Saginaw—Grayling, 2. 238 04

MINNESOTA.—Duluth—Lakeside, 15; West Duluth Westminster, 270. Mankato—Winnebago City, 23 10; Worthington Westminster, 64. Minneapolis—Minneapolis Franklin Avenue, 4; —Highland Park, 16 57; —Westminster sab-sch, 26 91. St. Paul—St. Paul Central, 37 51. Winona—Claremont, 5. 194 79

MISSOURI.—Kansas City—Butler, 8. Ozark—Carthage,

16 19; Neosho, 6. Palmyra—Enterprise, 1. Platte—Breckenridge, 1 65; Maryville, 7 50; New York Settlement, 1 70; Parkville, 15 35. St. Louis—St. Charles, 29; St. Louis 1st, 29 76; —Lafayette Park, 60. 176 15

NEBRASKA.—Hastings—Hanover German, 3; Holdrege. Kearney—Broken Bow, 3 95; Fullerton, 3. Nebraska City—Utica (sab-sch, 1 50, ch. 3 50.) 4. Omaha—Bellevue (sab-sch, 1, ch. 11,) 12; Fremont, 19 34. 49 59

NEW JERSEY.—Elizabeth—Cranford (sab-sch, 14 90,) (ch. 13 13,) 28 03; Pluckamin sab-sch, 9; Jersey City—Passaic, 24 04; Tenafly, 5. Monmouth—Beverly, 41 51; Calvary, 7; Freehold, 13 91; Mount Holly, 33; Oceanic, 8. Morris and Orange—Boonton, 25 10; Chatham, 29 09; Madison (Isaac Hastings, Esq., 25,) 133 16; Mendham 2d, 17. Newark—Caldwell, 43 05; Lyon's Farms, 11 33; Newark 1st, 34; —Calvary, 1 34; —Memorial, 10 50; —Park, 38 36; —South Park, 74 41; —Wickliffe, 11 22; —5th Avenue, 21. New Brunswick—New Brunswick 1st 105 08; Trenton 1st, 50 cts; —Prospect Street sab-sch, 4 59. Newton—Belvidere 2d, 15; Newton, 70; Oxford 1st, 6 05; Oxford 2d, 4 66; Phillipsburgh Westminster, 7. West Jersey—Bridgeton 2d, 30 16; Camden 2d, 10; Cedarville 1st, 6 15. 853 23

NEW MEXICO.—Rio Grande—Albuquerque 1st, 8 40. 8 40
NEW YORK.—Albany—Albany 2d, 17 23; —3d, 25 60; Charlton, 16 20; Jefferson, 11 50; Kingsboro Avenue, 10; Saratoga Springs 1st sab-sch, 3 50. Binghamton—Bainbridge, 15 30; Nichols Pres. Soc., 4 50; Nineveh, 19; Watery, 44 20. Boston—Windham and Society, 9 93. Brooklyn—Brooklyn Throop Ave., 165. Buffalo—Buffalo North, 44 11; Conewago, 3; Jamestown, 104 07; Portville, 60; Tonawanda, 10. Cayuga—Ithaca, 236 98; Port Byron, 8. Chemung—Burdett, 4 45; Havana, 14; Mecklinburgh, 2 25; Watkins, 40 60. Columbia—Durham 1st, 4 21. Geneva—Canoga, 1 15; Geneva 1st, 21 80; West Fayette, 2. Hudson—Chester, 31; Good Will, 90 cts; Goheen, 28 57; Monroe, 50; West Town, 5. Long Island—Mattituck, 4; Middle-town, 13 82; Selden, 1; Setauket, 12. Lyons—Sodus, 6 53; Newark Park, 30 55. New York—New York 4th Avenue, 83 94; —13th Street L. M. Society, 125; —Madison Avenue, 74 67; —Rutgers Riverside, 116 79; —West Farms, 5. Niagara—Lockport 1st, 25. North River—Amenia, 17; —South, 14; Rondout, 32 20; Wappinger's Creek, 8 60. Oswego—Cherry Valley, 17 23; Cooperstown, 32; Hobart, 12 54. Rochester—Brookport, 43 44; Genesee Village sab-sch, 30; Farma Centre, 2; Rochester 3d, 45 33; —Brick, 100; —Westminster, 24; Victor, 3 38; Wheatland, 5 17. St. Lawrence—Oswegatchie 1st sab-sch, 10; Watertown 1st, 25. Steuben—Canisteo 27; Painted Post, 4. Syracuse—Amboy, 6; Baldwinville, 12 41; East Syracuse, 5; Marcellus, 11 03; Onondaga Valley, 3 55. Troy—Salem, 7 41; Troy 2nd, 67 84; —Second Street, 287 20; —Woodside, 45 30; Watertown, 7 25. Utica—Boonville, 6 81; Utica Bethany, 34 23. Westchester—Bridgeport, 50; South East Center, 7 55; Greensburgh 2nd, 71 79; Carmel, 8. 3,601 78

NORTH DAKOTA.—Bismarck—Mandan, 5 22; Steele, 1 76. Fargo—Lisbon, 8; Pembina—Inkster, 1 16. 16 74
OHIO.—Bellefontaine—Bucyrus, 18 31. Chillicothe—South Salem, 19 10. Cincinnati—Bethel sab-sch, 2 31; Cincinnati 7th, 55 20; —Fairmount German, 1 50; Clifton, 13 50; Monroe, 3; Montgomery, 12 41; Mount Carmel sab-sch, 3; New Richmond, 4; Springdale, 7 32. Columbus—Central College, 17 50; Columbus 1st, 40; London, 5 25; Westerville, 5 50. Dayton—Bath, 2; Greenville, 23; Monroe, 3 45; Osborn, 3; South Charleston, 14; Xenia, 16 19. Huron—Huron, 5; Monroeville, 1 24. Lima—Blanchard, 9; McComb, 9; Mount Jefferson, 5 75; Turtle Creek, 3 60. Mahoning—Massillon 2d, 44 23; New Lisbon (sab-sch, 13 01) (Church, 28 50,) 40 51; Poland, 25. Marion—Liberty, 8. Maumee—Bowling Green, 20 80; Toledo 1st, 47 26; —5th, 4; West Bethesda, 10; Weston, 4 57. Portsmouth—Red Oak, 7. St. Clairsville—Bannock, 7; Crab Apple, 6 81; Rock Hill, 6 90; St. Clairsville, 6 15; Short Creek, 7. Steubenville—Bacon Ridge, 8; Bakersville, 3 10; Linton, 3 25; New Cumberland, 2 60; New Hagers-town, 3 14; New Philadelphia, 9; Steubenville 1st, 18 41; Steubenville 2nd, 13 49; Unionport, 1. Wooster—Ashland, 7 04; Lexington, 8; Loudonville, 10 68; Perrysville, 1 50; Savannah, 13 13. Zanesville—Bladensburg, 2 60; Dresden, 5 41; Martinsburgh, 3 10; Mt. Pleasant, 3 61; Zanesville 1st, 40 57. 696 43

PACIFIC.—Benicia—Santa Rosa, 22. Los Angeles—Monticito, 5; Pasadena 1st, 21 10. 58 10

PENNSYLVANIA.—Allegheny—Allegheny 1st bible school, 29 50—North sab-sch, 50; Avalon, 5; Bellevue, 19 25; Glenfield, 6 69; Hillands, 13; Pleasant Hill, 2 50; Rochester, 3 37. Blairsville—Braddock, 18 46; Conemaugh, 2; Greensburgh, 81 75; Johnstown, 36 17; Ligonier, 5 11; New Salem, 21 54; Parnassus, 35; Pine Run, 13; Unity, 20 25. Butler—New Hope, 4; Sunbury, 17. Carlisle—Buffalo, 3; Centre, 3; Great Conewago, 2; Landisburgh, 4; Lower Marsh Creek, 4 05; Mechanicsburgh,

7 46; Upper, 3; Fourth Street Lebanon, 32 33. Chester—Bethany, 1; Fraser, 2 39; Kennett Square, 5; Penningtonville, 5; West Chester, 1st, 28 38. Clarion—Brockwayville, 7; Clarion, 16 27; Johnsonburg, 23 cents; Richland, 1 75; Rockland, 1 65; Wilcox, 38 cents. Erie—Corry, 8; Erie, Chestnut street, 8 65; Franklin, 49 14; Garland, 10 10; Girard, 6 24; Hadley, 2; Harmonsburg, 2; Meadville, Central, 30; Mercer, 2d, 26; Miles Grove, 3 31; Oil City, 1st, 38 31; Pittsfield, 6 37; Titusville, 55 45. Huntingdon—Alexandria, 25; Beulah, 1 29; Logan's Valley, 7 50; Mapleton (1 50 sab-sch) (2 50 church), 4; Mifflintown, Westminster, 31 05; Orbisonia, 3 80; Penfield, 4; Spring Creek, 52; Tyrone, 33 01. Kittanning—Cherry Tree, 1; Glade Run, 7; Rural Valley, 4; Saltsburgh L. M. Society, 18 79; Strader's Grove, 2 30; Worthington, 8. Lackawanna—Hawley, 7; Herrick, 6; Honesdale (sab-sch, 7), 42 24; Nicholson, 2; Rushville, 3; Scranton Green Ridge Avenue, 21; —Westminster Welsh, 1; Stevensville, 4; Susquehanna Depot, 4; Troy, 12 28. Lehigh—Mahanoy City, 9 45; Pottsville 2d, 5 50; South Bethlehem, 14. Northumberland—Bald Eagle and Nittany, 5 58; Beech Creek, 2; Derry, 2 50; Elysburg, 1; Hartleton, 4; Mahoning, 83 04; Mifflinburg, 7; Milton, 65; New Berlin, 4; New Columbia, 3; Washington, 19 50; Watsontown, 6 76; Rush Creek, 1. Philadelphia—Philadelphia Bethany sab-sch, 18 26. Philadelphia Central—Philadelphia Alexander, 28 45; —Bethesda, 28; —Central, 21 03; —Cobocksink, 96 40; —Covenant, 10; —Olivet, 47 28; —Princeton, 296 49; —Temple, 59 55. Philadelphia North—Abington, 22 56; Carversville, 1 84; Doylestown, 40; Leverington, 11. Pittsburgh—Canonsburgh 1st, 19 60; —Central, 12 73; Charleroi, 6; Crafton, 10; Edgewood, 10; Finleyville, 4 60; Long Island, 3 02; Mansfield, 17 01; Montours, 6; Morning Side, Mission, 2 75; Mount Carmel, 2; Mount Olive, 3 75; Piegah, 10; Pittsburgh 1st, 727 82; —4th, 50 71; —East Liberty, 70; —Grace Memorial (sab-sch, 2 08), 7 93; —Lawrenceville, 54 74; —Shady Side, 28 75; —1st Sheridan, 4 27; Riverdale, 20; Swissvale, 53 59; Wilkinsburgh, 204 71. Red Stone—Dunbar (sab-sch, 6 00), 37; McKeesport, 197; Mount Pleasant Reunion, 9 42; Rebooth, 3 61; Round Hill, 9; Scottdale (sab-sch, 2 15), (Church, 9 98), 12 13. Shenango—Mount Pleasant, 10; New Castle 2nd, 13; Pulaski, 4 15; Sharon, 15 67; Slippery Rock, 7 25. Washington—Cameron 3; East Buffalo, 18 49; Hookstown, 7; Mill Creek, 6 37; Pigeon Creek, 4 50; Washington 3d, 46 37; Wheeling 3d, 12. Westminster—Centre (sab-sch, 3 50), (Church, 12 50), 16; Leacock, 14 15; Middle Octorara 5 88; New Harmony, 3 50; Wrightsville, 7. West Virginia—Clarksburgh, 3 50. 3,781 61

SOUTH DAKOTA.—Southern Dakota—Scotland, 1 85; Turner, 2. 4 85

TENNESSEE.—Holston—New Hope, 1. Union—Calvary, 7; New Providence, 15 17; Shiloh, 5. 25 17

TEXAS.—Austin—Austin Madison Square, 2; Fort Davis, 6 25. Trinity—Dallas Exposition Park, 2. 10 25

UTAH.—Montana—Deer Lodge, 19 30; Phillipsburgh (sab-sch, 2 45), 9 15. 25 05

WISCONSIN.—Lake Superior—Iron River, 50c; Marquette, 58 24; Menominee, 26 52. Milwaukee—Cambridge L. M. S., 5; Manitowee 3 60; Milwaukee Cavalry, 41 72; —Immanuel, 106 87; Racine, 48 20; Waukesha, 14 44. Winnebago—Florence, 16 21; Winneconne, 5 20. 326 06

Total receipts from Churches.....$ 11,049 06

Women's Executive Committee$ 2,686 20
J. B. North, Tallula, Ill. 85
Mr. A. P. Thompson, Philadelphia, Pa. 5 00
Rev. W. L. Tarbet and wife, Springfield, Ill. 2 40
"C. Penna" 8 00
Rev. D. A. Wallace, Pontiac, Ill. 50
Mrs. L. G. Chandler, Detroit, Mich. 140 00
Miss Mary A. Crissman, Longmont, Col. 50 00
Harriet J. Baird Huey, Philadelphia, Pa. 24 00
"A Friend," Princeton, N. J. 100 00
Elizabeth A. Cummins, Bellaire, Ohio. 20 00
"A Friend," Moline, Ill. 3 00
Miss Patterson, Greentree, Pa. 5 00
Alexander Guy, Oxford, Ohio. 20 00
Rev. H. H. Wells and family, Kingston, Pa. 25 00
W. B. Jacobs, Chicago, Ill. 25 00
"A Stuart," Centalla, Ill. 2 50
"P.," Chicago, Ill. 50 00
Estate of Alice T. White, Camden, N. J. 100 00
S. J. Barnett, Delta, Pa. 5 00

$ 3,471 96

Directs sent to Scotia for December, 1892.

Merry Workers, Canton, Ill.	45 00
"A Friend," Santa Monica, Cal.	10 00
O. E. S., Mishawaka, Ind.	22 50
O. E. S., 3d Pittsburg, Pa.	5 00
1st Lagrange, Ind.	15 00
O. E. S., 1st Lagrange, Ind.	22 50
O. E. S., Cavalry, Milwaukee, Wis.	40 00
1st Montclair sab-sch. N. J.	100 00
Mrs. Helen Perfect, Kelbourn, Ohio.	6 00
Missionary Soc Lake Erie Seminary, Painesville, Ohio.	20 00
J. T. Turner, Esq., Iowa City.	25 00
K. D., 3d Church, Bridgeton, N. J.	25 00
Buy Bees, Negaunee, Mich.	20 00
Directs sent to Cotton Plant.
Y. P. S. C. E., White Lake, Mich.	20 00
Mission Board 2d, St. Louis (Miss Copp)	15 00
Y. P. S. C. E., Englewood, Ill.	10 00
Students Board and Tuition.	70 25

Directs for Lukfata, Indian Territory.

Miss Bertha Ahrens, Lukfata, In. Ty.	171 04
Directs for Rocky Mount.
By J. H. Logan.	250 00
North Church, Allegheny.	728 00
Providence Church and others, Allegheny.	300 00

Total Directs for December.....$ 1,920 29

Total receipts for December.....$ 16,441 29

Previously reported.....62,523 29

Total receipts to date.....79,964 68

Receipts during corresponding period of last year.....85,937 78

Decrease of.....5,973 07

J. T. GIBSON, Treasurer.

CONTRIBUTIONS FOR SYNODICAL HOME MISSIONS WITHIN THE SYNOD OF NEW JERSEY FROM OCTOBER 1, 1892, TO JANUARY 1, 1893.

Elizabeth—Basking Ridge, 75; Clinton, 10; Conn. Farms, 4; Elizabeth 1st, 15; Elizabeth 2d, 25; Elizabeth 3d, 5; Elizabeth 1st German, 5; Elizabeth Madison Ave., 5; Elizabeth Westminster, 23; Lamington, 10; Plainfield Crescent ave., 25; Pluckemin, 5; Rahway 1st, 98 50; Rahway 2d, 10; Springfield, 23; Westfield, 10. 388 50

Jersey City—Carlstadt German, 5; Hoboken, 28; Jersey City 1st, 81 10; Jersey City Westminster, 23 69, sab-sch, 9 02; Kingsland Mission Chapel, 6; Passaic 1st, sab-sch, 14 67; Paterson East Side, 24; Paterson Westminster, 9; West Milford, 30. 220 48

Monmouth—Asbury Park 1st, 10 23. 10 23

Morris and Orange—Boonton, 50; Mendham 1st, 23; Orange 1st, 230; Schooley's Mountain, 20; South Orange 1st, 19 17. 871 17

Newark—Bloomfield Westminster, 70; Montclair 1st, 10; Newark 1st, 275; Newark 1st German, 27 15; Newark

1st Italian, 2 01; Newark Park, 100; Newark Woodside, 40; Roseland, 16 70, Y. P. S. C. E., 3 55. 544 45

New Brunswick—Milford, 2 57; New Brunswick 2d, 40; Princeton 1st, 22 03; Titusville, 1; Trenton 1st, 2. 74 60

Newton—Marksboro, 5; Phillipsburgh 1st, 23 21; Sparta, 16 50. 44 71

West Jersey—Cedarville 1st, 6; Clayton, 13 20; Fairfield, 7 32; Salem, 50. 76 52

Contributions as above.....$1,740 68

The Presbytery of Monmouth.....84 84

Received in three months.....$1,835 00

ELMER EWING GREEN, Treasurer.

Trenton, New Jersey

P. O. Box 133.

—The Home Missionary for January, gives the following as an instance of the un wisdom of making personal appeals for aid to churches, instead of acting through the regular channels:

"A church in one of our Western States was in need of aid. They issued a special appeal for assistance. Sixteen Congregational churches in Illinois generously responded to that appeal. The result was that this church received about five times as much aid as was absolutely necessary to insure its life and success. It could use this money—did use it—to enlarge and improve its building and its service. But five other churches, as needy and as worthy, died because no aid could be granted them. Had the amount of money sent directly to that one church been sent through the regular channel it would have been equitably apportioned among the churches by those who knew the needs of the whole field, in such a manner as to insure the life and progress of all."—Independent.

—WHAT DRAWS AND HOLDS.—But, after you have made your church free and have drawn the poor to its doors you must have good spiritual food to give the people when they do come. It must be remembered that nothing but the living Jesus Christ will satisfy these people. A certain mission church in New York is continually crowded with all sorts and conditions of men, the secret being that the people are fed with Gospel truth. There are no "new-fangled" notions advanced, no "new theology"; it is simply the old-fashioned Gospel of Jesus Christ, saving men by his atonement, his blood—doctrines that have saved sinners from the beginning. There is scarcely ever a public meeting held there at which men are not saved.—Rev. H. Wilson in Independent.

—The priests are always watching their flocks, not to lead them to the living Saviour, but to see that no heretical book, especially no Bible, comes to their hands. A Bible-woman gave a copy of the Gospel by John to a young man. "Do you like the book?" she asked, some days afterward. "Very much, though there are things in it which I do not understand; but the priest has told me that such books cannot be read, or even kept in the house, without the risk of being damned." I answered that all in that little book was good and moral, and that I could not believe I should go to hell for reading it.

One of the few priests who think for themselves and have a heart, approached the other day a group of people surrounding a colporteur, took a New Testament in his hands, and said, "A very good book; I have one, but will buy another copy." He did so, and went away, and the bystanders, encouraged by the example, also bought.—Bible Society Record.

OFFICERS AND AGENCIES OF THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

THE CLERKS.

Stated Clerk and Treasurer—Rev. William H. Roberts, D.D., Lane Theological Seminary, Walnut Hills, Cincinnati, O.
Permanent Clerk—Rev. William E. Moore, D.D., Columbus, O.

THE TRUSTEES.

President—George Junkin, Esq.
Treasurer—Frank K. Hipple, 1340 Chestnut Street.
Recording Secretary—Jacob Wilson.
Office—Publication House, No. 1334 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

THE BOARDS.

1. HOME MISSIONS, SUSTENTATION.

Corresponding Secretaries—Rev. William C. Roberts, D.D., Rev. William Irvin, D.D., and Rev. Duncan J. McMillan, D.D.

Treasurer—Oliver D. Eaton.

Recording Secretary—Oscar E. Boyd.

Office—Presbyterian House, No. 53 Fifth Avenue, New York, N. Y.

Letters relating to missionary appointments and other operations of the Board should be addressed to the Corresponding Secretaries.

Letters relating to the pecuniary affairs of the Board, or containing remittances of money, should be sent to O. D. Eaton, Treasurer.

2. FOREIGN MISSIONS.

Secretary Emeritus—Rev. John C. Lowrie, D.D.

Corresponding Secretaries—Rev. Frank F. Ellinwood, D.D., Rev. Arthur Mitchell, D.D., and Rev. John Gillespie, D.D.

Assistant Secretary—Mr. Robert E. Speer.

Treasurer—William Dulles, Jr., Esq.

Field Secretary—Rev. Thomas Marshall, D.D., 48 McCormick Block, Chicago, Ill.

Office—Presbyterian House, No. 53 Fifth Avenue, New York, N. Y.

Letters relating to the missions or other operations of the Board should be addressed to the Secretaries. Letters relating to the pecuniary affairs of the Board, or containing remittances of money, should be sent to William Dulles, Jr., Esq., Treasurer.

Certificates of honorary membership are given on receipt of $30, and of honorary directorship on receipt of $100.

Persons sending packages for shipment to missionaries should state the contents and value. There are no specified days for shipping goods. Send packages to the Mission House as soon as they are ready. Address the Treasurer of the Board of Foreign Missions, No 53 Fifth Avenue, New York, N. Y.

The postage on letters to all our mission stations, except those in Mexico, is 5 cents per each half ounce or fraction thereof. Mexico, 3 cents per half ounce.

3. EDUCATION.

Corresponding Secretary—Rev. Daniel W. Poor, D.D.

Treasurer—Jacob Wilson.

Office—Publication House, No. 1334 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

4. PUBLICATION AND SABBATH-SCHOOL WORK.

Secretary—Rev. Elijah R. Craven, D. D.

Superintendent of Sabbath-school and Missionary Work—Rev. James A. Worden, D.D.

Editorial Superintendent—Rev. J. R. Miller, D.D.

Business Superintendent—John A. Black.

Treasurer—Rev. C. T. McMullin.

PUBLICATION HOUSE—No. 1334 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

Letters relative to the general interests of the Board, also all manuscripts offered for publication and communications relative thereto, excepting those for Sabbath-school Library books and the periodicals, should be addressed to the Rev. E. R. CRAVEN, D.D., Secretary.

Presbyterial Sabbath-school reports, letters relating to Sabbath-school and Missionary work, to grants of the Board's publications, to the appointment of Sabbath-school missionaries, and reports, orders and other communications of these missionaries, to the Rev. JAMES A. WORDEN, D.D., Superintendent of Sabbath-school and Missionary Work.

All manuscripts for Sabbath-school Library books, also all matter offered for the WESTMINSTER TEACHER and the other periodicals, and all letters concerning the same, to the Rev. J. R. MILLER, D.D., Editorial Superintendent.

Business correspondence and orders for books and periodicals, except from Sabbath-school missionaries, to JOHN A. BLACK, Business Superintendent.

Remittances of money and contributions to the Rev. C. T. McMULLIN, Treasurer.

5. CHURCH ERECTION.

Corresponding Secretary—Rev. Erskine N. White, D.D.

Treasurer—Adam Campbell.

Office—Presbyterian House, No. 53 Fifth Avenue, New York, N. Y.

6. MINISTERIAL RELIEF.

Corresponding Secretary—Rev. William C. Cattell, D. D.
Recording Secretary and Treasurer—Rev. William W. Heberton.
OFFICE—Publication House, No 1334 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

7. FREEDMEN.

President—
Office Secretary and Treasurer—Rev. J. T. Gibson.
Corresponding Secretary—Rev. Edward P. Cowan, D. D.
OFFICE—No. 516 Market Street, Pittsburgh, Pa.

8. AID FOR COLLEGES AND ACADEMIES.

Corresponding Secretary—Rev. Edward C. Ray, D. D.
Treasurer—Charles M. Charnley, P. O. Box 204, Chicago, Ill.
OFFICE—Room 23, Montauk Block, No. 115 Monroe Street, Chicago, Ill.

PERMANENT COMMITTEES.COMMITTEE ON SYSTEMATIC BENEFICENCE.

Chairman—Rev. Rufus S. Green, D. D., Orange, N. J.
Secretary—Kiliaen Van Rensselaer, 56 Wall Street, New York, N. Y.

COMMITTEE ON TEMPERANCE.

Chairman—Rev. I. N. Hays, D. D., Allegheny, Pa.
Corresponding Secretary—Rev. John F. Hill, Room 813, Penn Building, Pittsburgh, Pa.
Treasurer—Rev. James Allison, D. D., Cor. Sixth Avenue and Wood Street, Pittsburgh, Pa.

PRESBYTERIAN HISTORICAL SOCIETY.

President—Rev. W. C. Cattell, D. D., Philadelphia.
Corresponding Secretary—Rev. W. L. Ledwith.
Treasurer—DeB. K. Ludwig, 3800 Locust Street, Philadelphia.
Library and Museum—1229 Race Street, Philadelphia.

TREASURERS OF SYNODICAL HOME MISSIONS AND SUSTENTATION.

New Jersey—Elmer Ewing Green, P. O. Box 133, Trenton, N. J.
New York—O. D. Eaton, 53 Fifth Avenue, New York, N. Y.
Pennsylvania—Frank K. Hipple, 1840 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa.
Baltimore—D. C. Ammidon, 31 South Frederick Street, Baltimore, Md.

BEQUESTS OR DEVISES.

In the preparation of Wills care should be taken to insert the Corporate Name, as known and recognised in the Courts of Law. Bequests or Devises for the General Assembly should be made to "The Trustees of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America."

Board of Home Missions,—to "The Board of Home Missions in the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, incorporated April 19, 1872, by Act of the Legislature of the State of New York."

Board of Foreign Missions,—to "The Board of Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America."

Board of Church Erection,—to "The Board of Church Erection Fund of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, incorporated Mar. 27, 1871, by the Legislature of the State of New York."

Board of Publication and Sabbath-school Work, to "The Trustees of the Presbyterian Board of Publication and Sabbath-school Work."

Board of Education,—to "The Board of Education of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America."

Board of Relief,—to "The Presbyterian Board of Relief for Disabled Ministers and the Widows and Orphans of Deceased Ministers."

Board for Freedmen,—to "The Board of Missions for Freedmen of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America."

Board of Aid for Colleges,—to "The Presbyterian Board of Aid for Colleges and Academies."

Sustentation is not incorporated. Bequests or Devises intended for this object should be made to "The Board of Home Missions of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, incorporated April 19, 1872, by Act of the Legislature of the State of New York, for Sustentation."

N B.—Real Estate devised by will should be carefully described. *

Vol. 13.

No. 76.

THE CHURCH AT HOME AND ABROAD.

PUBLISHED MONTHLY BY ORDER OF
THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF THE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH
IN THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA.

APRIL, 1893.

EDITOR:

HENRY A. NELSON, D.D.

EDITORIAL CORRESPONDENTS:

D. J. McMILLAN, D.D.,
For Home Missions.

JOHN GILLESPIE, D.D.,
For Foreign Missions.

DANIEL W. POOR, D.D.,
For Ministerial Education.

ELIJAH R. CRAVEN, D.D.,
For Publication and S. S. Work.

ERSKINE N. WHITE, D.D.,
For Church Erection.

WILLIAM C. CATTELL, D.D.,
For Ministerial Relief.

EDWARD P. COWAN, D.D.,
For Missions to Freedmen.

EDWARD C. RAY, D.D.,
For Colleges and Academics.

BUSINESS SUPERINTENDENT, JOHN A. BLACK.

 Remittances by Draft or Postal Order and all business correspondence should be addressed to the Business Superintendent—not to the Editor.

PRESBYTERIAN BOARD OF PUBLICATION
AND SABBATH-SCHOOL WORK,
NO. 1334 CHESTNUT STREET,
PHILADELPHIA, PA.

When answering an advertisement, our readers will help the magazine and the advertiser by mentioning THE CHURCH AT HOME AND ABROAD. For advertising space, address RICHARD S. DEY, 150 Nassau Street, New York.

LINCOLN UNIVERSITY

Our 30th Academical year began in September with larger classes than ever.

A new Hall for Instruction was completed in the summer vacation. It has 17 ample rooms, well finished and furnished. It is built and equipped without debt. Hard by stands our new and beautiful chapel, the generous gift of a lady friend.

The College and Theological Faculties, with their Nine Professors, are provided for, insufficiently indeed, but there is no appeal for more.

The liberal bequests recently received have been spent on the foundations of this work, to enlarge and strengthen them. But now the wheels of our progress are blocked. We can build nothing on our new foundations till you give us a new dormitory for the many approved candidates waiting to enter the classes. Our most earnest appeal to you is for this ($20,000).

This burden we carry is too heavy without your help. Make provision for the support of these young men, $130 a year, or its equivalent—the interest of a permanent endowment of $2,000 or $2,500.

In making bequests, note that our corporate title is "LINCOLN UNIVERSITY," in Chester County, Pa.

Rev. A. T. Rankin, D.D., Greensburg, Ind., is our Western Agent. Rev. W. P. White, Germantown, Penn'a, is Assistant Secretary; Rev. Edward Webb, Oxford, Penn'a, is Financial Secretary, L. U.; to whom your gifts may be sent and your inquiries addressed.

W. R. BINGHAM, Pres't B'd Trustees, L. U.

SCOTIA SEMINARY.

A High School for colored girls under the care of the Board for Freedmen and the Women's Ex. Committee for Home Missions of the Presbyterian Church. Incorporated under the laws of North Carolina. Legal name "The Scotia Seminary," Concord, N. C. The final title to all property is vested by the charter in the Board for Freedmen.

Donations solicited to a permanent fund which will provide for the salaries of the teachers and supply scholarships and thus relieve the treasury of the Board.

D. J. SATTERFIELD, President.

PENNSYLVANIA, Chambersburg.

WILSON COLLEGE FOR YOUNG WOMEN.

Fifty miles southwest of Harrisburg, in famous Cumberland Valley. Border climate, avoiding bleak north. $250 per year for board, room, etc., and all College Studies. Handsome Park, Large Buildings, Steam Heat, Gymnasium, Observatory, Laboratory, etc. Endorsed by Pennsylvania Synod, Baltimore Synod and Presbytery, Presbytery of Carlisle, etc.

THE YOUNG LADIES' SEMINARY.

FREEHOLD, NEW JERSEY.

Thorough Course of English and Classical Studies with French, German, Art and Music. Well-ordered, cheerful life, home-like care for pupils. Next year opens September 13th, 1893.

Principal, MISS EUNICE D. SEWELL.

Brady's Portrait Museum.

Commissioners to the General Assembly in Washington, D. C., and their friends, are invited to view Mr. M. B. Brady's Museum of Historic Photography, at the corner of Pennsylvania Avenue and 13th Street, N. W. This collection of portraits of noted men and women of the last forty years is unique, and unequaled anywhere. A delightful and profitable hour may be spent here, and many pleasing surprises will reward the visitor.

READ. Do WRITE RIGHT AWAY TO HORACE B. MARTIN, CARTHAGE, MISSOURI.

INVESTMENTS IN LEAD AND ZINC LANDS, MINES, STOCKS AND SECURITIES.
THE BEST REAL ESTATE PAPER ON THE MARKET FOR SALE.

For Pleasure

Or Profit.

CRITERION AND PARABOLON MAGIC LANTERNS, and Stereopticons, OIL, LAMP, OR ELECTRIC LIGHT, made by us, are simply perfect for PUBLIC or PRIVATE use. So are our Slides. We can fill the bill from A to Z in apparatus, Views and Accessories. Catalogues FREE. Mention this publication.

J. B. Colt & Co. 16 Beekman St., NEW YORK. 189 La Salle St., CHICAGO, ILL.

THE MENEELY BELLS that have been known to the public since 1828.

Meneely & Co., West Troy, N. Y.

Church, Chapel and other BELLS; also Chimes and Peals. Thousands of references. Price of bells and fixtures with freight prepaid or delivered to steamer in New York, given on application. Catalogues free.

Clinton H. Meneely Bell Co. Manufacture TROY, N.Y. SUPERIOR CHURCH BELLS

Please mention this Magazine.

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY,
CINCINNATI, O., U. S. A.
Best Grade Pure Copper and Tin
CHURCH BELLS, PEALS AND CHIMES.
Best Wheel and Rotary Tole Hangers.
Price & Terms free. Name this Journal.

THE CINCINNATI BELL FOUNDRY
CINCINNATI, OHIO.
SOLE MAKERS OF THE BRYNER BELLS
FOR CHURCH, SCHOOL, FIRE ALARM, &c.
Catalogue with 2500 testimonials. Prices and terms free.

8% FIRST GOLD MORTGAGES City and
Send for References. HIGHEST SAFE INTEREST Farm Loans
Address, TACOMA INVESTMENT CO., TACOMA, WASH.

The Latest Thing In Calendars.

In striking contrast to the numerous fanciful Calendars which flood the mails at this season of the year, is the one that is issued by N. W. Ayer & Son, the Keating Everlastingly At It, Newspaper Advertising Agents of Philadelphia, and which has been for years a very great favorite. It is large enough to be easily read across a room. It is so packed as to reach its destination in perfect condition, and it is sent to any address, post paid, on receipt of 25 cents.

THE CHURCH AT HOME AND ABROAD.

APRIL, 1893.

CONTENTS.

EDITORIAL.—Be of Good Cheer—God Beholding Our Columbian Exhibition—Christian Work in Chicago—A Correction—The California Pioneers—Notes,	251-254
Utah, S. E. Wishard, D. D. ,	255-258
China as a Mission Field, Hunter Corbett, D. D. ,	258-264

FOREIGN MISSIONS.

Notes.—Treasurer's Statement—"Young, dead, small-pox"—Self-denial Week—Evangelical Church in Mexico—Presbyterian College in Tokyo—New Station in West Africa—Lodiana Mission Report—Baptism of a Mohammedan Dervish—Magic Lantern Lecture—Mohammedan Mission to America—Stalwart Chinese Christians—Chinese Inns—Rev. Dr. Kellogg in India Again—Boycotting Christians in Allahabad—Financial Outlook—Missionary Calendar,	265-268
Concert of Prayer.—Missions in India—Appeal of Indian Missions—Appeal of Bombay Conference, F. F. Ellinwood, D. D. —Hopeful Movement in North India, J. J. Lucas, D. D. —The Field at Jhansi, Rev. James F. Holcomb —A Brahman Breaking Caste, Miss Annie S. Geisinger —Appeals for Re-inforcement,	269-279
Letters.—Syria, A Mohammedan Slave, Ira Harris, M. D. —A Moslem Funeral, Rev. L. F. Esselstyn —India, Baptism of a High Caste Lad, Rev. H. Goloknath —Africa, Along the Gold Coast, Rev. G. A. Godduhn ,	280-282

HOME MISSIONS.

Notes.—Woman's Executive Committee's Superintendent of Schools—Y. P. S. C. E. for Home Missions—Special Work for Young People—Bohemian Work in South Dakota—Florence, Oregon—Santa Cruz—Exceptional Barbarity in Texas—A Successful Swedish Missionary—Touching Acknowledgment to Treasurer—Dr. Irvin's Resignation,	288-286
Concert of Prayer.—City Evangelization: Its Pressing Needs, Rev. John B. Devins ,	286-288
Letters.—Hydah Mission, Rev. J. L. Gould —Illinois, Rev. G. A. Pollock —South Dakota, Rev. E. L. Nugent —Iowa, Rev. W. J. Young —Montana, Rev. D. Willson —Kentucky, Rev. J. M. Walton —New Mexico, Rev. J. M. Whitlock , Rev. Romulo Blea —Oregon, F. W. Gwynne, D. D. —Oklahoma, Rev. C. H. Miller —North Dakota, Rev. J. F. Montman —South Dakota, H. P. Carson, D. D. , S. M. —Kansas, Rev. J. Patterson —Ohio, Rev. C. W. Wallace —Alaska, Rev. A. E. Austin —North Carolina, Thomas Lawrence, D. D. —Minnesota, Rev. W. K. Weaver —Nebraska, Rev. C. G. Sterling —Colorado, Rev. Grant Stroh —Idaho and Montana, S. E. Wishard, D. D. , S. M. ,	288-295

COLLEGES AND ACADEMIES.—A Good Way To Do It—Correspondence—Corning Academy,	297-298
---	---------

MINISTERIAL RELIEF.—A Business Man's Questions—Annual Circular,	299-301
---	---------

EDUCATION,	302-308
----------------------	---------

PUBLICATION AND SABBATH-SCHOOL WORK.—Free Libraries—Children's Day—"One of the Least of These"—Out of the Mouth of Babies,	303-305
--	---------

CHURCH ERECTION.—Noteworthy Example—Further Testimony—How a Spanish Pastor Does It—Who Has Pews to Spare?	306-308
---	---------

FREEDMEN.—Biddle University—One Man's Service,	308-309
--	---------

GLEANINGS AT HOME AND ABROAD,	310
---	-----

YOUNG PEOPLE'S CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.—Young People's Meetings—Topics for Meetings—Working and Talking,	311-312
---	---------

CHILDREN'S CHURCH AT HOME AND ABROAD.—King Mtesa and the Bible—"A Brick at a Time,"	313-314
---	---------

THOUGHTS ON SABBATH-SCHOOL LESSONS,	315-316
---	---------

MINISTERIAL NECROLOGY AND BOOK NOTICES,	316-317
---	---------

THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY'S COMMITTEE.

JOHN S. MACINTOSH, D. D., CHAIRMAN,
2021 Delancey Place, Philadelphia, Pa.

CHARLES A. DICKEY, D. D.,
ANSON D. F. RANDOLPH, Esq.,
WARNER VAN NORDEN, Esq.,
HON. ROBERT N. WILLSON,
JOHN H. DEY, Esq.,

STEALY B. ROSSITER, D. D.,
REV. HENRY T. McEWEN,
STEPHEN W. DANA, D. D.,
CHARLES L. THOMPSON, D. D.,
F. F. ELLINWOOD, D. D.

WILLIAM C. ROBERTS, D. D.

The price of the CHURCH AT HOME AND ABROAD is ONE DOLLAR per year, payable in advance. No new subscription is received without the payment of one dollar accompanying it. But subscriptions, not accompanied with directions to discontinue at the end of the time paid for, will be continued and bills will be sent to remind the subscriber that another payment is due.

CHURCH ARCHITECTURE.

Stone Presbyterian Church, Ashland, Wis.

The above edifice is now being erected and will be completed in 1893. It is a fine example of a complete modern church building in stone for $25,000. Churches contemplating building or desiring information in reference to this or other plans will be given prompt and courteous attention by addressing or calling upon the

WARREN H. HAYES,

ARCHITECT,
704-6 Sykes Block,

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.

THE CHURCH AT HOME AND ABROAD.

APRIL, 1893.

BE OF GOOD CHEER.

A FRIENDLY SUGGESTION comes to us from a thoroughly loyal, faithful and intelligent minister in Kentucky, in the following words:

"God, who made the human mind, knows best how to lead it, and in His Book He endeavors to lead it through lines of Encouragement. He never attempts to kindle enthusiasm by discouragement. He points out the way. He awakens our sympathies and enlists them in the holy causes in which he desires us to engage and thus leads us into effort.

I believe that if in the pages of our Church magazine less should be said about "Crises" and "Money," and more of that which will get into the hearts of the people, the Lord will make the money come without this public asking.

I write this with appropriate modesty, as I hope, although I am aware that it is an apparent meddling. You have thought over these things I dare say, and know better than any one outside your office what is best."

Yes, we "have thought over these things" a great deal, and we do not dissent from the view our brother expresses as to the efficacy of encouragement and hope as incentives to holy activity, and the inefficacy of despondent or querulous moaning.

In citing the divine example, has our brother over-looked Malachi 3: 8-10? May we not all be in danger of incurring that terrible divine rebuke, if we do not obey that divine command to "bring all the tithes into the storehouse?" Is our dear Church thus faithfully proving the Lord?

Yet do not let us be misunderstood. We who fill the pages of this magazine are not God's prophets to rebuke his people, but his messengers to give them information. We must of course give them true information. And sometimes the actual facts do not look like good material out of which to evolve encouragement and enthusiasm.

A number of ministers were once guests of Dr. Aspinwall in Cayuga County, N. Y.,—we heard the old doctor tell this: Rev. S. Smith (one of the guests) was not a gushing man. He was very thoughtful and sedate. They were talking about prayer-meetings, how to make them interesting and profitable. Several of them were quite agreed that it has a depressing effect for one and another to get up in a prayer-meeting and talk dolefully about their own temptations, and back-slidings, and at what a poor dying rate they have been living. They thought it better for brethren to tell of their brighter and happier experiences, and so impart a more cheery and animating tone to the meeting.

Father Smith had been silent, listening and thinking. One of the brethren said to him, "Father Smith, what do you think about this?"

The good old gentleman replied, slowly, and as if measuring his words, or weighing them: "I was thinking that—if we say anything about ourselves—perhaps—it might be as well—to tell the truth."

The brethren had the right idea about an interesting meeting, but perhaps in trying to realize that idea, they needed the caution conveyed in Father Smith's quaint words.

Now, that we think about it, we cannot remember even hearing Dr. Kendall talk dolefully about the state of the Home Mission treasury. He thoroughly believed that Home Missions are God's work, and that the silver and gold are his and will come to his treasury, none the more surely for his servants worrying or fretting or scolding his people.

Perhaps we do all need to believe in God and in God's people more thoroughly and more cheerily than we do—"The joy of the Lord is your strength."

We find the following suggestive item in The Congregationalist:

The other evening our brethren of the Baptist Social Union in New York city were discussing ways and means and the perplexing question how to raise sufficient money for missionary work at home and abroad seemed to be weighing on many minds. After one answer and another had been given by business men, Dr. John G. Paton, the guest of the union, rose and began to talk in his sweet, simple way about the "dear Lord Jesus," the source of power and the solvent of all questions, even those of a financial nature. His words seemed like a breath from the hills. Possibly, if the business affairs of the church were lifted into a higher realm its spiritual work would go forward less haltingly.

GOD BEHOLDING OUR COLUMBIAN EXHIBITION.

Our venerated octogenarian friend and correspondent, Rev. Huntington Lyman, H.R., of Cortland, N. Y., is too diligent and constant a reader of the CHURCH AT HOME AND ABROAD to have failed to read and appreciate Dr. Gray's article in our February number, entitled The Church and the Fair. Dr. Gray will surely recognize the following response from a man so venerable, and yet so vigorous, as greatly encouraging to the most godly hopes for the great Exposition, and greatly incentive to effort to make it such as God can look on with complacency. Mr. Lyman writes to us:

I think that we have evidence that in the great world-assemblies God is present. There is encouragement, therefore, to expect him at the Columbian Exposition this year. Evidently our dear brethren at Chicago are stirred with expectation. They will make three tabernacles and watch and wait and do. Let us cheer them. Let us take a share in the preliminary work and in the resultant glory.

There will be a wonderful display of genius and of might, no doubt. It is fit. Let the human capacity have place, and be honored. But I confess to greater regard for the disclosure of God's sentiments upon the moral aspects of the times.

God will speak. Doubt it not. We shall know his thoughts about the Sabbath question. We shall know whether he judges that the beer and the rum are fit symbols of the civilization of four hundred years.

God came to the multitude assembled at Mount Sinai. He came to Nebuchadnezzar's great celebration at Dura, and to Ephes-dammim, where Goliath and David fought. We have no right to doubt that he will come to Chicago!

CHRISTIAN WORK IN CHICAGO.

All the world is now thinking and talking about Chicago more than any other city in the world. Probably more people in all parts of the world mean to go to Chicago this year than to any other city. No doubt there will be a greater display of the products of human industry and ingenuity in Chicago this year than was ever seen in any one place before. Will it be a Vanity Fair? Will Mammon and Bacchus and Venus be the ascendant divinities? Or shall this year be signalized more by the progress of the Gospel than by the memorable and grand secular displays to be made there? And shall Christ be Lord there henceforth as never before?

Our readers' hearts must have been made to ache as they read, in our February number, Dr. Gray's forecasting of the "godless revel" which seemed to him inevitable. But did not they "take heart again" when he told of what churches and tract societies and Bible societies, and W. C. T. U. and Y. M. C. A., and the Christian workers whom Mr. Moody leads, are prepared or are preparing to do? And when he said: "We mean to do the best we can, and we count on our brethren from all parts of the world as volunteers in any work that is open to them," did not every Christian reader who hopes to be there say: "Count me in for that; count us all in, and count on us all, God helping us?"

Perhaps some of our readers have heard more of the vice and sin of Chicago than of its Christian virtues and activities; for godliness is not so noisy and self-vaunting as worldliness. But those who really know Chicago know that no small part of its energy and enterprise is consecrated. Its piety is as intense and as industrious and as sagacious as its wealth-getting secularity.

There has lately fallen into our hands a modest pamphlet, entitled "Tent Work in Chicago," which gives significant and most encouraging illustration of the various and pervasive work of the Chicago Evangelization Society, of which D. L. Moody is president. The largest of the three tents which this society used last summer is said to accommodate 1,300 people seated on canvas benches. The services of song and prayer and preaching in this tent are such, in their simplicity, sincerity and affectionate earnestness, that "the common people hear them gladly." Says the pamphlet:

The attendance at this tent has been remarkable. Some nights the people have gathered outside till fully 2,000 were within sound of the speaker's voice. The street cars came up full from both directions, and went away empty. The dens of vice were empty, too. Two "carousels" in the neighborhood were closed, the owner of one cursing the tent, saying that it had spoiled his business—none but the tents could do any business there.

Several times an all-day meeting was held. A description of the first will give an idea of the others. From the beginning of the morning prayer-meeting, at half-past nine, it was evident that the Spirit of God was present. About a hundred gathered, and the number steadily grew. Rev. T. B. Hyde, Rev. James Rowe and other pastors made addresses and a noon recess was taken. After dinner people could be seen coming from streets and alleys and across lots, till, as the afternoon passed on, over a thousand were gathered, and addresses were made in both German and English.

A visitor, coming in, said his first impression was astonishment that so many working people would leave their work in the middle of the day for a Gospel meeting. The next impression was of the wonderful hush—the feeling of awe—pervading the tent. As the first service was ended few people seemed inclined to leave, and those who did moved quietly out, too subdued to speak except in whispers, while their places were soon filled by the gathering children who had come for a meeting of their own. The keynote of this meeting was given by a hymn, sung by a tiny girl of four, which brought the tears, and then Miss Poxon, the leader of the children's meetings, stepped to the platform and unrolled her blackboard, having on it two large hearts, one with "Room for Jesus," and the other with "No room for Jesus," and below, "Is your heart like the Manger or the Inn?" Tenderly she told the story, and when at its close Mr. Williams called on those who wanted to let Jesus into their hearts to rise, slowly, first by ones, then twos, they rose to their feet, till a hundred men, women and children were standing. It was a solemn scene.

When a second all-day meeting was held, some of the stores closed for an hour in the midst of the day, and certain contractors ceased work for an hour that their workmen might attend."

"Another tent seating 1,000 people, and still a third, seating, 850, are owned by the Society, and will probably be supplemented by others for the great campaign during the World's Fair. It is yearly becoming more difficult to find lots on which to pitch them. Wherever they have been they are eagerly welcomed the second time. This year there were more requests for the tents than could be complied with.

Mr. Moody has anticipated the results in these tents with large expectations and enthusiasm. For three years Mr. Ferdinand Schiverea, the Brooklyn evangelist, has had charge of one of them, and he is now so well known through large districts in Chicago that it is only necessary for the word to go out that Mr. Schiverea is to preach for the people to gather in crowds. Many of them have learned to know Mr. Schiverea as a friend of the poor man and the sinner. Another tent was presided over by Mr. M. B. Williams, who is very well known in the South, where his preaching has been greatly blessed. For a month Rev. F. E. Smiley, of Pennsylvania, did very successful work, but was taken ill and obliged to leave, and his work was taken up by a young man who is still a student of the Institute, Mr. Henry Openshaw. These are all men who walk very close with the Lord and are baptized with His Spirit.

This work is all under the superintendence of Mr. R. A. Torrey.

The Bible Institute is a part of the Chicago Evangelization Society, and furnishes singers, organists, ushers and those who deal personally with each individual.

The numbers given below do not cover all who have been converted in the tents, but only those with whom the workers had personal conversation, and who are regarded by them as hopefully converted:

Evening meetings for adults (three months),.....	252
Special meetings for men or women only, and street meetings.....	51
Children's meetings.....	143
Adults professing conversion.....	924
Children professing conversion.....	616
2,000 small copies of Gospel Hymns, No. 5, containing the words only, have been sold.

All this costs money. An evangelist of the very best order is required, for many a man who can successfully hold meetings in a church is a failure in tent meetings; there must be a janitor who never leaves the tent alone day or night; there are lights to be provided, and a multitude of other expenses, all of which amount to about $1,000 a month. No more effective way has been found of reaching the people whom the Gospel has not touched in the great cities, for many will enter a tent who would never go to a church service.

Who will help this great work? Many small gifts will make up a larger amount, and should you be able to contribute largely, your investment will bring correspondingly large returns."

From a private letter of a lady attending the Bible Institute we are permitted to copy some passages which illustrate other forms of work done by its members:

My special work is among the police. I have charge of a meeting held every Tuesday evening, at a quarter after six, in one of the large stations. From thirty to fifty of the police of that station will leave their homes half an hour earlier than they need to in order to be present at roll-call, for the meeting held at that time. They are splendid to talk to.

The work is somewhat hampered because we cannot use a Bible nor do any personal work, but they get a straight gospel talk, and a text repeated often enough to stay with them. They who can estimate the good those gospel songs may do as those men go out on their all-night beat with those words and tunes ringing in their ears? Their favorite closing hymn is, "God be with you till we meet again," and, if the order for roll-call comes before it is finished, they march out strapping on their belts but still singing.

Wednesday afternoon we all attend a mother's meeting—a wonderful meeting conducted by "our mother," Mrs. Capron, for the poor women who could not go to a regular church service because of little children and the time of such meetings. The little ones are brought and a room and games and our girls as nurses, are provided. That evening I go to one of the city missions, as I also do on Sunday evening.

Thursday and Friday afternoons I am on my street—my parish—among the people who know and see only so much of Christ as I carry with me in my life, as I visit them. It is beautiful work, but very responsible. Yet one may remember that she is only going with Christ, to interpret what He has to say to these people who do not understand His language, and so it has to be interpreted to them.

Mrs. J. MacNair Wright kindly points out an inadvertence in ascribing the beginning of papal missions in China to the order of Jesuits, which was not instituted until a later century. The allusion to which she refers is in our February number, page 106.

THE CALIFORNIA PIONEERS are doing us a favor by giving our readers the benefit of their joint endeavors to make our record of those early, heroic days correct. Rev. Albert Williams, one of the most venerable of them, writes:

"I noted with interest the several articles appearing in THE CHURCH AT HOME AND ABROAD on the founding of San Francisco churches. With greatest care and best intentions mistakes will happen.

"In the March number the Rev. Mr. Hunt gives to the First Baptist Church the leading position. The true order is the following:

"First Presbyterian Church, organized May 20, 1849; the First Baptist, July 6; the First Congregational later. This First Presbyterian Church ranks as the oldest Protestant organization in the State of California."

The Chinese in California have been making a special effort to raise funds for the building of a church in the Sun Ning district of the Canton Province from which most of them have come. The Chinese Church in Oakland has raised $435, not including a gift from Rev. Mr. Condit, Missionary in charge of the San Francisco Church, some $300. Subscriptions are sent in from all parts of California, and even from the East, for this worthy object. Twelve hundred dollars have been raised, and it is expected that two thousand dollars will be realized.

Here is a worthy example for Christian America. If all our people were to contribute for the spread of Christ's kingdom in the dark places of the earth in this proportion according to their means, the available funds for the work of Foreign Missions would at least be doubled.

"THE BISHOPS."—In one of our staunchest Presbyterian exchanges, we find more than one excellent saying credited to "the Bishops' pastoral letter." According to the Presbyterian Confession of Faith, that Church has many Bishops, and we understand that some other Churches have Bishops, defining the word differently. But who are "the Bishops," to be thus designated by a Presbyterian paper?

"THE CONTINENT."—It is natural enough for an Englishman or an Irishman to call Europe "the Continent," its pre-eminence being in its proximity to his island. But when an American, at home, persists in thus speaking of small Europe, and even contrasting "the American Sunday" with "the Continental Sunday," we ask ourselves, "Is America an island?"

UTAH.

S. E. WISHARD, D. D.

The Territory of Utah lies between 37° and 42° north latitude and between 109° and 114° west longitude, extending from Arizona to Idaho, and from Colorado and Wyoming on the east to Nevada on the west. It embraces an area of 84,970 square miles. Its average length is 350 miles, with a breadth of 260 miles. It embraces a territory as large as Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut, and nearly half of New York. The Mormons began settlements here while the country was in possession of the Mexicans, supposing they had encamped outside of the dominions of the United States. The consummation of the treaty with Mexico, however, slipped the arm of Uncle Sam around these straying children and held them within the fold of civilization. At that time this territory was much larger than at present. The states of Nevada, Colorado and Wyoming have been carved out of Utah, yet leaving the immense territory as above indicated.

In March, 1849, the Mormon hierarchy organized "The State of Deseret," with certain unconstitutional features. Congress refused to welcome this daughter to the sisterhood of states in the unbecoming garb with which she had attired herself. In September, 1850, Congress organized the Territory, and set up the Territorial government.

It has always been held by the leaders of the Mormon Church that every government outside of that church was rebellion against God, and as such must be overthrown. Hence the teachings of Mormonism planted the seeds which have ripened again and again into open conflict with the Government of the United States. The Federal officers were driven from the Territory in 1856. The judges were unable to hold their courts. Judge Drummond was forced to adjourn his court sine die, and the flight of the other Federal officers followed immediately. The Indian agent alone remained. These troubles culminated in the Mountain Meadow Massacre, in which Bishop John D. Lee and his followers exterminated a large company of non-Mormon emigrants, for which the Bishop received several wives, and was executed twenty years later. The isolation of the Territory, and the absorbing interest of the government in its own preservation during the rebellion, made it easy for Church domination to assert itself to an almost unlimited extent.

The face of the country is exceedingly varied, as is also the climate. The Wahsatch Range of the Rocky Mountains enters the northern boundary of the Territory near the middle, and bears off in a southeasterly direction. Lying west of this range and adjacent to it is the great Salt Lake and the remarkable basin surrounding it. The Bear River, the Weber and the Ogden Rivers enter the great Salt Lake from the north, and the Jordan River from the south. The lake has no outlet. These are all fresh water streams, pouring large currents into the lake, but with no perceptible change of the Saline character of the waters. As the country adjacent is settled and the lands are tilled, these streams are more and more drawn away for irrigating purposes, and deliver a less volume of water into the lake. It is a remarkable fact, that the water in the lake has been rising recently. At other periods the water recedes.

CLIMATE.

The temperature is mild in the valleys, and colder on the mountains. In the vicinity of Salt Lake and Ogden the thermometer registers an average of 35° in winter and 75° in summers, with cool nights in the hottest season. The atmosphere is very dry, the rainfall being only sixteen and seventeen inches; hence the resort to irrigation for all agricultural purposes. The heavy fall of snow in the mountains generally secures an abundant supply of water down the canyons, which is successfully distributed through all the agricultural lands. These lands produce abundant crops of small grain, vegetables and fruits of all kinds. The products of Utah, with its climate and scenery make it a most delightful country for residence. As the American element grows, by immigration and by the social and religious transformations which are taking place, this country is destined to be densely populated. We have winter enough to tone up the system without taxing too severely feeble constitutions.

CITIES.

The two large cities are Salt Lake and Ogden. The former is the capital, and has now a population of probably 50,000. All the Christian churches are well represented, and are exerting a healthful influence. Our own denomination has one self-supporting, and two mission churches.

Ogden has grown from a population of three or four thousand, a few years ago, to about twenty thousand. It was the first city in Utah to step out from the bondage of Mormon rule. It is the distributing point from the east and west, the north and south, and is the terminus of all the railroads of Utah. The last year has been a year of great progress in the advancement of the public schools in both of these cities. Several hundred thousand dollars have been expended in the erection of school buildings thoroughly adapted to the purpose for which they were constructed. Eastern cities have nothing superior to these buildings. The public schools in these two cities are under excellent supervision. Dr. Millsbaugh, formerly principal of the Collegiate Institute of Salt Lake City, is superintendent in that city, and Professor Page, a thoroughly trained Eastern gentleman, in Ogden.

There are three other cities of considerable importance. Logan, sixty-five miles north of Ogden, in Cache valley, with a population of six thousand people, has within its corporate limits the Agricultural College, with two or three hundred students, the Brigham Young College, which claims and secures a large patronage from the Mormon people, and our New Jersey Academy, a building well equipped for educational purposes, at a cost of $9000, with its 108 pupils.

The city of Provo, forty-four miles south of Salt Lake City, has a population of 6000 people, and a Mormon educational institution. Park City is a flourishing mining town of 5050 people in the Wahsatch Mountains, almost entirely American in its religious, social and institutional life. It is within a few hours' ride of Ogden, to the east, and carries on a vast mining interest. There are smaller towns of from one to three thousand people in all the twenty-four counties of the Territory. The Mormon population is largely occupied in agricultural pursuits and grazing, while the Americans (falsely called Gentiles, as the Mormons themselves are from the foreign nations) are engaged largely in mining. In more recent years the Americans have engaged somewhat extensively in fruit growing, farming, and herding sheep and cattle.

With the coming of the locomotive, the mining machinery, the newspaper, the minister and mission school teacher, the light began to break over the Wahsatch Mountains into those fertile valleys. Brigham Young resisted these reformers. He did everything possible to prevent the opening of the mines. He resisted the free utterances of his own people through the press so strenuously that some of the highest minds in the Mormon Church were driven into open apostacy.

The Presbyterian Church began work in this Territory June 13, 1869, at Corinne, twenty-five miles north of Ogden, at the point where Bear River enters the Lake. Corinne was largely an American town, and was the shipping point for the Territory of Southern Idaho and a considerable portion of Montana. Rev. Melancthon Hughes, whose name does not now appear in our minutes, began preaching in Corinne at the above date.

He did not remain long. He was succeeded in April, 1870, by Rev. Edward Bayless, whose name, also, has disappeared from the minutes of our Church. He labored a year and a half. On July 14, 1870, Mr. Bayless and Rev. Sheldon Jackson organized a church, and on November 20 of the same year a house of worship was dedicated. Thus, a little more than twenty-two years ago, our first church was planted in Utah. Rev. R. L. Crittenden supplied the church from May to August, 1872.

Immediately after the departure of Mr. Crittenden, Rev. S. L. Gillespie, a returned missionary from Africa, having learned to endure hardness on the foreign field, entered our work in Utah. He pitched his tent at Corinne and began work in that field. Mr. Gillespie has continued his labor at this point and Box Elder, six miles east, since the first day he entered the field, now a little more than twenty-two years. During later years his labor has been largely given to Box Elder, the county town.

Rev. Josiah Welch had located at Salt Lake City October 1, 1871. He came directly from the Seminary. He was unable to secure even a public hall in which to preach, on account of the bitter prejudice of the ruling powers. But Mr. Welch had come to preach, and he was not to be driven from his purpose. He finally secured the loft of a livery stable, and adjusting himself to the surroundings began the work of a successful ministry. A little more than a month from the time he began his ministry, with the assistance of Rev. Sheldon Jackson and Rev. G. S. Boardman, D. D., he organized the First Presbyterian Church, of Salt Lake City, with ten members. Mr. Welch toiled laboriously and secured a good property for the church in a valuable location. His health gave way, and after returning East to recuperate he passed to his reward, March 18th, 1877. He was succeeded in June of the same year by Rev. R. G. McNiece, D. D., who is still the successful pastor of this prosperous church. Two years before the Presbytery of Utah had been organized. The first enrollment of the Presbytery in the Minutes of the General Assembly in 1875 gives the names of Rev. F. L.

Arnold, of Evanston, Wyoming, Sheldon Jackson, D. D., of Denver, Colorado, S. L. Gillespie, of Corinne, Utah, Josiah Welch, of Salt Lake City, and Duncan J. McMillan, of Mt. Pleasant, Utah. The Salt Lake Collegiate Institute was organized early in the history of our work. Prof. John M. Coyner, a graduate of Hanover College, Indiana, and an educator of experience in that State, and in Illinois, planned and originated this early educational enterprise. It was the germ of a large educational work by our Church, that has extended from St. George in the south to Logan on the northern boundary.

In April 1875 Rev. D. J. McMillan, D. D., began preaching and organized a school at Mt. Pleasant. He purchased a dance hall and converted it into a Bethel. For eight years he toiled in Santa Pete Valley, opening work at Spring City, Ephraim, Manti and Monroe. He called other laborers to his assistance. Rev. G. W. Seward established himself at Springville in 1877, and extended his preaching to Spanish Fork and Payson, until the coming of Rev. J. A. Livingston Smith in 1881.

In Ogden there was occasional preaching as early as 1875, but regular services were not held until the coming of Rev. Mr. Gallagher in 1878. Rev. C. M. Parks reached Logan, in Cache Valley, and entered upon gospel work in June, 1879. He built six chapels in that beautiful valley, and had the seventh on the way to completion in 1883. Three years later he died at Salt Lake City.

Time and space would fail me to speak of of Revs. Martin, McClain, Murphy, Bolhback, Day, the Cort brothers, Renshaw, Greene, Newel, Hough and others who have more recently entered the work. The names of noble women who have been mighty and blessed factors in this most difficult work are worthy of honorable mention. Sixty-seven of them are giving their lives and labor to the instruction of the youth of Utah.* Three teachers who formerly labored have laid down their lives and now rest among the people of their adoption. Our teachers now have the care of about 2000 pupils, gathered in four academies and twenty-six schools. These thirty educational fountains are furnishing intellectual and spiritual refreshment for this thirsty land. The nineteen churches planted in Utah, with twenty ministers, supplying these churches and several out-stations, with a membership of 900, and a Sabbath-school constituency of nearly 2000 pupils, co-operating with our mission teachers, tell the story of what the Presbyterian Church is doing in the name of the Master for the people of Utah.

*This includes four missions in Southern Idaho.

CHINA AS A MISSION FIELD.

HUNTER CORBETT, D. D., CHEFOO.

On the arrival of Robert Morrison, the pioneer of Protestant Missions to China in 1807, two difficulties confronted him. The strict rules of the East India Company forbidding the propagation of Christianity among the natives, and the spirit of seclusion among the Chinese officials, which made the open propagation of Christianity impossible. In those days to assist a foreigner in the study of the Chinese languages was a crime punishable by death. A teacher Dr. Morrison employed always carried poison on his person, so that in case of arrest he could by taking his own life escape death by torture. After a time spent in the study of the language, Dr. Morrison accepted the appointment of translator under the East India Company in whose service he continued twenty-five years.

His first great work was the compilation of a Chinese and English Dictionary of 931 pages, which was printed by the East India Company at an expense of £12,000. Rev. Dr. Milne was sent as a colleague to Dr. Morrison in 1813. By their joint labors the entire Bible was translated into Chinese in 1818, and the British and Foreign Bible Society granted £500 to assist in printing it. Dr. Morrison prepared a Chinese grammar, wrote much, both in English and Chinese, and did much to prepare the way for those who came later.

After twenty-seven years of incessant toil, on August 1, 1834, at the age of 52 years, Dr. Morrison was summoned to a higher service. During all those years he was not at liberty to preach openly, but "he had held secret meetings with a few natives in his own room, where, with locked doors, he read and explained the Gospels every Lord's Day." He never lost faith in the final evangelization of China. "After all his faith and toil and prayer, he only saw three or four converts, no church, no schools, nor congregations publicly assembled."

In the last letter he ever wrote are found only sentiments of hope. "I wait patiently the events to be developed in the course of divine providence. The Lord reigneth. If the command of God our Saviour prosper in China all will be well. Other matters are comparatively of small importance."

Dr. Milne wrote of the prominent traits in the character of Dr. Morrison that "the patience that refuses to be conquered, the diligence that never tires, the caution that always trembles, and the studious habit that spontaneously seeks retirement, were best adapted for the first Protestant missionary to China."

An attempt to print portions of the Scripture in Chinese style resulted in the imprisonment of two block cutters, one of whom was beaten with forty blows on the face. At the command of the Emperor search was instituted by the provincial authorities for "traitorous natives" who might be engaged in printing Christian books. Siang Afah, the first ordained Christian minister in China, and who became interested in Christianity through reading the Gospel put into his hands to print fled to Macao. The Government denounced Afah as a traitor and the Holy Scriptures as the "vile and trashy publications of the outside barbarians." From this time books and tracts could neither be printed nor distributed at Canton.

Dr. Milne moved with his family in 1815 to Malacca to begin the publication of books and educational work. Three years later the Anglo-Chinese School was founded at Malacca. During the years it remained there "about 50 students finished their education, some of them became sincere Christians and three or four became preachers." So zealously were missionaries excluded from the Empire that for years attention was turned chiefly to the Chinese emigrants who had gone to Malacca, Penang, Singapore, Borneo, Batavia and other countries of the Malayan Archipelago. It was hoped, by evangelizing this class, through them to reach China when they returned.

The majority of these emigrants had fled from China without their families to avoid the injustice or oppression of their rulers; or had left to gain a livelihood which they could not find at home. They spoke a variety of dialects, led for the most part a roving life, and comparatively few were sufficiently educated to relish or care for the instruction of books.

Previous to 1841, during the period of thirty-five years, fifty-eight missionaries representing various Missionary Societies, came to labor for the Chinese. Of this number only four came direct to Canton. Eight were stationed at Macao, a Portuguese settlement, and the remaining forty-six in the various settlements in the Malayan Archipelago. Their time was occupied in the study of the language, the establishing of boarding schools, printing and circulating tracts and Scriptures, and preaching the Gospel extensively in the Chinese and Malay languages. In 1837 Dr. Medhurst wrote: "About ten thousand children have passed through the Mission Schools. Nearly one hundred persons were baptized and several native preachers raised up."

When China was opened by treaty in 1842, nearly all the Missionaries laboring in the various Chinese settlements felt constrained to establish themselves at the five treaty ports where the prospect for permanent work was more promising.

DIFFICULTIES OF THE EARLY MISSION WORK.

The first English expedition to China of which we have an account was dispatched by the East India Company in 1647. On arriving in the Canton river the ships were anchored near the Bogue forts and at the request of the Mandarins were waiting there the promised completion of arrangements for opening trade. Meanwhile the forts were armed by the Chinese, and at the end of four days unexpectedly fire was opened upon the foreign ships. The fire was returned, crews landed and the forts captured.

The result of this was that arrangements were made for a limited trade at Canton. Eventually the Chinese authorities in order to keep all foreigners under strict surveillance adopted the expedient of appointing thirteen men known as hong-merchants to whom was given a monopoly of all foreign trade. The hong-merchants alone were officially recognized by the Chinese Government as shippers and foreign traders, and were made responsible for the conduct of the "barbarians" during their stay at Canton.

The hong-merchants were almost as difficult of access as the Mandarins. If the foreign merchant wished to make any requests he was obliged to draw up a petition and try to get a policeman to take it to the merchants, who might either transmit it to the officials or refuse to receive it from the policeman. The foreigners were all kept closely confined within the "Canton factory," situated on the river without the city wall.

The foreigners were the victims of constant insult and vexatious interference on the part of the Mandarins. They were forbidden to have their wives and families with them, to enter the city, to go into the country, to be taught the language or to have intercourse with any one save those appointed by the officials. There was little or no redress for the extortion of underlings or the plunder of goods on their transit to Canton.

At certain seasons of the year the damp and hot atmosphere and unhealthy surroundings made their narrow quarters well nigh unbearable. In every way they were circumscribed, restricted and tormented. As far back as 1754 foreigners made bitter complaints that injurious statements were annually put up by the government, accusing foreigners of horrible crimes and intended to expose them to the contempt of the populace.

The accusation of taking out eyes and hearts and mutilating women and children, persisted in to this day by the Chinese, antedates the time of medical missions, orphanages and other branches of missionary work.

Prémare thus translates the methods adopted by the Chinese Government in dealing with foreigners. "The barbarians are like beasts and not to be ruled on the same principles as citizens. Were any one to attempt controlling them by the great maxims of reason, it would tend to nothing but confusion. The ancient kings well understood this, and accordingly ruled barbarians by misrule; therefore, to rule barbarians by misrule is the true and best way to rule them."

THE OPIUM WAR.

On the withdrawal of the East India Company in 1834, Lord Napier was sent by the British Government as Chief Superintendent of Trade. His attempt to communicate with the Governor-General at Canton was contemptuously refused. No one would even receive or read the letter he brought from the home government. The close confinement Lord Napier was obliged to observe during the hottest part of the year, added to the responsible and harrassing nature of his position, so seriously impaired his health that he died three months after his arrival. In a Chinese dispatch this event was attributed to a judgment of heaven. Captain Elliot was appointed Lord Napier's successor. At this juncture the Chinese Emperor appointed Lin Tseh-su Imperial Commissioner, with unlimited power to proceed to Canton to crush out the opium traffic.

Lin was a man of commanding presence and of superior ability. Had it not been for his arrogance and supreme contempt for the few defenceless foreigners over whom he was conscious of possessing unlimited power, the war which followed might possibly have been averted. Lin did not deign to communicate with Captain Elliot or any foreigner. He issued proclamations both to the hong-merchants and foreigners. The one to the foreigners required them within three days to deliver up every particle of opium in the store-ships and give bonds that they would bring no more on penalty of death. Suddenly troops were assembled around the factory and armed cruisers stationed on the river; and the three hundred foreigners in Canton, including Captain Elliot, were made prisoners in their own houses. They were left without supplies of food, deprived of servants, and cut off from all intercourse with the home government. Captain Elliot surrendered under protest, and ordered all the opium in the hands of British merchants, amounting to 20,283 chests, the cost price of which amounted to nearly eleven million of dollars, to be given up to Commissioner Lin. By order of the Emperor all this opium was destroyed in the summer of 1838. The Chinese authorities spurned the very suggestion that they should pay the foreign merchants for the losses sustained under threats of violence, or make reparation for insults and injuries offered to representatives of the British Government.

The supremacy the Chinese arrogantly assumed over all other nations, and the contemptuous and haughty way of dealing with them, and the means adopted to drive them off or keep them under restraint, were such as no independent power could long endure. Striving to resist this contemptuous policy culminated in the war of 1841.

When the British troops arrived, in quick succession one city after another fell into their hands. The world has seldom seen a more conspicuous instance of the superiority of a comparatively small body of troops possessing science, skill, discipline, moral energy and courage and superior weapons of war, over immense multitudes of undisciplined, conceited and ignorant soldiers. Soon the very sight of the British fleet struck the inhabitants with mingled astonishment and dread.

During the war the Emperor issued orders to collect troops to "destroy and wipe clean away, to exterminate and root out rebellious barbarians." The people were encouraged to regard them with the same bitterness they did their personal enemies. His mandate said that "his enemies had been rebellious against heaven, opposing reason and one in spirit with brute beasts." It is therefore not surprising that luckless foreigners who fell into the hands of the Chinese were treated with atrocious cruelty. A Manchu Imperial Commissioner ordered one foreigner to be "flayed and afterwards burnt to death." Two transport ships were wrecked on Formosa. Many of the survivors perished from the hardships and exposures to which they were subjected after reaching the shore. The remaining 197 "were placed at a small distance from each other on their knees. Their feet in irons and hands bound behind their backs, they awaited for the executioners, who went round with a kind of two-handed sword, and cut off their heads without being laid on a block. Afterwards their bodies were thrown into one grave and their heads stuck up in cages on the sea shore."

TREATY OF NANKING.

Soon the Chinese Magnates were compelled to see their wall of supremacy, isolation and conceit shattered beyond the possibility of restoration. In August, 1842, at Nanking the ancient capital, a treaty was signed opening the ports of Canton, Amoy, Fuhchou, Ningpo and Shanghai to British trade and residence, ceding the island of Hong Kong to the British Government and binding the Chinese to pay $21,000,000, viz; For the expense of the war, $12,000,000; for debts due the English merchants, $3,000,000, and for the opium destroyed, $6,000,000. It is a matter of lasting regret that the impression should have been left indelibly upon the minds of all classes of the Chinese that the war was an opium war, waged chiefly to uphold the trade on that article. Opium undoubtedly entered largely into the dispute, but higher principles than the mere recovery of the opium destroyed were involved. The wrongs and insults of well nigh two centuries called for revenge. To the honor of Great Britain at the close of the war the Chinese Government was left entirely free to put whatever restriction upon opium it might be thought best.

When British rule had been established at Hong Kong opium was not allowed to be stored on shore. Strange as it may seem, no edicts were issued by the Emperor or Mandarins concerning it. The trade was permitted to go on unchecked. Opium was landed along the whole coast and smoked publicly. The old laws denouncing its use, purchase or sale under penalty of death, still remained on the statute books, but were wholly disregarded.

NEW ERA OF MISSIONS.

No sooner was China opened than missionaries of indomitable faith, already trained for service and conflict, together with increased numbers direct from the home lands entered China and with untiring, zealous energy began to lay deep and broad foundations for attacking the citadel of ignorance, pride and heathenism. Henceforth Christianity was to be brought face to face with a mighty people differing from the rest of the world in their language, laws, government, domestic habits, and religious rites and ceremonies; a heathen world of a distinctly Chinese type; a land of thick darkness, even darkness which might be felt; a land in which for twenty five centuries the cold and agnostic writings of Confucius had been memorized by every educated man, and had influenced every life, moulding the thoughts and penetrating the life so that for a Chinese subject to dream even of having thoughts of his own would be an act of treason against the Sage. Every man bows with the deepest reverence before the Sage as one whose "virtue is equal to heaven and earth."

THE CONFUCIAN SYSTEM.

The Confucian System comprises no personal God, no Savior, no immortality of the soul and no future rewards and punishment. It gives no answer to the thousand questions the heart is always asking, nor does it fire men with inspiration which makes them purer, nobler and better.

Filial piety, exemplified chiefly in ancestral worship, being the corner stone of the ethical system of Confucius, the people of every class have come to regard its observance as the essence of true religion, and the neglect of it an evidence of impiety worthy of a thousand deaths.

This system, having no provision for man's spiritual yearning, has furnished a rich soil for the vigorous growth of Buddhism and Taoism with all their net work of superstitions. In view of the fact that the Chinese are a people without God, enslaved by powerful systems of false religion, and have from time immemorial cherished a deep-rooted scorn and contempt for foreigners and all that pertains to them, regarding them as adepts in withcraft and capable of every crime, is there hope of Christianity preached by such detested foreigners, asserting its divine power and gaining victories over the hearts and lives of the people?

In full confidence that the Gospel is the divine remedy for all evils, schools, dispensaries, printing establishments and chapels were opened, the language acquired and the Gospel faithfully and persistently preached for eighteen years at the five treaty ports and on the island of Hong Kong. The work seemed to make slow progress indeed. Many were compelled to toil ten years or more without having the joy of seeing men won for Christ. In those days to give up ancestral worship and idolatry and to embrace the Christian religion meant to risk death at the hands of rulers and evils indescribable from the hands of kindred and neighbors.

The same insulting, injurious and high handed methods of dealing with foreigners and their affairs which was the chief factor in bringing about the first war being persisted in made a conflict, however much to be regretted, inevitable. Passing by the justice or the injustice of the second war with China the invasion of Peking by the Allies in 1860 and the treaty which followed may be regarded as closing the long conflict began in 1839. Hitherto "China, deaf to argument, would admit no opening for learning her real position among the nations of the world," "but blindly, mulishly persisted in cherishing her ignorance, her isolation, her conceit and her folly."

RELIGIOUS LIBERTY CONCEDED.

The hitherto absurd claim of universal supremacy has been exploded. The favorite dogma "There is but one sun in the heavens, so there can be but one Emperor, the Most High's Vicegerent on earth, appointed to rule all nations," lost its meaning. The Emperor however, loth to accept the situation, was compelled to acknowledge the change and ratify a treaty which opened ten new ports in northern and central China, gave to ministers plenipotentiary the right of residence in his capital; and the toleration clause—the Magna Charta—of the Christian in China. It reads "The Christian religion as professed by Protestants or Roman Catholics, inculcates the practice of virtue, and teaches man to do as he would be done by. Persons teaching it, or professing it, shall alike be entitled to the protection of the Chinese authorities, nor shall any such peaceably pursuing their calling, and not offending against the laws be persecuted or interfered with." This in addition to the right to travel and the right of residence in the interior, if faithfully executed, comprises all the rights the missionary asks from any Government. This clause in the treaty has doubtless proved a great blessing and has been a check upon native officials and thereby bound the Imperial Government not to become a persecuting government, as it has more than once since wished to be. It was soon discovered that laws and treaties do not restrain the wicked hearts of men, and that it remains true that all that will live godly in Christ Jesus shall suffer persecution. After the treaty had been ratified and published a secret memorial to the throne of no less a personage than the great viceroy Tseng Kwofan, then resident at Nanking, fell into the hands of foreigners and was translated. Foreign trade, he said, was permitted only because it could not be kept out and foreign friendship retained because it was less objectionable than foreign enmity.

From the first natives professing the Christian religion have in all sections of China been subject to every kind of bitter persecution. They have been called to endure the spoiling of property, beating, imprisonment and untold trials. Hundreds of native Christians have been cruelly massacred. Riots involving missionaries have been of frequent occurrence. On June 21, 1870, the mob at Tientsin massacred twenty innocent and unoffending Europeans—ten of them Sisters of Mercy. The deed was done by means of such revolting brutality as leaves it almost without a parallel in the blood-stained annals of Asia. It is true the Chinese authorities executed twenty of the lowest class of the people, but no one believes that the persons on whose heads the guilt of the massacre really rested were ever punished. The passion of the mob had been thoroughly aroused by the circulation of the old stories of kidnapping and taking out eyes and of vile literature attributing the most horrible and barbarous crimes to foreigners. Again and again the same methods have been successfully employed in exciting to mob violence and culminating in the oft repeated riots in Central China in 1891. These riots led to the massacre of two Europeans and the destruction of much valuable property, and for months imperilled the lives of thousands of foreigners widely scattered over China and led to the brink of another foreign war. These troubles have all helped to give a clearer insight into the work still to be done. Other causes than conflicts with western nations have helped to sober some of the Chinese and give them more just views of the rights and the power of others.

THE TAI PING REBELLION.

The rebellion grew out of the utter failure of the rulers to understand the great truth that every man has a right to worship God according to the dictates of his own conscience, and must answer to God and not to man for his special manner of life and form of worship. During thirteen years populous cities, towns and villages were reduced to ashes and millions of lives sacrificed. It was only by the vigorous assistance of the great General Gordon, lent by the British Government, that the rebellion was crushed out and quiet restored over large portions of southern and central China. It is probably owing to the assistance of General Gordon that the future Viceroy Le Hung-Chang who also fought side by side with him, became an advocate for progress and has exerted such a potent influence in China. Later, the Mohammedans in western China were for years in a state of revolt and carried devastation and death over immense districts. Again and again the overflowing of the Yellow River has deluged large portions of the country and brought death and poverty to multitudes. Pestilence and famine have been frequent visitors. It was during the severe famine of 1877 and '78, and again in 1888 that vast sums of money flowed from the countries of the West and saved great numbers of lives and relieved untold suffering. This kindled kindly feelings in many hearts, awakened a respect hitherto unknown for the foreigner and the Christian religion and has already borne much fruit.

NOTABLE CHANGES.

All these various agencies have been used by God to bring about wonderful changes.

China, instead of holding her position as the teacher of all nations, and the pupil of none, is taking her place as a pupil.

The Government in appointing ministers to the west and sending her choice youth abroad for education shows that she feels the necessity for more light. The press is now becoming a power. Foreigners chosen for their special qualifications are employed in military camps, in arsenals, in the customs service, in colleges, departments of translation, in coast surveys and light-house service, in mines, surveying and construction of telegraphs and railways. A navy possessing many foreign-built men-of-war armed with guns of the latest improvement and more than fifty foreign-built steamers owned by Chinese, are some of the signs of change from which there can be no retreat.

In estimating success the numerous obstacles to be overcome must be taken into account. The vast inert mass to be acted upon and the numerous difficulties already alluded to will give some idea of the obstacles in the way of the successful propagation of Christianity in China. As was to be expected a vast amount of preparatory labor was necessary before extensive results could be expected.

THE FIRST HARVEST FRUITS.

Fifty years of labor in such a land has scarcely given time as yet for more than the first harvest fruits.

Happily we are now able to point to results which prove beyond a doubt that "the foundations of God's spiritual temple have been laid and the walls of the glorious superstructure are now beginning to appear."

The latest published statistics from all parts of the Empire were presented at the Shanghai Conference in the spring of 1890 and brought the work to the end of 1889. At that time the number of foreign missionaries, of whom 211 were ordained, was as follows: Men, 589; wives, 391; single women, 816; total, 1,296.

At the end of 1892 the number had increased to about 1,500, with 1,657 native helpers and preachers. One of the ablest preachers in the Foochow Conference was offered $50 per month some years ago to engage in the Consular service, but he declined this, preferring to remain in the ministry with $3 per month mission pay.

In 1889 there were 522 organized native churches, 94 of them fully self-supporting and 37,287 communicants. The same rate of increase as during the three years preceding 1890 would now give 50,000 communicants*. There were 16,836 pupils receiving a Christian education.

CHRISTIAN EDUCATION.

The well-equipped Christian colleges, crowded with promising young men, established at Peking-Tung-chow, near Peking, Tungchow, Shantung, Shanghai, Nanking, Foochow, Canton, Formosa and elsewhere cannot fail to exert a mighty change in the near future. There are thousands intellectually convinced of the truth of Christianity and a still greater number asking to have their children educated in Christian schools. The future is full of promise.

"It is a great thing to be a missionary to China; and at such a time as this he may count himself doubly blessed, who hath part and lot with us in the service now required at our hands."

*In 1843, so far as known, there were but 6 communicants in the whole of China.

FOREIGN MISSIONS.

TREASURER'S STATEMENT OF RECEIPTS, MAY 1 TO FEB. 28, 1892 AND 1893.

	CHURCHES.	WOMEN'S B'DS.	SAB. SCHOOLS	Y. P. S. C. E.	LEGACIES.	MISCELLANEOUS	TOTAL.
1892	$208,325 88	$124,577 19	$20,873 63	$5,069 08	$87,088 38	$62,141 95	$508,101 05
1893	210,409 67	126,376 55	22,658 41	9,127 30	116,823 68	60,645 88	548,240 53
Gain Loss	$2,083 79	$3,799 36	$1,984 79	$4,058 22	$39,739 35	$1,496 07	$40,189 48

Total appropriated.....	$1,012,362 54
Deficit of May 1, 1892.....	54,531 06
Total needed for year.....	1,066,773 59
Received from all sources to March 1, 1893.....	548,240 53
Amount to be received before May 1, 1893, to meet all obligations.....	518,533 06
Received last year, March 1, 1892, to May 1, 1893.....	423,191 42
Increase needed before the end of the year.....	$95,341 64
Copies furnished on application.

"Young, dead, small-pox," was the brief but startling cable dispatch which announced to us the death of the Rev. John Newton Young, Jr., of our Peking Mission. No details have yet been received. Mr. Young was a graduate of Park College and of Princeton Theological Seminary. He entered upon his missionary work in the autumn of 1891, full of hope and giving large promise of effective service for Christ. His death will be deeply mourned by the mission, not only because a brother beloved has been taken, but because it leaves the mission already sorely depleted in its force sadly crippled. Who of the sons of Park College or of Princeton Seminary will take the place of their fallen brother?

Before this issue reaches our readers pastors and others will have received from the Board of Foreign Missions an invitation to unite in observing a Week of Self-denial and Prayer, beginning Sabbath, March 19. Such seasons have been observed by the London Missionary Society and other English societies with great profit. It is not a call to a week of public service, but rather to a season of thought and prayer and self-denial in the home, or ordinary services on the Lord's day—prayer meeting evening and ladies' meetings being turned in this direction wherever practicable. The financial condition of the Board is sufficiently serious to call for a generous response in gifts which, as the outcome of self-denial, will be all the more precious to Him who sits over against the treasury. If the way be open the gifts should be presented and received on Sabbath, March 26. But above all the request is to be understood as an urgent call to united, earnest prayer. The Board has arranged to hold a special service for prayer in the Mission House on Thursday afternoon of the week designated.

In an interesting communication from Rev. James D. Eaton, Missionary of the American Board in Mexico, published in the Independent of December 8th, a strong testimony is given by a member of the Legislature, who was present at the dedication of a Mission Church at Chihuahua. Speaking of the religious situation in Mexico he said:

The Evangelical Church is a powerful aid to our progress, founding schools, publishing papers, and extending civilization among our people. It has relieved poverty, furnished employment to labor, beautified our cities by the erection of modern edifices, and deepened the sentiments of patriotism in the hearts of our people. Such conduct gives to the ministers of this communion legitimate title to the respect and gratitude of every good Mexican, and justifies the favorable reception accorded to the Church by the people of Chihuahua, a considerable number of whom attend its services, under the laws which guarantee freedom of worship.

Of the young men who have been graduated from the Meiji Gakuin, the Presbyterian College in Tokyo, Japan, 24 per cent. have studied for the ministry in the Theological Department, or in seminaries abroad; 27 per cent. have entered higher institutions of learning at home or abroad; 26 per cent. have engaged in educational work; 7 per cent. in lay Evangelistic work, and 16 per cent. in business. It is certainly an encouraging showing that about one-third of the students engaged in evangelistic work as ministers are laymen, while almost another third engaged directly in educational work.

Those who have read the accounts of Dr. Good's exploration of the region lying back of Batanga on the west coast of Africa, which have appeared in recent numbers of our magazine will rejoice to learn that, in accordance with the recommendation of the mission, the Board has adopted the suggestion of Dr. Good, and has authorized the opening of a new station at Nkonemekak, some sixty or seventy miles southeast of Batanga. This place is the centre of a large population hitherto untouched by the Gospel. It has an elevation of about sixteen hundred feet above sea-level, while the hill where the station will probably be established is fully two hundred feet higher. Two men have already been appointed for this new station and the application of a third—a Christian mechanic—is before the Board. Should funds permit and men be available, it is the purpose of the Board to occupy a second station within a year. Who will go and who will send in this important enterprise of giving the Gospel to those who have never yet been reached by evangelizing agencies? The mission has appointed Dr. Good to superintend the establishing of the new station, his family meanwhile being in Batanga. This pioneer missionary and those to be associated with him, together with the entire enterprise now undertaken, are affectionately commended to the prayers of our beloved Church.

The Lodian Mission reports a total of 266 additions on confession of faith during the last year, making the roll of communicants 948. The per cent of increase is far beyond anything hitherto reported. Many of the additions were in the districts connected with the several stations.

Dr. C. B. Newton, of Jullundur, reports the baptism of a Mohammedan Dervish: "He is the son of a Mullah, or incumbent of a Mosque near Amritsar, but had lived as a Dervish for some fifteen years in a village near Jullundur. He had gained considerable reputation for sanctity by the practice of austerities, such as digging a grave and living in it for a month at a time. This he did two or three times, and on one occasion lay with his forehead on the ground in his grave so long that the white ants thought he must be a real corpse, and proceeded to devour him. Of course, they were interrupted before very long, but they left a scar on his forehead, which still remains. He told me that with all his austerities he could not get rid of his sins, or obtain the peace he sought. He was sick of the life he had led for so many years, and felt it was a perpetual fraud. He embraced Christianity with earnestness and is a hopeful convert." Dr. Newton also writes: "There seems to be a spirit of inquiry among the villages, and we have every reason to hope for large accessions to the church during the coming year. Our chief care is to keep these people in hand, and instruct them after baptism. The plan is to have schools in as many villages as possible for Christian children, and to make the teachers of these schools in a limited sense pastors, each in his own field. The chief difficulty is to obtain suitable men for this work, and the aim at present is to pick out the most promising lads and young men from among the villagers themselves, train them to this work, and set them at it."

A generous friend and supporter of Foreign Missions recently sent his check as a gift for that object. He stated that he had hesitated some time, thinking that he would first see whether present discussions should "leave us our Bible or not," but his second thought was wiser, and he sent the money. Whatever theological views we may hold, we should remember that we have the great commission direct from Christ, and that the delinquencies of others can never absolve us. He who may cherish "some larger hope" should not withdraw his contributions from Foreign Missionary Boards because they hold that mankind are lost and that Christ is the only Saviour. And, on the other hand, he whose faith is most orthodox with regard to the heathen cannot be excused from his duty by any laxity of view on the part of others. It were a strange logic that should punish the heathen, and deny Christ as a rebuke to heretics.

MAGIC LANTERN LECTURE ON INDIA, comprising the most celebrated cities and buildings of North India, together with rural scenes and the Presbyterian mission stations of the Northwest Provinces and the Punjab. In all sixty-nine views.

Size of slides, $8\frac{1}{2} \times 4$ inches—fit any ordinary lantern.

Manuscript Lecture accompanies the set.

Charges for use, each exhibition, $2 and express both ways. Price raised from $1, which was found insufficient to cover expense. Sets also for sale.

Address Mr. W. Henry Grant, 53 Fifth avenue, New York.

It is reported from Bombay that Mr. A. R. Webb, late United States Consul at Manilla has embraced Mohammedanism, and is about to become the apostle of his new-found faith in America. He professes to have been converted to Islam by a careful study of the Koran, and the works of its interpreters. He is at present raising money in India with a view to establishing newspapers and lecture courses in American cities. The amount reported up to the middle of December was less than $20,000. When we consider the welcome given to Theosophy by a few restless spirits in this country, who can tell how many may be found ready to enroll themselves under the Crescent? Verily, this is a missionary age!

STALWART CHRISTIANS these Chinese make when religion really gets hold of them. A letter written from Han Kow speaks of the recent manifestoes which have been published in the Province of Honan to forbid all from becoming Christians.

Should any one become bewitched by the foreign doctrines and not be willing to sacrifice either to Confucius or to the spirits of his ancestors, he must be severely dealt with by his clan. His name must be erased from the family register and his whole family driven from the Province. In face of these threats several men from the Province have recently become Christians. When it was known that one of these was baptized, his friends were furious. He was dragged out to the ancestral temple, where he was beaten; he was not allowed to say anything in his defence, but was made to renounce forever all clan rights and privileges. Fortunately in this case, the man's relations did not dare to inflict any bodily harm. However, to be an outcast from one's friends and home, rather than give up one's belief, would be anywhere a severe test of sincerity, especially so in China, where so much is made of family festivals and where so much property, such as wells, ground, animals, and agricultural implements are held in common, so that to become a Christian may mean not only giving up most of the social pleasures of life, but also, as well, many necessities.

CHINESE INNS I found by no means so unpleasant as others had described them. These of Manchuria certainly afforded a very fair variety of diet during the summer season, including poultry, eggs, mutton and many of our home vegetables. The kang were often heated unbearably, driving me to spread my bedding on the grass out-of-doors. But who would not have thought such privations great fun if encountered upon a summer camping expedition at home? At least I enjoyed hugely the rough picturesqueness of my surroundings.

Rev. S. H. Kellogg, D. D., after a prolonged experience in America as Theological Professor and Pastor, has recently returned to India with his family, where he formerly rendered conspicuous service in scholarly and missionary lines. Dr. Kellogg is a regular missionary under appointment by the Board of Foreign Missions, but he has returned to India at the urgent invitation of our North India Missions and the North India Bible Society to take part in the revision of the Old Testament in Hindi, for which his scholarly habits and attainments eminently fit him. In connection with this literary work he means also to give himself to the preaching of the Word in the District and elsewhere, under direction of the Mission. He has met with a most cordial welcome at the hands of the North India Missionaries without distinction of name.

The following from the Rev. J. M. Alexander, of Allahabad, illustrates the difficulties attending a public confession of faith even under the British flag in India: "At Bindki I baptized a family of three persons, father, mother and one child. The man made a living by daily labor among the grain merchants in the bazaar. The day after his baptism he went out as usual to his work, but the news of his baptism had been published abroad, and no one was willing to give him employment. After vainly seeking for work all day he returned to his home utterly discouraged, and in the night he died suddenly. There is a lone Christian grave close to this heathen village in a plot of ground given for the person by a Hindu Zamindar. This gift is worthy of note."

The sum of £116,006 has been received by the Wesleyan Missionary Society during the past year. Compared with 1891, there is an increase of £9,495.

FINANCIAL OUTLOOK.

The Treasurer's statement for February, found at the beginning of these notes, on page 265, will be a great disappointment to the Church. The hope entertained a month ago that the increase in receipts from all sources then reported would continue, has not been realized. The balance is again on the wrong side as compared with February of last year, while the total advance for the current year has been reduced to $40,000. By the time this statement reaches our readers we shall be within five weeks of the close of the fiscal year. On March 1st we required more than FIVE HUNDRED AND EIGHTEEN THOUSAND DOLLARS in order to close the year without debt, or $95,000 more than the amount received during the same period last year. Will not pastors, sessions and the coöperating societies, and the Lord's stewards generally, lay this matter to heart? Reports from the field were never more encouraging. Why should reapers be withheld, or those thrusting in the sickle be paralyzed for lack of coöperation at home?

MISSIONARY CALENDAR.

DEPARTURE.

From New York for Mexico mission, Feb. 6, Miss Ella DeBaun, (returning).
From San Francisco for Korea mission Jan. 30, Rev. and Mrs. H. G. Underwood, D. D., (returning); for West Japan mission, Feb. 14, Miss M. K. Hesser, (returning); for Peking mission, Feb. 14, Rev. and Mrs. J. L. Whiting, (returning).

ARRIVAL.

From Guatemala City, Guatemala, Jan. 2, Rev. E. M. Haymaker.
From Valparaiso, Chili, Jan. 5, Rev. and Mrs. J. F. Garvin.
From Chinanfu, China, Feb. 1, Rev. Gilbert Reid.
From Wei Hien, China, Miss Fannie Wight.
From Woodstock, India, Miss S. A. Hutchison.

Concert of Prayer For Church Work Abroad.

[Conducted by REV. JAMES S. DENNIS, D. D.]

JANUARY, . . .	General Review of Missions.
FEBRUARY, . . .	Missions in China.
MARCH, . . .	Mexico and Central America.
APRIL, . . .	Missions in India.
MAY, . . .	Missions in Siam and Laos.
JUNE, . . .	Missions in Africa.
JULY, . . .	Indians, Chinese and Japanese in America.
AUGUST, . . .	Missions in Korea.
SEPTEMBER, . . .	Missions in Japan.
OCTOBER, . . .	Missions in Persia.
NOVEMBER, . . .	Missions in South America.
DECEMBER, . . .	Missions in Syria.

MISSIONS IN INDIA.

LODIANA MISSION.

LAHORE: the political capital of the Punjab, 1,225 miles northwest of Calcutta; mission station commenced, 1849; missionary laborers—Rev. Charles W. Forman, D. D., Rev. J. C. Rhea Ewing, D. D., Rev. J. Harris Orbison, M. D., Rev. Henry C. Velte, Rev. U. S. G. Jones, and Prof. J. G. Gilbertson and their wives; Rev. Isa Charan, Rev. Dharm Das; one licentiate, two native doctors, and ten native assistants, of whom four are women. Outstation at Waga, Miss Clara Thiede, one native teacher.

In England: Mrs. John Newton.

FEROZEPUR: 50 miles southwest of Lodiana; occupied as a station, 1882; Rev. F. J. Newton, M. D., and wife, and Rev. J. N. Hyde, one native minister, one licentiate.

HOSHARPUR: 45 miles north of Lodiana; mission station commenced, 1867; Rev. and Mrs. K. C. Chatterjee and Rev. Muhammed Shah; licentiates, two; native helpers, seven.

JULLUNDUR: 120 miles east of Lahore, 30 miles west of Lodiana; mission station commenced, 1846; missionary laborers—Rev. and Mrs. C. B. Newton and Rev. Arthur H. Ewing, Rev. J. M. McComb and their wives; Miss Sarah M. Wherry, Miss Emma Morris, Miss Emily Forman; Rev. John B. Dales; native assistants, fourteen. Outstations at Jagraon, Rev. Ahmad Shah; native assistants, four; at Khanna, Rev. Jaimal Singh; one native assistant.

LODIANA: near the river Sutlej, 1,100 miles northwest of Calcutta; mission station commenced, 1834; missionary laborers—Rev. Edward P. Newton and Rev. Arthur H. Ewing, Rev. J. M. McComb and their wives; Miss Sarah M. Wherry, Miss Emma Morris, Miss Emily Forman; Rev. John B. Dales; native assistants, fourteen. Outstations at Jagraon, Rev. Ahmad Shah; native assistants, four; at Khanna, Rev. Jaimal Singh; one native assistant.

AMBALA: 55 miles southeast of Lodiana; mission station commenced, 1848; missionary laborers—Rev. and Mrs. Benjamin D. Wyckoff, Mrs. Wm. Calderwood, Miss J. R. Carleton, M. D., Miss Emily Marston, M. D.; one lady assistant; Rev. Sandar Lal, Rev. Henry Golok Nath, Rev. P. C. Uppal, Rev. Matthias; licentiates, five; native assistants, sixteen. At a station in the plains, in the cold season, and at Ani, in the hills, in the hot season, Rev. and Mrs. Marcus M. Carleton, post-office, Ambala Cantonments; one licentiate and one helper, Outstations at Jagadri, Rupar and Morinda.

SABATHU: in the lower Himalaya Mountains, 110 miles east of Lodiana; mission station commenced, 1836; missionary laborers—M. B. Carleton, M. D., and Mrs. Carleton; Rev. T. W. J. Wylie; one native teacher, one Bible-reader.

DEHRA: 47 miles east of Saharanpur; mission station commenced, 1853; missionary laborers—Rev. and Mrs. Reese Thackwell; Rev. W. J. P. Morrison and their wives, Rev. J. F. Ullman, Miss Harriet A. Savage, Miss Elma Donaldson; two native ministers; three lady assistants in teaching and zenana work; thirteen native teachers, etc., of whom six are Bible-women.

WOODSTOCK: in Landour, 15 miles eastward from Dehra; school begun, 1874; missionary laborers—Mrs. E. H. Braddock, Miss Clara C. Giddings, Miss Mary E. Bailey, Miss Susan A. Hutchison, and Miss Clara E. Hutchison.

SAHARANPUR: 180 miles southeast of Lodiana; mission station commenced, 1836; missionary laborers—Rev. Alexander P. Kelso, Rev. R. Morrison, Rev. C. W. Forman, Jr., M. D., Rev. Henry Forman, and their wives; Miss Jessie Dunlap and Miss Agnes L. Orbison; Rev. John A. Liddle; licentiates, three; native assistants, twelve, of whom six are women.

In this country: Rev. and Mrs. A. P. Kelso, Rev. Howard Fisher, Mrs. F. J. Newton and Miss S. A. Hutchison.

FARRUKHABAD MISSION.

FATEHGARH—FARRUKHABAD: the former the civil station and the latter the native city, 733 miles northwest of Calcutta; mission station begun, 1844; missionary laborers—Rev. C. A. Rodney Janvier, Rev. John N. Forman, and their wives; Miss Mary P. Forman; Rev. Mohan Lal; native assistants, twenty-three, of whom nine are women.

FATEHPUR: 70 miles northwest of Allahabad; station begun, 1853; missionary laborers—one native licentiate, two native helpers.

MYNPURIE: 40 miles west of Fatehgarh; mission station commenced, 1843; missionary laborers—Rev. Thomas Tracy, Rev. H. M. Andrews, and their wives; one lady teacher; nineteen native helpers, of whom ten are women; and at Outstation, four. ETAH: three native Christian helpers.

ETAWAH: on the Jumna, 50 miles southwest of Mynpurie; mission station commenced, 1863; missionary laborers—Rev. and Mrs. John S. Woodside; one native licentiate; nine native assistants. Miss Christine Bels, teacher and zenana visitor. Two outstations.

GWALIOR: capital of a native state; mission station commenced, 1874; Mrs. Joseph Warren; Rev. Sukh Pal.

JHANSI: 250 miles west of Allahabad. Population, 52,000; occupied as a mission station in 1886; Rev. James F. Holcomb, Rev. Hervey D. Griswold, and their wives; two lady assistants; Rev. Nabi Baksh; one licentiate; five native assistants, of whom four are women.

ALLAHABAD: at the junction of the Ganges and the Jumna, 506 miles northwest of Calcutta; mission commenced, 1836; missionary laborers—Rev. J. J. Lucas, D.D., Rev. I. H. Kellogg, D.D., Rev. James M. Alexander, and their wives, Rev. W. F. Johnson, D.D., Miss Mary E. Johnson, Mrs. John Newton, Jr., Miss Mary L. Symes, Miss Jennie L. Colman, Miss Margaret J. Morrow, and Miss Emma Templin, M. D., one Christian female teacher and zenana visitor; Rev. John S. Caleb, Rev. Isaac Fieldbrave; three native licentiates; native assistants, thirteen, of whom six are women.

In this country: Rev. J. J. Lucas, D. D., Rev. James F. Holcomb, and their wives; Mrs. Thomas Tracy.

KOLHAPUR MISSION.

KOLHAPUR: 200 miles southeast of Bombay; 45,000 inhabitants; mission station commenced, 1853; taken under care of the Board, 1870; laborers—Rev. and Mrs. G. W. Seiler, Rev. and Mrs. James M. Goheen, Rev. J. M. Irwin, Mrs. R. G. Wilder, Miss Grace E. Wilder, Miss Esther Patton, Miss Rachel Irwin.

PANHALA: 14 miles north of Kolhapur; mission station commenced, 1877; laborers—Rev. and Mrs. George H. Ferris.

SANGLI: 30 miles east of Kolhapur; work begun, 1884; laborers—Rev. and Mrs. J. P. Graham, Mr. and Mrs. Jehn Jolly, Miss Jennie Sherman.

RATNAGIRA: 70 miles northwest of Kolhapur; mission station commenced, 1873; missionary laborers—Revs. L. B. Tedford and W. H. Hannum and their wives, Miss E. T. Minor, and Miss Amanda Jefferson.

MIRAJ: The centre of the medical work. Dr. and Mrs. W. J. Wanless.

In this country: Rev. and Mrs. Galen W. Seiler, Mrs. L. B. Tedford, Mrs. J. P. Graham.

APPEAL OF INDIAN MISSIONS TO THE CHURCHES.

The Third Decennial Missionary Conference of India assembled in Bombay overwhelmed by the vastness of the work, contrasted with the utterly inadequate supply of workers, earnestly appeals to the Church of Christ in Europe, America, Australasia and Asia.

We re-echo to you the cry of the unsatisfied heart of India, with it we pass on the Master's word for the perishing multitude,—"Give ye them to eat,"—an opportunity and a responsibility never known before confront us.

The work among the educated and English speaking classes has reached a crisis. The faithful labors of godly men in the classroom need to be followed up by men of consecrated culture free to devote their whole time to aggressive work among India's thinking men. Who will come and help to bring young India to the feet of Christ?

Medical Missionaries of both sexes are urgently required. We hold up before medical students and young doctors the splendid opportunity of reaching the souls of men through their bodies.

The women of India must be evangelized by women. Ten times the present number of such workers could not overtake the task. Missionary ladies now working are so taxed by the care of converts and inquirers already gained, that often no strength is left for entering thousands of unentered but open doors. Can our sisters in Protestant Christendom permit this to continue?

India has fifty million Mohammedans, a larger number than is found in the Turkish Empire, and far more free to embrace Christianity. Who will come to work for them?

Scores of missionaries should be set apart to promote production of Christian literature, in the languages of the people.

Sunday-schools into which hundreds of thousands of India's children can readily be brought and molded for Christ, furnish one of India's greatest opportunities for yet more workers.

Industrial schools are urgently needed to help in developing a robust character in Christian youth, and to open new avenues to honest work for them. These call for capable Christian workers of special qualifications.

The population of India is largely rural. In hundreds and thousands of villages there is a distinct mass movement toward Christianity. There are millions who would speedily become Christians, if messengers of Christ could reach them, take them by the hand and not only baptize, but also lead them into all Christian living. Most of these people belong to the depressed classes. They are none the less heirs to our common salvation; and whatever admixture of less spiritual motives may exist, God Himself is stirring their hearts, and turning their thoughts toward the things which belong to His Kingdom.

In the name of Christ and the unevangelized masses for whom He died, we appeal to you to send more laborers at once. May every church hear the voice of Christ saying, "Separate me Barnabas and Saul for the work whereunto I have called them." In every church may there be a Barnabas and Saul ready to obey the Spirit's promptings.

Face to face with two hundred and eighty-four millions in this land, for whom in this generation you as well as we are responsible, we ask, will you not speedily double the number of laborers?

Will you not also lend your choicest pastors to labor for a term of years among the millions who can be reached through the English tongue? Is this too great a demand to make upon the resources of those saved by Omnipotent God?

At the beginning of another century of missions in India, let us all "expect great things from God,—attempt great things for God."

For the reflex blessing of yourselves as well as for India's sake, we beseech you "Hear what the Spirit saith unto the churches." The manifestation of Christ is greatest to those who keep His Commandments and this is His Commandment: "Go ye into all the world and preach the Gospel to every Creature."

Secretaries of Bombay Decennial Conference.

A. MANNERING,
J. L. PHILLIPS.

Two little children, less than eight years old, have sent letters, evidently written with their own hands, all the way from Saharunpur, India, answering our question about the wooden image of Christ. The promised pictures are on their way to them over the ocean.

THE APPEAL OF THE BOMBAY CONFERENCE.

F. F. ELLINWOOD, D. D.

The Report of a general Conference of Missions recently held in Bombay, brings a watch-ward and a challenge to the Churches of Christendom of no uncertain sound. It is full of inspiration and should arouse the friends of missions, and convert those who are not friends, to faith and zeal and redoubled effort. Their appeal is the most discriminating of any that we have yet seen from the mission fields. First: It recognizes the fact that the conditions of the work have been changed by the large amount of educational influence that has been exerted upon India for a century past, and that there is a large class now who are to be dealt with not as babes in knowledge and therefore not to be reached by the same methods as those who have never heard of Western education, but who must be met as educated English speaking, thinking men, peers of the missionaries in intellectual training. The appeal says, that "the work among the educated and English speaking class has reached a crisis. The faithful labors of godly men should be followed up by men of culture who will help bring young India to the feet of Christ." Possibly the work of Rev. Dr. Pentecost has suggested this particular clause in the appeal. It has been seen how many there are who are thoroughly trained intellectually and are possibly more deeply read in philosophy and modern speculations than the average missionary. There have been individuals in the fields who have appreciated the demand for just such an appeal as this and have urged the necessity of a thorough preparation of at least some of our missionaries along all the lines of a new apologetic adapted to the native issues which have sprung up in India and Japan as well as in Europe and America. But now comes an appeal voicing the conviction of a great general conference asking for those who shall be able to meet the educated Hindoos with the convincing power of the Gospel. Educated Hindoos are for the most part educated in a peculiar way. They have learned more or less of Christian truth, some of them perhaps in mission schools, but they have learned far more of the objections to Christianity; they have a sort of pride in their "Revived Aryanism" or in professed agnosticism together with various speculations which go by the name of science. Their intellectuality is of a lofty and supercilious type, and they often hold a patronizing attitude toward the missionary. In meeting these men it is not desirable to provide missionaries for India, or to send special ambassadors like President Seely and Dr. Pentecost for the mere purpose of forensic discussions on the questions at issue, but it is necessary that those who are sent for this work among English speaking Hindoos, should be prepared to meet them on any issue and that the people should know that they are prepared. Paul did not tell young Titus to spend his time on the "gainsayers," but he enjoined upon him to be ready to "convince" them.

The preaching of the Gospel should bedirect, clear and practical and glowing with the love of Christ. One should not allow himself to be diverted from it if he can help it, but the conceited native should know that behind it all is a broad knowledge of all the points at issue and an ability to demonstrate the supremacy of the Gospel. As a rule the true methods are not those of attack and denunciation, but rather of such courteous respect for the convictions of others as Christ and His apostles always showed toward those who were not of the household of faith.

The second clause in this appeal, which is noticeable, shows a conviction that, after all the great preparatory work of the past, the remaining years of this century should be given largely to the simple proclamation of the Gospel to the masses of people, no matter how low the caste. And it recognizes the fact that the rural populations are more approachable than those who are gathered in cities. While in the great towns the missionary will very likely be assailed by such gain-sayers as Titus encountered in the island of Crete, men who are specially employed to disconcert and break up the missionary by difficult and hairsplitting questions, or by ridicule, the simple populations of the rural districts will be found more ready to receive the Gospel, and probably more easily influenced. The appeal says:

"In hundreds and thousands of villages there is a distinct mass movement toward Christianity. There are millions who would speedily become Christians, if messengers of Christ could reach them, take them by the hand and not only baptize, but also lead them into all Christian living. Most of these people belong to the depressed classes. They are none the less heirs to our common salvation; and whatever admixture of less spiritual motives may exist, God himself is stirring their hearts, and turning their thoughts toward the things which belong to his kingdom."

Every true missionary, however ready he may be for any emergency in grappling with intelligent cavillers, will find his chief joy in telling the simple story of the Cross, and, while I would emphasize the necessity for understanding the subtle errors and peculiar habits of thought of the people, I place double emphasis on the simple direct work of preaching the Gospel, and of gathering in the multitudes. I have much sympathy with the Methodist Mission in North India and the Baptist Mission among the Telugus in their policy of throwing the doors open wider and wider to the masses, and are more ready than formerly to receive them upon the profession of their faith, but who at the same time follow up assiduously and constantly the beginnings of Christian life, and by all the means and agencies which a Mission can compass strive to cultivate from month to month and year to year, the growth of these germs into strength and completeness.

The third recommendation of the Conference is that scores of missionaries should be sent out to promote the production of Christian literature in the language of the people.

I venture a suggestion, viz., that while it may not be possible to send out so many to India, it is entirely possible for "scores of Christian men and women here at home to prepare and send, at their own expense, brief and pointed selections of Christian literature for the thousands who speak English; just as Ingersoll and Bradlaugh have supplied tens of thousands of pages of error to Hindus and Japanese. In some cases such works could be translated into vernacular tongues. This is not a call for indifferent and unsalable works to be sent out at the expense of mission boards. The selection should be choice and should be an entirely free gift."

In closing, the appeal says: "At the beginning of another century of Missions in India, let us all 'expect great things from God—attempt great things for God.'

For the reflex blessing to yourselves as well as for India's sake, we beseech you, 'Hear what the Spirit saith unto the Churches.' The manifestation of Christ is greatest to those who keep his commandments, and this is His commandment: 'Go ye into all the world and preach the Gospel to every creature.'"

A HOPEFUL MOVEMENT IN NORTH INDIA.

J. J. LUCAS, D. D.

For a few years past there has been a movement of the lower castes in North India toward the Church. In some districts thousands of Mehtars and Chuhars have been baptized, and thousands more are ready to take the same step. The Mehtars or Bhangis in the North West Provinces and the Chuhars in the Punjab are at the bottom of the social scale. They are the lowest of the low castes, greatly despised by both Hindus and Mohammedans. They usually live on the outskirts of villages, separate from the Hindus and Mohammedans. In cities and large towns they live in settlements by themselves. They are not allowed to draw water from the public wells, nor bathe in the public tanks. Again and again have riots been caused by attempts on their part, even after their baptism, to draw water from wells used in common by the higher castes. The presence of a Mehtar boy in a public school would soon empty it. As a consequence only one here and there is able to read. They are very poor, the average income of an able-bodied man rarely reaching more than twenty dollars a year. In many places they are practically the serfs of the Zamindar, or land proprietor. They are the scavengers of the cities and towns. The Hindus of caste would not for the very highest remuneration take away the bodies of dead animals and the sewerage of the towns. This work falls to the Mehtars and Chuhars, and many of them have no scruples as to eating these dead animals. Nor have they scruples against strong drink. They are idolators, with many superstitious beliefs and practices. This is one side of the picture. The other is that as a class they are industrious, healthy, contented, lovers of their homes and families. They have no zenana system, their wives working in the streets and fields, as do their husbands. While child marriage is common among them, the widows are allowed to marry. Although they are far behind the Brahmans in intelligence and natural capacity, still many of them are quick to learn and in some instances have shown that they need only a fair field, a little favor and time to lift themselves out of the low estate into which they have fallen.

A DOOR OF HOPE.

We are now prepared to answer the question, What has led to their baptism by the thousands, sometimes hundreds in a day or within a few days? First, neither Hinduism nor Mohammedanism have done anything to lift up these poor people. On the contrary the stability of Hinduism depends on keeping them in the position of menials. Were the Mehtars to refuse to do the work they have been doing for centuries the whole caste system would be dislocated and the higher castes compelled to do those things which their religious teachers have ever taught them would be death to their caste and death to their souls. Hinduism can offer nothing better to these lower castes than the place of the most menial servant. And Mohammedanism in India has become so infected by the caste spirit that it has no word of hope for those at the bottom. The Mehtars and Chuhars are coming to see this. Again and again have they been told it. But what has made a deeper impression on them than words is the sight of one and another of their number entering the Church and watching the change which has thus been wrought.

A TYPICAL CASE.

To illustrate, Kripa Ram, a Mehtar, has lived all his life on the outskirts of the village of Gharibabad. Here have lived his forefathers. None of them ever earned more than twenty dollars a year, and that with hard toil. None of them ever learned to read, a book of any kind has never been in the house. They have always lived in a little mud house of not more than two rooms, not a window in it, the roof of grass and so low that one must bend as he goes in at the one door. Thus have they lived quietly, contentedly, hoping for nothing better than enough to eat and drink, the daily toil broken now and then by a marriage or a death, perhaps by a pilgrimage to some sacred spot. A missionary visits Gharibabad, and the old, old story comes to Kripa Ram with freshness and power. He believes and is baptized with his whole family. Gharibabad now becomes a centre of missionary work. A native preacher is sent to instruct Kripa Ram and his family, and to preach in the villages within reach. In a few weeks he sends a messenger to the missionary to come at once, that Kripa Ram and his sons have been beaten at the public well. The missionary hurries away and finds the town in commotion. Kripa Ram had asserted his rights as a Christian and drawn water from a well where no Mehtar had ever been allowed to draw. The high castes, led by the son of the Zamindar, set on the Christians at the well and beat them severely. The case is reported to the English Magistrate and at once the ringleaders in the assault are fined, one of them imprisoned, and an order issued that Christians have a right to draw water from the well. The report spreads far and wide that Mehtars on becoming Christians have a right to draw water from the public wells. Kripa Ram learns to read and is employed as teacher of a small mission school. One of his sons enters the Mission High School, wins a scholarship, passes the entrance examination to the Calcutta University, and is employed as a teacher in a Government office, perhaps in the Railway or Telegraph Office, on a salary of a hundred dollars a year. All the relatives of Kripa Ram, and they are many, are soon baptized. The Mission has taken this family and given an object lesson of what the Gospel can do. It has lifted up in every way the family of Kripa Ram, the once despised Mehtar. He who was once the scavenger of the town or the driver of a conservancy cart, to whom Hinduism could offer nothing higher or better, is now a teacher. One of his sons is a clerk in a Government office and another is a cook in the regimental mess. Object lessons of this kind, scattered here and there, showing what the Gospel can do in enlarging life, in lifting up the lowly and seating them in churches, schools and offices alongside of the highest castes, have not been without their effect on all the lower castes. Hope has been breathed into them. To the Mission Church have they begun to look in large numbers for deliverance and enlargement. How is this movement to be met?

A QUESTION OF MISSION POLICY.

With few exceptions, missionaries agree that it is of God; that it is full of promise; that if wisely guided it will do much to break down caste and build up the Church. Some urge that the wisest course is to baptize all who are willing to be baptized, that we should not require "inward grace, but outward separation," that "the test should be separation from heathen practices and associations, and submission to Christian rules." (Mr. B. Aitken in Indian Witness, August 6th, 1892). Mr. Aitken approves of what he calls "mass baptisms." Speaking of such baptisms, he says, "I have been intimately familiar with Indian Missions most of my life . . . and have personally studied the character of the Christians in four of the Missions named above . . . I can think of five missionaries of from fourteen to twenty years' service who told me openly that their converts were not converted when they were baptized, and many of them never at all. And that the most interesting part of their work was watching the reception of light and the gradual submission to Christ of these unconverted converts. I am far from saying that all the members of those Missions would have spoken so boldly; but that they all purposely and habitually baptized people simply on their renouncing idolatry and submitting to Christianity, cannot be disputed. One missionary full of sanctified common sense and unwavering love for souls said to me that it meant a spiritual revolution for a heathen to abandon intoxicating drink, polygamy, witchcraft and superstition; and that as for lying, quarreling and overreaching he could only be brought to see the evil of these things by slow and patient teaching. Personally, I agree with this view of the matter." With this view of the question some of the most experienced missionaries in India agree. They urge that thus whole villages are brought under Christian influences and discipline; that thus the children are weaned from idolatry and can be trained as Christians; that thus quickly caste can be struck a death blow, that when the Mehtars in large numbers seek other employment this will force the higher castes to do work which all agree destroys caste; and, this especially, that again and again the Holy Spirit has been poured out on gatherings composed chiefly of those baptized to secure their outward separation and allegiance, many of them at such gatherings passing from death unto life, and in this way God has put the seal of His approval to the work.

THE PROS AND CONS OF THE QUESTION OF "MASS BAPTISMS."

On the other hand, missionaries of equal experience and spiritual judgment have not approved these "mass baptisms," urging that there should be evidence of "inward grace" before baptism is administered; that in the end the Church will suffer, the Hindus and Mohammedans seeing Church after Church filled with one caste only, and that the lowest, will be repelled; that the Church is in danger of being filled chiefly with those who have no love for her save as she can enrich and lift them up in social life; that apostasies on a large scale will follow, as they have in at least four places in North India; that the Roman Catholics are sure to come in and carry off such converts in large numbers, as they have in a number of places, making work in such places tenfold more difficult; that so long as only one convert here and there can read it is impossible to organize them into churches, impossible to get teachers and preachers from among them, and so there is little hope of their spiritual growth. Much more might be said on both sides of this question. Enough has here been suggested to show that this movement is full of hope. I myself am thoroughly persuaded that the Spirit of God is working quietly in the hearts of these poor people and is turning them in many ways to the Church. Not to recognize the movement as from God and work with Him in it would be spiritual blindness indeed. To speak of it as a repetition of the day of Pentecost, even though hundreds and thousands be baptized in a day, is misleading. To compare Missions according to the number of baptisms reported, ignoring the conditions of baptism and the policy pursued for years in each Mission, is unfair.

"UNDERSTANDING OF THE TIMES."

The movement is beset with difficulties. It calls for much prayer that those in the field may have "understanding of the times, to know what to do;" that on the one hand they may not yield to the temptation to baptize hundreds at a time without evidence of "inward grace," and on the other hand they may ever bear in mind that in the spiritual world, as in the natural, it is "first the blade, then the ear, after that the full corn in the ear." The movement calls for many more laborers, foreign and native, and to obtain these of the right kind the first step is plain "The harvest truly is plenteous, but the laborers are few. Pray ye therefore the Lord of the harvest that he send forth laborers into his harvest." It calls for large gifts that special efforts may be put forth, and that at once, to make the most of this tide now setting in so strongly toward the Church. If here and in India we give ourselves to prayer and effort we shall in due time reap and rejoice together, and perhaps speedily. That depends, in large measure, on our united efforts. The brethren in the field are greatly encouraged by the outlook. May the Church at home know the opportunity, sending out her sons and daughters and giving with an open, liberal hand.

confined well nigh exclusively to the growing city which we call our home, the population of which we saw increase from 32,000 to 52,000 within five years. Several preaching tours have, however, been made in different directions, and both by the spoken message and the printed page the Gospel has been carried to a considerable number of villages within a radius of forty-five miles. But how very few have heard the Gospel from us, compared with those who have not heard it!

"The harvest truly is plenteous, but the laborers are few." Who will come and help us in the great work we have undertaken to do?

A BRAHMAN BREAKING CASTE.

MISS ANNIE S. GEISINGER, DEHRA.

It is not often that in travel or intercourse with natives I find such interesting exponents of the great changes coming over priest-ridden India as crossed my path recently. I was stopping at a hotel at the foot of the hills, resting on my way home. Dinner being announced, I took my seat at the table and was shortly joined by two strangers—one an Englishman, with the cadaverous, washed-out appearance of the plains, and the other as perfect a specimen of a Brahman as this country could produce; dressed in English clothes, even to kid gloves, and wearing on his head a most splendid gold-thread and white mull head-dress—a turban of that peculiar shape which would make you hesitate in deciding as to whether he were a Nawab or an individual not so near the throne. He bowed to me in a most gallant manner and took his seat at my left. It was very evident that he was not a Christian, and great was my astonishment to see him patronizing the bill of fare—first soup, then one meat dish after another, including roast beef, as any other person might, even calling for "claret," to help matters on. He discoursed to the Englishman of his travels and visits to the many famous Hindu shrines along the way from South India, his home, up to the snowy peaks of Gangotri and Jamnotri. He spoke the most perfect English, not of a stilted or book kind, as one so often hears from educated natives, but a kind that made you wish he would never stop. I thought, "what incongruity; a Brahman, Gangotri, Jamnotri, beef, claret—what can it all mean!" and longed to know a thousand things about my interesting neighbor. Before the meal was quite ended the Englishman excused himself and departed. My mysterious neighbor then turned to me and addressed a few commonplace remarks about the weather. Seizing my opportunity, I began plying him with questions, which he did not seem averse to answering, about his travels to these various shrines; the object; his Southern home; the state of progress there; condition of the women—what was being done for them; what had been attained, and many kindred subjects, on which he discoursed in the most interesting manner, and gave me a little of his own history.

He was the first of three brothers to break over caste traditions and go to England, where he spent two years, and supplemented this stay by travel on the Continent and in Egypt. He returned to his people to find himself an outcast, and being more independent than many who have taken the same step said to them: "Very well; you for yourselves, I for myself," and lived apart from them. Later on two younger brothers followed his course in going abroad, with the same social ostracism on their return, only he had been the pioneer and had borne the brunt of the battle. "Now," said he, "there are about forty of us, and we are perfectly independent of the others." His journeyings were a combination of pilgrimage and travel for pleasure, though exactly why he should be going on a pilgrimage when he was not an orthodox Hindu I could not understand. He anticipated this, as though always on the defensive, and volunteered some explanation, saying that in the Vedas such food and certain drinks were not forbidden, and "I am only going back to the uncorrupt form of the Aryan faith." I spoke of the progress of the country in many respects, under the present rule, to which his pride of his nation's history in the dim past, and the love of independence in his breast, did not give a hearty assent.

The subject gradually veered around to Christianity, (the direction in which I had been trying to bring it) and he spoke in glowing terms of the "Christianity of England," and how truly the faith was lived out in the mother country but not in India; and that it could never become the religion of his country through those who are its representatives here. Oh, what a commentary on the lives of the many nominal Christians who come to this country! "Why," said he, "Do they not live abroad what they professed at home?" When matters were sifted down it amounted to about this—he was no more Hindu than Christian, nor Christian than Hindu. He believed that India would have revived again at its proper time (he was something of a fatalist) without any outside quickening influences. She had completed one cycle of her history and would have begun another just as glorious at the proper time. "But," said he, "I must bear testimony to the good accomplished by the missions in India and am grateful for what they have done for my people, and especially the American Missions, upon whom the country has no claim. England governs, and it is her duty to do everything in her power for the good of her subjects, but why should America, who can not hope to gain anything for herself, take such thought for my people? This I call generous, this is noble! Tell them in America to send many more to carry on this work, for there is much to be done!"

I could not forbear telling him that by this acknowledgment and petition he was bearing the best testimony to the superiority of Christianity over other religions. Alas! he is only a representative of a large class in India, but is it confined to this country? Are there not many in Christian countries who appropriate the blessings of that Christ whom they spurn!

Urgent appeals for re-inforcements have recently been received by the Board from the Lodia and Farrukhabad Missions, the former asking for five, and the latter for three ordained missionaries as the minimum required. The argument in both instances is the magnitude of the work already in hand and the necessity of maintaining it at the point of the highest possible efficiency in all its departments—our educational institutions which, through the divine blessing on years of patient and earnest toil, have become a recognized power in India—the special call of Divine Providence to a larger evangelistic work among the villages in the several districts, where already the first fruits have been gathered, and the promise of a rich harvest is increasingly bright—the utter inadequacy of the present missionary force, already burdened with cares at the several stations, for anything like vigorous and aggressive work in the districts. One of the brethren on the field has spent more than fifty years in India; two more than forty, while several have rounded out their quarter century of missionary labor. These cannot be expected to work with the vigor of their earlier years.

Farrukhabad says: "Preaching to the people in the villages ought to be carried on uninterruptedly during four or five months of every year by at least one missionary aided by native evangelists in each of our districts, and during the remainder of the year frequent visits ought to be made to those villages where any special interest in the Gospel message has been manifested. Evangelistic work whether at the station or in the district needs the guidance and oversight, as well as the direct efforts, of the foreign missionary. No district ought to be without one missionary who can be free to make use of the whole of every cold season for itinerating purposes, and to visit any places in the district which he is able to reach throughout the hot weather." Lodia writes: "At no time in the history of our mission have our hopes been so greatly encouraged and our hearts so eager to press forward. At no time has the outlook been so cheering. But our ability is unequal to the opportunity; we cannot devise plans for inaugurating and expanding village missions on as large and systematic a scale as the case demands with any hope of being able to carry them out."

Letters.

SYRIA.

A MOHAMMEDAN'S SLAVE.

IRA HARRIS, M. D., Tripoli:—An interesting case appeared at the dispensary this morning—a slave woman from the Sudan. She is, or was, owned by a Moslem woman in Tripoli. The poor thing has been a great sufferer from necrosis of the bones of the wrist, and needs an operation. As an introduction she gave me a paper to read of which the following is a translation :

"Lady Ruda, daughter of the Mohammed Effendi el Shenbour, deceased, came to me covered with a veil, and she says she is in the best of health, and she is in her right mind, possessing the influence to use her legal rights, wanting nothing but the reward of God the High, according to his (Mohammed's) words, God pray on him and peace be with him: 'Who-soever gives freedom to a slave, God will redeem him from the fire of hell.' She also of her free will and pleasure grants freedom to her maid servant Jawer for the sake of God the Merciful, and she asks of Him to reward and deliver her from the fires of hell as the Lord of the world promised in His book. This is to certify that this paper is written as a protection and a shield to the aforesaid Jawer against any one that would object to her being a free woman.

The contents of this paper were written and duly witnessed on the fifteenth of the second Jemad, year of the Hegira, 1309. May the peace be on the Lord of the world.

Ruda, the daughter of Mohammed,
Effendi el Shenbour.

WITNESSES:

Mahmadi el Haj Ahmed Shukri,
Mahammed Said Ardati."

And yet the Turk says that slavery is not permitted in the Empire. He knows better. I have been permitted to enter many Turkish families (among the officials) as a physician, and I have seen many slaves, both men and women. They are usually brought from the Sudan when children and sold. They are brought up to know no other home. They are, as a rule, well cared for, and as happy as such people can be. They never deny being slaves.

A MOSLEM FUNERAL.

REV. LEWIS F. ESSELSTYN, Teheran:—On Sunday, Oct. 8, 1888, Meshedy Goolam Allie

Tamaree was baptized and received into the Protestant American Church in Teheran. Four years later, Sunday Oct. 9, 1892, he died, still professing his faith in the Son of God as the only Saviour.

He died in the evening and early the next morning a number of his Moslem relatives had collected to bear away his remains and perform the last rites in accordance with the religion of Islam. It was hard to stand by in silence and see his body taken in charge by the Moslems, when for four years he had been closely connected with me in some of my missionary work, but an effort to bury him with a Christian funeral might have caused trouble and perhaps endangered our whole work, so silence was the better part of valor.

The body was wound in a bed quilt, placed in a coffin-like box fastened on two poles which protruded at the ends and served as handles, and thus raised on the shoulders of the friends, always being carried head foremost, it was borne from the house, leaving the widow and three children behind.

Passing through one of the principal bazaars, probably no less than 500 men, people of the bazaar and strangers to the deceased, went through the form of assisting in carrying the body by simply placing a hand under the box and walking beside it for a few steps, or else by actually lending a shoulder and supporting part of the weight for a short distance. They consider this a meritorious work.

The body was first carried to a corpse-washing-house located in close proximity to a mosque. Here it was thoroughly washed with soap and water by a professional body-washer who is accustomed to take a suit of the dead man's clothes for his pay. It was then rinsed with an abundance of fresh water, after which, water containing camphor and spices was poured on the head three times, then over the entire length of the body three times as a religious ceremony. The new white grave clothes were then put on and wound round the body, completely covering it from head to foot, and it was again placed in the box and carried into the mosque for prayers.

No decided objection had been made to my entering the washing house, and I followed the company into the mosque. The box containing the body was placed on the ground in the open court with the head pointing a little to the north of west. Two mollahs and the friends took their position on the left in such a way as to face the south east, i. e., the direction of Mecca. The whole company, led by the mollahs, rattled off the Moslem prayers in the Arabic language which probably hardly any of them understood.

During this time I stood quietly at one side. Presently a Sayid (descendant of Mohammed) entered the court from the opposite side and seeing me, called out in a rage for all true Musselmans in the mosque to rise and put out the infidel forengi. His words, however, did not inspire the lookers on, and shortly he turned and went out in disgust.

The box was again lifted on the shoulders of the friends and carried out in the direction of the cemetery. When near the city gate, a donkey was procured and the box placed upon it. Just as we passed outside the city gate, three strangers who were walking along the highway insisted upon removing the box from the donkey and bearing it on their shoulders. From there to the cemetery, perhaps a distance of a mile, eleven strangers lent assistance.

Arrived at the cemetery, the friends selected a grave from among the several already dug, and the grave-digger and three mollahs went about their work. The body was removed from the box and laid on the ground beside the grave. The Moslems always bury a body lying on its right side and facing Mecca. They also bury it without a coffin. While the grave-digger smoothed out the grave a little, two of the mollahs knelt by the body and mumbled their prayers. When the grave was finished the body was lowered, laid on its right side, the face made bare, and the third mollah taking his place at the head, in a loud voice recited something in Arabic, the other two mollahs all the time continuing their mumbling. When the man at the head of the grave began reciting, the grave-digger took the left arm of the corpse and kept it gently shaking till the recitation was finished, in order to attract the attention of the deceased to what the mollah was saying.

About a foot and a half from the bottom of the grave it was roofed over with bricks, thus leaving the body in a small underground cell. Above this it was filled with earth.

From first to last the funeral was a series of empty forms most cold and heartless, and in contrast with a characteristic Christian funeral in which tender and loving hearts join in worshiping God and in seeking the true comfort which cometh from above and the peace which passeth understanding, it made an impression which I shall never forget.

INDIA.

BAPTISM OF A HIGH CASTE LAD.

REV. H. GOLOKNATH, Umballa.—Our mission school has passed through a great crisis. A Hindu lad, belonging to a good family and from high caste, was baptised here on October 25. This first baptism in the school naturally produced a great commotion. The whole town shook to its foundation; personal violence was threatened; parents were incited to keep their boys from our school; subscriptions for an opposition school were raised, and it was opened with a show of ceremony just in front of our school. The opponents thought that a decided blow was struck to our school, from which it would be impossible to save it; but the school has stood the test, and though it has suffered in number for this year, yet there is a hopeful future before it. The lad is with the relatives, but he writes to say that the Spirit sustains him, and he asks for our prayers and hopes in time to return and to bring his nephew with him. His nephew is another of our pupils, and there is every hope of his professing Christianity. I have another convert with me, whom I have trained and brought up myself, and who is a real help to me. He possesses a personal magnetism, and many schoolboys come to him, and they talk on nothing else but a personal Christ. He made bold to have a talk with the relatives of the lad baptized, and when he was told that their guardians would beat him should he be found talking with their wards, he said: "I would rather be beaten for their sake, if I could only bring them to Christ." This convert is 18 or 19 years of age. We have been carrying on work in villages, and I hope to go out in the District, and to reach the low castes mostly.

AFRICA.

ALONG THE COAST.

REV. G. A. GODDUHN, Batanga:—I went about the middle of October to Benito to find a man to teach in Batanga. I took steamer to Bata, where I called on our native minister, Etienne, to get some man to take me in a canoe to Benito. The following night at two o'clock we started. It was a dark stormy night, and the boys were afraid to take me over the bar of the Ukuku River, but had to do so finally, as the tide was too high. The sea being bad the boys did not dare to go far out, so we hovered around the rocks, waiting, like Paul's company, for the dawn of the day. I enjoy a foot bath, but sitting in the canoe for eight hours while the water rolls in from below and the rain pours down from heaven, I do not care for. About 10.30 a. m., I arrived at Bolondo, where I took the ladies by surprise; as I had walked the last half hour, and the canoe not having arrived yet, they could not understand where I came from, and how I got there.

WAR CRIES.

During the nights at Benito we heard the war cry across the river, some people had fled several times to the station. A Balinge had married a Kambe girl from near Benito, but forgot in his happiness to pay the dowry. So the girl went back to her family, and when the man came to get his wife they sent him home disgraced. Then he called all the young men of his town; they went down, burned the town, killed one old poor woman who could not run away, and took away all the chickens and goats. A member of the church at Bata was there and when he went home he called the men of the tribe from Benito to Bata. So the whole country was alarmed.

Thursday morning I started for home in the station boat "Willie." When I came to Bata our native minister, Etienne, met me at the beach, armed to his teeth. On being asked what was the matter, he said, "Oh, Mr. Godduhn, Balinge be too bad to burn churnle." Pointing to his gun I said "I hope you will convert them before you kill them." He smiled, and going up to his house he met a great number of people all armed. The day before the Balanges had come from the bush, but as the Kambes had been warned, the others received a hot welcome, three men being killed and one taken captive who was delivered at the French post. In the evening I preached on Luke 6, 36-38, "Forgive and ye shall be forgiven." A cement barrel served as a table, a lantern spread its gloomy light over a goodly number of people who were sitting on the ground, having their guns between their knees. I wanted them to put their guns aside but they refused, as they expected their enemies every minute. We had a good meeting. The whole appearance reminded me of the times when the Huguenots and Old Covenanters had their meetings in caves and woods.

Next morning news came that a Balinge spy had fallen into a trap and bled to death, as the spear in the trap had gone through his body. Then I saw the difference between the heathen and Christians. While the heathen were rejoicing, the Christians were mourning over the awful fate of their enemy. After breakfast I went through the towns, sending the boat to the German factory four miles below. Bata is full of people and the work very promising.

PREACHING TO FISHERMEN.

At Eboye we had a great gathering, as many of the people had come from the towns on the way. The work is very encouraging among the Egara tribe. The young man I had taken there in June has over seventy in the inquiry class. But envy and strife between the different towns very much hindered the work. That evening I preached about the miraculous taking of fish, Luke 5, 1-2. This story all the people understand and enjoy, as all the men are great fishermen. At the close I dwelt on how the partners in the other ships helped Peter and John to pull the Gospel net. Afterward I had a private talk with the men from the different towns and since then the work prospers.

A TRIBE ANNIHILATED.

In my letter in March I spoke about the Tamatyas, a bush tribe near Eboye. These poor people were an eye sore to the Bulus and Fan who had driven them from their home in the interior. Now this whole tribe was eradicated, their enemies had come and shot them down like wild beasts.

"People say that missionaries take their lives in their hands when they travel. I think rather they put them in God's hands."

So said a missionary after the wreck of the Roumania on the coast of Portugal on which some missionaries went down. He and his family were soon to sail from Liverpool by the same route.

HOME MISSIONS.

The Woman's Executive Committee of the Board of Home Missions, having under their care 130 schools, taught by 360 teachers, have thought it wise, in the interests of efficiency and economy, that a superintendent of schools should be employed who should give his time exclusively to this great work, and have nominated for that place the Rev. George F. McAfee, at present in charge of the Mission at Sisseton Agency, S. D. The Board, at its February meeting, acting upon this suggestion, unanimously elected Mr. McAfee superintendent of the School Department to act under the direction of the Secretaries and the Board, his salary and expenses to be paid out of the School Fund. It is hoped that Mr. McAfee will accept the place.

The population of Omaha increased during the past ten years 360 per cent.

The Presbyterian Church membership in Nebraska has increased at the rate of about 1000 per year, and is now about four times as large as the entire population of the State was in 1855.

The State of Minnesota lies between the world's great wheat fields and the world's great lakes, with resources of its own beyond computation. Its population is steadily increasing at the rate of six per cent. per annum, and its wealth is increasing even more rapidly. The growth of its three great cities in the last ten years has been phenomenal. St. Paul has grown from 41,473 to 133,156; Minneapolis from 46,887 to 164,738. Duluth has far outstripped them both. It has grown from 3,483 to 33,115. We were behind the demand in these cities ten years ago. And now they have run away from us.

The Presbyterian Board of Home Missions received in the month of February from the societies of Christian Endeavor a total of $217.12; and from Sunday-schools and Young People's organizations other than Christian Endeavor, $422.23. This makes the contributions of the young people, for the month of February, $639.35. The young people are doing well. This new department promises even better results than were anticipated; and we are quite sure that Mr. Penfield's letters of acknowledgment have gratified the societies remitting.

SPECIAL WORK FOR YOUNG PEOPLE.

Many of the Young People's organizations in the Presbyterian Church are asking for special objects toward which they can contribute their offerings. In response to these requests the Board of Home Missions has decided to ask the young people to contribute their money to the support of one or more missionaries on the field. Four active, enthusiastic, progressive missionaries have been selected: one in Alaska, one in Indian Territory, one in New Mexico and one in Mormon Utah. The young people are asked to select the field toward the support of which they desire to contribute, and particulars will gladly be furnished by addressing letters of inquiry to Mr. Thornton B. Penfield, No. 53 Fifth avenue, New York city.

Our Bohemian work in South Dakota has a steady and very gratifying growth. Our missionary, Rev. John Linka, reports:

"Our newly added brother presented a beautiful, big lamp to the church on this occasion. Just now he is suffering persecution from his Catholic friends and relatives, especially from his father in Wisconsin, who denounces him if he does not go back to the Romish Church. He, however, standeth firmly and replies them that he will go back, if they will show him better scriptures than the Bible is and better Christianity than is found in the Gospel.

"There is another influential and intelligent Catholic farmer, who, with his whole family, attends our church regularly and contributes to all congregational collections, and his and the case with our new brother has aroused Catholics into activity."

Rev. Albert Robinson, of Florence, Oregon, tells of a trip up the river, twelve miles, to attend the funeral of a boy who was drowned. He finds going in a row-boat a very severe tax on his strength and time, and "A small steam launch" is just what he needs. Would it not be a good investment?

SANTA CRUZ is one of the rapidly growing cities of California in which there has been no Presbyterian Church until recently. Being on the Pacific Ocean, 80 miles south of San Francisco, with two railroads and a line of coasting steamers, it is a very popular seaside resort, and multitudes from the East and from various parts of California throng here all the year, but especially during the summer months; and many remain and make permanent homes. A little company starting a church in such a city will necessarily have years of sacrifice and struggle. Lots are very high, and better accommodations are necessary than in smaller places. But it is essential that we hold the important centers. While preaching the gospel everywhere, in country and villages and towns, we should follow Paul's example and go to the centers of influence. He gave most of his time to such cities as Antioch, Athens, Corinth and Rome, from which the gospel radiated all over Europe and Western Asia. A military commander could not take permanent possession of a country while limiting his work to the hamlets and cross-roads, leaving the cities unoccupied. No more can the Church take rapid and permanent possession of this great land for Christ without giving special attention to work in the cities and taking and firmly holding these strategic points. This should be the settled policy of the Board. Whatever mistakes have been made in the past should be speedily corrected, though at serious cost. Rev. D. S. Banks is the efficient and very acceptable minister of our church at Santa Cruz.

F. D. SEWARD, S. M.

Rev. Dr. N. Bachman, our Evangelist in East Tennessee, writes:

"I have preached 95 times; have held 30 inquiry meetings; 180 persons have made profession of faith in Christ.

The religious interest, especially in our schools, is very encouraging.

Bro. Willoughby writes me from Washington College: 'As far as I can learn there are only three students in any department but claim Christ.'

The whole country has heard of the barbaric torture of a criminal down in Texas recently. It is a case, we are assured, where a mob overrode the authorities and defied popular sentiment. Rev. Jas. Anderson, of St. Joseph, Texas, refers to it thus:

"Prospects generally are quite favorable notwithstanding the Paris horror. Don't relegate Texas as a whole to barbarism and Hades for that atrocity. Our Church has an important work in that Black Belt. Our Governor risks life, reputation and prospects in his grand and fearless position."

One of our most faithful and successful Swedish missionaries gives us a glimpse of the hardship which attends his labors. He is a graceful writer in his own language in which he preaches exclusively. He has recently attempted to master the mysteries of the English tongue. His story is best just as he tells it to our Treasurer:

I herewith gif my hearty thanks for the chack you send me as I received it today, and he come in pudding time. We were all out of victuals in our house and we did not know were to gat anny eder. Win we come and wanted something on trust they looks as they think you never pay. You never gat a chack. I went to a blacksmith yesterday asked if he would shoe my horse and wait with monny to I gat my chack, but he answer me "I do not trust." If the blacksmiths and storekeepers don the same with every body as they do with me and other preachers, they don't need to run anny risk. Whin I show them a $125. chack they seems to be sattesfied even if he are to big for them.

Accept my hearty thanks for the monny.

The following touching acknowledgment of a special remittance gives a glimpse into a missionary home which cannot fail to leave a lasting impression. It is from the widow of a faithful home missionary recently deceased. She writes to the Treasurer:

With much gratitude I acknowledge your generous gift. I sometimes wonder if the Board at such times appreciate the graciousness of their help. Those to whom it is sent, however, apprehend it very fully. My good husband tried, notwithstanding his many arduous mission duties, to supplement his salary by his own exertions, that when he should leave us such succor might be unnecessary, but our best endeavors sometimes fail. We can see that the Board and other such organizations of our Church are of God; they do so much good in so many ways. To this dispensation of our Father in Heaven in taking away our "strong tower" upon the earth we try to bow submissively,

The First Church of Portland, Oregon, have been called to mourn the death of one of their most esteemed members, Mr. W. S. Ladd, who was an earnest Christian, and philanthropist. In a memorial service the pastor, the Rev. Dr. Brown, delivered a powerful sermon which ought to be widely circulated and read. Among many wise things he said: "Opportunity is a generous friend to those who welcome her, but a stern judge to those who ignore her."

And further on, in an eloquent appeal to the rich he said:

"But the public has a right to expect the men of wealth to lead. They lead in business, and the community has become accustomed to follow their leadership. They cannot justly complain, therefore, if the public waits for similar leadership in philanthropic and educational enterprises. Moreover, these enterprises require quicker development and larger treatment than men of ordinary means can give them. This is an age of speedy results and great combinations. We have left stage coach and canal-boat methods in business, and must leave them in philanthropy and education. Our forefathers lived in the day of small things; we do not. They could wait for slow processes of development; we cannot. We must operate on as large a scale in these as in industrial affairs, and such operations require money in such amounts as only rich men have."

Other wise pastors are thinking and preaching earnestly along the same line. Dr. Barrows has said: "The men of wealth have in their hands the destinies, not only of America, but of the world. Christianize the wealth of our land, which is augmenting more rapidly than our benevolence, and the Millenium hastens on with gladstep."

This means Christianize the cities where wealth is centered, and the new states where it is most rapidly produced.

In compliance with the request of the Portland Assembly the Board has employed several "pastors-at-large" "men of the right stamp" with very gratifying results both as to economy and service. Dr. Fleming, our Synodical Superintendent in Kansas, writing on the subject says:

"I have not located as many men as usual this quarter and for two reasons: 1. Men are not to be had for a few of our vacancies. 2. Since the employment of a Pastor-at-Large there have not been so many calls.

There have been several gracious revivals in our churches. Among these I note Caldwell; Wichita First; Oak Street, Wichita; Hutchinson; Ottawa; Iola; Chanute and some others."

DR. IRVIN'S RESIGNATION.

In the retirement of Dr. Irvin the Board of Home Missions loses a faithful Secretary. His resignation, which was tendered as he was leaving for Europe, will take effect on the first of April, at the close of the fiscal year of the Board. Realizing that he was in great need of rest, and that he had not taken a vacation for more than a year, the Board gave him this leave of absence, which has enabled him to visit members of his family who are abroad, and also to recuperate his strength before undertaking new work. This work he hopes to find in the pastorate, or in some educational institution. Dr. Irvin enjoys an unsurpassed reputation as a devoted and successful pastor in Rondout and Troy, N. Y., and his services should be in demand as soon as he returns from Europe. He has also had experience as a professor, and he is pre-eminently qualified for duty in a College or Seminary. It is hoped by his friends that his health, which has become somewhat impaired in the service of the Board of Home Missions, will be re-established by his absence in Europe, and that in the pastorate, or in some educational institution, he will find congenial employment for many years.

Concert of Prayer for Church Work at Home

JANUARY,	The New West.
FEBRUARY,	The Indians.
MARCH,	The Older States.
APRIL,	The Cities.
MAY,	The Mormons.
JUNE,	Our Missionaries.
JULY,	Results of the Year.
AUGUST,	Romanists and Foreigners.
SEPTEMBER,	The Outlook.
OCTOBER,	The Treasury.
NOVEMBER,	The Mexicans.
DECEMBER,	The South.

CITY EVANGELIZATION: ITS PRESS- ING NEEDS.

BY THE REV. JOHN B. DEVINS, HOPE CHAPEL, NEW YORK.

When the Master gave His "marching orders," He did not say "Go ye into all the world, except Palestine;" nor did He forbid His Disciples laboring in Jerusalem. Too frequently to-day the word "missions" is associated in our minds with Christian work beyond the seas, and that only. "The field is the world," said Jesus; the United States and New York are in that field, and we do well not to leave them out in preparing missionary programmes, offering prayers for missionaries and giving to the Lord's work.

The Presbyterian Church is doing a grand work in this city through the Church Extension Committee of the Presbytery to sustain and advance its interests, through the Board of Home Missions, which cares faithfully for several of the weaker churches, that would otherwise apparently go to the wall, and through several of the stronger churches that maintain chapels and missions where the spiritual needs are urgent. It is a great pleasure for me to testify to the devotion and practical sympathy of not a few Christian men and women, who have given years of labor and thousands of dollars to make New York better and safer, and to win the people to Jesus Christ. And other churches and societies, denominational, undenominational and independent are doing a similar service for God and man.

But while all this is true, the fact remains that there are conditions apparent for him who has an eye to see which should cause some one to blush. A recent writer, decrying "The doleful note," struck at the Christian Convention in Washington in December, 1887, says: "If these fears have any foundation in fact, it is high time that the Church was bestirring herself to amend the fault." The facts are visible for the man who will come and see. In spite of all that she is doing to evangelize this city, the Church is playing with the problem, instead of grappling with it in dead earnest. The timid child at the seashore has her pretty dress pinned about her waist, lays her shoes and stockings by her mother's side, and runs down toward the water. Now and then she touches her dimpled feet in a little pool in the sand. She scampers far up the beach at sight of breaker. And at night she tells her heroically: "We went surf bathing."

The Church is reaching the masses. "It is not the things we have done
But the things we have left undone
That will give us the bitter headac
At the setting of the sun."

American cities are too near home to grasp the problem as we should, if we were in England or Hawaii. It is not good form, we are told, to display a spirit even bordering upon pessimism. Our national pride is touched when the spiritual needs of our own country are presented. The man who complains doesn't know, it is said, all that is being done to evangelize the cities. "Darkest England" moved Christendom to tears, and yet London has only two per cent. of foreign population, and New York has forty per cent. When the true "Bitter Cry of Outcast New York" is heard, the Christian world will be stirred to its depths as never before. Let us look at some facts.

Between the dawn of two days one hundred and sometimes two hundred people die in this city; one body in every ten fills an unknown grave in Potter's Field; one, sometimes more are girls and young women from the street, one hundred a month ending their lives of shame, generally by suicide or at the Charity Hospital. Scores of men and women are filling drunkard's graves every month. Two thousand people live in canal boats around the city during the winter, responsible to no church in particular. A great French colony on the West Side is almost destitute of religious instruction. The colored people living in New York are far less romantic to us than their brethren the Freedmen, living in the South; we have one small Presbyterian church well-manned, but not well-supported. The single Bohemian Presbyterian Church is doing all that it can for a people that should have several churches. The two or three thousand Chinamen within five miles of the heathen temple in Mott street, will rise up in the Judgment Day against some of us.

More people live in lodging houses in New York than the entire population of many im-

Italy; what about our duty to his countrymen on the nearest corner? More Italians landed at this port last year than the entire population of Camden or Reading. Russia, without Poland, sent a city larger than Paterson. If the 628,084 immigrants coming in 1892 had all settled in New Jersey, they would have formed the fifth largest city in the United States. The combined immigration of 1891-'92 exceeded the population of any city except New York in 1890. Every seventh person, perhaps every sixth, in New York to-day is a follower of Abraham, with only here and there a follower of Jesus. The Jews here equal Cincinnati's population two years ago, and even approximate that of Pittsburg; from 250,000 to 300,000 are the most trustworthy figures. The Catholics are let severely alone by nearly all the Protestant denominations, but why should they be if we send missionaries to Brazil, Belgium and Italy?

A down-town clergyman, not a Presbyterian, says of his parish: "On one side of me is a block in which the police say thirty-nine languages and dialects are spoken. Within four blocks is a city more foreign than any city in Europe this side of Constantinople. I found nothing in Whitechapel so squalid." This church is not far from one sustained in part by our Home Mission Board, in whose district 92 per cent. of the people are Catholics or Jews. The Presbytery's Committee on the Spiritual Needs of the City said recently of lower New York: "The region with its third of a million of mostly foreign population is genuinely foreign missionary ground, where methods well adapted or even moderately successful in other localities are likely to prove of little service. Just as soon as the Presbyterian Church of New York city finds itself in honest shape once more, occupying buildings that are paid for, its duty towards this district is imperative. This will be its first duty in the direction of missionary work." But what is to become of the district while the Presbytery is getting in honest shape we are not told.

Do you ask what more the Church can do? May I submit two or three principles as the

ERRATA.—By a mistake in making up the sentence opposite to this, one line was dropped. It should be:

"The Church is reaching the masses in a somewhat similar way."

Also, in the stanza, for "headache" read heartache.

long ago on the East River was high the water was deeper. In one house near our chapel eighty families live, all of whom are rag-pickers, hooking a living out of the ash barrels for a village of four hundred people.

Think of the Italians, an army of them in the city, and the Presbyterian Church has a single missionary for them, one of Garibaldi's drummer boys, and he is working for an undenominational society. Angelini touches our hearts and reaches our pockets for Sunny house is? One visiting: "We are of all Come with me to the at midnight. Let us cent and the two-cent nen, women and children swine. With a h officer, I stood not on which a score of sleeping forms lay, while underneath, within a few inches of their bodies, there was at least a foot of water. When the tide in the East River was high the water was deeper. In one house near our chapel eighty families live, all of whom are rag-pickers, hooking a living out of the ash barrels for a village of four hundred people.

also had experience as a professor, and he is pre-eminently qualified for duty in a College or Seminary. It is hoped by his friends that his health, which has become somewhat impaired in the service of the Board of Home Missions, will be re-established by his absence in Europe, and that in the pastorate, or in some educational institution, he will find congenial employment for many years.

Concert of Prayer for Church Work at Home

JANUARY,	The New West.
FEBRUARY,	The Indians.
MARCH,	The Older States.
APRIL,	The Cities.
MAY,	The Mormons.
JUNE,	Our Missionaries.
JULY,	Results of the Year.
AUGUST,	Romanists and Foreigners.
SEPTEMBER,	The Outlook.
OCTOBER,	The Treasury.
NOVEMBER,	The Mexicans.
DECEMBER,	The South.

CITY EVANGELIZATION: ITS PRESS- ING NEEDS.

BY THE REV. JOHN B. DEVINS, HOPE CHAPEL, NEW YORK.

When the Master gave His "marching orders," He did not say "Go ye into all the world, except Palestine;" nor did He forbid His Disciples laboring in Jerusalem. Too frequently to-day the word "missions" is associated in our minds with Christian work beyond the seas, and that only. "The field is the world," said Jesus; the United States and New York are in that field, and we do well not to leave them out in preparing missionary programmes, offering prayers for missionaries and giving to the Lord's work.

The Presbyterian Church is doing a grand work in this city through the Church Extension Committee of the Presbytery to sustain and advance its interests, through the Board of Home Missions, which cares faithfully for several of the weaker churches, that would otherwise apparently go to the wall, and through several of the stronger churches that maintain chapels and missions where the spiritual needs are urgent. It is a great pleasure for me to testify to the devotion and practical sympathy of not a few Christian men and women, who have given years of labor and thousands of dollars to make New York better and safer, and to win the people to Jesus Christ. And other churches and societies, denominational, undenominational and independent are doing a similar service for God and man.

But while all this is true, the fact remains that there are conditions apparent for him who has an eye to see which should cause some one to blush. A recent writer, decrying "The doleful note," struck at the Christian Convention in Washington in December, 1887, says: "If these fears have any foundation in fact, it is high time that the Church was bestirring herself to amend the fault." The facts are visible for the man who will come and see. In spite of all that she is doing to evangelize this city, the Church is playing with the problem, instead of grappling with it in dead earnest. The timid child at the seashore has her pretty dress pinned about her waist, lays her shoes and stockings by her mother's side, and runs down toward the water. Now and then she touches her dimpled feet in a little pool in the sand, but scampers far up the beach at sight of the first breaker. And at night she tells her father heroically: "We went surf bathing to-day." The Church is reaching the masses in a

"It is not the things we have done here,
But the things we have left undone,
That will give us the bitter headache
At the setting of the sun."

American cities are too near home for us to grasp the problem as we should, if they were in England or Hawaii. It is not good form, we are told, to display a spirit even bordering upon pessimism. Our national pride is touched when the spiritual needs of our own country are presented. The man who complains doesn't know, it is said, all that is being done to evangelize the cities. "Darkest England" moved Christendom to tears, and yet London has only two per cent. of foreign population, and New York has forty per cent. When the true "Bitter Cry of Outcast New York" is heard, the Christian world will be stirred to its depths as never before. Let us look at some facts.

Between the dawn of two days one hundred and sometimes two hundred people die in this city; one body in every ten fills an unknown grave in Potter's Field; one, sometimes more are girls and young women from the street, one hundred a month ending their lives of shame, generally by suicide or at the Charity Hospital. Scores of men and women are filling drunkard's graves every month. Two thousand people live in canal boats around the city during the winter, responsible to no church in particular. A great French colony on the West Side is almost destitute of religious instruction. The colored people living in New York are far less romantic to us than their brethren the Freedmen, living in the South; we have one small Presbyterian church well-manned, but not well-supported. The single Bohemian Presbyterian Church is doing all that it can for a people that should have several churches. The two or three thousand Chinamen within five miles of the heathen temple in Mott street, will rise up in the Judgment Day against some of us.

More people live in lodging houses in New York than the entire population of many im-

Italy; what about our duty to his countrymen on the nearest corner? More Italians landed at this port last year than the entire population of Camden or Reading. Russia, without Poland, sent a city larger than Paterson. If the 628,084 immigrants coming in 1892 had all settled in New Jersey, they would have formed the fifth largest city in the United States. The combined immigration of 1891-'92 exceeded the population of any city except New York in 1890. Every seventh person, perhaps every sixth, in New York to-day is a follower of Abraham, with only here and there a follower of Jesus. The Jews here equal Cincinnati's population two years ago, and even approximate that of Pittsburg; from 250,000 to 300,000 are the most trustworthy figures. The Catholics are let severely alone by nearly all the Protestant denominations, but why should they be if we send missionaries to Brazil, Belgium and Italy?

A down-town clergyman, not a Presbyterian, says of his parish: "On one side of me is a block in which the police say thirty-nine languages and dialects are spoken. Within four blocks is a city more foreign than any city in Europe this side of Constantinople. I found nothing in Whitechapel so squalid." This church is not far from one sustained in part by our Home Mission Board, in whose district 92 per cent. of the people are Catholics or Jews. The Presbyterian's Committee on the Spiritual Needs of policeman and a health officer, I stood long ago on the boards on which a score of sleeping forms lay, while underneath, within a few inches of their bodies, there was at least a foot of water. When the tide in the East River was high the water was deeper. In one house near our chapel eighty families live, all of whom are rag-pickers, hooking up living out of the ash barrels for a village of four hundred people.

ERRATA.—By a mistake in making up the sentence opposite to this, one line was dropped. It should be:

"The Church is reaching the masses in a somewhat similar way."

Also, in the stanza, for "headache" read heartache.

Think of the Italians, an army of them in the city, and the Presbyterian Church has a single missionary for them, one of Garibaldi's drummer boys, and he is working for an undenominational society. Angelini touches our hearts and reaches our pockets for Sunny

City said recently of lower New York: "This region with its third of a million of foreign population is genuinely for missionary ground, where methods well adapted or even moderately successful in other localities are likely to prove of little value. Just as soon as the Presbyterian Board of Christian Work in New York city finds itself in honor more, occupying buildings and for, its duty towards this distinctive. This will be its first duty on of missionary work." But some of the district while the setting in honest shape we are

What more the Church can do? or three principles as the

also had experience as a professor, and he is pre-eminently qualified for duty in a College or Seminary. It is hoped by his friends that his health, which has become somewhat impaired in the service of the Board of Home Missions, will be re-established by his absence in Europe, and that in the pastorate, or in some educational institution, he will find congenial employment for many years.

Concert of Prayer for Church Work at Home

JANUARY,	The New West.
FEBRUARY,	The Indians.
MARCH,	The Older States.
APRIL,	The Cities.
MAY,	The Mormons.
JUNE,	Our Missionaries.
JULY,	Results of the Year.
AUGUST,	Romanists and Foreigners.
SEPTEMBER,	The Outlook.
OCTOBER,	The Treasury.
NOVEMBER,	The Mexicans.
DECEMBER,	The South.

CITY EVANGELIZATION: ITS PRESS- ING NEEDS.

BY THE REV. JOHN B. DEVINS, HOPE CHAPEL, NEW YORK.

When the Master gave His "marching orders," He did not say "Go ye into all the world, except Palestine;" nor did He forbid His Disciples laboring in Jerusalem. Too frequently to-day the word "missions" is associated in our minds with Christian work beyond the seas, and that only. "The field is the world," said Jesus; the United States and New York are in that field, and we do well not to leave them out in preparing missionary programmes, offering prayers for missionaries and giving to the Lord's work.

The Presbyterian Church is doing a great work in this city through the Church Extension Committee of the Presbytery to sustain and advance its interests, through the Board of Home Missions, which cares faithfully for several of the weaker churches, that otherwise apparently go to the wall, and through several of the stronger churches which maintain chapels and missions where the spiritual needs are urgent. It is a great ure for me to testify to the devotion and practical sympathy of not a few Christian men and women, who have given years of labor and thousands of dollars to make New York better and safer, and to win the people to Jesus Christ. And other churches and societies, denominational, undenominational and independent are doing a similar service for God and man.

But while all this is true, the fact remains that there are conditions apparent for him who has an eye to see which should cause some one to blush. A recent writer, decrying "The doleful note," struck at the Christian Convention in Washington in December, 1887, says: "If these fears have any foundation in fact, it is high time that the Church was bestirring herself to amend the fault." The facts are visible for the man who will come and see. In spite of all that she is doing to evangelize this city, the Church is playing with the problem, instead of grappling with it in dead earnest. The timid child at the seashore has her pretty dress pinned about her waist, lays her shoes and stockings by her mother's side, and runs down toward the sea.

can cities are too near home for us to the problem as we should, if they England or Hawaii. It is not good we are told, to display a spirit even upon pessimism. Our national is touched when the spiritual needs of in country are presented. The man who doesn't know, it is said, all that is done to evangelize the cities. "Darkest and" moved Christendom to tears, and London has only two per cent. of foreign nation, and New York has forty per cent. the true "Bitter Cry of Outcast New" is heard, the Christian world will be to its depths as never before. Let us at some facts.

Between the dawn of two days one hundred and sometimes two hundred people die in this city; one body in every ten fills an unknown grave in Potter's Field; one, sometimes more are girls and young women from the street, one hundred a month ending their lives of shame, generally by suicide or at the Charity Hospital. Scores of men and women are filling drunkard's graves every month. Two thousand people live in canal boats around the city during the winter, responsible to no church in particular. A great French colony on the West Side is almost destitute of religious instruction. The colored people living in New York are far less romantic to us than their brethren the Freedmen, living in the South; we have one small Presbyterian church well-manned, but not well-supported. The single Bohemian Presbyterian Church is doing all that it can for a people that should have several churches. The two or three thousand Chinamen within five miles of the heathen temple in Mott street, will rise up in the Judgment Day against some of us.

More people live in lodging houses in New York than the entire population of many important cities in the Nation. Do you know what a cheap lodging house is? One visit will keep you from saying: "We are of all men most miserable." Come with me to the Mulberry street dives at midnight. Let us visit together the five-cent and the two-cent lodging houses where men, women and children sleep like so many swine. With a policeman and a health officer, I stood not long ago on the boards on which a score of sleeping forms lay, while underneath, within a few inches of their bodies, there was at least a foot of water. When the tide in the East River was high the water was deeper. In one house near our chapel eighty families live, all of whom are rag-pickers, hooking a living out of the ash barrels for a village of four hundred people.

Think of the Italians, an army of them in the city, and the Presbyterian Church has a single missionary for them, one of Garibaldi's drummer boys, and he is working for an undenominational society. Angelini touches our hearts and reaches our pockets for Sunny

Italy; what about our duty to his countrymen on the nearest corner? More Italians landed at this port last year than the entire population of Camden or Reading. Russia, without Poland, sent a city larger than Paterson. If the 628,084 immigrants coming in 1892 had all settled in New Jersey, they would have formed the fifth largest city in the United States. The combined immigration of 1891-'92 exceeded the population of any city except New York in 1890. Every seventh person, perhaps every sixth, in New York to-day is a follower of Abraham, with only here and there a follower of Jesus. The Jews here equal Cincinnati's population two years ago, and even approximate that of Pittsburg; from 250,000 to 300,000 are the most trustworthy figures. The Catholics are let severely alone by nearly all the Protestant denominations, but why should they be if we send missionaries to Brazil, Belgium and Italy?

A down-town clergyman, not a Presbyterian, says of his parish: "On one side of me is a block in which the police say thirty-nine languages and dialects are spoken. Within four blocks is a city more foreign than any city in Europe this side of Constantinople. I found nothing in Whitechapel so squalid." This church is not far from one sustained in part by our Home Mission Board, in whose district 92 per cent. of the people are Catholics or Jews. The Presbytery's Committee on the Spiritual Needs of the City said recently of lower New York: "The region with its third of a million of mostly foreign population is genuinely foreign missionary ground, where methods well adapted or even moderately successful in other localities are likely to prove of little service. Just as soon as the Presbyterian Church of New York city finds itself in honest shape once more, occupying buildings that are paid for, its duty towards this district is imperative. This will be its first duty in the direction of missionary work." But what is to become of the district while the Presbytery is getting in honest shape we are not told.

Do you ask what more the Church can do? May I submit two or three principles as the result of many years of study as an observer and as a city missionary?

I. The Church, and not independent missions, or non-religious associations, much less merely humanitarian efforts, is the divinely-appointed means of carrying the Gospel to the people. Fresh Air Funds, College Settlements, Girls' Clubs, King's Daughters and Christian Associations, that are independent of the Church, are doing a splendid work along certain lines, with Christian money, but there is danger lest they become rivals, and not allies of the Church. What they are doing the Church should do, in addition to its present work.

II. The Church must reach the people as individuals. Personal work and not great preachers or large meetings, is the most effective means. Mr. Moody, with his best singers, ably supported by five churches, three years ago, rose to address 274 person in an East Side church. Not eloquence but faithfulness is needed. Hand-picked fruit is best.

III. The Church must learn the new conditions of the several fields, due to immigration, the saloon, labor organizations, Catholicism and Judaism, and add new methods to the old. The other day a gas cart stopped near the chapel, and the driver built a fire on the pavement. He soon removed an iron cover and pumped the refuse from the gas main into his cart. It had never occurred to me that there was an opening in the street at that place. This incident taught me several lessons in city mission work:

(1) In order to reach the people, we must know who they are and where they live. A beautiful fire over in the next street would never have melted the ice on that particular cover. The Church must be where the people live, and the workers must live among them and, so far as possible, make the lot of the people their own.

(2) Shutting one's eyes to the spiritual needs of the city does not remove them, nor even improve them. All the sediment and unpleasant odors which filled the air when the cover was lifted were just below the surface all the time. The city is full of sin, whether you see it or not. The very effort to purify the mains discloses conditions of life of which you have never dreamed.

(3) City Mission Work is not a holiday task. Cleaning the gas main was not pleasant work, but it was done in a common-sense manner. Any Christian worker who "comes down" to help the poor, had better stay away. The Lord Jesus never "came down" in that sense. The weak and erring found in Him a friend, a brother, a Saviour. His followers will win men just in proportion as they represent Him.

(4) New conditions call for new methods. The workman recognized the fact that the ice had concealed the cover before he built the fire. The Church must supply what experience shows the people need. Volunteer workers and paid workers are needed in every chapel and mission. Money must be given also to provide industrial work as well as preaching services and the Sunday-school.

I said, "Let me walk in the fields."

He said, "No, walk in the town."

I said, "There are no flowers there."

He said, "No flowers, but a crown."

I said, "But the skies are black;

There is nothing but noise and din."

And he wept as He sent me back;

"There is more," He said, "There is sin."

Letters.

HYDAH MISSION.

REV. J. LOOMIS GOULD—The efforts toward civilization and Christianity have not all been in vain.

Some have said "we hear your people make pollatches, thus squandering their property and that they have Indian Dances. Can't the missionary stop these things?"

I will not stop to say what has been done in this direction, but ask in turn, whether it is better arbitrarily to stop some things considered unwise, and have to continue so to do every week, month and year, or for the people to learn to restrain themselves and that permanently, because of a knowledge of the right and a will to do it?

If there is less of heathenish practice, as Shamanism, witchcraft, slavery, sacrifices, &c., &c., or of vice, as drunkenness, licentiousness, gambling or lawlessness of any kind in any tribe of native Alaskans, than among the Hydahs, whether or not in contact with teachers, ministers, civil, military or naval authorities, we are glad, but do not know it.

We are very bad, but trying to do better. If these people have come short of some of their promises, or disappointed some of the expectations of their friends, I may be permitted to say that in view of their heredity, of their present environment, their means of subsistence and their facilities for advancement, it is a matter for gratitude and encouragement that they have advanced where some of another race have done no better. Instead of stopping to count our failures or the evils that still exist, we are glad to thank God for what he has done among these people, take courage and go on in hope.

We thought it would be well to give the people an opportunity to contribute toward the completion of our church building. The question of the best method came into mind especially as we considered the teaching of more importance than the money.

They like to go in crowds and do things to be seen of men. I have seen in white communities lavish donations under the stress of rivalry and impulse and doubted if it was consecrated giving.

A meeting was called, the matter talked over and methods discussed. No contribution was asked for. They were told they would be called upon in their houses the next day and they could each make a free will offering as they felt inclined.

We have just returned from the circuit of the town. As the day was fair many were out who can be seen later.

The Secretary, who ten years ago was a wild boy, has over one hundred names, opposite which are sums ranging from 25 cents to $1.00. One poor woman, formerly a slave, said, "will you take ten cents?" The Secretary said "yes, anything." A woman came in since dark and said, "here is 25 cents for me, 25 cents for my mother, a poor old heathen who sent it, saying, The minister will see that I am cared for when I die." She also brought her boy who gave 25 cents; and her husband, a Japanese, five years from Yokohama, via New York, Cape Horn and San Francisco, gave 25 cents. A man said here is $1.00 for me, 50 cents for my wife, 25 cents for Frederick and 25 cents for Alexis (two small sons).

At Thanksgiving time our pale-faced neighbors from across Cordova Bay came to enjoy the occasion with us. On the next morning, the father, the mother, four grown sons and a daughter came each with five dollars as their thank offering to go into our church erection fund.

Let me correct an erroneous impression as to the wealth of the Hydahs. Hunting and fishing supply abundantly a part of their needs. They have not learned to be provident. Their nomadic habit, if nothing else, is against the preparation of comfortable homes. If any lay aside money it is only against an occasion to distribute for the honor of it, a big "Pollatch." I have heard of chiefs worth $8,000 or $10,000 in furs, blankets, etc., but have never seen them. Of course the abolition of slavery cuts down the estimated wealth of some chiefs. They do not store up furs, and all the blankets in the tribe are made to do duty in the big distributions. A rifle and canoe constitute the major part of the balance. Some have comfortable wardrobes, beds, stoves and dishes. Ten thousand dollars would cover the combined properties of many hundreds of natives. They are not paupers as the government has made the aboriginals of the States, but if they were wealthy they would not establish schools and churches, for the simple reason they would need first to be taught that any good could come of them. They ask if a thing will pay before they invest.

I have a goodly number of names on my list for baptism next Sunday. One of the most serious perplexities among the many is, Whom has the Lord sent?

The home and public school continue prosperous.

We are doing what we can in the way of preparation for erecting the additional buildings authorized. Could you see the dozens of boys, bright, restless and running wild, you would say, "Hurry up."

ILLINOIS.

REV. G. A. POLLOCK, Edgtn.:—Two years ago Presbyterians had no name here. We are credited with having succeeded where success was not thought to be possible. We have secured a comfortable, commodious and attractive house of worship. We have now fifty members and $12,000 worth of property. The last quarter is our first in the new building. We have been greatly encouraged in the growth and character of the congregation and Sabbath-school. We have received nine additions to the membership during the quarter. Our collection for the cause of Home Missions amounts to $20.

SOUTH DAKOTA.

REV. E. J. NUGENT, Rapid City, writes of an unusually prosperous year among the mines of the Black Hills, but adds: "These companies have no regard for the Sabbath or religion. They compel their men to work on the Sabbath so that it is almost impossible to have morning service.

Oh! for a mighty reformation, Spiritual apathy and leanness exist in all such places.

Notwithstanding all the hindrances God's spirit has in a large degree been manifested in some of our churches during the winter.

Recently I held a ten days' meeting at Minnecola with our youngest church. The whole community was moved. We had good attendance. Sixteen persons made a start to lead a religious life. The Christian people were quickened into new life and the prayer meeting was revived.

At New Castle I held eight days meeting. Attendance was better than I ever saw before. The Spirit's presence was realized and good results will follow this meeting.

At Hot Springs God is blessing the work of Brother Cooper. On Sabbath, January 8, he welcomed twelve persons into his church. Its membership has doubled since June last.

On Bald Mountain, one of the richest mining regions of this part, our Sabbath-school Missionary, George Perry, organized a Sabbath-school of sixty members and on Sabbath night had a congregation of 140.

I have been busy supplying new and vacant fields. We need now at least six men to fill places ready for them.

IOWA.

REV. W. J. YOUNG, Des Moines:—There are many evidences of solid growth and progress in our church. We have just received 23 new members. About twice that number are preparing to be received and will no doubt come in with us at the April communion. Our people are much aroused over the completion of our upper room, now in progress. We have, as you are aware, many carpenters and painters in our membership and these are giving their time to the work before the busy season sets in. Our part of the city is growing very fast and new people are constantly coming to us. Four years ago the Sixth Presbyterian Church did not exist. There is much reason to rejoice in this enterprise which has been wonderfully favored of God.

MONTANA.

REV. DAVIS WILLSON, Bozeman:—The falling off from last quarter's report of attendance was due to the busy season and Sunday threshing, though in some places marked improvement in this particular is shown, many taking a conscientious stand against the Sunday work. November 13, at Cottonwood the threshing machine was lying idle at the residence of a lady member of the Hamilton Church (a widow) who had rented her farm and had made it a stipulation in the contract that no Sunday threshing should be done, and to this she held notwithstanding the lateness of the season, threatening damage by storms and the importunity of the renter.

I, personally, invited the threshing crew to come to the services. Most of them were engaged at cards and other games and pleaded as excuse, "they had no good clothes." I replied I was going to preach about "good clothes" and urged them to come. Seven were present and these constituted the whole number of my congregation. I took for text, "Blessed is he that watcheth and keepeth his garments," and showed them in what "being well dressed" consisted.

KENTUCKY.

REV. JAMES M. WALTON, Greensburg:—The people in my congregations are very much scattered and I have to go long distances to visit them. Many of our people have to go five or six miles to church and, as the roads get very muddy, the attendance will be smaller during the winter.

I have visited and preached for some of the neighboring churches this fall. The harvest is great in this section but the laborers are few. The people in outlying districts continually importune me to come and preach for them. Many times I have to refuse. I have preached three times each Sabbath this summer. Many times I have ridden fifteen miles in the afternoon to meet two appointments.

Our services are well attended. The work is being quietly forwarded. There are some discouragements. Other denominations, ill informed in regard to our doctrines, prejudice the people against our work. Withal the outlook is good.

NEW MEXICO.

REV. J. M. WHITLOCK, Taos:—I have been holding meetings in all the different churches in my field of labor, almost the entire quarter. The Sabbath-schools are larger and better attended than ever before. I have opened five new places to preach the Gospel, where before no one had ever preached the word. I am determined, with the help of God, to carry the Gospel to every living person within my field. The Mexican people are reading the Bible. We need Bibles more than ever. The priests are raging. Their strongest point is to tell the people that all Protestants are renegades, but the people are beginning to find out that "the Gospel of Jesus Christ, the son of God, is the power of God unto salvation to him who believes in Jesus and accepts his sacrifice." Many are confessing Jesus as their only Saviour, their personal Saviour. Dear brethren, you must pray for us. Our people are not like your people, educated, well informed. No, our people are ignorant and four-fifths of them cannot read.

Many of our Mexican evangelists are doing most faithful and fruitful work. The following extract from the report of one of them, Mr. Romulo Blas, affords some insight into the methods of a consecrated servant of the Master, who has been liberated from the shackles of a false religion and now desires that his people should know the liberty wherewith Christ makes us free:

Studied half of the day and visited four families

Studied half of the day, held a service at night—16

Studied half of the day and visited three families.

Studied half of the day and visited four families.

Service and Sabbath-school—19 and 25—44.

Service by Rev. Menaul and Curtis—26.

Studied half of the day and visited four families.

Studied half of the day and visited three families.

Studied half of the day and held a service at night—14.

Service at Montoso and visits—8.

Service and Sabbath school 24 and 14—38.

Studied half of the day and visited four families.

Studied half of the day and visited three families.

Studied half of the day and visited four families.

Service at Los Valles (half day)—27.

Services at Los Valles 42 and 34—76.

Studied half of the day—visited three families.

Studied half of the day and visited five families.

Studied half of the day and visited seven families.

OREGON.

REV. F. H. GWYNNE, D. D., Superintendent:—Soon after my election I was taken down with serious illness, which confined me to my bed for eight weeks. After testing my strength by preaching at Salem on Christmas Day, I ventured upon my work the same week.

Eastern Oregon being the most destitute part of the Synod, I began my work there.

Pendleton. I preached here on New Year's day to a small congregation. This church has suffered much by being pastorless for several months.

La Grande. At La Grande, I joined with Rev. W. J. Hughes in a series of revival meetings. Stores of every description are kept open on the Sabbath day. Saloons are found on every prominent street corner. The church is weak, but I believe that the indefatigable pastoral labors of Mr. Hughes will soon improve it. I held meetings twice each day for nine days; the congregations were fair. Forty persons expressed a desire to lead a Christian life. The church is centrally located. The field will, with hard work, soon yield a rich harvest.

Summerville. At this place I had a large and attentive congregation and a collection of $2.50 for Home Missions.

Elgin. I rode over from Summerville by private conveyance, to this place on Friday morning and visited the Presbyterians living here. The owner of the hotel in which I stayed was so pleased that there was a hope of reviving the Presbyterian Church that he made no charge for my board, and further promised $50 a year toward the support of a minister, if we would send one "who could preach." He is not a church member, but is considered a very reliable person.

Enterprise. On Saturday morning, with thermometer below zero, I left Elgin, and after 40 miles ride on stage I arrived at Enterprise in time to preach the same evening. I preached afternoon and evening in our church and held two services daily for four days, but owing to other engagements I was obliged to leave when the interest was deepening. Rev. C. Cox will have added several earnest, sincere members to his little flock of 14 members. Bro. Cox has done nobly in securing a church edifice. One thousand dollars was collected in the neighborhood by the diligent labors of the pastor. There should be a bright future for this church.

On Friday morning I took again to my 40 miles ride by stage to Elgin and preached in the M. E. church the same evening. I had a conference with the little band of Presbyterians at the close of the service. They prayed me to find a minister "that can preach," promising to do their utmost to sustain such. I left on Saturday morning for La Grande. I held a meeting for the converts in the afternoon, and preached in the evening. Mr. Hughes received ten members into the church the following Sabbath with others to follow at next communion.

Union. I had visited this town the previous week and met the Elders. Made a promise to spend a Sabbath with them. So by a late train on Saturday night I left La Grande for Union. I preached twice on Sabbath, addressed Sabbath-school and Y. P. S. C. E. At the evening service three persons pledged themselves for the Lord's service. Oh! how much this church needs a good pastor! I left this town on Monday for Pendleton, and preached there that evening. At the close of the service I met the Elders. This church is dying for want of a pastor. It needs a strong man and can support one. The field is white for harvest, others are reaping while we slumber.

Moro. After visiting the Academy at Pendleton and speaking a few words of encouragement to the students, I took train for Grant Station, where I was met by Rev. J. M. Morrison. We rode in a spring wagon for 20 miles over the hills to Moro. This is a part of Brother Morrison's field, and I think the best. It was late when we reached the little county seat, but the congregation was large and attentive. All the week I held two services, with a degree of success beyond my expectations. A few conversions and much quickening of the church. Hoping for still better things, we continue to work and pray. From my kind of diary you will see that our great need is pastors. We need men. We have in this far West some of the brightest intellects, the best trained, yet withal skeptical minds. We need preachers who can present the Gospel in an attractive form, with convincing power. I believe it is in the power of our congregations to do much more than they do for the support of the ministry, but we must have men in our pulpits who will compel a hearing. The churches now vacant have suffered for want of advice and encouragement. I hope I shall be able, to some extent, to meet this want. For this I have travelled by rail nearly 700 miles and by other conveyances 182 miles. I have held two services daily, and on Sabbath spoken on an average four times. But I fall far short of my own ideal of a Synodical Missionary.

OKLAHOMA.

REV. C. H. MILLER, El Reno.—Since my installation, November 17, our progress has been very marked. Congregations grow in numbers and interest. On the first Sabbath of the new year we celebrated the first anniversary of the dedication of our church. The exercises were productive of great good in showing what had been accomplished in one year. We have the largest Sabbath-school in the county and a strong and prosperous Ladies' Society. Our prayer meetings are deeply interesting and our young people's meeting attracts large numbers. We intend to organize next week both a senior and junior Y. P. C. E. Society. What we need and must have is more room. When we built, a little over a year ago, I was laughed at for erecting such a church. "No need of it" one man said, "only about a dozen people go to church in this town." Since Christmas, when we had 225 children packed into our church, to say nothing of men and women, there has been but one night (and then we had a blizzard) when we have not turned people away from the church. The trustees have bought additional chairs to put in the aisles. Every foot of space is used. The other night the pulpit chairs were required, one man took my seat when I rose to preach, and yet we can't seat the people who come. Sunday night six men in a body went away from the church because there was no room for them. We must build a wing to our church. We have the plans drawn and intend to act at once. We need a church that will seat about five hundred people. I believe it would be filled in six weeks. Unless we do something we shall lose many of our congregation. If in winter we are packed in so that without fire we are uncomfortable, what will it be in summer? We don't see our way clear to build as far as the means are concerned, but we are not going to hesitate. The Lord opened up the way before and we have faith to trust him this time. We dare not shrink from the undertaking. We are going to do all in our power and as for the rest "the Lord will provide." Once more I want to say this is Presbyterian territory. We can and should lead in every town in Oklahoma. Now is our opportunity, let us not neglect it. One man, one church located now will wield a greater influence than half a dozen planted five years hence.

NORTH DAKOTA.

REV. J. F. MONTMAN, Cavalier.—A severe winter set in early in November, and it has kept up with almost continual severity ever since. Old settlers pronounce this the coldest and stormiest winter known for a dozen years.

This has greatly interrupted church work. People will not leave a comfortable home when the thermometer is 30 to 40 degrees below zero, and go to a school-house or church only to shiver in an uncomfortable, cold room, which cannot be made warmer easily. Nor can a minister, however full of zeal, preach with two overcoats on, standing by a red-hot stove, trying in vain to get the body warm, yet speaking to a few hearers as much chilled as himself. Something like this has been my experience. However, when the weather has been tolerable, the attendance has been good.

SOUTH DAKOTA.

REV. H. P. CARSON, D. D., Superintendent.—The Woonsocket church has undertaken self-support this year. The pastor, Rev. C. F. Richardson, led them up to it, and they will continue it so long as the same harmonious and aggressive spirit pervades the congregation, and material interests flourish. I have tried to utilize this example with other churches in the Synod that should reach self-support and could do it with less effort than it cost Woonsocket.

I am now urgently needing a man for Ellendale, N. D.; one for Kimball, S. D.; one for Wolsey, etc., and one for Blunt and Onida. I shall need at least nine more men in the spring. I have already engaged five students for the summer, all but one of whom are connected with the Synod. Others are applying for work. I think most of the churches of this Synod are making advance this year, both in their contributions to the Board and towards self-support, as I urge them on all occasions.

Most of our missionaries have held special meetings, the full results of which in new members they have not yet gathered. I have learned of considerable revival, and nearly always where there was the spirit of Christian unity. The additions reported during the quarter aggregate 102, three-fourths of them by profession, and to sixteen different churches.

Forest City is a growing village, beautifully located on the Missouri River, at the river terminus of the C. and N. R. R., and opposite the Cheyenne Indian Agency. It has about 150 people and no church building nor any other preaching service than that supplied by the Presbyterians. There is no other preaching service within nine miles.

La Grace is a country church in Campbell County, forty miles from the railroad, and has missions in adjacent farming neighborhoods, being the only Presbyterian church in the county. Eureka is the present railroad terminus, of about 1000 people, about one-fifth of whom are English-speaking people, the rest German, and no English-speaking organization. Those interested favor the Presbyterian Church.

KANSAS.

REV. JOSEPH PATTERSON, Wilson.—The grip had hold of me and refused to let go, either for medicine or nursing. Now I think I have the upper hand of it. The first night, the week of prayer (Monday), showed that a change had taken place in the feelings of some of our members, and that some of them were beginning to learn to pray. The key note of the meetings was struck that evening.

In January we received four members on profession of faith, two of whom had been raised in, and formerly were members of, the Bohemian Roman Catholic Church. Both had been baptized in the Roman Catholic Church and the session thought it was not necessary to baptize them.

There has been less excitement and more earnestness than in any meetings I have ever seen before.

OHIO

REV. C. W. WALLACE, Newark.—During the quarter I have preached eighty-four times, made ninety calls, baptized thirteen adults and ten infants, and received into the church fifty-five members, all but two on examination. I am working among the vacant and weak churches. I have been holding a series of meetings at Gahanna, a town cursed with two saloons. I have received twenty-nine, and twenty-three have since met the session, so that the additions there will be about sixty. This was a weak, pastorless church.

ALASKA.

REV. A. E. AUSTIN, Sitka.—We might call this the dark quarter, so far as the weather is concerned, for the long nights have been dark and the short days have been cloudy. We have had very little snow, an abundance of rain and high winds. Sometimes at night, as the angry ocean dashed its great waves against the large rock in front of the mission buildings, it seemed as if it would just swallow us up like some huge monster, but the sea has bounds beyond which it cannot pass. We have been so busy and have so many cares, on account of being short-handed, the time has passed away like a troubled dream. Our hearts are cheered as we think of the blue skies and welcome sunshine that await us. We have great reason to rejoice that we have been spared the noisome pestilence. It was so fortunate that the case of smallpox broke out in the prison where it was discovered at once, instead of the Rancheria, where it would have spread like wild fire, and have swept away the poor natives like a whirl wind. They are simply helpless at such times, and it seems to me that the Government ought to have them vaccinated. The authorities here, especially Dr. Rogers, are deserving of great credit for their prompt and effective action in isolating the prisoners, fumigating the prison, etc. At our communion service on December 4, six infants were presented for baptism, one of them was the daughter of Willie Wells, our interpreter. Another was the daughter of our elder, Rudolph Walton. January 1, we received seven members into our church on profession of faith and baptism. Four of them are natives of Yakatat. Harry Mitchel, a member of our church, has been at Yakatat for two years. He has been witnessing for Christ, and these are his friends. Mr. Johnson, the Swede missionary there, wrote: "Harry is a cheerful Christian, and while here seemed perfectly happy if he could be in my company and talk about the Gospel." The leaven is working silently, yet surely, in many a dark heart, far and near. May it leaven the whole lump. January 15, as I was returning from the church in the town, one of our people met me and I said that a canoe had been dashed to pieces on the seaward side of Mt. Edgecomb, and four natives drowned, one of them Ga-nock-ta-ge, a member of our church. The Sabbath before, he was sitting close up to the pulpit, holding his young babe and seemed so proud and so fond of it. Now he has gone. Two years ago his wife and two little children with She-don-ke-ish, a home boy, perished in the same way. He often said he wanted to go in the same way. Two men were saved. They said that all prayed while hanging on to the canoe. Five canoes containing one hundred Cok-won-tons left at once in search of the bodies. They found two of them and brought them over the mountains, and last Sabbath we buried them. We are praying and looking for laborers. May the Lord of the harvest send them.

NORTH CAROLINA.

REV. THOS. LAWRENCE, D. D., Asheville:—The conduct of the students has been, for the most part, excellent, and there is certainly much that is encouraging in the outlook for the school.

The first week of the year was observed as a season of prayer; both schools meeting in the chapel of the Institute. Rev. Dr. Bachman, of the Synod of Tennessee, conducted a short service every evening. The exercises were tender and solemn and attended with blessed results. There were quite a number of hopeful conversions, and many who were church members received a blessing. The following Sabbath, with the co-operation of the Session of Riceville congregation, a mission church was organized in the chapel; ten connecting on certificate, as a partial result of the previous exercises during the week; seventeen were received on confession of their faith. A considerable number will connect with their home churches.

MINNESOTA.

REV. W. K. WEAVER, Owatonna:—We are now self-supporting. Our church is in excellent condition. In the meantime we have raised for Home Missions—sent to you and your Woman's Executive Committee—$65. Foreign Missions, $80, and other Boards lesser amounts. We are maintaining six Sabbath-schools. Carry on by all odds the largest work of any church in the county. Last year we increased our membership 25 per cent., this year we have increased that membership 25 per cent. We thank you for the great kindness shown to the church during these many years.

NEBRASKA.

REV. C. G. STERLING, Omaha:—Our union movement of 27 evangelical churches of Omaha, commenced in November in the way of preliminary meetings, preparatory to the special services under the immediate leadership of Rev. B. Fay Mills. Blessings were enjoyed in these preliminary meetings, and some conversions. The Mills meetings proper lasted from December 1 to December 19. They were used of God to the conversion of thousands, and to the deepening of the spiritual life of church members, the result of which is now apparent, not only in more consecrated lives on their part, but also in multiplied conversions continuing to be realized. One of the direct results of this special effort has been the enlargement of our city mission work, with removal to new quarters, and the establishment of a Rescue Home, where many needy men and women are provided with work and necessary supplies, and where nightly gospel meetings are held with marked success. In November we added six to our church membership and in January fifty. We shall receive many more, I trust, for all hearts seem tender.

COLORADO.

REV. GRANT STROH, Del Norte:—Little did I think, while a student at Lake Forest, that three years after leaving the institution I should still be working under your supervision. At that time, I expected to be a foreign missionary instead of being, as now, a home missionary. In Japan the proportion of professing Protestants to the whole number of inhabitants is about one to ten. I was surprised to find the same ratio here in Del Norte. But the people here are "Gospel hardened," and so, I think, more difficult to reach.

I can sum up the chief hindrances to the work in about three words: Saloons, dancing on the part of the young people, and Christian Science.

Probably not less than $50,000, are turned over every year to the saloons. On the whole, however, the work is encouraging. The attendance upon the Sunday services has greatly increased. The morning audiences are good, and in the evening the seats are nearly all taken.

We observed the Week of Prayer, and continued the meetings into the week following. These meetings were usually well attended and the interest was manifest. Christians were quickened. There were many re-consecrations, and several conversions.

IDAHO AND MONTANA.

REV. S. E. WISHARD, D. D., S. M.

I. PRESBYTERY OF WOOD RIVER.—The five mission school stations in this Presbytery have been visited recently. Franklin is still unsupplied with a teacher, though we have all the appliances—chapel, desks, blackboard, organ, &c. Rev. S. Allen, M. D., at this place needs very much the assistance that a good teacher would give him. Samaria, unoccupied last year, is now under the care of Mrs. Mead. She is a competent and faithful worker.

At Malad the Misses Griffith, sisters, are doing good work in harmony with Mr. Godman.

Montpelier is still under the care of Misses Crowell and Leonard. I spent last Sabbath with them. Miss White is carrying on the school work at Paris.

Mr. Mead, who was at Montpelier, has entered the work of S. S. Missionary in his Presbytery, under the Publication Board. Rev. Geo. Lamb, of Pleasant, Indiana, takes the work at Montpelier, commencing next Sabbath.

Rev. T. J. Hedges, from Iowa, takes the place of Mr. VanGiesen, who recently left Idaho Falls. Hence all of our churches in this Presbytery are supplied; and another church has been added to the list. It was organized at Soda Springs, and will be supplied by Rev. Mr. Lamb, of Montpelier.

Our work in Boise and vicinity needs the help of an additional man. Brother Barton has been carrying two or three out-stations, with an occasional excursion through the Boise Valley.

We are now asking to have Samuel L. Boston, of Sharpsville, Penna., commissioned to Caldwell; allowing Rev. Mr. Boone to devote his whole time to the work of the College, and to preaching on the Sabbath at out-stations.

II. PRESBYTERY OF MONTANA.—A new and attractive house of worship has been dedicated at Dillon, which will put our work there on a more permanent basis. The church at Bozeman has called the Rev. Mr. Donaldson, brother of the editor at Minneapolis, to take the place made vacant by the departure of Dr. Sanderson. He comes at once. The work at Black Pine and Phillipsburg is moving forward with good prospects for the future. The young man, Rev. Mr. Grube, in charge is giving excellent satisfaction. The church at Phillipsburg is building a house of worship and is making itself felt in other ways in the town.

Mr. Hope is holding the fort in Bitter Root Valley—with five ecclesiastical babies in his arms, viz: Stevensville, Victor, Corralles, Hamilton and Grantsdale. Whether he can furnish sufficient nourishment for so large a family, is a serious question. This field ought to be divided, and another man put into the valley.

Neihart and Barker still wait the coming man. The other churches in the Presbytery are supplied and at work. The indebtedness of the college at Deer Lodge has been adjusted, and the sum of $10,000 has been secured as a starter for endowment.

HERVEY DODDRIDGE GANSE.

POEMS AND HYMNS BY HERVEY DODDRIDGE GANSE, with an introduction by Rev. Herrick Johnson, D. D., is the title of a little volume published by his family "as a loving tribute to the author's memory, and with gratitude to God for his life and work." Our readers will thank them for permitting us to copy its life-like portrait, and a specimen of its poetic contents. Dr. Johnson says in his introduction, "We are sure some of the lyrics in this little cluster of songs those who love Jesus will keep on singing while time lasts."

We have room for only one specimen and we select his generous acrostic on a kindred spirit. Who that knew him will not say that his generous tribute to another no less fitly portrays himself?

The volume is published by THE YOUNG MEN'S ERA PUBLISHING CO., 85 Fifth Avenue, Chicago.

HOWARD CROSBY.

How should a man be made—
Of what choice parts compounded?
With skill of schools how well arrayed,
And with what graces rounded?
Reveal some princely nature, strong and just,
Divinely ripened, for the poor to trust.

Courage, that fears not man nor devil;
Revolts at all enthroned evil;
Outright resolve, that won't be routed;
Sincerity that can't be doubted,
Back all this strength with love divine and human,
Yet keep your Great Heart tender as a woman.

COLLEGES AND ACADEMIES.

A GOOD WAY TO DO IT.

The note given below came to the College Board in 1887:

"....., OHIO, March 31, 1887.
$1,000.

For value received I promise to pay the Presbyterian Board of Aid for Colleges and Academies, located No. 137 Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill., the sum of One Thousand Dollars at such times and in such payments as shall be received from a mortgage made to me June 1st, 1886, by the Co. of Ohio, for Thirty Thousand Dollars (\$30,000), or in the proportion of the $\frac{1}{10}$ of the amount paid on sd. mortgage; but if from any cause sd. mortgage should not be paid in full then sd. Board of Aid for Colleges &c. is to receive one thirtieth part of any reduced payment and neither I nor my estate is to be held responsible by this note because of any failure on the part of the said Co. to pay the mortgage or any part thereof.

Witness my hand,
Thanks be to God. "

The following letter tells the outcome:

"....., OHIO, June 11, 1892.

Dear Brother Charnley:—Thanks to God I am spared and now permitted to forward to you the enclosed draft for paying balance on my note of $1,000 Board of Aid for Colleges and Academies, which please credit on said note and return to me as fully paid, and oblige. With my prayers, sincerely yours, "

And one more letter completes the story to date:

"....., OHIO, Dec., 14, 1892.

MR. CHARNLEY,

Dear Sir:—Thanks to God I am spared—just entering my 93rd year of age. I am permitted, after long delay, to forward to you, as Treasurer, my annual subscription of $10 to the Board of Aid for Colleges and Academies. Please find two $5 bills enclosed.

Yours with my prayers,

..... "

CORRESPONDENCE.

"....., CHICAGO, Feb., th,

I send a small sum to add to the resources of the Board of Aid for Colleges and Academies, for I have greater interests in those founded by godly men, in prayer and faith and labor, than any founded on rich men's money, however obtained. I owe a great debt of gratitude to the College for the fatherly care of two of my sons; a debt I can never wholly pay; but must turn it over to my Almighty Bondsmen, who never fails.

God speed to your work.

Mrs. "

"PRINCETON, ILL., Feb., 11, 1893.

DEAR SIRS OF THE BOARD OF COLLEGES:—

I have not much, but please find stamps enclosed for the aid of your work in the Lord's vineyard. I put in eight stamps for the work and one that you may return a receipt to me by first mail. I feel this to be cheaper, or rather giving you more money, than to buy a postal order, as I only have so much money for the cause.

Many blessings on 23 Montauk Block in the year.

... .. "

CORNING ACADEMY.

BY PRINCIPAL T. D. EWING, D. D.

Corning Academy was founded in 1885, by the Presbytery of Council Bluffs; and since the division of this Presbytery it is the common property of the two Presbyteries—Council Bluffs and Corning.

The building is a three-story brick with stone trimmings, well lighted and ventilated and adapted to school purposes. The special aim of the Academy being to prepare students for college, a high standard of college requirements has been made the basis of the classical and scientific courses. But English, Normal and Business courses have been provided.

The school gives a thorough knowledge of

CORNING ACADEMY.

English; important, because many students end their school days at the Academy.

The study of the Bible is a prominent part of the school work.

A musical department affords the very best facilities for vocal and instrumental music.

A majority of the thirty graduates have taken or are taking college courses, students now representing the Academy in five colleges.

The Christian influence of the school is proved; only two of the thirty graduates are not professing Christians. Religious interest among the students has always been a marked feature.

Corning Academy is a child of the College Board. The Presbytery and the people of Corning and vicinity, stimulated by the encouragement given by the President and Secretary of this Board, contributed about $20,000 for the buildings and grounds, $18,000 of which were given by the citizens of Corning and Adams County. From the first the College Board has annually aided in meeting current expenses, and assisting in freeing the Academy from debt, a work which could not have been accomplished but for the assistance of the Board. The good fruits appear in the Christian students sent out into the Master's vineyard.

Nor must we forget the many students who, taking only a partial course, go out into the world Christians, often active church workers.

This is the only Academy in southwestern Iowa, affording the Presbyterian Church a rare opportunity to take the lead in the Christian education.

The school has had a steady growth with good prospects of a large increase of students in the near future. The rapid growth of an academy of high grade is hindered by the cheap education offered by the Normal and High Schools. These are doing a good work in their line, but it is not the line of Christian education, and is sometimes wholly divorced from it.

¶ The Church must look well to her preparatory schools, if she would successfully stand against this opposition. To accomplish the best work for the cause of Christian education, and that Corning Academy may become a great feeder to our colleges, it must have endowment. It has always been somewhat embarrassed by lack of adequate funds. One professorship, well endowed, is a pressing necessity. $10,000 are now in sight for this purpose, conditioned on $15,000 more being secured. Are there not readers of the CHURCH AT HOME AND ABROAD, who, knowing the importance of academic work, will aid in the completion of an endowment that promises so much for the Church of Christ, on condition that the whole amount be raised? As Christian education is the strong right arm of the Church to-day; so her preparatory schools are of the first importance as feeders to our colleges and seminaries.

MINISTERIAL RELIEF.

A BUSINESS MAN'S QUESTIONS.

An eminent business man recently addressed me, as Secretary of the Board, a letter of inquiry about our work. He was one of a committee appointed to prepare a Paper upon Ministerial Relief to be read before an Association of Presbyterian laymen, and says: "I am a very busy man and must of necessity go direct to the subject rather than around it. It would aid me very much if you would answer the following questions in numerical order." Glad of the opportunity to supply such a man with information about our work, answers to these questions (condensed as far as possible) were promptly sent to him.

It has occurred to me that what this active, intelligent man of business wanted to know about the Board of Ministerial Relief is just what other Presbyterian laymen—busy men also and with little time for its consideration—would like to know. For the benefit of such, the questions and answers are therefore here reprinted.

It will be noticed that the questions of my correspondent do not directly refer to the sacred obligation of the Church to care for its disabled and worn-out ministers and their dependent families nor to the necessity for such an agency as the Board of Relief to discharge this obligation. These are taken for granted and the answers therefore do not present "the claims of the Board." They only give some information about what business men would call its "administration."

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

1. When was the Board of Ministerial Relief organized?

Answer. The Board (at first called a Committee) was organized by the General Assembly of the Old School Branch of our Church in 1849; in the New School Branch in 1864. These Committees, consolidated at the reunion in 1870, were incorporated as a Board by direction of the General Assembly in 1876. See the history of the Board prepared during the Centennial year by the Secretary, as directed by the General Assembly. Copies may be had at the office of the Board, 1384 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia.

2. How is the Board constituted and how perpetuated?

Answer. The Board consists of twelve members divided into three classes, each of which serves for three years. Every year therefore the term of four members (two ministers and two laymen) expires, and the General Assembly either re-appoints them or appoints others in their place.

3. What utterances, aside from creating the Board, has the General Assembly given with reference to the object, need, management, etc., of the Board?

Answer. Every year the General Assembly, through its special Committee upon Ministerial Relief, examines the report of the Board and takes action thereon—never failing to commend its "object," and to emphasize its "need;" and giving also such directions as to its "management" as the Assembly may deem wise. The report of this Committee, with the action of the Assembly thereon, is always printed in its Minutes and likewise in the supplement to the report of the Board which is sent to all the ministers upon the roll of the Assembly, and to the session of every vacant church. Copies of our Annual Reports, with this action of the General Assembly, can be had at the office of the Board. The Synods and Presbyteries also have special Committees upon Ministerial Relief and, in the furtherance of the cause, take such action every year as they may deem wise. This action appears in their printed minutes.

4. Under what conditions can a minister become a beneficiary of the Fund?

Answer. By direction of the General Assembly any minister of our Church, who is in want, has a claim upon the Board if he be disabled from his sacred calling either by sickness or by the infirmities of age "so as to be unable to sustain himself by some suitable employment." But he must be recommended to the Board for aid by the Presbytery with which he is connected. This recommendation must be renewed by the Presbytery from year to year—except in the case of Honorably Retired Veterans, who are over seventy years of age and have served the Church as Pastors or Missionaries for a period in the aggregate of at least thirty years.

5. If a blank form is used by a minister desiring to become a beneficiary, kindly send it.

Answer. Our blank forms are not used by "the minister desiring to become a beneficiary," but by the Presbytery to which (see answer to question 4) he applies for a recommendation to the Board for aid. I enclose you a complete set of these Forms—for Widows and Orphans as well as Ministers; also a copy of the Form of Acknowledgment always sent from the office by return mail on receipt from the proper official of the recommendation of Presbytery, so that he may be sure that the application has reached us. The printed pages appended to this Form contain directions to aid the Chairmen and members of the Ministerial Relief Committees in the discharge of their important and responsible duties, and will give you further information upon the general subject.

6. What, in brief, are the rules that govern with reference to the amount any family can draw annually; and especially the restrictions and regulations with reference to the Widows and Orphans of Ministers?

Answer. Three hundred dollars is the maximum yearly appropriation to any family. In the printed pages of the Form of Acknowledgment (referred to in the preceding answer) are indicated some of the restrictions and regulations made by the General Assembly with reference to the families of deceased ministers—e. g. the widow of a minister who marries outside of the ministry thereby relinquishes all claims upon the Board should she again become a widow, and in ordinary cases no appropriation is to be made to the widow of a minister who has children able to give her support; also, the term "orphans" means "children under the age at which they are able to earn their own living"—except in the case of those who (like the blind or other chronic invalids) have never been able to earn their own living, and therefore may be considered as never having passed the age of dependent orphanage. As in the case of ministers themselves, the "widows" and "orphans" of ministers must be recommended by the Presbytery for aid before the Board can vote an appropriation, and this recommendation must be renewed by the Presbytery from year to year.

7. How is the Board supported?

Answer. The support of the Board is derived from (1) yearly collections taken up in churches and Sabbath-schools, as ordered by the General Assembly; (2) gifts from individual donors, sent by them direct to the Board, and (3) interest from the Permanent Fund. All legacies, unless otherwise directed by the testator, are placed in the Permanent Fund, only the interest of which is used.

8. What was the amount of the Permanent Fund at the time of the last report?

Answer. On April 1, 1892, when our Report to the last General Assembly was made, the amount of the Permanent Fund, including the Centennial offering of $605,852.15, was $1,192,919.12. The details are given on pages 14 and 15 of the report.

9. What were the receipts and expenditures of the Board for the last year and the amount consumed in office expenses?

Answer. The receipts for current use were $161,714.43, and the expenditures $156,748.56, leaving only the slight balance of $4,965.87 as the result of the operations of the year. To the Permanent Fund were added $38,033.61, of which $35,028.23 were received from legacies, making the total receipts for last year $199,748.04. The office expenses were $10,214.94. For the details, see the Report of the Board to the General Assembly, which gives the items of expense, the amount given by each church and Sabbath-school and individual contributor, and also a table, showing the total sum contributed by the churches in each Presbytery, and the total sum drawn out by it for the support of those within its bounds.

10. What was the amount paid out in appropriations last year and the number of families aided?

Answer. The appropriations were $144,832.65, divided among 700 families.

11. What would you suggest as a proper and fitting thing for the Committee to recommend to the Association?

Answer. That, in addition to the circulars and appeals from the Board, some effective measures be taken (by the elders or some active agency in every congregation similar to the Women's Missionary Societies) to keep this sacred Cause before the people and to aid the pastor in securing for it a contribution, however small, from every member of the congregation. The people are all agreed as to the importance and sacredness of our work, and when informed about it and afforded an opportunity to contribute, they give gladly and liberally. But it easily drops out of sight. If even some brief statement and appeal (such as the Board annually issues—I enclose the one for the year just closing) were placed in the hands of every member of our Church, surely our report to the Assembly would no longer show that more than one-half of the churches take up no collection whatever for the Board of Ministerial Relief, and that so many of the contributing churches send amounts painfully disproportionate to their ability to give!

MINISTERIAL RELIEF, 1892-93.

Last year, ending April 1, 1892, the number of families upon the Roll of the Board was 700, of whom 18 were at the Minister's House, Perth Amboy, N. J. To the other 682 families appropriations were sent in money, as recommended by the Presbyteries to which they belong. The number of persons who share in these appropriations, is of course, much larger than the number of families.

The Presbyterial recommendations on their behalf came from 168 Presbyteries, showing how widely distributed throughout the Church are these homes of "our suffering brethren."

But the amount sent to each family is small. The maximum annual appropriation is $300. The average has rarely reached $200.

When it is remembered that missionaries, and the great majority of pastors, in the Presbyterian Church are paid salaries barely enough for the support of their families from year to year, it is not surprising that many, after having given their best years to the Church, find themselves in old age without money, and without the ability to earn it. Many others, in the midst of their active ministry, are brought to the same condition by sickness. Others, called from their labors by death, leave widows and young children in a state of comparative helplessness.

Surely no claim of Christ's disciples who are in sickness and want has a more tender and pathetic interest for the Church.

But more than this. The Presbyterian Church avails itself of the labors of its educated ministry at salaries so small as ordinarily to preclude any saving. Are we not bound by every consideration of justice and equity, as well as of Christian sympathy, to secure these pastors and missionaries against want and suffering in sickness and old age, and to make some provision for the families left dependent by their death?

Contributions for this object, therefore, are not alms or charity. They are the payment by the Church of the debt it owes to its faithful servants.

The Assembly for several years past has recommended that the churches under its care should contribute to this Board not less than $150,000. Last year the entire contributions to this cause from churches, Sabbath-schools and individuals amounted to only $103,844.12. Can you not during the present year increase the contribution from your church?

THE ANNUAL CIRCULAR OF THE BOARD.—This circular, which is referred to in the last Answer above, gives a few facts which ought to be known; but it is not intended, like the questions and answers above, to cover the ground of the administration of the Board. It aims rather to answer in a few words, two additional questions that may be asked:—(1) Why ministers in prolonged sickness or old age often need the aid which others, in the money-making occupations or professions, can do without? and (2) why the Church is bound in justice and equity to extend to them this aid. It is therefore printed here as a supplement to the answers to a "Business Man's Questions."

These brief annual circulars can be had in any quantities for distribution, on application by letter or in person, at the office of the Board—and also other and more extended presentations and discussions of the subject.

EDUCATION.

The Christian Ministry is a product of the Church's life, to be the means of securing its perpetuity and enlargement. Since the function of the ministry is that of instruction and guidance in matters of highest concernment, it ought to spring out of the best life of the Church and be among its choicest products. As a rule, however, a ministry of the right sort will not be likely to spring up of itself. As soon might we look for a crop of wheat without the preliminary ploughing and sowing. Exceptional instances indeed there are when by the secret operations of the Divine Spirit a person may be brought to devote himself to the sacred office. But this is not the ordinary method of ministerial production. Spiritual life in the Church does not work spontaneously as does natural life. Its seat is in the will. It is characterized by conscious effort. It is controlled by intelligence. If, therefore, the life of the Church is to produce a properly qualified ministry, the Church must aim to produce it, and employ the means suited for its production. The Church must realize its responsibility in the matter, and feel itself to be at fault, if a ministry is not had in quality and numbers sufficient for the demand.

And what are some of the means to be employed for obtaining a ministry of the right sort?

First of all there is prayer. The Saviour's injunction is "pray ye the Lord of the harvest that he send forth laborers into his harvest." "Every good and perfect gift cometh from above." Hence it must be sought for there with an earnestness proportionate to its value. This is one of the ways in which spiritual life works. It seeks in order to find. The source of its power is in Christ the fountain of life, and from him by prayer it must bring down the needed blessing. Accordingly the question arises, is our Church making the gift of a true ministry the subject of sincere prayer, both in public and in private, as it ought? Is not our failure in producing a sufficient supply of ministers partly owing to a sad defect in this duty?

Again, prayer must be seconded by effort, and not be suffered to pass as a substitute for it. When on the point of choosing his Apostles, our Lord spent the whole night previous in prayer; and then he went forth to look upon the men he wanted, and to call them; next he proceeded to train them for his service. That is what the Church should do in dependence on his guidance. And it is a work in which all Christians can engage according to their several opportunities and abilities; but it devolves especially upon the officers of Church, its pastors and elders. It is for them to feel a particular concern in this matter as overseers of the Church who are expected to be acquainted with the general conditions of things at home and abroad, and also with the young men under their care. Some there are who insist that a call to the ministry is altogether the Lord's prerogative, with which man should not interfere. One might as well assert that man should not interfere with the calling of sinners to repentance and faith. In each case the efficiency depends upon the Holy Spirit. But the Spirit, while sometimes working independently, operates more often through human agency; and we have known some whose hearts have been so impressed with the duty of laboring for the increase of the ministry as to render themselves instrumental in inducing many young men to enter it. Of course such attempts to be successful require no little skill in the discernment of character and ability; and if guidance is sought there need be no mistakes. It was to such direct personal influence that Scotland owed the wonderful ministry of the celebrated John Knox. And if the biographies of other noted divines be searched they would no doubt testify to the like indebtedness. Let there be no backwardness in the discharge of this duty from any false notions. Rightly done it would assist greatly in supplying our present lack of Gospel preachers.

In looking for candidates the example of our Lord would naturally lead us to seek for them, not in the ranks of the wealthy and of those in high station, though they may be found there, but among the "common people." The reason for this is that persons of this class will be more ready to accept the conditions of the minister's life so often full of privation and hardship, and also will be better prepared to understand and sympathize with the majority of those to whom they will have to minister. Such were the apostles. And such have been the much larger number of those who have been called to the sacred office until the present time.

Then having found the right sort of men, the next step is to prepare them for their work by a suitable education. For this purpose the Church has wisely provided institutions of learning where its candidates may be properly trained. It has also fixed upon a standard of qualifications requisite for ordination. The course prescribed by our body, as demanded by the times and essential to success, is a long and costly one, beyond the means of many very worthy young men to provide for. In such cases, what shall be done? Shall those who are unable to go through college and seminary be exempted from the required qualifications, and allowed to do the best they can with such education as they may be able to acquire, or shall they be aided to make the most possible of themselves by a thorough education? Which course is the most advantageous for the Church? Which is most nearly after the pattern of Christ? When he sent forth his Apostles "without purse or scrip," he somehow saw to it that they "lacked nothing;" and so no doubt he never suffered them to want while they attended him on his journeys, listening to his teachings. And shall not the Church imitate his example? Out of its abundance shall it not contribute towards the complete equipment of those of her sons whom the Lord in answer to prayer, has summoned to his service? Certainly this seems to be manifest duty. And it is one in which all the members can engage, both old and young, rich and poor. There are few who can claim inability to give at least a mite to this cause.

Only let the obligation to do something for the diffusion of the Gospel be impressed upon our congregations and all will be made to see that this is one of the most feasible and important ways of meeting this obligation, and there will be no difficulty in raising the funds sufficient to assist all who need to be aided in their education. And here is the point which needs to be emphasized. For some reason the obligation to contribute to this cause is not felt as it ought to be felt by large numbers of our Christian professors. Last year about three thousand churches sent us nothing, and the consequence was that a number of our candidates were obliged to struggle with very scant means to get their education and a number of young men were declined assistance. And the prospect is that this year the condition will be worse. And who will be to blame? We urge our pastors and elders to consider the demands of our country and of the world and to ask themselves seriously whether they are doing what they ought to meet them.

Of course there is only one source from which the enthusiasm of the Gospel ministry can come, and that is a deep and ever deeper Christian life of our own. Live deeper. Let God do more for you. Be sure that you have not begun to reach the limits of what He can do. Give him a larger liberty to help you. And then the thought that any man should go unhelped by him will seem dreadful to you and you must speak so that men will hear.

Of course you do not expect from me, or from any man, rules or prescriptions. It is not something for you to do. It is something which you must be which will give you the power, or, what is the only truth, will let God's power freely play through you. PHILLIPS BROOKS.

PUBLICATION AND SABBATH-SCHOOL WORK.

FREE LIBRARIES.

A large number of Free Libraries have already been distributed amongst needy Sabbath-schools and congregations in all portions of our land from the Atlantic to the Pacific. Donations have also been made to needy clergymen, to several U. S. military posts upon application from their respective Chaplains, and to academies established in the Southern States for the education of Freedmen. The number of books granted to each applicant ranges from 50 to 150, ac-according to the size of the school or congregations to be supplied. Letters are being constantly received containing either applications for new grants or grateful acknowledgements of the reception of libraries already forwarded.

The Secretary desires to call special attention to the fact that these libraries are not paid for from the funds of the Sabbath-school and Missionary Department. They are made directly by the Board from its old book stock. Applications for grants should in all cases be made directly to the Secretary, the Rev. E. R. Craven, D. D.

Attention is also called to the following direction contained in the December number of THE CHURCH AT HOME AND ABROAD.

"When an application is made in the interest of a church or Sabbath-school, it should ordinarily be accompanied by a certificate from the chairman of the Sabbath-school and Missionary Committee of the Presbytery with which the church or school is connected, setting forth its condition and needs. In cases where, on account of distance, it is difficult to obtain such a certificate, one should be given by the pastor or session of the church or of some neighboring church. Applications from the Chaplains of United States ships or military posts will always receive favorable consideration."

CHILDREN'S DAY.

The hum of preparation for the coming anniversary, on June 11 next, is again heard in our Sabbath-schools. No happier time could have been chosen for this yearly celebration than the "leafy month of June." All nature is attuned to one mighty chorus to the wise and kind Creator.

While this is a pleasant reflection, it is well also to remember that this year the glad occasion comes round at an important point in our national history. It is almost needless to remind any one of our great National Exposition. This will, of course, draw to the United States people from all lands. That these multitudes of travelers will not altogether confine their attention to the immense exhibition being held in Chicago, goes almost equally without saying.

That the influence of Christianity upon our own land will be keenly noted, is certain. And the part that our young Christians bear —our children and young people—will be quickly discovered. Nowhere in the world, it is safe to assert, do grander opportunities lie within reach of young people than in our beloved country, and nowhere are children and young people doing more for God and native land.

God has, on past occasions, very graciously manifested himself; and has blessed the songs, the prayers, the readings, and the offerings on Children's Day. He has guided, protected and honored the work being done for the advancement of His cause in our land through Presbyterian Sabbath-school Missionary Work. It is for the support of this work that the offerings of the coming Children's Day will be devoted.

In view of these considerations, and many others which will present themselves, Children's Day, 1898, should surpass all similar occasions of the past. Earnest efforts have been made to have all the exercises of a high order. The title of the larger programme is "The Sabbath." The title of the primary exercises is "Sabbath Bells." A novel feature this year is the pyramid mite boxes, which take the place of former collection envelopes.

The theme throughout the exercises is, THE SABBATH. To this, also, we would call particular attention. This is an important theme, and one receiving great attention at this time. That the Lord's Day is not so widely or reverently observed as it should be, is well known. The times call for thorough inculcation of such reverence and observance on the part of our children and youth. Very much depends upon this holy day. Its widespread desecration, or the general prevalence of loose ideas in regard to it, will surely recoil upon our own homes and nation.

There is, also, a direct and close relationship between the Sabbath-school Missionary Work, to which the Sabbath-schools contribute on that day, and the preservation and right observance of the Sabbath. The primary object of this work is to plant a Sabbath-school in every destitute community in our land. With this accomplished, and the attendance secured of the millions of boys and girls who are now outside of ALL Sabbath-schools, a mighty bulwark will have been set up against destroyers of the Lord's Day. Should this end be secured, we may rest confident that the coming generations of citizens of the Republic would cherish the Sabbath, worship God, and continue and increase the material prosperity of the nation, for "Righteousness exalteth a nation."

"ONE OF THE LEAST OF THESE."

The Sabbath-school and Missionary Department, through the generous aid of our Women's Societies, churches, Sabbath-schools, Young People's Societies, and kindred organizations in the Church, as well as liberal individuals, has been enabled to do an humble though noble work for the poor on the fields of our missionaries, during the past winter. Not less than $6,500 worth of clothing, hats, shoes, etc., for children and adults, as well as many boxes of toys, candy, etc., have been forwarded to needy homes.

The following letter touchingly and aptly describes one of many pathetic scenes enacted in homes gladdened by the kind remembrance of those in more favored circumstances. For obvious reasons we shall not publish the name or address of the writer of the letter. He is an earnest and efficient worker for Christ in Minnesota. He writes:

DEAR FRIENDS:—Late on Saturday afternoon, the express company's agent delivered at our house two valuable, or rather invaluable, boxes of clothing, etc., which you so generously sent. All work and play were suspended for the day, and until the clock on the mantel-shelf reminded us that the Sabbath was almost at hand.

I really forgot that I was suffering from a severe attack of la grippe, and for days previous to that was not able to write even a letter. But when those ponderous boxes were placed in the shed, I soon armed myself with a hammer and hatchet, and began to pry open the tightly fastened covers. The boys took positions on chairs or other "exalted places," where they could get a good view of the articles, as they came from the places where they were so carefully packed.

Mrs. F. was as smart and youthful as she was ten years ago when she first assumed that name. As package after package, and garment after garment was being unrolled the little ones would express their joyous surprise by saying—"Oh mamma!" (and sometimes "papa") "isn't that nice!" "Oh! that's lovely!" and many similar exclamations. Their parents' gratitude, however, was manifested more by silence and the feeling of a lump rising in the throat and a dimness of vision, with frequent silent prayers for God to bless the donors. It would really seem as if some of you good mothers were spending some days in our home and that you had quietly looked into the clothes closets and had just seen the very things we needed; or that you were endowed with omniscience. I do wish that you who have toiled so hard, all these weeks, could have looked into our humble home, and seen the goods piled up on the bureau, lounge, table, bed and floor. The boys might be seen sitting on their new suits—counting how many pockets, Mabel with doll closely pressed to her bosom viewing alternately her own dresses and that of her "Ida May," and even the missionary himself frequently looking into the mirror, and wondering if the people to whom he ministers, would recognize him on the next Sabbath. I am sure that I need not worry about the very cold weather predicted for this part of the country this winter, being so perfectly clad with that fine suit, overcoat, and other articles—all which fit me like a glove. We do most highly prize and appreciate everything that you sent. I am sure, that our Lord has heard the prayers at our family altar, and the little ones as they remembered their "dear friends in the East who sent us so many nice things." May God reward everyone of you for your self-denial, and may the blessing and promise to those who give even a cup of cold water in the name of a disciple, be your portion for ever. Please accept the most profound thanks of a very grateful family.

"OUT OF THE MOUTH OF BABES."

A primary class of forty little children were asked by their teacher, why Jesus kept Paul from dying when his enemies stoned him.

They answered, "Because he was good." But when the teacher reminded them of Stephen they saw that that could not be the true reason.

All seemed to be thinking in vain for an answer till a little girl raised her hand, and, when asked what she thought the reason was, said, "Because the Gentiles wanted to hear about Jesus."

CHURCH ERECTION.

A NOTEWORTHY EXAMPLE.

Elizabeth, N. J., Feb. 13, 1893.

Mr. Adam Campbell, Dear Sir:—Enclosed please find my check for $22, from the Third Presbyterian Church of Elizabeth, N. J., for the Board of Church Erection.

Yours truly,

ISAAC FAULKES.

The above seems to be a very simple and commonplace rote, and yet it is one of the most remarkable we have ever received. Let the facts explain our statement.

At a quarter before eight on Saturday evening, January 14, the edifice of the Third Church of Elizabeth was discovered to be on fire. Although engines were soon upon the ground the fire was not under control until ten o'clock, and the flames were not entirely extinguished until late at night. The next day was the Sabbath, and as members of the congregation gathered around the familiar spot where they were wont to worship, they found only the wreck of their beautiful church home. But the life and activity of that church did not pause for an hour. As one of the congregation writes:

Early in the day arrangements were made to hold a service in the Second Church at 3 P. M. At that hour a large proportion of the congregation came together and spent a season of prayer and conference. Our pastor announced the hymn,

O God of Bethel, by whose hand
Thy people still are fed, read 2 Cor. 4, and addressed the people in a strain of encouragement. Remarks of a similar kind were made by Messrs. Woodward, Hamilton and Bull. Our situation was laid before God in prayer and his help invoked. It was a pleasant hour, bringing strength and comfort to all our hearts.

But this was not all. It was the day for the annual contribution of the church to the Board of Church Erection. How unlikely that under the excitement of their great loss, and gathered as they were in a strange place and with thoughts fully occupied with their own plans, they would remember to take a collection for any special cause. How natural had they said: "We ourselves are now homeless; we have a great work before us in rebuilding. It is not the time for us to send money away to build churches elsewhere."

But no! The regular flow of the benevolence of that faithful congregation was not to be intermitted for a day. And just as if they had been sitting in their accustomed places within the familiar walls of their own sanctuary the appointed offering was made.

Thus we say that the simple letter which, without a reference to the disaster of the day before, enclosed the check for the contribution of the Third Church of Elizabeth, was one of the most remarkable we have ever received. Well did a local paper remark:

It strikes one as a singular coincidence that the first benevolent offering made in their homeless condition should be for the Board of Church Erection. Perhaps it was a divinely ordered test. A homeless church that will make its first offering to the work of building churches for others, will be able under God's blessing to repair its own sanctuary.

A MARKED CONTRAST.

In marked contrast with the above, we grieve to have to say that nearly one-half of the churches fail to make any contributions whatever to aid other homeless congregations to find places of shelter. More than this many of the congregations that thus fail to help are not only themselves strong and able to give, but were in their days of weakness freely aided through the Board they now are unwilling to sustain in its work for others.

THE VALUE OF A PASTOR'S PRESENCE.

The value of good leadership in this matter of giving is well set forth in the following letter which explains itself:

I have the pleasure of enclosing in this letter a draft for Four Dollars, which I wish to have placed to the credit of——Presbyterian Church, in——Presbytery for the Board of Church Erection Fund. When I wrote to you sometime ago I did not think we would be able to contribute this year to the different boards, but last October we secured a pastor, and now we wish to contribute to all the different boards for the present year.

Our pastor is Rev. W. C. Helt, Ph. D., whom we are wonderfully well pleased with, and count him second to none in this Presbytery. Our church seems to be a live institution now, and we are fighting a good fight for the Christian cause.

TREASURER.

FURTHER TESTIMONY.

We wish that our brethren throughout our churches would "read, mark and inwardly digest" the following letter from an active pastor in Iowa. It was indeed "encouraging."

Twenty-five years experience as a Home Missionary has brought me into very close relations with the Board of Church Erection in the building and completion of at least four church buildings, and you may rest assured there are some of us who will never forget the annual collection for the Board of Church Erection.

One statement in your circular I wish could be emphasized, viz: "A word from the pulpit will be more effective than anything we can do." It is true the pastor is the "drill sergeant," on whom depends the beneficent contributions of the church. I wish in some way we could make our churches feel their legal as well as moral obligation to the Board of Church Erection. There is scarcely one but has been aided by this Board, one condition of aid being an annual contribution to the Board. At least this was a condition at one time. Yet frequently one-half the churches aided by the Board in a Presbytery or Synod fail to make good this pledge and report "blanks." Is it not possible to make pastors and churches remember their obligations? It seems to me a matter of common business honesty and honor.

My present charge is not drawing aid from the Board of Home Missions, but it is virtually missionary. They were however aided by the Board of Church Erection years ago. We have a system for contributions to all the Boards. The amount given—shall I say paid back—to Church Erection may be small—too small—but it will not be small because the pastor has not done all he could to secure more.

Excuse my trespassing upon your time. Amid all your discouragements it may be a grain of comfort to know that there are some, yes, many, whose hearts are warm with remembrances of the Board of Church Erection. I could almost adopt the language of the Psalmist; "If I forget thee," &c. God bless you.

HOW A SPANISH PASTOR DOES IT.

Rev. Alex. M. Darley, Presbyterian Missionary to Mexicans in Arkansas Valley, writes:

The plan adopted by Dr. Marshall for Foreign Missions is our plan for all the Boards. I enclose a few samples to show you how your Board looks in Spanish.

LA JUNTA PARA EDIFICAR CAPILLAS Y CASAS DE MINISTROS
DE LA
IGLESIA PRESBITERIANA EN LOS U. S. A.
55 AVENIDA QUINTA, NUEVA YORK.

OFERTA PARA MISIONES.

El Importe, $.....Cts.....

El Nombre,.....

La Residencia,.....

Háganos el favor de recordarse del importe de su prometida dádiva. Póngala en una cartera, con su nombre distintamente sobrescrito, y desposite en el cajón de colecta en el día designado para la oferta.

We often have to take sheep, goats, chickens, hay, etc., in our collections and it takes some time to realize on them. For instance, I was promised $5.00 for Home Missions in 1891 in potatoes—but the Board's potatoes froze, so he paid last week in hay. I used said hay to feed the four saddle horses of my evangelists at a protracted meeting where God gave us five souls,—and I now have to get the Home Board's $5.00 out of our church's subscription to the support of the evangelists! Kind of roundabout, doctor, but we eventually get there. Though I have but one church in Minutes' Record, two being new, I hope to show up this year for all three.

Yours, ALEX. M. DARLEY.

WHO HAS PEWS TO SPARE?

The Rev M. F. Trippe, of Salamanca, N. Y., Missionary upon the Allegheny Reservation, makes the following plea for the Indian Church at Onoville:

"I send Trustees' receipt and hearty thanks for the Board's help. We could paint the church and finish everything in fine shape if we could find some second-hand seats. We are ready to sound the hearty praises of any church willing to send us twenty or thirty very plain seats each about nine feet long.

FREEDMEN.

BIDDLE UNIVERSITY.

E. P. COWAN, D. D.

The second year of Rev. Dr. Sanders' administration as President of Biddle University, at Charlotte, N. C., is drawing to a close. The present faculty of eleven men, all of whom are colored but one, are not only engaged in attending to the duties of their respective places as professors, but they are also engaged in demonstrating before the world the proposition that educated colored men are capable of successfully carrying on the education of other colored men.

The proposition to many is so simple that it seems hardly to need demonstration; yet some have doubted.

As not all educated white men are capable of successfully administering the affairs of large institutions designed for the education of their kind, so it is not claimed that every educated colored man is capable of becoming a successful educator; but it is claimed that out of the product of our educational work of the last twenty-eight years, more than enough selected men can be found perfectly competent to do the work to be done even at so large and important an educational centre as Biddle University. I say more than enough, because in my judgment the ten competent men now successfully at work at Biddle, by no means exhaust the supply.

The best argument in favor of Biddle University as at present organized, is the good condition in which it now is; and the good work that is now being done. This can be seen by any one who will take the time and trouble to visit the place, and examine for himself. The number of students has largely increased, and the graduating class will be the largest that has ever gone out from the college since it obtained its present charter.

The order and decorum of the students is remarkable. The rules are stringent, and are obeyed. The buildings are well kept, as far as the age and dilapidated condition of some of them will allow.

Attendance upon daily chapel service and Sabbath evening worship is enforced by an ingenious system of movable checks which each student must manipulate for himself, or failing to do this tell the tale of his own delinquency, for which he must afterwards give an account.

The Industrial Department is better organized and more efficient than it ever was before in the history of the institution. Prof. Hunt, a graduate of Atlanta University, is a practical carpenter. Under his direction the students have just finished building a dwelling-house for one of the professors. Another professor's house recently needed a new roof. A student was allowed to take the contract, at a certain price, in a business-like way. He hired his own men, all students, and finished up the job in workmanlike style, to the entire satisfaction of every one, and of course slightly to his own pecuniary advantage.

Look into the shoe-shop and you find a dozen young men (the room will hold no more) who an hour before were reading Greek and Latin; now they are sitting on cobblers' benches and are driving wooden pegs. In the next room a dozen more are setting type, while two others are turning a large printing-press, and a third man is "feeding" the machine.

In all these industrial departments the students spend one hour a day that is regarded as practice, and this is set down to "tuition." Later in the day the same student gives an hour to some industrial work which is regarded as "service." For this he is paid; or rather he is allowed so much to his credit on his individual account with the institution. If a young man receives pecuniary aid, as many do, he does not get this help for nothing. He must render service, either in Prof. Hunt's Industrial Department or Prof. Carson's Home Department, of which service an accurate account is kept, and the worth of his work is charged up to his credit. In this way the student does indeed get aid; but he also is made to feel that he is, at least partially, working his way. This arrangement is admirable, and is all that could be desired.

I visited every class room in the institution, and found the instructor able to instruct; the learner able to learn. I devoutly wish that every friend of the work could visit the school. If this were possible, the University would have all the money it needs. Its professors are workmen that need not be ashamed. Their work suffers most from not being known, or clearly understood. The institution is now running up to its utmost capacity as regards numbers. The enrollment so far this year is 236. The boys are stowed away in their cheap dormitories, in many cases, eight in a room. Two students sleep in the engine-room, and over thirty in the main building, which was never intended for dormitory purposes.

If the University only had the necessary accommodations and scholarships, the roll would easily run up to 500. Over thirty good applications for admission this year were declined for lack of room, and lack of funds. A new dormitory seems to be an imperative necessity. Ten thousand dollars, I should judge, is the least sum worth talking about in the present condition of affairs.

We have come to the point where the Presbyterian Church, in its work among the Freedmen, must decide whether it is going to have a large, strong first-class University or not. Here is our opportunity. It is a grand one. If we seize on it, future generations will say, How wise! If we neglect it, they will say, How foolish! This good beginning will grow and strengthen, or wither and decline, according as we either give to it, or withhold from it our practical and generous support. I believe the command of God to us in this matter is to go forward; and in imitation of His own method of doing things, the Church having begun a good work, should carry it on until the Day of Jesus Christ.

ONE MAN'S SERVICE.

[From the Independent.]

Lewis Watts was born a slave at Athens, Ga., and was fifteen years old at the close of the war. His mother had six children, and after emancipation supported them as well as she could out of her earnings as a nurse. Lewis, the oldest child, came to Atlanta and found work for thirteen years as porter in the railroad depot. He sent for his mother and brothers and sisters and brought them to Atlanta. For two years he was body servant to Senator Joseph E. Brown in Atlanta and in Washington. During these years he helped take care of the family and paid the entire expenses of sending his sister Dinah to the Atlanta University. Here she took a full course in the normal department. At night Dinah taught the rest of the family, including the mother and her older brother, to read and write. When thirty years old Lewis had saved enough from his earnings to permit him to go to school himself, in addition to what he was doing for his sister. He had been so diligent in his evening studies that he entered one of the upper grades in the grammar school course, and remained in the school three years.

After graduating in 1888 Dinah proceeded to establish an orphan asylum and school in Covington, Ga. Lewis was so interested in the project that he went to work again to help her with his earnings. He secured a position as a Pullman car porter on the Pennsylvania Railway, running between Jersey City and Pittsburg, and filled it for eight years, and has only recently given it up. During all this time he sent his sister on an average from twenty to twenty-five dollars a month out of his earnings, and besides, more than two hundred dollars' worth of books. Her asylum and school are in a very flourishing condition, there being twenty-two orphans in the home and 250 scholars in the school.

Lewis Watts has thus arrived at the age of forty-one years, living a modest, quiet, useful life, devoted to the welfare of others. He has gone back to Atlanta, where he has promised to assist his brother in business for a year, and has been made the Superintendent of the First Congregational Sunday-school. His has not been a remarkable life, simply one of common, humble service. It has had in it no romance, but it has had a purpose.

Gleanings At Home and Abroad.

—When the eminent Dr. Emmons of the last century was asked, "what is the best remedy for inattention in a congregation?" he replied: "Give them something to attend to."

—A missionary in Japan protests against the use of the term heathen as applied to the non-Christian peoples of Asia. It seems to the Japanese an offensive and rude term, a word of inferiority and contempt. Though it came into use from our English Bible, it is not found in the Revised Version of the New Testament. Christ and his disciples spoke of nations with respect and hope, never of heathen, pagans, or outsiders. Christians should be courteous in preaching the gladdest tidings on earth.—Missionary Herald.

—The Aleut calls himself an Inolt, i e., man; and by that he means the man. He will tell you that although his god (a Greenlander who bears the name of Kellak) made the white man and woman first, the lack of experience caused inevitable mistakes. The white man was a failure; but in a subsequent attempt the yellow Inolt—the man par excellence—was created. So to him was given the seal. These people, whom we have called Esquimaux, Aleuts, Thlinkets, Koloshes, Tchonches, are all Inoits, all members of the most primitive family among the nations.—Temple Bar, via Literary Digest.

—Mysticism and pantheism are predominant characteristics of Persian literature. Khayam, Bon Caid, Roumi, Hafiz and Caadi remind one of pantheists like Spinoza and mystics like Madam Guyon. These Persian souphis see in nature several powerful, eternal, capricious principles, which cause disorder and take pleasure in playing with mankind as a dramatist plays with the personages he puts on the stage. "If I do foolish things," says Khayam, "if I drink wine, if I blaspheme God and the mosque, I do it involuntarily, pushed on by forces to me unknown. Let the Mollahs cease to disturb us with their prayers and sermons."—Ahmed Bey in Nouvelle Revue via Literary Digest.

—The Church of Christ ought to send out not merely a few of the best educated, but all who are in any way suitable. We have been trying to evangelize the heathen with a few picked officers at a great expense. The result is that after all these years vast districts have never been touched. The emergency is so great that we want all who would be of any use. Seeing that the young and the strong and the gifted are not willing in anything like sufficient numbers, shall we not send out those true souls, mature and well tested Christians, who are willing, even if in some minor respects they are deficient?—Rev. J. Heywood Horsburgh.

—Do not say, "The heathen are acting up to their light, why should we trouble them to change their religion? They have very good religions of their own." They are not acting up to their light. They have very bad religions of their own. As for troubling them to change, I would not go a yard out of England to get a man to change his religion. But I would go to China were it twice the distance that it is, to get a man to receive the Lord Jesus Christ as his personal Saviour and friend, which is a very different thing. Religion cannot save, not even the Christian religion. But Jesus Christ can and does.—Rev. J. Heywood Horsburgh in his "Do Not Say."

—The following is Dr. Griffith John's indictment of the opium traffic: 1. Both the appetite and the demand for opium in China have been created by the introduction of the foreign article. 2. The opium trade has been forced by England upon the Chinese, in direct opposition to the moral convictions of the nation and the honest resistance of the government. 3. Opium is a curse, physically, morally and socially, both to the nation and to the individual. 4. The demand is for immediate abolition, to secure which England must bear the burden without calling upon India for a single rupee of additional taxation. "If the first three propositions are sustained by incontrovertible facts," says the Chinese Recorder, "the fourth will stand unchallenged in the high court of reason."

—Mr. Gilmour was one day abused in an eating-house in Ta Ch'eng tsz, Mongolia, by a man who called him "foreign devil" and accused him of stealing human hearts and eyes. The landlord interfered, and was about to beat the aggressor when Mr. Gilmour restrained him. "But the man has abused you these three days." "Oh no," replied Gilmour, "he has abused the devil. I am not the devil. I am Ching Ya Ko (his Chinese name). He has abused those who steal hearts and eyes. I have never done these things, so he must be abusing some other person. The listeners were persuaded that there must be something in a religion which could lead a man to bear insults in such a manner. The eating-house man from that day decided to become a Christian, and was afterwards baptized.—Chinese Recorder.

Young People's Christian Endeavor.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S MEETING.

More than one pastor is now convinced, from experience and observation, that it is a mistake to hold the Christian Endeavor, or any kind of young people's prayer meeting, on Sunday evening before the usual church service. Where this is done, the tendency is to deplete, rather than add to, the church service. It is said that more than half of the young people go home at the conclusion of their own meeting, putting the somewhat miscellaneous meeting in the place of the "preaching service." That the young people's prayer meeting has a very important influence in addition to the services of God's ministry is gladly confessed, but addition is not subtraction. Nothing can take the place of the orderly presentation of the gospel by the trained mind and devout heart of the minister. Young Christians can not afford to do what will tend to separate them from instruction in the Word.

Many societies hold their meetings on Monday or Tuesday evening, or perhaps later in the week. "And in more than one church the pastor has a tacit understanding with his young people that he expects them to attend only one prayer meeting during the week, as a regular thing. If they attend the young people's prayer meeting they are excused from the general meeting of the congregation—only let them be regular and faithful at one or the other.

If the young people's prayer meeting before the Sunday evening service has the opposite effect,—if its members attend it in order to attend the succeeding church service punctually and regularly, that must be a great encouragement to the pastor; and if it costs endeavor, real Christian endeavor, it is in the direct line of the universal pledge.

In a certain church, composed largely of young Christians, the evening congregation was almost entirely made up of young people. It occurred to the pastor to try the experiment of having the meeting of the Young People's Association after the evening church service. There was first a song-service for fifteen minutes, followed by a fifteen-minute sermon. At 8 o'clock the service was closed, and the young people gathered at once in the prayer-meeting room for a short, crisp, wide-awake meeting.

There were several advantages in this method, as experience showed. Whatever of fire and feeling there was in the church service flowed into this after-meeting and found expression. It was an "after-meeting" without calling it by that name; and many members of the congregation, older and younger, were eager to attend the young people's meeting, who would have held back from an "inquiry meeting." Scores of hearts received an unexpected blessing. The entire double-service was brief, and the children and young people were usually at home by 9 o'clock.

A good suggestion has been made that, in many of the villages and smaller towns, it would be well to have a union service every Sunday evening, held alternately in the churches of different denominations. Preceding or following this union church service there may be a union young people's meeting, on the lines already indicated. Instead of several services, each perhaps having a slim attendance, there may thus be one large and enthusiastic congregation. The preacher of the evening will feel the influence, and will speak with a new hope and emphasis. Interdenominational fellowship is thus enjoyed, and the one Lord is honored in the one faith.

It is thought by some that this can be done more successfully and more easily on every Sunday evening than monthly or occasionally. There is a sweep and a momentum in such a continued custom, there is an order and an acquaintance with common needs, which a less frequent uniting for worship cannot show.

TOPICS FOR MEETINGS.

An interesting specimen of such local lists of topics is one used in the Bethlehem Presbyterian Church of Philadelphia, of which the Rev. Dr. B. L. Agnew is the pastor. The meetings of the "Young People's Association" are held on Friday evenings; and its standing committees are entitled: Membership, Devotional, Social, Inasmuch, Home Missions, Foreign Missions, Reading Room, Temperance, and Finance. The topics are issued on a folding card, of vest-pocket size, as follows:

"I WILL" WORTHY OF EMULATION.

- Jan. 13. REPENTANCE—"I will arise." . . . Luke 15: 18
- Jan. 20. CONFESSION—"I will confess." Psalms 32: 5
- Jan. 27. TRUST—"I will trust." . . . Psalms 56: 3
- Feb. 3. DISCIPLESHIP—"I will follow." . . . Luke 9: 57
- Feb. 10. TESTIMONY—"I will declare." Psalms 66: 16
- Feb. 17. COMPANIONSHIP—"I will go." . . . Ruth 1: 16
- Feb. 24. PRAYER—"I will pray." . . . Psalms 5: 3
- March 3. STUDY—"I will delight." . . . Psalms 119: 16
- March 10. PRAISE—"I will extol." . . . Psalms 145: 1-7
- March 17. PREPARATORY SERVICE.
- March 24. COURAGE—"So will I go." . . . Esther 4: 16
- March 31. GOD'S "I WILL." . . . Revelation 21: 7

WORKING AND TALKING.

I saw a letter not long ago from a lady who is greatly interested in young people and who, in speaking of some things that she had noticed in her own church and her own town, expressed the fear that some of them were being turned from workers into talkers. I have studied over her expression and have wondered whether there is a real danger in that direction, and whether some of our young people are forgetting that "confessing with the mouth" ought to be very closely connected with "following" in the daily life; that those who are most ready to "speak a word for Jesus" in the prayer meeting, ought to be most ready to "shine for him," in the home, in the Sabbath-school, in the schoolroom, in all the relations of life.

I have nothing to say against the talking, if it is honest talking. "Talk ye of all his wondrous works" is a Scripture command, and there is a sweet promise for those who feared the Lord and "spake often one to another." Why should not "travelers Zionward" speak naturally and freely together of their experiences and their progress, just as those who meet on an ocean steamer or at a Swiss inn, tell of their routes and their detentions, and advise each other about the itinerary for the remaining journey? If one young Christian can give testimony to answered prayer in the words, "I love the Lord, because He hath heard my voice and my supplications," and another can express a newly formed purpose of surrender to the Lord, in Charlotte Elliot's sweet words:

"Just as I am, without one plea,
But that thy blood was shed for me,
And that thou bidst me come to thee,
Oh, Lamb of God, I come;"

I have not a word of criticism. But if the high purposes that are expressed, the consecration that is avowed, the witnessing for Jesus for which the prayer circle gives opportunity, reach no farther than the door of the prayer meeting room, if those same young people are no more ready for the active duties of Christian service than those who have made no such profession, I am afraid that there is a mistake somewhere.

Have you ever noticed how that very practical writer, James, who has so much to say about the tongue, defines pure religion? "Pure religion and undefiled before God and the Father is this: To visit the fatherless and widows in their affliction, and to keep himself unspotted from the world." Certainly he thought that tongues that were used for the honor of the Lord should be joined with lives of active usefulness, free and pure from stains of worldliness and sin.

I wish that the Literature Committee of every young people's society would procure a copy of Miss Havergal's little book, Kept for the Master's Use, and have it passed from one member to another for prayerful, thoughtful study. It would not be a bad idea to take the successive chapters as the subjects for a series of meetings, looking up appropriate texts and talking together of its suggestions. I am sure that it would give new thoughts of the possibilities within reach of a consecrated life, and help some to realize how lips and feet and hands and heart and treasures may be kept "ever, only, all for Thee."

There are so many lines of work open for young people now in the Sabbath-school and the mission band, among the poor and the lonely, that I do not think that willing feet will have far to go to find errands of mercy, and I hope that when the opportunity offers it will be a very good reason that will make any one say, "I pray thee have me excused."

Do not think that I am making a wholesale criticism upon all young people. A pastor recently said of a number of his young church members, who had attended a large gathering of representatives of the young people's societies of the region: "Since that meeting there has been nothing that I have asked of them that they have not been willing to do;" and we know that there was never a time when there was more active endeavor on their part in many directions. Home and foreign missions, flower and fruit missions, hospital and prison visitations, King's Daughters and Boys' Brigades and Loyal Legions all testify to the fact. Nor do we fail to remember that often the truest service is the faithful performance of daily tasks. But we sometimes see a Sabbath-school superintendent go from one Bible class to another looking in vain for a substitute teacher; we sometimes hear of a mission band given up for want of a leader; we sometimes see such letters as the one referred to at the beginning of this article, and others that bewail the worldliness of some who are prominent in the Christian organizations of the Church; and we long for all of our young people, that they may not only confess with their lips, but that they may come out from the world, not for the separation of the recluse, but to be set apart for the constant service of Him who came "not to be ministered unto, but to minister."

F.

Children's Church At Home And Abroad.

KING MTESA AND THE BIBLE.

[From B. and F. Bible Society's Gleanings for Children.]

Uganda is an immense country in East Central Africa, northwest of Victoria Nyanza. The people, who number about five millions, are called Beganda, and their language Ganda. The Bible Society gave to the Church Missionary Society, in about a year and a half (May, 1891, to September, 1892), about 25,000 copies of Scriptures for Uganda. One lady has given £30, the proceeds of her own work, to send out the Ganda Testament whenever it is ready. It was near Uganda that Bishop Hannington was murdered, by the order of King Mwanga.

Some time ago Mr. Stanley, the great traveller, delivered a speech for the Bible Society, and told this story. King Mtesa ruled in Uganda before King Mwanga.

"I remember that in 1875 Miss Livingstone, the sister of David Livingstone, presented me with a beautifully bound Bible. On a subsequent visit to Mtesa I read to him some chapters, and as I finished it flashed through my mind that Uganda was destined to be won for Christ. I was not permitted to carry that Bible away. Mtesa never forgot the wonderful words, nor the startling effect they had upon him; and just as I was turning away from his country to continue my explorations across the 'Dark Continent,' a messenger who had travelled two hundred miles came to me, crying out that Mtesa wanted the book, and it was given to him. To-day the Christians in Uganda number many thousands; they have proved their faith at the stake, under the knobstick, and under torture until death. Who, then, knows what the particular Bibles which the Bible Society sends may do? The seed which may be sown through the agency of the Society may return to this nation a thousand-fold, and bring to our posterity countless blessings."

RUBAGA, THE CAPITAL OF UGANDA.

MWANGA, KING OF UGANDA.

[This cut and the one on page 313 are lent to us by the Fleming H. Revell Company, from The Story of Uganda.]

"A BRICK AT A TIME."

"North of Peking, in China, there is a celebrated temple visited by a great number of worshippers, each bringing a single brick. There was hardly any one so poor that he could not bring a brick, and in time the pile grew and it became sufficient to build this spacious temple. Everyone brought something, and their gifts together made a great monument. I should not wonder if some of these worshippers came to the place many times, and every time brought a brick; but it is impressive to think that all that great structure was made out of little offerings of a brick at a time."—The Day Spring.

This reminds me of two places in the Bible in which we are shown how great things can be done by a large number of people doing every one a little. Both stories are in the Old Testament. In one, each person brought a bough which he had cut from a tree; in the other, every man picked up a stone and threw it where one stone would have done no harm, but so many stones ruined a field.

I wish every little reader of this would find both those verses, and write to me.

I have a good many pictures such as I have been sending to children who have answered such letters as this, and I am willing to give them all away. I am delighted that so many children have already written for them. But I find that just as a great many bricks make a big temple, and a great many drops of water fill a big cistern—so a great many postage stamps count up into the dollars.

What do you say now, children, would you like to put a stamp into each letter that tells where you find those two Bible stories? If you will, I will send one of the pictures, as long as they last. There are pictures of the Presbyterian House, of the Korean Boys, of Mackay of Uganda, and of Dr.

Kendall. Those who have had any one of these may tell me, and I will send one of the others, as long as they last—"first come first served."

The letters and postal cards which I have received from children about the other Bible verses make a pretty big pile. We have sent a picture for each, unless we have made some mistakes. If any one who has written has missed receiving a picture, please write and tell us. We are glad to correct such mistakes as soon as we know them.

Thoughts on the Sabbath-School Lessons.

I.

April 2.—The Afflictions of Job.—Job ii: 1-10.

There are lessons and messages of comfort for the tempted Christian in the story of Job's experience that are repeated and summed up in New Testament assurances and promises. The temptation may be hard, the struggle long and sharp, but we have the promise: "God is faithful, who will not suffer you to be tempted above that ye are able; but will with the temptation also make a way to escape, that ye may be able to bear it;" the assurance of sympathy: "We have not an high priest which cannot be touched with the feeling of our infirmities; but was in all points tempted like as we are, yet without sin;" and the reminder of the sure defence: "Put on the whole armor of God, that ye may be able to stand against the wiles of the devil . . . Above all, taking the shield of faith, wherewith ye shall be able to quench all the fiery darts of the wicked."

The Resurrection of Christ.—Matt. xxviii: 1-10 (Easter Lesson).

Firm and fast as the grave now seems to hold the buried generations of our race, it is doomed, as a fruit of Christ's resurrection, to relax its grasp and yield them up again. Empty as was Joseph's sepulchre when the angel spake to the women, so empty shall be every grave of earth when another angel shall sound its trumpet, and it shall ring through the regions of the dead, and stir all to life again. Blessed was that morning which dawned upon the empty tomb at Calvary, but more blessed to us shall be that other morning which shall dawn upon the empty graves of earth, if only now we live in Christ; if at death we sleep in Jesus; if at that resurrection we be numbered with those who shall share the resurrection of the just.

HANNA.

II.

April 9.—Afflictions Sanctified.—Job v: 17-27,

Happy is the man whom God correcteth, if he make but a due improvement of the correction. A good man is happy, though he be afflicted; for whatever he has lost, he has not lost his enjoyment of God nor his title to heaven; nay, he is happy because he is afflicted; correction is an evidence of his worship and a means of his sanctification; it mortifies his corruption, weans his heart from the world, draws him nearer to God, brings him to the Bible, brings him to his knees, works him for and so is working for him a far more exceeding and eternal weight of glory; happy therefore is the man whom God correcteth. Though He wounds, yet His hands make whole in due time; as He supports His people and makes them easy under their afflictions, so in due time He delivers them and makes a way for them to escape. All is well again; and he comforts them according to the time wherein He afflicted them. God's usual method is first to wound and then to heal; first to convince, then to comfort; first to humble and then to exalt; and He never makes a wound too great, too deep, for His own cure.

H.

III.

April 16.—Job's Appeal to God.—Job xxiii: 1-10.

We are not to try to find in Job as he is exhibited in our lesson a model for ourselves when we are afflicted. In the long run, when the processes of thought have been exhausted, and Job is led to turn from his own power of solving life's riddles, and just to have faith that God is doing all things well even when we do not see it, then Job becomes the model for our imitation. But until that end is reached Job's mind is in a condition of development, and we are to be careful not to take his doubts and his imperfect reasonings as models for us. But if such doubts and reasonings arise in us, then we are to have Job for our model in the sense that we are to escape from them as he did. In other words, we are not to take Job's transitional reasonings as patterns, but if we are in a similar transitional state ourselves, his escape becomes our pattern.

J. D. BURRELL.

IV.

April 23.—Job's Confession and Restoration.—Job xlii: 1-10.

When, smarting under his defeat in heaven, Satan went to make war upon them which keep the commandments of God, and have the testimony of Jesus Christ, he prepared for himself a most ignominious repulse. He who aspired to be the leader of the hosts of heaven and drew a third part of the angels in his fall, assails the feeble children of men and utterly fails to compass the ruin of one of them upon whom Jesus has set his love. He can terrify them, he can torture them; he can make them drag on the weary conflict with sin and corruption while life lasts; he can extort from them bitter groans of agonizing distress, he can shower upon them the fiery darts, but he cannot destroy them. The glimmering spark which divine grace has kindled he cannot with all the floods of temptation extinguish. Satan cannot by any means harm the feeblest of God's saints who stands up against him in the name of the Lord. If he have on the armor which divine grace has furnished and use aright the weapons with which he is supplied, and in humble dependence on his Lord, abides faithful at his post, he is invincible; and the boastful foe who came upon him ready to swallow him up, shall be driven back in shame and confusion.

W. H. GREEN.

V.

April 30.—Wisdom's Warning.—Prov. i: 20-33.

However we may interpret the personification of Heavenly Wisdom in the Book of Proverbs, we can hardly fail to recognize in the yearning invitation to the simple to turn from their simplicity, the same voice of love that speaks the welcoming "Come" of the New Testament to the "little children," to the "weary and heavy laden" and to all earth's hungry and thirsty, unsatisfied souls. And the solemn words of reproof and judgment to those who have failed to heed the invitation, have much the same sound of sorrowful regret as those of our Savior. "Ye would not come unto me that ye might have life."

Ministerial Necrology.

 We earnestly request the families of deceased ministers and the stated clerks of their presbyteries to forward to us promptly the facts given in these notices, and as nearly as possible in the form exemplified below. These notices are highly valued by writers of Presbyterian history, compilers of statistics and the intelligent readers of both.

BROWN, FREDERICK T., D. D.—Born May 16, 1822, at Carlisle, O.; graduated from Princeton, 1845; studied theology one year in Geneva, Switzerland, and two years at Princeton; ordained by the Presbytery of Logansport, 1848; pastor of First Church, Dayton, Ohio; pastor, Presbyterian Church, Madison, Indiana, 1850-1853; Cleveland, O., 1853-1861; Chaplain, Seventh Regiment, Ohio Volunteers, June to November, 1861; pastor, Presbyterian Church, Georgetown, D. C., 1861-1864, still having charge of Army Hospital, his own church being used as a hospital for six months; pastor, Central Church, Chicago, 1864-1866; pastor, Central Church, St. Paul, Minnesota, 1867-1873; agent for Board of Education, 1873-1875; pastor, Ann Arbor, Michigan 1875-1881; pastor, Manasquan, 1881-1893; died January 11, 1893. Married Harriet Little, Winchester, W. Virginia; June 11, 1851, Charlotte A. White, Madison, Indiana; March 10, 1875, Annie C. Bates, New York City. A widow, four sons and four daughters survive. Two sons are ministers—one of them a missionary in Mexico; two daughters have had charge of Sidon Female Seminary for several years.

BROWN, JOHN ALLEN.—Born in Youngstown, Pa., near Pittsburgh, Aug. 7, 1822; began teaching when very young; graduated at Jefferson College, 1850; licensed by the Presbytery of Blairsville, Oct. 4, 1854; ordained by the Presbytery of Blairsville, June, 1856; pastor, Ligonier, Pa., 1856-59; Fredericksburgh, Ohio, 1859-64; West Liberty, W. Va., 1864-75; Allen Grove, Limestone, Wolf Run, W. Va., 1876-81; Meckinock, N. Dak., 1881-85; Arvilla, N. Dak., 1883-92; died Dec. 23, 1892. Before ordination he taught in Academies in Newville, Pa.; Wilksburgh, Pa.; East Liberty, Pa., and Saltsburgh, Pa. Much of the time during his ministry he conducted an academy in connection with his pastorate; West Liberty, W. Va., 1864-68; Savannah, Ohio, 1875-76; Arvilla, N. Dak., 1884-92. Founded Arvilla Academy, 1884. Organized Meckinock, Arvilla and other churches. Led many young men into the gospel ministry. Married Miss Amanda Christy, near McKeesport, Pa., Oct., 1852. His wife and five children, Rev. Andrew Christy, of Calvary Church, Peoria, Ill.; Miss Sadie P., of Arvilla Academy; Van R., of Duluth, Minn., William Ira., of Leeds, N. Dak., and Haddington G., of Arvilla, N. Dak., survive him.

RIHELDAFFER, JOHN GILLIN, D. D.—Born in Beaver County, Pa., Nov. 13, 1818; entered Washington College, did not graduate but completed the course privately; graduated from Princeton Theological Seminary in 1848; licensed by Presbytery of New Brunswick; ordained by Presbytery of Fort Wayne; pastor of First Presbyterian Church, Fort Wayne, 1848-51; in 1851 appointed by Board of Domestic Missions as the first O. S. missionary to Minnesota; arrived in St. Paul, Oct. 31, 1851; organized Central Presbyterian Church, St. Paul, and continued its pastor until 1864; in 1858 established a young ladies' seminary, which he conducted until 1868; in that year appointed superintendent of the Minnesota State Reform School, a new institution; held that office 18 years; pastor of Presbyterian Church, Redwood Falls, Minn., 1866-91; moderator, pro tem., at opening of General Assembly, in Portland, 1892; died Jan. 16, 1893, at Redwood Falls, Minn. Married, in 1848, Ruth E. Gray. In 1850 married Catharine C. Ogden, who, with three daughters and one son, survives him.

EMERY, JOSEPH SMITH.—Born in New Hampshire, in 1803; graduated from Amherst College, 1830; served in pastorates of Presbyterian churches in New Hampshire, Connecticut, New York, Wisconsin, Illinois and Iowa; resided in Marshall County, Iowa, for the past 25 years, where he died, January, 1893. One son and four daughters survive.

NORTON, WARREN.—Born in Strong, Me., Feb. 5, 1831; graduated, De Pere, Mo., 1860; McCormick Theological Seminary, 1865; labored as a home missionary in Kansas and Nebraska and among the freedmen until 1876; disabled from preaching he continued to work for Christ as he had strength and opportunity; died, Maryville, Tenn., March 10, 1892. His wife survives him.

Book Notices.

THE TEN COMMANDMENTS AS A COVENANT OF LOVE.—This is the title of an address before the college students' summer-school for Bible study at Northfield, Mass., July 1, 1888, by H. Clay Trumbull. The pamphlet containing it has lately been neatly published, Philadelphia, John D. Wattles, publisher, 1892, price 25 cents. Dr. Trumbull reminds us that the "tables" on which the "ten words" were written by the finger of God are in Scripture called "the tables of the covenant," and "tables of testimony," not tables of commandments. The contemplation of this "covenant of love" with our Father in Heaven is made very attractive. It is a contemplation which ought to be very helpful to keeping the holy covenant.

LOVE IN WRATH.—Under this title, Dr. Arthur T. Pierson set forth The Perfection of God's Judgments in an address before Mildmay Conference, London, England, June 21, 1892. It makes a handsome pamphlet of 40 pages, published by the Baker & Taylor Co., 740 Broadway, N. Y. Price 35 cents.

CHARACTER BUILDING is the striking title of a neat, paper-bound booklet of 68 pages containing seven Talks to Young Men by Rev. Robert S. Barrett, an Episcopalian minister of Henderson, Kentucky.

He knows how to talk with young men. His talks are brief, terse, spicy, instructive, faithful, thoroughly good.

Their topics are Destiny; The Value of Time; Reading; Bad Habits; Strong Drink; Companions; Religion.

Published by Thomas Whitaker, Bible House, New York.

Other issues from the press of Thomas Whitaker are Christian Benevolence, an address by William S. Langford, D. D., 20 pages; Rich and Poor, "A tract for all times," by the Bishop of Liverpool; 30 pages, 10 cents.

"THE NATIONAL HYMN-BOOK OF THE AMERICAN CHURCHES" is the title of a volume into which Robert Ellis Thompson, D. D., has undertaken to "gather the hymns which are common to the hymnaries of the Baptists, Congregationalists, Episcopalians, Lutherans, Methodists, Presbyterians and Reformed, with the most usual tunes." The number of hymns thus gathered is 177. Published by John D. Wattles, Philadelphia. Price, per hundred, $50; per dozen, $6.50; single copy by mail, 60 cents. A consensus of hymns may be well worth studying in its relation to a consensus of creeds. At any rate it may illustrate the actual consensus of Christian experience.

THE PILLAR IN THE NIGHT, by Rev. J. R. Macduff, D. D. Published by A. C. Armstrong & Son, 51 East 10th St., New York. Dr. Macduff is a well-known and favorite writer on Scriptural and devotional themes. This volume, as its name suggests, is intended for the comfort of those who are in trouble and will remind them of the Psalmist's words: "If I say, surely the darkness shall cover me, even the night shall be light about me."

The March number of The American Sabbath, the official organ of the American Sabbath Union, is just from the press. The contents include articles on Sunday closing at the Columbian Exposition by Hon. John Bigelow, Bishop A. Cleveland Coxe, Dr. A. H. Plumb and others; also addresses by Prof. Herrick Johnson, Dr. W. W. Atterbury, Dr. T. A. Fernley, Dr. Joseph Cook, Dr. Mackay-Smith and Col. Elliott F. Shepard, delivered at the late hearing in Washington, D. C., on that subject. These papers and addresses are all choice reading. Excellent portraits of Bishop J. F. Hurst, of Washington, D. C., Drs. MacArthur and Elmendorf of New York City, and Col. Elliott F. Shepard, President of the American Sabbath Union, adorn its pages. Rev. J. H. Knowles, D. D., Editor. Subscription price per year 50 cents. Any one enclosing 10 cents will receive a sample copy. Address the American Sabbath Union, 203 Broadway, N. Y.

RECEIPTS.

Synods in SMALL CAPITALS; Presbyteries in italics; Churches in Roman.

It is of great importance to the treasurers of all the boards that when money is sent to them, the name of the church from which it comes, and of the presbytery to which the church belongs, should be distinctly written, and that the person sending should sign his or her name distinctly, with proper title, e. g., Pastor, Treasurer, Miss or Mrs., as the case may be. Careful attention to this will save much trouble and perhaps prevent serious mistakes.

RECEIPTS FOR SABBATH-SCHOOL WORK, JANUARY, 1893.

BALTIMORE.—Baltimore—Brown Memorial sab-sch, 25.
New Castle—Forest, 3 28; Washington City—Washington Westminister, 10. 38 28
CATAWBA.—Cape Fear—Timothy Darling, 2
COLORADO.—Denver—Highland, 4 40. Pueblo—Colorado Springs, 88 cts; Monte Vista, 13 90. 18 88
ILLINOIS.—Bloomington—Danville, 26 17. Chicago—Chicago 1st sab-sch, 25; Hercher sab-sch, 6; Lake Forest, 105 24. Freeport—Belvidere, 14; Galena German, 2. Peoria—Lewistown sab-sch, 61 12; Rock River—Aledo, 1 05. Schuyler—Kirkwood, 1 50; Oquawka, 2. Springfield—Brush Creek, 10 18; Maroa, sab-sch, 7. 261 30
INDIANA.—Crawfordsville—Delphi, 4 80. Indianapolis—Indianapolis 4th sab-sch, 5; —East Washington St., 5. New Albany—Seymour, 10 70. 25 50
INDIAN TERRITORY.—Chickasaw—Mulhall, 5 80. 5 80
IOWA.—Iowa—Burlington 1st, 6 25; Keokuk Westminister, 4 45; Martinsburg, sab-sch, 5; Middletown, 24 cts. 15 95
KANSAS.—Nesaho—Carlyle, 35 cts. Topeka—North Topeka, 4; Oak Hill, 3. 7 35
MICHIGAN.—Detroit—Detroit Jefferson Avenue, 80; —Westminister, 10 50. Petoskey—Harbor Springs sab-sch, 2. 91 50
MINNESOTA.—Mankato—Worthington Westminister sab-sch, 6 34. St. Paul—Minneapolis 1st, 20 13. 26 47
MISSOURI.—St. Louis—Cuba sab-sch, 4; St. Louis 1st, sab-sch, 24 16. 28 16
NEBRASKA.—Kearney—Kearney sab-sch, 10. Omaha—Black Bird Hills, 5; Fremont, 16 78. 81 78
NEW JERSEY.—Elizabeth—Pluckamin, 5; Roselle, 2 30; Jersey City—Jersey City Claremont, 2. Morris and Orange—Orange 1st, sab-sch, 100. Newark—Newark 2d, 10 18. New Brunswick—Dayton, 1 63; Princeton 1st sab-sch, 58 13. Newton—Belvidere 2d, sab-sch, 29 40; Washington sab-sch, 25. West Jersey—Elmer sab-sch, 3; Merchantville sab-sch, 10; Salem sab-sch, 2 35. 249 38
NEW YORK.—Albany—Albany State Street, 19 01; Ballston Spa sab-sch, 34 35; Northampton, 5 05; Princetown, 10 66; Saratoga Springs 2d, 4. Boston—Woonsocket, 1; Worcester, 6 65. Brooklyn—Brooklyn Memorial, 15 60; West New Brighton Calvary, 16 40. Buffalo—Allegany, 1; —Covenant, 11; —Westminister, 17 66. Cayuga—Aurora (sab-sch, 26 23), 37 28. Columbia—Catskill, 25 68; Greenville sab-sch, 6 18; Hunter sab-sch, 6 10. Hudson—Liberty sab-sch, 35; Middletown 2d, 14 22; Palisades, 10 cts; Ridgebury, 34 cts. Long Island—Sag Harbor, 10; Southampton, 87 90. Lyons—Lyons, 18 74. Nassau—Water Mill sab-sch, 18 75. New York—New York Adams Memorial, 5; —Park, 48 64. Niagara—Albion, 6 73; Lewiston, 5. Rochester—Mount Morris, 10 63; Ogden, 61 cts; Rochester Central, 15. St. Lawrence—Adams, 6. Steuben—Arkport, 53 cts; Hornellsville, 12 80. Troy—Middle Granville sab-sch, 12 10; North Granville sab-sch, 10. Utica—Verona, 2 56. Westchester—Sing Sing, 15; South East Centre sab-sch, 16. 501 14
OHIO.—Athens—Amesville, 3 25. Bellefontaine—Bellefontaine, 1 04; West Liberty, 37 cts. Cincinnati—Linwood Calvary sab-sch, 6; Loveland, 8 70. Cleveland—Cleveland 1st, Bolton Chapel, 3 05; —Euclid Avenue, 48 14; —Wilson Avenue, 5 50. Columbus—Greenfield, 2. Dayton—Dayton Park sab-sch, 61 16. Mahoning—Youngstown 1st, 74 76. Maumee—Delta, 3. St. Clairsville—Martin's Ferry sab-sch, 19 50; St. Clairsville, 4. Worcester—Mansfield, 20. 260 45
OREGON.—Eust Oregon—Union, 5 65. 5 65
PACIFIC.—Los Angeles—Monrovia, 48 cts. 48 cts.
PENNSYLVANIA.—Carlisle—Big Spring sab-sch, 67 81; Chambersburg Falling Spring, 40. Chester—Oxford 1st Miss. sab-sch, 10; West Grove sab-sch, 14 70. Clarion—Cool Spring, 4; Tionesta sab-sch, 3 50, 6 95. Erie—Greenville sab-sch, 7 51; Milldodgeville, 3 14. Huntingdon—Spruce

Creek, 15; State College, 7 47. Kittanning—Clinton, 1 12; Elder's Ridge, 13 06. Lackawanna—Langelyffe sab-sch, 6. Lehigh—Mauch Chunk, 22 44. Northumberland—Mountain, 1; Sunbury sab-sch, 13 20. Philadelphia—Philadelphia Cohocksink sab-sch, 9 55; —Hebron Memorial, 3 15; —Kensington 1st (sab-sch, 200), 264; —Female Bible Class, 44 25. Pittsburgh—Chartiers, 1 56; Hazlewood, 18 54; Pittsburgh East Liberty, 14. Redstone—Brownsville, 8. Shenango—Slippery Rock, 13 65. Washington—Forks of Wheeling sab-sch, 6; Moundsville, 7; Washington 1st, 18 45. Wellsboro—Wellsboro, 2 05. Westminister—Columbia, 13 43; Mount Joy (sab-sch, 5), 11. 663 00

TENNESSEE.—Kingston—Rockwood sab-sch, 4 55. 4 55
TEXAS.—Austin—Lampasas, 4. 4
UTAH.—Wood River—Bellevue, 5. 5
WASHINGTON.—Olympia—Olympia, 3. 3
WISCONSIN.—Chippewa—Hudson sab-sch, 5 50. Milwaukee—Ottawa, 30 cts. 5 50

Total from Churches, January, 1893.....$ 1,205 73
Total from Sabbath-schools, January, 1893..... 1,049 09

Total from Churches and Sabbath-schools, January, 1893.....$ 2,254 82

MISCELLANEOUS.

Beech Creek Union sab-sch, Pa., 1; Pleasant Valley sab-sch, Ok. Ter., 1 50; Belmont Co. Children's Home, sab-sch, Tacoma, O., 3 70; "Cash," Brooklyn, N. Y., 500; Rev. M. D. A., Steen, Woodbridge, Colo., 3; "J. C. A." Washington, D. C., 5; Miss L. C. Branson, New Egypt, N. J., 21; "W. R. J." 50; Hanover College, Ind., 2 80; M. K. Walker, Book-walter, Neb., 2; Rev. C. E. Edwards, Sharpsville, Pa., 25 cts.; Beaumont sab-sch, Cal., 1 01; H. B. Wilson, Ga., 1 07; H. K. Bushnell, Neb., 75 cts.; Joseph Brown, Wis., 91 cts.; M. H. Hagler, Ark., 6 90; David Brown, N. C., 12 cts.; J. D. Irwin, Ky., 1 40; W. H. Long, N. C., 2 69; Cottonwood sab-sch, Minn., 3; Soda Springs, sab-sch, Idaho, 2 58; W. S. Sly, Mich., 6 25; Cosmopolis sab-sch, Wash., 2; Ocoosa sab-sch, Wash., 6 25; Enumclaw sab-sch, Wash., 3 05; J. C. Cram, S. Dak., 3; J. B. Currens, Neb., 73 cts.; W. S. Warner, Deadwood, S. Dak., 5; D. N. Good, Iowa, 2 40; Dillon sab-sch, Mont., 15; "C," Penna., 1; "A Friend," Mont., 1; Capt. A. B. MacGowan, U. S. Infantry, 10; "A Friend," 5; Rev. J. G. Touzeau, Columbia, S. A., 5; Miss Mollie Clements, Antonito, Colo., 5..... 681 93

Total receipts January, 1893.....$ 2,936 75
Amount previously acknowledged..... 79,401 54

Total receipts since April 1, 1892.....$ 82,338 29

C. T. McMULLIN, Treasurer,
1334 Chestnut street, Phila.

ACKNOWLEDGMENT OF CLOTHING FOR POOR CHILDREN ON MISSION FIELDS.

Woman's Missionary Society, Winnebago, Ill., 15; from a Friend, 15; Golden Rule Mission Band, Westminister Church, Omaha, Neb., 75; Woman's Missionary Society, Winterset, Iowa, 25; Sabbath-school, Kilbourn City, Wis., 15; Young Ladies' Missionary Society, Vernon Centre, N. Y., 23; Woman's Foreign Missionary Society, Ridge-bury, N. Y. 36; Woman's Home Mission Society, Wilkesburg, Pa. 50; Mite Society, Emmitsburgh, Md., 55 25; Woman's Home and Foreign Missionary Society, Malta, N. Y., 64; Mission Band of Gleaners, Belvidere, N. J., 50; Y. P. S. C. E., Plymouth, Ind., 20; Elmhurst, Pa., 20; Woman's Missionary Society, 1st ch., Logansport, Ind., 100; Woman's Missionary Society of Southeast Center, Brewster, N. Y., 10; Busy Bee Mission Band, Vall, Iowa, 5; Woman's Missionary Society, Honeye Falls, N. Y., 60; Sabbath-school of Deer Lodge, Mont., 107; Ladies Aid Society, Branchport, N. Y., 10; Sabbath-school of Second Church, Oxford, N. J., 23; Junior Society, C. E., First Church, Punxsutawney, Pa., 6; Ninth Church Sabbath-school, Troy, N. Y., 50; Missionary Society, Woodhull, Ill., 45; Woman's Home and Missionary Society, Mt. Sterling, Ill., 48; Hamlet and Peyton Missionary Society, Hamlet, Ill., 38; Clarion (Pa.) Church, 100; Young Ladies' Home Missionary Society, Mattoon, Ill., 25; Home Missionary Society, Martin's Ferry, Ohio, 21; Edwardsburgh Sabbath School, Mich., 32; Woman's Missionary Society, Falling Spring Church, Chambersburg, Pa., 60; Prospect Church, Dunlap, Ill., 15; Nottingham Sabbath-school, Cassville, Ohio, 65; New Salem Church and Sabbath-school, Shira, Pa., 37; Woman's Home Missionary Society, Slaterville Church, West Bangor, Pa., 35; Woman's Missionary Society, Long Run Church, Circleville, Pa., 60; Sabbath-school, Turin, N. Y., 28; Church and C. E. Society, Pataskala, Ohio, 54; Carondelet Sabbath-school, St. Louis, Mo., 50; Gosman Mission Band, Lawrenceville, N. J., 46 50; Woman's Missionary Society, West Glade Run Church, Kittanning, Pa., 58; First Church Sabbath-school, Southampton, N. Y., 77; Class in Fulton, N. Y., 5; Lost Creek Church, McAllisterville, Pa., 27; Bethany Church, South Chester, Pa., 28 50; Ladies' Aid Society, Cornot, Pa., 55; Woman's Missionary Society, First Church, Delanco, N. J., 40; Sabbath-school at Kennett Square, Pa., 67 45; Ladies' Missionary Society, Parma, Ohio, 73 98; Y. P. S. C. E., Willing Workers' Band and Women's Missionary Society, Poynette, Wis., 55; Woman's Missionary Society, Racine, Wis., 23; Woman's Missionary Society and King's Daughters of Old Rehoboth Church, Md., 30; Busy Bee Society Osborne Church, Kan., 21; Woman's Missionary Society, Chariton, Iowa, 115; Woman's Missionary Society, Rochester, Ind., 50; Young Ladies' Missionary Society, Burgettstown, Pa., 35; Mission Band and Missionary Society, Utica, Pa., 22 50; Y. P. S. C. E., Gilman, Ill., 50; Woman's Home and Foreign Missionary Society, Dubuque, Iowa, 19 50; Osage City, Kan., 50; Y. P. S. C. E., Manhattan, Kan., 49 40; Star Mission Band, Meocomine, Mich., 55; Woman's Home and Foreign Missionary Society, Coldwater, Mich., 35; Sabbath-school of Plain Grove, Pa., 41; U. P. and Congl. Sabbath-schools, Milford, Mich., 55 25; Home Mission Society, Central Church, West Lebanon, Pa., 20; Y. P. S. C. E., Golconda, Ill., 50.

C. T. McMULLIN, Treasurer.

RECEIPTS FOR FREEDMEN, JANUARY, 1893.

ATLANTIC.—Atlantic—Charleston Wallingford, 2. McClelland—Anderson Salem, 55. 2 55
BALTIMORE.—Baltimore—Taneytown, 18 17; Zion, 3; New Castle—Manokin, 5; New Castle, sab-sch 5 63; Port Deposit, 7 77; Washington City—Falls Church, 9 23; Washington City Westminster, 10. 88 80
CATAWBA.—Cape Fear—Shiloh, 5. Catawba—Wadesboro 1. South Virginia—Russell Grove, 3. Yaddin—Laurinburg, 2; Mooresville 2d, 1; Mt. Airy, 1 33. 13 33
COLORADO.—Boulder—Longmont, Central, 4. Denver—Denver 23d Avenue, 17 86; Golden, 6 60. Gunnison—Delta, 1 00. Pueblo—Del Norte, 6. 34 46
COLUMBIA.—Willemette—Crawfordsville, 2 60. Portland—Portland 4th, 17 68. Washington—Seattle 1st, Y. P. S. C. E., 21 25. 41 53
ILLINOIS.—Alton—Edwardsville, 2. Bloomington—Philo, 12. Cairo—Fairfield, 4; Murphysboro, 7. Chicago—Chicago 1st sab-sch, 25;—8th, 129 51; Hyde Park, 79 54; Normal Park, 23 40; River Forest, 2. Freeport—Belvidere, 23; Freeport 1st, 25; Geneva 1st, 100;—German, 2; Rockford 1st, 30 93;—Westminster, 13 62; Woodstock and Queen Anne, German, 2. Mattoon—Arcola, 5; Vandalia, 4 50. Ottawa—Waltham, 7 85, sab-sch 2 15, 10. Peoria—Knoxville, 11 85; Lawlston, sab-sch, 29 70. Rock River—Aledo, 3 75; Ashton, 6; Franklin Grove, 2; Fulton, 11; Garden Plain, 15 50; Milan, 6 42; Newton, 7; Norwood, 11 05; Pleasant Ridge, 1 10; Princeton, 13 40; Rock Island, Broadway, 37 60. Schuyler—Augusta, 24 65; Cathage, 21 50; Chili, 3 07; Kirkwood, 2 50; Monmouth, 8 41; Mount Sterling, 29 05; Plymouth, 4 35. 734 90
INDIANA.—Crawfordsville—Bethany, 12; Delphi, 13; Union, 5. Fort Wayne—Decatur, 6 17; Fort Wayne 1st, 64 69; Lima, 3. Indianapolis—Indianapolis 1st, 62 90. Logansport—La Porte, 79 08; Logansport Broadway, 6; South Bend 1st, 36. New Albany—Hanover, 14 50; New Albany 2d, 39 75; Sharon Hill, 2 36. Vincennes—Evansville Grace, 18; Princeton, 10; Sullivan, 4 50. White Water—College Corner, 2; New Castle, 9 15. 578 10
INDIAN TERRITORY.—Choctaw—Choctaw Nation per Mrs A. T. Hunter, 51 50; per Miss Berth. Ahrens, 39 56. Muscogee—Muscogee, 7. 98 06
IOWA.—Cedar Rapids—Cedar Rapids 2d, 7. Corning—Afton Y. P. S. C. E., 1; (church, 4), 5; Clarinda, 21 72. Council Bluffs—Bedford, 12 50. Conway, 2. Des Moines—Ridgedale, 9 05. Dubuque—Dubuque 2d, 20; Lime Spring, 5 10. Fort Dodge—Carroll, 8. Sioux City—Sioux City 1st, 5. Iowa—Burlington 1st, 19 42; Keokuk Westminster, 7 44; Kirkville, 3; Middletown, 40 cts. Iowa City—Columbus Junction, 2 72; Davenport 2d, 10; Deep River, 6 12. Waterloo—Ackley, 8; Clarksville, 12; East Friesland German, 12; Holland German, 13; Kamrar, 5. 213 47
KANSAS.—Emporia—Caldwell, 11; Clear Water, 2; New Salem 5; Walnut Valley, 3; Wichita West Side, 4 65. Linn—Halsed, 6 00. Nevada—Carlyle 2d cts., Geneva, 2 50; Kincaid 2 05; Lowe Elm, 3 40; Milliken Memorial, 2 60; Osage 1st, 8 35. Osborne—Downs, 3 16; Hays City, 8; Rose Valley, 3. Solomon—Minneapolis, 30 79; Salina, 7. Topeka—Oak Hill, 2. 104 08
KENTUCKY.—Ebenizer—Lexington 2d, 188 78; Sharps-burg, 2 75. Louisville—Hopkinsville, 1 25; Louisville Central, 23 21. Transylvania—Paint Lick, 7 48. 234 47

MICHIGAN.—Detroit—Detroit Westminster, 17 50. Lansing—Concord, 3. Petoakey—Mackinaw City, 4 13. Flint Flint, 21 64; Saginaw—Ithaca, 5 41; Vassar, 4 50. 56 18
MINNESOTA.—Duluth—Duluth 1st, 91 57. Mankato—Madelia 17. St. Paul—St. Paul 1st, 3; White Bear (sab-sch, 1 63); ch, 3 27, 5 00. Minneapolis—Minneapolis Bethlehem, 14 64;—Stewart Y. P. S. C. E., 5; Oak Grove, 3 50. Winona—Le Roy, 5. 149 70
MISSOURI.—Kansas City—Greenwood, 1 28. Ozark—Brest, 2 40. Palmyra—Grantsville, 2. Platte—Cameron (Y. P. S. C. E., 2 00), 6. St. Louis—Clifton Heights, 2 75; Nazareth German, 4; St. Louis 1st sab-sch, 24 16; Zion German, 3. 45 69
NEBRASKA.—Kearney—Kearney, 23 50. Nebraska City—Burchard, 2; Lincoln 2d, 12 83; Plattsmouth, 8 75. Nebraska—Winnebago Indian, 4. Omaha—Black Bird Hills, 7; Omaha 1st, 35 45;—Lowe Ave., 10 31; Silver Creek, 2 40; Tekamah Xmas off'g sab-sch, 5 83, 12 43. 121 56
NEW JERSEY.—Corvico—Gaboon, 5. Elizabeth—Liberty Corner, 5; Perth Amboy sab-sch, 6 43; Plainfield Crescent Avenue, 179 94; Pluckamin, 7 50; Roselle, 3 83. Jersey City—Jersey City Claremont, 3. Monmouth—Moorestown sab-sch, 8. Newark—Newark 2d, 14 90;—Roseville, 109 65. New Brunswick—Amwell 1st, 2;—2d, 4;—United 1st, 3 25; Bound Brook, 20; Dayton, 2 68; Stockton, 4; Trenton 1st, 40;—2d, 5 08;—Prospect Street, 29. Newton—Andover, 4 83; Stanhope, 3. West Jersey—Cape May, 9 66. 476 76
NEW YORK.—Albany—Albany State Street, 31 68; Broadalbin, 1; Saratoga Springs 1st, 5; Tribe's Hill, 4; Bethany, 11 96. Binghamton—Binghamton West, 17; Whitney's Point sab-sch, 1 60. Boston—Woonsocket, 1. Brooklyn—Brooklyn Bethany, 2; Brooklyn Memorial, 26; Brooklyn Trinity sab-sch, 10 12. Buffalo—Buffalo Westminster, 220 62; Lancaster, 5. Cayuga—Auburn 2d, 21 24; Auburn Central (sab-sch 4 89, church 10 21), 15 20; Aurora, 11 05; Ithaca sab-sch, 86 85; Owaseo, 5 68. Champlain—Peru, 1. Chemung—Big Flats, 11 45. Columbia—Hudson, 30; Windham Centre, 80. Genesee—Batavia, 53 24. Geneva—Gorham, 11 34; Phelps, 23 45; Trumansburgh, 15 92. Hudson—Chester sab-sch, 2; Coshecton, 3; Hamptonburgh, 13; Middletown 2d, 16 85; Montgomery village, 10; Palisades, 2 15; Stony Point, 7 28. Long Island—Bellport, 5; Sag Harbor, 12 60; Lyons—Lyons, 37; Palmyra, 8 65; Wolcott 1st, 4 02. Nassau—Springfield, 7. New York—New York Adams Memorial, 5; New York Park, 59 41. Niagara—Albion, 13 50; Murray, 3 19. North River—Canterbury, 18 20; Pleasant Plains, 4. Rochester—Fowlerville, 2; Lima, 14 48; Ogden, 1 03; Rochester Central, 50; Sweden, 8 40. St. Lawrence—Adams, 6; Gouverneur, 28 50; Oswegatchie 2d Y. P. S. C. E., 5 85; Ox Bow, 4 20. Steuben—Arkport, 89 cts.; Hornellsville, 26 14; Aultney, 4. Syracuse—Fulton sab-sch, 15; Syracuse Park Central, 42. Troy—Cambridge, 22; Troy Memorial, 6 50. Ulica—Knoxboro, 9 77; Verona, 4 26; Wolcott Memorial, 7. Westchester—Huguenot Memorial, 40; Katonah, 20 05; Mahopac Falls, 8 47; Patterson, 3; Peekskill 1st, 64 07; Yorktown, 10. 1,228 65

NORTH DAKOTA.—Fargo—Hillsboro sab-sch, 3; Tower City sab-sch, 4 31; Tucsa, 3. Pembina—Elkmont, 3 85; Inkster (sab-sch, 3 88) church, 3 46, 5 84; Minnewaukon sab-sch, 50 cts., Crystal, 3; Hoople, 2, 25 00

OHIO.—Bellefontaine—Bellefontaine, 1 70; West Liberty, 63 cts. Chillicothe—Greenfield (sab-sch, 2 50) church, 2 55, 5 05. Cincinnati—Cincinnati 3d, 5; Cincinnati Walnut Hills, 96 22; Lebanon, 17 75; Sharonville, 3 06. Cleveland—Cleveland 1st, Bolton Chapel, 5 08; Cleveland Euclid Avenue, 80 23; Cleveland Wilson Avenue, 9 50; East Cleveland, 87 73; Willoughby, 11. Columbus—Bethel, 1; Bremen, 1 50; Columbus Westminster, 7 40; Rush Creek, 3. Dayton—Clifton, 25 88; Dayton 1st, 91 01; New Jersey, 2 55; Piqua, 46 50; Seven Mile, 3 36; Troy, 19 10. Lima—Delphos, 30. Mahoning—Ellsworth, 16; Youngstown 1st, 105 75. Marion—Berlin, 3 65; Delaware, 23. Maumee—Delta, 3. Portsmouth—Hanging Rock, 4 05. St. Clairsville—Lore City, 2; Nottingham, 27 64; Pleasant Valley, 1 15; St. Clairsville, 7; Scotch Ridge, 3. Steubenville—Dell Roy, 7 47; East Liverpool (sab-sch, 13) church, 80 01, 93 01; Hopedale, 3; Long's Run, 3 22; Minerva, 6; Scio, 7 50; Two Rivers, 6 60; Springfield, 4 55. Wooster—Belleville, 3 50; Fredericksburg, 30; Jackson, 3 63; Millersburg, 2 40; Shelby, 2; Wayne, 10 28; Wooster 1st sab-sch, 42 40. Zanesville—Brownsville, 11 50; Homer, 3 90; Utica, 10 69; Zanesville Putnam, 15, 957 22

PACIFIC.—Benicia—Lakeport, 7; Two Rocks, 6. Los Angeles—Arlington, 28; Azusa, 8; Grand View, 5 30; Los Angeles Bethany L. M. S., 1 80; Monrovia, 80 cts.; Pasadena 1st L. S., 19. Sacramento—Carson City, 6; Elk Grove, 3, 86 90

PENNSYLVANIA.—Allegheny—Allegheny 1st, 117 10; Allegheny McClure Avenue (sab-sch, 7 35), church, 185, 143 35; Allegheny North sab-sch, 18 18; Allegheny Providence, 80; Bakerstown, 8 50; Bellevue, 1 55; Concord, 1 75; Evans City, 5; Fairmount, 4 30; Glasgow, 1; Leetsdale, 89 19; Plains, 3 50; Sharpsburg, 20 65. Blairsville—Livermore, 4 46; New Alexandria (sab-sch, 3 70), church, 17 31, 21 03; Greensburg Westminster, 23 75. Butler—Harrisville, 3 68; Middlesex, 19; North Liberty sab-sch, 10 77; Plain Grove sab-sch, 74; Pleasant Valley, 3 08; Portersville, 8; Greene, 5 04. Carlisle—Carlisle 1st, 12 80; Carlisle 2d, 44 11; Gettysburg, 8; Monaghan, 9; Shippensburg, 23 65. Chester—Great Valley, 6. Clarion—Academia, 3 10; Beech Woods, 24 75; Cool Spring, 2; New Rehoboth, 4 25; Punxsutawney, 7 84. Erie—Bradford, 23 93; Fairview, 4; Greenville sab-sch, 12 63; Meadville 1st, 10; Stoneboro, 5; Tideout, 18; Warren, 103 07; Waterford, 2; Westminster, 2. Huntingdon—Alexandria, 16 25; Altoona 1st, 19 50; Bellefonte, 85 50; Houtzdale, 1 50; Milesburg, 2 34; Moshannon and Snow Shoe, 1 51; Petersburg, 3; Williamsburg, 27; State College, 9 72. Kittanning—Bolling Spring, 2; Marion Center sab-sch, 12. Lackawanna—Bethany, 2; Monroeton, 8; Scranton 2d, 195 95; Towanda, 38 23; Uniondale, 2; Wilkes Barre 1st, 136 24; Wilkes Barre Westminster, 14. Lehigh—Eaton 1st, 79; Mauch Chunk, 21 31; Pottsville 1st, 20 21; Reading 1st, 51. Northumberland—Berwick, 3; Warrior Run, 6; Williamsport 2d, 15 80; Mountain, 1. Philadelphia—Philadelphia 1st, 50 21; Philadelphia South, 18; Philadelphia Woodland, 72 66; Wissinoming, 4; McDowell Mem'l, 14 10. Philadelphia Central—Philadelphia Cohocksink sab-sch, 5 10; Philadelphia Hebron, Memorial, 3 20; Philadelphia Kensington, 53. Philadelphia North—Bristol, 10 26; Germantown 2d, 82 57; Jenkintown Grac., 12; Newtown, 47 51; Norristown 1st, 15. Pittsburg—Chartiers, 2 50; Crafton sab-sch, 7; Forest Grove (sab-sch, 7 80), (M. S. 8), (ch., 24), 39; Hazlewood, 19 59; Hebron, 27 60; Pittsburg 3d, 687; — Shady Side sab-sch, 25 12, 68 12; Sharon 20 07; Ingram, 7. Red Stone—Belle Vernon, 4; Connellsville, 50; Laurel Hill, 88; Lelansring, 8 45; Long Run, 10. Shenango—Clarksville, 18 50; Moravia, 8; Petersburg, 3; Transfer, 1 10; Unity, 19; Wampum, 4 54; Westfield sab-sch, 25 00; (ch., 116 00), 141. Washington—Cross Creek, 23; Cross Roads, 6; Frankfort, 5 40; Upper Buffalo, 21 82; Upper Ten Mile, 20; Washington 1st, 38 75. Wellsboro—Beecher Island, 2; Covington, 4; Knoxville, 1; Mount Jewett, 3; Wellsboro, 3 46. Westminster—Columbia, 32 37; Mount Joy, 18 58, 2,713 46

SOUTH DAKOTA.—Central Dakota—Flandreau, 2 50.

TENNESSEE.—Holston—Jonesboro, 5; Mount Bethel, 2 82. Union—Hopewell, 1; Maryville 2d, 3; St. Paul's, 1; Shannondale, 6 50, 19 33

WISCONSIN.—Lake Superior—Newberry, 6. Madison—Janesville, 15 83; Poynette, 9. Milwaukee—Ottawa, 50 cts.; Somers, 5 80. Winnebago—Weyauwega, 68 cts, 37 21

Total receipts from churches.....$ 8,832 22

Women's Executive Committee.....$ 4,541 47

John G. Stephenson, Esq., Pittsburg, Pa..... 100 00

Miss E. M. E., Albany, N. Y..... 10 00

Miss Caroline Van Voorhis..... 14 00

Cash..... 500 07

"J. C. A.," Washington, D. C..... 5 09

Estate of Amelia Kerr..... 3,000 09

P. N. J., Elizabeth, N. J..... 50 09

Legacy of Mrs. Sarah A. French, Buffalo, N. Y..... 200 00

B. O. Williams, Martins Ferry..... 5 00

T. W. Woodard, Mankato, Minn..... 25 00

William Sangree..... 5 00

Miss E. A. Darlington, Pittsburg, Pa..... 50 00

Mrs. S. C. Adams, Steubenville, Ohio..... 5 00

Mr. Charles Young, Campbell Hall, N. Y..... 25 00

F. T. Janeway, New York..... 300 00

H. Lyman, Binghamton, N. Y..... 10 00

Estate of Mrs. Laura McGreager, New York..... 50 00

Cash..... 25 00

W. A. Hope..... 10 00

W. R. J., New Brunswick, N. J..... 20 00

"F. F.,"..... 3 00

Cash, Washington, D. C..... 1 00

Mrs. Isabella Brown..... 100 00

Estate of Mrs. Bradley, Syracuse, N. Y..... 2,000 00

Rev. G. T. Crossman and wife, Longmont, Col..... 15 00

A widow, Scranton, Pa..... 5 00

"C.," Penna..... 8 00

Rev. H. T. School, Big Flats, N. Y..... 6 00

A friend..... 6 00

Capt. Alex B. MacGowan, 12th U. S. Infantry..... 10 00

Rev. J. G. Souzeau..... 5 00

Miss Mollie Clements..... 5 00

Total Miscellaneous$11,113 49

DIRECTS SENT TO SCOTIA SEMINARY.

Miss A. R. Spottswood, New Castle, Del..... $ 24 00

Calvary Church sab-sch, Newbury, N. Y..... 35 00

Bethany Church sab-sch, Bethany, Phila..... 45 00

Pomona, Cal., H. M. S..... 25 00

C. E. S. 1st Church, Los Angeles, c, Cal..... 25 00

Lagrange, Ind..... 7 00

Miss H. M. Ashley, Nottoway C. H., Va..... 30 00

Baird Home Circle, Washington, Pa..... 30 00

C. E. S. Grace Church, Milwaukee, Wis..... 15 00

A. W. Parker, Brooklyn, N. Y..... 35 00

Walter McQueen, Schenectady, N. Y..... 150 00

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Smith, Poughkeepsie, N. Y..... 50 00

DIRECTS SENT TO COTTON PLANT.

Students Bd..... 124 00

Tuition Day School..... 13 75

Mission Bd, per Miss Cepp, 2d St. Louis..... 30 00

Total directs.....$658 75

Total receipts for January, 1893.....$ 20,604 56

Previously reported..... 79,964 68

Total receipts to date.....$100,569 24

Receipts during corresponding period of last year..... 109,181 02

Decrease of.....$ 8,611 78

J. T. GIBSON, Treasurer.

RECEIPTS FOR HOME MISSIONS, JANUARY, 1893.

BALTIMORE.—Baltimore—Baltimore Aisquith Street sab-sch, 30; Frederick City, 6; Havre de Grace sab-sch, 7. New Castle—Milford, 34; Port Penn, 9 52; West Nottingham sab-sch, 20 50; Wilmington Central, 227 14; Washington City—Washington City Western, 50; — Westminster, 135, 519 16

CALIFORNIA.—Benicia—Big Valley, 5; Bollinas, 2 15; Kelseyville, 9 15; Lakeport, 12 25; Point Arena, 5; Ukiah,

12. Los Angeles—Anaheim, 19 25; Antelope Valley, 2; Azusa, 15; Banning, 3; Colton, 16 21; Coronado Graham Memorial, 24 50; Cucamonga, 5; Los Angeles Bethesda sab-sch, 5; Monrovia, 4 50; National City, 9 95; Pasadena 1st, 106; Pomona 1st, Y. P. S. C. E., 5; Riverside Calvary, 50; San Diego, 10; San Geronimo, 5; Santa Maria, 16; Through Rev. F. D. Seward, 9 30. Oakland—Alvadar add'l, 55 cts.; Centerville add'l, 4 45; Emanuel

- Port, 3 50; Golden Gate (sab-sch, 5 20), 10; Pleasanton, 13 30. Sacramento—Carlin, 1; Elk Grove, 7; Elko, 3 75; Kirkwood, 6 40; Wells, 5 70. San Francisco—San Francisco Chinese, 4; —Woodbridge, 2. San Jose—Cayucos sab-sch, 9; Pleasant Valley sab-sch 1mas off'g, 7. Stockton—Columbia, 5; Fowler, 6 60; Visalia, 1; Rev. F. D. Seward, 25 80. 467 61
- COLORADO.—Boulder—Fort Morgan 1st sab-sch, 14 92; Longmont Central, 10 40. Denver—Denver 22d Avenue, 134 38; Denver Central, 196 10; Golden, 16; Laird, 1; Wray, 7. Gunnison—Pitkin, 18. Pueblo—Cucharas Mexican, 2; Elmore, 5; Engle, 5; Huerfano Canyon, 5 50; La Veta, 5 10; Monte Vista 1st, 4 25; Pueblo 5th, 3; Wal-senburgh 1st, 5 30. 429 96
- ILLINOIS.—Alton—Greenfield, 7. Bloomington—Clinton Y. P. S. C. E., 35; Waynesville Y. P. S. C. E., 1. Carro—Anna, 10. Chicago—Austin, 30; Chicago 5th, 46 25; —41st Street, 244 25; —Central Park, 35; —Holland, 10; —Jefferson Park, 19 90; —Railroad Chapel, 33 99; —Ridgeway Avenue, 5; —Scotch, 10; Gardner, 11 40; Herscher, 15; Highland Park, 70 91; Woodlawn Park, 77 03. Freeport—Belvidere 1st (sab-sch, 18), 48; Freeport 1st, 200; Marengo sab-sch, 19; Winnebago, 29. Mattoon—Assumption 1st sab-sch, 14 73; Beckwith Prairie, 2 58; Edgar, 7; Pana, 3 91. Ottawa—Aurora (add'l), 10; Troy, W. H. and F. M. socy., 15; Waltham sab-sch, B. D. offg., 9 40; Waterman (sab-sch, 5), 50. Peoria—Crow Meadow, 5 40; Lewistown sab-sch, 56 83; Peoria 1st (Jack-son Corners Mission School, 2 59), 96 96. Rock River—Aledo, 12 50; Arlington sab-sch, 3 50; Fulton sab-sch, 25; Morrison, 248 13; Peniel, 10; Princeton, 38 15. Schuyler—Kirkwood (sab-sch, 3 25), 18 75; Monmouth 1st 64 15; Mount Sterling 1st sab-sch, 46 31; Quincy 1st Y. P. S. C. E., 9 35. Springfield—Irish Grove, 4. 1700 55
- INDIANA.—Crawfordsville—Frankfort, 28 66. Ft Wayne—Goheen, Mrs. A. L. Hubbell, 5. Logansport—Union sab-sch, 15 50. Vincennes—Evansville Walnut Street Y. P. S. C. E., 15. 64 16
- INDIAN TERRITORY.—Cherokee Nation—Elm Spring, 10; Muldrow, 10; McKey, 3; Redlands, 2. Choctaw—Mountain Fork, 2 75. Muscogee—Tulsa, 14. Oklahoma—Guthrie, 10. 50 75
- IOWA.—Cedar Rapids—Cedar Rapids 3d sab-sch, 7 78; Clinton 115 34; Pleasant Hill L. M. and A. Society, 7 50. Corning—Clarinda, 60 65; Corning, 23 50; Red Oak 1st, 13 38; Yorktown, 7 26. Des Moines—Allerton, 5; Howell, 7 50; Lineville, 7; Medora, 4 62; Newton, 30. Dubuque—Dubuque 1st in part, 43; —3d, 25; Jessup sab-sch, 3 44; Lime Spring, Mrs. Jas. McGregor, 2 50; Pine Creek, 20; Sherrill's Mound German, 3 65. Fort Dodge—Carroll, 9 45; Piover, 15 50. Iowa—Burlington 1st, 131 61; Fair-field 1st, 41 06; Keokuk Westminster, 71 30; Middletown special praise off'g, 6 50; West Point, 15. Iowa City—Davenport 2d, Y. P. S. C. E., 4 30; Muscatine 1st sab-sch, 6; Summit, 9. Sioux City—Sioux City 2d, 15; Storm Lake, 23 03. Waterloo—Kamrar German, 12; Salem, 26; Toledo, 2 50; Union German, 10. 785 31
- KANSAS.—Emporia—Belle Plaine, 5; Maxon, 25 cts.; Mulvane, 8; Osage City 1st, 19 65. Highland—Axtel sab-sch, 6 29; Baileyville sab-sch, 10. Larned—Canton, 6; Edwin, 4; Galva, 4; Greensburg, 20 65; Halsted (Boys' Helper Brigade, 2 50); 19; Kendall, 2; Meade Centre, 23; Spearville, 14 35; Syracuse, 3 46; Rev. G. E. Bicknell, 10. Neosho—Caney, 2; Carlyle (Tithes Fund, 5), 8 57; Toronto L. M. S., 5 10. Osborne—Logan, 9 25; Long Island, 4; Oberlin, 29 50; Phillipsburg, 5; Plainville, 2 50; Shiloh, 2 50; Zion, 5 07. Solomon—Bennington L. M. S., 18 21; Harmony, 2; Salina, 30; Sylvan Grove (Sylvan Station, 2), 4; Vesper, 2; Rev. R. Arthur tithes, 6 25. Topeka—Edgerton, 4 40; Oak Hill, 5; Topeka 2d, 37; —3d, L. H. Aid Society, 10. 898 60
- KENTUCKY.—Ebenezer—Covington 1st, 247 76. 247 76
- MICHIGAN.—Detroit—Detroit 1st, 400; —Westminster, 105. Flint—Ft. Gratiot Westminster, 17; Port Huron, 10. Grand Rapids—Grand Rapids Immanuel, 15 35. Kalamazoo—Kalamazoo North, 7 34. Lake Superior—Marquette Y. P. S. C. E. add'l, 4 21; St. Ignace, (sab-sch, 2), 16. Lansing—Brooklyn, 5; Concord, 5. Monroe—Adrian, 60; Blissfield 1st, 10. Petoskey—Alanson, 2; Cadillac 1st sab-sch, 25; Petoskey 1st add'l, 5. Saginaw—Aima, 62 50; Calkinsville, 4; Grayling, 6; Mount Pleasant, 7. 766 40
- MINNESOTA.—Mankato—Worthington Westminster sab-sch, 4 80. Minneapolis—Minneapolis 1st, 88 66; —Stew-art Memorial Y. P. S. C. E., 10. St. Paul—Belle Plain, 3 25; Jordan, 6 25; St. Paul House of Hope, 359 55; —Knox (So. St. Paul Mission, 2), 4; White Bear, 8 60. St. Cloud—Brown's Valley, 4 04. Winona—Hokab, 2 27; La Crescent, 11; Preston (sab-sch, B'day off'g, 3 02), 28 13. 530 55
- MISSOURI.—Kansas City—Kansas City 2d, 526 10; —Hill Memorial sab-sch B. D. offg, 3; —Linwood sab-sch, 5 63. Ozark—Fairplay (Y. P. S. C. E., 50 cts.), 5; Salem,
- 1 05; West Plains, 8 25. Palmyra—Bethel, 2; Enterprise, 6 35; Grantsville, 5; Laclede, 1 50. Platte—Akron, 6; Breckinridge, 7; Hamilton 1st, 15; Hodge, 4 50; New York Settlement, 3; Parkville, 101 59; St. Joseph 3rd Street (sab-sch, 5), 15. St. Louis—Elk Prairie, 4; Jones-boro, 3; Nazareth German L. M. S., 6; Ridge Station 1st, 2; St. Louis 1st (sab-sch, 24 16), 178 63; —Clifton Heights, 4 25; Zion German sab-sch, 2. 916 30
- NEBRASKA.—Hastings—Nelson, 20. Kearney—Fullerton sab-sch, Primary Class, 2 73; Wood River, B'day Off'g., 3 50; City—Burchard, 15; Fairmont sab-sch, B'day Off'g., 3 50; Lincoln 1st, 116; Omaha, 2; Plattsmouth German (sab-sch, 1 50), 8. Omaha—Winnebago Indian, 17. Omaha—Black Bird Hills, 30; Omaha 1st, 34 59; —Agency Bethle-hem, 3; —Bohemian, 8; —Westminster, 33 78. 378 79
- NEW JERSEY.—Corisco—Gibson, 10. Elizabeth—Clinton, 43 68; Lamington, 14; Pluckamin, 30; Roselle, 23 80. Jersey City—Jersey City Claremont, 6; Ruther-ford, 65 08. Monmouth—Freehold, 12 44; Moorestown, 8. Morris and Orange—East Orange Bethel, 44 64; —Arlington Avenue, 29; Morristown South Street (sab-sch Miss. Soc., 87 54), 97 50; Succasunna, 17 13. Newark—Bloomfield 1st, 71 61; Newark 1st, 300; —2d, 107 99; —Fawcith Memorial, 14 63; —Park, 93 21; —South Park, 176 15; —Woodside, 16 66. New Brunswick—Dayton, 16 65; Kingston Y. P. S. C. E., 10; Lambertville (sab-sch, 7 35), 120 35; Trenton 1st, 5; —2d, (sab-sch, 21 08), 48 92; —4th, 125. Newton—Andover sab-sch, 1 57; Belvidere 2d, 23 67; Harmony (sab-sch, 10), 37 24; Stanhope and sab-sch and Y. P. S. C. E., 21 18; Wantage 1st, 9. West Jersey—Bridgeton 2d, 60 86; Greenwich, 16; Hammonton sab-sch, 50; May's Landing, 5; Salem 1st, sab-sch, 77 82; Williamstown Y. P. S. C. E., 11; Woodbury, 49 12. 1,869 13
- NEW MEXICO.—Arizona—Sacaton 1st Indian, 15. Rio Grande—Albuquerque 1st, (sab-sch, 20), 66 80; Silver City, 2 50. Santa Fe—Buena Vista, 1 50; El Rito, 9 10; La Luz, 3; Los Valles, 4 45; Ocate, 2. 104 35
- NEW YORK.—Albany—Albany State Street, 190 08; Gloversville 1st, Soc. of Willing Workers, 50; Saratoga Springs 2d, 30; Tribe's Hill, 10; West Galway, 7. Bing-hamton—Nichols, 10; Preble, 3 38; West End Floral Avenue, 1 46; Whitney's Point, 5. Boston—Litchfield, 15; Portland, 30 25; South Framingham, 15; Woonsocket 1st, 3. Brooklyn—Brooklyn Bethany, 7; —Central, 50; —Lafayette Avenue, add'l, 10. Buffalo—Allegany sab-sch, 1 50; Buffalo North, (A. D. A. Miller, 50), 143 17; —West-minster, 126 17; Lancaster Y. P. Soc., 11; Springfield, 18 55. Cayuga—Aurora, 44 23; Ithaca 1st sab-sch, 31 03. Champlain—Chateaugay, 10; Chazy add'l, 2; Mineville, 5. Chemung—Breesport, 10; Rock Stream, 15. Columbia—Hudson 1st, 350. Genesee—East Bethany, 1 20; North Bergen sab-sch, 4 70. Genesee—Penn Yan 1st sab-sch, 10 10; Trumansburg, 41 96. Hudson—Circleville sab-sch, 7 50; Middletown 2d, 44 61; Fallsdale, 10 cts; Ridgebury, 2 50; Stony Point, 17 55. Long Island—Bridgehampton, 19 33; Cutchogue (sab-sch, 10), 26 21; Greenport sab-sch, 15 16; Middletown, 14; Port Jefferson sab-sch, 21 65; West Hampton sab-sch, 7. Lyons—Palmyra, 35 42. Nassau—Glen Cove, 6; Huntington 2d, 30; Springfield, 33. New York—New York 1st, 2,714 07; —Allen Street Youths Miss. Soc., 5; —Bohemian, 15; —Brick, 400; —East Harlem, 10; —Emmanuel Chapel, 19 69; —Madison Square, 1,966 58; —Park, 118 85; —Washington Heights, 35 25; —West End, 221 80. Niagara—Albion 1st, 73; Lewiston, 5; Lock-port 1st sab-sch Miss. Soc., 150; Lyndonville (Y. P. S. C. E., 1 25), 13 06. North River—Amenia, South, 32 85; Poughkeepsie 1st sab-sch, 51 99; Rondout sab-sch, 20 95. Otsego—Delhi 1st, 100; New Berlin Y. P. S. C. E., 4; Una-dilla, 20 64. Rochester—Genesee 1st sab-sch, 10; Lima, 17 49; Mount Morris, 4; Ogden, 6 18; Ossian, 2; Roches-ter Central, 200; Webster, 18. St. Lawrence—Gouver-neur 1st, 31 23; Oswegatchie 2d sab-sch, 2 59; Plessis, 4 15. Steuben—Arkport, 5 50; Hornellsville, 64. Syracuse—Fulton 1st sab-sch, 35; Lenox, 4 75; Pompey, 20; Syracuse Park Central, 308 71; Wampsville, 2. Troy—Argyle, 7; Hebron, 5; Melrose, 16; Middle Granville, 6 11; Troy Mem-orial, 62. Utica—New Hartford add'l, 5; Verona, 23 27; Williamstown, 5; Rev. John Burkhardt and wife, 10. Westchester—Sieg Sing, 186; South East Centre sab sch, 15; Stamford 1st, 411 64. 9,009 21
- NORTH DAKOTA.—Bismarck—Coal Harbor, 2; Wash-burn, 4. Fargo—Edgely (Dorcas Aid Soc., 5 97), 12 28; Fullerton, 2 44; Goose Lake, 5; Hillsboro, 3; Manago, 6 38; Rev. T. E. Douglas, 5. Pembina—Bottineau, 5 50; Canton, 5; Devil's Lake Westminster, 2; Minnewaukon, 5 63; Rolla, 5. 63 28
- OHIO.—Athens—Beech Grove, 3 21. Bellefontaine—Bellefontaine 1st, 10 21; Buck Creek, 16; West Liberty 1st, 3 83. Chillicothe—Belfast, 3; Plagah, 35. Cincin-nati—Avondale, 89 50; Cincinnati Poplar Street, 20; —Walnut Hills Bethany Chapel, 80 35; Glendale 1st, a friend, 5; Loveland, 40; Pleasant Ridge, 29 70; Silverton

27. Cleveland—Cleveland 1st Bolton Chapel, 37 50;—
2d, 500;—Euclid Avenue (sab-sch, 50), 547 45;—Woodland Avenue, 200. Columbus—London, 63 50. Dayton—Bethel,
3 50. Huron—Norwalk, 40. Mahoning—New Lisbon, 26 25;
Youngstown 1st, 436 83. Marion—Berlin, 7 40; Rich-wood, 10; York, 5. Maumee—Grand Rapids, 4 80; Holgate, 4 25. Portsmouth—Eckmansville, 1 18; Russellville, 7 68. St. Clairsville—Bannock, 10; Cambridge sab-sch, 5; Pleasant Valley, 1 16; St. Clairsville, 40.
Steubenville—Corinth sab-sch, 56; East Liverpool 1st
(sab-sch, 50 28). (No. Side Mission sab-sch, 3 66), 51 94;
Hopedale, 9; Wellsville West End sab-sch, 25 84. Wooster
—Ashland Y. P. S. C. E. "Week of Self Denial," 3 25; Millersburgh, 3; Nashville, 15. Zanesville—Brownsville sab-sch, 25; Clark, 20. 2,463 56
OREGON—East Oregon—Enterprise, 3; Joseph, 1;
Moro, 7 20. Portland—Sellwood, 7. South Oregon—
Medford, 6 20; Roseburg sab-sch, 5. Willamette— Aurora, 5; Independence Calvary, 15; Woodburn, 20. 69 40

PENNSYLVANIA—Allegheny—Allegheny 2d, 18 76;—
Central, 123 08; Bakertown, 12 15; Pine Creek 1st, 10; Bewick, 25; Springdale, 6. Blairsville—Blairsville (sab-sch, 8 50). (Y. P. S. C. E., 8 78), 269 28; Irwin 54 47; Livermore, 11 40; New Alexandria, (sab-sch, 12 66), 67 36.
Butler—Butler sab-sch, 25; North Liberty sab-sch, 10 77;
North Washington sab-sch, 7; Plain Grove, 16. Carlisle
—Carlisle Jonathan Williams Biddle Memorial Mission, 3 36; Carlisle 2d, 200 94; Gettysburg add'l, 57. Chester
—Bethany, 12; Bryn Mawr sab-sch, 75; Christiansa, 6; Fagg's Manor (sab-sch, 24 42), 88 42; Oxford 2d, 1; Pen-ningtonville sab-sch, 10. Clarion—Cool Spring, 3; Em-merton sab-sch, 12 77; Licking, 5; Mount Tabor add'l, 5; Punxsutawney 1st, 10 46; Shiloh, 2. Erie—Greenville sab-sch, 21 07; Jamestown, 5 20; Kerr's Hill (sab-sch, 60 cts.), 6 86; Milledgeville, 2; Salem, 2; Sugar Grove,
2; Warren, 222 86; Wattsburg, 5 17. Huntingdon—
Houtzdale, 9 20; Sinking Valley, 7; State College, 17 55;
Williamsburg add'l, 3 20. Kittanning—Freeport, 35 43; Kittanning 1st, 119. Lackawanna—Canton (East Canton, 17 21), 27; Carbondale add'l, 5 25; Dunmore, 8 27;
Monroeton, 14; Pittston, 116 81; Scranton 2nd add'l, 10;
Wilkes Barre 1st, 313 54. Lehigh—Easton 1st, 118; Mauch
Chunk, 29 05; Pottsville 1st, 80 99; Reading Olivet, 25;
Slatkington, 9 60. Northumberland—Bloomsburgh, 77 86;
Great Island, 84; Lycoming, 31; Mahoning (sab-sch, 11), 99 57; Mountain, 2; Williamsport 2d, 57 10. Philadelphia
—Philadelphia 3d a balance, 3 30;—Mariner's, 5;—
South Western add'l, 1 66;—West Hope, 13 34;—Covenant sab-sch, 20;—Hebron Memorial, 5 26;—Kensington 1st, 167;—Richmond Y. P. S. C. E. (Jr. Branch, 7 50), 25;—Temple, 98 33;—Trinity, 45 47. Philadelphia
North—Falls of Schuylkill sab-sch, 61; Leverington sab-sch Primary Department, 6; Mount Airy, 68 28; Torresdale Macalester Memorial, 3 29. Pittsburgh—Chartiers, 15 50; Hazlewood, 48 73; Hebron, 57 47; McDonald 1st,
85 55; Oakdale, 135; Pittsburgh 1st add'l, 200;—Shady
Side (sab-sch, 45), 109. Redstone—Leisenring add'l, 4 50;
Little Redstone sab-sch, 5; Round Hill, 20; "Friend," 10. Schenango—Mahoning sab-sch, 20. Washington—
Cove sab-sch, 31 11; Cross Creek, 20; Upper Buffalo sab-sch, 6 09; Washington 1st (Y. P. S. C. E., 100), 160 51;
Wellsburg W. M. S., 12 50. Wellsboro—Antrim, 3;
Knoxville sab-sch, 2; Wellsboro, 21 49. Westminster— Centre, 18 49; Columbia, 31 80; Mount Joy (sab-sch,
3 56), 44 56; Union sab-sch, 14 67; York Calvary, 51 53.
4,297 45

SOUTH DAKOTA—Aberdeen—Andover, 3; Faris, 1 75;
Pierpont, 7; Roscoe, 33 50. Black Hills—Edgemont, 2.
Central Dakota—Artesian L. H. and F. M. Soc., 5; Brookings add'l, (sab-sch, 3 25), 5 35; Forestburgh, 95 cts.; Huron 1st (Y. P. S. C. E., 2), 77 90; Madison (Y. P. S. C.
E., 1 56), 11 18; Rev. F. D. Haner, "tithe" 12 60. Dakota
—Ascension, 2. Southern Dakota—Mitchell, 33 81, 195 94
TENNESSEE—Birmingham—Bridgeport, 4 50. Holston
—Elizabethton, 4 05. Kingston—Huntsville, 2 50; New River, 1. 19 66

TEXAS—Austin—Austin 1st, 62 50; Galveston St. Paul
German sab-sch, 2 75; Lampasas, 15; Mason, 3; Sweden,
6; Voca, 2. North Texas—Wichita Falls, 17 50, 108 75
UTAH—Montana—Lewistown, 15; Miles City, 10; Phillipsburg, 14 85. Utah—Mount Pleasant sab-sch Xmas off'r, 3 50; Smithfield Central, 12. 54 35

WASHINGTON—Alaska—Fort Wrangel, 20. Olympia—
Siella, 10. Puget Sound—Blaine, 2 16; New Whatcom Westminster, 5 85; North Yakima W. M. S., 10. Spokane
—Fairfield, 7 65; Grand Coulee, 4; Waterville, 11 70.
Wall Walla—Starbuck, 3. 74 20

WISCONSIN—Madison—Cottage Grove, 11; Lancaster,
1 50; Poynette, 21 37. Milwaukee—Cambridge, 2; Delafield, 2 18; Horicon, 5 34; Mayville, 5 32; Milwaukee Calvary, 48 68;—1st German, 10;—Perseverance, 15; Ottawa, 3; Minnesota Junction Station, 1 60; Waukesha sab-sch, 26. Winnebago—Fort Howard, 18 40; Neenah sab-sch, 20. 191 89

Women's Executive Committee of Home Missions..... 22,061 06

Less amount refunded and divided among various Boards from Springfield Church, Nassau Presbytery, 98, and amount transferred to sustentation from St. Paul House of Hope
Church, St. Paul Presbytery, 41 15..... 134 15

Total received from churches..... $57,896 42

LEGACIES.

Legacy of Mrs. Sarah A. French, dec'd, late of Buffalo, N. Y., 200; David Gamble, dec'd, late of Emmitsburg Md., 10; J. M. Austin, dec'd, late of Long Island, Kans., 100; J. Azariah
Horton, dec'd, late of Suffolk Co., L. I., 500;
Maria M. Hunter, dec'd, late of New York,
1,973 68; Eliza J. Bradley, dec'd, late of Syracuse, N. Y., in part, 1,405; Electa K. Whitehead, dec'd, late of Jersey, O., 267 88; Jane Barker, dec'd, late of Albany, N. Y., 1,250;
Charles Wright, dec'd, 19..... 5,715 56

MISCELLANEOUS.

A friend, through Third National Bank, N. Y.,
1,000; George A. Strogg, N. Y., 100; "Cash,"
500; Mrs. Mary E. Schively, Philadelphia,
Pa., 5; "P. N. J.", 60; "C. Penna.", 14;
"J. O. A.", 5; Rev. T. Williston, Ashland, N.
Y., 2 50; A friend, 20; Capt. A. B. McGowan,
12th U. S. Infantry, 10; Rev. J. G. Toussau,
Medilla, Rep. de Columbia, S. A., 10; W. C.
Nelson, Leoti, Kans., 1; Miss Mollie Clements,
Antonito Colo., 10; "From a widow," 5; John
S. Lyle, N. Y., 2,500; Rev. J. H. Cooper, Red Oak, O., 7; Harriet J. Baird Huey, Philadelphia, Pa., 50; Rev. W. H. Jeffers, D. D., Allegheny, Pa., 100; Mrs. Nancy F. Blayney, West
Alexandria, Pa., 105; Sarah Chauncey Savage,
Philadelphia, Pa., 100; John T. Williston, Ashland, N. Y., 2; Mrs. A. E. Stimson, Brooklyn, N. Y., 5; Miss E. M. E., 10; Mrs. Charles
Young, N. Y., 30; Cornelia U. Halsey, Newark,
N. J., 100; Society of Inquiry Union Theological Seminary, 300; Wm. Adriance, Poughkeepsie, N. Y., 10; Upson Walton & Co., Cleveland, O., 100; Miss Jane Ten Eyck, Albany, N.
Y., 5; Mrs. Henry J. Biddle, Philadelphia, Pa.,
100; A friend, 100; Rev. R. M. Sandford, H. R., E. Aurora, N. Y., 10; A friend, 250; Jane M.
Austin, Montrose, Mo., 5; A friend, G., N. Y.,
1,000; S. L. Smith, West Camden, N. Y., 35 15;
Rev. Joseph Stevens, Jersey Shore, Pa., 2 50;
Wm. Barnes, Lansingburg, Ill., 100; Miss
Emily McCarty, Monroe, Utah, 5; Cash, 20;
Mrs. J. S. Bean, Ordensburg, N. Y., 100;
"Contribution," 25; Wm. D. McCune, Middle
Spring, Pa., 50; "W. R. J.", 700; Sabbath School near Parkersburg, Iowa, 8 50; "From Home Friends," 50; O. J. and M. A. Acker, 2;
"A Friend to Home Missions," 5; A. B.,
Oliveburg, O., 10; Mrs. M. D. Ward, Afton,
N. J., 10; Wm. C. Martin Printing House, N.
Y., 75; J. H. Edwards, N. Y., 10; Geo. W.
Farr, Jr., Philadelphia, Pa., 50; "Friend, Ia.," 150; "Rev. W. W. A.", 100; E. A. Ford, Ga-boon, W. Africa, 5; Rev. Chas. Jewett, Col-ins, N. Y., 20; Anonymous, Zanesville, O., 5;
Rev. R. Craighead, D. D., Meadville, Pa., 2,000;
Rev. W. M. Hunter, D. D., Pittsburgh, Pa.,
1 50; Mrs. C. A. Taylor, Ordgen, Ill., 10; Mrs.
H. B. Williams, Choconut Centre, N. Y., 5;
A. Stewart, 5; Mrs. M. B. Davis, Petersburg,
Mich., 10; Interest on permanent fund,
1,539 25; Interest on John C. Green fund,
315..... $12,045 40
Total received for Home Missions, January, 1891, 75,457 38
Total received for Home Missions from April 1,
1890..... 650,421 58
Amount received during same period last year, 542,779 58

O. D. EATON, Treasurer,
55 Fifth Avenue, New York.

Box L, Station D.

1893.] Home Missions Debt Account—N. Y. Synodical Aid Fund—Sustentation. 823

RECEIPTS FOR HOME MISSIONS DEBT ACCOUNT, JANUARY 1893.

BALTIMORE.—Baltimore—Chestnut Grove sab-sch c,	3 65
COLORADO.—Gunnison—Delta Y. P. S. C. E. c,	3 00
ILLINOIS.—Chicago—Normal Park c, 17 18; Mattoon—Neoga Missionary Society, 9. Rock River—Arlington L. A. Society, 2; Aledo c, 7 33. Springfield—Brush Creek c, 8 24.	48 89
INDIANA.—Crawfordsville—Oxford, 8; Bethany c, 26 70.	34 70
IOWA.—Fort Dodge—Carrell sab-sch Missionary Society c,	6 00
KANSAS.—Emporia—Osage City 1st, 1; Reece, 1 50.	2 50
KENTUCKY.—Ebenezer—Flemingsburgh, 15 10. Louisville—Hodgensville, 3 50; Penna. Run, 5; Guston, 1 50; Louisville 4th c, 31 20.	56 30
MICHIGAN.—Saginaw—Mt. Pleasant c, 10; Calkinsville c, 2.	18 00
MISSOURI.—Kansas City—Centre View,	5 00
NEBRASKA.—Hastings—Hastings German Y. P. S. C. E., 1 30. Niobrara—Atkinson c, 2 67; Stuart c, 2 63.	6 50
NEW JERSEY.—Newark—Montclair Trinity, 175. Newton—Stanhope and sab-sch and Y. P. S. C. E. c, 16 63. West Jersey—Elmer sab-sch c, 9 37.	201 00
NEW YORK.—Binghamton—Binghamton First c, 248 26; — West c, 50. Brooklyn—Brooklyn South 3rd Street c, 47 28. New York—East Harlem sab-sch c, 6 41. Niagara—Niagara Falls 1st sab-sch, 10; Lewiston, 5.	366 95
OHIO.—Cincinnati—Mason and Pisgah, 4. Lima—Van Buren sab-sch c, 1 75. Portsmouth—Jackson 1st sab-sch c, 8 86.	14 61
OREGON.—Southern Oregon—Medford, 25 members,	2 55
CALIFORNIA.—Benicia—Two Rock, 6. Stockton—Tracy c, 3. Grayson c, 4.	13 00
SOUTH DAKOTA.—Central Dakota—Beulah c, 7 50; Hitchcock c, 8 56; Rose Hill c, 10 83.	26 89
UTAH.—Utah—Smithfield c, 2 35; Richmond c, 1 50.	3 85
WASHINGTON.—Puget Sound—Sumner (sab-sch, 5 30), (Y. P. S. C. E., 5), 34 50; Nooksack c, 8. Spokane—Rockford, 2; Fairfield, 3 40.	87 90
Total received from churches.....	841 20

MISCELLANEOUS.

Miss Ella M. Schively, Philadelphia, Pa., 5; Rev. Henry Kelgwin, Fla., 10; B. J. Danner, Olathe, Kans., 1.....	16 00
Total received for the Home Mission Debt, January 1893.....	857 20
Total received for the Home Mission Debt from July 1, 1892.....	16,202 72
O. D. EATON, Treasurer, Box L, Station D. 53 Fifth Avenue, New York.

NOTE.—All items marked "c" were contributions on Columbian Home Mission Day, October 9, 1892.

RECEIPTS FOR NEW YORK SYNODICAL AID FUND, JANUARY 1893.

Albany—Mariaville, 4; Albany State Street, 6 34; Saratoga Springs 1st, 1. Binghamton—Whitney's Point, 5. Brooklyn—Brooklyn Bethany, 15. Buffalo—H. H. Westminister, 17 56. Cayuga—Aurora, 15 47. Champlain—Burke, 16; Belmont, 25; Constable, 4 15; Westville, 3 25. Chemung—Burdett, 2. Columbia—Hudson 1st, 35; Spencertown, 5. Geneva—Trumansburg, 21 55; Hudson—Cocheaton, 4 40; Fallsdale, 1 06. Long Island—Bellport, 10; South Haven, 2. Lyons—Wolcott 1st, 7 53; Palmyra, 1 78. Nassau—Freeport, 21; Roslyn, 2 71. New York—Park, 68 36; Bohemian, 5. Niagara—Albion 1st, 13 50. North River—Cornwall-on-Hudson, 2 65. Otsego—Delhi 1st, 25. Rochester—R. Ogden, 20 cts. St. Lawrence—Carthage, 10 55. Steuben—Hornellville, 12 50. Syracuse—Wampsville, 8; Lenox, 8; Mexico 1st, 20; East Syracuse, 6. Troy—Troy Memorial, 3 70; Hebron, 5. Utica—Augusta, 5 20; Utica Westminister, 154. Westchester—Mahopac Falls sab-sch, 15.
Total received for New York Synodical Aid Fund, January 1893.....	584 00
Total received for New York Synodical Aid Fund from April 1st, 1892.....	6,504 27
Amount received during same period last year.....	7,527 80
O. D. EATON, Treasurer, Box L, Station D. 53 Fifth Avenue, New York.

RECEIPTS FOR SUSTENTATION, JANUARY 1893.

BALTIMORE.—Baltimore—Frederick,	3 25
COLORADO.—Boulder—Laramie Union,	2 00
ILLINOIS.—Chicago—River Forest, 1. Rock River—Aledo, 35 cts.	1 25
IOWA.—Iowa—Burlington, 2 08; Middletown, 8 cts.	2 16
KANSAS.—Topeka—Topeka 2d,	4 00
MICHIGAN.—Detroit—Detroit Westminister,	3 50
MINNESOTA.—St. Paul—St. Paul House of Hope, 41 15
NEBRASKA.—Niobrara—Oakdale, 5. Omaha—Blackbird Hills, 4.	9 00
CALIFORNIA.—Los Angeles—Monrovia,	16
WISCONSIN.—Milwaukee—Ottawa,	10
Total from churches.....	66 67

MISCELLANEOUS.

Miss Mollie Clements, Antonio, Colo., 5; Interest on Permanent Fund, 38 25.....	43 25
Total received for Sustentation January 1893..	109 92
Total received for Sustentation from April 1, 1892.....	3,390 87
Amount received during same period last year.	1,317 49
O. D. EATON, Treasurer, Box L, Station D. 53 Fifth Avenue, New York.

RECEIPTS FOR MINISTERIAL RELIEF, JANUARY, 1893.

ATLANTIC.—East Florida—Jacksonville 1st, 5 20.	5 20
BALTIMORE.—Baltimore—Baltimore Brown Memorial, 200 00. New Castle—West Nottingham, 18 55. Washington City—Washington City Assembly, 28; — Westminster, 30.	277 24
CALIFORNIA.—Benicia—St. Helena, 26 50. Los Angeles—Buena Vista, 25; Los Angeles Immanuel, 106 13; — Monrovia, 1 44. Sacramento—Roseville, 3 75. Stockton—Oakdale 1st, 2.	164 82
CATAWBA.—Yadkin—Mocksville 2nd, 1.	1
COLORADO.—Boulder—Berthoud 1st, 7. Denver—Denver North, 1; Golden, 9. Gunnison—Pitkin, 4.	31
ILLINOIS.—Alton—Bethel, 3; Chester 1st, 7; Elm Point, 2. Bloomington—Clinton, 15; Gibson City, 13 41. Chicago—Chicago Jefferson Park, 34; Manteno, 42 75. Freeport—Belvidere 1st, 16; Freeport 1st, 25; — 3d German, 4; Galena German, 2; Queen Anne, 2. Rock River—Aledo, 4 15; Fulton, 10. Schuyler—Ellington Memorial, 4; Kirkwood, 4 50; Monmouth 1st, 19 10; Oquawka, 20. Springfield—Brush Creek, 5 34; Lincoln, 7.	240 75
INDIANA.—Crawfordsville—Delphi, 14 40; Union, 5. Indianapolis—Indianapolis 1st, 38 97; — East Washington Street, 14 30. Vincennes—Evansville Grace, 12.	84 67

IOWA.—Cedar Rapids—Cedar Rapids 3d, 9. Dubuque—Dubuque 1st, 20; — 2d, 20; Sherrill's Mound German, 5. Fort Dodge—Jefferson, 5 22. Iowa—Burlington 1st, 19 77; Keokuk Westminister, 23 79; Middletown, 73 cts. Iowa City—Davenport 1st, 51 93. Sioux City—Sioux City 2d, 4 60. Waterloo—East Friesland German, 12; Kamrar German, 5.	176 09
KANSAS.—Emporia—Caldwell, 16; Clear Water, 2. Highland—Atchison 1st, 25; Holton 1st, 11. Larned—Halsted, 10 25. Neosho—Carlyle, 1 05. Topeka—Oak Hill, 2. 67 30
KENTUCKY.—Ebenezer—Covington 1st, 113 04; Lexington 2d, 274.	387 04
MICHIGAN.—Detroit—Detroit Westminister, 31 50. Kalamazoo—Niles 1st, 28 25; Plainwell, 5. Lansing—Lansing Franklin Avenue, 5 15. Saginaw—Ithaca 1st, 5 04. 85 95
MINNESOTA.—Minneapolis—Minneapolis 1st, 12 17; St. Paul—St. Paul Dayton Avenue, 37 08; — House of Hope, 98 75; White Bear, 1. Winona—Austin, 2; Woodbury, 3 51.	214 51
MISSOURI.—Kansas City—Clinton 1st, 7 50; Sharon, 2 30. Platte—Hamilton, 8. St. Louis—Poplar Bluff, 5; St. Louis Washington and Compton Avenues sab-sch, 25.	48 80

NEBRASKA.—Hastings—Lysinger, 3 72. Kearney—Clontibret, 1; North Platte 1st, 7 31. Nebraska City—Hebron 1st, 10 88. Niobrara—Hartington, 4; Saint James, 87 cts.; Winnebago (Indian), 5. Omaha—Black Bird Hill, 11; Omaha Castellar Street, 10 21; — Westminster, 33 13.

NEW JERSEY.—Elizabeth—Pluckamin, 13 50; Roselle, 6 91. Jersey City—Arlington, 6 72; Jersey City Claremont, 4; Rutherford 1st, 39 66. Monmouth—Plumstead, 4. Newark—Newark 2d, 41 34. New Brunswick—Dayton, 4 84; Dutch Neck, 15; Trenton 2d, 10 24; — Prospect St., 86. Newton—Stanhope, 4 19. West Jersey—Cape Island, 23 61; Hammononton, 16 27; May's Landing, 8; Woodbury, 111 93.

NEW YORK.—Albany—Albany State Street, 57 02; Esperance, 18 50; Saratoga Springs 2d, 7; Schenectady 1st sab-sch, 18 75. Binghamton—Cannonsville, 4; Ninevah, 14 16; Smithville Flats, 3 17. Boston—Woonsocket 1st, 1. Brooklyn—Brooklyn Bethany, 3; — Memorial, 46 80. Buffalo—Buffalo Westminster, 38 26; Springfield, 8 78. Cayuga—Auburn Central (3 65 from sab-sch), 11 59; Aurora, 15 47. Columbia—Hudson 1st, 85. Geneva—Trumansburgh 1st, 30 11. Hudson—Haverstraw 1st, 7; Palisades, 3 15; Ridgebury, 1 60. Lyons—Lyons 1st, 27 40; Palmyra, 8 65; Walcott 1st, 4 68. Nassau—Springfield, 5. New York—New York 1st (add'l), 50; — Adams Memorial, 5; — Central (25 from sab-sch), 511 35; — Park, 83 79; Niagara—Ablon 1st, 18; Lewiston, 5. North River—Amenia, 20; Cornwall, 6 55; Highland, 6 73; Milton, 4. Otsego—Cooperstown, 36 72; Oneonta, 25; Unadilla, 8 05. Rochester—Genesee 1st, 7; Ogden, 1 86; Pittsford, 10. St. Lawrence—Governor 1st, 20 34; Hammond, 10. Steuben—Arkport, 1 60; Hornellsville 1st, 25 60. Syracuse—Fulton 1st sab-sch, 15; Syracuse Park Central, 41 90. Utica—Clinton, 30 22; Verona, 6.

OHIO.—Athens—New Plymouth, 4. Bellefontaine—Bellefontaine 1st, 3 06; West Liberty 1st, 1 11. Cincinnati—Cincinnati Walnut Hills 1st, 65 43; — Walnut Hills Bethany Chapel, 25; Loveland, 12 62. Cleveland—Cleveland 1st (Bolton Chapel), 9 15; — Euclid Avenue, 144 42; — Wilson Avenue, 4 50. Lima—Conway, 4 70; Harrison, 2 82; Middlepoint, 4 43. Mahoning—Youngstown 1st, 84 68. Marion—Delaware, 25. Maumee—Antwerp, 5; Delta, 5. St. Clairsville—St. Clairsville, 18; Wheeling Valley, 3. Steubenville—Hopedale, 3; Mechanicstown, 5.

PENNSYLVANIA.—Allegheny—Allegheny Central, 51 95. Blairsville—Pleasant Grove, 14. Butler—North Liberty, 2 50. Carlisle—Gettysburg, 21; Harrisburgh Market Square (50 from Macedonian Band), 168 74; Upper Path Valley, 6. Chester—Fagg's Manor, 37. Clarion—Cool Spring, 1; Du Bois, 22. Erie—Greenville, 8 17; Mill Village, 1 75; Waterford Park, 3; Watsburgh 1st, 1 71. Huntingdon—Bellefonte, 171 82; Sinking Valley, 7; State College, 8 91. Lackawanna—Monroeton, 5; Plains, 4; Uniondale, 2. Lehigh—Allen Township, 10; Easton 1st, 70; March Chunk 1st, 37 21; Shawnee (1 15 from sab-sch, and 2 14 from C. E. Soc), 14; Upper Lehigh, 22; White Haven, 11. Northumberland—Bloomsburgh 1st, 31 46; Northumberland, 8; Williamsport, 2d, 39 06. Philadelphia—Philadelphia 1st, 231 81; — 9th, 40; — Lombard St., Central, 5; — McDowell Memorial, 16 30; — Tabor, 100; — Bethlehem, 75; — Covenant sab-sch, 10; — Hebron Memorial, 5 18; — Kensington 1st, 54 34; — North Broad St., 198 60. Philadelphia North—Langhorne, 4; Manayunk 1st, 25; Wissinoming, 4. Pittsburgh—Chartiers, 4 50; Mountain, 1; Pittsburgh 1st, Y. Voyagers, 10; — East Liberty, 47; — Shady Side, 54 50. Redstone—Belle Vernon 1st, 6 33; Reheboth, 6 84. Washington—Lower Buffalo, 5; Upper Ten Mile, 10; Washington 1st, 30 75. Wellsboro—Antrim, 5; Knoxville, 1; Wellsboro, 6 24.

Westminster—Columbia, 45 77, Mount Joy (1 35 from sab-sch), 29 35.

SOUTH DAKOTA.—Dakota—Ascension, 2.

TEXAS.—North Texas—Seymour, 2 50.

UTAH.—Montana—Helena 1st, 37 15.

WISCONSIN.—Chippewa—Ashland, 12 54. La Crosse—Greenwood (1 00 from sab-sch) 3. Madison—Lodi 1st, 5 20. Milwaukee—Delafield, 1 51; Ottawa, 90 cts.

From the churches and Sabbath schools.....$ 5,883 46

FROM INDIVIDUALS.

"Cash," Brooklyn, N. Y., 500; Mrs. John Kidd, Bloomington, Ill., 3; "A friend," Lancaster, Wis., 1; J. J. Junkin, Wyandot, O., 1; E. J. Junkin, Wyandot, O., 1; Rev. Wm. Sangree, Jamestown, N. Dakota, 5; Anonymous, Washington, Ill., 1; Miss Sarah McPherson, Gettysburg, Pa., 100; Rev. Geo. T. Crissman and wife, Longmont, Cal., 12; Rev. L. D. Potter, D. D. Glendale, O., 5; Mrs. Mary D. Biddle, Philadelphia, 100; Rev. R. M. Sanford, East Aurora, N. Y., 4; Through Mr. Walter M. Aikman, New York City, 200; Mrs. H. Bertha Keller, Denver, Colo., 100; "Haplaid," 150; Rev. J. F. Berry, Mendocino, Cal., 14; Rev. Wm. L. Moore, New York, 20; Mrs. Anna S. Scofield, Strasburg, Pa., 20; Rev. W. C. Catell, D. D., Philadelphia, Pa., 100; "W. R. J.," 100; Anonymous, Bridgehampton, N. Y., 2; Walter McQueen, Syracuse, N. Y., 150; Mrs. Sallie B. Welsh, Savanna, O., 1; Miss Sarah B. Vernon, Morristown, N. J., 5; Mrs. E. R. Norton, Alton, Ill., 1; Rev. E. B. Evans, Muldrow, I. Territory, 2; Mrs. M. D. Ward, Afton, N. J., 10; Geo. W. Farr, Jr., Philadelphia, 50; Mrs. John Noblit, Philadelphia, 10; Mrs. Harriet L. Taylor, Monroe, Mich., 5; Robert Dollar, San Francisco, Cal., 10; "Katy and Alan's Mama," Pottsville, Pa., 5; Rev. R. Craighead, Meadville, Pa., 1,000; "C. Penna," 6; "A friend," 10; Capt. Alex. B. MacGowan, 12th U. S. Infantry, 10; Rev. J. G. Tonzeau, Medelin, Columbia, S. A., 10; Miss Mollie Clements, Antonio, Colo., 5..... 2,721 00

Interest from investments..... 6,453 94

Interest from Roger Sherman fund..... 2 00

Interest from Latta fund..... 41 67

Total for the current fund.....$ 15,340 07

PERMANENT FUND.

(Interest only used.)

Additional from the estate of Amelia Kerr, New York, 3,000; Legacy from Mrs. Sarah A. French, Buffalo, N. Y., 200; Legacy from Mrs. Eliza J. Bradley, Syracuse, N. Y., 2,000. $ 5,200 00

Total receipts for January, 1893..... $20,540 07

Collections from churches and Sabbath-schools and contributions from individuals from April 1, 1892, to January 31, 1893..... 70,809 52

For the same period the previous year..... 75,365 49

Total for the current fund since April 1, 1892... $121,210 44

WILLIAM W. HERKERTON, Treasurer.

RECEIPTS FOR COLLEGES AND ACADEMIES, JANUARY, 1893.

BALTIMORE.—Baltimore—Baltimore Broadway, 8; — Brown Memorial, 127 30. Washington City—Washington City Westminster, 10.

ILLINOIS.—Bloomington—Bloomington 2d, 75. Chicago—Chicago 41st St., 96 76; Libertyville, 2; River Forest 1st, 1. Freeport—Belvidere 1st, 8; Freeport 1st, 75; Harvard, 2; Rockford 1st, 33 30. Rock River—Aledo, 2 10. Schuyler—Monmouth 1st, 10 42; Kirkwood, 3; Wythe, 3.

INDIANA.—Crawfordsville—Delphi, 9 60; Union, 5. Indianapolis—Hopewell, 11 20. New Albany—Charlestown, 2.

IOWA.—Cedar Rapids—Marion 1st, 15 90. Fort Dodge—Jefferson, 3 21. Iowa—Burlington 1st, 12 51; Middletown, 49 cts.

KANSAS.—Neosho—Carlisle, 69 cts.; Solomon—Culver, 8.

KENTUCKY.—Ebenezer—Frankfort 1st, 25 35.

MICHIGAN.—Detroit—Detroit Westminster, 21; United Presbyterian and (Congregational) sab-sch, Milford, 15.

Petoskey—Cadillac 1st 3 07.

NEW JERSEY.—Corisco—Gabeon, 5. Elizabeth—Pluckamin, 9; Roselle, 4 61. Jersey City—Jersey City Claremont, 1. Newark—Newark, 2d, 9 34; 6th Avenue, 19.

New Brunswick—Dayton, 3 22; Dutch Neck, 20. Newton—Blairtown, 43 85; sab-sch, 10 76; Stanhope, 3 20; West Jersey—Camden 2d, 3.

NEW YORK.—Albany—Albany State St., 38 02; Sand Lake, 2 25; Saratoga Springs 2d, 6. Boston—Woonsocket, 1. Brooklyn—Brooklyn Memorial, 31 30. Buffalo—Buffalo Westminster, 14 72. Cayuga—Aurora, 11 05; Chemung—Big Flats, 11 45. Columbia—Catakill, 23 69.

Hudson 1st, 21 55. Geneva—Romulus, 3 14; Trumansburgh 1st, 19 13. Hudson—Palisades, 12; Ridgebury, 1;

Stony Point, 14 41; Unionville, 4. Lyons—Lyons 1st, 27 50; Wolcott 1st, 6. Nassau—Springfield, 5. New York—New York Adams Memorial, 5. Niagara—Albion, 20; Lewiston, 5. North River—Pleasant Valley, 5. Otsego—Hobart, 6. Rochester—Ogden, 1 23; Parma Centre, 2; Rochester Central, 50; Grace, 4. Steuben—Arkport, 1 07; Hornellsville, 12 80. Syracuse—Cazenovia 1st, 10 56; Mexico 1st, 13. Troy—Cohoes, 13. Utica—Verona, 4. Westchester—Bedford, 6 75; New Rochelle 2d, 17 14.

434 76

OHIO.—Bellefontaine—West Liberty 1st, 74 cts. Cincinnati—Mt. Carmel sab-sch, 2. Cleveland—Cleveland 1st Bolton Chapel, 6 10; Euclid Avenue, 96 28. Columbus—London, 5 07. Dayton—Middletown 1st, 25 97. St. Clairsville—Crab Apple, 5 90; St. Clairsville 1st, 6. Steubenville—Uhrichsville, 4. Zanesville—Jersey, 1 75.

153 81

PACIFIC—Los Angeles—Monrovia, 96 cts. 96
PENNSYLVANIA.—Clarion—Cool Spring, 1; Licking, 2. Erie—Waterford Park, 2; Westminster, 4. Huntingdon—Houtzdale, 1 80; State College, 7 68. Lackawanna—Rushville, 4; Scranton Welsh Westminster, 1; Stevensville, 3; Uniondale, 2. Philadelphia—Philadelphia 2d, 66 10; Calvary, 128 93; Gaston Memorial, 20; Hebron Memorial, 5 71; Kensington 1st, 40; Temple, 20; West Arch St., 57 56. Philadelphia North—Carmel, 2; Wissinoming, 4. Pittsburgh—Chartiers, 3; Pittsburgh Shady Side, 18; sab-sch, 11 23. Redstone—Leisenring, 7 40. Washington—Upper Ten Mile, 5; Washington 1st, 30 75; Waynesburgh, 6. Wellsboro—Wellsboro, 4 16. Westminster—Mount Joy, 1 44; sab-sch, 1

458 77

UTAH.—Utah—Huntington, 4.
WASHINGTON.—Walla Walla—Kamiah 1st, 2 25, 2 25
WISCONSIN.—Milwaukee—Ottawa, 60 cts. Winnebago—Weyauwega, 1 33.
Total from Churches and Sabbath Schools.....1,777 26

PERSONAL.

Rev. R. M. Sandford, East Aurora, N. Y., 4;
J. C. A., Washington City, 5; Miss Harriet J. Huey, Philadelphia, Pa., 5; John H. Converse, Philadelphia, Pa., 1,000; Mrs. William Thaw, Pittsburgh, Pa., 1,250; Cash, 500; W. R. J., 70; C. Penna, 3; Rev. H. T. Scholl, Big Flat, N. Y., 4; Rev. J. G. Tonzeau, Meddellion, Rep de Columbia, S. A., 5; Mrs. Mollie Clements, Antonio, Colo., 5; Thomas Lord, Chicago, 60.....

2,911

Total receipts for January, 1893..... 4,689 36
Previously reported..... 46,587 69

Total receipts from April 1, 1892, to February 1, 1893..... 51,546 05

C. M. CHARNLEY, Treasurer,
P. O. Box 291, Chicago, Ill.

RECEIPTS FOR EDUCATION, JANUARY, 1893.

ATLANTIC.—Knox—New Hope, 1.
BALTIMORE.—New Castle—Forest, 3; Gilbert, 1. Washington City—Washington City Westminster, 30. 24 00
CALIFORNIA.—Los Angeles—Monrovia 80 cts. Oakland—Golden Gate, 2. Sacramento—Roseville, 3 75. San Jose—Cayucos, 7 50.

15 15

COLORADO.—Boulder—Berthoud 1st, 5. Denver—Denver North, 2 23. Pueblo—Fountain, 2 40. 10 33
ILLINOIS.—Chicago—Alton, 20 53; Libertyville, 2 25; River Forest 1st, 3. Freeport—Belvidere 1st, 20; Freeport 1st, 25; — 3d German, 3; Galena 1st, 3; Rock Run, 3 75; Queen Anne, 4. Maitoon—Tuscola, 6 65. Rock River—Aledo, 2 75; Fulton, 6; Princeton, 12 51. Schwytzer—Brooklyn, 4; Kirkwood, 2 50; Monmouth 1st, 6 41; Oquawka, 3 14.

130 45

INDIANA.—Crawfordsville—Delphi, 8. Indianapolis—Indianapolis East Washington Street, 13. New Albany—Charlestown, 6; Seymour, 5. Vincennes—Evansville Grace, 16 50; Grayville, 3; Washington, 5. 56 50

2 00

INDIAN TERRITORY.—Muscogee—Acheda, 2.
IOWA.—Cedar Rapids—Cedar Rapids 1st, 63 03. Corning—Corning 1st, 5 06. Dubuque—Dubuque 1st, 23. Iowa—Burlington 1st, 10 42; Keokuk Westminster, 8 73; Kirkville, 5; Middletown, 41 cts. Sioux City—Sioux City 2nd, 3 65. Waterloo—Holland, 14.

132 30

KANSAS.—Emporia—Clear Water 1st, 3; Peotone, 5. Larne—Halsted, 6. Neosho—Carlyle, 58 cts; Girard, 7. Oswine—Downs, 2 85; Hays City, 5 86; Phillipsburg, 5; Rose Valley, 3 50. Topeka—Oak Hill, 3. 41 29

41 29

KENTUCKY.—Ebenezer—Covington 1st, 83 50. Louisville—Hopkinsville, 1; Louisville Central, 102 99. Transylvania—Greensburg, 4 10. 190 59

190 59

MICHIGAN.—Detroit—Detroit Westminster, 17 50. Kalamazoo—Plainwell, 1. Lake Superior—Sault Ste. Marie 1st, 11 36. Monroe—Raisin, 3. 22 86

22 86

MINNESOTA.—Red River—Tabor Bohemian, 2 50. St. Paul—Minneapolis 1st, 17 73; St. Paul House of Hope, 58 04; White Bear, 2. Winona—Canton, 5 28. 85 69

85 69

MISSOURI.—Kansas City—Greenwood, 3; Salt Springs, 5 65. Palmyra—Grantsville, 3. Platte—Maryville 1st, 10. St. Louis—St. Louis 1st sab-sch, 24 16. 45 81

45 81

NEBRASKA.—Hastings—Axtel, 3; Edgar, 4 07. Niobrara—Hartington, 2; Saint James 45 cts; Winnebago Indian, 15. Omaha—Black Bird Hills, 9. 33 52

33 52

NEW JERSEY.—Corisco—Gabeon, 5. Elizabeth—Liberty Corner, 4; Perth Amboy (sab-sch, 10), 29 50; Pluckamin, 12; Roselle, 3 83. Jersey City—Jersey City Claremont, 1. Monmouth—Freehold 1st, 23 63. Morris and Orange—Madison, 3; Mendham 1st, 11 63. Newark—Newark 2d, 12 56; Newark Roseville, 50. New Brunswick—Dayton, 2 63; Trenton 2d, 7 86. Newton—Oxford 1st, 5. West Jersey—Elmer, 10; May's Landing, 4; Tuckahoe, 11; Waterford, 11. 207 74

207 74

NEW YORK.—Albany—Albany State Street, 31 68; Princetown, 10 66; Saratoga Springs 1st, 7; Tribe's Hill, 4; West Galway, 1. Roseton—Woonsocket 1st, 1. Brooklyn—Brooklyn Bethany, 2 23; — Memorial, 28. Buffalo—Buffalo Westminster, 9 55. Cayuga—Aurora, 15 47. Col- umbia—Catskill, 23 68; Hudson 1st, 20. Genesee—Wyoming 1st, 8 41. Geneva—Geneva 1st, 25; Trumansburgh, 28 35. Hudson—Livingston Manor, 3; Fallsades, 8; Ridgebury, 75 cts.; Rockland 2d, 2 10. Long Island—Bellport, 15; Bridgehampton, 22; Sag Harbor, 4 20; South Haven, 7. Lyons—Palmyra, 6 92. Nassau—Roslyn, 9; Springfield, 5. New York—New York Park, 41 49. Niagara—Albion 1st, 11 23; Carlton, 1 50; Lewiston, 5. North River—Milton, 2. Otsego—Delhi 1st, 40; Hobart, 8 07; Unadilla, 11 14. Rochester—Ogden, 1 03; Pittsford 1st, 22. St. Lawrence—Hammond, 8. Steuben—Arkport, 89 cts.; Hornellsville 1st, 12 80; Jasper, 5 33; Pultney, 4. Utica—Forest, 7 23; Verona, 4; Westernville, 12. Westchester—Sing Sing, 35. 587 23

587 23

NORTH DAKOTA.—Pembina—Tyner, 3 20.
OHIO.—Athens—New Plymouth, 3; Warren, 2 22. Bellefontaine—Bellefontaine 1st, 1 70; Upper Sandusky, 3; West Liberty, 62 cts. Chillicothe—Belfast, 4. Cleveland—Cleveland 1st, Bolton Chapel, 5 08; Euclid Avenue, 50 21; Willoughby, 2. Mahoning—Youngstown 1st, 95 33. Massachusetts—Antwerp, 3; Bryan, 17 20; Delta, 3. Portsmouth—Mount Leigh, 4. St. Clairsville—Lore City, 3 50; Nottingham, 19 56; Pleasant Valley, 1. Steubenville—Corinth, 12. Wooster—Millersburg, 1 50. 261 95

261 95

OREGON.—Portland—Portland St. Johns, 3. 3 00

3 00

PENNSYLVANIA.—Allegheny—Sharpsburg, 8 49; Springdale, 4. Blairsville—Pleasant Grove, 5. Butler—Buffalo, 3. Carlisle—Chambersburg Falling Spring, 40. Chester—Great Valley, 10. Clarion—Cool Spring, 1; Licking, 2. Erie—Fairfield, 2; Greenville sab-sch, 6 93; Warren 1st, 96 93; Waterford Park, 2. Huntingdon—Houtzdale, 1 50; State College, 8 20. Kittanning—Clinton, 1 13. Lackawanna—Plains, 2; Uniondale, 2. Lehigh—Allen Township, 10; Bangor, 5 13; Easton 1st, 37; Mauch Chunk 1st, 23 90; Mountain, 4 25; Shawnee (sab-sch, 1 50, Y. P. S. C. E., 1 50). 6. Northumberland—Bloomsburg, 40 55; Mountain, 1; Sunbury 1st, 40; Williamsport 2d, 25 85. Philadelphia—Philadelphia Calvary, 161 34; — Westminster, 10 07; — McDowell Memorial, 8 20; — Hebron Memorial, 6 87. Philadelphia North—Hermion, 35; Langhorne, 6; Manayunk 1st, 25; Overbrook, 29 80; Wissinoming, 4. Pittsburgh—Chartiers, 2 50; Hazlewood, 12 42; Hebron, 2 35; Pittsburgh East Liberty, 28; — Shady Side (sab-sch, 28 31), 68 13; Raccoon 2d. Redstone—Brownsville, 10. Washington—Lower Buffalo, 5; Upper Ten Mile, 10; Washington 1st, 20 75; West Liberty, 4. Wellsboro—Knoxville, 1; Wellsboro, 3 46. Westminster—Columbia, 24; Mt. Joy (sab-sch, 1 45), 13 45; New Harmony, 5 50. Parkersburg—Terra Alta, 10. 923 69

923 69

SOUTH DAKOTA.—Central Dakota—Huron 1st, 11. 11 00
WASHINGTON.—Puget Sound—Seattle 2d, 5. 5 00
WISCONSIN.—La Crosse—Greenwood (sab-sch, 1), 3 00
Milwaukee—Delafield, 1 29; Ottawa, 50 cts. 4 89

4 89

Total receipts from churches January, 1893.... 2,696 06
Total receipts from Sabbath-schools Jan., 1893 73 17

2,769 23

LEGACY.

Estate John I. Kenyon, N. Y. 5,000 00

REFUNDED.

Rev. A. J. Abel, 25; Student, 30. 55 00

GRATITUDE FUND.

10. 10 00

INCOME ACCOUNT.

19, 75, 300. 294 00

MISCELLANEOUS.

"J. C. A." 5; Rev. G. L. H., 100; Cash, 500;
 Rev. M. D. A. Steen, 5; spl. sch., Miss A. R.
 Spotswood, 75; E. H. Mendousa, 10; C.
 Penna. 2; Rev. J. Z. Touzeau, 15; Miss Mollie
 Clements, 5. 717 00

Total receipts in January, 1893. 8,845 23
 Total receipts from April 16, 1892. 77,191 07

JACOB WILSON, Treasurer,
 1374 Chestnut St., Philadelphia.

RECEIPTS FOR FOREIGN MISSIONS, JANUARY, 1893.

ATLANTIC—South Florida—Kissimee, 15; Sorrento, 4;
 L. Aid Soc., 6. 25

BALTIMORE.—Baltimore—Baltimore Alsquith Street
 sab-sch. 20; —Boundary Avenue Y. P. M. S., 28 16; — Broadway, 4 50; sab-sch. 2; —Brown Memorial, 127 85;
 sab-sch. 75; —Y. P. S. C. E., 15; —Central, 55 86; Deer Creek Harmony, 21; Franklinville, 5; Havre de Grace sab-sch. 10; Waverly Y. P. S. C. E., 34 67. New Castle— Dover, 105; Manokin, 16; Millford, 20; Newark, 17; New Castle, 203 58; Port Penn, 5 20; West Nottingham sab-sch. 20 50. Washington City—Falls Church, 19 31; Georgetown West Street Mission, 21 66; Lewinsville sab-sch.*
 18; Vienna sab-sch.* 7; Washington Assembly Y. P. S. C.
 E., 10; —Covenant, 284 87; —North, 6; —Western, 109;
 Y. P. S. C. E., 75; —Westminster, 185. 1,574 06

CATAWBA.—Yadkin—Mooreville 2d. 1. 1
 CALIFORNIA.—Los Angeles—Anaheim Y. P. S. C. E., 10; L. A. Boyle Heights, 10; sab-sch. 13; Monrovia, 5 28;
 Orange, 22; Pomona Y. P. S. C. E., 5; Tustin Y. P. S. C.
 E., 8 22. Oakland—Oakland 1st sab-sch. 4 90. San Jose—
 Cayucos sab-sch. 9; Menlo Park sab-sch.* 5; Santa Clara, 80. 173 50

COLORADO.—Denver—Denver Central sab-sch.* 9 68;
 —Westminster, 15; sab-sch. 3 60. Gunnison—Grand Junction, 10; sab-sch. 14; Ouray sab-sch. 3 05; Pitkin, 10.
Pueblo—Alamosa, 6 80; Colorado Springs 2d sab-sch.* 6;
 Huerfano Canon, 3 30; Monte Vista, 4 28; Pueblo 5th
 Mexican, 2; Rocky Ford sab-sch. 1 87; Rouse, 2. 91 56

ILLINOIS.—Alton—Greenfield, 31; Hillsboro sab-sch.*
 16 05; Jerseyville, 52; Litchfield sab-sch. 3 50. Bloomington—Chenoa, 44; Clarence, 7; Clinton Y. P. S. C. E., 25; Cookville sab-sch. 15 72; Danville Germantown sab-sch. 21 20; El Paso, 27; Gibson City, 82 28; Y. P. S. C.
 E., 15; Normal, 18 81; Prairie View Col., 3; Urbana Col., 14 27; Wenona, 10; Longview sab-sch. 3. Cairo—Ava Y.
 P. S. C. E., 3 13; Centralia Y. P. S. C. E., 2; Cobden, 9;
 Harrisburg, 15 75; Murphyboro sab-sch.* 8. Chicago—
 Austin, 30; Chicago 2d, 900; —3d, 15; —5th sab-sch. 30;
 —Covenant Y. P. M. S., 50; —Jefferson Park sab-sch.
 29 63; —Scotch sab-sch. 9; Du Page, 32 50; Gardner, 10;
 Hyde Park sab-sch. salary of W. L. Swallen, 37 50; Normal Park Col., 17 17; River Forest, 28 17. Freeport— Belvidere, 60; Freeport 1st, 300; —3d German, 10; Galena
 German, 6 60; Willow Creek, 105 68; Winnebago sab-sch.,
 14 32. Mattoon—Beckwith Prairie, 1 50; Pana, 1 25;
 Tuscola, 27 45. Ottawa—Au Sable Grove, 20 25; Aurora, 16 28; Troy Grove W. H. and F. M. S., 15; Waltham Y. P.
 S. C. E., 2 75. Peoria—Elmira, 25 93; Ipava Y. P. S. C. E.,
 2 89; —2d, 165 94; —Cavalry sab-sch. 5 25; Jun. Y. P. S.
 C. E., 10; Washington, 10; Yates City, 5 75. Rock River—
 Aledo 11 55; Arlington sab-sch. 2 50; Franklin Grove sab-sch.* 4; Fulton sab-sch. 25; Garden Plain, 28 23; Milan
 "Week of Prayer," 1 50; Morrison sab-sch. 4 62; Newton, 26 21; sab-sch. 2 80; Peniel, 9 40; Rock Island Central sab-sch. 20 22; Woodhull sab-sch. 5 02; Y. P. S. C. E., 9 43. Schuyler—Augusta, 50; Camp Creek, 29 02; sab-sch. 7; Carthage, 23 20; Y. P. S. C. E., 25; Ebenezer, 15;
 Hersman, Y. P. S. C. E., 44; Kirkwood, 16 50; sab-sch.,
 3 30; Monmouth, 57 90; Mount Sterling, sab-sch. 46 22;
 Y. P. S. C. E., 9 93; Nauvoo German, 15; Quincy 1st Y.
 P. S. C. E., 22 25; Warsaw, 3 28. Springfield—Brush Creek, 6 50; Greenville, 19 60; Jacksonville Westminster
 Y. P. S. C. E., 25; Maroa Y. P. S. C. E., 17; Springfield 1st
 Y. M. S., 38; —3d, 45 46. 3,197 56

INDIANA.—Crawfordsville—Delphi, 53 10; Lexington Y.
 P. S. C. E., 11 13; Prairie Centre, 7 69; Romner, 11 15;
 Spring Grove, 27 75; Waveland, 8 14. Fort Wayne—
 Hopewell, 5; Lima, 4; Ligonier, 16 12; sab-sch. 1 52; —Y.
 P. S. C. E., 5. Indianapolis—Hopewell sab-sch.* 13 03;
 Indianapolis 7th Y. P. S. C. E., 80; —13th, 23 42; Southport, 6 51; sab-sch. 7 50. Logansport—Logansport 1st
 Y. P. S. C. E., 16 03; Michigan City sab-sch.* 11 40; Rochester N. L. Lord, 5. Muncie—Union City, 13; Winchester Y. P. S. C. E., 10 30. New Albany—Bedford Y. P. S.

 C. E., 6 25; Brownstown Y. P. S. C. E., 5; Jeffersonville, 43 95; Lexington, 14; New Albany 2d, 31; Otisaca, 3 50;
 sab-sch. 1 50. Vincennes—Evansville Grace, 40 20; Vincennes, 33 19; Y. P. S. C. E., 17. White Water—Aurora,
 3; Richmond, 198. 733 44

INDIAN TERRITORY.—Choctaw—Bethel, 2; Pine Ridge,
 1 75; Sans Bois, 2 25. 6

IOWA.—Cedar Rapids—Atkins, 3; Blairtown sab-sch.*
 6; Cedar Rapids 3d sab-sch. 14 68; Pleasant Hill 8 00, L.
 M. Aid Soc., 7 50; Shellsburg, 3; Vinton, 50. Council Bluffs—Anderson, 9; Bedford, 20 12; Brooks, 2; Conway, 18 25; Lenox, 10 97; sab-sch. 4 43; Prairie Chapel, 80 cts.;
 —Sab-sch. 41 cts.; —Star, 3 00; Nodaway, 2; Platte Cretre, 3; Red Oak, 10; Sidney, 2. Des Moines—Albia, 23 30;
 Dallas Centre, 16; Derby, 3; Humeston, 3 25; Laurel, 5;
 Mariposa, 5. Dubuque—Dubuque 2d, 75; Hazleton, 3;
 Lime Spring, Mrs. McGregor, 2 50; Sherrill's German sab-sch. 7. Fort Dodge—Carroll sab-sch. 2 50; Coon Rapids, 33 28; Dedham, 6 52; Grand Junction, 11 60; Rippey sab-sch. 5; Spirit Lake, 7 46. Iowa—Burlington 1st, 125 92;
 sab-sch. 84; Fairfield sab-sch.* 26 23; Keokuk Westminster, 54 23; Libertyville, 6; Martinsburg, 27 40; sab-sch.,
 3 10; Mediapolis, 27; sab-sch.* 8; Middletown, 6 50; New London, 8; West Point, 15 20. Iowa City—Brooklyn,
 27 75; Davenport 2d Y. P. S. C. E., 2 10; Muscatine 1st
 (sab-sch. 6), Y. P. S. C. E., 10; Williamsburgh, 22. Sioux City—Alta, 14; Hoopers, 5 60; Larabee, 7 70; Schaller, 45 17. Waterloo—Dysart, 8; Grundy Centre, 23 77; sab-sch. 2 23; Janesville, 6 75; Kammars German, 13; Marshalltown sab-sch.* 5; Salem, 22; Toledo, 2 50; Waterloo sab-sch.* 23; Williams, 10. 1,049 11

KANSAS.—Emporia—Burlingame Y. P. S. C. E., 5; Council Grove, 25; Eldorado, 25; sab-sch. 10; El Paso, 6 12;
 Mount Vernon, 6 60; Oxford, 14 40; Peotone sab-sch.* 6;
 Winfield Y. P. S. C. E., 11 80. Highland—Axtel sab-sch.
 6 86; Hlawaha, 7 50. Larned—Arlington, 5; Great Bend, 14 09; Halted Debt. Col., 10 25; Larned,
 7 50; Lyons (sab-sch. 18 25); Y. P. S. C. E., 5.
Neosho—Carlyle, 11 81; Cherokee, 6 30; Girard sab-sch.* 11; Iola, 16; sab-sch. 6; Monmouth, 2 50;
 Princeton, 13; Richmond, 5. Osborne—Hays City, 25 27;
 Kill Creek sab-sch.* 2; Osborne sab-sch. 4 40. Salmon-Baahan, 1; Bennington L. M. S., 15 21; Clyde, 46 82, sab-sch. 6 30; Concordia, 67 21; sab-sch. 2 13; Ellsworth, 10 16;
 Sylvan Grove, 2; Wilson, 5; Harmony, Paris Station, 2.
Topeka—Baldwin, 4 50; Black Jack, 8 65; Clinton, 14;
 Junction City, 41 78; Kansas City Grand View Park, 15;
 —Central Y. P. S. C. E., 6 22; —Western Highlands, 25 54;
 —Y. P. S. C. E., 4; Lawrence Y. P. S. C. E., 10; Junior
 Y. P. S. C. E., 3 75; Manhattan, 30 50, (sab-sch. 10), Y. P.
 S. C. E., 10; Oak Hill, 5; Perry sab-sch. 1 06; Topeka 2d, 41. 700 70

KENTUCKY.—Ebenezer—Flemingsburgh, 10; sab-sch. 5 10;
 Lexington 2d, 670 08. Louisville—Hopkinsville Debt.,
 6 21; Louisville Knox sab-sch. 1 52. Transylvania—
 Burkeville L. F. M. Soc., 10. 702 91

MICHIGAN.—Detroit—Detroit Westminster, 115 50;
 Mount Clemens, 8. Flint—Argentine, 6; sab-sch. 6 25;
 Caro, 34; Flint, 58 50; Ft. Gratiot, 9; Flynn, 2; Grindstone, 1; La Motte, 4; Lyndon, 6; Port Austin, 8. Grand Rapids—Grand Rapids Westminster, 23 09. Kalamazoo—
 Kalamazoo 1st, 180; sab-sch. 20. Lake Superior—Iron Mountain sab-sch. 5 29; St. Ignace, 11 75; —sab-sch. 5 25.
Lansing—Brooklyn, 5; Concord, 5; Jackson, 23 06; Lansing Franklin Street, 22 04; Tekonsha, 12 51. Monroe— Tecumseh, 39 23; sab-sch.* 5 67. Petoskey—Cadillac sab-sch. 25; Mackinaw City, 5; Petoskey, 6. Saginaw—Bay
 City 1st, 25; Saginaw Grace, 11 50. 693 83

MINNESOTA.—Duluth—Lakeside, 18. Mankato—Madella, 40; Blatton, 5; Worthington Westminster sab-sch. 13 31;
 —Westminster, 111 11; salary of W. S. Nelson,

888 89. Red River—Crookston sab-sch. 4 14; Fergus Falls sab-sch. 7 18; Western sab-sch. 5 52. St. Paul—Minneapolis 1st. 89 73;—Bethlehem sab-sch. Col. 19 66;—Highland Park. 31 30;—Stewart Memorial. Y. P. S. C. E. 10;—Westminster sab-sch. 16 52; Oak Grove 15; St. Paul, Goodrich Avenue Y. P. S. C. E. 10;—House of Hope. 821 83;—Y. P. S. C. E. 10;—Y. L. Miss. Soc. 10;—sab-sch. 55; White Bear Y. P. S. C. E. 2 33. Winona—Oronoco Y. P. S. C. E. 5 10; Preston sab-sch. 3 08; 21. Y. P. S. C. E. 2 40. 1,733 91

MISSOURI.—Kansas City—Centre View. 3; Clinton Y. P. S. C. E. 8 37; Drexel. 3; Holden. 11 65; Kansas City Hill Memorial sab-sch. 3;—Linwood Avenue sab-sch. 5 08; Rich Hill sab-sch. 1 79; Sharon. 4 31. Ozark—Fairplay. 8 13;—sab-sch. 4 89; Webb City. 9 50, sab-sch. 9 50. Palmyra—Brookfield Moir sab-sch. 5 15; La Grange sab-sch. 4; Unionville. 17 83. Platte—Hamilton. 10; Hodge. 4 10; King City. 13; Parkville Lakeside sab-sch. 1 75; Union sab-sch. 5; Union Star. 1; Weston. 1 20. St. Louis—Bethel German. 4; Elk Prairie. 3; Nazareth German sab-sch. 6; Jonesboro. 3; Ridge Station. 2; St. Charles. 58, sab-sch. 5; St. Louis 1st. sab-sch. 24 16;—Soulard Market Y. P. S. C. E. 47;—West. 61 91; Zion German sab-sch. 2. 345 25

NEBRASKA.—Hastings—Axtel. 4; Ayr. 9; Holdredge. 31 55; Ong. 2 55. Kearney—Broken Bow. 6 67; Fullerton. 9 75. Nebraska City—Beatrice. 60; Bennett. 10; Pritchard. 1 15; Palmyra. 16. Omaha—Bellevue. 31 13; Y. P. S. C. E. 25; Black Bird Hills. 50; Bethlehem. 3; Fremont. 19 71; Omaha 1st sab-sch. 100;—Lowe Avenue Y. P. S. C. E. 1 59; Schuyler. 10 60; Silver Creek. 3 38. 383 98

NEW JERSEY.—Elizabeth—Clinton. 93 43; Cranford. 142 10; sab-sch. 121 57; Elizabeth 1st Murray Mission Soc. sab-sch. 100;—2d sab-sch. 220 99; Lamington. 188; Metuchen sab-sch. 89 60; Plainfield 1st. 50 72; Pluckamlin. 50 00; sab-sch. 10 42; Roselle. 25 33; sab-sch. 23 93; Springfield. 15; sab-sch. 23 06. Jersey City—Arlington Y. P. S. C. E. 15; Jersey City 2d. 23 29;—Claremont. 53 sab-sch. 2 48; Passaic 1st a Friend. 300; Rutherford. 623 87; Tenafly Y. P. S. C. E. 30; West Hoboken 1st. 15 59. Monmouth—Barnegat. 2; Beverly Y. P. S. C. E. 10; Cranbury 2d. 12; Lakewood. 209 13; Manasquan. 14 12; Moorestown sab-sch. 8. Morris and Orange—Bonton. 230 82; East Orange 1st. 209 19; Hillsdale. 582 72; Madison. 413 27; Miss. Soc. 227 23; Mendham 1st. 17 28; Morristown South Street. 410; Myerstown German sab-sch. 4; New Providence. 15; St. Cloud. 48; Succasunna. 17 13; sab-sch. 50; Trinity sab-sch. 7 75. Newark—Bloomfield 1st. 243 01; Fawcett Memorial. 61 03; Lyon's Farms. 52 04; Montclair 1st. 622; "Ald." 50;—Trinity for A. C. Good 100; Newark 1st. 216;—2d. 101 58;—Park. 72 92;—Roseville sab-sch. 15; Woodside sab-sch. 14 66. New Brunswick—Amwell 2d sab-sch. 2 84; Dayton. 17 73; Milford. 43 60; New Brunswick 2d sab-sch. 20; Princeton 1st. 237 70;—Trenton 1st. 637 06; Salary C. A. R. Janvier. 771;—2d Y. P. S. C. E. 50;—Prospect Street sab-sch. 27 69. Newton—Andover. 4 53; sab-sch. 1 57; Asbury Y. P. S. C. E. 20; Beldere 1st sab-sch. 6 37; Blairstown 381 21; sab-sch. 40 44; Harmony sab-sch. 12; Newton. 240; Stanhope sab-sch. 12 94; Y. P. S. C. E. 8 90; Wantage 1st. 9; Washington sab-sch. 80. West Jersey—Billingsport sab-sch. 3 15; Blackwoodtown sab-sch. 11 41; Bridgeton 1st sab-sch. 40;—2d. 81 24; sab-sch. 60 87; Camden 3d. 2; Cape Island. 46 23; Cedarville 1st. 8 60; Elmer. 2 50; Greenwich. 14; Hammononton sab-sch. 80; May's Landing. 5; Salem sab-sch. 90 40; 10 05. 9,262 29

NEW MEXICO.—Arizona—Sacaton 1st Indian. 6. 6
NEW YORK.—Albany—Albany State Street. 209 09; salary of W. H. Hannum. 200;—West End sab-sch. 21 70; Amsterdam 2d Y. P. S. C. E. 25; Ballston Centre Y. P. S. C. E. col. 1 46; Charlton. 41 70; sab-sch. 22; Jefferson. 16 27; Mariaville. 12; New Scotland sab-sch. 5 40; Pine Grove sab-sch. 5; Princetown sab-sch. 25 79; Rockwell Falls sab-sch. 5; Y. P. S. C. E. 3; Sand Lake. 7 25; Saratoga Springs 2d. 39 50; Tribe's Hill. 10;—a member for Africa. 100. Binghamton—Binghamton Ross Memorial. 30; Conklin. 13; McGrawville. 7 42; Nichols 12 57; Waverly 87 02; Whitney's Point. 7. Boston—Boston 1st. 100; Newburyport 1st. 63 81; Roxbury. 21 21; sab-sch. 31 96; Y. P. S. C. E. 15; Windham. 1 04; Woonsocket. 1. Brooklyn—Brooklyn 1st. 1370;—Mh German. 2;—Arlington Ave. Y. P. S. C. E. 6 54;—Bethany. 15;—Classon Ave. Y. P. S. C. E. 11 75;—Greene Ave. 1 76;—Lafayette Ave. 3254 42;—Lafayette sab-sch. Miss Assoc. salary of R. P. Wilder. 400;—Memorial. 145 90;—South 3d Street. 33 24;—South 3d Street C. W. Smith. 50;—Thronon Ave. 78. Buffalo—Allegheny sab-sch. 1;—Buffalo Bethlehem. 14;—Calvary sab-sch. 24 78;—North. 158 76; sab-sch. 77 23;—Westminster. 537 56; Elliotville. 8; Hamburg Lake Street sab-sch. 3; Lancaster. 20; Y. P. Society. 11; Silver Creek. 6 93; sab-sch. 9 50; South Wales sab-sch. Col.

1; Springville. 17 55. Cayuga—Aurora. 44 23; Genoa 2d sab-sch. 7 77;—3d sab-sch. 1 51; Ithaca. 1120 76. Champlain—Chazy. 2; sab-sch. 5 33; Malone. 15; Port Henry. 117 50. Chemung—Big Flats sab-sch. 22; Havana. 25; Southport sab-sch. col. 2 50; Spencer sab-sch. 2 50; Watkins. 53 43; debt. 108 08; sab-sch. debt. 8 18. Columbia—Catakill. 7 73; sab-sch. 43 28; Greenville. 8 35; Hillsdale. 15; Hudson. 200; Jewett Mrs. L. North. 30. Genesee—Attica Y. P. S. C. E. 25; Batavia. 253 01; North Bergen sab-sch. 4 70; Warsaw. 91 25; sab-sch. 27. Geneva—Geneva 1st. 32 47; Manchester. 47; sab-sch. 5; Penn Yan. 19 97; sab-sch. 58 70; Romulus. 60 40; Seneca Falls Y. P. S. C. E. 6 15; Trumansburgh. 53 23; Waterloo sab-sch. 10 53. Hudson—Chester. 45 44; Circleville. 7; sab-sch. 7 50; Hamptonburgh Mrs. C. Young. 33; Middletown 2d. 47 98; Monticello sab-sch. 9; Mount Hope. 7; sab-sch. 2; Nyack 1st sab-sch. 24 68; Palisades. 65; Ridgebury. 2 40. Long Island—Bridgehampton. 17 50; Cutchogue sab-sch. 10; Greenport sab-sch. 15 16; Port Jefferson sab-sch. 24 67; Southampton. 6 13; Quogue sab-sch. 30. Lyons—Lyons. 100 77; Marion. 23; Palmyra. 25 96; Wolcott 1st. 5 81; sab-sch. 11 04;—2d. 37 64; Victory. 22 78. Nassau—Babylon sab-sch. 24; Hempstead Christ Church. 31 44; sab-sch. 8 31; Minneola sab-sch. for Jumna high school. 21 23; Newtown sab-sch. 27 63; Oyster Bay. 30; Roslyn. 5 53; Springfield. 33; Y. P. S. C. E. 11; "a Pastor." 5. New York—New York 1st sab-sch. 46 23;—4th Avenue. 35 28;—5th Ave. 10217 78;—Adams Memorial. 9;—Alexander Chapel sab-sch. 15;—Allen Street Youth's Miss. Soc. 5;—Calvary Y. P. S. C. E. 12; Central. 506 60;—Covenant. 20;—East Harlem Y. P. S. C. E. 5;—Emmanuel Chapel. 20 77;—Harlem sab-sch. 29 67;—Mount Washington sab-sch. 9 45;—Rutgers Riverside. 3 15;—Scotch. 163; sab-sch. 120. Niagara—Albion. 60; Lyndonville Y. P. S. C. E. 1 25. North River—Cold Spring sab-sch. 21 70; Matteawan. 22 33; sab-sch. 30 98; Newburgh Calvary. 9 15; Poughkeepsie sab-sch. 53; Rondout sab-sch. 20 95; Smithfield "Cash." 50. Rochester—Brookport. 153 14; Mount Morris. 7 50; sab-sch. 12 24; Y. P. S. C. E. 29; Ogden. 11 79; Col. 15 64; Rochester 3d. 382 07;—Central. 350 00; sab-sch. 121 18;—Westminster sab-sch. 25;—Grace. 5; Sparta 1st. 56;—2d. 39 02; Victor. 25. St. Lawrence—Adams. 6; Cape Vincent. 12; Y. P. S. C. E. 10; Morristown Y. P. S. C. E. 30; Oswegatchie 2d sab-sch. 5 00; Plessis. 3; Sackett's Harbor. 5; Y. P. S. C. E. 11; Watertown 1st Y. P. S. C. E. 46 11. Steuben—Addison. 7 61; Arkport. 5 35; Canisteo sab-sch. 90; Cuba. 20 67; Hornellsville. 76 80; sab-sch. 24 51; Jasper. 9 30; Pultney. 6; Woodhull. 4 65. Syracuse—East Syracuse. 33; Y. P. S. C. E. 50; Fulton sab-sch. 35; Pompey sab-sch. 6 36; Syracuse 1st Ward. 13;—Memorial. 30; Chittenango. 37 59. Troy—Lansingburgh 1st. 100; Middle Grandville. 13 35; Salem sab-sch. 15; Troy Oakwood Avenue. 19;—Second Street. 1168 41;—Woodside. 180 93; sab-sch. 26 68. Ulster—Holland Patent. 61; Little Falls. 68; Rome sab-sch. 18 16; Ulster Bethany. 80 32; Verona. 31 42. Westchester—Darien. 10; Gilead. 20; Hugonot Memorial. 38; Mahopac Falls sab-sch. 15; Peekskill 1st. 130 22; Poundridge sab-sch. 2; Rye. 215; Sing Sing. 128; South East Centre. 18 43; sab-sch. 15; White Plains. 46 67; Yonkers 1st. 254 57;—Westminster. 137 66; Jun'r Y. P. S. C. E. 8. 37,562 78

NORTH DAKOTA.—Fargo—Edgeley. 3 80; Dorcas Aid Soc. 5 97; Fargo sab-sch. col. 7 51; Fullerton. 7 06; Hillsboro sab-sch. 10 83; Lisbon sab-sch. 35 cts.; sab-sch. 10 65; Monango. 76. Pembina—Devil's Lake. 2 48 93
OHIO.—Athens—Reverly. 20 50; sab-sch. 1; Bristol sab-sch. 5; Logan. 43 50; sab-sch. 14 00; New Plymouth. 10; Stockport. 5. Bellefontaine—Bellefontaine. 11 23; sab-sch. 9 35; sab-sch. 124 01; Upper Sandusky sab-sch. 1 60; West Liberty. 4 06. Chillicothe—Bloomington. 21 60; sab-sch. 10 95; Concord sab-sch. 1 35. Cincinnati—Avondale. 106 50; Bethel sab-sch. 3; Cincinnati Bethany. 65 69;—North sab-sch. 23; Clifton sab-sch. 7 88; College Hill. 54; Glendale sab-sch. 15 06; Hartwell. 10; "Interest on Baxter Bequest." 365 00. Cleveland—Cleveland 1st. salary of F. L. Jackson. 187 50;—1st Bolton Chapel. 44 54;—1st Stone Church sab-sch. 108 28;—Case Avenue sab-sch. 16 58;—Euclid Avenue. 529 55; sab-sch. 80;—C. 2d. 800; sab-sch. 111 95;—Woodland Avenue for J. J. Walsh. 12;—for salary of D. L. Gifford. 250;—Young Men's Fraternity. 150; Gullford. 13;—Wilson Avenue Y. P. S. C. E. 12 70; Willoughby sab-sch. 11 33. Columbus—Westerville. 8. Dayton—Bath. 2 00; sab-sch. 1 74; Bethel. 5; Dayton Wayne Avenue Y. P. S. C. E. 20; Osborn. 2; sab-sch. 2 31; Oxford "Friend." 25; South Charleston. 46 67. Huron—Huron. 16 10; sab-sch. 5 50; McCutcheonville. 4 00; Milan. 25; sab-sch. 5; Norwalk Y. P. S. C. E. 3 30. Lima—Delphos Y. P. S. C. E. 20; Findlay 1st. 107; Lima 1st. 25; Sidney sab-sch. 6 53; Van Wert sab-sch. 15 54. Mahoning—Poland sab-sch. 16 37; Vienna. 3 30; Youngstown 1st. 616 94. Marion—Chesterfield. 6 23; Marion Y.

P. S. C. E., 17. Maumee—Bowling Green, 36; Maumee Y. P. S. C. E., 19; Toledo 1st sab-sch, 29 25; West Bethesda, 50. Portsmouth—Eckmansville, 1 17; Georgetown sab-sch, * 4 31. St. Clairsville—Cambridge, 31 15; sab-sch, 5 39; Kirkwood sab-sch, 6 90; Short Creek sab-sch, * 5; Washington, 35. Steuersville—Brilliant sab-sch, * 9 50; Corinth sab-sch, 56; East Liverpool 1st sab-sch, 28; — 1st sab-sch, * 82 64; Irondale sab-sch, * 8 28; Madison, 15 50; New Hagerstown, 6 46; Potter Chapel, 4 23; Salineville sab-sch, * 4; Smithfield, 8; Steubenville 1st sab-sch, * 14 52; Unionport sab-sch, 8; Wellsville West End sab-sch, * 9 29. Wooster—Apple Creek, 5; sab-sch, 24; Ashland, 15 40; Doylestown, 7 50; Lexington, 17 73; Loudonville, 23; Mansfield sab-sch, 100; Millersburg, 7 65; Orrville, 5 50; Savannah sab-sch, * 15; Shelby, 6. Zanesville—Brownsville sab-sch, 20 70; Dresden, 2 66; Hanover, 1 75; Kirkersville, 6; Muskingum "M. C. O.", 25; West Carlisle, 5; Zanesville 1st sab-sch, * 18 86.

4,706 24

OREGON.—East Oregon—Umatilla, 15; Portland—Oregon City, 18; Y. P. S. C. E., 20; Portland Chinese, 4 40; — St. John's, 16 80; Sellwood, 5; sab-sch, 5; South Oregon—Roseburg sab-sch, 5. Willamette—Gervais, 2 70.

88 90

PENNSYLVANIA.—Allegheny—Allegheny School St. sab-sch, 15; Bellevue Y. P. S. C. E., 16 20; Cross Roads, 4; Y. P. S. C. E., * 3; Emsworth sab-sch, * 13 10; Fairmount, 10 40; Pleasant Hill, 4; Tarentum, 34 37. Blairsville—Salem, 24 75. Butler—Butler sab-sch, 25; Centerville, 22; Mount Nebo, 4 34; North Liberty sab-sch, 10 77; North Washington sab-sch, 7; Prospect, 6 64. Carlisle—Big Spring, 72 71; Bloomfield Y. P. S. C. E., 6 28; Burnt Cabins sab-sch, 1 25; Carlisle 1st Y. P. S. C. E., 15; Duncannon, 25; sab-sch, 21 10; Harrisburg Market Square sab-sch, * 80 67; Lower Path Valley, 2 50; sab-sch, 23 17; — sab-sch, * 14 50; Mechanicsburg, 17 22; sab-sch, 49 14; Mercersburg, 80; Middletown Y. P. S. C. E., 15; Shippensburg, 58 35; Silver Spring, 14; Lebanon 4th St. sab-sch, 5; Y. P. S. C. E., 6 10; Mt. Olivet, 10; J. W. Biddle Mem'l, 3 62. Chester—Bryn Mawr sab-sch, 75; East Whiteland sab-sch, * 11 17; — 2 38; Bethany, 13; Kennett Square sab-sch, 3 42; Wayne, 175; sab-sch, 48 06. Clarion—Academia, sab-sch, * 9; Beech Woods sab-sch, * 3 48; Brockwayville, 5 90; Clarion, 28 08; Cool Spring, 3; Emlenton sab-sch, 13 78; Greenville, 10 03; Licking, 11 78; Mount Tabor, 5; Richland, 2 85; Rockland, 3; Tionesta, 36. Erie—Belle Valley, 5; Bradford sab-sch, * 25 14; Erie Chestnut Street, 16 15; Fairfield, 8; Garland, 15 67; Girard, 14 18; — Miles Grove Branch, 3 61; Meadville 1st sab-sch, * 23 18; Oil City 1st, 63 19; Pittsfield, 13 09; sab-sch, 4 59; Tideoute, 68; Warren, 232 14; Wattsburg, 2 31; Cochranon sab-sch, 20 cts.; —, * 3 08. Huntingdon—Bedford, 30 00; Y. P. S. C. E., 8 50; Birmingham, * 11; Houtzdale, 9 90; Kylertown, 3; Lewistown Y. P. S. C. E., 25; Mount Union sab-sch, 30 58; Orbisonia, 9 83; sab-sch, 1 65; Osceola, 1; sab-sch Col., 12 85; Penfield, 7; sab-sch, 3; Petersburg, 18; Pine Grove sab-sch, 1 80; Sinking Creek sab-sch, 5 65; — Centre Hall, 3 33; Spruce Creek, 249 31; Tyrone, 86 79; Williamsburg, 61; sab-sch Col., 3; Winterburg, 2. Kittanning—Leechburg Col., 12; Marion sab-sch, 13. Lackawanna—Bennett, 3; Carbondale, 244 53; — sab-sch, 6 50; Dunmore, 5; Hawley, 11; Kingston Forty Fort sab-sch, * 34 70; Langcyeffe, 71; Montrose sab-sch, 74 16; Nicholson Y. P. S. C. E., 5; Pittston sab-sch, 116 22; Uniondale, 14; Theo. Waldron, Troy, Pa., 18; E. B. Sturges, Scranton, Pa., salary of Dr. Johnson, 200. Lehigh—Bangor sab-sch Ningpo, 25; Bethlehem 1st, 28 64; sab-sch Ningpo, 13 07; Easton 1st, 135; — Brainerd, 692 51; Hazleton sab-sch Ningpo, 28 05; Mauch Chunk, 51; Middle Smithfield sab-sch Ningpo, 3; — Y. P. S. C. E. Ningpo, 4; Pottsville 1st sab-sch Ningpo, 20 59; Y. P. S. C. E., 17 74; — 2d sab-sch, 6 65; — Y. P. S. C. E., 7 28; Reading 1st, 76; — Olivet sab-sch Ningpo, 5 81; South Easton, 13; Y. P. S. C. E., 10; Tamaqua sab-sch Ningpo, 10; Upper Mount Bethel sab-sch, 10. Northumberland—Bloomsburg, 290 69; Jersey Shore, 5; Mahoning, 115 04; Montoursville, 4 25; Renova sab-sch, 28; Watertown, 27 05; Williamsport 2d, 80 88; Mountain, 1. Philadelphia—Philadelphia 1st, 1 541 44; — 2d, 224; — 10th, 881; — Tabernacle, 461 77; — West Spruce Street salary of Dr. Nevius, 150; — West Spruce Street Y. P. S. C. E., 25; — West Spruce Street, 1 231 84; — Arch Street Y. P. S. C. E., 48; — Cohocksink, 301 80; — Corinthian Avenue Ger., 7; — Kensington 1st, 233; — Oxford, 49 18; Y. P. S. C. E., 50; — Princeton, 1 284 96. Philadelphia North—Carversville, 2 33; Conshohocken, 10 45; sab-sch, 2 55; Y. P. S. C. E., 1; Doylestown, 45 19; Y. P. S. C. E., * 10; Frankford Y. P. S. C. E., 3 31; Hermon, 75; Manayunk sab-sch, * 60; Port Kennedy, 3 85; Thomson Memorial New Hope Chapel sab-sch, 19 30; Overbrook sab-sch, 24 66. Pittsburgh—Bethel, 49 20; Cannonsburg 1st, 25 55; — Central, 24 50; Chartiers, 16 50; Long Island, 16 20; — H. Eckert, 100; Middletown, 23; Monongahela City sab-sch, 25; Pittsburgh 6th Y. P. S. C. E., 15; — Shady Side, 26; sab-sch, 67 50; — McCandless Avenue Morningside sab-sch, 4; Raccoon, 81 60; Wilkinsburgh, 218 19; Redstone—Dunbar, 51 00; sab-sch, 12; Little Redstone, 6 50; sab-sch, 5; McKeesport 1st Y. P. S. C. E., 10; "Friends," 10. Shenango—Mahoning sab-sch, 30; Mount Pleasant sab-sch, * 13; — New Gallies sab-sch, * 5 70; Rich Hill sab-sch, 4; Sharon, 17 75; Sharpsville, 6 50; Westfield sab-sch, 7; Moravia sab-sch, * 2 30; Neshaunock, 28. Washington—Claysville sab-sch, 61 04; Cove, 11 62; sab-sch, 21 67; Cross Creek, 15; Cross Roads sab-sch, 13 50; Forks of Wheeling, 100; Frankfort, 7 85; Limestone, 6 75; Lower Ten Mile, 16 61; Mount Prospect, 43 24; Three Springs, 10; Upper Ten Mile, 80; Washington 1st, 61 50; — Y. P. S. C. E., 100; — sab-sch, * 30; — 2d, 65 76; West Alexander sab-sch, * 11 55; Wheeling 1st, 264 92; "A. P.," 50; sab-sch, * 20; — 3d, 12; sab-sch, 6. Wellbore—Antrim, 5; Beecher Island sab-sch, 2; Coudersport sab-sch, * 3 30; Covington, 9; Knoxville, 2; sab-sch, 2; Wellbore, 22 88. Westminster—Centre sab-sch, * 13 48; Columbia, 47 45; Union sab-sch, 14 67; Wrightsville, 18; York 1st Y. P. S. C. E., 5.

13,705 09

SOUTH DAKOTA.—Black Hills—Edgemont, 1; White-wood, 12. Central Dakota—Brookings, 42 11; sab-sch, 3 30; Bethel, 2 05; Bancroft, 2 25; Colman, 1 10; Wentworth, 3; Woonsocket, 30 25. Dakota—Poplar Creek, 10. Southern Dakota—Parker Y. P. S. C. E., 6 05; Rosewell Y. P. S. C. E., 2 30.

115 41

TENNESSEE.—Holston—Mount Bethel, 19 81; Salem, 22. Kingston—Chattanooga 2d, 45 13; sab-sch, 4 30; — Y. P. S. C. E., 3 83. Union—Caledonia, 3; New Providence, 31 23.

129 30

TEXAS.—Austin—Austin 1st, 10; Fort Davis, 19; sab-sch, 9; Galveston German, St. Paul sab-sch, 2 75; Mason, 3; Sweden, 4; Voca, 2. North Texas—Seymour, 2 50; Throckmorton, 2 43; Wichita Falls, 10 75. Trinity—Dallas 2d, 21; sab-sch, 6 50; Terrell sab-sch, * 3 55.

100 50

UTAH.—Montana—Bozeman, 48 95; Deer Lodge, 58 40; Phillipsburg, 10 65; — sab-sch, 2 25. Utah—Box Elder Y. P. S. C. E., 5; Mount Pleasant sab-sch, * 2 50; Ordan 1st Y. P. S. C. E., 3 40; Salt Lake City 1st Y. P. S. C. E., 26 23; — Westminster, 9 70. Wood River—Boise City, 22 30; sab-sch, 7 80; — Y. P. S. C. E., 5; Franklin, 5.

218 10

WASHINGTON.—Alaska—Ft. Wrangell, 30. Olympia—Cosmopolis sab-sch, 2; Tenino, 2. Puget Sound—Enumclaw Calvary, 2; Fairhaven sab-sch, * 10 60; Sumner, 7 90.

61 50

WISCONSIN.—Chippewa—Ashland, 31 28; Eau Claire, 23. Madison—Cottage Grove, 5; Janesville 1st, 23 38; Kilbourne City, 5; Lodi, * 10 45; Poynette Y. P. S. C. E., 4 05. Milwaukee—Ottawa, 3 30; Waukesha sab-sch, 26; * 20. Winnebago—Florence, * 18 25; Neenah sab-sch, 21 64; Oconto French, 26 61; sab-sch, 29 84; Rural, 27; Shawano, 12 25; sab-sch, 4.

311 13

WOMAN'S BOARDS.

Woman's Boards of the North West, 11,080; Philadelphia, 4,375 01; South West, 1,067 70; New York, 9,000; Northern New York, 1,284 51; North Pacific, 432 83; Occidental Board, 141..... $37,321 10

LEGACIES.

Estate of William E. Dodge, dec'd, 5,000; Estate of H. A. Kerr, dec'd, 2,403 85; Estate of Mrs. Sarah A. French, dec'd, 200; Estate of Charles Wright, dec'd, 75; Estate of Agnes Holdship, dec'd, 475; Estate of Eliza J. Bradley, dec'd, 1,295; Estate of Jane Bartlett, dec'd, 200..... $3,649 85

MISCELLANEOUS.

Rev. R. Craighead, Meadville, Penna., 100; A. P. Logan, Bedford, Nova Scotia, 5; C. H. Chapin, 5; Mrs. M. Skey, Woodbridge, Cal., 5; G. W. Skey and wife, 5; G. J. Norcross, Monmouth, Ill., 8; Jeannie Wachter Saving Bank, 1 82; J. E. Beebe, Union City, Pa., 200; A. Believer in Missions, Pittsburgh, Pa., salary of G. A. Goeduhn, 200; J. B. Worth, Tallula, Ill., 1; Wilbur Union sab-sch children "Xmas" * 3; From friends in Chicago through E. D. Wheelock, support of W. L. Swallen, Korea, 74 75; J. W. Parks, South Haven, Kans., 25; "A friend, 1000; H. J. Petren, Chicago, support of two native helpers, China, 15; E. L. Abel, Brooklyn, 500; "F.

N. J., 75; Miss S. Paul, New York, 25; Rev. Chas. Jewett Collins, New York, 20; Rev. M. D. A. Steen, Woodbridge, Cal., 5; Maria Barrett, Aberdeen, South Dakota, 1; "Friend of Missions," Washington Co., N. Y., 23; Miss Rebecca Robinson, Holmesville, O., 1; Children of Waconda (Minn.), sab-sch, 5; Miss Ella Vickers, 5; W. H. Jeffers, D. D., L. L. D., Allegheny, Pa., 100; E. M. Chambers, Albion, Ind., 10; "From a Widow," 5; Walter C. Nelson, Chicago, support of W. L. Swallen, 75; Jno. S. Lyle, N. Y., 2,500; Rev. Wm. Sangree, Jamestown, N. D., 5; Miss Julia F. Cooke, support of J. M. Irwin, 25; "Cheerful Givers," Columbus, O., 10; Mrs. Nancy F. Blayney, 105; R. W. Kennedy, Oakville, North Dakota, 50; Rev. William Drummond, Stone Bank, Wis., 50 cents; Ellie T. Morris, Oneonta, N. Y., 10; Emma M. Morehouse, 10; Thank offering from a believer in Missions, 20; Rev. Sabin McKinney, Binghamton, N. Y., 100; Mrs. J. Livingston Taylor, Cleveland, O., 1.534; From a Believer in Missions, Pittsburgh, Pa., College Building, North China, 200; For work under Dr. Corbett, 100; Miss E. M. E., 10; Friends, 300; Cornelia U. Halsey, 100; Wm. Adriance, Poughkeepsie, N. Y., 10; A. A. Kinnard, Chicago, salary of W. L. Swallen, 18 75; Miss Jane Ten Eyck, Albany, N. Y., 5; Mrs. Henry J. Biddle, Philadelphia, 100; "C. B., San Marcos, Cal.," 35; Chas. Van Dune, Newark, N. J., Family Missionary Jug, 15; Wm. H. Tutthill, Hammond, Ind., salary of W. L. Swallen, 12 50; Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Porter, East Liverpool, O., scholarship, China, 23 75; A friend, 250; E. C. Ware, Chicago, support of W. L. Swallen, 18 75; E. D. Wheelock, Chicago, support of W. L. Swallen, 25; Rev. R. M. Sandford, East Aurora, N. Y., 12; Malone (N. Y.) Congregational sab-sch, 12 20; J. L. Rhea, Knoxville, Tenn., 10; Mrs. A. R. Edwards and daughters, 12; A friend, Terra Alta, West Va., 50; D. H. Wallace and sister, Pittsburgh, Pa., 500; M. W. Lyon, N. Y., 25; Mrs. Nevin, 2 51; Mrs. Helen C. Swift, Ypsilanti, Mich., salary of John Jolly, 300; Rev. H. H. Kellogg and wife, Havana, N. Y., 25; J. G. T. and friends, for Medallin Organ, 106; "Presbyterian," 50; "Birth Day Offering," 40; F. L. Schaub, Parsons, Kans., 2; Mrs. Charles Arbuthnot, 1,000; "A. E.," 100; Dr. Jaeger Co., through Dr. Wells, 2 75; E. Van Fossen, Adel, Ia., 10; Julia P. Wickes, Poughkeepsie, 10; "Personal," 10; Rev. J. M. Geisler, Ann Arbor, Mich., for Hospital, Fusan, Korea, 125; Mary

C. Whiting, Ann Arbor, Mich., Hospital, Fusan, Korea, 400; Mrs. C. G. Brownell, Detroit, Mich., Hospital Fusan, Korea, 75; S. E. D. and W. D. Anniversary Thank Offering, 50; Anna R. Maina, Rockvale, Col., itinerating work in Korea, 36; Cash, 60; "W. E. J.," 550; B. O. Williams, M. D., Martin's Ferry, O., 5; Home Friends, 100; Rev. E. P. Robinson, Orchard Park, N. Y., 20; Ellie T. Morris, Oneonta, N. Y., support of Native Preacher, 30; "B. Indiana," 5; Rev. W. M. Hunter, D. D., 1; E. B. Evans, Muldrow, Ind. Ty., 3; Pompey Congregational Church, 20; Mrs. M. D. Ward, Afton, N. J., 10; Major Calvin DeWitt, Fort Sam Houston, Texas, 25; C. C. Penna, 20; Rev. J. H. Edwards, N. Y., 10; Geo. W. Farr, Jr., Philadelphia, 50; Cash, 10; Rev. H. Kelgwin, Orlando, Fla., 10; V. D. Reed, Phila., 10; M. E. C., N. Y., for Korea, 10; John Sinclair, for work in Korea, 1000; "C. Penna," 22; "J. C. A.," 5; Rev. T. Williston, 2 50; A friend, 15; Capt. A. B. McGowan, U. S. A., 10; W. C. Nelson, Leoti, Kans., 50 cts.; Herald and Presbyter, 50 cts.; Miss Mollie Clements, Antonito, Col., 5; Mrs. C. A. Taylor, Ogden, Ills., 10; Mrs. H. B. Williams, 5; A. Steward, 5; Rev. R. Arthur, 5; A. D. Weaver, for work in Nanking, China, 1,000; Mrs. G. H. Cook, Red Wing, Minn., 20 11; Mrs. G. B. Smith, 1 75..... $14,429 14

Total receipts January during 1898..... 119,113 37
Total receipts from May 1st, 1892, to January 31, 1893..... 458,609 62
Total receipts from May 1st, 1891, to January 31, 1893..... 399,275 80

WILLIAM DULLES, JR.,
Treasurer.

58 5th Ave., New York.

NOTE I.—In December, 1892, acknowledgement the amount of $57 credited to Carlisle 1st Church, Presbytery of Carlisle, should be $41.

NOTE II.—Acknowledgement in December of $3 66 to Rev. H. P. McHenry, Oceanville, L. I., is transferred to credit of the Christian Hook Church.

NOTE III.—$30 from Minneapolis sab-sch in December has been transferred to credit of Woman's Board of the Northwest.

Columbian offerings designated Col.

* Christmas offerings.

RECEIPTS FOR THE BOARD OF CHURCH ERECTION, JANUARY, 1893.

ATLANTIC.—South Florida—Titusville, 10. 10
BALTIMORE.—Baltimore—Piney Creek, 6 87. New Castle—Fort Deposit, 9; Wilmington Rodney Street, 7 82.
Washington City—Washington Westminster, 20. 43 60
CALIFORNIA.—Los Angeles—Azusa, 11; Monrovia, 1 28;
Pomona, 20. 32 28
CATAWBA.—Cape Fear—Timothy Darling Miss, 2. 2
COLORADO.—Denver—Denver Central, 28 25, Gunnison
Pitkin, 4. 102 25
ILLINOIS.—Chicago—Austin, 12 82; Chicago Jefferson
Park, 20 22; River Forest, 1. Freeport—Belvidere 1st, 13; Elizabeth, 2; Freeport 1st, 25; —3d German, 4; Galena German, 3; Harvard, 2; Rock Run, 2 75; Woodstock and Queen Anne German, 2. Peoria—Princeville, 7 40. Rock
River—Aledo, 2 80. Schuyler—Augusta, 20; Kirkwood,
4; Monmouth, 15 68; Oquawka, 2. Springfield—Brush Creek, 3 45. 154 17
INDIANA.—Crawfordsville—Cayuga Eugene, 8; Delphi,
12 80. Fort Wayne—Decatur 1st, 18 16. Indianapolis—
Carpentersville, 2. New Albany—Seymour, 5 25. 57 81
INDIAN TERRITORY.—Choctaw—Bethel, 2. 2
IOWA.—Cedar Rapids—Mechanicsville, 6. Corning
—Corning 1st, 3 80, Des Moines—Derby, 1; Humeston,
3 64. Dubuque—Dubuque 1st, 23. Fort Dodge—Jefferson,
5; Lohrville, 4 50; Rolfe 2d, 4 10. Iowa—Burlington 1st, 16 68; Keokuk Westminster, 23 55; Middletown, 65 cts.
Sioux City—Sioux City 2d, 5 71; Storm Lake, 8 22.
Waterloo—East Friesland German, 10 64; Kamrar German, 5. 121 60
KANSAS.—Emporia—Clear Water, 3; Reece, 2. Highland—Bailleyville (including sab-sch 5), 10. Larned—

Great Bend, 7 28. Neosho—Carlisle, 22 cts.; Lake Creek, 4 50; Neodesha, 2; Pittsburgh, 13 05. Osborne—Phillipsburg 1st, 5; Smith Centre, 2. Topeka—Oak Hill, 5; Topeka 2d, 5. 61 75
KENTUCKY.—Ebenaser—Covington 1st, 20 25. Louisville—Louisville Central, 22 25. 22 50
MICHIGAN.—Detroit—Detroit Westminster, 28. Flint—
Chandler, 4; Croswell, 5 51; Port Huron, 2 50. Lansing
—Concord, 2. Petoskey—Petoskey 1st, 17 16. 59 27
MINNESOTA. Mankato—Beaver Creek 1st, 9 05; Madella,
13; Windom, 5. Minneapolis—Minneapolis 1st, 43 49;—
Stewart Memorial, 6 77. St. Cloud—Clara City Rheiderland German, 3. St. Paul—St. Paul Central, 26 70; White Bear, 1. 118 01
MISSOURI.—Kansas City—Drexel, 1 75. Ozark—Neosho,
5. Platte—Carrollton, 3; Hamilton, 10. 19 75
NEBRASKA.—Niobrara—Winnebago Indian, 1. Omaha
—Black Bird Hills, 3; Fremont 1st, 19 95. 28 95
NEW JERSEY.—Corisco—Gabeon, 5. Elizabeth—Elizabeth
1st, 78 85; Lamington 11; Pluckamin, 7 50; Roselle, 6 14.
Jersey City—Jersey City Claremont, 1. Monmouth—Burlington*, 1 50; Plumstead, 3. Morris and Orange—Orange Hillside, 129 30; Pleasant Valley German, 5;
Wyoming, 5. Newark—Newark 2d, 20 90; —3d, 170 90.
New Brunswick—Dayton, 4 20; Dutch Neck, 20. West Jersey—Camden 3d, 3; Cape Island, 26 73; Elmer, 2 50;
May's Landing, 4; Woodbury, 10 70. 516 23
NEW MEXICO.—Arizona—Sacaton 1st Pima, 2. 2
NEW YORK.—Albany—Albany State Street, 50 69; North-

*Under Ministry of Assembly, 1893.

ampton, 5 06; Saratoga Springs 2d, 9; West Galway, 2.
 Binghamton—McGrawville, 4 83. Boston—Antrim, 17 50;
 Portland 1st, 7 56; Woonsocket 1st, 1. Brooklyn—Brooklyn Bethany, 3. Buffalo—Buffalo Westminster, 29 45;
 Springfield, 3 34. Cayuga—Aurora, 22 11. Columbia—
 Ancram Lead Mines, 1 56; Catskill, 23 68. Hudson 1st, 50.
 Hudson—Nyack 1st, 18 86; Fallades, 10 cts., Ridgebury,
 58 cts. Lyons—Lyons, 27 50. Nassau—Islip, 6; Roslyn,
 2 87; Springfield, 5. New York—New York 1st, 366 20;—
 Adams Memorial, 5;—Brick, 609 56;—East Harlem, 10 62.
 Niagara—Albion, 18. North River—Newburgh Calvary,
 28 26. Rochester—Ogden, 1 64; Rochester Central, 50;—
 Westminster, 15. Steuben—Arkport, 1 42; Hornellsville
 1st, 12 50. Utica—Knoxboro, 7; Verona, 5 10. Westchester—Sing Sing, 40. 1,454 98
 NORTH DAKOTA.—Pembina—Park River, 15. 15
 OHIO.—Bellefontaine—Bellefontaine 1st, 2 72; West
 Liberty 1st, 98 cts. Cincinnati—Cincinnati 7th, 51 65;
 Loveland, 9 30. Cleveland—Cleveland 1st, Bolton Ave.
 Chap., 8 13;—Euclid Avenue, 128 88;—Willson Avenue,
 4. Dayton—Dayton 8d Street, 154. Huron—Chicago,
 18 29; Clyde, 5 05. Mahoning—Youngstown 1st, 86 63.
 Marion—Delaware, 22. Maumee—Antwerp, 2; Delta, 5.
 Steubenville—Scio, 4. Wooster—Apple Creek, 7; Shelby,
 2. 509 08
 PENNSYLVANIA.—Allegheny—Springdale, 4. Blairsville —Pleasant Grove, 5. Butler—Amity, 3. Carlisle—Harrisburg Olivet, 5 68;—Pine Street, 81. Clarion—Cool Spring, 2. Erie—Cool Spring, 3 18; Fairfield, 2; Greenville sab-sch, 6 08; Waterford Park, 2. Huntingdon—Bellefonte, 37; Houtzdale, 2 40; State College, 5 62.
 Lackawanna—Uniondale, 2. Lehigh—Mauch Chunk 1st,
 26 92; Shenandoah, 5. Northumberland—Mountain, 1;
 Williamsport 2d, 9 45. Philadelphia—Philadelphia 3d,
 30 47;—Hebron Memorial, 5 92;—Kensington 1st, 24;—
 McDowell Mem'l, 14 21. Philadelphia North—Wissinoming, 4. Pittsburgh—Chartiers, 4; Hazlewood, 10 46;
 Knoxville, 6; Pittsburgh 1st sab-sch, 9 92;—Shady Side (Incl. sab-sch. 23 50), 54 50. Redstone—Long Run, 12;
 Round Hill, 7. Washington—Lower Buffalo, 7; Upper Ten Mile, 5; Washington 1st, 30 75; Waynesburgh, 8.
 Wellboro—Wellboro, 5 54. Westminster—Columbia,
 18 18; Mount Joy, (Incl. sab-sch, 1 58), 13 58. 484 80
 SOUTH DAKOTA.—Black Hills—Edgemont, 1. Central Dakota—Artesion, 4; Forestburgh, 1 51; Huron, 18.
 Southern Dakota—Scotland, 7. 31 51
 TEXAS.—North Texas—Wichita Falls, 7 60. 7 60
 WASHINGTON.—Puget Sound—Sumner, 5. 5
 WISCONSIN.—Chippewa—Chippewa Falls 1st, 16 37.
 Madison—Poynette, 4 57. Milwaukee—Ottawa, 80 cts.
 21 74
 Total from churches and Sabbath-schools..... $3,919 13

OTHER CONTRIBUTIONS.

"W. R. J.," 150; "Cash," 500; John S. and Edw.
 Connett, heirs of Ebenezer Connett. Pittsfield, Ill., 100; "C.," Penna., 4; "A Friend," 5; Rev. J. G. Touzeau, Medellin, Rep de Columbia, S. A., 5; Miss Mollie Clements, Antonito, Colo., 5; Nathan A. Jameson, Antrim,
 N. H., 5; F. L. Janeway, N. Y., 300..... 1,074 00
 $4,993 13

MISCELLANEOUS.

Interest on investments.....	$3,042 41
Sales of church property.....	1,268 75
Sales of Book of Designs No. 5.....	1 75
Total loss recovered.....	300 00
Partial loss recovered.....	63 00
Premiums of insurance.....	546 52
Paid on church mortgages.....	501 03 4,723 47

SPECIAL DONATIONS.

NEW YORK.—Utica—Augusta, 10;
Booneville, 5; Clinton, 50; Holland
Patent, 20; Knoxboro, 10; Little Falls, 500; Lowville, 30; New Hartford, 25; N. Y. Mills, Wolcott Mem'l,
7; North Gage, 10; Norwich Corners,
5; Oneida, 100; Rome, 65 48; Sauquoit, 10; South Trenton, 5; Turin,
2 50; Utica 1st, 100;—Bethany, 100;
—Memorial, 50;—Olivet, 15;—
Westminster, 100; Verona, 20 68;
Waterville, 35; West Camden, 5;
Westernville, 10; Williamstown, 2 50	1,294 06

$11,010 66

Church collections and other contributions for
10 months, April, 1891, to January, 1892.....	$26,633 32
Church collections and other contributions for
10 months, April, 1892, to January, 1893.....	27,960 80

MANSE FUND.

IOWA.—Corning—Lenox.....	$ 2 25
KANSAS.—Larned—Great Bend.....	3 00
NEW YORK.—North River—Newburgh
Calvary.....	3 10
PENNSYLVANIA.—Westminster—Mount
Joy.....	5 00
Cash.....	5 00 18 35

MISCELLANEOUS.

Sale of Manse property, (on account).	15 00
Installments on loans.....	972 00
Interest.....	151 07
Premiums of insurance.....	15 00 1,184 07

$1,173 42

If acknowledgment of any remittance is not found in these reports, or if they are inaccurate in any item, prompt advice should be sent to the secretary of the Board, giving the number of the receipt held, or, in the absence of a receipt, the date, amount and form of remittance.

ADAM CAMPBELL, Treasurer,
 53 Fifth Avenue, New York.

—Paradoxes underlying the true conception of missions. 1. The true way to get is to give. Wise expenditure of a part means increase of the whole. Fullness of life comes only through the outgo of life for others. 2. The part is of greater practical importance than the whole. There is danger that while we love man we have no time to love men. We care for the type and forget the individual. If the kingdom is to come it is to come somewhere. The world must be saved in detail. 3. Addition is multiplication. Two are more than twice one. In all forthputting of spiritual energy arithmetical increase of numbers means geometrical increase of power. 4. The near is conditioned by the far. Increase at home comes from efforts to bring the world to Christ. Men who refuse to hear God's call for enlargement shut themselves up to mental and spiritual dry rot.—President Whiting of Colby University.

OFFICERS AND AGENCIES OF THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

THE CLERKS.

Stated Clerk and Treasurer—Rev. William H. Roberts, D.D., Lane Theological Seminary, Walnut Hills, Cincinnati, O.
Permanent Clerk—Rev. William E. Moore, D.D., Columbus, O.

THE TRUSTEES.

President—George Junkin, Esq.
Treasurer—Frank K. Hipple, 1340 Chestnut Street.
Recording Secretary—Jacob Wilson.
Office—Publication House, No. 1334 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

THE BOARDS.

1. HOME MISSIONS, SUSTENTATION.

Corresponding Secretaries—Rev. William C. Roberts, D.D., Rev. William Irvin, D.D., and Rev. Duncan J. McMillan, D.D.

Treasurer—Oliver D. Eaton.

Recording Secretary—Oscar E. Boyd.

Office—Presbyterian House, No. 53 Fifth Avenue, New York, N. Y.

Letters relating to missionary appointments and other operations of the Board should be addressed to the Corresponding Secretaries.

Letters relating to the pecuniary affairs of the Board, or containing remittances of money, should be sent to O. D. Eaton, Treasurer.

2. FOREIGN MISSIONS.

Secretary Emeritus—Rev. John C. Lowrie, D.D.

Corresponding Secretaries—Rev. Frank F. Ellinwood, D.D., Rev. Arthur Mitchell, D.D., and Rev. John Gillespie, D.D.

Assistant Secretary—Mr. Robert E. Speer.

Treasurer—William Dulles, Jr., Esq.

Field Secretary—Rev. Thomas Marshall, D.D., 48 McCormick Block, Chicago, Ill.

Office—Presbyterian House, No. 53 Fifth Avenue, New York, N. Y.

Letters relating to the missions or other operations of the Board should be addressed to the Secretaries. Letters relating to the pecuniary affairs of the Board, or containing remittances of money, should be sent to William Dulles, Jr., Esq., Treasurer.

Certificates of honorary membership are given on receipt of $30, and of honorary directorship on receipt of $100.

Persons sending packages for shipment to missionaries should state the contents and value. There are no specified days for shipping goods. Send packages to the Mission House as soon as they are ready. Address the Treasurer of the Board of Foreign Missions, No 53 Fifth Avenue, New York, N. Y.

The postage on letters to all our mission stations, except those in Mexico, is 5 cents per each half ounce or fraction thereof. Mexico, 2 cents per half ounce.

3. EDUCATION.

Corresponding Secretary—Rev. Daniel W. Poor, D.D.

Treasurer—Jacob Wilson.

Office—Publication House, No. 1334 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

4. PUBLICATION AND SABBATH-SCHOOL WORK.

Secretary—Rev. Elijah R. Craven, D. D.

Superintendent of Sabbath-school and Missionary Work—Rev. James A. Worden, D.D.

Editorial Superintendent—Rev. J. R. Miller, D.D.

Business Superintendent—John A. Black.

Treasurer—Rev. C. T. McMullin.

PUBLICATION HOUSE—No. 1334 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

Letters relative to the general interests of the Board, also all manuscripts offered for publication and communications relative thereto, excepting those for Sabbath-school Library books and the periodicals, should be addressed to the Rev. E. R. CRAVEN, D.D., Secretary.

Presbyterial Sabbath-school reports, letters relating to Sabbath-school and Missionary work, to grants of the Board's publications, to the appointment of Sabbath-school missionaries, and reports, orders and other communications of these missionaries, to the Rev. JAMES A. WORDEN, D.D., Superintendent of Sabbath-school and Missionary Work.

All manuscripts for Sabbath-school Library books, also all matter offered for the WESTMINSTER TRACTS and the other periodicals, and all letters concerning the same, to the Rev. J. R. MILLER, D.D., Editorial Superintendent.

Business correspondence and orders for books and periodicals, except from Sabbath-school mission aries, to JOHN A. BLACK, Business Superintendent.

Remittances of money and contributions to the Rev. C. T. McMULLIN, Treasurer.

5. CHURCH ERECTION.

Corresponding Secretary—Rev. Erskine N. White, D.D.

Treasurer—Adam Campbell.

Office—Presbyterian House, No. 53 Fifth Avenue, New York, N. Y.

6. MINISTERIAL RELIEF.

Corresponding Secretary—Rev. William C. Cattell, D. D.
Recording Secretary and Treasurer—Rev. William W. Heberton.
OFFICE—Publication House, No 1334 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

7. FREEDMEN.

President—
Office Secretary and Treasurer—Rev. J. T. Gibson.
Corresponding Secretary—Rev. Edward P. Cowan, D. D.
OFFICE—No. 516 Market Street, Pittsburgh, Pa.

8. AID FOR COLLEGES AND ACADEMIES.

Corresponding Secretary—Rev. Edward C. Ray, D. D.
Treasurer—Charles M. Charnley, P. O. Box 294, Chicago, Ill.
OFFICE—Room 28, Montauk Block, No. 115 Monroe Street, Chicago, Ill.

PERMANENT COMMITTEES.
COMMITTEE ON SYSTEMATIC BENEFICENCE.

Chairman—Rev. Rufus S. Green, D. D., Orange, N. J.
Secretary—Kiliaen Van Rensselaer, 56 Wall Street, New York, N. Y.

COMMITTEE ON TEMPERANCE.

Chairman—Rev. I. N. Hays, D. D., Allegheny, Pa.
Corresponding Secretary—Rev. John F. Hill, Room 818, Penn Building, Pittsburgh, Pa.
Treasurer—Rev. James Allison, D. D., Cor. Sixth Avenue and Wood Street, Pittsburgh, Pa.

PRESBYTERIAN HISTORICAL SOCIETY.

President—Rev. W. C. Cattell, D. D., Philadelphia.
Corresponding Secretary—Rev. W. L. Ledwith.
Treasurer—DeB. K. Ludwig, 8800 Locust Street, Philadelphia.
Library and Museum—1290 Race Street, Philadelphia.

TREASURERS OF SYNODICAL HOME MISSIONS AND SUSTENTATION.

New Jersey—Elmer Ewing Green, P. O. Box 183, Trenton, N. J.
New York—O. D. Eaton, 53 Fifth Avenue, New York, N. Y.
Pennsylvania—Frank K. Hipple, 1840 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa.
Baltimore—D. C. Ammidon, 31 South Frederick Street, Baltimore, Md.

BEQUESTS OR DEVISES.

In the preparation of Wills care should be taken to insert the Corporate Name, as known and recognised in the Courts of Law. Bequests or Devises for the General Assembly should be made to "The Trustees of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America."

Board of Home Missions,—to "The Board of Home Missions in the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, incorporated April 19, 1872, by Act of the Legislature of the State of New York."

Board of Foreign Missions,—to "The Board of Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America."

Board of Church Erection,—to "The Board of Church Erection Fund of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, incorporated Mar. 27, 1871, by the Legislature of the State of New York."

Board of Publication and Sabbath-school Work, to "The Trustees of the Presbyterian Board of Publication and Sabbath-school Work."

Board of Education,—to "The Board of Education of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America."

Board of Relief,—to "The Presbyterian Board of Relief for Disabled Ministers and the Widows and Orphans of Deceased Ministers."

Board for Freedmen,—to "The Board of Missions for Freedmen of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America."

Board of Aid for Colleges,—to "The Presbyterian Board of Aid for Colleges and Academies."

Sustentation is not incorporated. Bequests or Devises intended for this object should be made to "The Board of Home Missions of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, incorporated April 19, 1872, by Act of the Legislature of the State of New York, for Sustentation."

N.B.—Real Estate devised by will should be carefully described.

151
156
Vol. 13.

No. 77.

THE CHURCH AT HOME AND ABROAD.

PUBLISHED MONTHLY BY ORDER OF
THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF THE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH
IN THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA.

MAY, 1893.

EDITOR:

HENRY A. NELSON, D.D.

EDITORIAL CORRESPONDENTS:

D. J. McMILLAN, D.D.,
For Home Missions.

JOHN GILLESPIE, D.D.,
For Foreign Missions.

DANIEL W. POOR, D.D.,
For Ministerial Education.

ELIJAH R. CRAVEN, D.D.,
For Publication and S. S. Work.

ERSKINE N. WHITE, D.D.,
For Church Erection.

WILLIAM C. CATTELL, D.D.,
For Ministerial Relief.

EDWARD P. COWAN, D.D.,
For Missions to Freedmen.

EDWARD C. RAY, D.D.,
For Colleges and Academies.

BUSINESS SUPERINTENDENT, JOHN A. BLACK.

 Remittances by Draft or Postal Order and all business correspondence should be addressed to the Business Superintendent—not to the Editor.

PRESBYTERIAN BOARD OF PUBLICATION
AND SABBATH-SCHOOL WORK,
No. 1334 CHESTNUT STREET,
PHILADELPHIA, PA.

When answering an advertisement, our readers will help the magazine and the advertiser by mentioning THE CHURCH AT HOME AND ABROAD. For advertising space, address RICHARD S. DEY, 150 Nassau Street, New York.

LINCOLN UNIVERSITY

Our 30th Academical year began in September with larger classes than ever.

A new Hall for Instruction was completed in the summer vacation. It has 17 ample rooms, well finished and furnished. It is built and equipped without debt. Hard by stands our new and beautiful chapel, the generous gift of a lady friend.

The College and Theological Faculties, with their Nine Professors, are provided for, insufficiently indeed, but there is no appeal for more.

The liberal bequests recently received have been spent on the foundations of this work, to enlarge and strengthen them. But now the wheels of our progress are blocked. We can build nothing on our new foundations till you give us a new dormitory for the many approved candidates waiting to enter the classes. Our most earnest appeal to you is for this ($20,000).

This burden we carry is too heavy without your help. Make provision for the support of these young men, $130 a year, or its equivalent—the interest of a permanent endowment of $2,000 or $2,500.

In making bequests, note that our corporate title is "LINCOLN UNIVERSITY," in Chester County, Pa.

Rev. A. T. Rankin, D.D., Greensburg, Ind., is our Western Agent. Rev. W. P. White, Germantown, Penn'a, is Assistant Secretary; Rev. Edward Webb, Oxford, Penn'a, is Financial Secretary, L. U.; to whom your gifts may be sent and your inquiries addressed.

W. R. BINGHAM, Pres't B'd Trustees, L. U.

SCOTIA SEMINARY.

A High School for colored girls under the care of the Board for Freedmen and the Women's Ex. Committee for Home Missions of the Presbyterian Church. Incorporated under the laws of North Carolina. Legal name "The Scotia Seminary," Concord, N. C. The final title to all property is vested by the charter in the Board for Freedmen.

Donations solicited to a permanent fund which will provide for the salaries of the teachers and supply scholarships and thus relieve the treasury of the Board.

D. J. SATTERFIELD, President.

PENNSYLVANIA, Chambersburg.

WILSON COLLEGE FOR YOUNG WOMEN.

Fifty miles southwest of Harrisburg, in famous Cumberland Valley. Border climate, avoiding bleak north. $250 per year for board, room, etc., and all College Studies. Handsome Park, Large Buildings, Steam Heat, Gymnasium, Observatory, Laboratory, etc. Endorsed by Pennsylvania Synod, Baltimore Synod and Presbytery, Presbytery of Carlisle, etc.

THE YOUNG LADIES' SEMINARY.

FREEHOLD, NEW JERSEY.

Thorough Course of English and Classical Studies with French, German, Art and Music. Well-ordered, cheerful life, home-like care for pupils. Next year opens September 13th, 1893.

Principal, MISS EUNICE D. SEWALL.

Brady's Portrait Museum.

Commissioners to the General Assembly in Washington, D. C., and their friends, are invited to view Mr. M. B. Brady's Museum of Historic Photography, at the corner of Pennsylvania Avenue and 13th Street, N. W. This collection of portraits of noted men and women of the last forty years is unique, and unequalled anywhere. A delightful and profitable hour may be spent here, and many pleasing surprises will reward the visitor.

READ. Do WRITE RIGHT

AWAY TO
HORACE B. MARTIN,
CARTHAGE, MISSOURI
INVESTMENTS IN LEAD AND ZINC LANDS, MINES,
STOCKS AND SECURITIES.
THE BEST REAL ESTATE PAPER ON THE MARKET
FOR SALE.

THE MENEELY BELLS that have been known to the public since 1828.

Meneely & Co.,
West Troy, N. Y.

Church, Chapel and other BELLS; also Chimes and Peals. Thousands of references. Price of bells and fixtures with freight prepaid or delivered to steamer in New York, on application. Catalogues free.

Clinton H. Meneely Bell Co.
Manufacture TROY, N. Y.
SUPERIOR CHURCH BELLS

Please mention this Magazine.

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY,
CINCINNATI, O., U. S. A.
Best Grade Pure Copper and Tin
CHURCH BELLS, PEALS AND CHIMES.
Best Wheel and Rotary Yoke Bearings.
Price & Terms free. Name this Journal.

CINCINNATI BELL FOUNDRY
CINCINNATI, OHIO.
SOLE MAKERS OF THE BYMYER BELLS
FOR CHURCH, SCHOOL, FIRE ALARM &c.
Catalogue with 2500 testimonials. Prices and terms FREE.

LANTERN VIEWS OF Home and Foreign Missions.

Send for descriptive circular.

REV. JAMES CARTER,
Williamsport, Pa.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LIBRARY RECORDS

Have been a vexation, but may be a pleasure.

BISBEE'S LIBRARY RECORD.—the latest and best system in use,—saves annoyance and makes accuracy not only possible but easily attainable. Send for sample sheets.

L. W. BISBEE, P. O. Box 72, Lowell, Mass.

For Pleasure

or Profit.

CRITERION AND PARABOLON MAGIC LANTERNS, and Stereopticons, OIL, LIME, OR ELECTRIC LIGHT, made by us, are simply perfect for PUBLIC or PRIVATE use. So are our SLIDES. We can fill the bill from A to Z in apparatus, Views and Accessories. Catalogues FREE. Mention this publication.

J. B. Colt & Co. 16 Reckman St., NEW YORK. 189 La Salle St., CHICAGO, ILL.

THE CHURCH AT HOME AND ABROAD.

MAY, 1893.

CONTENTS.

The True Light,	385
Martyrs,	386
System in Giving,	386
An Evangelistic Tour in Japan, G. W. Knox, D. D. ,	387
Work Among Feeble Churches, Rev. P. W. Taylor ,	340
The Indian Problem, Rev. J. Edwards ,	341
Two Faithful Laborers Early Called Home, Rev. W. S. Nelson ,	343
Glaciers of Alaska, Prof. G. F. Wright ,	344
A Curious Bit of History, H. N. Payne, D. D. ,	346
Visit to Reformed Spanish Church, Rev. A. Robertson ,	347

FOREIGN MISSIONS.

Notes. —Financial Statement—Day of Self-denial and Prayer—Interesting Incidents—Transfer of Indian Missions to Board of Home Missions—Shantung Mission on Respect for Chinese Prejudices—Generosity of Chinese Converts—Missionary Calendar,	350-352
Concert of Prayer. —Siam and Laos Missions—Divine Call to Presbyterian Church—Laos Appeal—Outlook from Chieng-Mai, Relief for the Starving at Lakawn—First Report from Lapoon—Encouraging Year in Siam—Return of Mr. and Mrs. Dunlap,	353-361
Letters. —Africa, Rev. W. C. Gault —India, Rev. K. C. Chatterjee , Mrs. J. M. Alexander —Siam, Rev. J. A. Eakin —Persia, Mrs. J. L. Potter —Japan, D. B. McCartee, M. D. ,	361-364

HOME MISSIONS.

Notes. —Unity in Christian Work—Revivals in Mission Fields—Cold Weather in Florida—Self-Support in Woonsocket, S. D.—Quaint English—Utah Schools—Mormon Propaganda in New Mexico—Indian Missions Becoming Home Missions—Death of Mr. John Taylor Johnston,	365-367
Home Missions, A Sermon, by C. Herr, D. D. ,	367-371
Concert of Prayer. —The Mormons,	371-373
Letters. —Alaska, Rev. A. E. Austin —Nebraska, T. L. Sexton, D. D. , S. M. —Utah, Idaho, Montana, S. E. Wishard, D. D. —Utah, Rev. N. E. Clemenson , Rev. Josiah McClain , Rev. W. R. Campbell —Montana, Rev. J. F. Lynn —Washington, Rev. Wm. Riding —California, Rev. E. R. Mills —New Mexico, Rev. W. Williams —Kansas, Rev. J. C. Sefton —South Dakota, Rev. M. N. Adams —North Carolina, Rev. F. M. Fox ,	373-380

COLLEGES AND ACADEMIES. —One Example—Bellevue College—Small Colleges	381-382
EDUCATION. —Board of Education,	383-385
FREEDMEN. —The Year 1892-3, Rev. J. T. Gibson —Women's Work for Freedmen, D. J. Satterfield, D. D. ,	385-387
PUBLICATION AND SABBATH-SCHOOL WORK. —Recent Publications—Death of Prof. Tipton—Free Library—To Whom it May Concern,	387-389
TEMPERANCE. —A Clean Spot Kept Clean—Happy North Dakota,	390-392
CHILDREN'S CHURCH AT HOME AND ABROAD. —Mackay of Uganda—Seeds and Flowers—Moressa Khanun,	392-394
GLEANINGS AT HOME AND ABROAD,	395-398
THOUGHTS ON SABBATH-SCHOOL LESSONS,	398-399
YOUNG PEOPLE'S CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR. —The Student Volunteer Movement and Christian Endeavor—Christian Endeavor and Missions—The Student Volunteer,	399-401
MINISTERIAL NECROLOGY AND BOOK NOTICES,	401-402

THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY'S COMMITTEE.

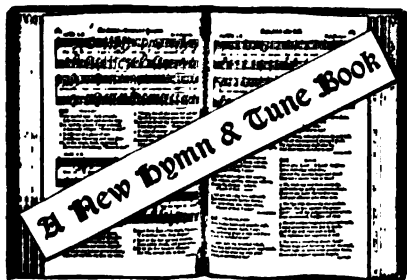

JOHN S. MACINTOSH, D. D., CHAIRMAN,
2021 Delancey Place, Philadelphia, Pa.

CHARLES A. DICKEY, D. D.,
ANSON D. F. RANDOLPH, Esq.,
WARNER VAN NORDEN, Esq.,
HON. ROBERT N. WILLSON,
JOHN H. DEY, Esq.,

STEALY B. ROSSITER, D. D.,
REV. HENRY T. MCÉWEN,
STEPHEN W. DANA, D. D.,
CHARLES L. THOMPSON, D. D.,
F. F. ELLINWOOD, D. D.

WILLIAM C. ROBERTS, D. D.

The price of the CHURCH AT HOME AND ABROAD is ONE DOLLAR per year, payable in advance. No new subscription is received without the payment of one dollar accompanying it. But subscriptions, not accompanied with directions to discontinue at the end of the time paid for, will be continued and bills will be sent to remind the subscriber that another payment is due.

THE LATEST and so containing the very choicest of the newer hymns and tunes as well as everything that has stood the test of time and use.

THE MOST COMPREHENSIVE, affording the greatest possible variety of hymns under all the different subjects, and including many new hymns of marked spirituality and poetic beauty.

THE MOST PRACTICAL book for congregational singing ever put forth. Nearly all its tunes are marked by a characteristic melody, and can be heartily sung by the average congregation. Each opening presents a choice of from two to four tunes of the same meter.

A POPULAR SELECTION. More than half of its hymns and tunes are thoroughly familiar. While a high standard has been maintained, the melodic character of the new tunes makes them easily learned.

THE MOST BEAUTIFUL in its mechanical construction. All the type used is new, and some of it was made especially for this book.

THE POCKET EDITION, a perfect fac-simile of the large book, with complete indexes. It is no larger than the ordinary hymn edition, but the tunes are included as well as the hymns.

THE LATEST AND BEST

THE NEW LAUDES DOMINI

EDITED BY THE
REV. CHAS. S. ROBINSON, D.D.

Second Edition (25,000) nearly exhausted

Third Edition (25,000) now on the press

Among the many churches that have recently adopted this book are the following: First Presbyterian, Rome, N.Y.; New York Presbyterian, New York, N.Y.; Centre Presbyterian, Crawfordsville, Ind.; First Presbyterian, Indianapolis, Ind.; First Presbyterian, Los Angeles, Cal.; Central Presbyterian, Washington, D.C.; First Presbyterian, Ashland, Ohio; Central Presbyterian, Allegheny, Pa.; Union Park and New England Congregational, Chicago, Ill.; Second Presbyterian, Louisville, Ky.; First Presbyterian, Grand Island, Neb.; West Hope Presbyterian, Philadelphia, Pa.

Returnable sample copies of the NEW LAUDES DOMINI sent free for examination to pastors and music committees. Descriptive circulars of Prayer-meeting and Sunday-school Books on request.

THE CENTURY CO.,
PUBLISHERS: 33 EAST 17TH ST.; NEW YORK

THE CHURCH

AT HOME AND ABROAD.

MAY, 1893.

THE TRUE LIGHT.

"There was the true light, even the light which lighteth every man, coming into the world." So our Revised version gives us an early sentence of the Gospel according to John. Not quite sure that this gives the inspired idea most perfectly, the framers of the version put into the margin, as an alternative reading, "The true light, which lighteth every man, was coming into the world."

It is quite impossible to decide grammatically whether the participle "coming" belongs to "the true light" or to "every man." In favor of the former interpretation is the fact that he who is here called "the true light" is often spoken of as coming into the world, and this is not a phrase which is apt to be applied to every man. No important matter depends upon our being able to settle that grammatical question. Take it either way, and you have the broad general affirmation that Christ, the true light, does give to mankind a wide, a universal illumination.

Taking this sentence in connection with the whole passage in which we find it, we are clearly taught that he who was in the beginning the divine Word, has always been in the world, the life and the light of men. His incarnation, being born of the Virgin, was a coming into the world, in a new, clearer, fuller manifestation to men.

Some of the most attentive and thoughtful readers of God's word ask whether we are to lay stress upon the phrase "every man"—whether it is indeed true that any rays of this light do in fact reach every human being, or whether we are to take the phrase in a looser sense, denoting only a wide and general, but not a strictly universal illumination. Is it, indeed, true that, dark as paganism and Buddhism and Mohammedanism still are, every Mohammedan, every Buddhist and every pagan of them all has a little light, for use of which he is responsible, which he would not have if Christ, the true light, had not come into the world? We do not affirm that, nor deny it. But this is clearly made known to us: the true light is able to enlighten every human being upon whom it has opportunity to shine, and it is our business to make it shine upon as many as we can, in our homes, in our land, and in all the world.

Is it wise—is it kind—is it Christlike—to be spending any time or strength in speculation as to what chance there may be for any to whom the Gospel is never made known in their earthly lifetime? Is it not better to devote all that strength and all that time to earnest and persevering endeavor to make the sure Gospel of salvation known to as many as we can?

MARTYRS.

A martyr is really nothing else than a witness, so honest, so faithful, so true, that he will give his testimony and stick to it, if it costs him his life. In the proper and strict sense of the word martyrs are not those witnesses only who actually die for their testimony, but all who would die sooner than be untruthful or unfaithful. There are a "noble army of martyrs" for Christ living in this world to-day. Not a few of these are bearing witness for him at harder cost than to lay down their lives. In their hearts they feel that to do that—to depart and be with Christ—would be far better than to live on under what they are suffering. Can any one who has read in our pages the record of Mirza Ibrahim's persecution, still continuing in his cruel imprisonment in Persia, doubt that death would be a happy release for him? Nevertheless we have not learned of one murmur of impatience from him, nor of any unwillingness still to suffer for his Lord.

These patient souls—all Christ's witnesses—may well be comforted and strengthened by the recollection in what high esteem our Lord himself held his office of witness-bearing. "To this end was I born"—so he solemnly declared to Pontius Pilate—"and for this cause came I into this world, that I should bear witness unto the truth." Nor is there among all the glories of the Apocalypse a more honoring designation given to him than this, "the AMEN, the faithful and true WITNESS." So it ever is. Our loving reverence exalts him to heights of honor to which we ourselves would not dare to aspire. His generous love is "not ashamed to call us brethren." We worship him by "a name that is above every name." He loves to call us by names which are properly his own and by which he calls himself. He calls us his witnesses, and expects each of us, by his grace and Spirit to be, even as he is, "a faithful and true witness."

SYSTEM IN GIVING.

The energetic young pastor of a suburban church said to us the other day: "I can give you an illustration of how systematic giving works."

In our church on the Monday following each annual contribution, I announce the amount from the pulpit. This year the contribution for Foreign Missions was $25 larger than last year. After the service a gentleman called my attention to this advance as very gratifying. "Yes," I replied, "it is gratifying and unlike some gratifying things, it is easily accounted for." "How is that?" he asked. "In this way," I answered. "At the beginning of the year Mr. L. (an elder) and I determined to give systematically a certain definite percentage of our incomes to benevolent purposes. The percentage did not seem to be large, but it worked out so that I added $10 to my Foreign Missionary contribution and Mr. L.

added $15 to his and that makes precisely the $25 advance credited to the entire congregation."

Who can doubt that the increase in this contribution would have been vastly greater had all the members of the congregation adopted the same plan.

The fact is that but one thing is needed to relieve all of our Boards from debt and enable them instantly to enlarge greatly their work, and that one thing is system in giving. System enough upon the part of pastors to learn at least that every congregation had the opportunity of giving something however small. System enough upon the part of individual Christians so that the question was at least raised, should I not do my part however insignificant in this advancing work?

System in giving makes giving easy. Expenses usually press so close upon income that upon any particular day when a contribution is asked we are apt to find it just the day when the personal treasury is depleted too far to risk another draft upon it. Yet we pay without difficulty other demands. Why? Simply because if at all prudent and conscientious we have, in making up our yearly budget, made provision for the ordinary necessary expenses of daily life. It would be equally easy to give if we had made allowance for such demand in the budget at the beginning of the year. One of the most liberal and cheerful givers that we ever knew told us that his giving never gave him the slightest anxiety beyond the responsibility of deciding in what direction the money should go. He set apart one-tenth of his income as a separate fund for benevolent purposes and simply kept a regular debit and credit account with the fund as if he were treasurer for some one else.

The number of persons is already large and constantly increasing, who pursue such a method and are happy in its results. Whether they thus set apart one tenth of their income, or some other proportion; whether they regard the O. T. prescription as still binding or, taking it for a starting point, vary from it as prosperity enables and gratitude prompts—it helps them wonderfully to have a fixed and definite rule to be simply and faithfully followed. Such system in giving does surely make giving easy—makes it a sober certainty of joy.

AN EVANGELISTIC TOUR IN JAPAN.

GEORGE WILLIAM KNOX, D. D.

Tosa is a province in Shikoku, the smallest of the four large islands of Japan. It faces the ocean east and south, and high mountains separate it from all neighbors west and north. Its hills are crowned by the ruins of the castles of petty barons, who long kept up a robber strife, the warlike peasantry which tilled the plains aiding now this one and then that, as suited safety or profit. To this remote and isolated region came outlaws across the mountains, adding their strain of fierce blood to the race. Even centuries of peace have not eradicated the peculiarities of the men of Tosa, who pride themselves upon their strength, independence, frankness and love of liberty; and the province is still thought the most turbulent in Japan.

In 1867-68 Tosa united with Choshu and Satsuma, in the far west and south, and the league of the three clans overthrew the Shogun, restored the Emperor, abolished feudalism, introduced the new civilization and learning, and divided the spoils. But soon the victors quarrelled and Tosa withdrew from the league and became its most redoubtable opponent. It has stood in the front of the great struggle for constitutional and representative government, and after long years of agitation is at last on the eve of victory.

In 1884 Mr. (now Count) Itagaki, the head of the Liberal party, invited missionaries of the Reformed and Presbyterian Churches to visit Tosa. He sought the aid of Christianity in his work of elevating and educating the people. He asked merchants, bankers and politicians to meet the missionaries; was present at the public gatherings and advocated the adoption of Christianity in addresses. He urged his friends and associates to study it, and did all in his power to aid, except to adopt it for himself.

The effort was successful. Some of the leading men became Christians, and a church was soon organized in Kochi, the provincial capital. It was self-supporting from the start, and after a few years numbered six hundred members; and groups of believers were formed in other towns and villages.

When the missionaries of the Southern Presbyterian Church came to Japan they were asked to enter this field, and for seven years they have labored faithfully as friends and counsellors.

For a year or two past Tosa has felt the prevailing listlessness, and the work has lagged. But last summer the session detected signs of revival, and in November asked Synod for aid. Synod responded and, with the help of the missions, a vigorous evangelistic campaign has been inaugurated.

Dr. Verbeck, of the Reformed Church mission, went directly from Synod and visited the chief towns and villages. The session marked out his programme and arranged his meetings. He was everywhere welcomed, and his addresses made a deep impression.

Towards the close of December, other missionaries, with Japanese clergymen and six young evangelists followed. The evangelists were to work for a year at least, and were placed in the most promising towns and villages. The missionaries and preachers were to arouse the people in the different localities, to meet the men of intelligence, and thus prepare the way for effective work by the evangelists. The session of the Church was to bring its influence to bear, sending letters of introduction, gathering together groups of influential men, and superintending the work after the departure of the special delegation from Tokyo and Kobe.

Funds were provided by the missions, by special contributions of Christians in Tokyo and Osaka, and by the local congregation.

The plan of campaign was wholly Japanese. The elders and deacons decided the routes to be followed, the towns to be occupied, and the methods to be employed. After Dr. Verbeck's vigorous campaign, the greater part of the actual labor, the preaching and teaching, was also done by the Japanese.

The elders are exceptionally fitted to lead in such a work. By birth, education, reputation and ability they are first among their countrymen. They were baptized only eight years ago and call no man master, but seek to prove all things for themselves. They study the Bible with open eyes and hearts, and have found their way into the heart of evangelical truth. Their theology is their own, and it rests upon the word of God and their Christian experience. Three of them were imprisoned several years ago for alleged political offences, with so little injury to their reputations that two went from the prison to prominent places in the Imperial Diet. The imprisonment was a grievous trial to body and soul, but they read the Bible and were taught of the Spirit. Like a special revelation, the words, "Man shall not live by bread alone," shone into their hearts and they glorified God in their bonds. They prayed and sang hymns, and led certain of their fellow prisoners to Christ. They grew in grace day by day, and in the knowledge of the Lord. And the church was constant in prayer for its absent leaders, and participated in their blessings. Men who have studied in such a school, who have tasted and seen that the Lord is good, and have learned in great affliction that His mercy endureth forever, may have lessons for the missionary as deep and rich as any he has learned in school or seminary. Wise must he be indeed if he has not as much to learn as to impart.

Beautiful for situation is Tosa, with its rivers, hills and sea, its roses and oranges on bush and tree in late December, its valleys and plains made into a garden by the industrious and prosperous peasantry, and its high mountains terraced to the very tops. Every prospect pleases,—must we add that only man is vile? What does lie beneath the smiling surface? What is the real life of the people? Of what do they think, and what are their hopes and fears?

For days we talked with them by the wayside and in the inns; we met with little companies in hospitable houses, and saw inquirers many; and everywhere strove to find answers to our questions, that we might not beat the air, but adapt our message to the need and speak to the hearts and minds of living men.

As in water face answereth to face, so the heart of man to man. The people are "vile" only in the sense the epithet applies to me and you and all mankind. Their answers might have come from the multitudes in America or from the Gentiles of long ago. For in far away Tosa these Orientals ask "What shall we eat, and what shall we drink and where withal shall we be clothed?" They talk of crops and weather and the price of grain and food, the petty gossip of the neighborhood, the small details that make up four-fifths of life. "Nothing else?" "Little else; now and then a frolic or a feast." "But of higher things, of religion, God?" "We do not think of them. Religion we have none. Buddhism is gone, there are scarcely any temples left. Shinto is but a form of ceremonies, and Confucianism belongs with the old system that has forever passed away. We do not think of death, save when we must." "What of morality?" "The strict old order with its place for every one and everything is gone. It held men within bounds and permitted no deviation. Now there is license and the old men grieve. The jails are full and society is corrupt." "But is there nothing beyond daily work and bread?" "Yes, politics. The new strife has awakened many from their insensibility, called forth a wider interest, necessitated a certain intelligence and arouses a new hope. But the strife has been too vehement. In the last election many lives were lost and people begin to think that after all salvation will not come through the new government. They even begin to doubt whether the end may not be worse than the beginning."

Here and there an individual has a different story. In one town was an old man who received the tidings of God's love with joy, having sought for Him and found Him not. In a village a father mourned the loss of his child and eagerly desired some word of a life beyond the grave and in almost every neighborhood were little groups of seekers after truth.

Our Japanese brethren spake with point and force: "Some of you say you are atheists, and you pride yourselves upon your intelligence and influence, but there is an unconscious Theism in atheism itself. You acknowledge a Power not yourselves that guides and shapes your lives. You call it 'Heaven,' 'Fate,' 'Chance.' It is with you from birth until death and hovers around you like the atmosphere. It embraces all things and none escapes it. You admit its presence, fear it, submit to it. What is it? Not mechanical force, surely, else were it less than man while it controls him. It is not less than man but more than man, higher than man and all things. Whom you in ignorance fear, Him declare we unto you." "You boast that you have no religion, and need none; while still you say, It is well enough for women, children and the lower classes. What pride and contempt are mingled in such words! Are women, children and the lower classes of different nature from yourselves that you toss them what you will not take? And is it true that religion is not for you? Is there no instinct of worship, no reverence and awe for the invisible within your hearts, no desire for a satisfaction the world can never give? Your own hearts bear witness to the Father who will never give His children stones for bread. You are not content: the world does not satisfy you! Ennui, disgust, hatred of life and self possess you. You seek new pleasures and new pursuits and clutch at outward things as drowning men at straws and do not know that your very wants testify to a water and bread of life which if a man accept he shall hunger and thirst no more forever." "Have sky and sea and hills, sunrise and sunset, all the glories of nature no message for you? Shall your eyes ever be on the ground with no thought beyond daily food and raiment. Even in the temples the prayers are all for self, for gain, success, health, for friends and relatives. There is nothing resembling the Christian's prayer, 'Our Father who art in Heaven, hallowed be Thy name; Thy kingdom come, Thy will be done.' Certainly he also prays, 'Give us this day our daily bread,' but the great thought is our Father and His kingdom and we are lifted away from self, up to God and out to our fellowmen." "You are interested in politics and eager for the regeneration of Japan and say, you do not care so much for a future salvation for your own souls as for a present salvation for your fellowmen. Christianity seems too individualistic and almost selfish. Well, individualistic it is, but the salvation of self is for the sake of others; it never terminates in one's own happiness. We preach a kingdom of Heaven but it is now in the midst of you. We preach eternal life, and the life that now is as its beginning. It is not the future or the present, but the future and the present: not the individual or the nation, but the nation through the individual: not a selfish salvation for self alone, but a reformation of the self into the image of Christ who freely gave himself for the salvation of the world. Not by state craft or by machinery, but by the regeneration of the individuals that comprise the people would we save the empire."

And the same preacher in the church, to the company of the believers, went on from the rudiments to the deep things of God as he expounded the text, "When he ascended on high he led captivity captive and gave gifts unto men."

REFLECTIONS.

However favorably we view the non-Christian religions and however ready to acknowledge the truth they teach, the fact remains that in Tosa the choice is between Christianity and no religion at all. The hope for the world to come, the elevation of man's spiritual nature now and the cause of good morals all are bound up with Christianity, and if it fails no alternative remains.

Moreover the needs of the people are precisely our own, and on the whole, the obstacles that keep the soul from Christ are not different in Tosa and in America. God is equally near his children and equally welcomes all who turn to him; and there is no difference.

Watching the Church develop, noting its vigorous life, observing how its leaders find their own way from truth to truth and gain constantly in the depth of their religious experience, one comes to trust implicitly in the Divine Spirit. It is He and not confessions and formulae and systems of theology and Church courts that makes the Church pure in doctrine and life.

As the Church strengthens, it undertakes the great work that the missionary began and carries it to its conclusion. It is our joy that the Church becomes the missionary, and it is our glory that at last foreign missions are transformed into home missions. To work with the Church, to help, to teach and guide it: to work through it and co-operate with it: to share in its labors and to triumph in its success, this is the reward that more than compensates for years of work and exile.

WORK AMONG FEEBLE CHURCHES.

REV. PARK W. TAYLOR.

As the work among the feeble churches in our older states has lately been brought before the readers of THE CHURCH AT HOME AND ABROAD, permit me to say something more concerning it. Reference to this part of our work is timely just now as men are about going out from our seminaries and the question as to "the choice of a field" is before them. The question before our seminary students is not "Where can I find a field?" but "What field shall I choose?" It is true now as in the time of our Saviour that "The harvest is great and the laborers are few," and these laborers as they go out into the field need to be reminded that a part of the work is to "Strengthen the things which remain that are ready to die." The following questions may be asked by members of the graduating classes in regard to fields which are presented to them. "Is the church in a growing town? Is the town on the rail-road? How large is the membership? Are the people much scattered? What is the salary? How long has the church been vacant?" But should the answers to these and similar questions decide the case without consideration concerning the great need of a minister in the field presented? These same questions may be asked by the "unemployed ministers," of whom I see mention made in the papers but whom I have said, in a previous communication, that I did not know. Now to be called to a church in a thriving town or suburb of a city, with every prospect of growth in church and advance in salary and with rail-road and other conveniences, is no doubt an experience to be thankful for, if God so orders. But suppose the town in which one is desired is decreasing in population, and the church membership is also decreasing, and the salary has been cut down; or suppose that the church is away off the railroad, perhaps ten miles out in the mud, and the people widely scattered; or the field consists of three or four or even five small churches grouped together, their care requiring a great deal of physical labor on the part of the ministers, what then is to be done? Must our more than a thousand vacant churches, nearly all of them small and in rural districts, be left to perish because it will cost the minister some privation to keep their lamps burning? And is it like the Lord and Master to shrink from the work of preaching the Gospel to the poor because, if we do so, we cannot have all the quiet, opportunity for study and all the comforts and social advantages which we might have in different surroundings? A glance at these hundreds of vacant churches brings also before us the question of ministerial supply. It is an alarming fact that our church is growing faster than its ministry. We are running behind fifty men a year, while our young men are pressing into the already overcrowded professions of law, medicine and journalism. Would that some of the boys or young men who may chance to read this and who have not yet fully determined what they will be in life could be led to see the blessedness of this work even in humble fields. Would that more fathers and mothers could be found ready to consecrate their sons to this the happiest work open to mortals. The fields in which I have been called to labor are not prominent, yet I wish to give my testimony to the unspeakable joy of the ministerial life. To know that through my feeble ministry the hungry have been fed, the sorrowing comforted, and best of all to see here and there one and then another, and sometimes during a series of meetings numbers, once more than a score, turn from darkness to light; to see, as God in his grace has permitted me to see but last month, numbers of young people standing before the congregation and publicly entering the service of our common Master; to hear their trembling voices as they offer their first prayer or word of testimony, to observe their eager faces as they drink in the truth, see their willing efforts to please Christ and to do his work, in short to watch them grow like corn in the night; O these experiences bring to the soul a joy which I would not exchange for all the money in Manhattan Bank.

THE INDIAN PROBLEM.

REV. JOHN EDWARDS.

Having lived and labored among the Indians for twenty years, I desire to express very respectfully and fraternally my dissent from some views and statements in the February number of THE CHURCH AT HOME AND ABROAD, pages 124-25.

My statements refer mainly to the Choc-taws, with whom I am most familiarly acquainted. But I doubt not that they are substantially true of the rest of the "five civilized tribes."

1. "Colored people of mixed Indian blood, living with and members of the above tribes, 14,247." Comparatively few of these are of "mixed Indian blood." They are Negroes formerly held in slavery by the Indians, and their descendants.

2. "The area of country occupied by the Indians is 116,000,000 acres, or 182,250 square miles." This must be understood of all the Indians of the country, not of the five civilized tribes alone. Their country is not much more than one-fourth of that amount, if, indeed, it reaches a fourth.

3. "In the Chickasaw Nation there is land enough to give every man, woman and child 1,200 acres, and yet the most of this magnificent domain is a wilderness." Compare this with the statement that "the fullblood is the victim of the unscrupulous trader and the baronial squaw man." If so, it cannot be attributed to lack of land for the fullblood to take and occupy, and hold by a secure title as long as he chooses. How allotment and individual title in fee simple is to remedy the difficulty and make his "enfranchisement complete," is not clear to me.

But, so far as my acquaintance goes, such is not the fact. Unscrupulous men do, of course, take advantage of the ignorant, and the weak, and the thriftless, just as they do everywhere; but allotment would not prevent that. Religious principle and enlightenment are what is needed. Among the Choctaws (and, I confidently believe, among the others also) the traders are simply merchants, some of them Choctaws; and trade is perfectly free, except that the non-citizen pays a percentage for the privilege, and gives bond to comply with the law.

4. "The right of eminent domain" is "the inherent sovereign power which the people or government retain over the estates or private property of individuals to resume or appropriate the same for public uses, and for public uses only." (Prof. T. W. Dwight, LL. D.) It does not extend to "transferring one man's property to another." Surely men will be slow to admit that government has the right to say to joint holders of property, "You must divide; and, inasmuch as each one's share would be too great, we will let you each have a certain amount, and dispose of the rest for your benefit."

5. This land is their property. In this, their situation differs widely from that of Indians who merely occupy United States land. Their land was sold to them by the Government. The consideration was their lands in Mississippi. When the proposal to sell their old country was sent to them by President Jackson, it was with the assurance that he had not the constitutional power to prevent the extension of the laws of the State of Mississippi over the Nation; but that, if they would make the treaty and remove, the new country should be theirs for ever. He assured them that he was not speaking "with a forked tongue." The treaty was made, very unwillingly on the part of the Choctaws. In it the new country was guaranteed to them "as long as grass grows and water flows." Shall we now, by the course we pursue, make our Government indeed, "speak with a forked tongue?" God forbid.

But the treaty is not their only guarantee. They hold their lands by patent from the United States. The Government has parted with its title. It vests in the several Indian Nations. The only restraint upon their title is that they may not sell to any one else than the United States, without the consent of the Government. In this, the ownership of the land, is the Indians' stronghold.

6. "At the breaking out of the rebellion, the five civilized tribes (so-called) espoused the cause of secession and thus forfeited their treaty rights." True, technically they did. But under what circumstances? The United States was bound by treaty to protect them. They did not. They could not. Their troops were withdrawn from the Territory. Under compulsion indeed, but they were withdrawn. Situated as the Choctaws were, with Arkansas on their east border, and Texas on their southern border, what could they do but yield to compulsion, and espouse the cause of secession? In June, 1861, the principal chief of the Choctaws went to a called meeting of the General Council with a message prepared recommending neutrality, but was compelled to alter it before it was delivered. Did these things morally constitute a forfeiture? Manifestly the United States Government did not regard it as such.

I presume it was much the same with the other tribes. I well remember that in June 1861, when I was in Fort Smith on our way out of the country, the Presbyterian minister there told me that Gen. Ben. McCulloch had gone out into the Cherokee country to bring the Cherokee principal chief, John Ross, to terms.

7. I think that the act of Congress, providing for allotment, expressly exempts the five civilized tribes from its operation. At least, the provision of the treaty of 1866 is that, in case of survey and allotment, (for which their consent is required), "every Choctaw and every Chickasaw shall have a right to one quarter section of land, whether male or female, adult or minor." (The Choctaws and Chickasaws hold a joint interest in all their lands, the Choctaws having three-fourths, and the Chickasaws one-fourth.)

8. "He must fence and cultivate the land as does his white brother, or he is doomed to extinction. The full-blood, with savage instinct, tenaciously clings to his Aboriginal mode of life. He will not work as does the white man. He will perish by preference." Surely the good brother must be speaking of the wild tribes, instead of the five civilized tribes. The full-blood Choctaw works. He does fence and cultivate the land. He gets his living in that way. I do not know a white people, of whom so large a proportion get their living by manual labor, as of the full-blood Choctaws. I doubt whether such can be found. I do not know a man of them, whose main reliance is the chase.

I do not say that they work as well as they ought. On the contrary, I tell them that, with their opportunities, they ought, every man of them, to be rich. But many white men also fail to make good use of their opportunities. The Choctaw has yet room for vast improvement in this, as well as in other respects.

9. "He must adopt the manners and customs of civilized life." Yes, and the Choctaw has. Let a stranger travel through the Choctaw Nation any where, and it is mainly by the complexion, the features and the language, that he can distinguish the Choctaw from his white brother. We have no blanket Indians. Their fields are mostly small; their houses are poor: yet many a white man is glad to rent their fields and live in their houses.

I would by no means intimate that their present political arrangements are the best for them. But whatever changes are made, they need to be very carefully and wisely made, and that without a violation of their rights of property, or of our most solemnly plighted faith.

In the mean time, let God's Church do all she can for bringing Bible principles, with their mighty saving and civilizing force, to bear upon their minds and hearts. And let her enlighten them to the utmost, that they may be prepared for what Providence may have in store for them.

TWO FAITHFUL LABORERS EARLY CALLED HOME.

REV. W. S. NELSON.

Two very promising young men in the Tripoli field, each doing well his appointed form of service, have been suddenly summoned from our company to the presence of their Lord and Master. The latter of these was laid to rest in our little burial ground a few days ago amid the honest tears of a multitude of friends. Najeeb Saadeh was the son of Muallim Elias Saadeh who has been connected with the Protestant sect and the American mission for thirty years. The second son of this family, he received all his education at the American mission schools. When prepared for that step he was sent to the college in Beirut and subsequently to the Theological Seminary, from which he graduated in 1888. At the close of this course he came back to Tripoli to become the Master in Arabic in the Tripoli Girls' School and to preach wherever he should be needed. This position he has held for full four years. The present year he had been the responsible supply of the Tripoli pulpit and held the respect and affection of the whole community. Near the end of January he consulted the Doctor about his throat who found it in such a condition that he said he should not preach for a time and began a course of treatment. After a few days we went to Beirut to the annual meeting. After a week we received word that Najeeb was seriously ill and the Doctor was needed. With all possible haste we returned by the steamer which happened to come on that very day and found the case a serious one. After three days of anxious watching the summons home came and our friend's term of earthly service was ended.

It is hard to realize that his place is empty and it will not be easy to find another so well fitted for its responsibilities. We mourn not only the loss of a promising young man for whose useful ministry we anticipated long years of activity, but we mourn as well the genial love of a warm-hearted personal friend. Though not conspicuously brilliant in intellect, he was a faithful student, a kind instructor and a wise counsellor. With a character above reproach, and a winning manner, he seemed fitted to draw men to the cross. It appeared that he had not an enemy in the city, but on the contrary every one who knew him had learned to expect a kind salutation as he passed, and his religion was respected for the kind and hearty manner in which he lived out his own preaching. He was a manly Christian, a thorough Christian. His memory will long remain as a sweet odor and, we doubt not, his works shall follow him.

MT. ST. ELIAS, 18,100 FEET HIGH
Photographed from a Glacier at its foot 4,000 feet above the Sea Level

THE GLACIERS OF ALASKA.

BY PROF. G. FREDERICK WRIGHT.

[From Worthington's Illustrated Magazine and Literary Treasury.*]

Mt. St. Elias is 18,100 feet high, while Mts. Fairweather and Crillon rise to heights of 15,500 and 15,900 feet. In visiting this region the tourist enjoys the rare privilege of viewing the entire height of such mountains from the water's edge. But their proportions are so vast that the imagination must be largely drawn upon to give any adequate conception of what is involved in the spectacle.

This lofty mountain range sustains such relations to the moist currents of air blowing over the Pacific Ocean, that the snowfall is enormous upon the southern side. At Sitka the precipitation is annually about one hundred inches; whereas in the Eastern United States it is about forty inches. Upon the Alaskan mountains this precipitation is

*This monthly journal for the family, published by A. D. Worthington and Co., Hartford, Conn., has started out with about our number and size of pages, well printed and handsomely illustrated. Its contents, so far as we have had time to examine them, seem readable, instructive and morally wholesome. From a valuable article in its fourth number (April, 1893) we take these extracts and copy, by permission, two of its illustrations.

MUIR INLET.

nearly all in the form of snow, and its marvelous amount makes the most favorable conditions for the production of glaciers, which are formed by the compacting of snow into solid ice, through the pressure of its own weight. The climate of the northern side of this mountain chain is very different from that of the seaward side, being dry and subject to great extremes of temperature. The great height of the mountains squeezes the water out of the clouds as they pass over, somewhat as we do from a sponge by pressing it in the hand, and the air rolls over to the other side clear and cloudless.

From one end to the other this lofty range of mountains is snow-clad both summer and winter, and at frequent intervals vast glaciers creep down the sides, and in several places enter the sea, where their fronts break off into large ice masses, and send them out to float away and melt in the deeper waters. The "calving" of an iceberg is a spectacle well worth encircling the globe to witness. The great navigator, Vancouver, while coasting along the front of Mt. St. Elias, described the scene as follows:

"While at dinner . . . we frequently heard a very loud, rumbling noise, not unlike loud, but distant, thunder; similar sounds had often been heard when our party was in the neighborhood of large bodies of ice, but we had not before been able to trace the cause. We now found the noise to originate from immense, ponderous fragments of ice, breaking off from the higher parts of the main body, and falling from a very considerable height, which, in one instance, produced so violent a shock that it was sensibly felt by the whole party, although the ground on which we were was at least two leagues from the spot where the ice had fallen."

A description of scenes quite similar to this was given by Charles Darwin, more than fifty years ago, as he accompanied the "Beagle" while coasting along in front of the inhospitable shores of Terra del Fuego. They are described upon a still grander scale by many Arctic explorers. But now they are made easily accessible to the ordinary tourist, in more than one fiord entering tide-water in the south-eastern portion of Alaska. * * * * *

It was not until 1879 that Mr. Muir, an adventurous explorer from California, made the discoveries which have attached his name to the most accessible, and, in many respects, the most interesting of these remarkable objects of nature. During that year, in company with Rev. Mr. Young of Fort Wrangell, he took a canoe trip around the various fiords of the south-eastern portion of Alaska, in the course of which he penetrated Glacier Bay to Muir Inlet, and reached the immense glaciers which come down into the tide-water at its head. Upon his returning home and reporting the accessibility of this glacier, the monthly mail steamer, with some tourists on board, was induced to proceed cautiously up the bay, and anchor for a while in close proximity to the ice-front. So grand beyond description was the scene, that when it was found to be within reach of safe navigation, tourists began in increasing numbers to take passage upon the steamer for its monthly trips, upon condition that it would turn aside from its regular course to visit some of the glaciers. After a few years two steamers were required to meet the demands of travel, and now the rush of tourists has so increased that it is difficult to secure passage, and a number of other and more rapid steamers run often through the summer from Seattle to Glacier Bay and intermediate points expressly for the accommodation of tourists.

A CURIOUS BIT OF HISTORY.

H. N. PAYNE, D. D.

Something more than a century ago, a Methodist preacher by the name of Evans came to Fayetteville, N. C. There was no church there. Stirred by the evident need and opportunity for Christian work, Mr. Evans began to preach the gospel. His message was gladly received, and he was soon able to gather and organize a church. The work grew in strength, and, in time, a brick house of worship was erected, in which this faithful man preached until God called him to his reward. The original edifice still stands, though over one hundred years old. It is called "Evans' Chapel" in honor of its builder, who was buried under its pulpit.

This pioneer missionary, this earnest and successful preacher and organizer, was a Negro. Still more curiously, the church which he gathered, and to which he ministered, was made up of both white and colored members.

Mr. Evans served this church with acceptance, so far as I learned, until the increase in the white population enabled them to have a church by themselves. Then they colonized, leaving the mother church to its colored members, with their colored pastor. A large colored church still worships in the building.

I have not heard of any other instance in which a church made up of representatives of both races was successfully gathered and ministered to by a Negro.

Mr. Evans was doubtless a man of character, piety and intellectual vigor. A hundred years ago that was all that was necessary to enable him to accomplish his noble work. Would it be sufficient now? Was the conception of Christian propriety and fitness that belonged to that time or that which belongs to this the noble and worthy one? Does the change of sentiment that would make it impossible for a Negro in our time to gather a church made up of both races, either in the South or in the North, show us more or less noble-minded than were the fathers?

As I stood recently in that old church in Fayetteville, whose decaying walls are soon to be replaced with new ones, and thought of the scenes there witnessed, I could but ask myself, will the time ever again come in this Republic when character and not color will be the test of manhood?

It will be observed that the question of the social relations of the races is not here touched upon. That is a subject upon which there has been much talking and writing, but it is one that neither magazine articles nor legislation will affect to any considerable degree. Its adjudication may, and ought to be, left to the instincts and good sense of the people. If they follow these they will not go far wrong. I have not observed any alarming tendency, on either side, to change existing relations.

But it occurs to me that the Church of God, in considering its own proper work, ought to stand on higher ground than the world does. Divine grace in the heart ought to free it from narrowness, selfishness and prejudice. Those who have been renewed and sanctified and received into the family of the redeemed ought all to feel that they are brethren.

I am glad to note an increasing good feeling between the races in the South along these lines. There is no disposition to unite colored and white churches, but rather the contrary. These churches have a separate and distinct mission, a mission which many of them are nobly fulfilling. But there is a growing feeling of mutual appreciation between them. As the representative of the work of our Church among the Freedmen, I am frequently invited to preach in white churches, and very often white men and women come to my services in our colored churches. It may be said that this is because I am a white man. This is not altogether so. I am assured by many of our colored preachers, especially in the small towns and in the country, that their white friends are often present at their services. They are hungry for the bread of life, and if the message of divine love comes from a clear brain and an earnest heart, it matters not whether the messenger be white or black. There is no condescension in this, no sacrifice of dignity, self-respect or propriety, but a simple and sensible recognition of Christian brotherhood.

A VISIT TO THE REFORMED SPANISH CHURCH.

REV. ALEXANDER ROBERTSON.*

I have recently returned from making a somewhat prolonged tour in Spain, which had for its object the visiting of congregations in connection with the Reformed Spanish Church. For Spain, like every Roman Catholic nation in Europe, has now got a Reformed Catholic Church. That is to say, intelligent men, realizing that the Roman Catholic Church of to-day is not the true representative of the early Catholic Church of their respective countries, have risen in rebellion against it, and are demanding a return to the Church of primitive times. In early times there was no Pope, there was only a Bishop of Rome. The services were conducted in the vernacular, not in Latin. There was no Mariolatry, no Purgatory, no Mass, no traffic in indulgences, no compounding for sin by paying the priest. All these things are comparatively modern, and are foreign to Christian catholicism. Then again, the early Church was democratic, and in harmony with patriotism; now it is autocratic, ruled by the Roman Curia, and thoroughly opposed to any form of constitutional government. Realizing these things, Italy has become thoroughly anti-papal. Distinguishing between Catholicism and Romanism, the Papal Curia and the Catholic Church, twenty-five of its thirty millions of inhabitants are now outside the pale of the Church of Rome. In Spain, things are not so advanced. There Ultramontanism is still strong, and there, consequently, ignorance, superstition, lack of industry and enterprise, careless living and immorality abound. Still, the people as a whole are up in arms against that state of things, and many, like the people of Italy, have renounced Romanism, and have formed evangelical congregations in connection with the Reformed Spanish Church. In illustration of the work of this Church I shall briefly describe what I saw at three places, one in the west, one in the east, and one in the centre of Spain.

I. VILLAESCUSA.

Villaescusa is a little village about twenty miles from Salamanca, the old university city. It has a population of some twelve hundred. It is a characteristic Spanish village, built of bricks dried in the sun. The houses have, however, stone foundations and angles, otherwise they would crumble into ruins. There are also one or two houses built entirely of stone. A few years ago this village was educationally and morally in the condition in which almost all Spanish villages are now. Its inhabitants were living in ignorance and superstition. There was no school at which useful instruction was given. There were no books and no newspapers, nor could much use have been found for them if they had existed, for only a fraction of the people could read. They worshipped an image set up on the high altar of the church, and they hoped by the services they attended, and the gifts they gave in money and in kind to their priests, in some way or other at last to save their souls. But in God's providence a young man, a carpenter, named Malquiades, got hold of a Bible. With his sister he poured over its pages by the light of a dim oil lamp during the long winter evenings. The story of the love of God in Christ, which they had never heard of before, took hold of them and transformed them. They told others of what they had found. These met at their house and read the Bible with them. They, too, were enlightened and converted, and made new creatures in Christ. Other Bibles were procured, and the truth spread, bringing blessing into many hearts and homes. "The entrance of God's word giveth light" in many ways. Education was sought for; classes were started; books were obtained. The villagers came to understand something of the history of early Christianity in their land, and how their national Church was once, in doctrine and practice, in harmony with the teaching of that book they possessed. They heard of the Reformed Spanish Church, in which that early one had found continuance. They resolved to join it. A pastor was procured. A church was built. On the evening of November 28, 1892, I attended a service in that building, when over 400 of these villagers were present, and when 86 young men and women received confirmation at the hands of the Archbishop of Dublin. I met many of them in their homes, and I was astonished at their intelligence and knowledge of what was passing in the religious world in England, in Scotland, and in America. And I heard with gladness of their missionary zeal, how they travelled into villages as isolated as their own, and as dark as theirs once was, carrying with them the lamp of truth. And in the midst of all this enlightenment and philanthropy they have never been free from persecution. They have been misrepresented, calumniated, and some of them—as for instance a man called Hernandez, whom I saw at the services—have been cast into prison. But suffering has only strengthened and purified them, and fitted them the better to hold fast what they have themselves obtained, and to hand it on to others.

*The writer of this article, a "Scottish Minister of Venice," writes us that our magazine was made known to him by some American friends in his congregation. For ourselves and for our readers we heartily thank Mr. Robertson and those American friends.

II. MONISTROL.

This is a village very much larger than Villascusa. It is situated at the foot of Mount Serrat, in Catalonia. Before entering the village I ask you to go with me to the summit of the mountain. It is 4,000 feet high, but a funicular railway, just opened, carries us to the top. Here we see an enormous pile of building, eight stories in height. It is a Benedictine monastery. Entering its chapel we see on the high altar an image adorned with gold and precious stones. It is very black, and very old, and probably that of a negress and her child, introduced, as many others were, into Spain by the Moors. Yet this is the famous miraculous image of the Virgin, said to have been manufactured by St. Luke, and brought here by St. Peter, and which St. Ignatius Loyola did so much to popularize, and which 200,000 pilgrims climb this mountain annually to visit, many of them only to gratify their curiosity, but the vast majority to worship at its feet, and to leave behind them valuable gifts. Monistrol then, built on the foot of this so-called sacred mountain was tenanted until lately almost wholly by people addicted to this fetichism. But as at Villascusa so here, one man after another came to the knowledge of Bible truth. These met together. They talked and prayed and planned. Schools were opened. A congregation in connection with the Reformed Spanish Church was formed. And now, where once reigned ignorance and superstition and lawlessness, you find intelligence, and enterprise, culture and piety. Stirred by a true desire to communicate to others the blessings they enjoy these peasants travel from village to village preaching and teaching. A young man, whom I saw, who is now a most capable evangelist, could not read when converted fifteen years ago. One of them, when serving as a soldier, preached the gospel to his comrades at the risk of imprisonment. When the tourist season comes round, and thousands of poor devotees are thronging up the steep slopes of Mount Serrat to adore the black image on its summit these men stand by the way and put into the pilgrims' hands that which is fitted to take the veil off their hearts, and lead them to the knowledge of one whom to worship is our most reasonable service.

III. MADRID.

Here in the capital of the Peninsula we find ignorance as dense and superstition as gross as in the provinces, added to which there is an amount of dishonesty, untruthfulness and corruption in every department of life, without a parallel in Europe. Ignorance there must be for, on inquiry I found that all educational establishments, from the university downwards, are conducted in the most slipshod manner. A student who entered the University October 1, states that up to December 31, one of his classes had met but 28 times. Holidays and unexplained absences of the professors thus took up two working days in three. In the schools things are in a pitiable condition. The teachers, who are for the most part priests, to use the words of an Alcalde, "know nothing." The fact that over 250,000 people, or over one-half of Madrid's inhabitants, can neither read nor write is a sad commentary on the state of education in this capital. As to the amount of superstition that prevails one has only to go to the church of the Atocha. Here I saw, enthroned on the high altar, a black wooden image such as I had seen at Mount Serrat. It was clothed in rich regal vestments, a jewelled chain was hanging round its neck, and about its waist there was a white and blue silken scarf, the insignia of its rank as Captain-General of the Spanish forces. Near this 'Atocha' hung a robe of cloth of gold with an inscription to this effect "The dress Queen Isabella wore when her assassination was attempted by Merino on February 21, 1852. Presented in gratitude to the Atocha for having saved her life."

Moreover each Queen of Spain is required to present to the Atocha her bridal dress, and so rich and ample has thus become this doll's wardrobe that it has a Mistress of the Robes and ladies in waiting chosen for it from among the aristocracy of Madrid. This Atocha then is the protectress of royalty, the patroness of Madrid, and is worshipped by tens of thousands of its inhabitants.

In the midst of a mass of ignorance, superstition and immorality, men who, by God's grace have come out of it, have planted schools, and the Reformed Spanish Church—I do not say that these men, and others who think with them in other Christian communions, sum up all the intelligence, honesty and purity of the capital—but I do say that these qualities preëminently characterize them as individuals and as a society.

In their schools the teachers exercise discipline over themselves and their pupils, and good instruction is given. The result is that better scholars are produced in them than in any other schools of the same class in Spain. Their church services, so simple and yet so catholic, moulded, as I have said, on the old Mozarabic ritual, are calculated to nurse in the hearts of these Reformers love to God, to men, and to their country, and to make these virtues impulses in their lives. In spite of all obloquy and persecution they hold to their own convictions, and seek legitimately and with charity to impress them upon others. That persecution is at present very bitter. The ultramontane press assails them in a most unjust and cruel manner, and as the world knows, through the influence of that party, they are at present being prevented from meeting for worship in the temple provided for them through the kind labors of the Archbishop of Dublin. Among the many false charges brought against them, I notice one true one, namely, that they owe their origin to the work of the British and Foreign Bible Society, which is termed a "diabolical enterprise." I cannot but observe, however, that all this persecution is being overruled for good, and that the work of these Reformers is being made known in Spain as it never was before, and that the liberal press of the country is extending to them its sympathy.

FOREIGN MISSIONS.

TREASURER'S STATEMENT OF RECEIPTS, MAY 1 TO MARCH 30, 1892 AND 1893.

	CHURCHES.	WOMEN'S S'DS.	SAB. SCHOOLS	Y. P. S. C. E.	LEGACIES.	MISCELLANEOUS	TOTAL.
1892	$272,946 86	$174,354 96	$28,084 19	$6,638 35	$116,159 18	$74,721 60	$672,194 39
1893	278,251 54	186,378 23	30,184 86	12,710 05	122,553 01	83,738 08	713,511 06
Gain	$6,004 96	$12,023 27	$2,100 67	$6,081 81	$6,393 88	$9,012 08	$41,616 69
Loss

Total appropriated to April 1, 1893.....$1,015,827 93
Deficit of May 1, 1893.....54,521 06

Total needed for year.....1,070,348 98
Received from all sources to April 1, 1893.....713,511 06

Amount to be received before May 1, 1893, to meet all obligations.....256,537 90
Received last year, April 1, 1892, to May 1, 1893.....259,096 06

Increase needed before the end of the year.....97,439 82
Copies furnished on application.

WILLIAM DULLES, JR., Treasurer.

The fiscal year of the Board ends April 30. As this date falls on Sabbath this year the Treasurer will close his books on Saturday, April 29. At the date of this writing, —April 8—there is no material change in the financial situation, as set forth in the above statement. To reduce the deficit to the minimum—for it seems at present scarcely possible to avoid a deficit—Church treasurers and others who have money in hand for the Board should send it in promptly. But are there not those among the friends of Christ blessed with ample means who, by timely and generous gifts, will do away with the necessity of reporting a deficit? Why cripple the work of a new year, so full of large promise on the mission fields, by compelling the Board to provide for a deficit in addition to the increasing obligations which must be assumed for the regular work on May 1?

The success of the appeal for the observance of a week of self-denial and prayer has seemed to bear with it a providential indication. The great majority of the churches in the Presbyterian body have persistently held the Board of Foreign Missions to one annual contribution for the support of its vast and manifold work. They have apparently overlooked the fact that the foreign fields, embracing the larger portion of the globe, now demand all the departments of work which at home are carried on by eight or nine different organizations, each with its separate and distinct support. Yet the work of Foreign Missions must necessarily expand. Nothing but the withdrawal of God's promised presence and power and His providential abandonment of it to the blight of resisting influences could prevent its expansion. Our Lord's prayer, "Thy Kingdom come," offered through all ages of the Church, and the special prayers of the last three generations for the opening up of benighted lands, are before God as a memorial challenging the fulfillment of His promise. A work so divinely sanctioned and so long laid upon the altar of prayer must advance, and the Church must understand that the very fulfillment of its petitions requires a corresponding support. Five hundred and ninety-six missionaries, 1528 native preachers, teachers and helpers making a total of 2,124 laborers, are looking to the one treasury for their support as the representatives of the Presbyterian Church, U. S. A. For the maintenance of this work the annual appropriations of the Foreign Board have reached a million of dollars more or less. At the very beginning of the coming fiscal year this amount must be definitely pledged, and of course pledged in advance. This is a giddy height of responsibility. No secular enterprise could make such a venture. The reliance of the Board is upon the plighted faith of the churches by which it is appointed, or rather it is upon God's Spirit in moving the churches. There would be great hazard in so vast an undertaking but for this reliance upon divine power, and the responses given during the week of self-denial are in evidence that such is the conviction of great numbers of God's people. They have recognized the propriety and desirability of just such an observance.

Many very interesting incidents are brought out in connection with the self-denial offerings. Real sacrifice in giving is probably unknown to multitudes who contribute out of their abundance, though some of these have given generous amounts. But touching instances of real sacrifice on the part of those of humble means have appeared in the correspondence. Children have in many instances done nobly, denying themselves some luxury or enjoyment for the purpose. In some cases the aged, living upon very narrow means, have still further restricted their personal expenditures in order to send a gift. Many churches have taken a share in the effort and sent amounts considerably larger than their regular annual contributions.

Another year, it is to be hoped, that earlier notice of this observance will doubtless be given; and it would be well if the General Assembly, as the least that it can do for its great Board of all Work with one Collection, should give its recommendation of this consecrated special offering. The key-note of the recent appeal was that the Board had pledged itself to send to the Foreign field every well-approved young man who should apply for appointment. This was remarked upon by many of the Board's contributors with special satisfaction.

By a mutual arrangement which has been made, subject to the approval of the General Assembly, the Board of Foreign Missions has transferred the last of its missions among the Indians to the Board of Home Missions. Four years ago the Omaha, Winnebago and Sac and Fox Missions were transferred, leaving the vernacular work among the Nez Perces and Dakotas and the support of the English-speaking missionaries among various tribes of New York. These, also, have now been transferred—not so much because there has been any recent change with respect to the use of the vernacular as in view of the fact that advance of white settlers and the division of land in severalty among the Indians, have modified the conditions of the work and brought them more and more into contact with the presbyteries and churches in their own vicinities. The work of the Foreign Board among these three tribes in late years has not been unproductive or uninteresting—quite the reverse. The average per cent. of growth in these Indian Missions from year to year has been greater than the average throughout the Presbyterian Church. Last year it was over ten per cent.

In severing its relations with the missionaries at these various stations, the Board has not ceased to appreciate the high character and honorable record which they have made of faithful service. Rev. William Hall, of the Mission to the Alleghenies, has fulfilled over half a century of patient toil, showing from first to last peculiar fidelity and an undying sympathy for those among whom he has spent his life. Of the eminent services of Rev. John P. Williamson, D. D., it is scarcely necessary to speak. Born among the Indians and trained up by parents of rare devotion he has proved himself worthy of his parentage. There are no more honorable names in American history than those of the elder Doctors Williamson and Riggs; and this worthy son has passed through some experiences in his missionary life which were full of romance and real heroism. In the Nez Perces Missions, which are rendered historic by the names of Whitman and Spalding, and others, the two Misses McBeth have won for themselves a worthy place among the missionary heroes and heroines of our generation. For more than 20 years they have identified themselves in an unusual degree with the interests of the people among whom they have lived, speaking their language and enjoying an unusual degree of their sympathies and confidence. Miss Sue L. McBeth has really conducted a sort of Theological Seminary, single handed and alone; and a great majority of the native preachers who are now licensed and ordained by the Presbyteries of Idaho and Oregon have received their education at her hand. The sympathy and support of our Presbyterian churches should still be given to the noble workers among these tribes and to the people among whom they labor.

The Shantung Mission at its last meeting held in November, 1892, took action upon a point of delicacy and courteous respect for Chinese customs which was significant and worthy of highest commendation. The action was as follows: "Voted that we respectfully call the attention of the members of the Mission to the importance of carefully inspecting pictures given to the natives, that such as are objectionable from a Chinese standpoint be not placed in their hands, and that moreover as far as practicable we respect their ideas as to the use of printed paper." The substance of this action is simply a recognition to a certain extent of Chinese prejudices as well as of their reverence for what they consider sacred things. There has been in the past a too prevalent feeling that our Western ideas were so superior that it was not only a privilege, but a duty to over-ride and trample down all the prejudices of the heathen mind. For instance in pictures of idols and heathen acts of worship it has not been uncommon to make use of an element of sarcasm, as well as of exaggeration, in utter forgetfulness of the fact that the heathen mind does not view things at first from our standpoint. A great point is gained when an attitude of fairness, candor, appreciation, and Christian courtesy is taken. Our work among the heathen is not a work of Iconoclasm except incidentally. What is needed is a courteous presentation of "the more excellent way." It is a repetition of the old fable of the tornado and the sunshine in their rival attempts to deprive a traveller of his wraps.

Rev. Henry V. Noyes, of Canton, writes that toward the close of the last year he received from the Chinese Young Men's Christian Association in San Francisco a draft for the sum of $3,200 Mexican, to be deposited in a reliable bank as a fund for the support of a chapel in which the Gospel should be preached to the Chinese. Recently Mr. Noyes has received another check for $1,000 sent through our missionary, Rev. I. M. Condit, of San Francisco, accompanied by the statement that another $1,000 would soon follow. All, with the exception of a generous gift from Mr. Condit, was contributed by the Chinese for the evangelization of their countrymen. The last contribution was for the erection of buildings for the use of the San Ning church. The association contemplates providing one such chapel after another, to be located at favorable points in the Canton province.

Is it not time that the Christian people of America should insist that Christian fellowship shall be shown to those whose example we may well follow, and that the American citizens shall be made to understand that these men are worthy of something better than the inhuman treatment which belongs rather to the dark ages than to the present time?

MISSIONARY CALENDAR.

DEPARTURE.

From New York for Eastern Persia Mission, March 30, Dr. and Mrs. J. G. Wishard.

ARRIVAL.

From Wei Hien, China, March 22, Rev. J. A. Leyenberger.

From Santiago, Chili, March 23, Rev. S. J. Christen and family.

From Woodstock, India, April 1, Miss Annie E. Scott.

Concert of Prayer For Church Work Abroad.

[Conducted by REV. JAMES S. DENNIS, D. D.]

JANUARY, . . .	General Review of Missions.
FEBRUARY, . . .	Missions in China.
MARCH, . . .	Mexico and Central America.
APRIL, . . .	Missions in India.
MAY, . . .	Missions in Siam and Laos.
JUNE, . . .	Missions in Africa.
JULY, . . .	Indians, Chinese and Japanese in America.
AUGUST, . . .	Missions in Korea.
SEPTEMBER, . . .	Missions in Japan.
OCTOBER, . . .	Missions in Persia.
NOVEMBER, . . .	Missions in South America.
DECEMBER, . . .	Missions in Syria.

SIAM AND LAOS MISSIONS.

SIAM MISSION.

BANGKOK: on the River Meinam, 25 miles from its mouth; occupied as a mission station, 1840 to 1844, and from 1847 to the present time; missionary laborers—Rev. Messrs. E. P. Dunlap, A. W. Cooper, J. A. Eakin, J. B. Dunlap, and F. L. Snyder, and their wives; Miss Edna S. Cole, Miss Larissa J. Cooper, and Miss Elsie J. Bates; one native licentiate preacher, eight native Christian teachers.

PETCHABURIE: on the western side of the Gulf of Siam, eighty-five miles southwest of Bangkok; occupied as a mission station in 1861; missionary laborers—Rev. and Mrs. W. G. McClure, and Dr. and Mrs. W. B. Toy; Miss Annabel Galt; seven native teachers. Outstations: Bangkokboon, Paktalay, Tharna Banphai, Ban Laam, and other places.

RATBURIE: occupied as a mission station in 1889; missionary laborers—James B. Thompson, M. D., and Mrs. Thompson, Rev. and Mrs. Chas. E. Eckels; one licentiate; one native teacher.

In this country: Rev. and Mrs. E. Wachter, Dr. and Mrs. J. B. Thompson.

LAOS MISSION.

CHIENG-MAI: on the Maah-Ping River, 500 miles north of Bangkok; occupied as a mission station, 1876; missionary laborers—Rev. Messrs. Daniel McGilvary, D. D., D. G. Collins, Stanley K. Phraner, Evander B. McGilvary, and their wives; Dr. and Mrs. James W. McKean, Misses Isabella Griffin, Cornelia H. McGilvary, Margaret A. McGilvary, and Emma Hitchcock, Rev. Nan-Tah; 27 helpers; 18 out-stations.

LAKAWN: on the Maah-Wung River, southeast from Chieng-Mai 75 miles; occupied as a mission station, 1885; missionary laborers—Rev. Jonathan Wilson; Rev. S. C. Peoples, M. D., and Mrs. Peoples, Rev. and Mrs. Hugh Taylor, Rev. Robert Irwin, Dr. W. A. Briggs, Miss Kate N. Fleeson, and Miss Annabelle King; 3 native helpers; 1 out-station.

LAPPOON: occupied as a mission station in 1891; missionary laborers—Rev. and Mrs. W. C. Dodd; 4 native assistants.

In this country: Miss Kate N. Fleeson.

The statistics of the Siam Mission for 1892 are as follows: ordained missionaries, 7; medical missionaries, 2; wives of missionaries, 9; single lady missionaries, 4; native licentiate preachers, 2; native teachers and helpers, 33; number of churches, 7; communicants, 308; added during the year, 28; boys in boarding schools, 159; girls in boarding schools, 79; boys in day schools, 125; girls in day schools, 50; total number of pupils, 413; number of schools, 13; pupils in Sabbath-schools, 336; amount of contributions, $397.

The statistics of the Laos Mission for 1892 are as follows: ordained missionaries, 9; missionary physicians, 2; wives of missionaries, 8; single lady missionaries, 6; ordained native evangelists, 1; native helpers, 27; churches, 8; communicants, 1876; added during the year, 299; boys in boarding schools, 168; girls in boarding schools, 98; men in training class, 47; children in day school, 20; total number of pupils, 333; total number of schools, 6; pupils in Sabbath-schools, 473.

A DIVINE CALL TO THE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

Individual ministers are called by single congregations to accept the duties and responsibilities of the pastorate. A church desiring to call a pastor, having settled upon the man, addresses its appeal directly to him, and presents its claims, and enlarges upon the opportunity presented and the needs of the church and the hopefulness of the field it represents. It appeals to the conscience of the minister whose services it solicits, and asks him to weigh carefully the call of privilege and service which it presents. It no doubt accompanies this dignified appeal with the promise of a compensation which will be a suitable support to the pastor. The call reaches its destination, and is carefully and prayerfully considered in every possible light. If it is regarded as a call from God, implying an obligation of duty, it is no doubt accepted cheerfully and heartily, and thus the call of God is heard, and the providential guidance of God is accepted, and the service to which God appoints that pastor is done.

This kind of a call is something we are familiar with. We know how to deal with it, how to respond to it, and how to meet its obligations. It is an interesting and inspiring incident in the history both of the church and the pastor, and is fruitful in happy, zealous service on the part of the pastor, and secures prosperity, growth and spiritual edification on the part of the church.

Let us take now a broader, larger outlook over the field of God's providential calls to special service and duty. Is it an impossible supposition that an entire Church may be called by God to the discharge of a special service and the occupation of a special field of duty. Yes, we are familiar with the calls of Providence to the Church, but are we accustomed to recognize them and respond to them as promptly and as fully as we might? Providence is often so general in its appeal, and the Church as a whole is so difficult to reach, that what seems to be a distinct call of Providence often fails to secure recognition or receive any adequate response.

It would seem, however, that God has at length spoken with a directness and emphasis which is singularly impressive and unmistakably clear, and He has spoken without the least shadow of doubt to our Presbyterian Church, and He intends that His call shall be as direct, as personal, as explicit, and as obligatory, as any providential appeal that He ever condescends to utter in human ears. We must admit that the facts which are herewith transmitted completely justify the following conclusions:

(1) God calls. His Providence has opened the door; His blessing has created the need; His spirit moved those missionaries.

(2) His call is to the Presbyterian Church. To our Church He has given the privilege and honor of work in the Laos field. Our missionaries there can look nowhere else. They cannot appeal to individuals or congregations. They must appeal through the Board to the Church as a whole.

(3) He calls to a special, definite service and duty. It is to give the Gospel to those hungering, eager natives. It is to support the marvelous work which already surpasses in its fruitfulness and promise any other field which God has given to our Church. The Presbytery of Laos was the banner presbytery of world-wide Presbyterianism in 1891, and it still holds the position in 1892, with an addition to its membership during the year of 200.

(4) He promises saved souls as a reward to the Church. Could a Church ask a nobler reward, and could God offer a more alluring recompense? Let the facts and appeals which have suggested these thoughts, now speak for themselves. The Annual Meeting of the Laos Mission was recently held at Lakawn, and was a memorable occasion upon which the Spirit of God seemed to rest with power, and during which His guidance was wonderfully and clearly given. Will the Presbyterian Church "accept the call?" It is presented in the following appeal.

THE LAOS APPEAL.

The urgent claims and the imperative needs of the mission openings in the Laos field were the one subject that dominated the Annual Meeting, and it was decided that a document should be prepared which should present the situation to the Church at home, and voice the irrepressible appeal which the spiritual emergency called for. We give a few extracts from this document, which was written on behalf of the mission by Rev. W. C. Dodd, of Lapoon Station:

"Our late Annual Meeting in Lakawn was the most important one in the history of the Laos Mission. More important questions were decided than at any previous meeting, and all with the most cordial unanimity. The most momentous of these questions was the reinforcements to be asked for from the Home Church. Never before were there half so many providential openings and consequent responsibilities placed upon a meeting of our Mission. As the claims of one new field after another were presented, the solemnity grew. We felt that the answer to many prayers had been given, and a crisis had been reached. At the suggestion of the Chairman, we stopped our business discussion and stilled our souls, while Dr. McGilvary led us in prayer for orders from our Commander. We all feel that that prayer has been answered.

If in answer to the world-wide prayer for missions God's Providence has opened doors into new provinces, dare we fail to let the Home Church know of it? Have we not been placed by the Church on these frontiers as much to watch for the Lord's signal calls to advance as we have to do our own little share of the work itself?

Under a deep conviction of duty, and a feeling that to do otherwise would be a betrayal of trust, the Mission decided to make request of the Board for appropriations to cover eight phases of "new work." It was during the determination of the order of precedence of these requests that the Mission joined in asking and receiving Divine guidance. I was directed by the Mission to make you this general statement of the order of precedence adopted, with the reasons for each request.

I. We renewed the request for an appropriation for enlarging the Chieng-Mai Boys' School building. The claims of the school and its crying need of more room have been before you for two years. You already know how Mr. Collins' residence has been overrun with school-boys. You know how vain it is to expect the best work, or even good work in such circumstances. To say nothing of the wear upon our missionary teachers and their families, simple justice to the rising generation of Laos demands that we make this request for facilities for their education the very first. This is our most imperative need; this is our standing request until granted.

II. We request the Board to authorize and provide for opening a new station in Moung Pra, or as it is often called Pra. This involves sending one medical and one clerical missionary there, and granting an appropriation for one residence this year. Dr. Briggs has asked to be sent to open the work. Long as some of the Mission have been looking forward to asking for the opening of Chieng-Hai, and although Raheng was asked for last year and has not been granted, it was our unanimous judgment that Pra should take precedence of these. It has always been an open field, the rulers friendly, and the people receptive. But work of famine relief this past year has opened the door still wider, and furnished the special providential call to enter at once. Dr. Peoples related to us case after case of interested listeners and professed conversions, and of urgent calls from the people for the establishment of missionary work among them. Ought not the soul-famine there to appeal more strongly to the Church, and to meet with a more generous response, if possible, than did the food-famine?

III. We ask the Board to authorize and provide for the opening of a new station in Chieng-Hai. This will require an equipment similar to that of Pra. Mr. and Mrs. Phraner are willing to be transferred to Chieng-Hai as soon as a physician is sent. Chieng-Hai's importance as a strategic point, a basis for permanent and enlarged work among the many and destitute tribes to the north, has long been recognized, and has been tellingly presented to the Board and the Church by Dr. McGilvary. Property has been given by the Government. Two churches have been organized, and are doing as well as orphans in swaddling-clothes could be expected to do.

IV. We ask for a physician for Lapoon, and a residence for him. The development of the work there during the station's first year is in itself a call. A start, also, toward the acquisition of medical property has been obtained. Through the munificence of the Government, aided by private subscription, an eligible compound has been secured free of cost to the Board, and a considerable amount contributed toward the erection of a hospital ward. By the work already accomplished, the prejudice overcome, the practice established, and the property acquired; by the expectations of the donors of property and of the clerical missionaries now carrying the burden of this medical work; by the calls to relieve suffering and the opportunities to preach the Great Physician to this whole province, we plead for a physician for Lapoon.

V. We ask the Board to authorize and provide for opening a station in Raheng, in connection with the Laos Mission, with an equipment similar to that of Pra and Chieng-Hai. Its population is largely a floating one; it will therefore be a capital point for bazaar preaching and the distribution of books,—such work as has been carried on for decades in India, and is now bearing such Pentecostal fruit, and such work as the Laos Mission is only just beginning to be able to take up. But the principal call for the establishment of the work in Raheng is its location with reference to river work. With a good boat at its command, a station at Raheng could work a well-populated river-course of 300 or 400 miles. Members of the Laos Mission all pass over this territory, and the testimony of all who have been on the river of late years is that all of these river villages are unexpectedly receptive of the Gospel preached in Siamese or Laos dialect, for they are measurably familiar with both. The veteran, Mr. Wilson, has been so deeply impressed with the importance of this work that he has offered to go and open it up, provided a compound be first secured in Raheng. Indeed he has been asked by Raheng people to do so. Now that we have a press, and are beginning to have a literature for distribution, in view of the wide field to be reached, and in answer to the calls of the people themselves,—ought we not to seize this point of contact with Bangkok on the south and Burma on the west, just as we are seeking to reach eastward through Pra, and China-ward through Chieng-Hai? Is the Church planning for anything less than the occupation of Siam?

VI. We ask for two young ladies for Lakawn, one as teacher for the Boys' School, the other as teacher in the Girls' School. But while we want the ladies for the sake of the schools, we also want them in order to free the clerical missionaries for evangelistic work. The generous consent to the transfer of Mr. Irwin to Lapoon, and of Mr. Wilson to Raheng, leaves Lakawn short of missionary evangelists. The two remaining clergymen are much tied up in the routine of school work. And yet now seems to be the very time for such evangelistic work. Famine relief has overcome much prejudice and softened many hearts. The influence of missionaries and native Christians is widening. New centres of interest and work are opening. Evangelistic work was never before so pressing and so promising. If we would follow up the vantage ground gained in both educational and evangelistic work in Lakawn, two new workers must be sent this year.

VII. We renew the request for an additional physician for Chieng-Mai. The routine of medical work in Chieng-Mai is too much for one man. There are constantly hospital patients awaiting operations, major and minor. In case of illness of a fellow missionary, or of the physician himself, the missionary physician of Lakawn has to leave his work in Lakawn and come to Chieng-Mai for counsel. The Chieng-Mai physician has no time for vacations, no rest for himself or his family, no leisure for the preparation of a medical literature or the systematic instruction of assistants. And above all, he has no opportunity for medico-evangelistic work. We strive to make the telling of the Evangel our first business. We desire the additional physician chiefly in order to the house to house, soul to soul proclamation of salvation through the Great Physician. We appeal to Christian medical students and to young physicians to come and help. The Mission believes that the Lord has need of four of you in the Laos field this coming year.

VIII. We ask for an appropriation for a residence in Chieng-Mai. The house at present occupied by Rev. and Mrs. Phraner was built on the medical compound, and intended as a hospital ward. It is sorely needed for that purpose now. Unless it is intended to reduce the number of clerical missionaries in Chieng-Mai, another residence is a necessity. With two schools and a press, the preparation of literature, the care of three churches (one of them the oldest, largest, and most widely scattered church in the Mission), and another church to be organized this coming year, this parent station at the capital of the Laos country ought not to be deprived of any of her working force. If Mr. and Mrs. Phraner go to Chieng-Hai, a successor ought to be provided and a house built for him.

To summarize: We ask for 4 ministers, 4 physicians, their wives, and 2 young ladies—in all, 18 new laborers. We ask for the establishment of 3 new stations, and the building of 5 new residences, besides the enlargement of the Boys' School building.

We offer no apologies for the large amount asked. One of our number has thus voiced our unanimous feeling: "I believe that God has awakened us as a Mission and as individuals, and woe be unto us if we allow this awakening to go no further than our own hearts. I believe we ought to shout this call—shout it until the Church must hear it."

Tell the Church that the hand of God is in this matter. The Presbyterian Church has a free field and full responsibility in this Laos land. With a meagre force, and working on a small scale, we have been signally blessed in the past. We now appeal to the Church to seize the opportune moment, obey the voice of Christ, and evangelize the whole land. Our appeal is sanctioned by the judgment of every missionary on the field, by unusual providential openings, and by the most urgent necessities. It is backed by the prayers of all the missionaries, and, since the first day of the Week of Prayer, by the daily supplications of hundreds of Laos Christians.

The form of the answer we leave with Him who has inspired the prayer. It may be that one or more far-sighted, wealthy Christians may be led to make themselves a name, and earn an everlasting reward by handsomely endowing this Mission. We believe with Dr. Pierson, 'that the time is coming when men will dispose of whole estates, as Robert Haldane did of Airthry, that they may give the entire proceeds to the erection of new mission stations, and the sending forth of new missionary laborers.'

Or, the answer may come through increased contributions from the whole Church. The fact is that the Church as a whole has never yet undertaken to obey her Lord's commands. It may be that 'a little child shall lead them',—the little Laos Mission may be the one to sound the trumpet-call which shall start the whole Church on the Forward Movement of the new century of missions which is just opening."

What a tone of Providential urgency in this ringing appeal! What a tonic to the loyal heart of our Presbyterian Church in this blessing of God upon her far away mission field! Would that the coming General Assembly, however engrossing and exciting may be the pending questions which are just now to the fore in our Church life, might find time amidst the pressure of business, and the discussions of revision, and the perplexities of heresy trials to "still the soul" in special gratitude to God for His blessing, and in prayer for Divine guidance and inspiration in dealing with the urgent duty of making a prompt and liberal provision for her missions, and prosecuting with vigor during the coming year her grand work in the world.

THE OUTLOOK FROM CHIENG-MAI.

Chieng-Mai is itself a center of important missionary activities. Its literary work is full of promise. Its educational work, with its boarding-schools for boys and girls, where there were respectively 105 and 77 pupils in attendance; its medical work, with 4,500 cases during the past year; its printing press just established; its three churches, which received respectively, on confession of faith, during the last year, 170, 41, and 5 additions, making a total of 216,—all give to it an exceptional interest in our Laos field.

It is at present our northern frontier station, and its outlook to the north is one of singular attraction and promise. As we advance northward, the first point of interest is Papow, where a new church of 37 members has been organized during the year. Sixty miles to the north is Chieng-Dow, where a church is about to be organized, with 49 candidates for baptism and admission. Still to the north is Chieng-Hai, where there is a mission church, and still further to the north is the extreme limit of our field, Chieng-Sen, with its church of 30 members,—a "city set upon a hill" amidst the surrounding heathenism.

The interest of this northern outlook centres, however, upon the many Hill Tribes which occupy these outlying regions. They have been visited repeatedly by missionaries of the station, especially Dr. McGilvary, who has made prolonged tours of from three to six months in duration, during which he has visited tribe after tribe, and found among them a wonderful readiness to receive the Gospel. The prospect of winning these simple people is most encouraging, and through them a broad avenue of access to China can be made. An encouraging work has been already commenced among the Musurs, thirteen of whom have been admitted to the communion during the past year. In a recent letter Dr. McGilvary mentions the names of seventeen distinct mountain tribes to the northeast of the Chieng-Mai field, occupying regions upon both sides of the Cambodia River as far north as the borders of China, all of whom he regards as accessible to the missionary. Dr. McGilvary's last letter is full of urgent appeal for the opening of a new station at Chieng-Hai as a basis of operations for work among these mountain tribes. He wrote the letter just as he was about to start, accompanied by Rev. Robert Irwin, for a six month's mission tour into this deeply interesting field. May the prayers of God's people go with them into those wild mountain regions where they are seeking for souls, as self-denying and apostolic messengers of the Gospel to those who receive from their lips their first, and perhaps their only, message of the good news from heaven.

RELIEF FOR THE STARVING OF SIAM.

The cut on the next page is made from photographs which have been forwarded from Siam. It is a picture from life of the loaded animals ready to start from Lakawn, bearing baskets of rice to the famine-stricken districts of Siam. Those queer-looking packs upon the backs of the oxen represent some small portion of the relief funds which were sent from America for the help of the sufferers. Those who so kindly contributed here will look at this illustration with peculiar pleasure and interest, as it represents the money, which months ago they gave, transformed into food for those to whom it would soon be dispensed. Giving to foreign missions no doubt seems to many an act of faith which they would be glad to have accompanied by a more satisfying demonstration of the actual good done. In this case, through the thoughtful provision of one of the missionaries, the dollars which were given for the famine have been photographed en route, and the givers have the evidence of sight to assure them that money here in America means rice in Siam for famishing sufferers.

FAMINE AND FRUIT AT LAKAWN.

The past year has been one of material famine, and spiritual fruitfulness at Lakawn. The country to the eastward of this station was in sore distress during most of the year. The appeal for help which was published by our Board, and generously responded to, placed in the hands of our missionaries the facilities for relieving the sufferings of the people, and God's blessing upon their ministrations has opened a wide and effectual door for spiritual work among the villages. The money which friends in America gave to relieve the sufferings of the body has been instrumental in reaching the needs of the soul, and has borne the Living Bread of the Gospel to the famishing.

About fifty miles to the southeast of Lakawn is the town of Prâ, which has been a centre of famine relief, and where such a wonderful readiness and eagerness to receive the Gospel have become manifest that the Mission have unanimously requested permission to open a station there, and have placed this appeal first in importance in the list of new stations called for. The appeal last year was for a new station at Raheng, and although the urgency still remains, yet so unexpected and so overwhelming has been the call for the opening of Prâ, that the missionaries are urging the advance in this direction as something which takes precedence over other localities, although two months before the Annual Meeting there had been no thought on the part of the Mission of establishing a new station at Prâ. Let those who so generously contributed to the relief of the Laos famine rejoice and give thanks to God that He has graciously used the relief their gifts afforded to further the wonderful advance of the Gospel in that interesting field. Whole villages in the vicinity of Lakawn are becoming Christian. Dr. Peoples upon a recent visit to one of these villages, sent word back that the interest was so great that he could not leave.

The medical work at Lakawn, under Dr. Briggs, has included the treatment of over 3,000 patients at the Dispensary, and 100 in-patients at the Hospital. The medical work done by Dr. Peoples upon his tours during the famine was the means of saving many lives. He often treated as many as 60 persons in a single day.

The boarding-schools for boys and girls have been successfully conducted, and there have been 30 additions to the church of the station.

THE FIRST REPORT FROM LAPOON.

It will be remembered that the Lapoon Station of the Laos Mission was opened a year ago, by Rev. and Mrs. W. C. Dodd, who were transferred from Lakawn, and we have now the Report of its first year.

A new church was promptly organized at the opening of the year. It consisted of 121 adults and 94 children. These adults were transferred by letter from other churches which they had previously joined. Five elders and two deacons were at once ordained, and there have been 72 added to the church on confession of faith, during the past year, so that, counting out those who have died during the year, the whole number of communicants at present is 191. In addition to this evangelistic progress, there has been a great variety of work carried on in connection with a new station. Prominent among the various lines of effort has been the Theological Training-school which was removed to Lapoon, and a day-school which was opened there. In the Training-school there were 47 pupils from six provinces, and a conspicuous feature of the training which has been given these young men is the personal work which they have done in the neighboring out-stations. The medical work has made remarkable progress. A competent native trained by Dr. Peoples, in Lakawn, had charge of the dispensary, and during the year there were 1,244 patients treated, and we have reason to believe that in connection with this medical work at least nine have been brought to Christ. The station needs a competent physician at once to carry on this work. The crown of the year, however, has been the church work, with its Sabbath-school of over a hundred, and an evangelistic earnestness in the life of the church, which has been consistently maintained throughout the year. The congregation was divided into districts, and an elder assigned to each district. Three of these elders and two of the deacons have made evangelistic tours in the neighboring districts, and services have been regularly conducted in three of these villages during most of the year. Five new villages have been added to the church roll, and in many of the outlying districts there are candidates for baptism at the present time. The church contributions for the year amounted to $65.13. The Report closes with an expression of heartfelt thanks for the prosperity of the station during the year, for an increase of sixty per cent. in its church-membership, for the blessing of health to its members, for the favor of the civil authorities, for the opening of all the surrounding region to the Gospel, and for a Gospel to give them.

AN ENCOURAGING YEAR IN SIAM.

Our mission in Siam has had many and serious difficulties to contend with, but the work has been pushed on with unflagging zeal and devoted patience by a faithful band of missionaries for many years. The results have developed more slowly than in some other localities, but substantial progress has been made, and the last year has been one of special encouragements. A church membership of over 300 is now gathered in the mission.

The central station is Bangkok, the capital of Siam, where missionary work in all its departments is conducted with energy. It is a city with a population of 700,000, and is the key to Siam. The mission has exhibited to a remarkable degree the heroism of patience and the fidelity of consecration and the zeal of unflinching loyalty to high duty. Much seed has been sown, and already there are signs of the coming harvest. During the past year there have been 24 additions upon confession of faith, to the mission churches of Bangkok. The Gospel has been faithfully preached during the year, and flourishing Sabbath-schools have been conducted. Out-stations have been visited by the missionaries upon their tours, and especially encouraging incidents were connected with the visit of Mr. Eakin and Mr. Eckels to Nakawn. Upon this tour some 700 portions of the Scripture were sold. Mr. Snyder was also engaged in touring to the northward, and sold some 500 copies of the Scripture during his absence. At the High School for Boys at Bangkok there has been a total enrollment of 141 pupils, with an average attendance of 81. Seven of these pupils have been received into the Church. The Wang Lang Girls' School has been crowded during the year. Miss Cole has returned to her accustomed place in the institution. Four of the girls have been admitted to the Church during the year. Two of these young Christians are daughters of a Laos king of a province far to the north of Chieng-Mai. The press work, under the charge of Rev. J. B. Dunlap, has been pushed during the year. Two million pages of Scripture have been printed, and more than two million pages of tracts. The "Daybreak," the monthly periodical edited by Mr. Eakin, has already a paid-subscription list of 300, and its readers are scattered all over Siam and up into the Laos country. A second illustrated edition of 6,000 copies of "Pilgrim's Progress" and a "Life of Christ" were printed during the year.

The second station of importance is Petch-aburee, where there are four churches under the direction of Mr. McClure and Mr. Eckels, with native assistants. The missionaries of the station have been much engaged in touring during the year. Dr. Toy has had charge of the medical work of this station, and also of the hospital, which has been much improved. The boarding-schools for boys and girls have been in operation during the year.

A third station at the mission, and the most recent, having been occupied only since 1889, is Ratburee, under the charge of Dr. Thompson, who during his illness has been assisted by Mr. Eckels. Medical, educational, and evangelistic work have been conducted in connection with this locality, although the serious illness of both Dr. and Mrs. Thompson has crippled the station for a portion of the year, and it has been necessary that they should return to the United States for a year of rest.

Rev. E. P. Dunlap and wife have returned to Siam. The state of Mr. Dunlap's health rendered it for a time doubtful whether he would be able to take up again his labors in Siam, where he had already spent eighteen years as a missionary.

Letters.

AFRICA.

AMONG THE OUTSTATIONS.

REV. W. C. GAULT, Batanga.—We left Ehi-kihiki early on Monday morning, Nov. 7, and arrived at Evune Tuesday afternoon. The remainder of the week I spent with the session, chiefly in examining candidates for baptism. Some members of the church who were under suspension came before the session and were restored, while others were continued under suspension. A goodly number from the Catechumen class came forward for examination. Twelve adults were received into the church and were baptized on Sabbath morning.

For more than a year past leopards have been a source of terror to the Evune people, several persons having been killed in that district during the last year by them. The people do not venture far at night, and for this reason we did not have any night meetings.

At Myuma, ten or twelve miles north along the coast, we have a Bible reader and perhaps thirty-five members of the Evune church in the district. I found ninety-four names of persons who were in the Catechumen class. Because of tribal jealousies and fightings many of these persons were unable to go to Evune. As this state of things has existed for some years, I determined to visit the place with the elders of the Evune church and hold meetings of the Session. The people have built a small house of worship. Tuesday afternoon, all of Wednesday, all of Thursday, a greater part of Friday, and Saturday forenoon meetings of the Session were held.

Over fifty members of the Catechumen class were examined, of whom twenty-seven were accepted.

GATHERING THE SHEAVES.

On Sabbath morning the little house, which is fifty feet by twenty, was literally packed and many failed to get in. I had requested the elders to have the people so seated that a small space in front of the platform would be left vacant for the candidates for baptism. But to my surprise when I entered the house it seemed that every available foot was occupied, the people in front sitting on empty boxes, native stools and benches, blocks of wood, and women on a mat spread on the earthen floor. I would be putting it very mildly indeed did I say it was moderately warm for the preacher. Baptism was administered to the twenty-seven adults at the forenoon service, and in the afternoon the house was again crowded during the administration of the Lord's Supper. The people at this place desire a church organization and I will carry to the meeting of the Presbytery a petition asking that a church be organized in that district. Myuma is the centre of quite a population. There is a small tide-water stream of the Campo river, which has its source about a mile from Myuma, and people from the Campo above the point where this small stream empties into that river as far up as the rapids travel to the beach by this route.

CAMPO RAPIDS,—HOPEFUL FIELD.

I had arranged to go from there by this small river to the Campo and then ascend that river to the rapids to visit the people there, but failed to get a canoe. I sent my effects to the mouth of the Campo, while I walked by the beach. The next day I went by canoe with six men to paddle up the river to the rapids. We started about midday when the tide began to set up. It was a four hours' pull or more to the rapids. At its mouth there are several villages on each side of the river. Then for ten or twelve miles the land on each side is very low and swampy and almost uninhabitable. Above that the land along the river rises and is inhabited. The country about the rapids is more thickly settled. Within easy reach of the rapids there are twelve or fifteen villages and perhaps five hundred people. I have asked for the number of towns and inhabitants and hope to have it at the time of our annual meeting. There are a few Christians and a number of inquirers at this place. The head man of the village, where I passed the night, is a member of the Evune church and he and others asked that a Bible reader be sent to them. I told them that I could not do it, but I promised to see what could be done for them next year. They have built a small bamboo house in which to hold morning and evening prayers, and meetings on the Sabbath. I remained there over night and spoke to those who assembled for evening prayers. The next forenoon we descended the river to its mouth, arriving there about ten o'clock. One of the elders of the church recently organized at Ubenjo lives at the mouth of the river. On inquiry I found that he, and some members of the Catechumen class, were going to Ubenjo; he, as elder of the session, and they to meet the session of the church. They gave free passage to the "minister" and carried his traps as well. There were six or seven men, two women and a baby, all their luggage and a pile of native food.

The next morning,—Thursday, Thanksgiving with you, we arrived at Ubenjo between nine and ten o'clock. Mrs. Gault had sent a carrier from Ehikihiki with a small box of provisions, who arrived at Ubenjo an hour or two before I did. The provisions came in time to replenish my greatly diminished stock. It is a very difficult matter to get fowls or eggs or fresh fish, plantains or jams and then at exorbitant prices only, at some of these places.

The remaining days of the week were spent with the session and the preparatory service for the Sabbath. Eleven persons from the Catechumen class were received into the church.

SUMMING UP RESULTS.

I was very much encouraged by what I was permitted to see, as the results of the preaching of the Word. In all there were one hundred persons from the Catechumen classes examined for church membership, of whom fifty were received and baptized. Two or three among those who were examined told us of "real persecution" which they had endured for Christ's sake. I feel quite confident that had there been a more efficient man at Evune the results would have been still greater, and I am sure that, were these places visited more frequently than they have been, there would be better results. To this must be added the call to preach the gospel in places which should be occupied without delay.

INDIA.

CHURAHs AND CHAMARs—TWENTY-TWO BAPTIZED.

REV. K. C. CHATTERJEE, Hoshiarpore:—In the course of a recent tour I visited all the important places in the district and had the privilege of preaching the Gospel. In most of them there were inquirers and candidates for baptism, principally among the low caste people—Churahs and Chamars. They were all under instruction, and more or less advanced in their knowledge of Christian truths. Out of those who were most advanced, I baptized nineteen men at Dosnah, one in Tanda, one in Daudian, and one in Padiana. The work at Dosnah seemed to be most promising. Nizam-ud-din, who is working there, has a thorough hold on his people, and there seemed little or no fear of the work collapsing there. We need a prayer-house in this place and also in Tanda, and I hope you will be able to give small sums for this purpose. I hope to take from the people themselves all the help I can get from them. The work among the Churahs is more hopeful than that among the Chamars. The latter are still under the influence of the Plymouth Brethren. Last summer I had fondly hoped this opposition was over, but in this town I met with strong proofs of its still being in force. If it were not for this I would have been able to report much more blessing and success. The comfort, however, is that the work is the Lord's, and he is able to care for it, and will, I have no doubt, at last bring good out of the evil.

SIAM.

BUDDHISM IN NURSERY AND TEMPLE.

REV. J. A. EAKIN, Bangkok:—It is often a matter of surprise to those who know of Buddhism only from books, that people are content to believe in a religion without a personal God, and without a rational hope for the future life. A conversation which the writer had recently with one of the Princes, a brother of the King of Siam, may throw some light on this question.

The Prince is a genial, pleasant man, and quite well educated, though he has travelled but little. He was talking of the erroneous ideas of the Buddhist religion that prevail among the people of Siam, and he said: "Eighty per cent. of the common people do not know what Buddhism is." He insisted that the mass of the people held a religious belief that was essentially different from the teachings of Buddha on several important points. They worshipped spirits and prayed to a god, both of which were contrary to the precepts of Buddhism. They looked forward to a reward of merit or a punishment of demerit after this life is ended, instead of fixing their hopes upon the dreamless repose of Nirvana. He said: "When I was a child, I was taught to pray to the god; but when I grew up and entered the priesthood, I found that the teachings of the priests were very different from what my mother had taught me."

From this glimpse into a Royal nursery, we may learn somewhat of the common view of the religion of Buddha among educated people, as seen from the standpoint of a mother. The priest delights in abstractions, and teaches his pupil that there is no help for him except in himself. By his own efforts he must control his evil nature and prepare for that state in which joy and sorrow, hope and despair, love and hatred will be ended; nay, even thought will cease, and only existence will remain, in a sleep that knows no waking? But these abstractions will not satisfy the mother heart. She must have something more real upon which to rest her faith. In spite of the deadening effects of a religion centred in self, which teaches that there is nothing to hope for from above; in spite of her superstition and spiritual blindness, her soul still feels after God, if happily she may find him, and she teaches her little children to pray.

There is much agnosticism among the educated classes of the Siamese, especially among the younger men. There are many who are content with giving to all questions concerning the origin and government of the universe and the life beyond the grave, the simple answer, "I don't know." There are many others who still maintain that all things came by chance, and never lift their thoughts higher than the pinnacle of the pagoda spire; but the belief in a personal God is not easily eradicated from the human soul, and the people must have some object upon which to fix their faith.

In the conversation mentioned above, the Prince spoke of the orthodox doctrine of the way to order one's life in this world so that he would reach Nirvana at last. When he was asked whether it would not be better to teach that there is a Divine Father, and that when men die they may attain to eternal happiness in the future life, he looked thoughtful for a moment, and then said: "Yes, that is better. For the common people that is better; for the thought of future rewards and punishments will restrain them from vice. But for a man who is intelligent, and is able to control himself, I think that Buddhism is better." This was evidently the statement of a candid mind, and it is probably a fair example of the mental attitude of a large class of educated Siamese.

INDIA.

HOW RETRENCHMENT WORKS.

MRS. J. M. ALEXANDER, Allahabad:—Work for women upon the Katra side of the Allahabad station has been carried on as usual during the past mission year, and as it includes village schools and village Zenanas has not been without special interest. In Katra proper and in Colonelgany adjoining sixty-one Zenanas were visited and taught in regularly by our three Bible women up throughout the months until the order from the Board came sounding "retrenchment" along the lines of the Furrakhabad Mission stations. Then as all departments of work had to suffer, each called upon to bear its share of "the 12½ per cent. cut," I dismissed a Zenana visitor, and this meant the closing of twenty-five houses. Village work also had to come under the ban, so here a Bible woman was dismissed which meant a school left without a Christian teacher and six or eight Zenanas left without a visitor. All this was discouraging, but I am hopeful that another year will see a different state of things; that the Board realizing how very closely our work is estimated for, we shall not be required by its action to take backward steps on the foreign field. The two remaining Bible women have continued in full work.

PERSIA.

EVANGELISTIC WORK FOR WOMEN.

MRS. J. L. POTTER, Teheran:—The Christian Armenian women of our church had been, during the past year, much interested in the building and dedication of the new chapel. Their pride in the success of this enterprise and their satisfaction in having a place of their own, and of worshiping in their own tongue under God's blessing, appeared to give them a decided spiritual uplift. To take advantage of this and arouse in them more zeal, we organized in January a Woman's Christian Endeavor Society, whose meetings were held instead of the usual weekly prayer meeting. The immediate effect was a considerable improvement in attendance and interest in this meeting. The women were apparently pleased with the idea of belonging to a regularly organized society, but to a few the pledge proved a great obstacle; while professing to hold its spirit they could not bring themselves, by signing, to accept its letter. Those, however, who did take the pledge have striven to keep it faithfully. Later on in the year when special daily services of prayer were held by the church, the women were constant and earnest in attendance and consequently received a full share of the blessing. One at least felt that she experienced the new birth at this time, and others were strengthened and encouraged to serve the Lord. Several of these sisters are quietly seeking to persuade their Moslem neighbors that Jesus Christ is the Savior of the world; one finding opportunity as they come to her for eye-medicine, another seeks to speak her word while she waits for her groceries in the little wayside shop. So they show a very sincere desire to do what they can. The collections of the C. E. Society were entirely free-will offerings, being in addition to the amounts the members had pledged to the church. The idea was to drop into the little barrels, supplied for the purpose, one shahie [less than one cent] each week, also to gather thank-offerings for special favors received at God's hand. At one of the earlier meetings they voted to give the amount toward furnishing their chapel—which being an object dear to their hearts no doubt stirred them to greater effort, so that they have gathered during the nine months about eleven toman—one of which they devoted to some missionary case in Turkey brought to their notice by the native pastor.

JAPAN.

EDUCATION, OLD AND NEW.

D. B. McCARTER, M. D., Tokyo.—With reference to the character and disposition of the Japanese students of the present day as compared with those of twenty-five years ago, I will make some extracts from the "Japanese Mail," a newspaper subsidized, it is generally reported by the Japanese government, and which uniformly represents matters in the most favorable light possible to the Japanese. In speaking of the old College (or University as some call it) established by the Tokugawa Shoguns in A. D., 1690, and of which the present Imperial University is the successor, the editor says: "Its objects were political and ethical rather than scholastic. The Shogunate could never have maintained its pre-eminence for two and a half centuries, had the youth of the land been allowed freedom of thought. The studies of the young were all so arranged that unquestioning obedience to the higher powers should acquire all the force of habit. The present government is feeling the result of the growing liberty of thought prevailing throughout the country which modern education has done so much to foster. The instability of modern cabinets is the fault of the ministers who compose them. It is an unavoidable characteristic of the transition from despotism to constitutionalism. The present undue forwardness and conceit of Japanese youth is undoubtedly owing to defective or unsuitable education. Lads imbibe at school ideas of democratic government and the rights of subjects, which are incapable of being acted on in this country at the present time. By ceaseless agitation they keep the country in a ferment. Under the old system of education, no such results of academical training showed themselves. The motto of the institution (i. e., the Tokugawa University) was well expressed in words often used to describe the whole government policy of the Tokugawa Shoguns, "Not to make the people know, but to make them follow;" not enlightenment, but obedience. Discussions with teachers, such as may be heard in any of the modern schools of Tokyo, were not allowed, and a tendency to persist in altercation with the teacher often led to the expulsion of the scholar.

Notwithstanding its numerous defects, there is no denying that the Shohei Ko (Tokugawa University) turned out some very fine men. The habit of self-control and deference to lawful authority cultivated in the institution proved a most valuable preparation for the duties of life. Those fine moral instincts and courteous manners, whose decay in certain quarters is so much to be deplored, were nourished and developed in the Shohei Ko. From it were derived the tone of polished circles at the beginning of the Meiji era, as well as many of the influences which lessened the evils attending the revolution and accelerated the reconstruction of the fabric of Society.

Young people in the Church should originate their own plans. That keeps the work interesting and fresh. But to avoid the mistakes of inexperience, do nothing which your pastor does not approve.—Interior.

HOME MISSIONS.

UNITY IN CHRISTIAN WORK.—El Cajon is a beautiful valley, about 15 miles from San Diego, devoted largely to the raisin industry, though oranges and other fruits are grown in abundance. Aside from an Episcopal service in one of the school houses, ours is the only church, and has a constituency of about 80 families. Many are not Presbyterians, though working heartily with us. Baptists are especially numerous and especially diligent in every good work of the church, while having their membership in San Diego. In a series of meetings following the week of prayer, the Christian Endeavorers were very efficient both in their society and in individual work. Their Executive Committee asked all business houses to close in time for the evening meetings and all complied,—even the saloons. The interest was so general and the respect for the church so great that dances were postponed for lack of people to attend them. Could the cause of Christ be advanced as rapidly if there were two or three more churches?

This winter has been fruitful of revivals everywhere in our mission fields. Reports come to the Board of conversions and accessions to our churches in all parts of the country, but particularly in the great Northwest. Wherever Rev. B. Fay Mills has wrought the whole country round about has been blessed. We cannot even approximate the results, but we give a few of the mission churches that have reported accessions during the last three months. These are all new converts—none being counted that were received by letter, and none from self-supporting churches. Mr. Shields' church, in Omaha, 29; Emerson, Neb., 80; Parma, Mich., 80; Oklahoma City, 11; Shiloh, Cal., 10; Roxbury, Kas., 18; East Portland, Ore., 48; Maumee, O., 22; Hallister, Cal., 12; Quenemo, Kan., 22; Jasper, Mo., 8; Third Church, Sioux City, Iowa, 89; Gordon, Neb., 20; Elm Springs, I. T., 18; Iola, Kan., 18; Caldwell, Kan., 81; Halstead, Kan., 31; Cherryvale, Kan., 29; Moreland, Ill., 16; Winchester, Ill., 12; La Junta, Col., 5; one of our mission churches in Baltimore, 31; another in the same city, 7; Akron, Ia., 10; San Juan, Wash., 10; Tablequah, I. T., 18; Seymour, Tex., 5; Warsaw, Ill., 6; Groton, S. D., 17; Ord, Neb., 6; Rome, Kan., 16; Reading, Mich., 5; Taos, N. M., 32; Santa Fe, 16 (5 of them Mexican girls from our mission school); Upper Alton, Ill., 18; Somerville, Mass., 18; Branchport, N. Y., 18; Fourth Church, Kansas City, 6; Tenth Church, Chicago, 15; Centenary, Spokane, 4; Edmunds, O. T., 4; Beaver Creek, Minn., 14; Golden Gate, Cal., 14; Ft. Wrangell, Alaska, 18; Washington College, Tenn., 30.

Rev. A. M. Darley, our missionary among the Mexicans in Southern Colorado, reports five revivals in his immense parish, with many conversions, but he has not reported the number. At Huerfano, one of his points, 4 were recently received.

One of our missionaries in Florida writes us that the temperature had fallen to 27 degrees! and there was frost! This created "great consternation" among his people and "interfered materially with the services and the size of the congregations." The same mail brought a letter from a missionary in Montana in which he informs us that the snow was deep and the temperature down to "60 below zero, one morning," and had ranged for some time "among the fifties," but that "the services had been held regularly, with good attendance."

"Greenland's icy mountains!
and "Afric's sunny fountains" are both on Uncle Sam's farm.

Our church at Woonsocket, South Dakota, deserves great credit for reaching self support, and their able young pastor, Rev. Charles F. Richardson, deserves and has received our hearty congratulations for success in that on which he set his heart with unyielding determination in the face of great difficulties. He has proved what energy, consecration and pluck can do.

But he has his match in Rev. David Wallace in Fountain, Kans., who writes:

I am very glad to be able to report that this little congregation of 20 members has decided to ask no further aid from the Board of Home Missions after this financial year.

Our German missionary at Ramsey and Germania, Iowa, in a very interesting report, gives the following statement in his quaint English:

The most important and good news of our congregation is we have a new church building, dedicated January 23. We feel very glad for the Lord's blessing that He has given us a church building. The work is done in peace, a great offering of the congregation. She is 40x24 feet, high 14 feet. In the new town of Germania until yet is it the only church building in town. We try to get preaching in English just as well as in German speaking.

Those of our readers who follow the monthly topics will be glad to know something about our Utah schools this month, as they continue to be the principal agency in our work among the Mormons. From the report of one of our teachers we take the following clear statement:

With all the opposition we hold our own, for the school is about as large as ever. We have some children from strong Mormon homes, but as one mother just said to us to-day she did not intend to let religion stand in the way of an education for her boys. Still on the other hand a young boy started two weeks ago, but his father forced him to leave our school or leave home. The public schools are under the control of Mormon trustees and teachers so they are over-crowded, but every little while we get a new scholar who becomes disgusted at not learning and braves everything in coming to us. The Sabbath-school is growing and very interesting. The Y. P. S. C. E. still carries on the weekly prayer meeting and is a power in our church.

School was never in better condition. We have more pupils from strong Mormon families than ever. Last Sabbath evening one of the Elders of the Mormon Church, whose duty it was to exhort, said, "Why is it our young men and women are wanting to go to the Presbyterian School? My friends, I know it is because they learn something there. They have to obey the rules, and are not allowed to curse and swear. We must be on the lookout or those Presbyterian teachers will get control of our children." Our enrollment for the year up to date is 140.

A letter from one of our missionaries in the northwest part of New Mexico assures us that the Mormon propaganda is actively at work in that locality—and with the usual immoral results. He says:

The Mormon element in the community is becoming more aggressive, have regular services conducted by missionaries in the home of one of the well-to do and influential families. It does not grow much of late, but has a strong hold upon the wealthier farmers.

The community is fearfully ignorant. Natives for the most part cannot read or write. Gambling and intemperance do dreadful work among the young men. Immorality is looked upon with the utmost unconcern; the barriers of shame and contempt do not exist. Illegitimacy does not stamp mother or child as having done anything or being out of the usual order of things. It is only just to say that it has been much worse. We are attracting a large number of young men to our Sabbath-evening service. Six pews are usually packed full of these. The church is for the most part of young people and this is the only hope of the community. The older ones we cannot get hold of; our work is among the youthful.

Rev. J. Maxwell, of Rugby, North Dakota, makes a very strong statement, but we are inclined to believe that the facts, if they could only be ascertained, would bear him out. He says: "There is not a church in any of our presbyteries, be they ever so weak, but will contribute something to the schemes of our Church if asked to do so. It all depends on the minister. The deficiency in our Treasury of Home Missions Fund arises from lack of interest on the part of ministers. They do not bring the matter before their people."

Some years ago the Board of Foreign Missions, acting under instructions from the General Assembly, transferred to the Board of Home Missions all the Indian work under their charge in which primary schools were maintained and instruction was given in the English language, retaining those missions in which the vernacular was used.

In the judgment of the Foreign Board the time has come when all the balance of this work should be transferred to the Home Board. All arrangements have been made by the two Boards for the transfer and it will be done May 1, subject to the approval of the General Assembly.

This change will no doubt involve the severing of very tender ties between the Foreign Board and the Indians, for whom they have so long and faithfully labored. It will also involve additional responsibilities and increased expenditures on the part of the Home Board. Let this be borne in mind by the friends of Home Missions and the friends of the Indians everywhere.

The death of Mr. John Taylor Johnston, which occurred in New York City March 24, removed another charter member from the Board of Home Missions and an honored name from its roll. Of the fifteen charter members in 1872 but five are now living, and only three are now connected with the Board. Two of these, Rev. Thomas S. Hastings, D. D., and Mr. George R. Lockwood are members, and the third, Rev. William C. Roberts, D. D., is a Secretary of the Board.

Mr. Johnston was a firm believer in Home Missions and an ardent friend of Home Missionaries. For years physical infirmities prevented his attendance upon the meetings of the Board, but did not prevent his liberal and regular remittances to its treasury.

Our missionary at Lewiston, Idaho, has been greatly afflicted during the past year with an illness that threatens serious results. Nevertheless he has been greatly blessed in his work, as the following extract from a recent letter shows: "It will be two years tomorrow since I first preached in Lewiston. Religion was at a low ebb. I could get but one member of my congregation then to assist in prayer meeting. Last night no less than thirteen took part."

HOME MISSIONS.

REV. CHARLES HERR, D. D.

[A sermon delivered to the writer's Congregation in Jersey City.]

The months have brought us around again to the privilege and duty of making contributions from the money of which God has made us stewards for the work of prepagating the gospel in our own country. The Church has created the Board of Home Missions for its prosecution. The work is of such far reaching importance, of such extended and diversified character, requiring such special study, such ceaseless attention and such intelligent wisdom that for many years now it has been needful to charge particular men with the responsibility of guiding our labors and applying our benevolence. Some idea of the enormous labor and complicated concerns connected with the administration of this Board may be gotten from the fact that 1479 missionaries were under appointment and direction last year, and that the work was prosecuted in every section of our wide land, except South Carolina, Georgia, Mississippi and Louisiana. Men more capable, eminent and worthy the confidence of the Church could hardly be found than those who are now entrusted with this branch of our missionary work. The economy, wisdom and devotedness of their administration are deserving of all praise and gratitude.

The Presbyterian Church is thoroughly committed to the work of Home Missions.

1. For the sake of Christian honor.

The eastern rim of our country was at the very first moment of occupation consecrated, nominally at least, to the cross. Columbus and his company, as soon as they stepped upon the new-discovered soil, knelt and with tears thanked God. The great discoverer named the island San Salvador (Holy Redeemer) and claimed it for the sovereignty of Jesus Christ. And whatever may have been their motives, the hallowing act was completed and seemed to control every subsequent settlement upon this Northern Continent.

The motive of the Dutch, of the Pilgrims, of the Puritans, of the Catholics, of the Huguenots was to serve Christ in this new land where no bigot would interfere with the freedom of their worship and no enemy could defeat the honor they would show to their Lord. Those whom we counted a high distinction to call our fathers sought these shores not simply as refugees, but as missionaries. "A great hope and inward zeal they had of laying some good foundation for propagating and advancing the gospel of the Kingdom of Christ in these remote parts of the world." Such were their own words. They came not for gold; but for conscience sake and Christ's sake.

Our land was long ago consecrated to King Immanuel. That obligation can never pass away. In the minds of Christians this has always been the Lord's land, and no other claim has ever been, or can ever be, recognized by them. Heathen lands they seek to conquer for Him; this they seek to hold for Him. Because it is already His by the sacred act of the pioneer settlers who laid it at the feet of Jesus, and by the confirmations of their pious example on the part of the successive generations until now.

This motive will support the people of God until the work of Home Missions has been completed. The work touches the core of the Christian's loyalty to his Master. This is a promised land for Christ, and can never lose the glory of its anointing.

2. For the sake of our country's prosperity.

We are committed to the work of Home Missions, because we are patriots in the truest sense of the word. It is because we enthusiastically believe that the glory of our country which puts her to-day in many respects in the van of the nations is due to that spiritual and evangelical type of Christianity which has marked her history until now. It is because we believe that both the continuance of her progress and the very preservation of the blessings that she has must depend upon her being faithful to that righteousness which has exalted her to this pitch of glory.

The greatness of heroic acts is not in themselves, but in the character of the hero behind them. If you want to repeat the acts you must first catch the spirit and reproduce the motives of the hero. No mechanical and slavish imitation can ever rival the work of the master. The material products and industrial triumphs, the securities of liberty and comforts of life, which emblazon our civilization, are signs of the great and peculiar manhood behind them. It is not to be denied that certain conditions of natural advantage must exist to make any prosperity possible. But when we are seeking for the ultimate and dominant cause for national eminence we look for it in the people themselves. The natural character of Greece was wonderfully suited to the development of a high civilization, but no man ascribes the glory of Greece to the climate and configuration of the land, else why is the sun of its prosperity set, why is it to-day only a nation's sepulchre? Fertility of soil, rich veins of minerals ribbing its everlasting hills cannot make a barbarous people rich and great. It is the manhood making use of all these conditions that is decisive of a nation's greatness.

On the North American continent there has been developed a manhood higher, stronger, more sagacious, and more capable than any which the world has yet seen. A manhood that gets more out of the soil, that applies a more determined and inventive genius to the problems of mechanical progress, that guides its political institutions more fully by a true standard of liberty and right. So that in its wealth, in its products and manufactures, in its beneficent political organization, in its past achievements and its abounding enthusiasm of progress, it stands easily first on the face of the globe.

This manhood, which is the glory of America, is the fruit of the gospel. It is because the religion of Christ has existed here in a purer type and has operated more simply and directly upon the conscience and heart of the people that we have made such unexampled growth in strength, richness and happiness. Jesus Christ and Him crucified furnished the motive for opening the virgin soil of this land, and His standard has been carried step by step westward from the shores of the sea. Divine principles of truth have had marked adherence in our history. The revelation of human duty in the Scriptures has been generally recognized as the standard by which our national life should be guided. We have honored God's laws, and He has honored us and blest us.

The Christian would rather see the land robbed of anything else than its religion, for the manhood that grows by faith in Christ can renew the face of the land in more than its previous grandeur. The Christian would rather see the World's Fair bankrupt and a failure than the nation burdened with the guilt of dishonoring the Lord's Day. Nothing is fatal or irremediable, but to forsake the obedience of God. The spectacle of France to day is the spectacle of a nation wallowing in the mire of corruption because it forsook its God. The future of our land, the security of its liberty, the continuance of its prosperity, the preservation of its honor, will depend upon the continuing prevalence of the gospel of God's grace and the increasing enthronement of His will in the hearts of the people.

3. We are committed to the Christianization of our country also, because it is the best vantage ground for the conversion of the world to Christ.

"Westward the course of empire takes its way." The Pacific seaboard is the last point in the westward reach of civilization. De Tocqueville remarked that populations have moved westward as though driven by the hand of God. From Persia the sceptre passed to Greece, from Greece to Italy, from Italy to Great Britain, and the sceptre is now departing from Great Britain. The last possible limit westward is the Golden Gate. There is no further west. Beyond is the hoary Orient. In our own land, then, that movement which has marked mankind since prehistoric times reaches its culmination and the civilization here produced will be flower of the world.

This is a marvelous opportunity of the Christian Church; one might dare to say this is the last opportunity of the Christian Church. Our people upon whom the ends of the world have come, in whom are centering the most significant upward tendencies of human history—the Anglo-Saxon people, of whom our own branch is manifesting the most extraordinary development and power—is far the highest and most promising instrument in the hands of the Church for the conversion of the world. See what the Anglo-Saxon has already done in the work of world-wide missions, his energy, his devotion and success far outstripping all rivalry. If the Church should lose her hold upon the Anglo-Saxon, where could she turn for an equal intelligence, zeal, consecration and power? What Christian men anywhere shall take up the task of impressing their spirit and beliefs upon the world if Americans shall lay it down?

The glorious ambition and duty of the Church is to make the mighty people of this country, destined, we trust, to reach inconceivable heights of prosperity and influence, a solid force for Christ in the world. It is the Church's opportunity. If she devotes herself with all the sincerity of her heart and all the energy of her brain to this achievement, then the day will speedily come when this race of ours will give laws to mankind, when its will will be mightier than armies, when its principles of government and religion will be revered and embraced by our fellowmen everywhere, when its distinctive characteristics, liberty and a spiritual Christianity, will be disseminated over the earth with the authority of an overwhelming moral and national preëminence.

For these reasons the Church braces herself, and ought to brace herself far more earnestly, to contend for the honor of Christ, for the prosperity of our land, for the conversion of the world. In contending for these things she is contending for what is fundamental in the Christian's conviction and fundamental in the world's advance.

To-day is a critical moment in this Holy War. In every decisive battle there is a bridge of destiny. The fight for Cemetery Hill was the critical instant in a critical battle in a critical campaign in a critical war for the nation's endangered life. To-day is the nick of time in the struggle of contending forces for this country. To-day is the time for sacrifice and toil. It is a remarkable fact that every successive year and stage seems to be the nick of time in this immense war. Fifty years ago it was truly said by Dr. Lyman Beecher: "Now is the nick of time in matters which reach into eternity, now is always the nick of time. One man now is worth a hundred 50 years hence. One dollar now is worth a thousand then." Such words are more true still of the hour which is passing by us now. The crisis has been pushed forward year by year. The culminating engagement has been deferred. And it will still be true that each moment is critical until the ridge of destiny is reached, until the last crisis has come, until the central struggle of our history arrives—and from that moment one force will be conqueror and the others be steadily driven from the field.

The final crisis has not yet come. At least, we trust it has not. We may be defeated already and not know it. It seems sometimes as if the enemies have outgrown the forces of good by gigantic leaps, so towering have they come to be.

Immigration is pouring every year upon us a flood of more than a half million people, the vast majority of whom are of the lowest mental and moral character, neither understanding nor having sympathy with our Christian institutions, and forming a part of our population startling in their menace. They have already captured our great cities and committed our municipal governments to knaves and pilferers. It will perhaps surprise you to know that out of 1,489,000 white inhabitants of New York city, 1,219,000 are either foreign born or born of foreign parents—about 5 to 1. Out of 160,766 white inhabitants in Jersey City, 119,167 are either foreign born or born of foreign parents, about 4 to 1 born of native parents. The foreigner has conquered our cities and does what he will with them.

Romanism has developed with immense energy, filling the land with its power and pretension, displaying the lavish pomp of a cardinal's court in our national capital, defeating a Presidential candidate when he is obnoxious on ecclesiastical grounds, and gathering its forces with clear-eyed and unparalleled energy to contest at no distant day the supremacy of this coming empire of the world.

Intemperance seems to be fastening itself with an ever firmer and more determined grip upon us, millions of gallons more of whiskey and beer are made every year, and the liquor dealer's associations are grown to be herculean giants, resolute to uphold the man-murdering saloon.

Wealth is increasing at a dizzy rate, engendering the vices of covetousness and selfishness as it grows; often the fruit of gross, unrebuked, unpunished theft and crime, and sordidizing the ambitions of our countrymen as the world shows no previous example of.

A tremendous element in the conflict is the amazing indifference of semi-Christians, their blindness to the vast transactions of which they are unavoidably an appreciable influence; careless in the very matters which most touch the heart of the struggle; disobedient to the Sabbath in their private lives, and willing that the nation should take that universal attitude, and otherwise (because they are disloyal to Christ), playing into the hands of those who seek to sweep away the distinctive and holy palladiums of our institutions.

It is possible that all these, and other like forces, have increased more than the forces of evangelical religion. But we do not believe that the crisis is past. We do not believe that it has yet come. But it is coming with ever-increasing rapidity. The movements are, with a rush, accumulating force for the decisive struggle. The day is near when America shall begin to assume her final phase and quality. We are in "the perilous and dancing balance."

We are living, we are dwelling,
In a grand and awful time,
In an age on ages telling—
To be living is sublime.

Is the Presbyterian Church alive to the importance of the time? Let the record of the Board for the last two years make answer! The gifts of the churches for the years 1890-91 were so disappointing and deficient that the year closed in May, 1891, with a debt of $98,000. To May, 1892, the receipts were $926,000, a decrease of $70,000 from the amount reported the year before. Yet the debt was reduced by $81,000. How was that decrease affected? Why, by retrenchment—"by that hateful and absolutely godless thing, retrenchment." By bringing untold hardship upon the missionaries because of the reduction of salaries and the delay in forwarding them. By refusing to enter the open fields and answer the cries of distress. "The Presbyterian Church has stood still, or retrograded, while the country has gone on rapidly, and the devil left free to go on with it. It is the piercing fact."

May not our own beloved Church take a distinct, worthy, Christlike stand in this great matter of the preservation of our land, and thereby the conversion of the world? Ought it not to launch itself into these priceless interests with the self-abandonment of soldiers that fight for their own firesides; with a loyalty to Christ like that of soldiers that fight for the honor of their land, which is to them dearer than life? Ought not every member of this congregation to realize it as his bounden duty, as his sacred privilege, as one great function of his life—in the disregard of which he is an unfaithful and un-Christian man—to contribute his own modicum of faith and prayer and zeal and money to the holy cause of Home Missions.

No Christian lives for himself. No Church exists for itself. Every Christian should stand in his place and testify in every variety of manner in order that power may go out from Him through all this broad land and to the ends of the earth. This Church should be a compact Christian force, standing, not in one spot, but in the world, communicating its magnetic touch to every isle and continent, like the vibrations of the light that seeks out all things. So that it can be truly said that in Kohlapur, in Tokyo, in Zanzibar, in Alaska and New Mexico, the Kingdom of God would lack some minute but real character of beauty and power but for this Church. There would be one less fair blossom here and there on Mother Earth but for the tiny tendril going forth from this Church.

I call upon all in the name of Christ to exercise with me the spirit of consecration, the spirit of speed, the spirit of benevolence, the spirit of prayer, that our land may grow in spiritual glory, and that the whole earth may know that the Father sent the Son to be the Redeemer and King of men.

Concert of Prayer for Church Work at Home

JANUARY,	The New West.
FEBRUARY,	The Indians.
MARCH,	The Older States.
APRIL,	The Cities.
MAY,	The Mormons.
JUNE,	Our Missionaries.
JULY,	Results of the Year.
AUGUST,	Romanists and Foreigners.
SEPTEMBER,	The Outlook.
OCTOBER,	The Treasury.
NOVEMBER,	The Mexicans.
DECEMBER,	The South.

THE MORMONS.

A great deal of information on the subject of our Monthly concert is given in the Home Mission letters, which appear on other pages of this issue. These letters were not written for publication, but were selected from the current correspondence of the missionaries. They present a most hopeful view of the work they represent.

Our work among the Mormons was never before so well organized as at the present time. During no other year of its history were the results more satisfactory than during the past year. The enthusiasm of our missionaries among that strangely misguided people never ran higher, the triumphs of the gospel were never more marked, and the progress of our American civilization never more rapid than at the present time.

The Amnesty proclamation issued by President Harrison some months ago restoring convicted Mormons to citizenship was a recognition of the progress of events in Utah. But it must not be thought that Mormonism is dead, or that Utah is ready for statehood, or that it has ceased to be a field for vigorous missionary effort. Even if polygamy has been abolished (an hypothesis by no means established,) it remains a fact that the Mormons have not surrendered a single one of their primary principles. Polygamy has been a political problem, but a problem only because of its complications with the fundamental principles of the Mormon system. Polygamy or bigamy is not a problem anywhere else in the United States. It is a simple crime, easily detected and punished. In Utah it has been entrenched in a system of which it forms no necessary part but in the development of which it is an incident. Polygamy has been of great service to the Mormons in keeping them distinct and separate from all other people. Whatever may have led to its adoption this is the great service which it has rendered and which it was intended to render. They sought every means of separation from the rest of the world but failed in every attempt even in their removal to Utah, until polygamy was proclaimed and established. This was successful. Nothing could more completely segregate them from the rest of the world than polygamy. If it is gone, in truth, they still have their system intact.

Neither is their worship an alarming part of their system, though they worship not the God of the Bible nor the Christian's Saviour. In a nation governed as ours is governed, it is the legal right of the Mormons and everybody else to worship whom or what they please, so long as they so order their worship as not to interfere with constitutional rights. Nobody has ever made an effort, except by the earnest persuasions of truth, to restrain them from the free exercise of this natural and inalienable right. The trouble all through their history has been the stubborn fact that they have not at any time regarded these legal restrictions. The government which they established has been opposed in theory and in operation, to the government of the United States. The constitutional guarantee of a republican form of government to all the citizens of the United States was obstructed and defeated so far as it applied to the subjects of the Mormon Church. Had these obstructions been confined to matters of religion it is doubtful if there would have been the disposition on the part of any one to interfere, since a fundamental principle of our civil institutions is the liberty of conscience in worship. But the Mormon people erected not only an ecclesiastical but a civil government as well—a government whose antagonism to the constitution of the United States existed both in form and intent. In form it is not only a hierarchy with a body of officers disposed organically in ranks and orders, each subordinate to the one above it, but it is a monarchy, the whole body, together with their subjects, being subordinate to a divinely appointed head, whose powers are limited, not by constitution or other human authority, but by the immediate will of deity alone, of which the monarch is himself the sole interpreter. In intent it is hostile to the personal liberty which it is the first office of the constitution of the United States to promote. This is the great evil of Mormonism. Persistent as have been the efforts of their apologists to shift the issue from this fundamental evil to a single non-essential feature of the system, polygamy, the fact remains that the crime of Mormonism is the same as that of the Southern confederacy, viz.: rebellion against the government and the erection of another and opposing one; a crime which cost us four years of bloody war and uncounted treasure of life and money. Indeed, the disloyalty of the Mormons exceeds that of the confederacy, for the confederacy was a republic, and its subjects still had the guaranteed republican form of government. But the Mormon hierarchy denied every semblance of popular voice in the control of its secular as well as its religious affairs. "Do as you are told and ask no questions" was the iron law of the realm. Its subjects have been oppressed in a most unAmerican way. They have had no voice in the choice of their rulers nor in the formation or execution of their laws. Theirs is a government not "of the people" but of God; not "by the people" but by the hierarchy; not for the people" but for the monarch, whose abject subjects the people are compelled to be.

It will not answer to say that the affairs of Utah are now practically under American control, and that therefore the above statements are antiquated, for the real rule of Mormonism is not external nor always apparent. The secular as well as ecclesiastical control resides in the priesthood, whose operative government is directly opposed to the civil laws which the same priests may enact in the Legislature. The whole purpose and intent of their secular control was the exclusion of all who were alien to their faith, and the reduction of the members of this Church to absolute and unquestioning obedience in all matters, secular as well as religious. Exclusiveness was essential to their design.

Under such a system there can be no freedom of thought and no independence of action, hence industries of all kinds must be paralyzed. No motive to enterprise can exist. Indolence, ignorance and intellectual lassitude must inevitably follow. These were, in fact, the swift results of the system, and were always observed where the Mormons held undisputed sway.

From such a condition Utah has been, to an encouraging degree, redeemed by federal control, by the enforced prevalence of gentile ideas, by the stimulating and uplifting influences of our mission schools, and by the liberating power of the Gospel by which Christ doth make all his people free.

If it now be asked, Why is not Utah ready for Statehood when it has such a large, wealthy and influential element of non-Mormons—many railroads and the industries they have created, and a general uplift which society has received from our missionary operations and the enforcement of righteous laws? it must be remembered that in case of Statehood the Mormons would sufficiently outnumber the gentiles with their resident population, even if they should not call in their multitudes scattered among the nations, to paralyze by unfriendly legislation those branches of business upon which gentiles depend, and thus discourage and gradually drive out all undesirable elements. The State constitution necessary to admission to the Union, and the laws they might enact consistent therewith, might satisfy federal requirements without in the least curtailing the power of the priesthood. It would be not a difficult task to close the mining industry of Utah by a single legislative act which would be perfectly constitutional, at least in the judgment of a friendly judiciary. And there are many ways of so managing the land and water rights as to "freeze out" farmers and stockmen. And as for the business of the merchant and the professional men, what claim could they set up of invaded rights if perchance their patronage should suddenly cease by the apparently free volition of the people. It is perfectly clear that the bright future of Utah depends upon a continuance of federal protection to the civilizing forces with which she is at present blessed.

Letters.

ALASKA.

REV. A. E. AUSTIN, Sitka.—We have been in an unsettled state part of the time the past year, having put up a partition in the school room for the better accommodation of the teachers before the church was finished. The history of the troubles encountered in building the walls of Jerusalem and their beloved Zion, by the Jews on their return from Babylon, is more interesting and instructive than ever, now that I have had the experience of building a church. It was finished so that we held our first service in it October 16, 1892. It is the finest building of its kind in Alaska, and it is the work of native boys who were trained in our Industrial School. This fact seems to be a very surprising one to many of the tourists who visit us. The natives seem to think as much of it, as did the Jews of Solomon's Temple. The Lord has filled it with his presence and it has already become a birth-place of souls. Last Sabbath seven of the boys and girls united with the church. Two of these boys graduated from the school, and have been away from Sitka some time. One of them, Wm. Hunter, joined the Roman Catholic Church before he entered the school and for years has resisted our appeals and the appeals of his friends to join our church, but he finally came of his own accord. There is a deep religious interest pervading the school at present. Many of them are seeking the Lord, and our childrens' prayer-meetings are like the Mount of Transfiguration. It is a trial to close them and like Peter we want to build tabernacles and stay on the mountain top of vision and glory. We are expecting that the Lord will do great things for us. Some of our new teachers are like salt full of savor, and, like cities on the hill-tops, their light cannot be hid. We are feeling the good effects, and reaping some of the first fruits of the visit of our friends from the "Board" last summer. While we have had an addition of seventeen to our membership the past year, in our report the item of total number of communicants shows an increase of only three members, from the fact that we lost fourteen members by death, dismissal to other churches, etc. Three of them have united with the church at Fort Wrangel, Rev. Dr. Thwing's. In like manner several will take their letters from here and join the church at Hoonah, Bro. McFarland's. Many come here from these distant villages, influenced by friends who live here, stay for months, sometimes for years, to hear the Gospel and then desire to join this church before returning to their native home. When it is possible, I try to have them join the church in their own villages to cheer the hearts of my brother missionaries, who labor under great disadvantages and who need their help, and because they can look after them and care for them better than I can. I place the value of the church down town (for whites) at $1000. The native church at $5000. The material cost about half that sum, the rest I count for labor. As it was built by our boys it did not cost us anything directly. I mention this, that you may know how to insure. Our collections amount to $97.87 I have paid to the Home Mission Board, $19 of this sum in baskets. I can say very little of the "surrounding regions." Have never been at Haines, or at any of the other Mission Stations since I returned from the East in 1889. Never met Bro. Warne or Jones. Hear good reports from them and from Dr. Thwing at Wrangel. I can say that we all want your earnest prayers for a blessing on the word, work and workers. We hope and pray that the President will appoint men to fill the offices here who will be in sympathy with missions, schools and the poor natives. Commissioners have more to do with the natives than any of the other officials.

NEBRASKA.

THOMAS L. SEXTON, D. D., S. M.:—In the last three months services have been conducted every Sabbath in one or more places. I have held communion at Benedict, Wood River, Waterloo, Valley, Adams, Raymond, Sterling and Blue Springs. I have dedicated new church buildings at Osmond and Holdrege. New buildings have been dedicated also at Tecumseh and Cole-ridge. I have preached at Rushville, Lodge Pole, Elgin, Palmyra, and Bennet, and moderated a call for pastor at Fall River. The most marked feature of our State work is manifested in the extent and number of revivals. Omaha, Lincoln, Beatrice, Hastings, York, Fall City, and many other churches have enjoyed great refreshing from the presence of the Lord.

In Omaha and Lincoln special evangelistic workers have been employed, and their efforts have been crowned with great success.

In other churches, the pastors have carried forward the work with such aid as could be obtained from the neighboring pastors. These manifestations of saving grace were foreshadowed in the annual meeting of our Synod, where much prayer was offered in behalf of this cause.

We have a large number of vacant churches. Arrangements have been made with a number of students to come out and see some of them as soon as the churches can be induced to arrange for their traveling expenses. The students of our Omaha Seminary are doing very good work. Mr. McNinch is supplying the church at Lyons. Mr. Enders is supplying the Adams church. Mr. Litherland is to supply our church at Sterling. These are members of the middle class.

Mr. Carnahan is supplying the church of Grandview. Mr. Armstrong is supplying the churches of Raymond and Ceresco. Mr. Oastler goes out to different places as he has opportunity. Mr. Baranek, a Bohemian, goes out to Wilbur and some other points. Thus it may be seen that the Omaha Seminary is even now helping us very much in our work. I have given two lectures to the Junior class on the subject of Home Missions.

UTAH, IDAHO, AND MONTANA.

REV. S. E. WISHARD, D. D., S. M.:—My last report was made to the Synod at Ogden, almost two years ago, hence this report must cover the period since that meeting—one year and eleven months.

I.—IN THE PRESBYTERY OF MONTANA.

The following churches have been organized, viz; The church of Neihart of Phillipsburgh; of Hamilton in the Bitter Root Valley; of Pony, the Holland church in the Gallatin Valley, and the church of Armells in Fergus County above Lewiston. This church is in the diocese of Rev. George Edwards, who supplies four or five other points in that county.

Rev. E. M. Ellis has been transferred from the work at Stevensville and Victor to the more important work of State S. S. Missionary, leaving the two fields which he had occupied to Mr. Hope, a student from Union Theological Seminary. Mr. Bradford who formerly supplied Grantsdale and Hamilton, has returned to the Seminary, leaving these two points also in the hands of Mr. Hope, who now is the only supply for Grantsdale, Hamilton, Corvallis, Victor, Stevensville and one out station.

Rev. Mr. Donaldson has accepted a call to the church at Bozeman, left vacant by the retirement of Dr. Sanderson.

A pastor, Rev. Mr. Campbell, has been secured to take the church at Missoula from which Mr. Lamont retired during the last year. The vacancy in the Central Church of Helena has been supplied during the year by licentiate F. W. Pool. Rev. Mr. Clyde has taken our vacant pulpit at Anaconda. Mr. C. H. Grube has taken charge of the church organized at Phillipsburg, also supplies the out stations at the mining camp of Black Pines, twelve miles away. Rev. Mr. Lynn has accepted the work and taken charge of our churches at Boulder Valley and Wickes. The members of the Holland church brought their pastor with them, Rev. D. E. Deuninck, who has been received into the Presbytery and is assisted in part by our Board. Rev. Andrew Wormser, from the Reform Church in Michigan has been received into the Presbytery and has been appointed Presbyterial Missionary, having especially in charge the settlement of a colony of Hollanders just now coming into Montana. Rev. I. N. Roberts has been appointed by the Board to open a mission in the city of Butte, and has reached the field and commenced his labors. Rev. Mr. Millar has been installed pastor in the church at Deer Lodge, left vacant by the election of the former pastor, Rev. James Reid, to the Presidency of the College of Montana.

MEN WANTED.

The churches at Nelhart and Pony, organized within the period covered by this report, are still vacant. Two good men are needed for these fields. The churches at Kallispell and Dillon have completed and dedicated houses of worship, well adapted to their wants; and the young church of Phillipsburg has a building well under way to be completed the coming season.

Our S. S. Missionary has organized a Sunday-school at Havre, a growing town on the Great Northern R. R., at the junction of the Branch running south through the Great Falls and Helena to Butte. There are Presbyterian families at Havre, awaiting the visit of your Missionary. We need four men at once to take work at Nelhart, Pony, Havre and in Choteau County. At least a month of solid work ought to be given to the exploration of the field along the line of the Great Northern R. R. While four members of the Presbytery have sought labor beyond its bounds, eleven have come to our help.

II—THE PRESBYTERY OF WOOD RIVER.

Considerable growth is to be reported in that field. Four new churches have been organized, viz; at Soldier, Idaho Falls, Soda Springs and Paris. Three men have come to our help in this Presbytery, Rev. E. N. Murphy at Bellevue; Rev. T. J. Hedges at Idaho Falls and Rev. George Lamb at Montpelier. Mr. Mead, formerly at Montpelier, has accepted the work as S. S. Missionary in the Presbytery. The church at Idaho Falls completed and dedicated a house of worship before the coming of a minister and is doing excellent work under Rev. Mr. Hedges in that growing town. A house of worship has been erected also at Nampa. The Presbytery has located and organized at Caldwell the Idaho College, which has been opened and is now in its second year of work, with an attendance of twenty students. Three more men are needed at once—one to take the mission at South Boise and a country station five miles away, another to take our church at Soda Springs and open a mission station in Gentile Valley, another to locate at Idaho City and take possession of that Valley. Explorations ought to be made at once at Silver City, the County Seat of Owyhee County, Albion in Cassia County, and Salmon City in the County of Lemhi on the north. Here is a work that will require three months to do it well.

III. THE PRESBYTERY OF UTAH

With its peculiar and difficult surroundings, is still, in the language of Dr. Kendall "pounding away." Our brethren in this Presbytery have the habit of staying, and to this important fact we are indebted for whatever progress has marked the passing years. Only three churches have been organized during the period now reported, namely: the church at Kaysville, Salt Lake City Third and the church at Spanish Fork. Evanston and Ogden are still vacant. A telegram from New York informs us that Rev. R. B. Ewing and wife would leave Pittsburgh on the 21st to take our work at Ogden; they are expected next Sabbath. Rev. Mr. Greene having closed his work at Logan, a temporary supply has been secured. Negotiations are now pending from which Rev. F. L. Hayden of Avoca, Iowa, it is hoped, may be permanently secured for Logan. Rev. W. S. Willson has taken our work at Nephi and is succeeding well. Rev. H. H. McCreery entered the field at Mt. Pleasant and is doing valuable service. One of the hopeful features of our work in this Presbytery is found in the fact that the ministers are uniting and assisting each other in evangelistic work in their fields and with very encouraging results.

The church at Springville has sold its former house of worship which was somewhat unfavorably located and is building a convenient and attractive house on the Academy grounds. The house is nearing completion and will add to our facilities for successful work when finished.

We need seven men to fill our vacancies and push our work in fields that ought to be occupied. In addition to the men who, we trust are secured for Logan and Ogden, we want a man for Evanston, another for Monroe, another for Parowan, another for Cedar City, another for St. George and another for Fillmore and Scipio.

I am in correspondence with Phillip Palmer, who graduates at McCormick Seminary in a few weeks, (brother of Miss Alice Palmer, who laid down her life and sleeps at Monroe,) in reference to his settlement in that field. The Board has also promised us a man for St. George, and I am in correspondence with a man for that field.

Since my last report the two Academies, Wasatch and New Jersey, have been completed and opened and are in successful operation, giving us practically four Academies. Our twenty-six mission schools have nearly two thousand pupils in training—including Academies—and are generally doing good work.

The summary of the period covered by this work gives us in the Synod thirteen additional churches, sixteen additional men, four new houses of worship, two academies completed, one college organized and doing good work, one home for our mission teachers erected.

During this period I have preached over three hundred sermons and traveled 86,629 miles, received unvarying kindness in the homes of the noblest company of Home Mission brethren and sisters with whom it has been the privilege of any missionary to toil.

UTAH.

REV. N. E. CLEMENSON, Richfield.—If Utah should be admitted into the Union by the incoming Administration, it would be a dreadful mistake, and an awful calamity to Christian missions and American civilization. There has really been no change in Mormonism as such. The system claims the same divine authority and power and right to dictate and rule that it always did. It is simply masquerading behind a published "manifesto" and the "party lines" division" for effect—to blind the American people, while the Church secures its "independence." The cloven foot is covered, to be sure, but back of the covering, in all its monstrous blasphemy and arrogance, lurks the grinning un-American, un-Christian issue, which can never be anything less than a menace to our free institutions, an insult to the American home, and a perpetual blotch on the civilization of this country. The Mormon people need more light—more of the gospel of the Son of God—and not more civil power. Let the missionary forces be strengthened, that the young people and the children may be educated and fitted for American citizenship; and then, in due time, Utah will be ready for her place in the glorious galaxy of States, where she will honor the nation as a Christian State.

REV. JOSIAH MCCLAIN, Salt Lake City.—We thought for a little time Statehood was sure, and that made us breathe hard, but now the danger is over, for a time at least, and we are breathing easier. It makes an honest American sick to think of Statehood for Utah at the present time. It is a great comfort to think the Lord reigns. Our work in all parts of Utah is very encouraging this year. The schools are largely attended, and the people are attending the preaching services well. On the whole we are making progress in spite of difficulties. I have never felt better satisfied with the work.

REV. W. R. CAMPBELL, Mendon.—The school is preparing the way for the more public and general preaching of the truth. Our congregations in Wellsville are as yet almost entirely made up of children. These are of course always the more hopeful hearers; but, besides this, another year of such a growing attendance on the part of the children will result in bringing many of their parents out on the Sabbath to hear the preaching of the Word.

The total enrollment in the two Sabbath-schools in this field is now 84. This is an increase of 14 over the last quarter.

Formerly, those who came to our services seemed to come for recreation merely, or for the purpose of criticising our work. Now there seems to be a genuine desire to worship God, and to hear the preaching of his Word.

But the most hopeful sign of all is the way opportunities are all the time arising for personal conversation on the subject of religion.

MONTANA.

REV. J. F. LYNN, Boulder:—Boulder Sabbath-school collection averaged 29 cts. per member during the month of February; 21 cts. per member during January. We stand highest in the State in giving. Our Sabbath-school in Boulder will hereafter give a regular collection to the Home, Foreign and Sabbath-school Work Boards. Our church has decided to give to all the Boards this year. I have 40 members who pledged 5 cts. per week for our Boards. Since January we have raised $15 by these pledges.

The Boulder church has given me a unanimous call to become their permanent pastor. They have decided to undertake self-support. It will require a heavy sacrifice on the part of the people, but we believe that, under the blessing of God, we shall succeed.

During the last year we have paid off the mortgage ($400) on the parsonage. The trustees now control $8,000 worth of church property free of debt. We feel very grateful for the aid given us in years past, and we hope to pay back all that has been received.

WASHINGTON.

REV. WILLIAM RIDING, Prescott:—At Prescott we held seven days special services in January and February, which were well attended. It was just delightful to see the sleighs with their indispensable bells gliding in night after night, though the temperature was sometimes twelve degrees below zero. Divine quickening was the result.

In February we held seven days' services at Starbuck. Mrs. Riding spent the week with me there, and together we visited nearly every house in Starbuck. We were generally well received and our meetings increased in numbers and interest; our last meeting was the best. At both places the people are asking for more such services.

CALIFORNIA.

REV. E. R. MILLS, San Pedro:—During the month of January I held special services every night, except Saturday, and there was a very good interest. A few decided to be Christians, and church members were much refreshed. In the last three or four weeks there has been a remarkable work of grace in the community. Special meetings have been held every night, most of them in the "Mission," as it is called. A few godly persons have been at work over a year trying to reach the sailors and 'longshoremen especially. These efforts have been blessed in the conversion of a good number, coming one at a time. But for the past three weeks there has been a great enlargement of the work. Members of the church congregations have been converted; several of my own people are of the number. Christians are greatly revived, and we think the work is only begun.

San Pedro has been one of the vilest towns on this whole coast. It has a very notorious reputation for wickedness. One man came into the meeting drunk one evening last week and is now a converted man, I believe. I might tell of several wonderful cases of conversion. I cannot tell you how happy I am in this blessed work. It gives me more joy than words are able to express. The work here had seemed almost hopeless of any results, but now the Lord is answering prayer in a wonderful way.

How blessed it is to hear men speak in these meetings of the love of God to them, who a few weeks ago were indulging in drinking, profanity and other vices! A good number of our young people have been converted and are taking hold of Christian work. "The Lord hath done great things for us whereof we are glad."

NEW MEXICO.

REV. W. WILLIAMS, Santa Fe:—At El Quemado I was very well received. So in all places. Here I preached in Spanish and had a congregation of 100, all thirsting for the Gospel. This is a very important centre for our work, being surrounded by a population of 2000 souls—church members, 15. A church building is required here, and certainly a school, for which the people are exceedingly anxious.

Potrero, a great Catholic stronghold, is in the neighborhood. Between this place and Dulce in the northwest, we have a vast country white for the harvest. There are at least 10,000 souls craving for the Gospel and education in this Territory—all tired of the darkness of Catholicism. At Dulce and Amargo I preached twice in Spanish, the people remaining for hours after the ordinary services to be further taught. Their implicit obedience to the Word of God is beautiful and strong to the extreme. I made personal visits to as many families as I could, and was everywhere well received. Here we have 25 members. Distance from Santa Fe, 200 miles. In connection with these places I have arranged for the establishment of six Sunday-schools in addition to what they have. We have arranged to build a church near Amargo and one at El Quemado. At Amargo we find a very good centre for aggressive work. Here people offer us a very good opportunity for immediate action. They offer the house to our Board, will pay at least $18 monthly towards the salary of our teacher, and provide a room. Here we could have a commanding centre.

KANSAS.

REV. J. C. SEFTON, Arkansas City:—A lady has just now called, who had come fourteen miles through a snow storm, to ask me to come and preach for them. She tells me there are fifteen persons who are Presbyterians living in the community in which she lives. The nearest church is ten miles from them. I could not resist the "Please, wont you come and preach for us, if only once in a while," so I promised to go. I will write again in regard to the field.

NEW MEXICO.

REV. W. WILLIAMS, Santa Fe:—Our great need is that of teachers and evangelists. I have in my district half a dozen places and more begging for a school. And the cry for more preaching is weighing heavily upon our hearts. The district schools are worse than worthless—being in charge of teachers who cannot even write their own names, and in too many cases alas! placed there by knaves for the money the position contains. The Catholic priests are enemies of the public schools, as they want to keep the country in ignorance. Do impress upon the Board to back us as far as ever possible. This is the battle of the Lord against the mighty. If friends in the East would know of this vast, wide and ripe field for the Savior waiting for workers, they would only be too glad to assist us.

Everything is waiting for more liberality in Christian benevolence. All the native helpers on my field are compelled to go on their farms because we have no means to pay them.

I am to work in the counties of Santa Fe and Rio Arriba, covering a country in a direct line of from 250 to 300 miles. Travelling here is very expensive, six cents a mile.

Now in my contract I see that the Board has placed $200 against the churches of my district.

We have only two, and these very weak and poor. They cannot possibly meet this amount. I am willing to do my best to get what they can pay.

SOUTH DAKOTA.

REV. M. N. ADAMS, Good Will.—With this date closes a period of six years service in this field of labor. On entering this field, and, resuming missionary work among the Dakotas six years ago, the supervision of the native Dakota churches on the Sisseton Reservation and the Chaplaincy of the two boarding schools, located so nearly together there, at Good Will and Sisseton Agency, as stipulated to me, presented an inviting and prospectively interesting field of labor, with assurances in my own mind and heart, that, the work to be done in each, is one and the same: viz.—to bring the children and youth, as well as the adults, to Christ, the Savior of men. And, I therefore endeavored to do what I could, to that end. I may safely say, that, our labors here were “not in vain in the Lord,” for, many of the pupils of these schools were, by divine grace, converted and united with the churches at their homes on the reservation; and, the influence upon their parents and friends, in their homes, has in many instances, been the means of great mental, moral and spiritual good to the households and homes of the Dakotas.

This is one of the best fruits of the system of educating and training the children and youth at home institutions and among their own people, in contradistinction from that of sending them abroad.

The work of superintending, counselling, praying with and for, the native pastors, and elders, was an arduous, but interesting and grateful work, and, it pleased God, to bless it to the good of these dear brethren, and the little flocks over which He had placed them.

During these six years, it devolved on me, in addition to preaching the Gospel of Christ statedly in the English language every Sabbath afternoon, at Good Will, to a full house, composed of the pupils, teachers and officers of both the Mission Boarding-school and the U. S. Industrial Boarding-school and the employes of the schools of the Sisseton Agency, also, to be present and assist in the S. S. and Bible Class exercises, and, at the Sabbath evening song service, as well as at the Wednesday evening prayer meetings, all of which, were sustained largely for the special benefit of the pupils connected with the two schools.

For the first four and a half years, I had the special charge and tuition of a Normal Class of young men in Bible History and Biblical Antiquities, with special reference to their preparation to teach among their own people.

Not unfrequently it devolved on me to take charge of the Sabbath morning Dakota service, and conduct the same in the Dakota language, in the absence of the pastor, on account of his illness, or when called away on business.

My occasional visits and labors with the pastors and their people, at their churches and homes were uniformly welcomed, and, I humbly trust, they were helpful to them, as they were gratifying and interesting to me.

Meantime, I had also the superintendence and raising of funds, and, the building of two new churches; to wit.—One at Mountain Head; and, the other, at Long Hollow; and, of putting on an addition to the Good Will Church, all of which, with the aid of the Board of Church Election, have been completed free of debt, and, are now occupied and thankfully enjoyed as houses of worship by these converts from heathenism to Christianity.

And here taking a still greater retrospective view, I may state, that, years ago, I had the honor of materially aiding and personally superintending the erection of the Ascension Presbyterian Church, of which, Rev. J. B. Renvill is the pastor, and, also, of erecting one frame and two brick school houses on this, the Sisseton Reservation, for the Sisseton and Wahpeton Dakota Indians.

In its very earliest struggle for life, 1871-1875, it was my privilege, to foster and materially aid the Good Will Mission school. Meantime, I had the honor, to plan and personally superintend the erection, furnishing and filling with pupils, and, supplying teachers for the east half of the present large and beautiful United States Government Manual Labor Boarding-school, situated only about half a mile east of our Good Will Mission school, S. D.

And now that the time, anticipated for my retirement is even more than fulfilled, I do gratefully accept the situation, and, feel all the more cheerful in retiring from active service in this particular field of Christian labor, since, one so worthy and every way eminently fitted for the work takes my place. I would respectfully bespeak for him all that sympathy, support and encouragement which he will surely need in the arduous work upon which he has entered.

And, now, although we retire from this particular field, and, from the missionary work among these Dakotas, the people of our first love and service in Christ forty-four years ago, we do not abandon our faith in "the Gospel of Christ, as the power of God," to save the Dakotas, nor, is our love for them abated, nor our interest in their intellectual, moral and spiritual welfare diminished.

Our prayer for them without ceasing, shall be that, they may be saved of the Lord. And to Him shall be all the praise and glory forever.

NORTH CAROLINA.

REV. FRANK M. FOX, Riceville.—I left Saturday afternoon, going towards Reems Creek, where I was to preach the following day. After riding eight miles through a blizzard I stopped for the night. In the morning a deep snow was on the ground, it was very cold and the wind was high. After breaking my way four miles through the snow and wind I came up to the church. The doors had blown open, the snow had blown half way across the room, and lay drifted in a great pile. One young man arrived just as I did. There was no fire, and no wood to be found either in or outside. We worked until the snow was removed from the room, broke up a board which we found and kindled a temporary fire, and under great difficulties proceeded to have a little service all to ourselves. We did not sing, for we were too cold, but I read the eighteenth chapter of Matthew, very encouraging for such a gathering, then I asked him to pray. He never had prayed before any one, he said, but after talking the matter over he finally consented and offered his first public prayer. Then I followed in prayer, and the Lord fulfilled the precious promises which we had just read, for He surely was with us and gave us a blessing. It is needless to say that young man is a candidate for the Boys' School. Through great drifts of snow I crossed the mountain that afternoon and reached the parsonage at Riceville before dark. That was the coldest Sunday night we had. The next morning, finding that we were out of wood, after fruitless attempts to hire the mountaineers from their homes or from the rabbit hunt, I was compelled to go to the woods and chop all the day and then carry to the house what we had to burn.

HOME MISSION APPOINTMENTS.

W. J. Gregory, Fairville,	N. Y.	G. Bray, Aurora,	Neb.
J. G. Patterson, D. D., East Harlem of New York City,	"	A. F. Ashley, Fairmont,	"
A. McQueen, Tuscorora,	"	B. Beall, Lincoln, 8d,	"
J. Dixon, Rouse's Point,	"	N. S. Lowrie, Lambert, Inman, South Fork and Bethany,	"
R. Abbott, Bay Road and French Mountain,	Pa.	W. Weaver, Graham,	Mo.
W. E. Faulkner, Mountain Top and Sugar Notch,	Fla.	J. A. Gallaher, St. Louis, Clifton Heights,	"
J. Foy, Titusville,	Ohio	W. Forteous, St. Louis, Westminster,	"
H. Wilson, Conway, Middle Point and Harrison,	Ill.	A. Scott, Central City and Black Hawk,	Col.
H. B. Miller, Doylestown and Marshallville,	"	G. T. Crissman, D. D., South Denver,	"
J. A. Gray, Grand Crossing, Brookline,	"	F. A. Walter, Valverde and Manchester,	"
H. Clarke, Coal City, New Hope,	"	F. M. Gilchrist, San Luis Valley, Mexican	Utah
W. H. Hormel, Chicago, Olivet,	"	S. E. Wishard, D. D., Synodical Missionary,	Mont.
W. D. McFarland, Morgan Park,	"	A. R. Crawford, Dillon, 1st,	Idaho
J. W. Campbell, Herscher,	"	W. Cobleigh, Rathdrum,	Wash.
S. L. Gamble, Gardner,	"	H. F. White, Kelso, Freeport and Castle Rock,	"
G. A. Pollock, Elgin, House of Hope,	"	J. R. Thompson, D. D., Vancouver,	"
T. Towler, Norris,	Mich.	R. G. Pettibone, Tenino and South Union,	"
L. R. Simpson, Fairfield Hillman and Long Rapids,	"	J. H. Reynard, Tacoma, Edison,	"
T. M. Waller, Rice Lake and Chetek,	Wis.	B. D. Sinclair, Seattle, Calvary,	"
J. M. Smith, Morgan,	Minn.	B. M. Gemmill, Anacortes, Westminster,	"
N. H. Bell, Pastor at Large,	"	D. M. Davenport, Sumner,	"
I. E. Markus, Minneapolis, 1st Swedish,	"	R. Liddell, Everett, 1st,	"
W. H. Hunter, East Grand Forks, Mendenhall Memorial,	"	T. C. Armstrong, Spokane, Centenary,	"
J. B. Hobart, Edgeley, Monango and Fullerton,	N. D.	S. Woods, Lewiston, 1st,	Oreg.
E. W. Day, Lisbon, 1st,	"	A. S. Foster, Medford,	"
J. Scott Langdon,	"	M. S. Riddle, Woodburn and Aurora,	Cal.
H. W. Presley, Rapid City,	S. D.	W. L. Johnston, Fillmore and stations,	"
A. Kegel, Ebenezer, German,	"	H. P. Wilber, San Fernando and Newhall,	"
A. Burr, Endeavor and Union,	"	C. M. Fisher, Los Angeles, Grandview,	"
C. R. Crawford, Good Will,	"	F. S. Thomas, Oakland, Prospect Hill,	"
C. DeHaal, Howell, Holland,	Iowa.	D. T. McClelland, Pleasanton,	"
F. W. Grossman, Yorktown, Norwich and stations,	"	I. N. Hurd, Concord,	"
W. W. Lewis, West Union, Bethel,	"	J. A. Gardiner, San Francisco, Holly Park,	"
J. M. Smith, Gilmore City, 1st	"	F. S. Witter, Elko, Wells, Carlin, Star Valley,	Nev.
J. S. Davis, Williams,	"	Lemoille and stations,	"

COLLEGES AND ACADEMIES.

ONE EXAMPLE.

Here is what a young man, now a student in Princeton Theological Seminary, for six years in the college to which he refers, says in a recent letter to the President of the college:

"How is the college doing now? O that I could be settled with you in that noble and blessed work! I have an ineffable longing to know and teach Greek, with all the influence such a station will give me over young lives, to direct and inspire them toward wisdom and toward God. Dear old  , what do I not owe to it? And the sweet home life in  ; its remembrance through all the future will be like dreams of home and love and heaven. I heard a lady one evening here at the piano playing and singing "Jerusalem the Golden" and other hymns of Laudes Domini as we used to sing them in the sacred evening hour at  . That music, Doctor, with all its train of memories! I long after you all with unutterable longing. When shall I sit and worship with you again? My noble benefactor, my more than friend, how can I, or any other of your students, ever repay you for the blessings which you made to surround our lives? Blessings which did not perish with the hour, but which shall fill our minds with sweet and noble ideals, and our hearts with gratitude and singing, all our days. God bless you with every blessing."

And the college president to whom this was written sends a letter containing such sentences as these following:

"Gradually and reluctantly I have come to the conviction that I cannot endure this college position longer than this year. . . . The conditions are better than ever before. The Trustees were never so united. . . . The college has never been in so hopeful a condition as to-day. . . . Never so largely attended as now, and never so high a grade of students. . . . My hold upon the students is all that I could ask. I never was more happy. But, alas! I am bankrupt. Except for a trust or credit, unmerited, I and my family would be—I will not write what; I dare not. I am not disheartened, I never had a cooler courage than now. My faith is calm and confident. I know all is well, because "He doeth all things well." But I cannot live among these students, many of whom need a little material help, without helping them. I have not squandered a penny. I cannot see the college suffering without adding a little. We have  children; salary $ , receivable months and months after due. This is all. I am willing to make sacrifices, and here, and still glad to suffer if it be God's will. I am sure money will come to  College. I cannot see how I can live here until it shall come. I believe there will be a great institution here."

Can our Church afford to lose such a man from one of our most important posts? $5,000 given now will secure $10,000 or $15,000 more in the vicinity of this college, to erect buildings which will accommodate scores of students now turned away for lack of room for them, make the college self-supporting, pay the President's salary promptly, and (we hope) retain this able, consecrated, most successful man in his place. Who will give it now through this Board?

BELLEVUE COLLEGE.

DAVID R. KERR, D. D., PRESIDENT.

[The college is at Bellevue, Nebraska, a suburb of Omaha.]

TITLE AND PROPERTY STATEMENT.

The deed held by the Board of Trustees creates a trust "in perpetuity" of 50 acres for campus; requires that none of the residue of lands be sold before the year 1900, when the trustees will have full power of sale; that all buildings erected before the year 1919 shall be placed upon the 50 acres held in perpetuity.

BELLEVUE COLLEGE.

PROPERTY.

Clarke Hall (cost).....	$20,000 00
Elwina Hall (cost).....	12,000 00
50 acres of campus at $500.....	25,000 00
214 acres College lands at $250.....	53,500 00
17 Village lots at $100..	1,700 00
2 Cottages.....	2,200 00
Endowment notes.....	2,250 00.. $116,650 00

CASH COST OF OBTAINING THIS PROPERTY.

Buildings.....	$12,000 00
Expense to June, 1892..	80,600 00
Improvements to June, 1892.....	600 00
Endowments.....	2,250 00.... $45,450 00

SUPPORT.

1890-91 Churches of Nebraska contributed.....	$1,061 69
1890-91 Individuals contributed.....	2,167 99.... $3,229 68

ECONOMY.

No debt has ever been carried over from one year to another.

Average salary paid teachers, including president, $616.
Total salary for 6 teachers.....	$3,700 00
Janitor, fuel, repairs, etc..	1,500 00.... $5,200 00
Income from rentals, tuitions and interest.....	2,715 00
Income from Board of Aid for Colleges.....	1,100 00.... $3,815 00
We are dependent on churches and individuals for balance.....	$1,885 00

GRADE OF WORK.

A member of our class of 1892, Mr. C. A. Mitchell, is now taking high rank in Princeton Theological Seminary; two others stand high in Omaha Seminary. Among our students are thirteen candidates for the ministry.

PLAN AND NEEDS.

Our plan is the College Hall, or dormitory system. Every room the College can own for the use of students will bring an income in room rentals and tuitions of $100 per College year. A Hall now projected, with bids for its erection at a cost of $16,000, would bring an income of $4,000 per year, and make the College self-sustaining. We can secure students to fill such a Hall at once, and fill another such each year for several years to come. We have not yet means to erect this building.

The attendance cannot be increased until we get added buildings. We have now eighty students.

Moral safety, progress and patriotism demand such an institution.

SMALL COLLEGES.—When is a college small? Measured by their area in square miles, or the number of their resident inhabitants, some of the States of our Union would be small. But when you count the millions of Western acres of which they hold the title deeds, and number the throbs of those industries which they control, and which shake every State in the Union, and above all when you enumerate the many thousands of their sons whose heart-strings, stretched but not broken, bind them to the parental homes, you learn how large the little States are. So with the college—so with Hamilton! Measured by her material wealth, counted by her undergraduates, she is a small college. But when you remember those in every State, and almost every country, who still call her MOTHER; when you tell the story of their achievement, in every vocation where honor is won and truth illustrated; when you measure the influence of Hamilton, is she a small college?

So spoke Dr. H. B. Silliman, a trustee but not an alumnus of Hamilton, at the recent happy inauguration of President Stryker. But his words would be no less true of Williams, of Dartmouth, of Amherst, of Wabash, of Wooster, of Illinois, and of so many more that it would take no small page to contain the names of them.

EDUCATION.

BOARD OF EDUCATION.

A series of able and instructive articles by a "Christian Patriot" on the dangers which threaten our country, have recently appeared in the "Presbyterian Banner," which deserve to be widely read as a virtual call to greater zeal in the work of evangelizing our nation. They appeal to every man's love of country and furnish motives for action of a very imperative kind. Among the dangers mentioned, and fully demonstrated by statistics, are first, the fearful increase of the most flagrant crimes that to a large extent go unpunished, and are even shielded by powerful organizations. Again, a prevailing eagerness to acquire wealth, prompting to dishonesty of every form—to embezzlement, to gambling, to illicit traffic, to political corruption—all of which go to destroy confidence between man and man, and serve to dissolve the bonds of society. Thirdly, the enormous growth of the saloon power, not only operating to promote poverty and intemperance and unspeakable degradation and misery, but also to become a dominant factor in politics, influencing elections, controlling legislation, or thwarting the execution of righteous law. Fourthly, special emphasis is put upon the evils arising from our vast heterogeneous immigrant population that of late years has been so rapidly deteriorating in quality, and is largely imbued with alien ideas and customs, and yet is speedily admitted to a share in our civil administration to serve the designs of demagogues. Other evils were suggested which we have not room to specify. These are enough to show the situation.

Now it is one of the common places of a sound political philosophy that a republic can long exist only where the masses of the people are intelligent and virtuous and disposed to conduct themselves in accordance with righteous law. Its institutions in order to be stable must rest on the solid foundations of a sound moral character in those who take part in administering them. But such a character can be secured only by the general prevalence of religious truth enlightening public opinion and controlling the popular will. If this be so, these evils which have just been mentioned, disastrous as they must be to our liberty, can be arrested only by the spread of that Gospel, the aim of which is to qualify a man for freedom by emancipating him from the thralldom of his native selfish propensities, and enabling him to live in accordance with reason and conscience. The true freeman is he whom Christ makes free.

But how can the prevalence of this Gospel be effected? It is mainly through preaching—preaching in all practical forms, and that, too, by an order of men who are called of God for this purpose and are qualified for their vocation by a suitable experience and training. Other agencies indeed there are that are doing good, aggressive work, but these are subordinate. The leadership is in the Christian Ministry. It is theirs to explain and enforce the truths which instruct and renew the heart, and under God are mighty in the pulling down of the strongholds of sin and Satan. It is theirs, also, to enlist and organize the companies that are to engage in the conflict with all the powers of darkness. Wherever they are planted, if true to their calling, they become centres of benevolent influences, which change the aspect of the most corrupt communities. Order begins to reign where once was confusion; vice and crime are gradually repressed; institutions of learning are established, and charitable organizations spring up; the law is better enforced, and the place becomes more desirable to live in. Said the late Governor Pennington of New Jersey, while sitting one Sunday afternoon on the front porch of his house, to a man he knew that was passing by: "Neighbor, where do you go to church?" "I don't go anywhere," was the reply. "Supposing all should do like you," responded the Governor, "and there were no churches or ministers in the city, how would it be then?" "I would want to move out of here pretty quick," answered the man. It was the spontaneous testimony of an irreligious but candid mind, to the indispensableness of religion to even the secular interests of a community. This holds good on a large scale no less than on a small one. Let the evils above indicated prevail, and our liberty instead of being a blessing would prove a curse. Our fate would be to become the victims of ambitious and unscrupulous men, or associations of men, as recent events in some of our States and cities are ominously demonstrating.

Evidently then, the true policy of every sincere lover of his country, whether he be a professing Christian or not, is to do what he can towards producing a ministry of the right sort for the more thorough evangelization of our nation. We want men who, regardless of personal comfort, will be ready to go into the moral wastes of our new Territories and into the foulest slums of our cities, and there help to rescue the fallen and the degraded, and to qualify them for good citizenship both in the Republic and in the Kingdom of Heaven. We have not enough of such men. Thank God there are some who are doing nobly in this cause, but their number ought to be multiplied largely. We want ministers also of various tongues, fitted to labor among the several nationalities that are gathered here. Many of these differ so widely from us in their grades of civilization and in their constitutional proclivities, that it will take more than the simple participation in our liberties to assimilate them to us. A thorough religious Protestant education alone can accomplish this. And for this we Presbyterians have not provided our full share of adequate instrumentalities. It is true, we have done something towards supplying a German ministry, but the two institutions we have founded for this object are sadly crippled for lack of accommodations and support. They need to be enlarged and more liberally endowed, and to have additional departments for instruction in Italian, and Russian, and Scandinavian, and other languages. For the furtherance of this fundamentally important object we earnestly appeal to the patriotic sentiments of every citizen that loves his country and desires the permanence of its free institutions. Every motive of sound policy prompts to liberal contributions in this direction. If this large foreign element is ever to be assimilated to us, it must be by the power of that free Gospel which has made us what we are. Allowing all that is due to the cementing power of our republican civilization, the strongest bands that bind us together are moral and religious ones. Let these be dissolved and it will be as when the timbers of a palace are rotting within, when all looks fair without. A collapse will be sure to occur under the pressure of any strong excitement that may be aroused. Warnings of such an issue we are constantly having in our neighboring republics. Let us heed them and do our best thoroughly to evangelize every portion of our land and every class in it, by providing an adequate force of earnest Gospel ministers. To withhold in this business more than is meet tends to anarchy.

The reduction which the Board has been obliged to make in its appropriations to students in consequence of the limited contributions of the churches, has borne hardly upon quite a number of the students. Especially is this true in regard to those in Biddle University. President Sanders writes us: "Notwithstanding the exercise of the most rigid economy, our students will not be able to pay their absolutely necessary expenses here for the year. This will bring them in debt to the University for board and books, which will be a hard burden to bear."

Another President, whose position entitles him to a hearing, writes: "Explain it as we may, it is a fact that 'God hath chosen the poor of this world rich in faith;' and it is a further fact, that most of the young men who enter the ministry, whether from city or the country, are poor. * * * Many of these candidates are the sons of ministers who have no accumulated estate; many are the sons of farmers and artisans and small merchants who are barely able to support their families; many are in their theological course, having been brought through college without assistance, but whose fathers in doing this have exhausted their resources, or having other children, cannot rightfully deprive them of like advantages."

Under these circumstances, ought not a wealthy church to deem it a privilege to contribute liberally towards their education, and not subject them to the constant humiliation of not being able to meet their board bills, or to supply themselves with necessary clothing?

FREEDMEN.

THE YEAR 1892-3.

REV. J. T. GIBSON.

The year just closed will be reckoned an Epoch in the history of the work of the Board of Missions for Freedmen. Many important events combine to make it a convenient point for observation, and a kind of center around which other events may be arranged. First of all, the Board has lost its senior Secretary, Rev. R. H. Allen, D. D., who had served as Corresponding Secretary for twelve years. The familiar face will be seen no more in our General Assembly, and our Church Courts and congregations will never again hear his eloquent appeals for this great cause. His death closes an era in the history of this work.

Second, The Board has elected Rev. E. P. Cowan, D. D., as Dr. Allen's successor. He comes into the office with large experience in the work, having been a member of the Board for about ten years, and President of the Board about five years. By nature, kind, genial, generous, compassionate, by grace and education in Christian work, fully awake to the needs of the colored people, we have every reason to believe that he will do well the work committed to him, and that, under his leadership, the Board is entering upon a new era of prosperity.

Third, We close the year with the schools under the Board thoroughly classified, and with a thorough system introduced that will secure equity in distribution of funds, and efficiency in management and discipline, by which the rights of all will be secured, and the duties of all will be made plain. Until the present year, the work, being in its infancy, we could not guard against imposters, and at the same time guarantee the Principals of the schools that the funds needed would be supplied as we can do now. Until the present year the relation of boarding-schools, to this Board, had never been clearly defined, and there was always room for misunderstanding and consequent friction. Now every teacher, and every one interested, having a copy of our Manual, can see just what the Board is doing, and will be satisfied with the equity and efficiency of the system.

As we write, the books for the year have not been closed, and we cannot state exactly the receipts. If, however, we receive the legacy from the Estate of Mrs. Stewart, as we have reason to believe we shall, our receipts will be about $50,000 in excess of the receipts of any year in the Board's history, and will come well up toward the mark set by the last General Assembly.

During the year, in addition to maintaining and enlarging the educational work in all our schools,* two institutions have been opened that are destined to play an important part in the elevation of the colored race. One of these is Ingleside Seminary at Burkeville, Va., with buildings and equipments that cost nearly $30,000. This school has a competent corps of teachers; and, with more than one hundred students, under the efficient direction of Rev. G. C. Campbell and his accomplished wife, is doing a great and good work, that will grow in power year by year. The other, is the "Mary Holmes Seminary" at Jackson, Miss. This institution, with buildings and equipments that cost about $20,000, and with one hundred and fifty-two students, with an efficient corps of teachers, under the wise guidance of Rev. E. F. Johnston, and his gifted wife, is destined to be a great center of light for the colored people of Mississippi. Nearly all the students in this institution are self-supporting.

The Board has also purchased property and opened a new boarding-school at Beaufort, S. C., and has given the contract for the erection of a new and commodious building at Rogersville, Tenn., for Swift Memorial Institute.

These, and many other events that we cannot mention here, will make this a year to be remembered in the history of this great and good work. What the future may be, what changes may come, we cannot tell; but, the past is secure, and the out-look encouraging. A great and good work has already been done; the heaven is working well at many points; and, under the divine guidance, whatever changes may come in the workers, or in the policy of the Church in selecting and rejecting men and methods, we believe that the future will be far better than the past; we believe that these institutions, now weak and struggling, will become great centers from which shall issue mighty streams of beneficent influence that will flow out through our fair south-land; and, though the figure may fail, as rivers cannot cross the sea, we believe that a century hence the influence of this year's work will be recognized in what we now call "darkest Africa."

WOMEN'S WORK FOR FREEDMEN.

D. J. SATTERFIELD, D. D.

The Minutes of the General Assembly of 1884 (pages 63-64), contain the following:

Resolved I. That this Assembly recommends the "Woman's Executive Committee of Home Missions" to permit such societies under its care as may desire to do so to contribute according to their pleasure to the cause of the Freedmen and send the results to the W. E. C., to be forwarded to the Treasurer of the "Board of Missions for Freedmen."

There is quite a general impression among the churches that woman's work for the Freedmen had been placed under the care of the Woman's Executive Committee for Home Missions.

This impression has given us no little trouble in our efforts to keep our own work before our friends. I think it will be to the advantage of all concerned to know the truth and I am as anxious to promote the interest of other departments of Christian work in making this statement as our own.

By the action of the General Assembly quoted above it is assumed that the churches have organized societies under the control of the W. E. C. and the Executive Committee is authorized to permit said societies to contribute to Freedmen's work if they wish to and to receive and forward the money.

This is the extent of the authority granted. If now we note what is not granted we will better understand the force of the resolution.

(1) It does not authorize the Committee to organize societies for Freedmen's work, either alone or along with Home Missions, or even to encourage its own societies to work for both. It can only permit them to do what they may express a desire to do.

(2) It relieves the Committee from all responsibilities for the extension and development of this work. They are a H. M. Committee and are bound by their original commission to push the work of the Home Board. Even to advise their societies to give for Freedmen must tend to divert funds from the H. M. treasury.

To the same effect is the 2nd resolution of the same paper in which the General Assembly makes it the duty of the Freedmen's Board "to provide means by which the necessary information as to the needs of the Board, &c., can be furnished to the societies." This too has a negative force. In making it the duty of the Freedmen's Board to give the information it virtually forbids the other society to do it. They are not allowed to take the money sent to them and use it in building up the cause entrusted to the other Board. Because they have not understood this some of our workers have wondered why their appeals for help did not appear in the H. M. monthly. And when the speakers sent out by the W. E. C. to visit the societies insist that they have no right to present the cause of the Freedmen many wonder why.

Is not the explanation sufficient? The General Assembly has made the W. E. C. a permitting and a transmitting body for our work, nothing more.

But another thing follows just as clearly. If the General Assembly has not entrusted woman's work for Freedmen to the W. E. C. it has not made any provision at all to organize this work. In the preamble to the resolution it discourages the organization of new societies, while in the resolution itself existing societies are merely to be permitted to give to this cause.

The result of this policy is a matter of history. These two lines of Home Mission work are intended to provide for the educational necessities of exceptional populations in the United States. The negroes by far outnumber all the rest combined, and yet the contributions for these two causes last year were about $280,000 for Home Missions and $45,000 for Freedmen, or about 6 to 1.

We do not want to lessen by a single dollar the amount given to any other agency of the church and especially to the W. E. C., which is co-operating so zealously and effectively with us in caring for the needy classes in our own land.

But we are convinced that some action be taken by the General Assembly by which this great work for the Freedmen will come before the Church in its true light. Either the woman's department of it should be placed under the care of the W. E. C. on an equal footing with their other work, or else it should be placed under the oversight of the Board for Freedmen with the same liberty of appeal to the churches and of organizing auxiliaries now enjoyed by the Woman's Executive Committee under the oversight of the Home Board.

PUBLICATION AND SABBATH-SCHOOL WORK.

RECENT PUBLICATIONS.

THE PASTOR IN THE SICK ROOM.—Amongst the recent publications of the Board this is one of the most valuable. It is with great pleasure that we republish the following commendatory notice, clipped from the New York Observer of March 23. The price of the book is 50 cents.

A HINT FROM DR. JOHN HALL.

While kept from talking for a week by "throat affection," I gave careful reading to a little book called "The Pastor in the Sick Room," by John D. Wells, D. D., who for over forty years has preached and taught with fidelity the glorious gospel. The neat little volume has just appeared. It is the best book of its kind that I have seen, and is marked by practical wisdom, Bible knowledge, devoutness, and fidelity to the Master. It was prepared for theological students, and many of them, I hope, will study it. Many ministers would be helped by its wise suggestions. But what a gain it would be if heads of families, professing Christians, and many who do not come within these classes, could be led to give it a careful reading? Without a suggestion from any one, and wholly of my own motion, I can give it the strongest recommendation. J. H.

LEAD ME TO THE ROCK. [From the Christian Intelligencer.] By T. W. Hooper, D. D. These counsels of a pastor to the various flocks to whom he has ministered, are full of Gospel truth, stated in such a way as to comfort and encourage the Christian as he meets the various issues of life. It is refreshing to find such loyalty to the truth and such confident building upon it. Herein the author shows himself a true preacher.

MISS KITTY. By Helen B. Williams. Miss Williams has written other books which have been helpful to many readers. Her "Dorothy Dorchester," "The Hastings," "Dr. Trent's Cousin," are well known and widely read. "Miss Kitty" will be found quite equal in value to those already named. As the title indicates, the book is the story of a young girl, from the age of sixteen onward, through the experiences of home life and school life. Miss Kitty is a quiet, ordinary girl. She is not brilliant. She is not over saintly. She is not so fine as to discourage other girls, even commonplace girls, who may read her story. They will find her very much like themselves. Miss Kitty learns some good lessons, though she seems to learn them slowly, but in this, too, she is not unlike many of her sisters. There is a thread of love in the book, and at the end we have a wedding. Philadelphia: Presbyterian Board of Publication and Sabbath-school Work. Pp. 365. Price, $1.25.

A peculiar interest attaches to this notice, arising from the fact that the beloved author was called only a few weeks ago from earthly to heavenly service.

DEATH OF PROFESSOR J. M. TIPTON.

Peculiar sadness fills our hearts at the death of this faithful Sabbath-school missionary, of Kearney Presbytery, Nebraska. He died at his home in Lexington, on Saturday, March 11. His illness was typhoid-pneumonia, brought on by exposure in the Sabbath-school work which he had been doing so nobly in all kinds of weather (and what that phrase means in Nebraska can be realized by few). This last winter has been a most severe one, and, in order to bring the gospel of Christ to the lonely and neglected children and families "far out upon the prairies," he bravely faced storms and blizzards.

In the community in which he dwelt Professor Tipton's death is universally lamented, the common expression being, "a good man gone."

Professor Tipton has been doing a grand work in very needy fields, and the chairman of the Presbytery's committee, Rev. W. S. Barnes, writes:

"I am sure there will be profound sorrow in those isolated places to which Professor Tipton's occasional visits brought the only Gospel ministrations the people have been receiving. I fear we shall have great difficulty in finding another who will do the work as faithfully and well as he did. He seemed to be peculiarly adapted to it, and gave himself to it soulfully."

Why may we not say that a man who thus died from exposure to the Nebraska storms, in carrying the gospel to the neglected and perishing, is truly a martyr to Christ? Certainly he "laid down his life for the brethren."

He was faithful unto death, and his reward is eternal. I beseech the readers of THE CHURCH AT HOME AND ABROAD to remember the wife whom he has left with her two children in very straitened circumstances—remember them at the throne of grace, that the Father of all comfort, the God of the widow and the Father of the fatherless, will support and comfort them in this bereavement. And also pray that God will send forth another laborer, qualified and faithful, into the field left by Professor Tipton.

FREE LIBRARY.

The following letter is so interesting, not only on account of its subject-matter, but because of its authorship, that it is deemed expedient to publish it entire. It is printed precisely as it was received at Philadelphia,—no change has been made in phraseology, grammar, spelling, or punctuation. The penmanship is singularly beautiful. It is proper to state that the Ingleside Academy, located at Burkeville, Virginia, is one of the institutions of the Freedmen's Board for the education of colored girls. The Principal of the school, the Rev. G. C. Campbell, who was formerly a missionary in Western Africa, thus writes:

"The writer of the within letter is a native African. She came with us from Africa nearly seven years ago. The letter is entirely her own in every sense, except that it voices the general sentiment of gratitude for the books."

LETTER WRITTEN BY GRACE G. LYON ON BEHALF OF THE PUPILS OF INGLESIDE SEMINARY.

BURKEVILLE, VIRGINIA, March 11, 1893.

REV. E. R. CRAVEN,

Dear Kind Friend:—As I have been appointed by the Ingleside Seminary girls to write you a letter thanking you for your nice books that you sent for our use, it is my duty that I should write to you now. It is then with the greatest pleasure that I do so, not for myself alone but as a representative of the Ingleside girls.

We feel indebted to you for the kindness you have shown to us, and the only thing that we can do is to write and thank you, also to tell you something of our school. Our library is very much enlarged by the books, and we are not at all ashamed to have any one see it. You are so kind to think of us in sending them.

Perhaps you would like to know how our Sundays are spent. Our Sunday school exercises begin at nine o'clock in the morning, continuing until eleven o'clock, and then from this time till one o'clock is spent in reading; busying our minds in reading those beautiful and interesting story books which you have with a willing heart presented to the school for the use of us girls.

I wish to mention one especial book among them, and it is "Almost a Nun." Miss Martha Robinson first read it to the Third Year girls, after that then Mrs. Fister took it and read it to the Second Year girls. Almost every girl in school has heard it read, and the story of it is very much impressed in many of our minds, and many of us, too, have learned lessons from it; we hope to stand to the true religion like Eleanor did.

The Lord has truly blessed us in giving us such kind friends who are first doing one thing and then another, in fact doing all the time for us; we have been richly blessed this first year of our new seminary. The only thing that we can do in return for your kindness is to try to do our best while here, and to make useful women of ourselves so that we may help our race.

There are about ninety-six girls in school, every one of whom is trying to get along the best she can and to do what is right.

The work is done by the girls. They are divided into three circles—a Cooking Circle, Laundry Circle and a Sweeping Circle. Each one of these is on duty a month's time. Each one of us has her own work to do, and it is done with pleasant faces.

We have been visited by Mrs. Marriage Allen, of England. She lectured to us on Temperance, and a great many of the people came to hear her. It was enjoyed by every body. She also told us of Palestine, as she had been there.

Dr. Cowan, one of the members of the Freedmen's Board, also visited us a short time ago; he too lectured to us several times; his visit also was much enjoyed.

We hope you will come some day to visit and lecture to us like the rest have done.

We again thank you for your nice books; we read some of them every Sunday, and they are doing us a great deal of good. Pray for us that we may always go forward and not backward.

Gratefully yours,

THE INGLESIDE SEMINARY GIRLS.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN.

Pastor.—It concerns you. Your Sabbath-school is making preparations for Children's Day, in June next. The Sabbath-school Missionary Work of the Presbyterian Church is the missionary theme of that day. To this cause the contributions of the Day will go. I feel sure that I need not suggest to you that the pastor of the church has it in his power to swell the contributions very materially. You do not underestimate the importance of this work of establishing Sabbath-school missions in the needy and remote places of our country.

The Sabbath-school scholars have their pyramid mite-boxes for the offerings. A word from you in the pulpit, Sabbath-school and homes will be stimulating and encouraging to the young people. Please remember this.

Superintendent.—It concerns you. Has every scholar received a pyramid mite-chest? See that the very youngest has one. Not one in your school is too old to carry home a mite-chest. It would be an excellent thing for you to have a prayer offered up by a different one in your school each Sabbath, for the special blessing of the Master upon Presbyterian Sabbath-school Missions. Believing prayer opens hearts and purse-strings. The work cannot progress without these—they are inseparable. Tell your scholars to be sure to display their mite-chests in a prominent place in their homes. We pray God that your school may send us a larger contribution than last year. God calls for more for this work. The call is sounding to press onward and extend the lines.

Teacher.—It concerns you. Have you united your class in the holy purpose to increase last year's offerings? The precious seed you are sowing in your scholars' hearts will, under God, yield an abundant and glorious harvest in coming time. For this you labor, strive and pray. But there are many millions of young people in our beloved country who never enter a Sabbath-school. A majority of these are without religious influence and training. Your heart goes out to these. How can you help to bring them to Christ? By impressing upon your scholars the privilege, the opportunity, the duty of contributing to that special means which our Church has established for gathering in these wanderers—namely, Presbyterian Sabbath-school Missions.

Presbyterian Sabbath-school scholars.—It concerns you. Have you received your pyramid mite-chest? If not, procure one at once. When you get it, kneel down and pray God to give you such perseverance, courage and love for unsaved boys and girls in this land, that you may not rest until your mite-chest is filled to the very top. You can do it. Will you? If you do, God will bless you. The money you gather will help to send out Sabbath-school missionaries to the places in our own country where the children have no Sabbath-school, no glad Children's Day. The missionaries will start a school. Your money will help to put the precious Bible in many homes that have none. You know of Jesus, of salvation through him. But there are millions of young people in the United States who do not know of either; some of these do not care. We are striving to bring all these to the Lord Jesus. We are depending on your help. Resolve to bring your mite-chest filled on Children's Day.

Temperance.

A CLEAN SPOT KEPT CLEAN.

Some of our readers may remember an article in our issue of October, 1892, page 858, entitled "One Clean Spot." It gave account of a Sabbath evening temperance meeting at Clifton Springs, the one hundred and seventy-first that had been held monthly without one omission—more than fourteen years. This union service, in which the pastors of the village and of the Sanitarium fraternally unite, has been greatly blessed in cleansing and elevating public sentiment. For a number of years that public sentiment has secured the election of a Board of Excise that refuses to grant any licenses for the sale of intoxicating drinks. This Board consists of three commissioners, one of whom is elected every year. Continual vigilance is therefore necessary.

Rev. S. Bodwell, of the Sanitarium, writes us of their seventeenth victory at the polls this spring. He says the majority for No License was 153, which was larger than for a number of years. He says that a copy of our October article and six temperance tracts were sent to each of the 1,800 voters. He also sends the following from the local paper:

The Sabbath morning was given to the usual monthly sacramental service, which was conducted by Rev. H. A. Lewis, of the Presbyterian Church, assisted by the Chaplain. Over fifty were in attendance on the exercises of the Bible class, led by Dr. Foster in the study of Matt. 15: 21-31. The evening service was omitted to allow attendance upon the 178th monthly union temperance meeting at the hall.

THE EXCISE ELECTION.

Not many of our efforts have called out such deep manifestations of interest as that of this week. In the Sanitarium Chapel on Monday evening the larger portion of the hour was given to prayer, in which not alone our own people joined; but none more earnestly than pastors and laymen from distant sections and cities, who seeing and delighting in our cleanliness and peace, were among the most importunate that God would keep it so.

At the Hall on Tuesday, the W. C. T. U. held their usual prayer meetings from 9 A. M. to 12

M., led for an hour each by Mrs. Dr. Foster, Mrs. L. S. Rounds, and Mrs. M. I. Stewart. At noon, as is their custom, they had ready an abundant and excellent dinner, which they served to a large company of guests. From 2 to 3 P. M. they held another prayer meeting, led by Mrs. J. V. Benham, and with an attendance of over fifty. As one looked in the faces of those sisters, wives, mothers, and gray-haired grandmothers, and heard their tender appeals to a merciful God for their homes and dear ones, it seemed impossible that any man could cast the influence of his words, his pen, his vote, against the peace and purity they pleaded for. They said "Thy will be done," and prayed in full recognition of the fact that a God who always hears, and loves, and answers, too, sometimes has the best of reasons for saying No! They now rejoice that it was His will to answer Yes! for the seventeenth time.

C. T. U.—CLXXVIII.

Though in the long series of these meetings we have rarely had so stormy an evening, it did not prevent us from having one of our largest audiences and most interesting services. Officers and choir were promptly in their places, and the latter gave us "The Writing on the Wall," "Where is My Boy To-night," and "Throw Out the Life Line," in a style to delight and move our hearts. For the first time in many years Dr. Foster was here to attend and aid us in one of our "spring campaign" gatherings, and his timely and strong address on our needs, dangers, and duties, was in word and illustration most forcibly put to every mind and heart. He was followed by Mrs. L. S. Rounds, President of the Illinois W. C. T. U., in an address properly prefaced by the solemn words of Zech. 7: 9-11, "Execute true judgment, and show mercy," etc. In it were set forth in a most impressive way some of the principles for and by which any individual, local or general work must be carried on. Among arguments, appeals, and pathetic illustrations, were such solemn suggestions as this: "The individual or community which tramples upon any law, is teaching and training its children to be anarchists;" and the query: "Why should not the license voters furnish the boys whom they vote to have killed by the licensed liquor sellers?" No addresses of our long course have been more weighty and appropriate than these in this, our 178th meeting.

We are moved to repeat what we said of Clifton Springs in our October article:

The public sentiment here is as much opposed to liquor saloons as to gambling houses and brothels. Why should it not be? Why cannot it be made so in all villages? These good men at Clifton Springs assure us that it can be by the same union of all Christian people in such faithful, charitable, persistent presentation of the Christian truth applicable to this subject, with such constant, prayerful reliance upon the divine aid of the Holy Spirit, as they have constantly maintained. Do you know that it could not be done in your village?

If all the villages in any one State could be made such clean spots, what kind of a State would that be? Is it worth while for any village to wait for a flood of Prohibition from its State Capitol, or from Washington, to wash it clean? Your own brooms and buckets may cleanse it sooner. And surely the big flood will not be delayed on that account.

HAPPY NORTH DAKOTA.

We find the following delightful report on Temperance in the Synod of North Dakota:

1. THE SALOON HAS LARGELY, IF NOT TOTALLY, DISAPPEARED. Blind pigs there are, no doubt, but liquor is nowhere openly sold. There is not a man who dares to say that he is engaged in the sale of intoxicants. If employed in such business, he must admit that he pursues it in an underhanded, sneaking way. And those who drink must get their drams by sneaking in and sneaking out afterwards, or by going in the small hours of the night into some out-of-the-way place to get their supplies. For this reason

2. TEMPTATION IS OUT OF THE WAY, OR AT LEAST, GREATLY REDUCED.

The man who dreads the intoxicating cup, and who is yet ruled by that terrible appetite which, with a vise-like grip, enslaves its subjects, is tempted but little compared with what he once was. And what is better still, perhaps, our boys do not see the traffic. They do not grow up familiarized with it and tempted by it. There is nothing of the display of barrels, kegs and cases, as in former days, in freight depots, on railroad platforms, and on brewery drays along the streets. The open saloon, with its glare and glare and often enchanting music, does not thrust itself into the most public places on our streets and keep wide open its doors, day and night. So there is more hope for our sons and young brothers. There is more hope of their growing up to abhor the traffic, hope of their becoming its uncompromising foe, and of their doing what the present generation has as yet failed to do—fight it to the death—squench it to utter and eternal annihilation.

3. DRUNKENNESS IS RARE. An intoxicated man is seldom seen. "Even in Fargo," says one, "with Moorhead just across the river, full of saloons, and with a large number of laboring men idle much of the time, because of bad weather, last fall, I saw scarcely a dozen staggering men in six months." A missionary spent a rainy day last autumn in one of our towns of about one thousand inhabitants. He was about the streets all day. The town was full of "threshers," and yet it was quiet. Only one intoxicated man was seen; yet, under the former license system, that missionary had seen the same town full of drunken men, while brawls and fights were frequent, and a pedestrian was hardly safe upon the streets at night.

4. The prohibition law is as well enforced as most of the other laws of the State. No law receives perfect observance. There are infractions in spite of the utmost diligence on the part of officers and adherents. But the candid concede the violations of the prohibitory law are no worse than some others. That the law is in a wholesome degree effective, may be seen by a comparison or two.

Moorhead, in Minnesota, with no prohibitory law, but with the high license of $750, has thirty-three saloons, four wholesale liquor houses and cold-storage warerooms. Fargo, just across the river, in prohibition Dakota, with four times the population, has no legalized saloon. East Grand Forks, on the Minnesota side, has twenty-nine saloons in two squares; Grand Forks, on the Dakota side of the river, with a much larger population, has no open saloon. One who is constantly going about our State, says, "not a single town has been found in which the people prefer the old REGIME of saloons to the present prohibitory law." In some towns they will say: "I guess we have a blind pig or two, but even with these the conditions are vastly better than they used to be when the saloons were in full blast." All this proves that prohibition does prohibit. But,

5. BUSINESS PROSPERS. Prohibition has not brought financial ruin. That man in one of our cities who, fearing shrinkage in values, should the prohibitory law be passed, offered his property for forty cents on the dollar, now sees that same city growing and building up as never before, and, along with it, his own possessions much enhanced in value.

Those who, in advance of the law, cried out, "your stores will be empty, your business injured," may behold every place where liquor establishments formerly existed now occupied with improved buildings, in which legitimate and helpful business is carried on, and attended with evident thrift and prosperity.

The report gives other forcible illustrations of the suppression of the liquor traffic upon the business prosperity of cities, and proceeds:

Now, all these things—saloons suppressed, temptations reduced, drunkenness diminished, prohibition enforced and business prosperous—most emphatically declare to all people everywhere that those who, several years ago, earnestly advocated the suppression of the liquor traffic were right when they claimed that, not only from a moral standpoint, but even for business reasons, would Dakota be a better place for decent citizens to live in; a safer and happier place in which to rear their families, if prohibition should be adopted.

So it has already been found, even in the newness of the favorable conditions.

And so, doubtless, will it continue to be, if our most excellent prohibitory law is continued.

The report closes with earnest exhortation to perpetual vigilance and courageous purpose to keep the State forever in this happy condition.

seven his text books, were Milton's "Paradise Lost," Russel's "History of Modern Europe," Gibbon's "Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire," and Robertson's "History of the Discovery of America." He was his father's constant companion in his walks, and to this day the villagers recall how they wondered at seeing them so frequently stop to look for something on the road, while the fact was that the father with his stick was demonstrating a proposition of Euclid, tracing out the supposed course of the Zambesi River, illustrating the elliptical motion of the planets, or, as the case might be, describing some huge calamities he had found in lowermost strata of the Old Red Sandstone, hitherto supposed to be unfossiliferous. In the autumn of 1859, prior to the meeting of the British Association in Aberdeen, Sir Roderick Murchison and Sir A. Ramsay, of Her Majesty's Geological Survey, being on a tour through Scotland, were guests for a few days at the Manse, and were greatly attracted by the boy's wonderful skill in map drawing, and by the dexterity of his fingers in type setting, and the accuracy of the proof-sheets which he could turn out from his little printing press. Sir Roderick presented him with a copy of "Small Beginnings, or the Way to Get On," which seemed to fire his youthful ambition. On November 1, 1873, he started for Germany and staid until he started for Africa in April, 1876, and staid in Africa until his death, February 8, 1892.

Children's Church At Home And Abroad.

MACKAY OF UGANDA.

FREDERICK WARDLAW WALTER.

[The writer of the following essay is only eleven years of age. He was born in Bailundo, Africa, January 20, 1882. He sent this essay to us from University Park, Colorado, in response to our proposal in our January number, page 61. If Frederick remembers anything which he saw in Africa, which his father or mother thinks would interest other little Presbyterians who read the CHURCH AT HOME AND ABROAD, we wish he would write it for them.]

Alexander M. Mackay was born on the 18th of October, 1849, in the small town of Bhyrie, in the county of Aberdeen, Scotland. His father was a minister in the Free Church of Scotland. When Alexander was three years of age he read the New Testament with fluency, and at the age of

SEEDS AND FLOWERS.

[From the Childrens' Record of the Free Church of Scotland.]

At a meeting in Japan, where a number of Christian girls were gathered together the subject of their talk was, "How to glorify Christ by our lives. One girl said: "It seems to me like this. One spring my mother got some flower seeds, little, ugly, black things, and planted them; they grew and blossomed beautifully. One day a neighbor coming in and seeing the flowers, said, 'Oh, how beautiful! I must have some too; won't you please give me some seed?' Now, if this neighbor had only just seen the seeds, she would not have asked for them; it was only when she saw how beautiful the blossom was that she wanted the seed. And so with Christianity: when we speak to our friends of the truths of the Bible, they seem to them hard and uninteresting, and they say, 'We don't care to hear about those things; they are not so interesting as our own stories;' but when they see these same truths blossoming out in our lives into kindly words and acts, then they say, 'How beautiful these lives! What makes them different from our own lives?' And when they hear that it is the Jesus-teaching, then they say, 'We must have it too!' And thus, by our lives more than by our tongues, we can preach Christ to our unbelieving friends."

MORESSA KHANUN.

When I was in Oroomiah, Persia, eight years ago, among the first persons to call on me at the house of Rev. Mr. Oldfather, were Pastor Jacob and his wife, whose pleasant picture you see on this page. Pastor Jacob himself was one of about a half dozen men, who rode out twelve miles to meet me when they heard that I was coming. This was simply because I was coming to them from the great and good country (as they think of it), from which missionaries had come to teach them the gospel, and because I was the friend and guest of those beloved missionaries. This coming out to meet a guest "a great way off," is one of the pleasant customs of oriental people, and when a guest goes away they often go with him a few miles, "pouring him on his way," as they say.

On the next day after our arrival, Pastor Jacob came to see me with his wife, Moressa. They do not say Mrs. Jacob, as we would, but still call the wife by the same name as when she was a girl. And I think Moressa a very pleasant name.

This good lady told me that she was one of the early pupils of Fidelity Fiske. That also is a name which seems very lovely and sacred to me, and I like to write and speak it so, better than to say or write Miss Fiske, just as I like George Washington and Abraham Lincoln better than Mr. Washington and Mr. Lincoln.

Moressa spoke English well and talked with me on missions and other such things as intelligently as most ladies with whom I converse in my own country. In London, on my way to Persia, I had seen her son, a young man studying to be a physician, and he had been very kind and polite to me.

Pastor Jacob was chosen Moderator of the Knooshya or Synod of the Presbyterian Church there at its meeting, which I attended, and he held that office for three years from that time. And it is an office which has more important duties than our synods put upon their moderators. Pastor Jacob seemed to be one of their most useful men, and he had a help meet for him in his wife Moressa.

On the twelfth day of last November this good woman died in the city of Oroomiah. One of her friends, Rabbi* Sarah, and also Mrs. Cochran, the mother of Dr. Cochran, and Mrs. Shedd, the wife of Rev. Dr. Shedd, have written to me about her, some things which they thought would interest the readers of THE CHURCH AT HOME AND ABROAD.

MORESSA KHANUN.

Mrs. Cochran writes:

I first became acquainted with Moressa in the summer of 1848, and have kept up a correspondence, more or less frequent, and exchanged visits with her during that time. All loved and honored her. She had a dignity, which won the respect of Mohammedans and her labors were of great value in her husband's work for that class. She though dead will still speak to those for whom she labored. She had a sweet temper and was ever ready to make any sacrifice for the good or the pleasure of others.

*They give this title to teachers, whether men or women.

Mrs. Shedd writes:

I think that you will recall Pastor Jacob and Moressa who called upon you when you were here in Oroomiah. They were then laboring for Moslems, and received their support from England.

I inclose a notice of her death and a short article written by Sarah, the wife of Pastor Oshanna and mother of the late Mrs. Wright.*

Those familiar with the life of Miss Fiske will remember Moressa as one of her earliest pupils. She and her husband had returned from England only a few weeks before her death. The journey from the Arras was very hard. Twice they were attacked by robbers and Moressa was much frightened.

A very heavy rain and hail storm overtook them two hours beyond Gavalan and she walked all that long, rough way through mud and streams of water because she dared not ride. I hope you will be able to publish Sarah's article and also to use Moressa's picture, which I send to you.

Rabbi Sarah writes:

I have many pleasant memories of this beloved sister.

I knew her well from childhood.

We grew up together in the school of Miss Fiske in one class like sisters knitted together in love to the end. Together we finished the course of study in the school and separated.

One year after the death of her father, Malek David of Superghan, she was taken into the family of Rev. Mr. Stocking. She became a member of his family and received training and teaching under the care of that blessed lady, Mrs. Stocking, who was eminent for her piety. Moressa in those tender years was very quick to learn. Her tongue and her mind were opening. All her instruction was given in English, hence she learned it, even more quickly than she learned her own language.

She committed to memory many hymns and psalms. When she entered the school she gave lessons in English every day to the late Pastor Eshoo and others. She was a noble girl, refined and beautiful in appearance and in character, even from early childhood.

In our class of five she was distinguished for her self-control and dignified bearing.

She never meddled in business which did not concern her, as is the habit of many.

She was not talkative, hence to some she seemed cold and reserved. She had not at this time the spirit of helpfulness to the burdens of the weak. This defect appeared in her character while in school, before she experienced that change which the power of grace alone can effect. This came to her in the first revival in 1845. She was visited by the Holy Spirit, who then was working powerfully in our school. Then her proud spirit was humbled and softened to the likeness of Christ's spirit. Then she began to love her companions who were inferior to her and to help them. It was a marvellous change. She took upon her the yoke of Christ and worked for her sisters and she worked until the end came. With Christ's help she had gained a nobler spirit and during all her after life she was eminent for her zeal, her love and her labors in winning souls for Christ, her Master, wherever she lived.

She had great ability in conducting spiritual labors and she was famous for her wisdom and skill in the affairs of the house. For 27 years she labored with her husband in the gospel work in the village of Superghan. Then they resolved to devote themselves to evangelizing the Moslems. She was very useful also in this and she showed forth the same love and anxiety for their salvation. Twice she went with her husband to England with the design to obtain help to carry forward the work.

Moressa was worthy to be called the crown and glory of her husband. She had been such a true help to him in all their life together.

Very fitting to her was the last chapter of Proverbs about the wise woman, which was read at her funeral. The path of her life was all bright. By her loving courtesy she won many friends among Christians and Moslems. To-day they mourn and weep over her death. Alas! the work upon which she had set her heart has fallen unfinished. What will become of it? Who can take it up?

Our young readers will find it very interesting to talk with their mothers or perhaps their grandmothers about Fidelia Fiske and her really wonderful work for girls and women in Persia. The life of Fidelia Fiske is in many Sabbath-school libraries, and if this story of her pupil Moressa should lead any of you to read it, I shall be very glad.

The appropriate title of the book is FAITH WORKING BY LOVE.

*Mrs. Wright was murdered, as our readers may remember.

Gleanings At Home and Abroad.

—More than 86,000 Christians are found among the 50,000 inhabitants of the Samoan group.

—The income of the Wesleyan Missionary Society for 1892 was £116,000, as against £107,500 for 1891.

—The Ceylon and India General Mission is a recently organized society, with headquarters in London.

—"The personality of Christ is the magnetic power of Christianity," was the testimony of a Buddhist priest.

—The Danish Bible Society, which has been in existence almost a century, has increased its distribution six-fold since 1887.

—It is said that a former slave of Jefferson Davis translated the Bible into the Sweetswatongue, spoken by 300,000 Africans.

—Of the 120,000 Chinese in the United States, more than 7,000 are reached by Christian instruction, and 2,000 are Christians.

—It is estimated that not more than two-fifths of the population of the United States are in any way connected with any religious organization.

—It has been said of Dr. Parker, who went to Canton in 1884, that he opened China to the Gospel at the point of the lancet.

—No country in the world, says Rev. James Johnston, is more receptive of the Gospel than Africa. A true missionary is everywhere welcomed with greeting.

—The native pastor and his helpers, in Porto Nuovo, Dahomey, have translated the New Testament and the Psalms into Dahoman.

—In 1840 there were only 40 medical missionaries. A recent issue of the Medical Missionary Record gives the names of 859.

—The Koreans dress in white and wear big hats. It is said that the general effect at night to a foreigner is ghost-like, suggesting a resurrection of perambulating toad stools.

—The increase of ordained native preachers in India, from 21 in 1851 to 797 in 1890, is one of the surest signs of a living and growing Church. —The Dawn in India.

—The progress of the Kingdom of God in the world, said Mackay of Uganda, is a study well calculated to enlarge the mind and soul, and rescue torpid congregations from their self-satisfied ease.

—The French Protestant Mission of the Paris

Evangelical Society in Basutoland has 8,000 children in its schools, 700 young men in training, average congregations of 14,000 persons, with 10,864 communicants and catechumens. —Monthly Messenger.

—In the India of to-day, to be able to add medical to missionary is like placing a cipher after other figures—it gives a ten-fold value, says a writer in the India Female Evangelist.

—R. L. Stevenson writes that the Samoan Bible is not only a monument of excellent literature, but a desirable piece of typography. He regards missions in the South Seas as far the most pleasing result of the presence of white men there.

—A Roman Catholic missionary, while laboring on the borders of Thibet, instructing the youth of that land, has prepared a Thibetan-Latin dictionary and a translation of the Gospel of John, both of which are now ready for the press.

—It is said that half the church members from the Bakongo tribes in Africa are persistent gospel teachers. They go in bands on preaching tours, and remain for a fortnight at a time from home, mostly at their own charges.

—That Fiji, a crown colony, has no British troops, the only armed force being a handful of native police, speaks volumes for the value of Christianity, which, 60 years ago, was not known by name in the islands. —New Zealand Presbyterian.

—Makimba, a native priest in West Central Africa, when sent for to go with Kandundu (the chief fetich) to a distant village, replied that he would not carry Kandundu any more, as it made him ashamed since he had heard the words of Suku (God).

—The present Secretary of the Edinburgh University Missionary Association is a great-grandson of the Rev. Mr. Hamilton whose speech against missions in the General Assembly in 1796 brought Dr. John Erskine to his feet with the historical "Moderator, rax me that Bible." —Church of Scotland Record.

—The Chinese possess all the elements of a great people—courage, physical power, and absolute contempt for death. Let a Bismarck or a Napoleon rise up among them, and in two generations they will be the greatest nation in the world. They only need a leader. —Lord Wolseley.

—4,300 Jews, all men between the ages of eighteen and forty-five, have recently signified in writing their determination to become members of "Christ's Synagogue" in New York,— a church of Jews who accept Jesus as the Messiah, not though they are Jews, but because they are Jews.

—There are in India 180,000 educational institutions, substantially the same as those in Great Britain, in which 4,000,000 of the youth of India are under instruction. According to the last census there are 14,000,000 of readers, of whom probably 1,500,000 are able to read English books.—The Dawn in India.

—As the result of instruction received from the Bible women, native girls 'n Trichinopoly give up the habit of going to temples and festivals, and putting on caste marks. Parents and husbands, observing their gentle and polite manners and religious life, recommend the instruction of the Bible women to others.—Report in The Net.

—In the churches of Hawaii are to be found each Lord's Day 60 per cent. of the entire population. There is not a native who cannot read and write. One of the churches, with 500 communicants, is building an edifice to cost $120,000, while contributing annually to missions and charities $20,000 more.—The Interior.

—The rapid increase in the number of laborers among the women of India, is a most interesting and hopeful sign. As a rule, the women are unable to read. Their education was unknown until introduced by missionaries. Many of the women have the superstitious belief that their learning to read would cause the death of their husbands.—Dr. Murdoch.

—Münzenberger in his Abyssinien holds that the regeneration of Abyssinia is the first step towards gaining Africa for modern civilization and the Gospel: that in these old seats and centres of Christian culture, literature and learning, the best base of operations can be found, from which the work could extend in all directions.

—The Missionary Herald states that on the eve of a great festival in Foochow, a high official voluntarily placed a guard of 60 soldiers over the chapel of the A. B. C. F. M., to prevent disorderly persons from disturbing the prosecution of the work.

—The Japan Mail declares that, while the time is nearly ripe for the reformation of Buddhism, there is no priest equal to the task. The requirements of other departments absorb the available talent, and the priesthood is composed of the lowest dregs of society.

—The Norwegian Mission Society, at its headquarters near Stavanger, supports a seminary for the training of missionaries and a Home for missionaries' children. This Society, whose principal fields are Zululand and Madagascar, has an income of upwards of $122,000.—Rev. J. D. Roth in the Independent.

—"I would never argue, if I were a missionary," said a Brahman graduate of Madras University. "I would simply give the Bible and say, 'Read that.'" Bishop Thoburn, after years of experience in India, takes the same view.

—The Reformed Church in the United States, organized in 1747, was for 46 years subject to the Synod of Holland, from which it received support. The Church became independent April 30, 1798. The centennial is to be celebrated this year. The average of benevolent contributions during the past year was $1.11 a member.—Missionary Guardian.

—The grandest example of Imperial beneficence conferred by a conquering on a conquered race, is the system of National Education, established in India in 1854. None but a Christian nation would have put that instrument of power into the hands of a vast population, who might use it as a weapon against foreign rule.—The Dawn in India.

—Mr. Spurgeon once said he didn't want any one who could be a missionary to drivel down into a king, nor one who was fit to be a missionary to die a millionaire. Quoting this, a writer in the Medical Missionary Quarterly adds: Do not miss the high honor of being a missionary if you can help it. Think twice and pray oftener, before you adopt any other career.

—It is strange that the Jew should hesitate to claim as his greatest inheritance the Christ who has established above Greek wisdom and Roman law an order of things which the prophets beheld in vision, but which only a divine strength could have made victorious and a present reality. Nor need the Jew renounce, in acknowledging his true Master, anything which the noblest of his race would insist upon preserving.—London Quarterly Review.

—In South Central Africa, between the Limpopo and the Zambesi, on the route northward from the Cape Colonies to the lakes, Mr. J. Theodore Bent found pre-historic ruins of fortifications and temples and furnaces for the smelting of precious metals. It is believed that a powerful people once held armed occupation of this region to mine for gold. Mr. Bent gives an account of his investigations in a fascinating volume, "The Ruined Cities of Mashonaland."

—The three systems comprehended under the term Confucianism are: 1. A political system which is embodied in the form of government.

2. A system of ethics which explains and enforces the nature and duties of the five human relationships, and teaches the nature and obligation of the five cardinal virtues. 3 The native religion of China which is established by statute, and is the State religion of the Empire.—Dr. A. P. Happer in the Missionary Review.

—The Railway in India, covering 16,000 miles and carrying 120,000,000 passengers in the year, is revolutionizing society. It is undermining the system of caste, as it compels the lordly Brahman to rub shoulders with the low-caste Sudra. Each touch is defilement, and requires ablutions and ceremonies of purification. The more frequently these are repeated the more are the eyes of the people opened to the inconvenience and folly of the system.—The Dawn in India.

—The population of Erromanga is so scattered it is difficult to secure attendance at church and school. Though the missionary, Rev. H. A. Robertson, has urged upon the people their duty and interest in forming themselves into compact colonies, gathering into a few villages, they will not colonize. The New Hebrides are not a crown colony, like Fiji, where there is the strong arm of the law to compel the people to form themselves into large towns, make good roads, attend school and pay the teacher.—Presbyterian Record.

—The real rulers of India are the women. The men have, it is true, tried to make women their slaves. University graduates will at public meetings talk of the reforms needed in India, but at home they are timid, crouching Hindus, submitting to every superstitious requirement of the women. As a native writer says: "In battles between wisdom and prejudice, between knowledge and ignorance, the Hindu grandmother often proves successful, and so tenacious is she that she can be conquered only by death."—Dr. Murdock.

ITEMS OF NEWS FROM KOREA.

—In the last two years the Board has appointed a goodly number of new missionaries to Korea so that the Mission has been able to plan for greatly enlarged work.

—In 1891, Fusan on the south-eastern coast was occupied as a new station by Mr. and Mrs. Baird who have now been re-enforced by the arrival of Dr. and Mrs. Brown.

—In 1892 Mr. and Mrs. Gale were sent to open a new station at Gensan on the eastern coast. Now the Mission plans for the opening of an interior station in the North at Pyeng Yang. Messrs. Moffett & Lee with Mr. and Mrs. Swallen have been appointed to occupy this point. The Board has not yet found the two physicians loudly called for to assist in occupying these two stations.

—Beside those of our Mission in Gensan on the Eastern coast of Korea, Mr. Fenwich represents the Korea Union Mission of Canada and Dr. Hardie the Toronto University Y. M. C. A. The M. E. Church will this year send Dr. McGill of their Seoul station to open work there.

—On Christmas day there were 10 additions to the church in Korea, four men and six women. The ages of the women ranged from eleven years to eighty-one years. At that Communion service there were thirty-five Communicants, the largest number ever gathered in the church in Seoul.

—Before a great while it is hoped that the Korean Church will be provided with a good version of the Scriptures in the native character. Mr. Gale has this year completed translations of Genesis, Acts, Galatians and Ephesians, and is now at work upon a more perfect version of the Gospel of Luke.

NOTES ON INDIA.

—The following items are taken from the Fifty-eighth annual report of the Lodiana Mission.

—Educational. The Saharanpur Orphanage has 50 inmates of whom 12 support themselves by industrial employment.

—Hindus and Mohammedans are now intensely alive to the fact that to give us an orphan is to give us a Christian.

—A Pundit, the owner of 12 villages, and an acquaintance of Pundita Ramabai, is anxious for a school for widows at Pahrpur.

—The Lodiana Boys' Boarding School has 94 students in attendance. Among them are many earnest Christians —Four young men graduated at the Saharanpur Theological Seminary have at once taken up work.

—The Presbyterian College at Lahore has 185 students of whom 13 are Christians. The Mission High School with its branches has 848 pupils, whilst there are 328 pupils in the Christian Girls' Schools.

—The total number of schools in connection with the Lodiana Mission is 94 with 5,973 pupils of whom 1,192 are girls.

—Medical. During the fearful cholera season, Miss Carleton went unattended and ministered to the stricken people in the villages, before the Government even knew that cholera was raging. When they did send relief, the people preferred trusting to Miss Carleton's skillful treatment.

—Dr. Isa Das and Dr. Phoebe Isa Das received at the male and female dispensary at Lahore, during eleven months 41,459 patients, performing 1,217 surgical operations.

—Through this work of healing those who are opposed to Christianity are often influenced to cease their opposition and even become friendly in their attitude towards our preaching.

—Miss Thiede reports 5 410 patients in attendance at her dispensary in the village of Wagah.

—Rev. Frank L. Newton, M. D., of Ferozepore, reports the number of hospital patients as 5,366, while the number of visits is 9,938. These patients come in from 184 villages.

—These items will suggest to the reader the far-reaching influence of the Medical Missionary. They will also disclose the hard work, the constant exposure to disease and heat of climate on the part of the missionary.

—Evangelistic. Some of the students in the Lodiana Boys' Boarding School carry on a missionary work in the city chapel and the surrounding villages.

—Rev. Ahmad Shah baptized two faqirs, a Moslem and a Hindu in a village, and in the city of Jagrawan a family and four young men are candidates for baptism.

—Rev. Jaimal Singh baptized four men of the Chura caste in the neighborhood of Khanna.

—Ten persons were added to the church at Saharanpur by examination.

—The number of converts baptized at Rupar and Morinda for the year was 94, of whom 57 were adults. They belong to 15 villages.

—Twenty-four girls connected with the Dehra Christian Girls' School professed their faith in Christ during the year.

—Sheikh Nazam-ud Din, a native preacher at Dosuah in the Panjab, has led into the Church 30 persons by baptism.

—Rev. Muhammad Sháh also baptized thirty persons in the village of Tánda.

—Sixty-four adults were admitted to the church at Lahore by baptism. The most of these belong to the villages in the district and are Churas by caste.

—Several baptisms of lepers occurred at the Sabathu Leper Asylum.

—Look out for great things from India in the near future.

E. M. W.

Thoughts on the Sabbath-School Lessons.

May 7.—Value of Wisdom.—Prov. iii: 14-24.

"Godliness is profitable unto all things, having promise of the life that now is, and of that which is to come," 1 Tim. iv: 8. Heavenly wisdom may shut the door into some avenues that look very attractive, but she is a safe counsellor for merchant, for statesman, for any one who would really make the most of life and its opportunities. "Her merchandise is better than the merchandise of silver and the gain thereof than fine gold," even on the profit and loss account of this world's business, but when it comes to a final footing up of the balance-sheet, "What is a man profited, if he shall gain the whole world, and lose his own soul?"

May 14.—Fruits of Wisdom.—Prov. xii: 1-15.

"In keeping of them there is great reward." Surely we may appeal to the experience of every one of the King's servants, that, however feeble and imperfect our obedience has been, we do know something about "great reward," not for it, but in it. As in the days of Hezekiah, when the hand of God was to give them one heart to do the commandment of the king, the result was great gladness, great joy, great blessing, and great prosperity, so is it now in the spiritual reign of our King. Not outward and visible reward, though even that he very often adds, far more exceeding; but inward and spiritual reward. . . . Let us put together into a bright bit of Bible-mosaic the scattered gems which are part of this great present reward: 1, Strength, Duet. xi: 8, Prov. x: 29; 2, Safety, Eccl. viii: 5; 3, Liberty, Ps. cxix: 45; 4, Peace, Ps. cxix: 165; 5, Life and Health, Prov. iii: 1, 2; 6, Knowledge, John vii: 17, viii: 31, 32; 7, Answered Prayers, 1 John iii: 22; 8, Gladness, Neh. viii: 14, 17 etc.; 9, The Father's Love, John xiv: 21; 10, The Manifestation of Jesus, John xiv: 21; 11, The Indwelling of the Triune God, John xiv: 23; 12, The Witness of the Spirit to this Indwelling, 1 John iii: 24.

FRANCES RIDLEY HAVERGAL.

May 21.—Against Intemperance.—Prov. xxiii: 29–35.

Oh, do not let any of us be so proud as to think that we should be safe. If men of the highest genius have fallen under this temptation, if even an Addison, a Burne, a Hartley Coleridge and hundreds of others have been tempted by the excess of their intellectual work to rekindle the vestal flame upon the altar of Genius by the unhallowed fires of alcohol, I, for one, will not be the one to abstain from saying to any one, "Let him that thinketh he standeth—however superior he may think himself to the same possibility of temptation—still let him beware lest he fall."

CANON FARRAR.

May 28.—The Excellent Woman.—Prov. xxxi: 10–31.

With all that the progress of Christian civilization and Christian education has done for woman, it has worked out no higher standard of womanly virtue than that that was described by King Lemuel in "the prophecy that his mother taught him." We cannot help wondering whether he learned the lesson from his mother's words, or from a life which was in itself an illustration of the character, so rare in those days, and just as precious now, for its influence in the home and in the world; the thrifty housekeeper, the diligent worker, the loved mother, the trusted wife, "the woman that feareth the Lord." There are many such women now, and cherished memories of many more, to whom no public praise is given, but those who know them best, love them best, and homes are purer and happier and, therefore, the world is better because they have lived in it.

ROYALTY.

They live in cabins and castle halls,
In homespun and robes of state;
It may be guarded by prison walls,
Or feasted by rich and great;
But whether scorned or of fair renown,
Each wears, invisible, a crown.

They wander wide over every land,
On continent, isle, and sea;
Some wear the mark of slavery's brand,
And some are glad and free;
No matter what is their fortune now,
For the seal of a King is on their brow.

They speak the language of many a shore;
They differ in form and hue;

But they think the thoughts of a hidden lore
Revealed to the royal few,
And the time shall come when from every land
They shall talk together and understand.

For the power to love is the right to reign;
And the Christ-like, alone, are great;
And none but the heirs of God attain
To the court of the Infinite,
They only are of a noble birth;
The aristocracy of the earth!

MARY ESTHER ALLBRIGHT, in Interior.

Young People's Christian Endeavor.

THE "STUDENT-VOLUNTEER MOVEMENT" AND "CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR."

It was quaint old Matthew Henry who remarked that Samson's foxes looked different ways, but met in one firebrand. It was a union much against the foxes' will, and when they were tied together, they had contrary purposes, but by that pulling in opposite directions the work they had to do was the more effectively done. There was power in union, though an unsought union:

The "Student-Volunteer Movement" and the "Christian Endeavor" scheme have not yet been formally joined, and possibly there is no will to do so. But, whether with or without a present purpose on the part of their leaders, it would seem inevitable that in the near future they are to be much to each other; and that, though looking different ways in their plans of work, they are to meet in one firebrand to destroy the enemies' fields.

It is the Rev. O. E. Baker who has named the "Modern Seven Wonders of the World."

1. Missionary Societies;
2. Bible Societies;
3. The Sunday-schools;
4. The Young Men's Christian Associations and the kindred Young Women's Christian Associations;
5. The Women's Christian Temperance Union, and women's work for women in general;
6. The "Student-Volunteer Movement;"
7. The "Christian Endeavor," and similar widespread organizations of young Christians.

The last two have sprung up within a very few years,—independently of each other, humanly speaking. But providence is one, whatever its manifestations. Back of all, in all, is one Spirit.

Thousands of young missionaries going into all the world to preach the Gospel to every creature; and thousands of Christian Endeavor Societies, in all parts of the world, with millions of members, ready to encourage, give, pray, and aid in every way,—what does it mean? Is God at the same time raising up the commissioners for this chief work, and the constituency that is to send and support them?

MR. JOHN W. BAER, General Secretary of the United Society of Christian Endeavor, in a recent letter to one of the secretaries of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society, says: "If the Christian Endeavor Society is anything I believe it is a missionary society, and it is the hope of every one especially interested in promoting its growth, spirituality and usefulness to make it more and more a missionary and evangelistic force. We desire to have each society identified with its own church work. The United Society stands in a unique position, asking nothing for itself, not one penny, but urging constantly and suggesting carefully that the work each society should do is that of its own church, and through its own church, in widening God's kingdom at home and abroad."

"Should Christian Endeavor missionary moneys be divided up among the several Boards of the Church, or be appropriated through the Woman's Societies and Boards, or sent to special objects?"

This question comes to us from a lady in Albany, N. Y., where she says that "a profitable discussion" was in progress when she wrote. Such a discussion, in the true spirit of Christian Endeavor, can hardly fail to be "profitable." It is quite sure to increase the intelligence of those who have part in it in respect to the different departments and agencies of Church work; and such increase of intelligence is sure to promote healthy interest.

The question is one not of principle, but of method. Either of the methods suggested is admissible, and each particular society is quite at liberty to choose among them.

First of all, we recommend that the pastor be consulted, and asked to help the young people to work in entire harmony with his plans for instructing his people and leading them in their work. This seems a matter of course, according to the first principles of the societies of Christian Endeavor.

All the Boards of our Church are conducting departments of the Church's work, which are about as necessary to each other as the various members of our bodies. It is well for our young people to study them all and contribute to them all.

It may be well to take them up one at a time in the order of time in which they were established. This is the same order in which the names of their representatives are printed on the first page of our cover as Editorial Correspondents. While the two oldest are the largest and may perhaps be regarded as the most essential—certainly as requiring the largest contributions—a faithful study of the others will show that they all promote the efficiency of the first two and are really co-ordinate with them in constituting a complete system of Church agencies.

The Women's Boards and Societies and Committees are auxiliary to the Boards of Missions, and if any young peoples' societies choose to send their contributions to them, it is quite right to do so.

As to "special objects," it is wisest to take such as are designated or commended by the Boards. These can always be ascertained by corresponding with any of the Secretaries, male or female.

A good way of keeping posted as to the work of all the Boards is by regular reading of the CHURCH AT HOME AND ABROAD. It can perhaps be made more helpful to young people's societies by assigning its different parts, treating of the several Boards, to different members or Committees, to read and report at the meetings. Woman's Work for Woman and The Home Mission Monthly are useful in the same way. So also are the weekly religious papers, all of which give much information on missions and all Church work.

A small pamphlet entitled, To WHAT DO PRESBYTERIANS GIVE? is published by THE PRESBYTERIAN BOARD OF PUBLICATION for gratuitous distribution by direction of the General Assembly. It consists of "a condensed statement of the various Boards, Committees and Trusts connected with the Assembly, their names, organization and special work."

This is what all Presbyterian Christian Endeavorers need. Write for it to Mr. John A. Black, 1334 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia.

THE STUDENT VOLUNTEER.—We have received the first number of this "official organ of the Student Volunteer Movement for Foreign Missions, 80 Institute Place, Chicago," and we welcome it to our list of Exchanges. Our readers will be interested in the following, which we quote from it:

The Student Volunteer Missionary Union of Great Britain, although inaugurated less than a year ago, has already become one of the hopeful missionary movements of the day. It is firmly intrenched in all of the leading universities of England and Scotland, and has recently been extended with success among the students of Wales. The Union is organized somewhat after the plan of the American Movement with its Executive Committee and Traveling Secretary. The same form of declaration is used by the volunteers on both sides, and the Band organization is practically the same. The Union publishes a quarterly organ, and is already planning to hold a conference at Keswick next July. Its policy is conservative yet progressive. Its leaders are men of consecration and ability. We believe it is destined to become a very potent factor in promoting world-wide evangelism. We also venture to hope that one great indirect result of the practical working of the Missionary Union will be that it will suggest and lead the way to some all-embracing Christian union of the British Universities which will in turn emphasize every prominent phase of Christian life and activity among students, as is done on this continent by the College Young Men's and Women's Christian Associations and the Inter-Seminary Missionary Alliance. The existence of some such organization would afford the Missionary Union a much wider and more fertile field in which to develop missionary interest.

The most cordial and helpful relations have existed between the Student Volunteer Movement and the Student Volunteer Missionary Union. These organizations are grappling with a common problem, have a common purpose, and are animated by the same spirit. They will greatly strengthen and stimulate each other. It has always been true that the student missionaries on one side of the Atlantic have exerted a marked influence upon the students of the other side. Who can measure the influence of Martyn, Duff, Livingstone, Keith-Falconer, and the Cambridge Band upon the college men of America? And have not many British students felt the power of Eliot, Brainerd, and Judson, also the influences which have gone forth from the Hay-Stack Prayer Meeting, from Mt. Hermon, and from Little Round Top?

"BELOVED, if God so loved us, we ought also to love one another. Hereby we know that we dwell in Him."

Ministerial Necrology.

[E]We earnestly request the families of deceased ministers and the stated clerks of their presbyteries to forward to us promptly the facts given in these notices, and as nearly as possible in the form exemplified below. These notices are highly valued by writers of Presbyterian history, compilers of statistics and the intelligent readers of both.

BENEDICT, EDWIN.—Born in Ledyard (then Scipio), N. Y., Sept. 3, 1818; graduated from Hamilton College in 1837; from Auburn Theological Seminary in 1840; ordained and installed at Candor, N. Y., by Presbytery of Tioga, Sept. 20, 1842; North Bergen, 1840-41; Candor, 1842-52; Bath, six years; Jamesville, 8 years; Moravia, 5 years; Genoa 2d Church, 1872-83; resident there till death. Married Mary M. Spencer, of Sweden, N. Y., Nov. 2, 1842. Died at Genoa, N. Y., Jan. 24, 1893, aged 79 years, 4 months and 19 days.

BONEKEMPER, CHARLES.—Born in Odessa, Russia, May 9, 1827; came to the United States, 1848; studied at Mercersburg, Pa.; ordained by the Classis of Philadelphia, July 6, 1851; preached two years in Philadelphia; spent two years in private study in Switzerland and seven years teaching in a school for training missionary workers in Chischona, Switzerland; returned to Russia and succeeded his father in the pastorate of Rohrbach and vicinity where he aided in founding and establishing the Stundists; in 1876 returned again to Philadelphia, Pa., and preached two years to a German Presbyterian church; 1879-1881 same in Muscatine, Ia.; 1882-83 to Bohemian Presbyterian Church, Cedar Rapids, Ia.; to same also near Scotland, S. D., and to Germans and at Menno, S. D., Manitowoc, Wis., Lennox, S. D.; died at his home in Scotland, S. D., January 14, 1893. Married Miss Eugenia Lang, daughter of the pastor at Beggingen, September 27, 1867. His wife and three daughters survive him.

BORDEN, EDMUND WOODMANSEE.—Born, Monmouth County, N. J., March 30, 1822; orphaned at twelve years of age, supported himself and obtained common school education; licensed as exhorter (M. E. Church), 1839; ordained, New York, 1842; took a charge, Battle Creek, Mich., and did service in a large circuit for fifteen years; studied with leading M. E. ministers; in 1856-57 united with the Congregational Association, and labored at Almont, Dexter, Lodi, Pinckney, Pine Run and Clio; entered the Presbytery of Saginaw, 1873; labored with the churches of Brighton, Mt. Pleasant and California, Mich., and Sylvania, Ohio; died of neuralgia of heart, at his home in Britton, Mich., Feb. 27, 1893. "He never took a vacation, nor lost a Sunday service through sickness." Married, Oct. 6, 1842, Margaret Hopper, of N. Y. City, who survives him with two sons and three daughters, three other children having died before their father.

BULKLEY, CHARLES H. A., D. D.—Born in Charleston, S. C., December 22, 1819; graduated from the University of New York, 1839, and from the Union Theological Seminary, 1842; ordained by the Presbytery of Newark, Dec. 17, 1842; pastor, New Brunswick, N. J., 1842-43; Home Missionary, Janesville, Wis., 1843-45; pastor, Mt. Morris, N. Y., 1847-50; S. S. (R. D.) Ithaca, N. Y., 1850-52; S. S. (Cong.), Winsted, Ct., 1853-58; S. S. (Cong.), Paterson, N. J., 1859-61; Chaplain U. S. Army, 1861-63; pastor, Owego, N. Y., 1865-67; Chaplain Y. M. C. A., Brooklyn, N. Y., 1866-68; pastor, Malone, N. Y., 1868-75; Professor, Boston, Mass., 1875-76; pastor, Port Henry, N. Y., 1876-1881; Professor, Howard University, Washington, D. C., 1881-90; D. D., Howard University, 1880. Died, Washington, D. C., February 2, 1893. Married Miss Anna A. Masters, of New York, Sept. 8, 1847, who died Dec. 18, 1881. Three daughters and two sons survive him. Published a poem, "Niagara," of some length in 1847, and "Plato's Best Thoughts," in 1876.

DICKEY, CLEMENT C.—Born in Oxford, Pa., Aug. 12, 1844; graduated from University of Pennsylvania, 1864, from Princeton Theological Seminary, 1871; ordained by Presbytery of Brooklyn, Nov. 9, 1871; pastor of Tompkins Avenue Presbyterian Church; professor of Hebrew and Old Testament Literature, Lincoln University, 1872-1878; pastor, Patterson Memorial Church, (whose congregation he gathered and organized), 1878-1886; with impaired health disabling from his loved work, thenceforth lived, useful and loved, at Colorado Springs, Colorado, where he died, March 7, 1893. Married at Colorado Springs, June, 1887, Mary Sterling Sherrard of Philadelphia, who survives him.

GELSTON, MALTY.—Born at Sherman, Ct., April 30, 1805; graduated from Yale College, 1827; from Yale Theological Seminary, 1830; pastor at Medina, N. Y., 2 years; Clyde, 3 years; Congregational Church, Rushville, 19 years; Albion, Mich., 5 years; Grass Lake, 2 years; resident at Ann Arbor from 1862 and preaching at Saginaw, Towas, Au Sable, South Lyon, and other places. Retired from active service in 1885. Died of paralysis at Ann Arbor, Mich., Feb. 19, 1893, aged 87 years, 9 months and 19 days. He married Maria Harriet Merwin, of New Milford, Ct., Oct. 20, 1834. She died in 1887. Four children survived him. Rev. J. Mills Gelston, of Ann Arbor, Rev. Henry W. Gelston, of Deland, Fla., Mrs. Nettie B. Harvey and Miss Sarah B. Gelston, of Ann Arbor.

HUNTER, WILLIAM.—Born in Ireland Feb. 2, 1813; united with the First Presbyterian Church of Watertown, N. Y., May 1833; studied at Oneida Institute; graduated from Auburn Theological Seminary, 1841. Ordained at Springwater, N. Y., by Presbytery of Ontario, Sept. 25, 1844; pastor there for 52 years. Married Miss Mary

E. Curtis, of Auburn, N. Y., May 18, 1842. Died at Springwater, New York, March 29, 1893.

PRIEST, JOSIAH ADDISON, D. D.—Born in Albany, N. Y., April 28, 1822; graduated, Hamilton College, 1847, Auburn Theological Seminary, 1851; ordained and installed at Cooperstown, N. Y., by Presbytery of Otsego, 1851; Cooperstown, 1851-55, and 1862-64; Homer, N. Y., 1855-58; Montclair, N. J., 1858-61; Gloversville, N. Y., 1864-68; Quincy, Ill., 1868-75; Newton, N. J., 1875-80; Westminster Church, Cincinnati, O., 1884-89. Married to Miss Frances Walker, of Cooperstown, N. Y., 1852. Died at Montclair, N. J., March 11, 1893.

WORCESTER, JOHN HOPKINS, JR.—Born at Johnsbury, Vt., April 2, 1845; graduated, University of Vermont, 1865, and Union Theological Seminary, 1871; Professor pro tempore of English Literature, Vermont University, for four months, 1871; ordained by the Presbytery of Morris and Orange, January 10, 1872; pastor, South Orange, N. J., 1872-1883; pastor, Sixth Presbyterian Church, Chicago, 1883-1891; Professor of Systematic Divinity, Union Theological Seminary, 1891-1893. Died February 5, 1893. Married, Auburndale, Mass., Oct. 29, 1874, Miss Harriet W. Strong, of Auburndale, who with one daughter and two sons survives him.

Book Notices.

THE PREACHER'S MAGAZINE, for March, edited by Mark Guy Pearse and Arthur Gregory, is at hand. Among the contents of this number we notice as the leading sermon, "Atheism, its Causes and Consequences," by Dr. Edward White. The senior editor continues his article on "Moses, His Life and its Lessons," and takes up the subject of The Last Plague. Other sermons are by Dr. S. H. Kellogg, of Toronto, and Rev. Hugh Price Hughes, of London. An excellent article by James Stalker, D. D., on "The Lord's Three-fold Question," is also in this number. Dr. Henry Wright continues his paper on "Secret Prayer a Great Reality."

MADAGASCAR.—In our December number (1889), page 556, was an article on Madagascar, the statements of which, with several pictures, were taken from a volume in the series of Missionary Annals, published by the W. P. Board of Missions of the Northwest.

A volume entitled MADAGASCAR, ITS MISSIONARIES AND MARTYRS, has been sent us from the press of Fleming H. Revell Company, New York and Chicago. Its author is William John Townsend, D. D., who tells the story quite graphically, with a number of striking illustrations.

RECEIPTS.

Synods in italics; Presbyteries in italics; Churches in Roman.

It is of great importance to the treasurers of all the boards that when money is sent to them, the name of the church from which it comes, and of the presbytery to which the church belongs, should be distinctly written, and that the person sending should sign his or her name distinctly, with proper title, e. g., Pastor, Treasurer, Miss or Mrs., as the case may be. Careful attention to this will save much trouble and perhaps prevent serious mistakes.

RECEIPTS FOR THE BOARD OF CHURCH ERECTION, FEBRUARY, 1893.

ATLANTIC.— East Florida —Hawthorne (from I. D. Bell), 5; Jacksonville 1st, 9 50. 14 50	Emmanuel, 1 29; Sparta 1st, 26; — 2d, 12 62. Syracuse —Oswego 1st, 12. Utica —New Hartford, 5 95; Turin, 3 79.
BALTIMORE.— Baltimore —Baltimore Boundary Avenue, 34 50; — Faith, 5; Ellicott City, 3 60. New Castle —Forest, 3 75; Wilmington Olivet, 2. Washington City —Lewinsville, 4; Vienna, 5; Washington City Eastern sab-sch, 2 88. 59 78	Westchester —Kotamah, 25; Mahopac Falls, 5 47; Yonkers 1st, 97 17. 506 15
CALIFORNIA.— Los Angeles —Montecito 1st, 5; Sacramento —Roseville, 3 80. San Jose —Watsonville 1st, 5. Stockton —Bethel, 2 15; Columbia, 2; Sonora, 5. 21 45	OHIO.— Athens —Berea, 2. Chillicothe —Chillicothe 2d, 5; Hamden, 4 46; McArthur, 10. Cincinnati —Cincinnati 2d (add'l), 44 98; Wyoming, 44 11. Cleveland —North field, 5. Columbus —Columbus 1st, 40; Columbus 2d, 62 48; Greenfield, 1. Dayton —Blue Ball, 4; Springfield 1st, 40. Lima —Wapakoneta, 5. Marion —Richwood, 6 60; York, 3. Maunder —Toledo 1st German, 8; — Westminster, 3 17. St. Clairville —Barnesville, 8; St. Clairville 1st, 15. Steuersville —Amsterdam, 10; Buchanan Chapel, 4 54; Urichsville, 5. 326 84
CATAWBA.— Cape Fear —Ebenezer, 4 50; Simpson sab-sch, 3. 7 50	OREGON.— Portland —Bethel, 1; Springwater, 2. South Oregon —Ashland, 3. Willamette —Pleasant Grove, 3. 9
COLORADO.— Boulder —Fossil Creek, 80 cts.; Saratoga, 4; Timnath, 2 40; Valmont, 48 cts. Denver —Denver 1st Avenue, 10 60; — Capitol Avenue, 7 48. Pueblo —Del Norte, 7. 82 76	PENNSYLVANIA.— Allegheny —Allegheny Bethel, 4; Beaver, 24; Emsworth, 10 37. Blairsville —Latrobe, 10. Butler —Princeton, 2 40. Carlisle —Harrisburgh Market Square, 69 25; Middletown, 4. Chester —Bethany, 5; Chester 1st, 10; — 2d, 32 66; *Lansdowne 1st, 50. Clarion —Licking, 2; Oil City 2d, 5; Sligo, 2. Erie —Titusville 1st, 47 41. Huntingdon —Altoona 2d, 8; Fruit Hill 6 53; Kenmoor, 2 13; Lewistown, 35 60. Kittanning —Atwood, 2. Lehigh —Allentown 1st, 18; Allen Township, 5; Bangor, 6 15; Hazelton 1st, 36 77; Hokendauqua (incl. sab-sch, 3 84). 10 57. Northumberland —Lycoming Centre, 4; Warrior Run, 2. Parkersburgh —Bethel, 2 53; Hughes River, 3 10. Philadelphia —Philadelphia 9th, 46 97; — Cohocksink (add'l), 1 85; — Covenant, 2; — North, 6 24; — Tabernacle, 143 20. Philadelphia North —Frankford, 10 15. Pittsburgh —Bethany sab-sch, 1 85; Middletown, 9; Pittsburgh 6th, 10; — Covenant, 8; — East Liberty, 53; — Shady Side, 53; West Elizabeth sab-sch, 7. Redstone —Brownsville, 11. Washington —Cross Roads, 6; Moundsville, 8 50; West Alexander, 40; Wheeling 1st sab-sch, 10. Wellsboro —Farmington, 2 25; Wellsboro, 3 68. Westminster —Little Britain, 6. 866 06
ILLINOIS.— Bloomington —Hoopeston, 7; Paxton, 2. Cairo —Golconda 1st, 3. Chicago —Chicago 4th (add'l), 80; Evanston 1st, 28 94; Maywood, 2. Mattoon —Arcola, 5; Pana 1st, 8. Peoria —Lewistown, 30. Rock River —Hamlet, 4 75. Schuyler —Bushnell 1st, 5. Springfield —Petersburgh, 14 60; Pisgah, 3 41. 190 70	SOUTH DAKOTA.— Aberdeen —Aberdeen, 6. 6
INDIANA.— Crawfordsville —Rockville Memorial, 3 17. Indianapolis —Bloomington Walnut Street, 11 08. New Albany —Charlestown, 7 04. White Water —Lawrenceburg, 4. 25 29	TENNESSEE.— Birmingham —Thomas 1st, 2. Kingston —Pleasant Union, 1. Union —Knoxville 2d, 5 50; Madisonville, 52 cts.; Rockford, 1. 10 03
INDIAN TERRITORY.— Cherokee Nation —Claremore, 5. Choctaw —Philadelphia, 75 cts. 5 75	TEXAS.— North Texas —Throckmorton, 1. 1
IOWA.— Dubugue —Lime Spring, 4 12. Iowa —Hope, 2 35. 6 47	UTAH.— Utah —Richfield, 2. 2
KANSAS.— Emporia —Wichita Oak Street, 5. Highland —Clifton (incl'g Parallel Br.), 25; Nortonville, 4. Larned —Great Bend 1st (sab-sch, 3 55). 8 59. Neosho —Fort Scott 2d, 1; Somerset, 2. Solomon —Cawker City, 5; Union, 3. Topeka —Leavenworth 1st, 72 60. 126 19	WASHINGTON.— Spokane —Cortland, 1; Grand Coulee, 1. Walla Walla —Kamiah, 2. 4
KENTUCKY.— Louisville —Kuttawa W. M. Soc, 8; Louisville Covenant, 13 90. 20 90	WISCONSIN.— Chippewa —West Superior 1st, 29. Madison —Janesville 1st, 10 07; Lodi 1st, 7 10. Winnebago —Neenah, 3 23. 49 40
MICHIGAN.— Flint —Mundy, 6. Grand Rapids —Big Rapids Westminster, 8. Kalamazoo —Kalamazoo 1st, 56. Lansing —Concord, 2 13; Lansing 1st, 4. Monroe —Coldwater, 5 32. Saginaw —Ithaca 1st, 5 65. 87 00
MINNESOTA.— Duluth —Two Harbors, 16 60. Mankato —Jackson 1st, 10; Kasota, 8. Minneapolis —Minneapolis Bethany, 1. Winona —Winona 1st, 13. 48 60
MISSOURI.— Kansas City —Raymore 1st, 3 69. Ozark —Brest, 2; Joplin 1st, 16. Platte —Mound City (Y. P. S. C. E.), 4 17; Oregon, 11 48. St. Louis —Cuba, 3; Rolla, 5. 45 34
NEBRASKA.— Kearney —Grand Island 1st, 8; St. Edwards, 6. Nebraska City —Beatrice 2d, 5; Meridian German, 64 cts.; Seward, 15; Thayer German, 56 cts. Omaha —Omaha 2d (add'l), 2. 87 20
NEW JERSEY.— Corisco —Bata, 1; Benita, 3. Elizabeth —Connecticut Farms, 12; Elizabeth 3d, 22; Rahway 2d, 22. Monmouth —Beverly, 20 22; Bordentown, 4 55*. Burlington , 13; Point Pleasant, 6. Morris and Orange —East Orange Brick, 87 74; Mendham 1st, 16 84; Myersville German, 2. Newark —Newark 1st, 150. New Brunswick —Princeton 1st, 88 09. Newton —Belvidere 1st, 8 08; Blairtown add'l, 3; Stewartville, 15. 476 49
NEW MEXICO.— Santa Fe —Taos, 2. 2 00
NEW YORK.— Albany —Bethlehem, 2; Hamilton Union, 5; Voorheesville, 4. Boston —Fall River Globe, 2 48; Houlton, 5; Lawrence German, 10. Brooklyn —Brooklyn Ross Street, 46 87; — South 3d Street, 77 45. Buffalo —Buffalo Covenant, 6; — West Avenue, 5 60. Champlain —Malone, 33 78. Geneva —Geneva North, 57 35. Hudson —Circleville, 6; Good Will, 2 08. Long Island —Southold 6 08; Yaphank, 3. Nassau —Far Rockaway 1st, 16; Huntington 1st, 36 87. New York —New York Bohemian, 10; — Brick, 15; — French Evangelical, 10; — North, 48 89; — Phillips, 133 71. Niagara —Niagara Falls, 38 40; Wilson 1st, 2 70. North River —Cornwall, 3 10. Rochester —Parma Centre, 2; Rochester,

Total from churches and Sabbath-schools...$ 3,289 84

OTHER CONTRIBUTIONS.

Rev. W. L. Tarbet and wife 80 cts.; "C., Penna.," 4 00; Mrs. Harriet J. Baird-Huey, Philadelphia, Pa., 4 00; Mrs. Mary S. Eichbaum, 8 00; "F. and F.," 1 00; Mrs. A. Friend, Fond du Lac, Wis., 1 00; Rev. J. S. McCornack, Red Lake Falls, Minn., 1 00.....	19 80
--	-------

$ 3,309 64

MISCELLANEOUS.

Interest on investments.....	$ 175 00
Sale of church property.....	1,000 00
Sale of Book of Designs No. 5.....	2 46
Premiums of insurance.....	453 01
	1,629 47

*Under Minute of Assembly, 1888.

SPECIAL DONATIONS.

North River, N. Y.—Poughkeepsie....	29 24
Philadelphia, Pa.—Philadelphia Oxford.....	100 00
Special for Utah.....	1,200 00	1,229 24
		<hr/>
	$ 6,268 35

Church collections and other contributions,
11 months, April, 1892, to February, 1893.....$ 41,899 44
Church collections and other contributions,
11 months, April, 1891, to February, 1892..... 40,502 41

MANSE FUND.

NEW YORK.—New York—New York Phillips. 50. Westchester—Yonkers 1st, 24 20.....	74 29	-
---	-------	---

PENNSYLVANIA.—Lehigh—Hokendau-qua Y. P. S. O. E., 1 08. Northumberland—Northumberland 1st, 9....
"Anon.," through New York Observer 4 40 88 72

MISCELLANEOUS.

Installments on loans.....	794 08
Interest.....	26 97
Premiums of insurance.....	30 00	851 00
		<hr/>
	$ 939 72

If acknowledgment of any remittance is not found in these reports, or if they are inaccurate in any item, prompt advice should be sent to the secretary of the Board, giving the number of the receipt held, or, in the absence of a receipt, the date, amount and form of remittance.

ADAM CAMPBELL, Treasurer,
53 Fifth Avenue, New York.

RECEIPTS FOR COLLEGES AND ACADEMIES, FEBRUARY, 1893.

ATLANTIC.—South Florida—Eustis, 3. 3
BALTIMORE.—Baltimore—Baltimore 4th, 5: Deer Creek
Harmony, 15 54. New Castle—Dover, 28: New Castle, 62 19;
Port Penn, 2 53; Wilmington Olivet, 2. Washington—
Falls Church, 5 17; Washington City Eastern sab-sch,
2 18. 122 69
CATAWBA.—South Virginia—Albright, 1; Mt. Hermon,
1. 2
COLORADO.—Boulder—Fossil Creek, 60 cts; Timnath,
1 80; Valmont, 35 cts. Denver—Denver Capitol Avenue,
7 70. Gunnison—Grand Junction, 3. 13 46
ILLINOIS.—Alton—Raymond, 3 82; Bloomington—
Bloomington 1st, 9 75; El Paso, 11: Hoopston, 7; Minoak,
5 45; Normal, 8 61; Onarga, 14; Rankin, 4 12. Cairo—
Golconda, 3. Chicago—Chicago 4th, 8 14 53; Evanston, 21 45; Maywood, 5; New Hope, 13 11; River Forest, 3 72.
Freeport—Freeport 2d, 9; Ridgely, 3 20. Mattoon—Arcola, 5; Assumption, 9; Bethel, 3. Ottawa—Aurora, 7 43.
Peoria—Elmira, 14 78; Lewistown, 30; Peoria 2d, 27 03.
Rock River—Garden Plain, 8 80; Morrison, 69 44. Schuyler —Camp Creek, 8; Perry, 3; Rushville, 12 97. Springfield—
Petersburgh, 5 05; Pisgah, 2 41; Pleasant Plains, 3. 1,145 86
INDIANA.—Crawfordsville—Dayton, 6; Eugene 3; Rockville Memorial, 2 38; Romney, 6 18; Spring Grove, 14 36;
Waveland, 4 31. Fort Wayne—Fort Wayne 1st, 56 30; La Grange, 3 50. Indianapolis—Southport, 4. Muncie—Wabash, 10 68. New Albany—Bedford, 3 08. Vincennes —Vincennes, 17 65; —sab-sch, 4 33. White Water—Ebenezer, 2; Lewisville, 2. 144 71
INDIAN TERRITORY.—Choctaw—Beaver Dam, 70 cts. 70 cts
IOWA.—Cedar Rapids—Atkins, 2; Shellsburgh, 3. Council Bluffs—Sidney, 6; Anderson, 3. Des Moines—Albia, 5 47; Dallas Centre, 4; —sab-sch, 2. Iowa—Winfield, 6.
Iowa City—Columbus Central, 4 06; —sab-sch, 3; Keoto,
2; Lafayette, 3; Marengo, 3 63. Waterloo—Grundy Centre, 7 50; —sab-sch, 2 50; Janesville, 4. 67 15
KANSAS.—Highland—Nortonville, 1. Larned—Pratt,
6 66. Neosho—Chanute, 3 25; Cherokee, 2 15; Osage 1st,
8 80. Solomon—Carlton, 3 28; Cawker City, 1; Clyde, 21.
46 24
KENTUCKY.—Ebeneser—Frankfort, 25 35; Louisville 4th,
9 20. 34 55
MICHIGAN.—Grand Rapids—Grand Rapids Westminster, 9 11; Tustin, 1. Kalamazoo—Kalamazoo 1st, 42. 53 11
MINNESOTA.—Mankota—Jasper, 1 10. St. Paul—Macalester, 4 15; Minneapolis Franklin Avenue sab-sch, 3 65.
Winona—Winona 1st, 20 60. 29 50
MISSOURI.—Kansas City—Kansas City Hill Memorial, 1.
Platte—Cameron, 3; Gallatin, 2. St. Louis—Cuba, 2; Rolla, 5; St. Louis Corondelet, 9 02; Webster Grove, 83.
85 03
NEBRASKA.—Nebraska City—Meridian German, 49 cts.;
Thayer German, 49 cts. Omaha—Fremont, 19 49; Omaha
Southwest, 9. 29 39
NEW JERSEY.—Corisco—Batanga, 1; Benita, 3. Elizabeth—Connecticut Farms, 9; Pluckamin sab-sch, 4 50;
Rahway 2d, 10. Jersey City—Passaic, 22 23; —sab-sch,
6 47; Paterson 3d, 6. Monmouth—Bordentown, 6 70;
Cream Ridge, 5; Point Pleasant, 4. Morris and Orange—
East Orange Brick, 54 83; Mendham 2d, 11. Newark—
Newark 21 5. New Brunswick—Alexandria 1st, 5; Holland, 3 65; Milford, 17 60; Trenton Prospect Street, 33.
Newton—Hackettstown, 25; Stewartville, 10. West Jersey—Janvier, 1; Williamstown, 7. 250 88
NEW YORK.—Albany—Ballston Centre, 5 94; Bethlehem,
1; Esperence, 8; Hamilton Union, 2; Jefferson, 4 07;

Schenectady East Avenue, 8 63. Binghamton—Waverly,
20 65. Boston—Houlton, 6; Windham, 3 46. Buffalo—
Buffalo Central, 24 28; —Covenant, 5; —West Avenue,
4 20. Champlain—Malone, 29 10. Chemung—Burdett,
2 05; Watkins, 22 66; —sab-sch, 8 13. Columbia—Durham 1st, 3 16. Geneva—Bellona, 6. Hudson—Good Will,
1 56; Hamptonburgh, 14; Haverstraw Central, 15; Washingtonville 1st, 12. Long Island—Yaphank, 2. Nassau—Freeport, 10; Jamaica, 13. New York—New York Fifth Avenue, 1,628 84; —French Evangelical, 5; —Harlem, 62 96; —West End, 51 11; —Westminster, 17 25. North River—Cold Spring, 3; Marlborough, 25 47; Poughkeepsie, 21 93. Otsego—Cooperstown, 26; Richfield Springs, 9. Rochester—Brockport, 17 98; Rochester Emmanuel,
1 29; Victor, 7 50. St. Lawrence—Ox Bow, 4; Potsdam,
8. Steuben—Almond, 2 47. Syracuse—Canastota, 5 41.
Troy—Johnsonville, 1; Troy 2d, 26 19; —9th, 30; —Woodside, 49; Warrensburgh 5 18. Utica—Boonville, 3 26; New Hartford, 5 94; Turin, 4; Utica Bethany, 33 71. Westchester—Huguenot Memorial, 37; Patterson, 4 50; South East Centre, 6 14; Stamford, 20 63. 3,765 45
OHIO.—Bellefontaine—Bucyrus, 12 24. Chillicothe—Chillicothe 3d, 5. Greenfield, 3 90; —sab-sch, 1 60. Cincinnati—Clifton, 6 75; Delhi, 5 50; Wyoming, 48 98. Dayton —Dayton Third Street, 121; Monroe, 3 25; Troy, 6 28.
Mahoning—Canton, 17 07; Massillon 2d, 21 63; New Lisbon, 10. Marion—Liberty, 3. Maumee—West Bethesda,
3. St. Clairsville—Pleasant Valley, 1 23. Steubenville—
Corinth, 5; East Liverpool, 1; Linton, 3 25; Minerva, 6;
New Cumberland, 2 50; New Hagerstown, 1 20; New Philadelphia, 5; Toronto, 18. Wooster—Ashland, 7 16; Orr-ville, 2 86; Savannah, 6 58. Zanesville—Brownsville, 7. 327 30
OREGON.—Portland—Portland 1st, 131 10. 131 10
PENNSYLVANIA.—Allegheny—Bellevue, 2; Glenfield, 2 79; Leetsdale, 62 29; Tarentum, 10 28. Blairsville—Con-gruity, 3 75; Harrison City, 3 25; Latrobe, 10; Unity, 18 50.
Butler—New Hope, 4; North Liberty, 2 71; Princeton,
1 80. Carlisle—Lebanon 4th, 30 10; Mechanicsburgh, 5 64;
Mercerburgh, 15 57; Middletown, 4; Shippensburg, 16 50.
Chester—Chester 3d, 25 37; Kennett Square, 5; Wayne, 42.
Clarion—Oil City 2d, 5; Rockland, 3 75. Erie—Bradford, 43 53; Cochranton, 3; Garland, 7 56; Milledgeville, 2;
Mount Pleasant, 3 13; Oil City 1st, 28 65; Pittsfield, 3 59.
Huntingdon—Bedford, 8 50; Curwensville, 6 08; Hollidaysburgh, 37 51; —sab-sch, 3 20; Lewistown, 26 70; Lost Creek, 4 50; Orbisonia, 4 58; —sab-sch, 1 07; Tyrone, 18.
Kittanning—Atwood, 1; Straders Grove, 2 63; Washington, 8. Luckawanna—Bethany, 1 08; Hawley, 6 46; Honesdale, 30 88; Pittston, 8 43; —sab-sch, 4 33. Lehigh—Allentown, 13; Shawnee, 2 50; —sab-sch, 1 75; Slatington, 4;
South Bethlehem, 13. Northumberland—Lycoming Centre, 5. Philadelphia Central—Philadelphia Bethesda, 22 50; —Cohocksink, 3 65; —Princeton, 153 04. Philadelphia North—Bridenburg, 2; Carversville, 1 60; Conshohocken, 2 38; Doylestown, 31 66; Germantown 1st, 175 62; Leverington, 9; Norristown 1st, 19 88. Pittsburg—Bethany sab-sch, 3 13; Cannonsburgh, 13; Charlaroi, 5; Finley-ville, 4 66; McKee's Rocks, 6; Montours, 3; Mount Olive,
2 60; Mount Pisgah, 10; Pittsburg 4th, 28 51; —Covenant, 2 40; —East Liberty, 53; —Shady Side, 26 50; —Mc-Candless Avenue Morning Side Mission, 2 40; —McCandless Avenue, 2 50; Mount Olivet, 3 40. Redstone—Dunbar, 27 40; —sab-sch, 5; Roboboth, 8 60; Round Hill, 7; Scott-dale, 6 45; Smithfield, 1 53; Sharon, 10 20; Westfield, 13;
Scottdale sab-sch, 1 60. Washington—Cross Creek, 14;
Cross Roads, 5; Hookstown, 5 20; Wheeling 1st sab-sch,
10. Wellsboro—Wellsboro, 2 78. Westminster—Little

Britain, 6; Middle Octorara, 4 76; Union, 15 76; York 1st, 84 30; Wrightsville, 2. 1,419 76
 TENNESSEE.—Birmingham—Thomas, 2. Union—Madisonville, 40 cts. 2 40
 UTAH.—Montana—Phillipsburg, 5 45; Deer Lodge, 20 70.
 Utah—Richfield, 2. Wood River—Boise City, 3 35. 31 50
 WASHINGTON.—Spokane—Grand Coulee, 1; Courtland, 1.
 Olympia—Toledo, 2. 4
 WISCONSIN.—Madison—Cottage Grove, 2. Milwaukee—Somers, 8 57. 10 57
 Total received from churches and Sab-schs....$ 6,332 34

PERSONAL.

Y. P. S. C. E., Hopewell, N. Y., 15; Mrs. C. B. Hubbard, Chicago, Ill., 1; "X. Y. Z." 20; M. B. Huey, Princeville, Ill., 16 cts; Y. P. S. C. E., Rochester North, N. Y., 15 49; Mrs. A.

Friend, Fond du Lac, Wis., 1; C. E. Society, Shawnee, Pa., 1 75; H. L. J., Williamstown, N. S., 10; R. V. Glovers, Mifflinburg, Pa., 3; Rev. W. L. Tarbet and wife, Springfield, Ill., 80 cts.; "C. Penna." 2; For account of Ruth-erford 1st Church, N. J., 500; For account of Peoria 2d Church, Ill., 50.

Total personals.....$ 631 30

Total receipts for February, 1898..... 7,139 69
 Hastings College Fund on account..... 49 85
 Interest on Roger Sherman Fund..... 176 40
 Previously reported..... 51,546 05

Total receipts from April 1st, 1893 to March 1st, 1898.....$ 58,685 74

C. M. CHARNLEY, Treasurer.
 P. O. Box 294, Chicago, Ill.

RECEIPTS FOR EDUCATION, FEBRUARY, 1898.

ATLANTIC.—South Florida—Eustis, 3. 8
 BALTIMORE.—Baltimore—Baltimore Faith, 5; Ellicott City, 6 80. New Castle—Smyrna, 10; West Nottingham, 15 50; Wilmington Central, 24 09; — Olivet, 2. Washington City—Washington City Eastern, 1 80. 65 19
 CALIFORNIA.—Los Angeles—Redlands, 33. San Jose—Santa Clara, 6. 39
 COLORADO.—Boulder—Fossil Creek, 50 cts.; Timnath, 1 50; Valmont, 30 cts. Denver—Denver Capitol Avenue, 7 08; Georgetown, 4 50. Gunnison—Aspen Y. P. S. C. E., 20. Pueblo—Eastonville, 2; Monte Vista, 18 70. 49 58
 ILLINOIS.—Alton—Chester 1st, 3; Jerseyville, 12. Bloomington—Bloomington 1st, 9 75; — Walnut Street, 14 24; Cooksville, 9 10; Hoopston, 4. Cairo—Golconda, 2. Chicago—Coal City, 9; Chicago 4th add'l, 85; Evanston 1st, 22 45; Maywood, 7. Mattoon—Bethel, 8; Toledo, 4 06. Peoria—Lewistown, 30; Onelda, 6 50. Rock River—Ashton, 6; Franklin Grove, 2; Hamlet, 3 10. Schuyler—Kirkwood, 10; Nauvoo, 2. Springfield—Petersburgh, 6 55; Pisgah, 1 81. 254 56
 INDIANA.—Crawfordsville—Lebanon 1st, 6; Rockville Memorial, 1 98. Fort Wayne—Warsaw 1st, 18. Indianapolis—Greenwood, 5 73. Logansport—Rolling Prairie, 2 50. Muncie—Wabash, 8 90. New Albany—Bedford, 8 20. 41 31
 IOWA.—Cedar Rapids—Cedar Rapids 2d, 18 17; Garrison, 5; Mechanicsville, 7. Council Bluffs—Afton, 3. Corning—Lenox, 3 99; Prairie Chapel, 1 01. Des Moines—Dallas Centre sab-sch, 3. Dubuque—Independence 1st, 4 10. Iowa City—Iowa City, 30; Keota, 3; Lafayette, 2. Waterloo—Ackley, 37; La Porte City, 5. 111 37
 KANSAS.—Highland—Atchison 1st, 16; Nortonville, 1. Neosho—Parsons, 11 71. Solomon—Cawker City, 4; Glen Elder, 2. 34 71
 KENTUCKY.—Louisville—Kuttawa, 1. 1
 MICHIGAN.—Detroit—Ann Arbor 1st, 40. Flint—Port Austin, 2. Kalamazoo—Kalamazoo 1st, 35. Lansing—Concord, 1 33; Marshall 1st, 3 82. Monroe—Coldwater 1st, 5 05. 87 20
 MINNESOTA.—Mankato—Jasper, 3 10; Kasoto, 6; St. James, 2. St. Paul—Macalester, 6; Merrian Park 1st, 1 70. Minneapolis—Bethany, 1. Winona—Albert Lea, 18 10. 86 90
 MISSOURI.—Kansas City—Raymore 1st, 8 48. Osark—Joplin, 16; West Plains 1st, 3. St. Louis—Cuba, 4; Emmanuel, 10; Rolla, 5; Webster Grove, 49 25; Zion German, 4; Zoar, 15. 114 73
 NEBRASKA.—Nebraska City—Meridian German, 40 cts.; Thayer German, 35 cts. Omaha—Omaha Southwest, 8 80. 9 55
 NEW JERSEY.—Corlesco—Benito, 3; Bata, 1. Elizabeth—Connecticut Farms, 8. Jersey City—Arlington, 8 02. Monmouth—Bordentown, 5 78; Burlington, 58; Hightstown, 31; Point Pleasant, 4. Morris and Orange—East Orange Brick, 32 90; Orange Central, 50. Newark—Newark Roseville, 106 60. New Brunswick—Bound Brook, 28; Kingwood, 2. Newton—Blairtown add'l, 5; Phillipsburgh Westminster, 8; Stewartville, 10. West Jersey—Janvier, 1; Williamstown, 6. 367 30
 NEW MEXICO.—Santa Fe—Taos, 1. 1
 NEW YORK.—Albany—Bethlehem, 1; Hamilton Union, 2. Boston—Fall River Globe, 6 59; Houlton, 5; Lawrence German, 10. Brooklyn—Brooklyn Ross Street, 40 11. Buffalo—Buffalo Covenant, 9. Champlain—Malone 1st, 29 08. Columbia—Windham Centre, 20. Geneva—Geneva 1st, 18 25; Gorham, 10 46. Hudson—Good Will, 1 30; Haverstraw 1st, 5; — Central, 35; Washingtonville 1st, 15. Long Island—Southold, 4; Yaphank, 8. Nassau—Freeport, 20. New York—New York 5th Avenue, 1,497 04; — French Evangelical, 5; — Harlem, 63 08; — Westminster, 17 25. North River—Amenia, 10; Cold Spring, 10; Newburgh Calvary, 14 30; Poughkeepsie, 18 23. Otsego—Richfield Springs, 10 88. Rochester—Rochester Emmanuel, 1 61; — Westminster, 15. St. Lawrence—Cape Vincent, 5; Watertown Stone Street, 18. Steuben—Hammondsport, 8. Syracuse—Canastota, 6 41. Troy—Troy 2d, 26 80. Utica—Augusta, 4; Onelda, 20 65; Sauquoit, 8 47; Turin, 2 77. Westchester—Stamford 1st, 20 83. 1,948 19

 OHIO.—Athens—Amesville, 4 75. Bellefontaine—Kenton, 23 48. Chillicothe—Chillicothe 2d, 5; Hamden, 5 19. Cincinnati—Cincinnati 2d add'l, 116 80; — 6th, 15; Pleasant Ridge, 17; Wyoming, 30 43. Cleveland—Cleveland North sab-sch, 7 50; Northfield, 8. Columbus—Groveport, 1. Dayton—Springfield 1st, 32. Lima—Mount Jefferson, 5; Turtle Creek, 3 30; Wapakoneta, 5. Maumee—Bowling Green, 29; Toledo 3d, 6 37; — Westminster, 9 10. Portsmouth—Portsmouth 2d, 41 16. St. Clairsville—Washington, 3. Steubenville—New Cumberland, 3; New Philadelphia, 10; Urichsville, 4; Yellow Creek, 6. Wooster—Doylestown, 5. Zanesville—Brownsville, 7; Granville, 5 30. 425 37

PENNSYLVANIA.—Allegheny—Beaver, 12; Hillands, 8. Blairsville—Congruity, 5; Latrobe, 30; Parnassus, 25 26; Turtle Creek, 5 33. Butler—Jefferson Centre, 1; Princeton, 1 50. Carlisle—Dickinson, 3; Great Conewago, 2; Harrisburgh Market Square, 59 47; Lower Marsh Creek, 2; Jas. Coleman Memorial, 4; Middletown, 4. Chester—Ashmun, 20; Bethany, 5; Chester 1st, 15; Fairview, 5 50; Marple, 4; Media, 40 48. Clarion—Oil City 2d, 5; Shigo, 2. Erie—Milledgeville, 3; Sunville, 3. Huntingdon—Altoona 3d, 8; East Kishacoquillas, 35; Lewistown, 23 25; Osceola, 6 60; Williamsburgh, 15 32. Kittanning—Atwood, 3; Washington 17. Lackawanna—Athens, 10; Brooklyn, 5; Dunmore, 8; Harmony, 30; Rushville, 4; Stevensville, 4. Lehigh—Allentown 1st, 38. Northumberland—Northumberland, 6. Parkersburg—Bethel, 1 56; Hughes River, 2. Philadelphia—Philadelphia 2d, 75; — 10th, 462 82; — Tabor, 125 15; — Cobockstank, 11 30; — Covenant, 10; — North, 12 48; — Richmond, 10. Philadelphia North—Bridesburg, 10; Chestnut Hill 1st, 67; Frankford, 14 21; Mount Airy, 25; Norristown 1st, 25. Pittsburgh—Bethany sab-sch, 5 01; Bethel, 21; Coal Bluff and Courtney, 3; Homestead, 25; Mount Washington, 5; Pittsburgh East Liberty, 53; — Shady Side, 66 35; Sharon, 13 30. Shenango—Transfer, 2 75. Washington—Claysville, 15; Cross Roads, 8; Moundsville, 10; Wheeling 1st, (sab-sch, 10), 46 82; — 3d, 8. Wellboro—Farmington, 2 25; Wellboro, 2 30. Westminster—Little Britain, 5. 1,612 36

SOUTH DAKOTA.—Aberdeen—Aberdeen, 5; Leola, 1 50; Tenbrook, 1 50. Southern Dakota—Scotland, 2 60. 10 60

TENNESSEE.—Birmingham—Thomas, 2. Kingston—Pleasant Union, 1. Union—Knoxville 2d, 6 25; Madisonville, 34 cts. 9 59

UTAH.—Montana—Lewistown, 8. Utah—Richfield, 3. Wood River—Boise City 3 45. 14 45

WASHINGTON.—Walla Walla—Kamiah 1st, 2. Spokane—Courtland, 1; Grand Coulee, 1. Willamette—Brownsville, 3 50; Pleasant Grove, 2. 10 56

WISCONSIN.—Chippewa—Ashland, 8 30; West Superior 1st, 15. 23 30

Total receipts from churches February, 1898...$ 5,237 63
 Total receipts from Sab-schs, February, 1898... 33 00

5,270 63

REFUNDED.

L. E. Amidon, 43; Student, 26; Student, 27; On ac. of Rev. Amzi Wilson, dec'd, 1 63; J. W. C., 761 96. 858 91

INCOME ACCOUNT.

60; 3; 88 18; 68 50; 44 20; 75; 78 53..... 401 35

MISCELLANEOUS.

"F. and F.," 3; Rev. C. B. Gardner, Trustee, 50;
 Rev. J. S. Craig, D. D., 5; "Houston," 20; J.
 Fulton, 4 50; Rev. H. L. Janeway, 20; Rev.

W. H. Robinson, 20; Rev. W. L. Tarbet and wife, 60 cts.; O. Penna, 2; Cash, 1..... 126 10

Total receipts in February, 1893.....$ 6,657 05
 Total receipts from April 16, 1893.....$53,548 12

JACOB WILSON, Treasurer.
 1234 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia.

RECEIPTS FOR FOREIGN MISSIONS, FEBRUARY, 1893.

ATLANTIC.—Knox—Columbus 3d, 1 15. McClelland—Immanuel, 2 33; Mt. Zion sab-sch,* 4. South Florida—Eustis Y. P. S. C. E., 13; Kissimmee, 2; Titusville Y. P. S. C. E., 1 40; DeLand Y. P. S. C. E., 10 29. 24 17
 BALTIMORE.—Baltimore—Baltimore Faith, 23; —Fulton Avenue, 15; Emmetsburgh, 34 72; Highland, 2. New Castle—Elkton sab-sch, 6 30; Head of Christiansa, 10; New Castle (sab-sch, 9), 15; Pitt's Creek (sab-sch, 9); Y. P. S. C. E., 16; 37; Wilmington Olivet, 10 84; —Rodney Street, 65 28. Washington City—Lewinsville, 6; Vienna, 10 25; Washington City 1st Y. P. S. C. E., 15; —4th, 64 28; —Covenant, 35; —Eastern sab-sch, 5; —Western, 1; —Garden Memorial Y. P. S. C. E., 1 92. 394 55
 CALIFORNIA.—Benicia—Big Valley, 10; Mendocino sab-sch, 3; Napa, 332 45; Point Arena, 8; Two Rocks, 28. Los Angeles—Alhambra, 13 28, sab-sch, 3; Anaheim Y. P. S. C. E., 7 15; Arlington, 75; Burbank, 5 16; Glendale, 8 60; Graham Merrial, 20; Los Angeles, 3d, 23; Orange Olive Y. P. S. C. E., 10; Pomona, 70; Y. P. S. C. E., 5. Riverside—Calvary, 7; Santa Ana, 29 15. Oakland—Alameda 1st sab-sch, 30; —Y. P. S. C. E., 15; Concord, 7; Livermore, 28 28; Oakland 2d, 63; —sab-sch, 8; Valona, 2 90; —sab-sch, 3 25; Walnut Creek, 5. Sacramento—Davisville, 10; San Jose—Cayucos, 25; Y. P. S. C. E., 11; Gilroy, 5; Pleasanton, 35, sab-sch, 5; Y. P. S. C. E., 6 08; Y. P. S. C. E., 6 30; Watsonville, 15 20. Stockton—Bethel, 3 50. 961 97
 CATAWBA.—Yadkin—Boonville, 1; St. James, 75 cts. 1 75
 COLORADO.—Boulder—Boulder (sab-sch, 10), 57; Fossil Creek, 3 30; Rawlins; Timnath, 9 90; Valmont, 1 28. Denver—Akron, 9 50; Denver Capitol Avenue, 74 53; —1st Avenue (sab-sch, 2 38), 24 65; —North, 58; Georgetown, 5 30; Golden, 49. Pueblo—Durango sab-sch, 7; Mesa (sab-sch, 44 79), 204 25; Bessemer Y. P. S. C. E., 5. 557 68
 ILLINOIS.—Alton—Belleville Y. P. S. C. E., 7; Bethel, 6 70; Elm Point, 2 55; Raymond, 8 75. Bloomington—Alvin, 3 10; Bement, 5; Bloomington 1st, 62 53; —1st "special," 20; Champlain, 146 14; Fairbury Y. P. S. C. E., 6; Gilman sab-sch, 10; Minonk, 15 50; Paxton, 6; Philo Y. P. S. C. E., 8; Pontiac Y. P. S. C. E., 15; Rankin, 3 86; Roseville (sab-sch, 7 35), 15 08; —Y. P. S. C. E., 6; Watseka, 15 50; Wellington, 10 75. Cairo—Anna, 15; Dubois, 2 25; Fairfield, 11 50; Golconda, 3; Grayville Y. P. S. C. E., 1 20. Chicago—Chicago 1st, 710 12; —3d, 44 87; —4th, 1515 73; —6th Y. P. S. C. E., 18 50; —8th, 233; —41st Street, 141 77; —Heights sab-sch, 40; Evanston 1st, 113 74; Herscher, 9; Hyde Park, 180 83; Joliet 1st 40; —Central Y. P. S. C. E., 8 68; Lake Forest (sab-sch, 25), 64 36; Libertyville 12; Manteno, 63; New Hope sab-sch, 8 50; —pastor, 1 25; Oak Park, 260 14; Peotone, 127 53; River Forest, 17 30; South Evanston, 5; Wilmington (sab-sch, 15), 10. Freeport—Elizabeth, 2 35; Freeport 2d, 20; Galena 1st, 30 75; Harvard, 5; Linn and Hebron Y. P. S. C. E., 2; Marengo, 23 41; Middle Creek, 69; Ridgefield, 20; Rockford 1st, 69 07; Winnebago, 35; Woodstock, 17. Mattoon—Arcola, 5; Ashmore, 8; Bethel, 5; Charleston, 37; Greenup, 3; Mattoon (sab-sch, 10), 25 31; —Jr. C. E., 2 50; Moweaqua, 5; Morrisville, 12; Oakland, 6; Pleasant Prairie, 6 50; Toledo, 6 79. Ottawa—Aurora, 4; Morris sab-sch, 15. Peoria—Brimfield, 6; Canton Y. P. S. C. E., 9 11; Elmwood, 18; Eureka, 49 60; Lewistown col., 45 23; Low Point, 22; Peoria 1st, 101; Prospect, 16 72. Rock River—Centre, 17 25; Geneseo, 21 75; Hamlet, 10 25; Munson, 13 15; Rock Island Broadway, 97 95; —Central, 23 10; Schuyler—Augusta Y. P. S. C. E., 12 50; Camp Creek, Y. P. S. C. E., 76; Carthage, 10; Kirkwood Y. P. S. C. E., 20; Macomb (sab-sch, 5 50), 84; Oquawka, 10 73; Plymouth, 6; Quincy 1st sab-sch, 15; —Y. P. S. C. E., 12 60; Springfield—Irish Grove, 5; Jacksonville Westminster, 140; Macon Y. P. S. C. E., 4 05; North Sangamon Mrs. A. R. Rankin, dec'd, 37 50; Petersburg (sab-sch, 29 41), 39 20; Pisgah, 8 45. 5499 91
 INDIANA.—Crawfordsville—Crawfordsville Centre, 71 74; Dayton, 51; —Y. P. S. C. E., 23; Delphi Y. P. S. C. E., 9 45; Frankfort sab-sch, 21 36; Lafayette 2d, 50; Lebanon, 25; Rockville Memorial, 18 07. Fort Wayne—Bluffton, 13; Goshen, 150 01. Indianapolis—Bethany, 31 10; Green-castle Y. P. S. C. E., 4 73; Hopewell, 56 95. Logansport—Goodland, 14 40; Logansport Broadway Y. P. S. C. E., 7 35; Meadow Lake, 5 50; Remington, 6 60; Rolling Prairie, 2 50; South Bend 2d, 4 10; Union, 3 65. Muncie

—Wabash, 58 75; Winchester, 12 70. New Albany—Hanover, 79; Madison 1st Y. P. S. C. E., 15. Vincennes—Claborn, 5; Terre Haute Central, 72 25; Vincennes sab-sch, 4; Washington, 40. White Water—Cambridge City, 1; Connersville 1st, 34; Greensburg, 124 75; Hagerstown Y. P. S. C. E., 35 cts.; Lawrenceburg Y. P. S. C. E., 5; New Castle, 27; Richmond sab-sch, 30; Rushville Y. P. S. C. E., 13 75; Shelbyville German, 25. 1121 56
 INDIAN TERRITORY.—Cherokee Nation—Claremore, 10; Elm Spring, 15; Fort Gibson, 23 10. Chickasaw—Okla-homa City, 56 85; Kingfisher sab-sch, 8 10; Anadarko, 6 81. Choctaw—Philadelpia, 75 cts. 120 11
 IOWA.—Cedar Rapids—Cedar Rapids 1st sab-sch, 13 20; —2d, 90 84; Y. P. S. C. E., 6 25; —3d Y. P. S. C. E., 5; —Bohemian, 5; Mount Vernon, 53; Springfield, 18. Council Bluffs—Afton 9, Y. P. Soc., 2; Anderson, 6; Atlantic, 12; Clarinda, 58 23; Guthrie Centre Y. P. S. C. E., 5; Ham-burg, 3 50, sab-sch, 3; Logan, 5; Marne, 10; Shenandoah, 23 25, sab-sch, 31 04. Des Moines—Adel, 14 01; Albia, 8 35; Grimes, 10 15; Indianola Y. P. S. C. E., 4 25; Winterest, 117 20. Dubuque—Hopkinton, J. Harper, 15; Independ-ence German L. M. S., 15; Jesup, Salary J. C. Melrose, 23; Oelwein, 10; Rossville, 2 40; Voiga, 5 50. Fort Dodge—Dana, 5 37; Fonda, 18, sab-sch, 1. Iowa—Birmingham, 9 50; Kossuth, 24; Ottumwa, 48 68; Spring Creek, 4; Win-field Y. P. S. C. E., 3. Iowa City—Atalissa Y. P. S. C. E., 2; Columbus Junction, 6 81; —sab-sch, 2 65; Keota, 13; Lafayette, 8; Muscatine Y. P. S. C. E., 9. Sioux City—Dennison, 7; Odessa Y. P. S. C. E., 7; Plymouth, 5; Storm Lake sab-sch, 16 06. Waterloo—Greene, 6; La Porte City, 30, sab-sch, 10; State Centre, 14 25; Tama, 1 53; Toledo, 4. 587 34
 KANSAS.—Emporia—Belle Plaine, 5, sab-sch, 4; Burling-game, 4 57; Conway Springs sab-sch, 7 27; Florence, 4 65, sab-sch, 1 09; Marion, 52; Pleasant Unity, 2 29; Waverly Y. P. S. C. E., 12 44; Wichita Oak Street, 50; —Lincoln Street, 4; —West Side, 6 28; Winfield, 70; Udall Y. P. S. C. E., 4 23. Highland—Atchison, 25; Blue Rapids, 20; Hiawatha, 8; Highland, 19 25; Horton Y. P. S. C. E., 3; Nortonville, 10; Parallel L. M. Soc., 30 25. Larned—Ar-lington Y. P. S. C. E., 4 30; Edwin, 2 25; Hutchinson Y. P. S. C. E., 8 44; Kendall, 2; Syracuse, 2 25. Neosho—Chanute, 10; Fort Scott 2d, 4; Garnett, 19 25; Geneva, 2; Louisburg, 11 60; Neosho Falls, 5 51; Osage 1st, 37; Os-wego, 27 20; Sugar Valley Y. P. S. C. E., 2 56. Osborne—Calvert, 5; Downs, 5; Osborne, 7; Rose Valley, 6. Sol-omon—Barnard, 1 46; Cowker City, 10; Cheever, 8; Dillon, 10; Manchester, 3 23; Minneapolis, 23 61; Solomon, 12 50, sab-sch, 1 75; —Y. P. S. C. E., 2 50; Union, 6 05. Topeka—Auburn, 12 56; Bethel, 8; Kansas City (Ka.) 1st, 243 25; Spring Hill, 2 75; Stanley, 3 60; Topeka 3d Y. P. S. C. E., 2 50; —Westminster sab-sch, 2 51; Wamego, 7. 284 08
 KENTUCKY.—Ebeneser—Covington 1st sab-sch, 137 08; Dayton, 8 85; Flemingsburg, 58 75; Frankfort 1st, 56 50. Louisville—Louisville Covenant Y. P. S. C. E., 3 22. 295 04
 MICHIGAN.—Detroit—Birmingham, 7; Detroit 2d Ave-nue sab-sch, 40; —Calvary Y. P. S. C. E., 9 70; —Fort Street, 2 10; —Memorial sab-sch*, 35; —Trumbull Ave-nue, 20 50; Northville sab-sch, 11 25; South Lyon sab-sch, 3 74; Ypsilanti 24 07, sab-sch, 4 10. Flint—Brent Creek, 11 01; Bridgehamton, 2; Cass City, 7; Elk, 2; Flint, 36; Flushing, 41 35; Sanilac Centre, 1. Grand Rapids—Big Rapids Westminster, 17; Grand Rapids Immanuel, 10. Kalamazoo—Kendall, 5 10; Richland, 8; Sturgis, 19. Lake Superior—Menominee Y. P. S. C. E., 8 88. Lansing—Albion sab-sch, 2 10; Concord, 8 78; Eckford, 5 80. Monroe—Coldwater, 11 57, sab-sch, 9 45; Erie, 5 50, sab-sch*, 3 68. *La Salle, 4; Palmyra, 4. Petokey—Petokey, "An Elder," 15. Saginaw—East Saginaw Washington Ave-nue, 4; Gladwin 2d, 1 70; Grayling Y. P. S. C. E., 8; Sagi-naw W. Side 1st, 237 22. 1,049 80
 MINNESOTA.—Duluth—Duluth Westminster, 6 43. Man-ka-to—Kasota Y. P. S. C. E., 9 48; Redwood Falls, 30 35; St. Peter's Union, 9; Wells, 12. Red River—Crookston, 15, sab-sch, 1 23. St. Paul—Buffalo, 17 49; Y. P. S. C. E., 1 35; Ellim, 77 cts.; Minneapolis Bethany, 2; —Bethlehem, 45 50, sab-sch, 7 50; —Westminster, 1,000; Oak Grove Y. P. S. C. E., 16; Rockford, 9. St. Paul 1st, 6 25; —Dayton Avenue Y. P. S. C. E., 65 90; —House of Hope sab-sch, 30; —Knox sab-sch, 5; White Bear, 14 75, sab-sch, 1 75.

Winona—Claremont Y. P. S. C. E., 1070; Houston, 1 50; La Crescent, 3 50; St. Charles sab-sch, 3; Winona 1st Y. P. S. C. E., 8.

MISSOURI.—Kansas City—Butler, 46, sab-sch, 16 40; Clinton, 10 80; Holden Y. P. S. C. E., 9; Sedalia Central, 63 55; —sab-sch, 18 45; Sharon, 6 06. Ozark—Eureka Springs, 11; Golden City, 3 50; Lockwood, 6 06; Neosho, 11; Springfield Calvary, 50; Seneca, 3; —Y. P. S. C. E., 3; White Oak, 18 71. Palmyra—Hannibal, 165. Platte—Albany, 9; Mound City, 18 95; Oregon, 11 84; Rosendale, 5 75. St. Louis—Cuba, 7; Poplar Bluff, 12; Rolla, 15; St. Louis Cote Brillante, 11; —North Y. P. S. C. E., 48; —Washington and Compton Avenue Y. P. S. C. E., 50; —West Y. P. S. C. E., 10; Webster Grove, 16 85.

NEBRASKA.—Hastings—Hastings Y. P. S. C. E., 6 25; Nelson, 37 45. Kearney—Buffalo Grove German (sab-sch, 1), 3; Fullerton, 12 50; Kearney, 67; —Y. P. S. C. E., 5; Ord sab-sch, Col., 8; St. Edwards, 12; Salem, 6; Wilson Memorial, 6 28. Nebraska City—Adams, 15; Barneston, 5 65; Lincoln 1st, Y. P. S. C. E., 15; Meridian German, 2 54; Nebraska City, 26; Table Rock (sab-sch, 1 85), 15 77; Thayer German, 3 31. Niobrara—Coleridge, 8 29; Emerson, 8 00; Hartington, 15 40; —Y. P. S. C. E., 5 60; Union Star, 2; Wayne, 24. Omaha—Douglass, Y. P. S. C. E., 4 25; Lyons, 3 10; —Y. P. S. C. E., 4 40; Omaha 1st, 91 37; —2d Y. P. S. C. E., 11 61; —Southwest, 11; Washoo, 15.

NEW JERSEY.—Corisco—Bata, 5; Benito, 17. Elizabeth—Connecticut Farms, 81; Elizabeth 3d Y. P. S. C. E., 10; —Marshall Street, 42; —Y. P. S. C. E., 10; —Westminster, 257 78; —Hope Mission, 15; Metuchen, 108 85; Plainfield, 1st sab-sch, 50; Y. P. S. C. E., 10; Springfield, 5. Jersey City—Arlington, 1 71; Hackensack Y. P. S. C. E., 5 40; Passaic sab-sch, 4 79; —Y. P. S. C. E., 166 51; Paterson 3d, 7; Dundee Y. P. S. C. E., 9; Garfield Y. P. S. C. E., 5. Monmouth—Burlington, 38 72; sab-sch, 33 50; Calvary, 45; Columbus sab-sch, 17 18; Freehold, 21 79; —Y. P. S. C. E., 4 69; Atlantic Highlands L. Aid Socy, 2 50; Long Branch, 10; Mattawan, 68 63; Mount Holly, 188 74; sab-sch, 18 37; —Y. P. S. C. E., 33 50; Plumstead, 5 60; —Y. P. S. C. E., 1 20; Point Pleasant, 10; Tuckerton sab-sch, 6. Morris and Orange—East Orange Bethel Y. P. S. C. E., 5 22; —Brick, 896 83; Morristown 1st, 371 17; —South Street Men and Boys' Special Fund, 266 50; —Sab-sch, Missy Socy, 113 50; Mt. Olive, 11 56; —sab-sch, 3 25; New Providence, 8; —Y. P. S. C. E., 5 50; Orange 1st, 2100; —sab-sch, 100; —Central, 600; South Orange 1st sab-sch, 50. Newark—Bloomfield 1st sab-sch, 25; Westminster, 857; Caldwell, salary Wm. Lane, 30; Newark 1st Y. P. S. C. E., 18 09; —South Park, 333 26; —Woodside, 30 56; —Fifth Avenue sab-sch, 15; —Y. P. S. C. E., 6. New Brunswick—Alexandria 1st, 8; Amwell 1st, 29; —2d, 6; —United 1st, 7 14; Holland, 16; Kingwood, 3; Kirkpatrick Memorial, 17; Lambertville, 193; sab-sch, col., 39 67; Lawrenceville sab-sch, 48 74; New Brunswick 1st, 330 62; Y. P. S. C. E., 5; Princeton 1st sab-sch, 106 36; Stockton, 15; Trenton 3d, 143 65; —sab-sch, 12 38; —Prospect Street, 29; —Y. P. S. C. E., 2. Newton—Aubury sab-sch, 6; Alleghuee, 1 06; Danville sab-sch, 12; Y. P. S. C. E., 10 40; North Hardiston, 33 31; —sab-sch, 5 75; Oxford 1st, 43 88; —sab-sch, 3 13; —2d sab-sch, 16 92; Phillipsburgh 1st Y. P. S. C. E., 4 58; —Westminster, 13 25; Y. P. S. C. E., 6 71; Stewartville, 65. West Jersey—Blackwoodtown, 50; Bridgeton Irving Avenue, 10; Camden 1st Y. P. S. C. E., 38 25; —2d, 25; —sab-sch, col., 25; Cape Island Y. P. S. C. E., 14 27; Fairfield Y. P. S. C. E., 4; Janvier, 4 49; May's Landing sab-sch, 5; Pittsgrove, 15; —Y. P. S. C. E., 3; Salem, 130 63; Williamstown, 40; —sab-sch, 15.

NEW MEXICO.—Santa Fe—Taos, 1.
NEW YORK.—Albany—Albany State Street, 300; Emmanuel, 4 77; Esperance Y. P. S. C. E., 8 28; Gloversville Y. P. S. C. E., 30; Schenectady East Avenue, 16 85. Binghamton—Nichols Y. P. S. C. E., 3 52. Boston—Bedford, 11; Lawrence German, 25; South Framington Hope, 4; Woonsocket Y. P. S. C. E., 2. Brooklyn—Brooklyn 1st, 523 43; —2d 413 40; —Duryea, 137; —Green Ave Y. P. S. C. E., 10 50; —Lafayette Avenue, 713; —Prospect Heights sab-sch, 40; —Ross Street, 7; Brooklyn South 3d Street, 37 12; —Throop Avenue Mission, 100; Edgewater 1st, 55. Buffalo—Alden, 16 50; Buffalo Bethlehem Y. P. S. C. E., 2 09; —Central sab-sch, 8 02; —Covenant, 13; —Corplanter, 3 10; —North, 400; —Wells Street, 10; —West Avenue Y. P. S. C. E., 10; —Redeemer sab-sch, 5; Conewango, 5; Dunkirk, 23 57; East Aurora sab-sch, 9 45; Franklinville Y. P. S. C. E., 1 75; Jamestown, 200; sab-sch, col., 25; Olean, 25 35; —Y. P. S. C. E., 26 31; Oldtown, 4 23; Tonawanda Y. P. S. C. E., 33 49. Cayuga—Ithaca Y. P. S. C. E., 8 35; Port Byron, 20; Weedsport, 103 24; sab-sch, 10. Champlain—Malone, 99 96; Plattsburgh, 90 98; sab-sch, 35; —Y. P. S. C. E., 15; Port Henry, 10. Chemung—Moreland, 11; Rock Stream sab-sch, 8. Columbia—Durham 1st, 15. Genesee—Batavia, 5; Bergen 89 84; Wyoming, 9 75. Geneva—Bellona, 20; —sab-sch, 31; Geneva 1st, 39 74; Manchester, 30; Shortsville Y. P. S. C. E., 23 17; —Junior, 33 cts.; Waterloo, 40. Hudson—Amity, 15; Good Will, 8 58; Hamptonburgh Y. P. S. C. E., 5; Haverstraw 1st, 76; —sab-sch, 26; Monticello Y. P. S. C. E., 5; Nyack Y. P. S. C. E., 7 05. Long Island—Amagansett, 7 30; Greenport Y. P. S. C. E., 10; Middletown, 23 63; Shelter Island Y. P. S. C. E., 3 40; Southampton, 75 34; —sab-sch, 30; —Y. P. S. C. E., 8 45; Southold, 21; Speonk, 3 17; Yaphank, 16; —sab-sch, 3 26. Lyons—Sodus, 1; Wolcott 1st, 4 90; sab-sch, 3 79. Nassau—Christian Hook, 3 68; Huntington 1st Y. P. S. C. E., 8 29; Islip Y. P. S. C. E., 8 88; Smithtown Y. P. S. C. E., 8 30; "A Pastor," 8. New York—New York 4th Avenue, 175 26; —5th Avenue, 50; 14th Street, 90 28; —Bohemian, 10; —Brick Branch sab-sch, 56 73; —Covenant Chapel, 17 58; —Faith, 63; —French Evangelical, 30; —Grace Chapel Y. P. S. C. E., 4 20; —Harlem, 46 23; —Mount Washington, 300; —sab-sch, 8 75; —University Place, 8451 21; —West End Y. P. S. C. E., 5 48; —sab-sch, 27 52. Niagara—North Tonawanda sab-sch, 33 50; Tuscarora, 9 42; Wilson sab-sch, 8. North River—Amenia South Waasale C. E., 7 20; Cold Spring Y. P. S. C. E., 6; Newburgh Union, 118; Y. P. S. C. E., 5 59; Pleasant Plains, 6 50; Poughkeepsie, 130 63; —Y. P. S. C. E., 3 63; Wappinger's Creek, 20. Otsego—Oneonta Y. P. S. C. E., 10. Rochester—Charlotte Y. P. S. C. E., 3 30; Genesee Village, 375; Honey Falls, 15; —sab-sch, 10; Livonia, 41; —sab-sch, 16; Ogden, 5; Rochester 3d, 5; Emanuel, 3 67; Wheatland, 31 40; —Y. P. S. C. E., 8 60. St. Lawrence—Gouverneur, 25; Ox Bow, 23 60; —sab-sch, 7 03; Potsdam, 104; Sackett's Harbor, 13 16. Steuben—Addison, 79 61; Angelica, 9 13; Y. P. S. C. E., 9 19; Campbell, 90; Hammondport, 9; Hartshorn Y. P. S. C. E., 2 50; Painted Post, 16. Syracuse—Baldwinsville, 26; Camillus sab-sch, 4 06; Canastota, 25; Chittenango Y. P. S. C. E., 5; Marcellus, 40 90; —Y. P. S. C. E., 9 21; Mexico, 80; "Debt," 50; Onondaga Valley, 5 70; Skaneateles, 23 75. Troy—Brunswick Y. P. S. C. E., 1; Cambridge, 25 26; Cohoes, 80 04; Glens Falls, 153; Green Island, 8; —sab-sch, 2; Hoosick Falls, 87; sab-sch, 9 07; Johnsonville, 15; Lansingburgh 1st, 171 42; Troy Oakwood Avenue, 6; —Park, 21 57; sab-sch, col., 18 78; —Second Street Y. P. S. C. E., 80; Warrensburg Y. P. S. C. E., 3 10; Waterford, 643 75; —Y. P. S. C. E., 9. Utica—Clinton "special," 113; Lion Y. P. S. C. E., 4 92; Oneida, 50 44; People of Higginsville, 6 58; Sauquoit, 23 69; Turin, 8 94; Verona, 23 50; Waterville, 51 63; Whitesboro King's Daughters, 10; —Y. P. S. C. E., 36. Westchester—Bridgeport, 118 47; Katonah Y. P. S. C. E., 5; South Salem, 41 14; —Y. P. S. C. E., 2 86; Stamford Y. S. C. E., 13 50; Yorktown Salary of G. Cornwell, 58; —sab-sch, 15.

16,944 35

NORTH DAKOTA.—Fargo—Hunter, 8 25. Pembina—Knox, 23 25.
OHIO.—Athens—Barlow, 2 50; Berea, 4; Bristol sab-sch, 1 35; Cross Roads, 2; McConnellville sab-sch, 3 30; Pleasant Grove, 2; Stockport, 3. Bellefontaine—Bucyrus, 17 56; Huntsville Y. P. S. C. E., 3 18. Chillicothe—Chillicothe 1st sab-sch, 14; Hillsboro, 71 25; Wilkesville, 15 58; Wilmington, 13. Cincinnati—Cincinnati 2d, 38 19; —3d, 20; —Walnut Hills Heyward Y. M. Soc., 44 31; Delhi, 25; Glendale Y. P. S. C. E., 31; Lebanon, 22; Monterey, 5 56; Sharonville, 4; Springfield, 11; Silverton, 5; Venice, 8; Westwood, 13 41; Williamsburgh, 19; Wyoming, 350 18; —"Special," 75. Cleveland—Akron 1st, 2; —Central, 5 23; Cleveland 2d, 50; —North sab-sch, 45; —Wilson Avenue, 31; East Cleveland, 19 46; Kingsville, 5; Northfield, 17; North Springfield, 3 74; New Lymme Y. P. S. C. E., 3; Rome, 30 54; Streetborough sab-sch, 5 48; Willoughby, 18 66. Columbus—Central College, 30; Circleville Y. P. S. C. E., 5; Columbus 2d sab-sch, 42 77; —Westminster sab-sch, 6 20; Greenfield, 2. Dayton—Dayton 1st, 365 50; —4th sab-sch, 3 96; —Park Y. P. S. J. E., 3 60; Eaton, 16; Greenville 1st, 34; Monroe, 10 50; Y. P. S. C. E., 1 13; New Carlisle, 30; New Jersey, 10; Oxford Y. P. S. C. E., 2 17; Seven Mile, 23 50; Springfield 1st, 81; Troy, 92 96; West Carrolton, 2 70; Xenia, 30 35. Huron—Clyde Y. P. S. C. E., 11 75; Melmore, 5; Monroeville, 1 86. Lima—Blanchard, 63 11; Conway, 9 10; Delphos Y. P. S. C. E., 5 66; Findlay 1st Y. P. S. C. E., 5; Harrison, 2 58, sab-sch, 4 42; McComb, 33 17; Middlepoint, 5; St. Mary's 1st, 94 36; Van Wert, 83 15. Mahoning—Brookfield, 1 53; Massillon 2d, 78 51. Marion—Cardington, 8; Jerome, 3; Liberty, 8; Marysville Y. P. S. C. E., 5 35; Mount Gilead, 11 35; Ostrander, 11; Pisgah, 20 12; Y. P. S. C. E., 5; Providence, 1; Richwood, 9, sab-sch, 9 75; Salem, 8; York, 5. Maumee—Lost Creek, 5 50; Toledo 1st, 100 58; —Westminster, 45 03. Portsmouth—Decatur, 14; Manchester, 23, sab-sch, 6; Red Oak, 22; Russellville, 8. St. Clairsville—Barnesville, 8; Farmington, 2 06; Morristown, 7 60; Mount Pleasant, 10 71; Nottingham sab-sch, 8; Pleasant Valley, 1 25; Rock Hill, 23 50; Y. P. S. C. E., 6 36; St.

Chairsville Y. P. S. C. E., 10; Scotch Ridge, 9 67; Short Creek, 13. Steubenville—Amsterdam, 45; Beech Spring, 45; Carrollton, 32; Deersville, 5; Dennison Railway Chapel Y. P. S. C. E., 10; East Liverpool 1st, 128 15; — 2d, 9 45; East Springfield, 5 20; Linton, 4 15, sab sch, 1; Long's Run, 10 14; Minerva, 10; New Hagerstown, 9 40; New Philadelphia, 9; Steubenville 1st, 43 20; — 2d, 23; Two Ridges, 5; Wellsville 1st sab-sch, 18 46; Yellow Creek, 16 25. Wooster—Fredericksburgh, 100; — Y. P. S. C. E., 5; Millersburgh Y. P. S. C. E., 1 43; Perrysville, 8; Savannah, 40 42; Shreve sab-sch, 5; West Salem Y. P. S. C. E., 5; Wooster Westminster sab-sch*, 15 40. Zanesville—Brownsville, 23; Coshocton, 56 50; Homer, 6 25; Mt. Zion, 18; Utica, 30; Zanesville 1st, 117 09. 3,487 74

Oregon—East Oregon—Baker City Y. P. S. C. E., 3 10; La Grande, 4. Portland—Bethel, 1; Portland 1st, 323 05; — 4th, 34 24; Spring Water, 2. South Oregon—Ashland, 6; sab-sch*, 6; — Y. P. S. C. E., 2; Linkville, 8. Willamette—Albany sab-sch, 20; Calvary, 10; — sab-sch, 6; Spring Valley, 4 00; Woodburn, 9 20. 433 19

PENNSYLVANIA.—Allegheny—Allegheny 1st, 480 79; — Bethel, 7; Bakerstown, 12 55; Beaver, 82; Bellevue, 23 66; Emsworth, 43 71; Glasgow, 1 10; Glenfield, 4 23; Hillandale, 30 38; Hoboken sab-sch, 10; Leetsdale, 124 76; sab-sch, 16; Pine Creek 1st, 10; Sewickly sab-sch, 413 96; Vancort, 5 16. Blairsville—Cross Roads sab-sch, 27 56; Fairfield, 22 84; Greensburgh 1st, 75 05; sab-sch, 21; Harrison City, 9 50; Ligonier, 9 30; Livermore, 7 51; Parnassus Y. P. S. C. E., 12; Pine Run, 18; Pokes Run, 46; Unity, 33. Butler—Butler, 315 50; Concord sab-sch, 17 50; Harrisville, 10 92; Hermon sab-sch, 8; North Liberty, 20; Petrolia sab-sch*, 12 35; Pleasant Valley, 6 63; Princeton, 9 90; Scrub Grass, 47; W. Sunbury, 18. Crittelle—Carlisle 1st, 11 40; Chambersburgh Central, 36 27; Dickinson sab-sch, 2; Harrisburgh Market Square, 175 60; — Olivet Y. P. S. C. E., 7; Newport, 21; Saint Thomas, 6 25; Shippenburgh, "Miss S.", 2; — sab-sch, 20; Silver Spring sab-sch, 10; "Three Ladies," 90. Chester—Ashmun, 23; Bryn Mawr Y. P. S. C. E., 19 19; Chester 1st, 16 97; — 3d, 129 64; Downingtown Central, 17 60; Great Valley, 5; Kennett Square, 15; Marple, 18 63; Middletown, 22 00; Y. P. S. C. E., 6; New London Y. P. S. C. E., 3; Oxford 1st, 212 50. Clarion—Academia, 8; Brookville sab-sch, 60; DuBois sab-sch, 21 06; — Y. P. S. C. E., 10; Edenburg, 17 43; Licking, 5; Oak Grove, 4; Oil City 2d, 5; Punxsutawney Y. P. S. C. E., 25; Shiloh Y. P. S. C. E., 2 50; West Millville Y. P. S. C. E., 8 10. Erie—Bradford, 74 77; Concord, 7 30; East Greene, 5; Erie 1st Y. P. S. C. E., 16 50; Fairview, 5; Franklin, 152; Girard, 14 66; Greenville, 43; Harbor Creek, 3; Meadville Central, 50; — sab-sch, 10; Mount Pleasant, 5 33; Pleasantville, 47 15; Sandy Lake, 4; Westminster, 6. Huntingdon—Arch Spring sab-sch, 11; Bellefonte, 55 25; Bethel, 2 20; Birmingham Warrior's Mark Chapel, 136 83; Hollidaysburgh Y. P. S. C. E., 7; Lewistown, 161 85; Lower Spruce Creek, 11 62; Millintown Westminster, 72 63; Milesburgh, 6 37; Moshannon and Snow Shoe, 1; Pine Grove Mills, 19 34; Sinking Valley, 11; State College Y. P. S. C. E., 31 72; Spring Mills, 3; Tyrone, 25; Williamsburgh, 2 65; — sab-sch, 7 06. Kittanning—Atwood, 5; Slate Lick, 41 79; Brader's Grove, 17 81; — sab-sch, 7 19; Washington, 13; West Glade Run, 21; Worthington, 10. Lackawanna—Great Bend Y. P. S. C. E., 7 75; Hawley Y. P. S. C. E., 13 31; Herrick, 19; Kingston, 37 28; — sab-sch*, 21 35; Langcliffe Y. P. S. C. E., 7 50; Pittstown Y. P. S. C. E., 25; Plains sab-sch, 10; Scranton 1st, 328; — 2d Y. P. S. C. E., 158 30; Sugar Notch Y. P. S. C. E., 2 27; Towanda, 191 61; — sab-sch, 100; Troy, 55 28; Tunkhannock, 49 15; — Y. P. S. C. E., 9 35; Ulster Village, 3 24; Wilkes Barre 1st, 498 16; — Memorial sab-sch*, 182 89; — Y. P. S. C. E., 6 07; — Westminster, 18. Lehigh—Allen Township, 10; Audenreid, 43 66; — sab-sch, 75 60; South Bethlehem, 25; Upper Lehigh Y. P. S. C. E., 6 67. Northumberland—Bald Eagle and Nittany, 10; Beech Creek, 13; Derry, 4 75; Great Island, 85; Hazleton, 6; Lewisburgh, 119; Mifflinburg, 15; Milton, 165; New Berlin, 19; New Columbia, 4; Washingtonville, 6 25; Williamsport 2d sab-sch, 50 60; — 2d sab-sch, 13 71. Philadelphia—Philadelphia 10th Y. P. S. C. E., 13 31; — Atonement sab-sch, 7; — Calvary sab-sch, 17 87; — Peace German, 3; — South, 16; — Tabernacle, 5; — sab-sch, 47 51; — Union Tabernacle, 70; Woodland, 1 144 26; Wylie Memorial, 20; — Bethlehem, 30; Cohocksink, 26 95; — sab-sch, 10 70; — Covenant sab sch, 40; — Hebron Memorial, 5; — Y. P. S. C. E., 8 50; — Memorial, 72; — North, 12 40; — North Broad Street Y. P. S. C. E., 43 08; — Princeton, 10; — Richmond Y. P. S. C. E., 25; — Tioga Y. P. S. C. E., 14 00. Philadelphia North—Ablington J. M. Colton, 100; Bristol, 20; Chestnut Hill sab sch, 37; Falls of Schuylkill sab-sch, 62; Frankford, 34 51; — Y. P. S. C. E., 4; Germantown 1st, 1,955 25; — Redeemer, 173 10; — sab-sch, 6 90; Newtown, 109 76; New Hope Y. P. S. C. E., 2; Norristown 1st Y. P. S. C. E., 2 83. Pittsburgh—Bethany, 31 46; Hazlewood,

44 25; Finleyville, 5 50; Miller's Run, 28 52; Mingo, 20; Mount Olive, 1; Mount Pisgah sab-sch, 5; Pittsburgh 1st, 1,963 29; — 3d, 243 83; — Y. P. S. C. E., 31 23; — 4th, 54 15; — 6th, 184 50; — East Liberty, 266; — S. L. Fullwood, 18 50; — (sab-sch class, 30), 13 50; — McCandless ave., 4 50; — Morning Side Chapel, 1; — Shady Side, 1,874; Point Breeze, 530. Redstone—Laurel Hill sab-sch, 98 40; Long Run, 13 35; McKeesport 1st, 163; Mount Pleasant, 50; — Reunion, 23 64; — Y. P. S. C. E., 11; Pleasant Unity, 16; Scottsdale, 20 27; Uniontown, 281 25. Shenango—Mount Pleasant, 45; New Castle 1st, 67 32; — 2d, 12; Moravia, 7 31; Transfer, 1 15; Unity, 34; Wampum, 11 14. Washington—Burgettstown, 62 08; — sab-sch, 30 43; Cameron, 10; East Buffalo, 48 73; Hookstown, 31 15; — sab-sch, 19 37; Mill Creek, 24 10; Moundville, 15; — sab-sch, 12; — Y. P. S. C. E., 20; Upper Buffalo "M.", 100; West Alexander, 7; Wheeling 1st "A friend," 100; — 3d, 26 51. Westmore—Beecher Island Y. P. S. C. E., 2 20; Lawrenceville Y. P. S. C. E., 5 50; Wellsboro, 15 18. Westminster—Cedar Grove, 15; Chestnut Level sab-sch, 11 59; Lancaster 1st sab-sch, 39 06; Little Britain, 15; Middle Octorara, 12 50; Strasburgh, 6; York 1st, 229 73. 17,623 24

SOUTH DAKOTA.—Aberdeen—Leola, 5 90; Pembroke, 2; Central Dakota—Huron, 52 33; Madison, 6; — Y. P. S. C. E., 2 35. Dakota—Good Will Y. P. S. C. E., 3 29. South Dakota—Bridgewater, 43; Harmony, 8; Sioux Falls Y. P. S. C. E., 5 25. 128 27

TENNESSEE.—Birmingham—Thomas 1st, 2. Holston—Crowley (La.) Y. P. S. C. E., 5 75; Jonesboro, 23 31; Mount Bethel, 1. Kingston—Pleasant Union, 1; Union Erin, 5; Hopewell, 3; Madisonville, 2; Rockford, 3; St Paul's, 4; Shannondale, 14 35; Union, 2. 63 35

TEXAS.—Austin—Pearson Y. P. S. C. E., 4 20; San Antonio Madison Square Y. P. S. C. E., 5 61. North Texas—Bowie, 5; Leonard, 14 55. 29 36

UTAH.—Montana—Helen 1st, 78 25; Lewistown Y. P. S. C. E., 3 50; Missoula, 26. Utah—Mount Pleasant, 21; Richfield, 5. 123 75

WASHINGTON.—Olympia—Edison, 5; Hoquiam, 3; Vancouver sab-sch, 4. Puget Sound—Knumclaw Calvary, 1; Seattle 1st, 72. Spokane—Cortland, 1; Cesar d'Alene, 5; Grand Coulee, 1. Walla Walla—Kamiah 1st, 6 50. 86 50

WISCONSIN.—Chippewa—Chippewa Falls sab-sch, 15 32; — Y. P. S. C. E., 6; Hudson, 24; Y. P. S. C. E., 6. Madison—Cambria, 10 30; Fancy Creek, 3; Janesville Y. P. S. C. E., 11; Pierceville, 3; Pleasant Hill, 3 50; — sab-sch, 2 50. Milwaukee—Beaver Dam 1st Y. P. S. C. E., 4 75; Somers, 29 23. Winnebago—Buffalo, 18 90; Y. P. S. C. E., 1 73; Fond du Lac Y. P. S. C. E., 3 15; Florence, 38 35; — sab-sch, 65 cts.; — Y. P. S. C. E., 5 65; Neenah, 26 50; Omro, 17; Oxford, 8; Shawano Y. P. S. C. E., 8 30; West Merrill sab-sch, 10. 244 73

WOMAN'S BOARDS.

Women's Board of Philadelphia, 11,875 32; South West, 700; New York, 3,000; North West, 60; Occidental Board, 25..... $15,660 33

LEGACIES.

Estate of Charles Miller, dec'd, 2,000; Estate of Jane Bradley, dec'd, 700; Estate of J. M. Austin, dec'd, 50; Estate of Mary Van Horn, dec'd, 638 97..... $ 4,333 97

MISCELLANEOUS.

Rev. R. Craighead, Meadville, Pa., 2,000; Miss Soc. of Wooster University, salary of Henry Forman, 65; "Rev. W. W. A." 100; A. W. Cole, Chicago, salary of W. L. Swallen, 5; Contributor debt, 5; A. P. Logan, Bedford, N. S., 5; H. S. W., special, 402; Mrs. J. R. McClintock, Pittsburgh, Pa., 500; "An Endeavor," 1; Miss Ella M. Schively, Philadelphia, debt, 4; Rev. Henry Fulton, Newark, N. J., 7 50; Meade C. Williams, St. Louis, Mo., 25; E. P. Willard, Cayuga, N. Y., 5; "Mrs. M. C. M." 100; Ithaca, N. Y., 90; Mr. and Mrs. F. Whiting, Jeffersonville, Pa., 10; Rev. Wm. H. Edwards and wife, 3 75; Illinois Institute for the Deaf, 3; Frank J. Baird, Kansas City, Mo., support of Rev. Mr. Leonard, 635; Mrs. L. E. Woodbridge, Bellaire, O., 10; A. W. Anderson, St. Paul, Minn., 10; Faculty Students of McCormick Theological Seminary, 117 20; Rev. F. A. McGaw, Augusta, Ill., 35; H. C. Rice, Colored school, Va., 5; William Shanklin, Chicago, support of W. L. Swallen, 3; Cash, 5; A. F. Wilson, Grimes, Ia., 5; Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Davidson, Clay Center, Kan., 5; Rev. and Mrs. Jno. R. Smith, Crockett, Texas, 25; Rev. and Mrs. A. H.

Halloway, Sablin, Minn., 6; Rev. T. Williston, Ashland, N. Y., 1 21; Maria Morgan, Springfield, Mass., 30; Thomas Andrew, Argyle, Ill., 20; Rev. James G. Shinn, Atlantic City, N. J., 5; "H. D. N.," Newark, N. J., 300; Mrs. J. S. Dean, Ogdensburg, N. Y., 75; Mrs. Mary S. Eickbaum, Thorncroft, N. Y., 15; Mrs. Jane Ferguson, 50; Eunice T. Halstead, Batavia, N. Y., 50; S. L. Smith, West Camden, N. Y., 45; E. Heron, Knoxville, Tenn., memorial to Dr. Heron, 10; "W. S. B.," 25; C. W. Douglass, Topeka, Kan., 2; Mrs. Mattie E. Schultz, Paris, Ill., 13; "A friend," 10; Mrs. Sarah W. Dickson, Phila., for Mr. Eakins work, Siam, 25; H. M. Duluth, Minn., 5; Anna G. Faries, Minneapolis, Minn., 30; George Finney, Duncans Falls, O., 10; Mrs. Phillis Nachbar, Wilkes Barre, Pa., 2; From a minister without charge, 2; A. B. K., 30; T. T. Meredith, Widnoon, Pa., 5; Miss Sara W. Wheelock, Battle Creek, Mich., 20; For Foreign Missions, 5; Mrs. R. S. Marsh, W. Carlisle, Mich., 1; E. H. Plumb, Gowanda, N. Y., 50;

"Hapland," 500; Mrs. A. Friend, Fond du Lac, Wis., 5; Rev. Geo. E. Bicknell, Kendall, Kan., 10; A friend, 5; Mr. C. E. Whittlesey, Madison, N. J., 100; Isabella McQueen, 6; Rev. W. L. Tarbet and wife, 2 30; "C. Penn," 22; Miss Ednie C. Jones, 50; James Robertson, Constantia, N. Y., 80 45; "X. Y. Z.," 10; A friend, 1,333 34; Mrs. J. H. Gill, Reading, O., 2; Rev. G. W. Soller, 125; Mrs. B. B. Brier, 20; Rev. W. H. Robinson, Chilli, 40; Shanghai, South Gate Presbyterian Church "Amas," 11 94.... $ 7,238 19

Total Receipts during February, 1893..... 89,630 91

Total receipts from May 1, 1892, to February 28, 1893..... 548,240 58

Total Receipts from May, 1891 to February, 28th, 1892..... 506,101 05

WILLIAM DULLES, JR., Treasurer,

*Christmas offerings.

NOTE—Columbus Day offerings are designated "Col."

RECEIPTS FOR FREEDMEN, FEBRUARY, 1893.

ATLANTIC.—Knox—Augusta Christ, 1 25. South Florida—Eustis, 14 37. 15 62

BALTIMORE.—Baltimore—Baltimore Faith, 5; Ellicott City, 3 30. New Castle—Forest, 2 50; Wilmington Olivet, 2. Washington City—Clifton, 2; Hermon, 2; Washington City 6th, 21; — Eastern sub-sch, 1 84. 41 14

CATAWA.—South Virginia—Mt. Zion, 1. 1

COLORADO.—Boulder—Fossil Creek and Stout, 50 cts.; Timnath, 1 50; Valmont, 80 cts. Denver—Denver Capitol Avenue, 6 33. Pueblo—Mesa, 63. 71 62

COLUMBIA.—Walla Walla—Kamiah, 1 50. Spokane—Spokane Centenary, 5; Courtland, 1; Grand Coulee, 1. Willamette—Pleasant Grove, 5; Spring Valley, 2 85. 16 35

ILLINOIS.—Bloomington—Bloomington 2d, 75; Onarga, 12. Cairo—Golconda, 1. Chicago—Chicago 4th, 180; — Fullerton Avenue, 39 12; Evanston, 25 94; Hinsdale, 7; Maywood, 13; New Hope c. c., 1 25. Mattoon—Battell, 5; Mattoon, 6 41; Pana, 9 90. Peoria—Farmington, 10 50; French Grove, 4 20; Lewistown, 30. Rock River—Hamlet, 5 05. Schuyler—Bushnell, 2 70; Quincy 1st, (sub-sch, 15), 15. Springfield—Flagah, 3 62. 446 69

INDIANA.—Crawfordsville—Beech, 3; Crawfordsville Centre, 41 99; Newtown, 3; Pleasant Hill, 1; Rockville, 1 98; Rossville, 4. Indianapolis—Bloomington Walnut Street, 15 05; Greenwood, 5 67. Logansport—Michigan City, 19 50; Rolling Prairie, 2 50. Muncie—Wabash, 8 90. White Water—Knightstown, 4. 115 69

INDIAN TERRITORY.—Cherokee Nation—Claremore, 5. Choctaw—Choctaw Nation per Miss Bertha Ahrens, 45; — Mrs. J. C. Folsom, 93 75; — Miss P. Haymaker, 239 40. 383 15

IOWA.—Cedar Rapids—Linn Grove A. B. Soc., 20; Marion, 15 55; Mechanicsville, 7. Corning—Villisca, 8. Des Moines—Dallas Centre, (sub-sch, 2), ch., 5; 7; Newton, 28 56. Dubuque—Dubuque 1st, 12. Fort Dodge—Rolf 2d, 2. Sioux City—Paulina, 5. Iowa—Morning Sun, 17 80; Wapella, 4 65. Iowa City—Iowa City, 3 60; Keota, 4; Lafayette, 3; Summit, 3 80. 142 27

KANSAS.—Emporia—Belle Plaine, 3; Wichita Oak Street, 3. Highland—Nortonville, 1. Solomon—Cawker City, 3; Cheever, 1; Glen Elder, 2; Lincoln, 2. Topeka—Auburn, 4 77; Topeka 1st, 110 29. 123 06

KENTUCKY.—Louisville—Kuttawa K. D., 2. 2

MICHIGAN.—Detroit—Detroit 2d Avenue sub-sch, 40; — Central sub-sch, 10; Holly, 5. Kalamazoo—Kalamazoo 1st, 34; Kendall, 10. Lansing—Concord, 1 23. Monroe—Coldwater, 4 98; Monroe, 23 50; Palmyra, 4. Petoskey—Petoskey, 21 64. Flint—Columbia (sub-sch, 2), 5. 159 45

MINNESOTA.—Mankato—St. James, 3; Worthington Westminster sub-sch, 4 80. St. Paul—Buffalo, 14 83; Farmington, 1; Vermillion, 2. Winona—Winona 1st 25 51. 59 14

MISSOURI.—White River—Monticello, 5; Harris Chapel Brinkley, 1; Hopewell, 1 60. Kansas City—Butler, 10; Kansas City 1st, 23 47. Ozark—Springfield Calvary, 16 85; West Plains, 3. Platte—Mound City, 5 91; Oregon, 7 19; St. Joseph Westminster, 15. St. Louis—Cuba, 2; Rolla, 5. 116 02

NEBRASKA.—Kearney—Grand Island, 4. Nebraska City—Meridian German, 40 cts.; Table Rock, 3 17; Thayer German, 36 cts. 7 92

NEW JERSEY.—Corisco—Benito, 5. Bata, 2. Elizabeth—Connecticut Farms, 53; Elizabeth 8d, 10; Rahway 2d, 25; — German, 1. Jersey City—Passaic sub-sch, 5 68; Paterson 3d, 7. Monmouth—Bordentown, 5 10; Point Pleasant, 4. Morris and Orange—East Orange Brick, 54 83; New Vernon, 7 54; Orange Bethel, 23 15. Newark—Newark 6th, 18; — 1st German, 5; — 2d German, 8; — Memorial, 15 45. New Brunswick—Alexandria 1st, 8; Ewing, 8; Kirkpatrick Memorial, 3; Pennington, 5. Newton—Blairtown, 3; Bloomsbury, 6; Hackettstown, 25; Stewartville, 10. West Jersey—Janvier, 1; Williamstown (sub-sch, 7 15), 12 15. 310 91

NEW YORK.—Albany—Balston Spa, 16 67; Bethlehem, 1; Hamilton Union, 2. Boston—Houlton, 5; Lawrence German, 10. Buffalo—Buffalo Covenant, 7; Olean, 15 41; Tonawanda North Church, 12 96. Champlain—Malone, 48 48; Port Henry, 74 55. Columbia—Jennett, 14 50. Genesee—Batavia, 5; Bergen, 8 72. Geneva—Seneca Falls, 89 32. Hudson—Good Will, 1 30; Washington 1st, 12. Long Island—Southold, 4; Yaphank, 2. Nassau—Jamaica, 16 06. New York—New York 5th Avenue, 25; — Emmanuel Chapel, 5; — Harlem, 67 81. North River—Cold Spring, 6; Newburgh 1st, 21; Poughkeepsie, 18 28. Otsego—Richfield Springs, 14 88; Stamford, 45. Rochester—Rochester Emmanuel, 1 29; — St. Peter's, 26 70. St. Lawrence—Watertown Stone Street, 9. Steuben—Addison, 34 22; Andover, 3; Hammondsport, 5; Jasper, 4 25. Syracuse—Cazenovia, 19 78; Mexico, 29 45; Skaneateles, 6 67. Troy—Brunswick, 4 74; Troy Westminster, 15 90. Utica—Augusta, 3 25. Westchester—Rye, 60; South Salem, 15 84. 796 11

NORTH DAKOTA.—Pembina—Glasston, 1 80; Minot, 1 50; Pembina, 10 25; Backoo, 3 15; Tyner, 5 61; Rolla, 3 50; St. Thomas, 2 55. 23 36

OHIO.—Athens—Beech Grove, 3; Barbour, 2 25. Chillicothe—Chillicothe 3d, 5; Hamden, 5 19. Cincinnati—Cincinnati 2d, 10; — 7th, 25; — Bethany Chapel sub-sch, Walnut Hills, 12 40; — North sub-sch, 8 75; Glendale, 35; Wyoming, 118 90. Cleveland—Cleveland 2d, 20; Guilford, 11 45. Columbus—Groveport, 1. Dayton—New Carlisle, 7; Holmesville, 8 15; Oxford, 10 15; Springfield 1st, 46; — 2d, 57 04. Huron—Norwalk, 20 58. Lima—Vanburen, 5 25. Mahoning—Brookfield, 1 77; Vienna, 2 40. Marion—Marysville, 5 65. Maumee—Toledo 3d, 3 85; — Westminster, 13 23. Portsmouth—Eckmansville, 6 88; Manchester (sub-sch, 4), 16; Portsmouth 1st, 35 75. St. Clairsville—Buffalo, 18 35; Mount Pleasant, 6 77; Washington, 2 50. Steubenville—Amsterdam, 10; Buchanan Chapel, 4 25; Madison, 10; Toronto, 27; Ulrichsville, 10. Wooster—Shreve, 4. Zanesville—Granville sub-sch, 1 25; Madison, 17. 618 68

PACIFIC.—Benicia—San Rafael (sub-sch, 7 40), 25. Los Angeles—Glendale, 3 25; Redlands, 3 55; Rivera, 5; Roseville, 2 30. 39 20

PENNSYLVANIA.—Allegheny—Allegheny 2d, 15; Beaver, 21; Pine Creek 2d, 7; Springdale, 5. Blairsville—Congruity, 3; Latrobe, 20; Turtle Creek, 8 83. Butler—Harrisburgh, 5; Jefferson Centre, 1; Princeton, 1 50. Carlisle—Gettysburg, 20; Harrisburg Market Square, 50 59; — Pine Street, 200 73; — Westminster, 5. Chester—Chester 1st, 15; Downingtown Central, 10 10; Lansdowne 1st, 20 15; Marple, 6 50. Clarion—Greenville, 7; Oak Grove, 2; Oil City 2d, 5. Erie—Harbor Creek, 2; Mount Pleasant, 2 35; Sunville, 3. Huntingdon—Kyertown, 3; Lewistown, 22 25; Phillipsburgh, 2 45; Sinking Creek, 2. Kittanning—Atwood, 2; West Lebanon, 5. Lackawanna—Great Bend, 6; New Milford, 2 59; West Pittston sub-sch, 4 50. Lehigh—Allentown, 25; Allen Township 5. Northumberland—Muncy, 2. Philadelphia—Philadelphia Mariner's, 5; — Tabor, 66; — Walnut Street

(sab-sch, 3 62), ch, 37 91, 31 53. Philadelphia Central—Philadelphia Bethlehem, 31; — Central, 31 54; — Cohocksink, 3 15; — North, 6 24; — Olivet, 25; — Richmond, 6. Philadelphia North—Bridesburg, 10; Y. and A. Phila., 10. Pittsburg—Covenant, 14; Fairview, 5; Homestead, 17; McKee's Rocks, 4; Mount Olive, 3 50; Mount Washington, 5; Pittsburgh 6th, 23 83; — Central, 8; — East Liberty, 123; — Shady Side, 66 25; West Elizabeth (sab-sch, 7), 16. Red Stone—Mount Pleasant, 28; Pleasant Unity, 3 10. Shenango—Hermion, 54; Leesburgh, 4. Washington—Burgettstown (sab-sch, 9 02), 20 53; Fairview, 4; Lower Buffalo, 5; Wheeling 1st sab-sch, 10; — 2d, 23 59. Wellaboro—Wellaboro, 3 30. Westminster—Little Britain, 9; York Calvary, 31 33.

SOUTH DAKOTA—Central Dakota—Huron, 31 01; White, 1 27. TENNESSEE—Kingston—Pleasant Union, 2; Harriman, 5 10. Union—Knoxville 2d, 31 15; Madisonville, 34 cts.; Rockford, 1. TEXAS—Austin—Austin 1st, 33 20. North Texas—North Texas, 2. UTAH—Utah—Richfield, 3. WISCONSIN—Madison—Cottage Grove, 2; Lodi, 6 50. Winnebago—Neenah, 27 14; Preston, 6. Total receipts from churches.....$ 4,825 59

MISCELLANEOUS.

Women's Executive Committee, 1,091 25; "C. Penna." 8; Rev. W. L. Tarbet and wife, Springfield, Ill., 1 20; Rev. W. H. Robinson, 10; Mrs. Mary S. Eichbaum, 15; G. W. M., Dayton, Pa., 5; Miss Mary Moutfort, Buffalo, Pa., 20; Caah, 1; McG., Mt. Pleasant, Ohio, 1; J. S. Craig, Nobleville, Ind., 5; Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Ellis, Blissfield, Mich., 50; Miss M. H. Cross, New Vermont, N. J., 90; 1st Thomas, Birmingham, Alabama, 2; Mrs. Cyrus Dickson, Monticello, N. J., 50; H. L. J., Williamstown, N. J., 30; Estate Mrs. Ella Stockton, Canonsburg, Pa., 4 750; Estate Thomas Steele, Bourneville, Ohio, 318 64.

Total miscellaneous for February.....$ 6,438 09

DIRECTS SENT TO M. A. SEM.

Bible class, Evaston, Ill., per Miss Stockton... $ 50 00
Mrs. T. S. Goodman, College Hill, Ohio... 20 00
Mr. E. N. Wild, College Hill, Ohio... 5 00
Mr. T. W. Synnot, Phila., Pa... 100 00
Rev. and Mrs. J. B. Smith, M. A. S., Crockett, Texas..... 45 00

Mrs. F. L. Hoxsie, St. Paul, Minn..... 22 50
Miss Mabel Pepper, Taylorville, Ill..... 25 00
Mrs. Julia A. Smith, Batavia, N. Y..... 5 00
Y. P. S. C. E., First Church, Superior, Wis..... 20 00
Miss Martha Thornton, Phila., Pa..... 45 00
Lampasas Pres. Church, Lampasa, Texas..... 4 00
Bible class, Evaston, Ill., per Miss Stockton..... 50 00

DIRECTS RECEIPTS SENT TO BIDDLE UNIVERSITY.

R. S. Nicoll, Butler, Pa..... 20 00
Ladies Miss. Soc., Westhampton Beach, N. Y..... 50 00
Rev. R. L. Adams, Sharon, Iowa..... 10 00
L. M. Soc., Central ch., Summit, N. J..... 30 00
Y. P. S. C. E., Decatur, Ind..... 10 00
Y. P. S. C. E., Huntingdon, Ind..... 10 00
Y. P. S. C. E., Goshen, Ind..... 10 00
Young L. M. Soc., Warren, Pa..... 75 00
J. S. Turner, Iowa City, Ia..... 25 00
Mrs. D. Runkle, Asbury, N. J..... 100 00
Mrs. A. C. Brown, N. Y..... 100 00
J. D. Lind, N. J..... 25 00
Mrs. John Barkus, Schenectady, N. Y..... 10 00
Mrs. Henry J. Biddle, Phila., Pa..... 150 00

DIRECTS SENT TO COTTON PLANT.

Prof. J. B. Turner..... 100 00
First Pres. sab-sch., Chester, Pa..... 15 00
Mrs. A. C. Caskey..... 25 00
Students..... 41 40

DIRECTS SENT TO SCOTIA.

W. H. M. Soc., North Phila., Pa..... 45 00
C. E. S., La Grange, Ind..... 12 50
C. E. S., Jr..... 10 00
A. W. Parker, Esq., Brooklyn, N. Y..... 40 00
Miss E. E. Dana, Morristown, N. J..... 45 00
Widow's Mite, South ch., Phila...... 3 00
Busy Bee Band, Sewickley, Pa..... 30 00

Total directs for February, 1893.....$ 1,333 40
Total receipts for February, 1893..... 12,707 05
Previously reported..... 100,569 24

Total receipts to date.....$113,276 22
Receipts during corresponding period of last year..... 117,586 39

Decrease of..... 4,310 07

J. T. Gimson, Treasurer.
516 Market St., Pittsburg, Pa.

RECEIPTS FOR HOME MISSIONS, FEBRUARY, 1893.

ATLANTIC—East Florida—Satsuma, 3 45. South Florida—Eustis (sab-sch, 20), 63 50; Titusville Y. P. S. C. E., 1 95. BALTIMORE—Baltimore—Baltimore Boundary Avenue, 22 06; — Brown Memorial, 293 72; — Faith, 17; Piney Creek, 13 79. Washington City—Washington City Covenant, 298 15; — Eastern sab-sch, 5; — Garden Memorial Y. P. S. C. E., 4 17. 713 89

CALIFORNIA—Bentley—Big Valley, 10; Fort Bragg, 19; Santa Rosa 1st, 36; Two Rocks, 33. Los Angeles—El Cajon, 48 60; Elainore, 13; Hueneme, 100; Los Angeles Immanuel, 245 08; Ojai, 20; Pasadena 1st add'l, 1 25; San Geronimo sab-sch, 4. Oakland—Alameda 1st (sab-sch, 20), 72 90. Sacramento—Davisville, 12 75; Tehama, 5; Vina, 5. San Francisco—San Francisco Holly Park, 4. San Jose—Gilroy, 9 80; San Jose 2d, 60. 698 33

COLORADO—Boulder—Fossil Creek, 3; Saratoga, 2 50; Tinmath, 9; Valmont, 1 80. Denver—Denver Capitol Ave, 28 46; Georgetown, 5 90. Pueblo—Colorado Springs, 2d, 2 50; Huerfano Canon, 1; Trinidad 1st Y. P. S. C. E., 3 55; Walsenburgh 1st, 9 75. 67 46

ILLINOIS—Alton—Raymond, 6 30. Bloomington—Gilman sab-sch, 10; Paxton, 7; Philo Y. P. S. C. E., 7; Ran-kin, 2 98. Cairo—Allendale, 1; Brideport Y. P. S. C. E., 4 30; Golconda 1st, 4. Chicago—Chicago 1st, 77 19; — 1st German sab-sch, 3; — 4th additional, 360; — Jefferson Park, 10 75; Evanson 1st, 110 76; New Hope (sab-sch, 8 50) 32 50. Mattoon—Arcola, 5; Bethel, 6; Pleasant Prairie, 11. Ottawa—Elgin House of Hope, 20. Peoria—Canton Y. P. S. C. E., 9 11. Rock River—Edg-ington, 68; Hamlet, 23 25; Morrison sab-sch, 6 28. Schuyler—Camp Creek sab-sch, 7; Chili, 4 50; New Salem, 6; Oquawka, 25; Quincy 1st sab-sch, 15 56; Rush-ville, 50 50. Springfield—Greenview, 12 50; North Sanga- mon, Mrs. Arminda Rogers Rankin, dec'd, 37 50; Peters-burgh (sab-sch, 29 40), 78 25; Plasah, 7 25; Sweet Water, 1 50; Rev. W. L. Tarbet and wife, 2 40. 1,043 11

INDIANA—Crawfordsville—Delphi Y. P. S. C. E., 9 65; Frankfort sab-sch, 21 36. 31 01

INDIAN TERRITORY—Cherokee—Park Hill sab-sch Xmas off g (Woodall Beh., 3 06), 4 45. Choctaw—Philadelphia, 75 cents; Wheelock, 5. 10 30

IOWA—Cedar Rapids—Cedar Rapids 2d, Y. P. S. C. E., 6 25; — Bohemian, 8 36. Corning—Shenandoah sab-sch, 21 03; Villisca, 45. Council Bluffs—Council Bluffs 2d, 5. Des Moines—Des Moines Highland Park, 15; Indianola, 36 20. Dubuque—Hopkinton 1st Jas. Harper, 30; Inde-pendence 1st, 20. Fort Dodge—Churdan, 30. Iowa—Bloomfield, 10; Bonaparte, 4; Mediapolis, 20 15; Morning Sun, 40 35; Mount Pleasant German (sab-sch, 4), 27; Mount Zion, 4 70; Shunam, 5; Winfield, 11. Iowa City—Deep River sab-sch, 5 20; Williamsburgh, 16. Sioux City—Alta, 14 31; Dennison 1st, 12; Merrill, 5; Vail, 25. 396 55

KANSAS—Emporia—Argonia, 1 55; Burlingame, 12; Conway Springs sab-sch, 7 27; Emporia 1st, 122 14; Flor-ence Y. P. S. C. E., 4 55; Marion sab-sch, 4; Mayfield, 1 73; Milan, 1 07; Welcome, 6; Winfield, 45. Highland—Clifton Parallel L. M. S., 30 25; Corning Y. P. S. C. E., 10; Marysville Y. P. S. C. E., 5; Nortonville, 10; Ver-milion, 6 66; Washington, 6 85. Larned—Emerson, 13 50; Kingman (L. M. S.), 6; 16; Liberal, 20; Richfield, 5. Neosho—Cherokee, 4 50; Lake Creek, 4 50; Mon-mouth, 3 50; Parsons 1st, 55. Osborne—Phillipsburg add'l, 3. Solomon—Cawker City, 14. Topeka—Clinton, 12; Topeka Westminster sab-sch, 3 19. 427 28

KENTUCKY—Louisville—Kuttawa Hawthorne Chapel (King's Daughters, 10; Our Little Workers, 1), 11; Louis- ville Covenant (Y. P. S. C. E., 3 98), 31 83. 43 83

 MICHIGAN.—Detroit—Detroit 2d Ave., 40;—Fort Street, in part, 350;—Trumbull Ave., 228 84; Northville 1st sab-sch, 11 25; South Lyon sab-sch, 3 74. Ft. St. Clair—Bad Axe, 8 50; Bingham, 1; Crosswell 16; Lamotte, 5; Linden, 1 89; Verona, 3 58. Kalamazoo—Kalamazoo 1st 317; Lake Superior—Negaunee, 28 03. Lansing—Concord, 7 98; Marshall, 5 53. Monroe—Coldwater (sab-sch Children's Day, 9 44), 24 55. Petoskey—Boyne City, 3; Boyne Falls, 3; Petoskey 1st, 15. Saginaw—Bay City 1st, 11 04. 883 97
 MINNESOTA.—Duluth—Grand Rapids, 3; Willow River, 5. Mankato—Kasota Y. P. S. C. E., 9 43; Madelia, 29; Slayton, 5 50. Minneapolis—Bethany, 3. St. Paul—St. Paul Merriam Park, 11;—Park, 3. Winona—Fremont, 8 54; Utica, 1; Winona 1st (Y. P. S. C. E., 10), 40 50; returned by a missionary, 25. 151 97
 MISSOURI.—Kansas City—Butler, 1. Palmyra—Canton, 5 50; Hannibal, 55; Macon, 5. Platte—Oregon, 8 05. St. Louis—Cuba, 14; Rolla, 35. 136 55
 NEBRASKA.—Kearney—Buffalo Grove German, 3; Kearney German, 12; Salem German, 6; Scotia, 10 03. Nebraska City—Beatrice 2d, 5; Hubbell, 10; Humboldt, 26 53; Meridian German, 3 40; Table Rock, 14 13; Thayer German, 2 10. Nobara—Emerson, 15 50; Pender, 17 84. Omaha—Omaha 2d, 12;—Knox Y. P. S. C. E., 5;—Low Avenue (sab-sch, 5 73), 20 80;—Southwest, 14; Schuyler Y. P. S. C. E., 7 70; Wahoo, 25. 229 13
 NEW JERSEY.—Corisco—Bata, 1; Benito, 8. Elizabeth—Clinton King's Daughters, Opportunity Circle, 25; Connecticut Farms, 73; Elizabeth 2d, 312; Lammington, 10; Metuchen, 35 92; Plainfield 1st Y. P. S. C. E., 10. Jersey City—Jersey City 1st, 333 38; Passaic 1st Y. P. S. C. E., 10 18. Monmouth—Atlantic Highlands L. A. Soc'y, 2 50; Bordentown, 6 92; Columbus sab-sch, 11; Freehold 1st, 16 03; Hightstown (sab-sch, 28 41), 110; Lakewood (add'l), 5; Long Branch (Y. P. S. C. E., 4 68), 17 01; Point Pleasant, 4 60. Morris and Orange—East Orange Brick, 188 99; Mt. Olive (add'l), 2; Myersville German, 3; New Providence Y. P. S. C. E., 5 50; Orange 1st H. H., 100; South Orange Trinity Valleyburg Chapel, 6 30. Newark—Newark 1st Y. P. S. C. E., 11 24;—3d, 417 98;—2d German, 10;—High Street, 100. New Brunswick—Amwell 2d, 5; Bound Brook, 35; Flemington, 172 61; Kingwood, 3; New Brunswick 1st (sab-sch, 40); Y. P. S. C. E., 5, 45; Trenton 3d (Y. P. S. C. E., 7 59), 128 99;—Prospect Street, 38. Newton—Belvidere 2d, 13; Blairstown (add'l), 5; Newton, 175; Stewartville, 67 25. West Jersey—Camden 1st Y. P. S. C. E., 10; Cold Spring, 10 35; Janvier, 2; May's Landing sab-sch, 5; Pittsgrove Y. P. S. C. E., 4; Williamstown (sab-sch, 14 17), 39 85. 3,490 59
 NEW MEXICO.—Santa Fe—Las Vegas Spanish, 10; Taos, 2. 13
 NEW YORK.—Albany—Mariaville, 10; Princetown, (A member, 1 33), 28 73; Stephenston, 2; Voorheesville, 8. Binghamton—Bainbridge sab-sch, 10 50; Nineveh (Y. P. S. C. E., 4 75), 58 84. Boston—Barre, 15; Lawrence German, 25; South Boston Ryegate 1st, 16. Brooklyn—Brooklyn Lafayette Avenue (Miss. Con., 23 96), 48 96;—Memorial, 30;—Prospect Heights sab-sch, 20;—Throop Avenue (Mission, 100), (Y. M. Mission, 10), 162. Buffalo—Buffalo Bethlehem Y. P. S. C. E., 2 06;—Covenant, 12;—North A. D. A. Miller, 50;—Wells Street, 10 Olean 1st (Y. P. S. C. E., 12 56), 36 96; Tonawanda Y. P. S. C. E., 15. Cambridge—Genoa 2d, 3; Ithaca 1st Y. P. S. C. E., 5 35. Champlain—Fort Covington, 18; Malone, 53 87; Port Henry, 103 11. Chemung—Elmira Franklin Street, 8. Genesee—Bergen 1st, 28 44; Castile, 43 40; LeRoy, 120. Geneva—Naples (sab-sch, 5), 23; Ovid, 90 75; Romulus, 30; West Fayette, 2 27. Hudson—Good Will, 7 80; Haverstraw Central (sab-sch, 30), 70; Otisville, 28; Unionville, 7. Long Island—Bridgehamton, 13 80; Port Jefferson (Y. P. S. C. E., 4 88), 14 88; Shelter Island Y. P. S. C. E., 2 50; Yaphank, 16 83. Lyons—Newark (Y. P. S. C. E., 3), 60 60. Nassau—Smithtown, 15 97; A pastor, 5. New York—New York 1st, 400;—4th, 303 64;—1st Union, 36 89;—5th Avenue add'l, 100;—14th Street, 38 37;—Brick Branch sab-sch, 56 73;—Central, 1,413 14;—Covenant, 359 38;—French Evangelical, 12;—Grace Chapel Y. P. S. C. E., 10 24;—Madison Square add'l, 121;—Mount Washington, 600;—Phillips, 180 88;—Rutgers River-side, 309 03;—Spring Street, 32 50;—West, 974 24. Niagara—Wilson sab-sch, 8. North River—Cold Spring, 19; Freedom Plains Miss. Band, 15; Little Britain Y. P. S. C. E., 3 30; Malden sab-sch, 1 68; Newburgh Union, 118; Poughkeepsie, 159 16. Otsego—Richfield Springs, 46 35. Rochester—Ogden, 5; Rochester Emmanuel, 3 23; Sparta 2d, 5. St. Lawrence—Gouverneur, 25; Ox Bow sab-sch, 23 37; Watertown Stone Street, 88. Steuben—Hammondsport, 15. Syracuse—Oswego 1st (special, 10), 64; Skaneateles, 7 62. Troy—Brunswick Y. P. S. C. E., 1; Cambridge Y. P. S. C. E., 6 29; Green Island, 10; Troy 9th, 150. Utica—Ilion Y. P. S. C. E., 4 91; Oneida, 48 23; Saranquott sab-sch, 2 12; Turin, 13 15. Westchester—Hartford 1st, 33; Rye sab-sch, special, 75; South Salem, 33; Yonkers 1st Y. P. S. C. E., 6 35. 7,280 43

 NORTH DAKOTA.—Pembina—Backoo, 1. 1
 OHIO.—Athens—Barlow, 2; Stockport, 3. Bellevue—Forest, 5. Chillicothe—Bloomington, 27. Cincinnati—Cincinnati 1st, 33 90;—2d, 626 23;—Central, 93 20; Wyoming, 248 13. Cleveland—Akron 1st, 4; Ash-tabula 1st, 11 07; Cleveland Case Avenue, 31 21;—North sab-sch, 42 50. Columbus—Greenfield, 3; Groveport, 5. Dayton—Dayton Park Y. P. S. C. E., 3 60; Oxford, 29 65; Springfield 1st (Mr. E. L. Barrett, Sr., 50), 160; Troy Y. P. S. C. E., 5 17. Huron—Huron (Y. P. S. C. E., 4), 30 50; Nor-walk, 40. Mahoning—Brookfield, 3 05; Canton, 23 96; Massillon 2d, friend, 30; Poland, 15. Marion—Delaware, 113; Salem, 4. Mauwsee—Lost Creek, 5; Toledo 1st Ger-man (Miss. Band, 5), 10;—3d, 11 15; West Bethesda, 7; Rev. G. M. Miller "tithe," 10. Portsmouth—Manchester (sab-sch, 6), 29. St. Clairsville—New Athens, 20 39. Steubenville—Amsterdam, 25; Irondale sab-sch, 2 66; Lin-ton L. U. H. M. Circle, 3; Steubenville 2d, 12; Yellow Creek, 9. Wooster—Congress, 2 50; Fredericksburg, 8 06; Hayesville, 8 63; Jackson, 10 41; Shreve, 3; Wayne, 7 46; West Salem, 4 60; Wooster 1st (sab-sch, 12 33), 119 31;—Westminster, 97 45. Zanesville—Granville, 3 46; Zanesville 2d, 31 90. 2,126 33
 OREGON.—East Oregon—Baker City 1st Y. P. S. C. E., 3 60; Enterprise, 9 40; La Grande, 5 50; Moro, 9 27; Sum-merville, 2 55; Union, 5 50. Portland—Bethel, 3; Spring-water, 4. South Oregon—Ashland Y. P. S. C. E., 2. Willamette—Albany 1st sab-sch, 20. 63 92
 PENNSYLVANIA.—Allegheny—Allegheny McClure Ave-nue, 11 45; Beaver, 53; Leetsdale sab-sch, 7 50. Blairsville—Braddock 1st, 20 23; Conemaugh, 4; Congruity, 19 50; Irwin Y. P. S. C. E., 3 35; Parnassus (Y. P. S. C. E., 13), 202 52. Butler—Concord (sab-sch, 15), 24 76; Middlesex (sab-sch, 3), 26; Princeton, 9 50. Carlisle—Carlisle 1st, 60 35; Chambersburg Falling Spring, 100; Dauphin Y. P. S. C. E., (Jr. Branch, 1 15), 8; Harrisburg Market Square, 86 14; Monaghan 19 50; Silver Spring (sab-sch, 10), 20. Chester—Ashmun, 25; Chester 1st, 26;—3d, 23 83; New London Y. P. S. C. E., 3. Clarion—Oak Grove, 3; Silgo, 5. Erie—Greenville, 40; Mount Pleasant, 2 25; Sandy Lake, 3; Springfield, 3 90; Sugar Creek Memorial, 3; Sunville, 3; Venango, 3. Huntingdon—Altoona 1st, 53 50;—3d, 13; East Kishacoquillas, 55; Huntingdon, 139; Lewistown, 157 95. Kittanning—At-wood, 5; Kittanning 2d, 10; Strader's Grove sab-sch, 7 09; Washington, 23; West Lebanon sab-sch, 25 34. Lacka-wanna—Hawley 1st Y. P. S. C. E., 5 91; Kingston sab-sch, 23 12; Wilkes Barre Memorial Y. P. S. C. E., 6 06. Lehigh—Allen Township, 10; Easton 1st Ladies Society, 100. Northumberland—Beech Creek, 6; Muncy, 20; Northumberland, 8; Rohrsburgh, 1; Washington (Allen-wood sab-sch, 8), 40. Parkersburg—Elizabeth, 55 cts.; Parkersburg, 69 54. Philadelphia—Philadelphia Be-theesda, 47 68;—Central, 63 52;—Cohocksink (sab-sch, 13 40), (Second St. Mission, 7 67), 55 97;—Me-morial, 73 50;—North, 12 42;—Northminster, 323 96;—Richmond, 6. Philadelphia North—Abington J. M. Colton, 100; Bridesburg (sab-sch, 10), 60; Chestnut Hill sab-sch, 38; Frankford, 24 51; Norristown 1st Y. P. S. C. E., 2 83. Pittsburgh—Bethany sab-sch, 29 67; Finley-ville (add'l), 2; Mount Washington, 5; Pittsburgh East Liberty, 178;—Shady Side, 106; Swissvale, 62 76; West Elizabeth sab-sch, 10. Redstone—Laurel Hill sab-sch, 98 41; Pleasant Unity, 10 50; Uniontown add'l, 10. She-nango—Hermion (sab-sch, 4 50), 9; Hopewell, 14; Ne-shannock, 17 50. Washington—Cove, 12; Lower Buffalo, 9; Mount Prospect sab-sch, 8; West Alexander (Int. on Craig Legacy, 2), 4; Wheeling 1st sab-sch, 10. Wellsboro—Wellsboro (sab-sch, 24 07), 88 33. Westminster—Cedar Grove, 15; Chestnut Level (sab-sch, 11 89), 46 31; Lan-caster 1st sab-sch, 39 07; Little Britain, 15; Union, 15 73. 3,239 01
 SOUTH DAKOTA.—Aberdeen—Eureka Mission, 10; Hol-land 1st, 5. Black Hills—Galena, 5; Whitewood, 5; Rev. E. J. Nugent, 10. Central Dakota—Wessington, 5. Southern Dakota—Olive, 1; Parker, 62 50. 108 50
 TENNESSEE.—Birmingham—Thomas 1st, 7. Holston—Mount Bethel, 10 25; Timber Ridge, 1 50. Kingston—Chattanooga Park Place Y. P. S. C. E., 3 25; Hill City North Side, 4; Pleasant Union, 1; Piney Falls, 1 64. Union—Hopewell, 3; Knoxville 2d, 4 25; Madisonville, 2; St. Paul, 2. 38 89
 TEXAS.—Austin—San Antonio Madison Square, 50; Rev. W. B. Bloys, 10. North Texas—Bowie, 5; Throckmorton, 2 45. 67 45
 UTAH.—Montana—Boulder, 5; Dillon (sab-sch, 1 75), 5 50; Helena 1st, 25. Utah—Haines Memorial Chapel, 2 05; Salt Lake City Westminster Y. P. S. C. E., 4 70. 42 25
 WASHINGTON.—Olympia—Vancouver (sab-sch, 6), 11; Puget Sound—San Juan, 5; Lopez, 1. Spokane—Cort-

412 Sustentation—N. Y Synodical Aid Fund—Home Missions Debt Account. [May, land, 1. Walla Walla—Kamiah, 8 75; Lewiston, 14 70.

WISCONSIN.—Madison—Oregon, 8; Pleasant Hill and sab-sch, 5. Milwaukee—Beaver Dam 1st Y. P. S. C. E., 3 30. Winnebago—Green Bay French, 2; Robinson
French, 3; St. Sauveur French, 1 20; Wausau (sab-sch, 22 50), 254 75. 825 61
Woman's Executive Committee of Home Missions.....$ 14,614 87

LEGACIES.

Legacy of Mrs. Mira L. Mount, dec'd, late of Bordentown, N. J., 6; Chas. Miller, dec'd, late of Montgomery, N. Y., 3,000; Thomas Steel, dec'd, late of Chillicothe, O., 318 64; Eliza J.
Bradley, dec'd, late of Syracuse, N. Y., 700;
Margaret Gardiner, dec'd, late of Covington,
N. Y., 223 96; Wm. A. Wheeler, dec'd, late of Malone, N. Y. (add'l), 2,000; Mary Van Horn, dec'd, late of Harlem Springs, O., 633 96; Wm.
Y. Mortimer, dec'd, late of N. Y., 5,000; Mrs.
Elizabeth Stockton, dec'd, late of Canonsburg,
Pa., 4,750..... 16,632 56

MISCELLANEOUS.

"C., Penna.," 14; Miss Ednie C. Jones, San Leandro, Cal., 50; James Robertson, Constantia,
N. Y., 89 46; In Memory of a Christian
Mother, 25; "X. Y. Z.," 10; "A Friend," 666 66; Mrs. J. H. Gill, Reading, O., 3; Rev.
Wm. L. Johnston, Cal., 1; "A. B. K.," 5; Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Pattengill, N. Y., 50; Rev.
Meade C. Williams, D. D., St. Louis, Mo., 20;
Rev. E. P. Willard, Cayuga, N. Y., 5; Rev. R.
Taylor, D. D., Beverly, N. J., 50; A. W. Anderson, St. Paul, Minn., 10; Mrs. Jane M. Anderson, Bellaire, 5; A. F. Wilson, Grimes,
Iowa, 10; Rev. T. Williston, Ashland, N. Y., 3; Rev. E. J. Lindsay, Poplar, Mont., 9; Rev.
and Mrs. John B. Smith, 25; Typewriter, 5;
Misses Willard 3,000; Miscellaneous, 7; Miss
J. A. B. Fish, Afton, N. J., 200; Wm. Campbell, Sr., Butler, Pa. 30; Mrs. Jane Ferguson, N. Y., 50; Miss H. D. M., Newark, N. J., 200;
Rev. Jas. G. Shinn, Atlantic, N. J., 5; G. D.
Tooker, Yonkers, N. Y., 50; "Minister W. C.," 3; Annie Wain, Germantown, Pa., 10,000;
Geo. Finney, Duncans Falls, O., 5; Mrs. Cyrus
Dickson, 200; "H. L. J.," 150; Mrs. R. S.
Marsh, West Carlisle, Mich., 1; "Hapland,"
500; C. E. Whittlesey, Madison, N. J., 100;
Miss Sarah S. Strong, Goshen, N. Y., 400; Mrs.
A. Peers, Rush City, Minn., 2 50; Rev. Henry Fulton, Newark, O., 7 50; Rev. W. H. Robinson, Chiff, S. A., 25; Mrs. Mary S. Eichbaum, 15; Isabella McQueen, 5; Unknown Donor, 250; Interest on John C. Green Fund, 350; Interest on Permanent Fund, 60..... 16,672 12

Total received for Home Missions, Feb'y, 1893...$ 68,632 15
Total received for Home Missions from April
1, 1892..... 659,054 08
Amount received during same period last year. 605,302 08

PERMANENT FUND.

Chas. R. Otis, Yonkers, N. Y..... 900 60
O. D. EATON, Treasurer,
Box L, Station D. 53 Fifth Avenue, New York.

RECEIPTS FOR SUSTENTATION, FEBRUARY, 1893.

ATLANTIC.—South Florida—Eustis, 2 00
BALTIMORE.—Baltimore—Baltimore Faith, 5 00
COLORADO.—Boulder—Fossil Creek, 10 cts.; Timnath, 30 cts.; Valmont, 6 cts. Denver—Denver Capitol Avenue, 5 50. Pueblo—Eastonville, 1. 6 96
ILLINOIS.—Bloomington—Clinton, 11. Cairo—Mt. Carmel, 2 75. Chicago—Lake Forest, 102. Peoria—Yates City, 2 50. Schuyler—Augusta, 11; Oquawka, 1. Springfield—Pisgah, 1 20; Rev. W. L. Tarbet and wife, 40 cts.
131 86
IOWA.—Cedar Rapids—Marion, 15 50. Corning—Villisca, 1. Iowa City—West Branch, 7 19; Scott, 4. 27 69
KANSAS.—Highland—Nortonville, 1. Neosho—Parsons,
10. 11 00

MICHIGAN.—Lansing—Concord, 26 cts. Monroe—Coldwater, 1 85. Saginaw—Bay City 1st, 20 18. 22 30 MISSOURI.—Kansas City—Sharon, 1 41. Platte—Lathrop, 4. 5 41
NEBRASKA.—Kearney—Grand Island, 7. Nebraska City
—Meridian German, 8 cts.; Thayer German, 7 cts.
Omaha—Lyons, 1 65. 8 80
NEW JERSEY.—Corsico—Benita, 3; Bata, 1. Jersey City
—Patterson 3rd, 7. 11 00
CALIFORNIA.—Los Angeles—Redlands, 3 70. San Jose
—San Jose 2d, 10. Stockton—Woodbridge Bethel, 2. 15 70
TENNESSEE.—Birmingham—Thomas 1st, 2. Kingston—
Harriman, 2. Union—Madisonville, 6 cents.; Knoxville
2d, 21 15. 25 21
TEXAS.—Austin—Austin 1st, 11 00

Total received* for Sustentation, February 283 22
Total received for Sustentation from April 1,
1892..... 3,674 79
Amount received during same period last year. 1,467 64
O. D. EATON, Treasurer,
Box L, Station D. 53 Fifth Avenue, New York.

RECEIPTS FOR NEW YORK SYNODICAL AID FUND, FEBRUARY, 1893.

Albany—West Galway, 3; Esperance, 14. Buffalo—Buffalo Covenant, 6. Champlain—Peru 1st, 6 57. Genesee—Stone Church Y. P. S. C. E., 6; Bergen 1st, 3 59.
Hudson—Haverstraw Central, 30; Chester, 40; Good Will, 26 cts. Long Island—Cutchogue, 7 85; Yaphank, 5.
Lyons—Wolcott 1st, 7. Nassau—Jamaica, 23 18. New York—French Evangelical, 5; Zion German, 10. North River—Cold Spring, 10; Poughkeepsie, 3 65. Otsego—Colchester, 5. Rochester—Rochester Emmanuel, 97 cts.
Total received for New York Synodical Aid
Fund, February, 1893.....$ 187 07
Total received for New York Synodical Aid
Fund from April 1st, 1892..... 6,691 24
Total received during same period last year.... 8,217 28

O. D. EATON, Treasurer,
Box L, Station D. 53 Fifth Avenue, New York.

RECEIPTS FOR HOME MISSIONS DEBT ACCOUNT, FEBRUARY, 1893.

ILLINOIS.—Chicago—Libertyville, 13. Peoria—Lewistown c., 45 22. 58 22
IOWA.—Council Bluffs—Council Bluffs 2d c., 4. Sioux
City—Plymouth, 4. 8
MICHIGAN.—Monroe—Coldwater, 6 63. 6 63
MINNESOTA.—Mankato—Mankato, 6. Red River—
Fergus Falls sab-sch c, 8 21. 14 24
NEW YORK.—Binghamton—Bainbridge W. P. M. Soc., 4 50. 4 50
OHIO.—Wooster—Shreve, 2 50. 2 50
PENNSYLVANIA.—Chester—Marple c., 6 02. Huntingdon—
Bellefonte Y. P. S. C. E., 10. 16 02
UTAH.—Montana—Dillon c., 10 55. 10 55
WASHINGTON.—Olympia—Vancouver c. (sab-sch, 3), 10. 10

$ 130 65
Less amount credited in duplicate to Monmouth Presbytery Mt. Holly church..... 94 41
Total receipts from churches.....$ 106 24

MISCELLANEOUS.

Rev. M. A. Williams, Medford, Ore..... 10
Total received for debt, February, 1893.....$ 116 24
Total received for debt from July 1, 1892..... 16,318 96
O. D. EATON, Treasurer,
Box L, Station D. 53 Fifth Avenue, New York.

NOTE.—Items marked "c" were contributions on Columbian Home Mission Day, Oct. 9, 1892.

RECEIPTS FOR MINISTERIAL RELIEF, FEBRUARY, 1898.

ATLANTIC.— South Florida —Altoona, 3.	3
BALTIMORE.— Baltimore —Baltimore Faith, 5; Ellicott City, 9 15. New Castle —Wilmington Central, 85 89; — Olivet, 5. Washington City —Washington City Eastern sab-sch, 3 24; — Gunton Temple Memorial, 10 06.	118 33
CALIFORNIA.— Los Angeles —Carpenteria, 10; Los Angeles 3d add'l, 1; San Pedro, 5. Oakland —Golden Gate, 4.	20
CATAWBA.— Cape Fear —Ebenezer, 3.	3
COLORADO.— Boulder —Fossil Creek, 90 cts.; Tinmouth, 2 70; Valmont, 54 cts. Denver —Denver Capitol Avenue, 12 25; Georgetown, 4 50. Fueblo —Fountain, 2 45; Mesa, 25.	118 34
ILLINOIS.— Alton —Edwardsville 1st, 3. Bloomington —Fairbury, 10; Hoopston, 8. Cairo —Golconda 1st, 4. Chicago —Austin, 9 62; Chicago 4th add'l, 240; — Emerald Avenue, 7; Evanston South, 65; — 1st, 25 24; Maywood, 16. Mattoon —Arcola, 5; Bethel, 5. Peoria —Lewistown, 30. Rock River —Ashton, 6; Franklin Grove, 2; Hamlet, 6 20; Milan, 5 45; Norwood, 13 90; Rock Island Central, (sab-sch, 2 33), 19 48. Schuyler —Mount Sterling, 24 05; Perry, 2; Wythe, 6. Springfield —Jacksonville State Street, 60; Petersburg, 11 80; Pisgah, 1 21.	590 65
INDIANA.— Crawfordsville —Lebanon 1st, 7; Rockville Memorial, 3 66. Fort Wayne —Bluffton, 5; Ligonier, 4 80. Indianapolis —Bloomington Walnut Street, 13 89. Logansport —Rolling Prairie, 2 50; Union, 4 45. Muncie —Wabash, 16 02. New Albany —Bedford, 7 11; Charlestown, 2; Lexington (Nabb Chapel, 1 65), 4; Mount Lebanon, 1 35; Otisco, 2. White Water —Knightstown, 3 50.	77 18
INDIAN TERRITORY.— Cherokee Nation —Claremore, 3. Choctaw —Philadelphia, 75 cts.; Wheelock, 3. Muscogee —Nuyaka Mission, 5.	11 75
IOWA.— Cedar Rapids —Cedar Rapids 2d, 50. Corning —Afton (Y. P. Society, 1 20), 8; Villisca, 10. Fort Dodge —Coon Rapids, 18 72; Dedham, 5 17; Rolfe 2d, 4 76. Iowa —Mount Pleasant 1st, 29 65; West Point, 12. Iowa City —West Branch, 7 29; Williamsburgh, 5. Waterloo —La Porte City, 5.	155 49
KANSAS.— Emporia —Calvary, 8; Emporia, 27 87; Wichita Oak Street, 2; — Lincoln Street, 2. Highland —Nortonville, 2. Neosho —Pittsburgh, 6 28. Solomon —Belle-ville, 10; Cawker City, 4; Glen Elder, 2.	59 13
KENTUCKY.— Louisville —Kuttawa (Miss Soc. Hawthorn Church), 6; Louisville Covenant, 12 80; New Castle, 2; Owensboro 1st, 106.	128 80
MICHIGAN.— Detroit —Birmingham 5. Flint —Fort Austin, 2. Grand Rapids —Grand Rapids 1st, 15 38; Ionia, 27. Kalamazoo —Kalamazoo 1st, 63. Lansing —Concord, 2 40. Monroe —Coldwater 1st, 4 89. Petoskey —Boysie City, 1; Boyne Falls, 1.	121 67
MINNESOTA.— Mankato —St. James, 5. Minneapolis —Minneapolis Bethany, 1. Winona —Fremont, 5 25; Winona 1st, 11.	24 28
MISSOURI.— Kansas City —Greenwood, 2. Ozark —West Plains 1st, 5. Platte —Oregon, 5 23. St. Louis —Cuba, 2; Nazareth German, 5; Rolla, 5.	26 33
NEBRASKA.— Kearney —Grand Island 1st, 7. Nebraska City —Beatrice 1st, 22 60; Meridian German, 72 cts.; Thayer German, 68 cts.; Utica, 3. Nebraska —Emerson, 8 75; Wakefield 1st, 15 50; Wayne, 12. Omaha —Omaha 2d, 2.	73 20
NEW JERSEY.— Corisco —Bata, 1; Benita, 5; Gaboon, 5. Elizabeth —Connecticut Farms, 12; Elizabeth 1st, 166 70; Rahway 2d, 70. Jersey City —Passaic 1st sab-sch, 5; Patterson 3d, 7. Monmouth —Bordentown 1st, 6 20; Point Pleasant, 4. Morris and Orange —East Orange Brick, 95 70; Hanover, 11; Morristown 1st, 74 06 — South Street, 225 56; Orange Bethel, 80 17; Summit Central, 162 45. Newark —Bloomfield 1st, 188 98; Newark 2d German, 10. New Brunswick —Pennington, 30; Titusville, 20 60; Trenton Prospect Street, 29. Newton —Blairtown add'l, 4; Hackettstown, 50; Stewartville, 15. West Jersey —Camden 3d, 2; Janvier, 1; Williamstown, 11.	1,940 42
NEW MEXICO.— Santa Fe —Taos, 1.	1
NEW YORK.— Albany —Bethlehem, 3; Hamilton Union, 6; Kingsboro Avenue, 10 53; Northampton, 9; Tribe's Hill, 4. Boston —Houlton, 8. Brooklyn —Brooklyn Prospect Heights sab-sch, 12 10; Woodhaven 1st, 7. Buffalo —Buffalo Covenant, 4; Silver Creek, 8 67. Champlain —Chazy, 11 48; Malone 1st, 19 40. Hudson —Amity, 10; Good Will, 2 34; Hopewell (Y. P. S. C. E.), 15; Milford, 18; Nyack 1st, 21 83. Long Island —Southold, 3; Yaphank, 9. Nassau —Far Rockway 1st, 17. New York —New York 1st Union, 25; — 5th Avenue add'l, 50; — French Evangelical, 5; — Harlem, 79 44; — Mount Washington, 100. North River —Cold Spring, 6; Freedom Plains, 12; Pleasant Valley, 7 50; Poughkeepsie, 32 90. Rochester —Rochester 3d, 59 62; — Emmanuel, 1 23; — North (Y. P. S. C. E.), 11 60; — St. Peter, 38 84. St. Lawrence —Sackett's Harbor, 4. Steuben —Andover sab-sch, 5. Utica —Forest, 7; Oneida, 20 65; Turin, 5 49; Utica Memorial, 50. Westchester —Hartford 1st, 15.	746 21
OHIO.— Chillicothe —Chillicothe 3d, 6; Hillsboro, 100 80; Wilkesville, 10 10. Cincinnati —Cincinnati 2d, 116 90; Glendale 1st, 40; Montgomery, 6 20; Wyoming, 115 50. Cleveland —Cleveland 1st (Mrs. Mather and Mrs. Stone), 500; — North sab-sch, 16 25. Columbus —Greenfield, 2; Groveport, 1. Dayton —Blue Ball, 6; Springfield 1st, 22. Mau-mee —Toledo 3d, 10 15; — Westminster, 9 89. Portsmouth —Portsmouth 2d, 54 49. Steubenville —Amsterdam, 19; Monroeville, 5; Steubenville 3d, 5; Toronto, 18; Uricks-ville, 5. Zanesville —Brownsville, 11 50; Granville sab-sch, 4; Zanesville 3d, 11 28.	1,096 76
OREGON.— South Oregon —Ashland, 3. Willamette —Pleasant Grove, 2.	5
PENNSYLVANIA.— Allegheny —Beaver, 21; Springdale, 3. Blairsville —Blairsville, 44; Irwin, 15 48; Latrobe, 20. Butler —Princeton, 2 70. Carlisle —Chambersburg Fall-ing Spring, 80; Harrisburg Pine Street sab-sch, 5; — Westminster, 5; — Jas. Coleman Memorial, 3; Middle-town, 4. Chester —Chester 1st, 20; — 2d, 42 85; Fairview, 6; Marple, 6 50; Penningtonville, 10. Clarion —Licking, 4; Oak Grove, 2; Oil City 2d, 5; Sligo, 2. Huntingdon —Altoona 3d, 11 58; East Kishacoquillas, 25; Fruit Hill, 11; Houtzdale, 2 70; Lewistown, 40 06; McVeytown, 29 68; Mount Union, 19. Kittanning —Atwood, 2. Lacka-wanna —Camptown, 2; New Milford, 4 61. Lehigh —Allentown 1st, 25. Parkersburg —Hughes River, 3 06. Philadelphia —Philadelphia West Spruce Street, 391 29; — Cohocksink add'l, 4 70; — Corinthian Avenue German, 7; — North, 11 20; — Northminster, 150; — Zion German, 3. Philadelphia North —Abington (Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Colton), 100; Bridesburg, 10; Chestnut Hill (Infant Class), 26; Frankford, 14 21; Jenkintown, 3 50; Norriton and L. Providence, 15. Pittsburgh —Bethany sab-sch, 391; Centre, 15 42; Coal Bluff and Courtney, 2; Hazlewood, 11 50; Mingo, 5; Oakdale, 27 60; Pittsburgh East Liberty, 69; — Shady side, 58; West Elizabeth sab-sch, 7. Redstone —Laurel Hill, 25 66; Long Run, 12; Mount Pleasant, 18. Shenango —Heron, 2; Leesburg, 3. Washington —Clayville, 16 75; Cross Roads, 7; Fairview, 4 01; Lime-stone, 3 50; Waynesburg, 7; Wheeling 1st sab-sch, 10. Willsboro —Wellsboro, 4 14. Westminster —Little Britain, 7; York Westminster, 10.	1,566 68
SOUTH DAKOTA.— Central Dakota —Huron 1st, 19 90.	19 90
TENNESSEE.— Birmingham —Thomas 1st, 2. Kington —Pleasant Union, 1. Union —Knoxville 2d, 78 68; Mad-disonville, 60 cts.	82 28
UTAH.— Montana —Bozeman, 47. Utah —Richfield, 2.	49
WASHINGTON.— Spokane —Cortland, 1; Grand Coulee, 1. Walla Walla —Kamiah, 2 50.	4 50
WISCONSIN.— Madison —Cottage Grove, 2; Poynette, 5 44. Winnebago —Oconto 1st, 23 16; Stevens Point, 17.	47 60

From the churches and Sabbath-schools.....$ 6,387 42

FROM INDIVIDUALS.

Mrs. Wm. Headington, Baltimore, Md., 30; Rev. C. Jewetts' Collins, N. Y., 10; E. A. Ford, Gaboon, Africa, 5; Mrs. Robert Ferguson, N. Y., 25; Mrs. J. M. Roberts, Anaheim, Cal., 3; Rev. and Mrs. Geo. T. Crissman, Lougmont, Cal., 8; "F. and F.," N. Y., 3; Rev. R. W. Jones, Canova, S. Dak., 2; Mr. and Mrs. Francis Whiting, Jeffersonville, Pa., 20; W. M. Hastings, Delta, Colo., 8 75; "X. Y. Z.," Watkins, N. Y., 20; "L. P. S.," 250; "A widow," Scranton, Pa., 5; Mrs. J. H. Gill, Reading, O., 5; "From a friend," 300; Mrs. Maria L. Roberts, Brooklyn, N. Y., 50; Rev. Henry Fulton, Newark, O., 5; Rev. F. A. Shearer, Colfax, Iowa, 5; Rev. A. B. King, New York, 5; "H. L. J.," 25; Mrs. R. S. Marsh, West Carle, Mich., 5; Mrs. Cyrus Dickson, Montclair, N. J., 50; Rev. W. H. Robinson, Chili, S. A., 10; Mrs. Mary S. Eichbaum, 15; Rev. W. L. Tarbet and wife, Pisgah, Ill., 40 cts.; "C. Penna.," 6.	871 15
Interest from permanent fund.....	4,326 00
Interest from Roger Sherman Fund.....	6 00

For the current fund.....$ 12,090 57

PERMANENT FUND.
(Interest only used.)

From the estate of Thomas Steele, deceased, share of the proceeds of sale of Iowa lands, d18 64; legacy of Rachel B. Tomlinson, Keeseville, N. Y., less tax and expenses, 10,661 83; donation of Mrs. Amanda R. Rankin, deceased, to credit of the North Sangamon Church, Ill., 25; donation of Miss Annie Wain,

Germantown, Phila., 10,000..... 21,005 47

Total receipts for February, 1893.....$ 33,096 04

Collections from churches and Sabbath-schools, and contributions from individuals, from April 1, 1892, to February 28, 1893..... 72,068 09

For the same period last year..... 68,692 33

Total for the current fund since April 1, 1892..$ 133,201 01

WILLIAM W. HEBERTON, Treasurer.

RECEIPTS FOR SABBATH-SCHOOL WORK, FEBRUARY, 1893.

ATLANTIC.—East Florida—Candler, 3 75. 3 75
BALTIMORE.—Baltimore—Baltimore Faith, 5; Churchville, 4 13; Ellicott City (sab-sch, 11 50), 14 08. New Castle—Wilmington Olivet, 2. Washington City—Washington 6th, 23; — Eastern sab-sch, 1 08. 48 24
CATAWBA.—Cape Fear—Ebenezer sab-sch, 1 50. 1 50
COLORADO.—Boulder—Fossil Creek and Stout, 30 cts.; Timnath, 20 cts.; Valmont, 18 cts. Denver—Denver Capitol Avenue, 1 25. 3 23
ILLINOIS.—Alton—Chester, 3; Hillsboro sab-sch, 24 45. Bloomington—Bloomington 3d sab-sch, 37 79; Hoopes-ton, 4; Prairie, 3 25. Cairo—Golconda, 2. Chicago—Chicago 4th, 106; Evanston, 8 98; Maywood sab-sch, 12. Mattoon—Pana, 8. Rock River—Hamlet, 3 20. Schuyler—Salem German sab-sch, 5. Springfield—Pisgah, 1 83. 318 49
INDIANA.—Crawfordsville—Lexington sab-sch, 4 50; Rockville, 1 19. Indianapolis—Bloomington Walnut Street, 9 08; Muncie—Wabash, 5 34. 20 08
INDIAN TERRITORY.—Chickasaw—Kingfisher sab-sch, 5 60; Oklahoma City, 11 65; Westminster sab-sch, 5 23 25
IOWA.—Council Bluffs—Griswold sab-sch, 5 50. Dubuque—Independence 1st, 15 41. Iowa City—Iowa City 27. 47 91
KANSAS.—Emporia—Conway Springs sab-sch, 5; Waverly, 5 40; Wichita Oak Street, 2. Highland—Nortonville, 1. Solomon—Cawker City sab-sch, 4. 17 40
KENTUCKY.—Louisville—Kuttawa Hawthorn Chapel, 1; Louisville Covenant, 26. Transylvania—Richmond, 12 80. 39 80
MICHIGAN.—Detroit—Detroit 2d Avenue sab-sch, 20; — Central sab-sch, 10; — Covenant sab-sch, 13 62; Northville 1st sab-sch, 7 50. Grand Rapids—Hesperia sab-sch, 2 50. Kalamazoo—Kalamazoo 1st, 31. Lansing—Concord, 79 cts. Monroe—Coldwater, 13 61. Saginaw—Coleman, 20 50. 109 52
MINNESOTA.—Mankato—Jasper, 3 05; Kasota sab-sch, 17. St. Paul—Merriam Park, 3 50. 22 55
MISSOURI.—Kansas City—Kansas City 1st, 36 79. Palmira—Birdseye Ridge, 3 08. 39 85
NEBRASKA.—Hastings—Axtel, 2. Kearney—Grand Island, 5. Nebraska City—Meridian German, 24 cents; Thayer German, 21 cents. 7 45
NEW JERSEY.—Corlaco—Benito, 3; Bata, 1; Gaboon, 5. Elizabeth—Connecticut Farms, 29; Rahway 2d, 25; Rahway German, 1. Monmouth—Bordentown, 6 07; Hightstown (sab-sch, 4 38), 12 86; Moorestown sab-sch, 8. Morris and Orange—East Orange Brick, 44 90; Orange Central, 100. New Brunswick—Kingwood, 2; Kirkpatrick Memorial sab-sch, 10 23; New Brunswick 1st sab-sch 50. Newton—Hackettstown, 15; Stewartsville, 5. West Jersey—Janvier, 1. 319 15
NEW MEXICO.—Santa Fe—Taos, 1. 1
NEW YORK.—Albany—Bethany, 12 84; Voorheesville, 2. Brooklyn—Brooklyn Prospect Heights sab-sch, 10. Champlain—Malone, 19 10. Hudson—Good Will, 78 cts. Long Island—Bridgehampton, 20 62; Southampton sab-sch, 76 27; Yaphank, 2. Nassau—Jamaica, 16 05. New York—New York French Evangelical, 5; — Harlem, 31 56. North River—Cold Spring, 1; Poughkeepsie, 10 26. Otsego—Colchester sab-sch, 5; Richfield Springs, 4 15. Rochester—Rochester Emmanuel, 1 22; — Westminster sab-sch, 7 29; Wheatland, 1. Troy—Troy 9th, 50. Utica—Oneida, 43 53. Westchester—Gilead sab-sch, 20. 340 46
OHIO.—Chillicothe—Chillicothe 3d, 5. Cincinnati—Cincinnati 2d, 54 22; Wyoming, 19 67. Cleveland—Cleveland North sab-sch, 5; Northfield, 5. Columbus—Columbus 1st, 30. Dayton—Dayton 3d Street, 76; Springfield 1st, 34. Maumee—Toledo Westminster, 13 70. Steubenville—Steubenville 3rd, 17; Yellow Creek, 5. Zanesville—Granville, 16 45; New Lexington, 2. 223 24

PACIFIC.—Benicia—Vallejo sab-sch, 17 30. San Francisco—Brooklyn, 40 60. 57 60

PENNSYLVANIA.—Allegheny—Allegheny Bethel, 3; Beaver, 18; Emsworth, 9 14. Butler—Friston, 20 cts. Carlisle—Steelton 1st sab-sch, 17 67. Chester—Chester 3d, 24; Darby Borough sab-sch, 17 cts.; Oxford 1st, 45 75. Clarion—Beech Woods, 31 18; Oil City 2d, 5; Sligo, 2. Huntingdon—Altoona 3d, 9; Houtzdale, 90 cts.; Lewis town, 13 35. Kittanning—Atwood, 3; Mount Pleasant sab-sch, 5 10; Washington, 3. Lekigh—Mauch Chunk sab-sch, 25; Mountain, 5. Northumberland—Lycoming Centre sab-sch, 5. Philadelphia—Philadelphia 16th, 53 07; — Calvary sab-sch, 10; — South sab-sch, 5 50; — Arch Street sab-sch, 20; — Arch Street Infant Class sab-sch, 3; — Central, 10 76; — Cohocksink, 6 10; — Hebron Memorial sab-sch, 13 95; — North, 6 18. Philadelphia North—Bridenburg, 5; Chestnut Hill, 47; Falls of Schuylkill sab-sch, 15; Frankford, 14 81; Germantown 2d, (sab-sch, 5), 23 05. Pittsburgh—Courtney and Coal Bluff, 4; — East Liberty, 25. Shenango—Hermion, 5; Sharon, 14 14. Wellaboro—Wellaboro sab-sch, 23 71; — Church, 1 33. Westminster—Chestnut Level sab-sch, 4 73. 626 26

TENNESSEE.—Birmingham—Thomas, 2. Kingston—Chattanooga Park Place, 10; Pleasant Union, 2. Union—Knoxville 2d, 31 30; Madisonville, 20 cts. 45 60

WASHINGTON.—Puget Sound—Everett sab-sch, 4; Seattle 1st sab-sch, 37 40. Spokane—Grand Coulee, 1. Walla Walla—Kamiah 1st, 2. 44 40

WISCONSIN.—Madison—Cottage Grove, 2. 2

Total from churches, February, 1893.....$ 1,721 28

Total from Sabbath-schools, February, 1893.... 601 33

Total from churches and Sabbath-schools, February, 1893.....$ 2,322 71

MISCELLANEOUS.

Miss Hattie Rockwell, Monroe, Utah, 1 50; E. K. Bryan, Texarkana, Ark., 2; "G. F. A." 49 15; Iron Mountain sab-sch, Minn., 4 27; W. B. Williams, Washington, 4 60; M. H. Mead, Idaho, 2 15; H. B. Wilson, Georgia, 1 75; Jos. McKibbin, St. Paul, Minn., 66 66; Shady Grove sab-sch, Va., 1; Wm. Travis, Oregon, 4 50; I. N. Lucas, S. Dak., 4 12; W. H. Long, N. C., 1 35; J. D. Irwin, Princeton, Ky., 80 cts.; W. L. Hood, Mich., 6 42; John C. Giffin, Neb., 3 15; J. T. Stone (miss'y), Pres. of Champlain, 2 85; Rev. W. H. Robinson, Chili, S. A., 5 50; "H. L. J." 20; Rev. W. L. Tarbet and wife, 60 cts.; "C. Penna." 1; Harris' Chapel, Brinkley, Ark., 50 cts..... 132 88

Total receipts, February, 1893.....$ 2,505 59

Amount previously acknowledged.... 62,238 29

Total receipts since April 1, 1892.....$ 84,843 68

C. T. McMULLIN, Treasurer,
1334 Chestnut Street, Phila.

T. p. v.

VOL. 13.

No. 78.

THE CHURCH AT HOME AND ABROAD.

PUBLISHED MONTHLY BY ORDER OF
THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF THE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH
IN THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA.

JUNE, 1893.

EDITOR:

HENRY A. NELSON, D.D.

EDITORIAL CORRESPONDENTS:

D. J. McMILLAN, D.D.,
For Home Missions.

JOHN GILLESPIE, D.D.,
For Foreign Missions.

DANIEL W. POOR, D.D.,
For Ministerial Education.

ELIJAH R. CRAVEN, D.D.,
For Publication and S. S. Work.

ERSKINE N. WHITE, D.D.,
For Church Erection.

WILLIAM C. CATTELL, D.D.,
For Ministerial Relief.

EDWARD P. COWAN, D.D.,
For Missions to Freedmen.

EDWARD C. RAY, D.D.,
For Colleges and Academies.

BUSINESS SUPERINTENDENT, JOHN H. SCRIBNER.

Remittances by Draft or Postal Order and all business correspondence should be addressed to the Business Superintendent—not to the Editor.

CAUTION. For some time past letters containing money for THE CHURCH AT HOME AND ABROAD have failed to reach us. We therefore caution subscribers not to make remittances of Bills or Postal Notes. Use only P. O. Money Orders or bank drafts payable to the order of JOHN H. SCRIBNER.

PRESBYTERIAN BOARD OF PUBLICATION
AND SABBATH-SCHOOL WORK,
No. 1334 CHESTNUT STREET,
PHILADELPHIA, PA.

When answering an advertisement, our readers will help the magazine and the advertiser by mentioning THE CHURCH AT HOME AND ABROAD. For advertising space, address RICHARD S. DEY, 150 Nassau Street, New York.

LINCOLN UNIVERSITY

Our 30th Academical year began in September with larger classes than ever.

A new Hall for Instruction was completed in the summer vacation. It has 17 ample rooms, well finished and furnished. It is built and equipped without debt. Hard by stands our new and beautiful chapel, the generous gift of a lady friend.

The College and Theological Faculties, with their Nine Professors, are provided for, insufficiently indeed, but there is no appeal for more.

The liberal bequests recently received have been spent on the foundations of this work, to enlarge and strengthen them. But now the wheels of our progress are blocked. We can build nothing on our new foundations till you give us a new dormitory for the many approved candidates waiting to enter the classes. Our most earnest appeal to you is for this ($20,000).

This burden we carry is too heavy without your help. Make provision for the support of these young men, $130 a year, or its equivalent—the interest of a permanent endowment of $2,000 or $2,500.

In making bequests, note that our corporate title is "LINCOLN UNIVERSITY." in Chester County, Pa.

Rev. A. T. Rankin, D.D., Greensburg, Ind., is our Western Agent. Rev. W. P. White, Germantown, Penn'a, is Assistant Secretary; Rev. Edward Webb, Oxford, Penn'a, is Financial Secretary, L. U.; to whom your gifts may be sent and your inquiries addressed.

W. R. BINGHAM, Pres't B'd Trustees, L. U.

SCOTIA SEMINARY.

A High School for colored girls under the care of the Board for Freedmen and the Women's Ex. Committee for Home Missions of the Presbyterian Church. Incorporated under the laws of North Carolina. Legal name "The Scotia Seminary," Concord, N. C. The final title to all property is vested by the charter in the Board for Freedmen.

Donations solicited to a permanent fund which will provide for the salaries of the teachers and supply scholarships and thus relieve the treasury of the Board.

D. J. SATTERFIELD, President.

BLAIR PRESBYTERIAL ACADEMY

BLAIRSTOWN, N. J.

John I. Blair Foundation. Both sexes. 46th year. Preparation for college and for business. Music. Religious instruction. Physical culture. Gymnasium for each sex. New fire-proof building for ladies. $150,000 endowment. Low rates. Best advantages. Send for catalogue.

W. S. EVERSOLE, A.M., Ph.D., Principal.

PENNSYLVANIA, Chambersburg.

WILSON COLLEGE FOR YOUNG WOMEN.

Fifty miles southwest of Harrisburg, in famous Cumberland Valley. Border climate, avoiding bleak north. $250 per year for board, room, etc., and all College Studies. Handsome Park, Large Buildings, Steam Heat, Gymnasium, Observatory, Laboratory, etc. Endorsed by Pennsylvania Synod, Baltimore Synod and Presbytery, Presbytery of Carlisle, etc.

READ Do WRITE RIGHT

AWAY TO

HORACE B. MARTIN,
CARTHAGE, MISSOURI

INVESTMENTS IN LEAD AND ZINC LANDS, MINES,
STOCKS AND SECURITIES.

THE BEST REAL ESTATE PAPER ON THE MARKET
FOR SALE.

THE MENEELY BELLS that have been known to the public since 1826.

Meneely & Co.,
West Troy, N. Y.

Church, Chapel and other BELLS; also Chimes and Peals. Thousands of references. Price of bells and fixtures with freight prepaid or delivered to steamer in New York, on application. Catalogues free.

Clinton H. Meneely Bell Co.

Manufacture TROY, N.Y.

SUPERIOR CHURCH BELLS

Please mention this Magazine.

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY,
CINCINNATI, O., U. S. A.
Best Grade Pure Copper and Tin
CHURCH BELLS, PEALS AND CHIMES.
Best Wheel and Rotary Yoke Hangers.
Price & Terms free. Name this Journal.

LANTERN VIEWS OF Home and Foreign Missions.

Send for descriptive circular.

REV. JAMES CARTER,

Williamsport, Pa.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LIBRARY RECORDS

Have been a revelation, but may be a pleasure.

BISBEE'S LIBRARY RECORD,—the latest and best system in use,—saves annoyance and makes accuracy not only possible but easily attainable. Send for sample sheets.

L. W. BISBEE, P. O. Box 72, Lowell, Mass.

Criterion and Parabolon Optical (Magic) Lanterns. PROFITABLE in Parlor, Laboratory or Public Hall. Views in stock and to order. Catalogues free.

J. B. COLT & CO., Manufacturers,
16 Beekman St., New York

THE CHURCH AT HOME AND ABROAD.

JUNE, 1893.

CONTENTS.

Cleanliness and Holiness,	417
Syrians in the United States,	419
The Wards of the Nation Becoming Citizens,	422
How They Say It in Missionary Lands,	423
Arthur Mitchell, D. D., D. H. Taylor, D. D. ,	424
Arizona, Rev. Howard Billman ,	427
Mrs. Deborah Plumb Cochran, B. Labaree, D. D. ,	430
Power of the Gospel in China, H. Corbett, D. D. ,	431
Ethical Basis for Japan, F. F. Ellinwood, D. D. ,	432
Florence Crittenton Missions, [From the North and West ,]	438

FOREIGN MISSIONS.

Notes. —Financial Statement—Out of Debt—Look Forward—Noble Example—India Illustrated, Magic Lantern Pictures and Lecture—Rev. J. A. Gordon on Decentralization—Diary of a Missionary—Action of Board on Dr. Mitchell's decease—Homes for Children of Missionaries—Dr. Taylor's Musings—On Opening Door of Admission More Widely to Converts in Mission Fields—Recent Communion in Batanga—Chinese Exclusion—Baptist Missionary Society—Missionary Calendar,	435-440
Concert of Prayer. —Gaboon and Corisco Missions—From Batanga Toward Sunrise—Bright Spot on Dark Continent—Happy Workers at Benito—Up the Gaboon and Ogowe,	441-443
Letters. —Japan, David Thompson, D. D. , Rev. G. W. Fulton —Laos, Dr. D. McGilvary ,	443-450

HOME MISSIONS.

Notes. —Columbian Exhibit—Destitute District in New York City—Our Work in New England—Woonsocket, S. D.—Belgians and French in Northwest—Diminished Debt—Not So Much H. M. Work Wasted After All—Relations of H. M. Churches to Their Presbyteries,	451-452
Concert of Prayer. —Our Missionaries,	452-454
Letters. —Washington, T. M. Gunn, D. D. —Indian Territory, Rev. W. R. King —Utah, S. E. Wishard, D. D. , S. M. —S. Dakota, W. M. Blackburn, D. D. —Kansas, Rev. J. C. Sefton —Idaho, Rev. R. P. Boyd —Arizona, Rev. R. Coltman —New Mexico, Rev. J. J. Gilchrist, Mr. Quintana —Missouri, Rev. H. A. Tucker —Wisconsin, Rev. W. J. Turner —Colorado, Rev. G. Clark —Washington, J. R. Thompson, D. D. —Montana, Rev. G. Edwards —Oregon, Rev. R. McLean —Nebraska, Rev. S. Cook ,	454-461

EDUCATION,	462-463
COLLEGES AND ACADEMIES. —State Schools and Christian, Rev. H. D. Ganse —Geneseo Collegiate Institute,	463-465
CHURCH ERECTION. —Half-Century's Work—Built Without Debt,	465-467
FREEDMEN. —Christian Education, E. P. Cowan, D. D. ,	467-468
MINISTERIAL RELIEF. —Statistics from Annual Report,	469-470
PUBLICATION AND SABBATH-SCHOOL WORK. —Work in Minnesota,	471
BOOK NOTICES AND MINISTERIAL NECROLOGY,	471-473
THOUGHTS ON SABBATH-SCHOOL LESSONS,	473-474
CHILDREN'S CHURCH AT HOME AND ABROAD. —Our Pictures—Snow in Southern China, Mrs. Crossette ,	474-475
GLEANINGS AT HOME AND ABROAD,	475-478

THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY'S COMMITTEE.

JOHN S. MACINTOSH, D. D., CHAIRMAN,
2021 Delancey Place, Philadelphia, Pa.

CHARLES A. DICKEY, D. D.,
ANSON D. F. RANDOLPH, Esq.,
WARNER VAN NORDEN, Esq.,
HON. ROBERT N. WILLSON,
JOHN H. DRY, Esq.,

STEALY B. ROSSITER, D. D.,
REV. HENRY T. McEWEN,
STEPHEN W. DANA, D. D.,
CHARLES L. THOMPSON, D. D.,
F. F. ELLINWOOD, D. D.

WILLIAM C. ROBERTS, D. D.

The price of the CHURCH AT HOME AND ABROAD is ONE DOLLAR per year, payable in advance. No new subscription is received without the payment of one dollar accompanying it. But subscriptions, not accompanied with directions to discontinue at the end of the time paid for, will be continued and bills will be sent to remind the subscriber that another payment is due.

PRESBYTERIAN HOUSE, 53 FIFTH AVENUE, NEW YORK CITY.

THE CHURCH AT HOME AND ABROAD.

JUNE, 1893.

CLEANLINESS AND HOLINESS.

One who carefully studies the Levitical statutes can hardly fail to get the impression that physical filth unnecessarily left in sight about the habitations of men disgusts God as really as it disgusts a refined man or woman. A Mosaic statute enjoining scrupulous care for cleanliness has attached to it for its reason, not that filth lying about the camp would poison the air and breed pestilential disease, but simply that Jehovah, "walking in the midst of the camp," would see it and turn away with disgust.

To say that uncleanness is wrong because it tends to disease, and so does harm, is to speak truly. But is it not a deeper truth that uncleanness is wrong in itself and disgusting to God, and that therefore he has purposely made disease to follow it and punish it? Whichever view we take of it, we cannot get rid of the fact that unnecessary filth about the dwellings of men makes God less willing to dwell with them with gracious and protecting presence.

Intelligent and vigilant boards of health sometimes warn those subject to their jurisdiction to look carefully to their drains and cellars, and to every spot on their premises where decaying vegetable matter or any sort of garbage may be poisoning the air. Would there ever be any need of this if the book of Deuteronomy were reverently read and regarded in every home—if parents and children and servants would all remember that a foul drain or a foul cistern, or a rotten vegetable or a pile of dirt left in an unswept corner, disgusts God, and that He, who seeth in secret, will deal with them for it as no board of health can?

We have in our day many hygienic institutions to which invalids resort for treatment and cure which they cannot so well get at home. Among these are some called hydro-pathic, because of the prominence which they give to water as a curative agent. Probably some portion of its efficacy comes from its cleansing power upon patients whose habits of bathing all their flesh have not been intelligent and thorough. One of the ways in which a holy day and a holy place—a Sabbath and a sanctuary—bless a community and promote its temporal welfare, is by fixing a time for a more thorough than the daily cleansing of persons and putting on of clean garments. Christian mothers, in humble homes, who cannot let their children go to their beds on Saturday nights without their baths, nor go to their own until all the needed garments are mended and laid whole and clean near the beds of the young sleepers, are better guardian angels of the public health than boards of health can be. And although mere maternal affection, enlightened by science—as now in our land of free education it may be—goes far to secure such habits, they are far better secured by conscientious Sabbath keeping. How it conserves the strength and upholds the spirit of such diligent and faithful mothers, to have in their hearts the recollection that the kind and holy eye of God is on them while they do up those Saturday night labors—that he counts every stitch and notices every glance at the clock in the pious purpose to finish all that work before the Sabbath begins, and hears every motherly prayer that is breathed over each garment in behalf of its sleeping owner! And how much better such a mother rests off her fatigue amid the songs and the prayers and the meditations in the holy calm of the house of God, sitting with her tidy children about her, than she could amid the jollity of a beer garden or in idle lounging at home, with no hymns and no prayers and no catechism and no Bible!

The sanitary condition of any town is in no small degree dependent upon moral conditions, especially those habits of cleanliness in which there is such a difference between habitually going to church and habitually going to grog-shops—habits which are so favorably affected by reverent Sabbath keeping, and in which the very best is secured by intelligent fear of God.

Something may be done for the unwashed population by compelling them to send their children to the schools, something by getting them to read newspapers and to attend popular scientific lectures; but far more can be done by visiting them in their homes and winning them to attendance upon the Sabbath-school and the church. We shall never have cities and villages in the best sanitary condition until true religion so prevails in their populations that all will habitually remember that Jehovah walks along their streets, and with an eye that never slumbers inspects all their dwellings and all their haunts.

Holiness is cleanliness of soul. Those Old Testament prescriptions in respect to bodily and ceremonial cleanliness, were God's kindergarten methods of educating his infant church into true ideas of moral purity. Everything in his providence which illustrates his love of cleanliness and his aversion to filth ought to deepen our impression of His aversion to sin and his love of holiness or cleanliness of soul. There is such a connection between our bodies and our souls that decent care to keep our bodies clean and conscientious care to keep our souls pure go naturally together. A community is not likely to be careless of unwholesome foulness in its streets in which there is not also much moral heedlessness. "The Lord thy God walketh in the midst of thy camp . . . therefore shall thy camp be holy: that He shall see no unclean thing in thee, and turn away from thee." Such was the Mosaic admonition (Deut. xxiii, 14) to enforce scrupulous cleanliness even in military camps.

No thoughtful Israelite, trained by Moses and led by Joshua, could fail to get the impression that Jehovah abhors all physical foulness, and still more all morally foul words and deeds and thoughts.

With our best care, there will always be generators of foul gases not far away from our dwellings. After all that we can do by drainage and by sanitary regulations, our chief dependence is upon the atmosphere, such a deep ocean of which surrounds our globe and pours itself through our homes and lungs. Perfect ventilation is the prime condition of health in our homes and schools and shops and places of assembling.

Still more impressively true is it that all means and devices and safeguards of moral and spiritual health for our families and communities will fail unless there be the perpetual breathing upon them and through them of the Spirit of God. Wonderfully, in the word of God, in the original languages of it, the very same word is used for air or wind and for spirit, whether the human or divine. This formless, invisible, always accessible, fluent air is the scriptural emblem of the divine Spirit. We can shut it out of our homes, and doom ourselves to languor and disease in poisoned air. We can shut Him out of our hearts, and leave their natural sinfulness to work corruption and death. But we can open our windows and let the pure air through them in wholesome and reviving circulation. And we can open our hearts to the ever ready Holy Spirit, and He will pour through them His cleansing, healing, life-giving power. Honest prayer opens the soul's windows to God.

SYRIANS IN THE UNITED STATES.

In an instructive article in our December number (1892), entitled "Some Thoughts of God About Syria," Rev. Dr. Dennis speaks impressively of "the spirit of emigration which has taken possession of the people." He says: "America has become a name to conjure with in Syria; it is the great desire of thousands to come here. Prejudices and suspicions have melted away; American institutions are honored, and unbounded admiration in many hearts has taken the place of ignorant apathy. The influence of the contact with American life has been like a plowshare, upturning society from one end of Syria to the other. From 'the entering in of Hamath' to Carmel, there are hundreds of villages and thousands of homes where America is the daily and almost hourly subject of conversation."

No intelligent and thoughtful American can read these stirring sentences without sympathy with such a people and thankful joy that the patient and faithful labors of our countrymen have been so effective in awakening a whole oppressed people to such aspiration.

Dr. Dennis does not fail to note the inconveniences and the incidental disadvantages which result from this movement. He speaks of teachers, trained by the mission, leaving their positions, and thus "crippling, somewhat, the native arm of the service;" and we are well aware how trying and embarrassing to the missionaries this is. Yet, Dr. Dennis, with his large experience as a missionary, and his thoroughly missionary spirit, looks hopefully beyond these temporary effects, and exclaims: "This throb of a new life, this discovery of a new world, this opening of a new vision, this moulding power of a new experience, this ringing out of the old and ringing in of the new, is going to have a far-reaching influence in preparing Syria for the further and deeper workings of the Gospel."

"Does it not seem like a thought of God," he continues, "to give this 'open vision' of a land of light and freedom as an off-set to the efforts of the Turkish authorities to narrow and suppress the life of the people? Does not this strange and marvelous touch of the Orient with Western Christendom seem like a providential interposition just at the present crisis of missionary work in Syria, with a view to broaden the minds of the people, and give them a practical object lesson of what Christian civilization means to those who receive the Gospel?"

Three years earlier than these strong, wise words appeared in our pages (December, 1899), we printed not dissimilar words from the pen of another missionary to Syria. Rev. F. E. Hoskins, of Zahleh, wrote:

I trust that God means to use all these emigrants in furthering the progress of the truth here [in Syria.] Many of them will come back, but never again to bow to the power of the priesthood, never again to live as poorly as they did before. They will have seen Protestant Christianity at its best; and whether they grasp the truth in its fulness and simplicity or not, they will realize that in these Oriental Christian Churches there is something fearfully and radically wrong.

We desire the special attention of our readers to Mr. Hoskins' testimony as to the quality of this immigration into our country, from that country to which we have sent him and a few others of our countrymen as missionaries. He says:

The character of these emigrants will compare most favorably with that of any nationality reaching the American shores. They are not drunkards, they are not turbulent, they do not carry revolutionary theories or propensities. They come from very frugal homes, where ties of parental affection and kinship are very strong; their ideas of marriage and of parental authority are biblical and pure; they are all firm believers in God and providence, and they are very correct in all their beliefs excepting those which refer to the Church in this world. They come from a land that wears a heavy double yoke—the yoke of a foreign Mohammedan government and the yoke of a densely ignorant and worldly priesthood.

We recall to our readers these intelligent statements and opinions of men who know whereof they affirm, and whose character and life entitle them to our confidence, in order to deduce from them some practical suggestions as to the opportunity and duty of Christians in America towards these interesting "strangers within our gates."

